Congratulations! You have embarked on a great adventure. Kidnapping a child is probably unlike anything you have done before. If you are a first-time kidnapper you may be hesitant; perhaps you have lingering scruples. It is true you will probably do irreparable harm to your own child. Children of divorce more often become involved in drugs, alcohol, and crime, become pregnant as teenagers, perform poorly in school, join gangs, and commit suicide.
Article Here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/01/1759216.shtml

UNICEF Devolves

Hombre · 2 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

This Christmas, instead of buying the high-priced UNICEF cards, you might want to help children with a donation to Christian Children's Fund instead. Douglas Sylvia, (who unfortunately confuses feminism for the entirety of left-wing political thought), explains why here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/01/222254.shtml

Politicians reach out to "NASCAR dads"

Hombre · 2 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

A.J. writes "Did I read this right? Are politicians actually concerned about the male vote? They do according to this article.
A quote "These are the NASCAR dads. They're replacing the soccer moms of yesteryear." I don't remember ever seeing another article about politicians courting the male vote. Unfortunately they seem to be avoiding the core issues of manhood that so many of us are deeply concerned about, like losing kids, imprisonment for losing a job, etc. The article is clear that the demographic they're seeking is the long term married male. Nonetheless, I think this is extremely positive. Eventually antimale policies will have to be addressed.

http://www.azcentral.com/news/articles/1101pir-fan s.html"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/01/2214216.shtml

Title IX Suit Against OU Women's Outreach Center

Hombre · 2 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Michael P. Wright writes "I'm writing to ask readers to support the idea of a Title IX lawsuit against the University of Oklahoma to seek an order requiring that they either establish a Men's Outreach Center with a level of funding equal to its Women's Outreach Center, or abolish the WOC.

I think abolishing the WOC would be the better outcome. It seems to be not much more than a propaganda center for advancing the ideological agenda of orthodox feminism (what some critics call "gender feminism"). See this newspaper column by WOC staff member Kristen Bain, who admires Andrea Dworkin:

http://www.oudaily.com/vnews/display.v/ART/2002/11 /04/3dc5eb632549c?in_archive=1"

I tend to think establishing a MOC would be the prefered choice. One less feminist indoctrination camp wouldn't mean a whole lot right now, but a college center presenting the masculist side of things could have a signifigant impact. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/01/2219248.shtml

The Fix is In.

Hombre · 2 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

JohnC. writes "No man can count on justice in family court, argues an angry professor.
'by Stephen Baskerville'

"Debtors' prisons were theoretically abolished long ago, but this does not stop family court judges from using the bench to shake down fathers who have done nothing wrong and funnel everything they have into the pockets of the court's cronies. In fact the looting and criminal-ization of fathers like Ken Gallahan is now routine in divorce courts."
-
The Fix is In"

A great article, though I do think he understates the problem by leaving out that women are conditioned to feel entitled to have any excuse for making their lives better in the name of "rights" treated as sacred truths no matter how much it interferes in the basic rights of men, the defense of which is seen as evil. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/01/2237242.shtml

12 yr girl gives 14 yr old boy oral sex, boy charged

Hombre · 3 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A 12 yr old girl gave a 14 yr old boy oral sex during a science class at Robert T. Hill Middle School. What I find really alarming is that the police have filed a sexual assault charge against only the boy. There is no mention that the girl was forced to perform on the oral sex on the boy and the age of consent in Texas is 17 (source: Age of Consent). It sounds like sexism is at work again."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/02/2250256.shtml

Spiderman goes to the Tower in London

Hombre · 3 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "The November Men's Hour page is up. It will be added to.

Spiderman ascended a high crane near the Tower Bridge in London, on Friday. Spiderman is protesting that he is legally entitled to see his child, but his ex-wife does not allow him and the courts do nothing about it.
This afternoon lots of police and a mobile work platform arrived. They may be planning something.
There are photos and a video at Blog or Men's Hour"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/02/2322231.shtml

Women have a better time when men are left behind

Hombre · 3 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is a benign article with a harmful headline. The headline was prominently positioned on the Boston Globe's homepage and it read "Women have a better time when men are left behind."

The problem with this type of headline is that it creates the idea for women that a lot of other women leave their men behind while traveling, whether this is true or not. It seems to be a self fulfilling prophecy. Tell women this is the thing to do, and like in fashion, other women will sheepishly start doing it, and another anti-male industry will result. Of course feminists like the idea of shipping snobby self-entitled western women over the entire world to help spread their hate agenda too."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/03/1755252.shtml

Domestic Violence

Hombre · 3 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Friends: Here is a great article, written by a retired cop, about domestic violence. This article was a great read, because it backs up everything it says with hard facts, supported by statistics.
It's too bad for men that the truth about domestic violence doesn't play well on talk shows, or Presidential podiums!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/03/1849228.shtml

Calling Ca members

Hombre · 3 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Jen writes "Here is a chance to meet face to face with Huffington. If I wasn't 3000 miles away I would go myself."

Anyone want to go ask the tough questions?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/03/1937227.shtml

NH Men's Commission Holds First Public Meeting

Scott · 4 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

I attended the first official meeting of the NH Commission on the Status of Men last Friday, and the following two articles described the event pretty well. The purpose of the first meeting was to obtain some input from the public on issues that the commission should address, and father's issues were overwhelmingly represented by the public testimony. DV against men and the lack of services for them was also a topic discussed. Overall, the commission members were very supportive and didn't flinch during some of the strongly-worded accusations of bias that were made by the divorced fathers. Foster's has a good article here, and the Concord Monitor has a another one here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/03/2235230.shtml

Men Forced to Fight

Hombre · 4 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Mbwuto writes "What happened to freedom? Our government may be once again preparing to institute the draft. Why is it that only men are forced into slavery? Write your politicians and let them know that the draft boards should be destroyed outright, not expanded.

Advertisement recruiting draft board workers
Article (requires commercial view)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/04/0125217.shtml

Interesting recent research on working mothers and

Hombre · 4 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Member2k3 writes "This Welfare to Work Study and

this article

refute the myth, promoted by the traditional family lobby, that the increase in working women has had a negative effect on childrens behaviour . I also thought this bit in the second piece was interesting from a mans perspective "Most fathers felt that the mother's work was beneficial and facilitated family life. They talked about it enhancing the quality of their relationship together, and recognised the way in which work enabled their partner to develop and express different aspects of her identity. They also appreciated having help in supplementing the financial costs of raising a family." There are many fantastic mothers who go out to work, and many dreadful mothers you wouldn't trust to look after your hamster who stay at home, usually on benefits."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/04/0147209.shtml

NCFM-DC Confronts Joe Farah's Anti-male Sexism

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Check out the home page of NCFM's Washington chapter for a great laugh. They've nominated Joe Farah of World Net Daily as "Female Apologist of the Year", for his incredibly offensive articles and stupid position defending Clara Harris, the Texas woman who ran over her husband in her Mercedes. Joe Farah deserves our contempt, and NCFM-DC deserves praise for directly exposing and confronting this dumb SOB. (The page uses a pop-up, so if you use a pop-up blocker, you'll need to temporarily turn it off.)

Note to NCFM-DC: A suggestion - why not add Farah's email address, so people can send him email and complain about his dumb articles and his anti-male bias?"

Actually you can leave the pop-up blocker turned on and still see it by clicking here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/05/2233237.shtml

Advice columnist gets it wrong

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Garth writes "Widely read advice columnist Dan Savage this week repeated long accepted yet false facts to defend his claim that women are victims of violence much more often than men. I think the reason is simple ignorance, not malice, and that if people were to write clear, rational (not heated and confrontational) emails to him pointing out his factual errors (with references), the truth might get some exposure in his column. Note: his advice often deals with touchy issues not for the squeamish or very conservative, so be warned. His email is mail@savagelove.net."

I'm not extremely familiar with Savage, but I believe he has taken stands against feminists in the past and agree with Garth that a confrontational approach would be ill-advised. I'd encourage sending letters with a respectful tone with some good links to information on DV statistics.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/05/2239225.shtml

Spiderman goes global

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Hats off to a true patriot - David Chick. Unbelievable, but Boston Globe online gave men's (fathers) rights a little homepage exposure with the story of the 36-year-old father who has sat atop a 120-foot crane beside London's Tower Bridge, dressed as Spiderman, in a bid to draw attention to the plight of dads denied access to their children. The area around Tower Bridge draws men who say they have not seen their children in several years and who resent a legal system they believe is biased in favor of women.
"It's like a ritual humiliation," said divorced dad Harrison, 45, who said he has not seen his 12-year-old daughter in two years. "You're taken into court, stripped absolutely bare."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/05/2243237.shtml

Good Brit Essay on Anti-male Court System

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "
Excellent essay by Melanie Phillips in London's Daily Mail (linked from MND site) following the "Spiderman" incident of civil disobedience to bring attention to legal injustices against men and fathers.

While the context is the U.K., the same tyranny in the courts is evident here in the Land o' the Free.

(Excerpts) -

"The whole justice system is institutionally biased against men and marriage. It is driven by an extreme feminist agenda, which stretches from the humblest family lawyer through the politically correct Law Commission to reach all the way up to government and the senior reaches of the judiciary.

How else can one explain the extraordinary proposal by the Law Commission -- which is expected to be backed by the government -- that women who commit premeditated murder of their menfolk may be charged merely with manslaughter if they have been abused?

…through a combination of moral cowardice and extreme feminism, family lawyers have been writing personal responsibility out of the script for decades. First, they removed the idea that behaviour mattered, so that eventually divorce law became so meaningless that fault was removed from it altogether.
And now, they actually reward bad behaviour. Despite the fact that women have been becoming increasingly unfaithful and predatory, they are now mainly awarded the lion's share of divorce settlements.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/05/2249224.shtml

Mother who abducted kids denied access

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Garth writes "Carline VandenElsen was acquitted of kidnapping her children from their father and taking them to Mexico, and was initially given liberal unsupervised access to them, while the father had custody. The courts have finally decided that this is not a good idea and have revoked all access by the mother. I find it very surprising that they even considered giving her unsupervised access in the first place."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/05/2255205.shtml

Women Have Career Choices - For Men It's Same Old

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Excellent brief commentary by Cathy Young examines the "glass ceiling" theory and concludes it may in fact be that women have far greater choices to exercise than do men, partly due to women's reliance on their male partners' lack of the same choices, dedication to earning maximum bucks, and social stigmas against men who "opt out" of the high-earning fast track."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/06/001243.shtml

Spiderman Tower Bridge Protest Ends

Hombre · 6 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "Newly added to the Men's Hour Blog

Spiderman Tower Bridge Protest ends - Fathers-4-Justice on Channel 5 November 5th

Spiderman ended his protest today about 4pm.

BBC - "The police have been criticised about their handling of this."

Channel 5 - "He claims his action was to highlight the problem when they are refused access to their children" (Claims? Maybe he went up there sight-seeing?).

Video from the BBC and Channel 5 discussion with Matt O'Connor, Fathers 4 Justice"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/06/003229.shtml

The Glass Ceiling Myth

Hombre · 7 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous writes "What is up with the New York Times? They publish a story debunking the feminist myth of the glass ceiling and then they published this article.
The woman disseminating (or is it oviating?) [groan - Hombre] this article is on California Governor Schwarzenegger's transition team. One can only wonder what new persecutions await California's collegiate men as well as males in California's work force."

Perhaps someone here might volunteer to contact Schwartzenegger and advise him as to the men's activist view of this?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/06/2229240.shtml

Schoolboy Advocate hired down under...

Hombre · 7 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Dave K writes "Here's a link to a good article... positive news on the educational front:

"Richard Fletcher, of Newcastle University, is part of a team commissioned to redraft the gender equity framework designed to support the particular needs of boys and girls in schools.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/06/2246238.shtml

Men's Activism Dissed!

Hombre · 7 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Check this out. This very site is being mocked over at the democratic underground. They are calling us wimps and saying we're scared of female equality. Not only that but they then go on and list the various feminist lies to try and justify themselves. Very sickening stuff."

I think its good every now and then to link to what our critics have to say about us. This helps ensure that our visitors have a chance to hear from those who oppose us as well as our devotees, and this thread in particular has quite a few of our detractors explaining why they dislike this site and father's rights supporters in general. As it turns out, I happen to have been banned from that forum after one week of participation last spring, for questioning Michael Moore's "Stupid White Men", being overly critical of Hillary Clinton, and defending Wendy McElroy and the IWF.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/06/239243.shtml

NH Men's Commission Dissed Too!

Scott · 7 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

As was to be expected, some negative press is coming out regarding the recent meeting of the NH Commission on the Status of Men. Yesterday's Concord Monitor editorial negatively portrayed the fact that father's rights issues were so overrepresented by the public testimony, and called the meeting "a vehicle to bash women and gripe about life's inequities." An even worse letter to the editor took the typical "men don't have problems and no real man is a victim" attitude and mocked the commission futher. What we need are some focused, rational rebuttals to these attacks. You know what to do: send your letters to letters@cmonitor.com. Don't forget to include your contact info so they can confirm and print these replies. We need to show the Concord Monitor the level of support that this commission has!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/07/1612202.shtml

ESPN calls Kobe selfish for staying at work

D · 9 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Mike Greenberg, a writer and commentator for ESPN, calls for Kobe to quit his work until the legal system has determined guilt or not. "What he needs to do is walk away, exit stage left, disappear into thin air to whatever degree that is possible, until all this blows over." Excuse me Greenberg, but this country once had a standard of innocent until proven guilty. Clearly "she-said-he-said" laws have undermined due process enough, and makes any allegation against a man difficult to defend; now this idiot calls for Kobe to stop what he does for a living because he has allegations against him. MSN has jumped on the "misandry wagon" and broadcasted this article from its website too.

LINK HERE

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/09/0118209.shtml

Male Rape used to advertise PaddyPower

Hombre · 10 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Did you know that male rape is a great way to sell your product? Apparently PaddyPower thinks so."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/10/0322247.shtml

Beasts of Burden

Hombre · 10 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Philalethes writes "This excellent article examines the reality behind some major feminist myths, e.g. "equal pay for equal work": it turns out that only a small percentage of women are really interested in the "equal work" part. Even among the new generations of "liberated" female college graduates with "advanced" degrees, most work at best part-time, at enjoyable "hobby" jobs, while pushing their husbands to work themselves to death to maintain them "in the style to which they've become accustomed." Plus ça change... Some useful statistics, e.g. "Despite an epidemic of obesity among women, there are five widows for every widower.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/10/0326240.shtml

Men's Health Bill

Hombre · 10 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "http://www.menshealthoffice.info "Congressman Randy "Duke" Cunningham and Senator Mike Crapo have introduced companion bills which will establish an Office of Men's Health at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. This office would mirror the work of the existing Office of Women's Health, which has helped to save thousands of women's lives and has improved the lives of many more."

I think we need to look into this and vocaly promote and support this bill."

There's a link right on the page that you can use to send a letter showing support. In fact the main body of the letter has already been written for you, and by filling in just a couple of fields it will be sent to your senator and congressional representative automatically with one click. Being a men's activist has never been so easy!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/10/0333210.shtml

Positive Spin from Instapundit

Hombre · 10 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "For those not yet fully versed in the world of blogs, Glenn Reynolds' Instapundit blog is one of the biggies. This last week he had an active, and quite favorable discussion on men's issues.

So the news isn't all bad. Once the bloggers get a hold of it, watch out! I got a mention in this but no link (sigh)"

But you were credited for submitting this story! :)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/10/0342200.shtml

Concord Monitor Prints Letters From Men's Activists

Scott · 11 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

It is with great pleasure and gratitude that I have learned that the editor of the Concord Monitor was overwhelmed with letters this weekend in response to his recent editorial on the NH Commission on the Status of Men and a male-bashing letter that were printed late last week. Five responses were printed on these pages: one, two. Pat yourselves on the back, folks! You did some excellent work and it was a great show of unity in support of the NH Men's Commission.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/10/2118228.shtml

'Straight Plan for the Gay Man'

Hombre · 11 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Comedy Central seems to be countering the notion of the "inherent defect" of straight men that is part of our misandrist culture with a new TV show. Read it here.

Guess we'll see what they do with it."

What I read doesn't look like "countering" the notion that straight men have defects but rather promoting that view even more. From the article...

"The make-overs include lessons in such areas as spartan home decorating, oafish manners, less-than-fashionable wardrobes, and an overdeveloped ego to mask all personal failings"

If anything I expect this show to say that straight guys are defective but so are gay guys. Yay, all men are bad!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/11/1956216.shtml

What happens when you cross Darwin with Feminism?

Hombre · 11 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CrimsonArrow writes "... and then broadcast it over the air waves?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/11/200219.shtml

All the Latest News on Spiderman

Hombre · 12 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Spiderman Speaks in this exclusive interview with Nick Webster in which he discusses watching the kids wave up at him in the crane and being made to feel like a monster for wanting to see his daughter.

Anonymous User writes "English fathers' rights protester David Chick is being vilified by the mayor of London and others for his traffic stopping, six day protest on a crane above Tower Bridge. In his newest column "In Defense of Spiderman" men's and fathers' issues columnist Glenn Sacks rises to his defense."

Men's News Daily also has a new article posted in which Carey Roberts dicusses the antics of Fathers 4 Justice, the explosion of men's rights activism, and of course Spiderman.

A.J. writes "Here is an online petition" to "Free Spiderman". I think he deserves our support.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/11/2036206.shtml

His Side: Judge Leaves Former NFL Star Penniless

Hombre · 12 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Two time All-Pro cornerback Tim McKyer played on three Super Bowl champions during his distinguished, 12-year NFL career. However, everything that he had was taken away in a divorce by a judge who, oddly enough, gave him custody of his two children. McKyer says:

"I'm grateful that I have my children, particularly when so many fathers don't. But it's insane that they give me my children...and leave me without a way to support them."

McKyer told his story on His Side with Glenn Sacks on Sunday, November 9."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/11/2041221.shtml

Malebiz Web Site

Scott · 12 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Malebiz writes, "Malebiz.com is dedicated to reality issues facing men today, especially those that reside in Connecticut. Special emphasis is placed on the divorce process and the failures of those that enter into it, the Attorneys who control the Family Law process and our Judicial System. We attempt to look at all sides of an issue and encourage a women's point of view."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/11/2036247.shtml

Daily Breeze Prints Veterans' Day Article

Adam · 12 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "The Torrance Daily Breeze (a fairly big paper in Los Angeles County) just printed this Veterans' Day article about decorated veteran Taron James' experience with paternity fraud. He was served improperly, even under a different name, while serving in the Gulf War. When he returned he found himself locked into a child support obligation that he can't get out of even though a DNA test proves the child is NOT his. He never met, fathered, or saw the child. Meanwhile his entire family suffers. Taron and his friend Raegan, who founded Women Against Paternity Fraud, have been extremely supportive of NCFM-LA even on matters other than paternity fraud. They have become dear friends and we want their story to be known. Here's a good quote from Taron in the article: "Sometimes I just feel like a sucker. Veterans Day only reminds me that my government holds me and other vets in such contempt that it cannot lift a finger to stop a blatant fraud which victimizes tens of thousands of servicemen. Worse, the government actively enforces that fraud."

Thank you to Glenn Sacks and Jeff Leving for this story.

Marc"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/12/2019215.shtml

"Men may see themselves in these comics"

Adam · 13 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Isn't this lovely. I checked out the uComics website today, and a page was displayed with the caption "Men may see themselves in these comics." The comics listed were "The Duplex, The Fusco Brothers, and Shoe." Needless to say, at least the first two comics portray men as oafish and boorish skirt chasers who are treated with contempt by women.

I don't know how long this link will lead to this wonderful feature, but for now it's here

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/13/1752215.shtml

MSN surprises me!

Adam · 13 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Every now and then, MSN actually doesn't bash men... see:

here

I can only wonder at miracles. :)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/13/1753242.shtml

Commercial DNA Testing

Adam · 14 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

tparker writes "DNA Solutions is a commercial outfit that provides DNA testing for paternity. They also have an online chat for people who want more information (didn't work when I tested it, however) and they will answer questions about procedure, etc by email. If you know someone who has questions or concerns about paternity, maybe these folks can help."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/13/1755202.shtml

Trials seen needed for anti-aging testosterone

Adam · 14 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "There is evidence that testosterone replacement could combat declining strength, failing memory, and decreased sex drive in aging men. But unlike the multitude of contemporary studies on hormone replacement for women, testosterone as an anti-aging agent still has had no large-scale trial into the hormone therapy's true risks and benefits. The NIA plans to fund studies of testosterone replacement as recommended by Institue of Medicine panel who found that data was lacking in this area."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/13/1756259.shtml

Looking for interviews for a college paper

Adam · 14 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jimmyd writes "I am a college student who is looking for interviews for an anthropology paper on the online men's movement. for those who would like to give me a hand I need to know how and why you got involved and how you think you as an individual fit into the online movement's community. If privacy is an issue you can e-mail me at agtxid4@aol.com. By the way it's nice to read the truth here after listening to lies all day."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/14/2354228.shtml

Slater's wife gets her dues?

Adam · 14 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

The Biscuit Queen writes " Actor Christian Slater received stitches for a cut on his head and his wife, Ryan Haddon, was arrested after she was accused of hitting him with a drinking glass during a fight in their Las Vegas hotel room, authorities said Tuesday."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/14/2356232.shtml

More Anti-Male "Humor"

Adam · 15 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Boy Genteel writes "I've found another company that we need to "have a little talk with". I saw one of their calendars--the one called MEN! with the retro-stylings--in a bookstore. More of the same, 12 months of "Men are great...every woman should have a pet!" and "Men: half the population, quarter the brains." There are others like it on the website. I looked for a similar calendar degrading women--not that I'd buy one...I think that would be just as wrong--but it's telling that there isn't one about women. The name of the company is Ronnie Sellers Productions and their contact addresses are rsp@RSVP.com and mweiner@RSVP.com. Let's have a few words with them, how about it?"

And they say it's a best seller too! Ack!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/15/2255221.shtml

No sooner than....

Adam · 15 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "... MSN puts out something not bashing men, another link appears discussing "why women cheat". At no point is there discusses a condemnation of it, as MSN has done when "guys" cheat."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/15/230250.shtml

Free Spiderman, Aka Dave Chick

Adam · 16 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "From the Men's Hour Blog

Your last chance to sign the petition. It's overdue and only 41 signatures to go.

Yes, I'm sure a petition to the (London) Metropolitan Police is not going to sweep 30 years of father denigration away, but if we can't get 1000 signatures for this then the next time some feminist on TV makes a remark about men's/fathers groups being "2 or 3 men crying in their beers" then don't ask why men don't have any rights. You will know the answer!

Petition"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/16/1925223.shtml

Some Truths About Early Feminism

Adam · 16 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I saw some interest here in the series on early feminism, so here's the latest. Enjoy, and follow the links (evidence) in each column!

Susan B. Anthony: Against Marriage

Previous pieces.

Susan B. Anthony: Racist Manipulator

Susan B. Anthony: Victim Feminist

Keep up the good work at MensActivism.org."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/16/1926253.shtml

ESPN shows plight of a single father

Adam · 17 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jimmyd writes "I've got something for all you fathers right's guys out there. The espn drama Playmakers just ended it's first season and in final episode one of the main characters, a linebacker named Olczyk, has just found out his going to be a dad. he tries to become involved as a father only to discover that the mother basicly wants him to be a pay check. the show's site is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/16/1930208.shtml

Fathers' Rights Showdown in CA Supreme Court

Adam · 17 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User Writes "Over two dozen feminist groups nationwide have joined together to help ensure that California custodial parents can move children hundreds or thousands of miles away from their noncustodial parents.

Against them all stands one loving father and his tenacious attorney.

Gary LaMusga has fought a seven-year battle to prevent his two boys, now aged 11 and 9, from being moved 2,400 miles away from him. The issue of move-aways is headed for a showdown in the California Supreme Court.

Family law attorney Garrett C. Dailey, the attorney representing Gary before the California Supreme Court, will discuss the case and the move-away issue on His Side with Glenn Sacks on Sunday, November 16 at 9 PM. To listen to the show archive, go to His Side"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/17/2357221.shtml

Daily Breeze Prints NCFM-LA's Letter

Adam · 17 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "The Daily Breeze printed NCFM-LA's letter in response to the op ed they printed on veterans and paternity fraud.
I'm especially glad because it names NOW, DCSS, and Senators Sheila Kuehl and Hannah-Beth Jackson, all of whom have opposed and prolonged paternity fraud legislation all along.

Thank you Mensactivism.org and everyone who wrote letters! That's what helped get one printed!

Marc"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/17/2358237.shtml

Teenage Girl Takes Responsibility For Her Actions

Adam · 18 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes "The girl (whose name has been withheld) lied about her age, got drunk, and tattooed with a few questionable choices by a few 20-something men and women. When she sobered up, havoc ensued and resulted in the arrest of a 22-year old male for tattooing a minor.

To her credit, she told them her real age and also held herself responsible for being drunk and getting tattooed. You have to read it to truly appreciate it..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/18/233252.shtml

Michigan gets tough on deadbeat "parents"(ie dads)

Adam · 18 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

The Biscuit Queen writes "State gets tough on deadbeat parents:
Attorney General's Office has collected $900,000 this year.Tougher measures by county prosecutors and Michigan Attorney General Mike Cox's office have helped the state collect hundreds of thousands of dollars in back child support payments in the last year."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/18/239217.shtml

What Are Men's Issues

Thomas · 19 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Steve Van Valkenburg, creator and administrator of the Yahoo group, Men's Issues Online, and a frequent contributor to MANN under the handle "mens_issues," has created a list of concerns particular to men and boys.

Steve states, "I created the brochure 'What are Men's Issues?' as an outreach piece to inform the public (and newcomers to the men's movement) about the major issues that men face. It was adapted with permission from Trudy Schuett's online document 'What is the Men's Movement.' This brochure is merely a first edition, and will be updated as the discourse on men's issues develops over time. I hope that it will be useful to those who wish to further our cause."

Any useful additions or links to sites giving specific details will be quite useful. MANN will post a permanent link to download the document in the "Activism Projects" box.

See "Read More, Post Comments" for the full brochure.

What Are Men's Issues?

Men's issues are as valid as women's issues, but until recently they have received little attention from the media or public policy. This brochure is intended as an introduction to men's issues, which are part of the broader men's movement.

First of all, it is important to realize that most people in the men's movement aren't interested in pushing women into subservience. While their approaches may vary, most men's advocates are interested in addressing the disparities that have increasingly affected men and boys in (mostly) Western nations since the late 1960s. This is an essential part of achieving gender fairness for both sexes.

Second, the men's movement is not just a concern of white men. Men's issues affect all men and boys, regardless of race, ethnicity, nationality or socioeconomic status.

The men's movement exists because men and boys are at a disadvantage in several important areas in today's politically correct social structure. Laws and conventions originally intended to encourage equal rights for women have evolved into special privileges without responsibility for women and an elevated status for women only. This is taking place against a backdrop of misandry (hatred of men) in society. The result has been serious harm to many areas of society, such as family structure, education, and social services programs. Ironically, this has ultimately had a negative impact on women in general — and children in particular.

While this brochure cannot list all of the issues affecting men and boys, it does provide a summary of the most visible ones. These issues are:

- Divorce and Child Custody

- Domestic Violence against Men
- Media Representation of Men
- Workplace Issues for Men
- Men's Health and Safety
- Education
- Other issues: Male only selective service, unequal sentencing, false accusations, and double standards against men

Note: While many of the examples and statistics in this brochure are from the United States, the same concepts apply throughout much of the Western world.

Divorce/Child Custody

With roughly 50% of marriages ending in divorce, and most child custody decisions going in favor of mothers, many men find themselves deprived of their children while making large support payments to an ex-wife who may be turning their children against them. The family court system is in itself adversarial, and makes an "amicable divorce" unlikely. In far too many cases, this has led fathers to become unemployed, bankrupt, imprisoned, homeless, and even suicidal. Meanwhile, children from fatherless homes are more likely to abuse illicit drugs or alcohol, become pregnant as teenagers, drop out of school, commit crimes, and go to jail. Children benefit most when both parents are equally involved in their lives, and public policy should reflect this by adopting a presumption of shared custody.

Related issues: Reproductive rights for men are very limited compared to what women enjoy. For example, a woman can abort her unborn child without any input from the father. Alternatively, she can give birth to a child and force the father to pay child support for at least 18 years. Paternity fraud occurs when a man is forced to pay support for a child that isn't even his. Studies of DNA tests show that this is the case from 20 – 30% of the time. Many men's advocates are in favor of choice for men, which would give men the right to joint custody of their child, or the ability to sign away all rights and responsibilities regarding the child.

Domestic Violence against Men

Domestic violence is a serious issue that affects both men and women. However — for reasons of funding — public policy has traditionally concentrated on those cases where women are victims and men are abusers. Many people are concerned about the lack of attention given to male victims. Here are some facts to consider:

- According to a recent CDC survey, 1.5 million American women are severely assaulted by their "intimate partners" each year. It is less known that 835,000 men are also assaulted annually by intimate partners, representing some 36% of the total. (Note: the methodology of this survey has been criticized by men's advocates as flawed, however this is still a significant finding).

- Women and men assault each other with roughly equal frequency. This would make the difference in the above figures even closer to parity. However, women are somewhat more likely to be injured, and are more likely to report injuries to police. (It should be noted that there is no standard definition of an “injury”).
- Women often compensate for their smaller size by using weapons such as knives, guns, baseball bats, and fireplace pokers. One study found that 86% of female-on-male violence involved weapons, contrasted with 25% in cases of male-on-female violence.
- Men are usually reluctant to call the police in a domestic dispute for fear of ridicule. Also, police will often arrest the man even when it is the woman who committed the assault.
- Many women's shelters exist in the United States and other Western nations, but there are very few shelters for men.
- Child abuse, a related issue, is committed by women more often than men (and even less often by a biological father).

Domestic violence hurts us all, either directly or indirectly. While it is important to maintain assistance to women-victims, proportionate aid should also be given to male victims. Rational laws and public policy would help in achieving this goal.

Media Representation of Men

Media bias against men generally falls into two categories: errors of commission and errors of omission.

Such errors of commission are common in the mass media (TV, radio, newspapers, magazines, books, movies, and the internet). TV is perhaps the worst offender in this category. Men are routinely portrayed as boorish and inadequate at best; violent and perverted at worst. TV sitcoms commonly feature pathetic and uncouth men who are constantly in need of rescue by their “superior” girlfriends, wives, or female relatives. It is also “acceptable” for women to kick, punch and slap men in these programs. Even worse, crime shows routinely depict men as sexually deviant and murderous. Meanwhile, commercials portray men as idiots, unable to care for their children or understand the function of household appliances.

Of course, this contempt for men can be found in other media as well. Newspapers and magazines commonly print articles written from a feminist perspective. The reader is given the impression that women as a group are victims of male oppression, when the reality is far more complex and ambiguous. Cartoons often mock men and boys as stereotypes rather than real people, while also portraying violence against males as humorous.

Men’s advocates often ask whether it would be acceptable to substitute “women” or “blacks” for “men” in the above situations. Such disrespect wouldn’t be tolerated. Surely men deserve the same consideration from the media.

Errors of omission occur when a male perspective is either omitted or downplayed in the above situations. For example, the phrase “women and children” is commonly used when describing people affected by a particular crisis. This implies that men are somehow more expendable. The phrase “men, women, and children” is much more inclusive. If the media is to achieve a fair balance in gender issues, men’s viewpoints should get the same attention as women’s viewpoints.

Workplace Issues for Men

Preferential hiring and promotion practices for women are common in the modern workplace. Affirmative action programs have done little to provide equal opportunity for anyone, while giving preference to women who may or may not be the best qualified candidates for given positions. The myths of the “glass ceiling” and “pay gap” have been repeatedly debunked, yet feminists continue to use them as excuses to demand preferential treatment. Promoting and overpaying under performers will eventually result in higher costs to the consumer and lowered productivity overall. It must be understood that some professions are more attractive to, and better performed by one sex or another. While jobs should be open to anyone, men and women both deserve an equal chance to be considered on the basis of performance and ability, not gender.

The issues of sexual harassment and workplace violence have probably done more to harm morale and cause distrust among co-workers than they have to uncover improper behavior and punish offenders. Men are especially suspect under these relatively recent company and government policies, which tend to favor women. An offhand comment or misunderstood gesture can now cost a man his job and ruin his career, and, as in other areas like divorce or domestic violence, a man has little or no recourse in defending himself. Certainly women should have adequate protection in real cases of sexual harassment or intimidation, but this is an issue where employers have gone overboard in implementing policies. A rational, realistic consideration of these policies needs to be undertaken — with due process and presumption of innocence — as the policies themselves are far too often abused for purposes unintended by those who established them.

Men’s Health and Safety

Men’s health and safety lags behind that of women’s in several areas. Men are more likely to die from heart disease, stroke, cancer, infectious diseases, accidents, suicide, and homicide. Consider these statistics for the United States:

- Males have a higher overall mortality rate than females at all ages (roughly 1.6 times greater). This mortality ratio is roughly the same as that between blacks and whites. Also, men have higher mortality rates for the top 10 causes of death.
- In particular, males have a suicide rate roughly 4 times that of females – this ratio is 14 times greater for the elderly over 85.
- Men represent some 94% of workplace deaths annually as a result of being concentrated in the most hazardous professions.
- Men are 3 times more likely to use illicit drugs, and 2 times more likely to be alcoholic.
- Men have a life expectancy roughly 6 years less than women.
- The disparity in longevity is greatest for black and Native American men.
- In 1920, this difference in life expectancy was only 1 year, which implies that improvements in public health have disproportionately benefited women.

In spite of these disparities in health and safety between men and women, public policy has concentrated on women's health issues at the expense of men's health. For example:

- There is an Office of Women's Health in the U. S. federal government, but no Office of Men's Health.
- While most funding at the National Institutes of Health is non-gender specific, some 10% of this funding is for women's health, with only 5% given to men's health.
- In particular, funding for prostate cancer research receives less than half the funding that breast cancer receives, even though both diseases have roughly equal mortality rates.

Given the interdependent nature of the sexes on health issues, surely it would be beneficial to society as a whole if men's health and safety were taken as seriously as women's health and safety. Greater advocacy, research, and information in this area are much needed.

Circumcision of infant boys is a related area of concern to men's advocates. It is now questionable whether the benefits of circumcision are worth the risks. As the practice of genital mutilation of girls is forbidden, boys should at least get the chance to make a choice for themselves, when they are old enough to make an informed decision.

Education

Contrary to feminist assertions, a boy in school today is at an automatic disadvantage. As many "Women's Studies" graduates end up in teaching, feminist theory has filtered down to the high school and elementary levels. Because feminist ideology requires that boys be educated in the same manner as girls, a boy's natural tendency to be more active and outspoken will always be a "problem." While boys thrive in learning environments that emphasize physically connected hands-on activities, they are confined to sitting quietly for hours at a time. Some schools have even eliminated recess and any kind of active games.

Such insensitivity to the learning needs of boys has contributed to the following:

- Boys are three times as likely to receive a diagnosis of attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder as girls. They are also more likely to be drugged as a result of these diagnoses.
- Boys at all levels are far more likely than girls to be disciplined, suspended, held back, or expelled.
- By high school the typical boy is a year and a half behind the typical girl in reading and writing, and is less likely to graduate from high school. This is despite the fact that special attention to girls' needs have eliminated the advantage that boys once enjoyed in math and science.
- Boys are now less likely than girls to go to college.

This disparity in boys' educational performance carries through to the college level:

- Males now represent only 43% of university students (and the Department of Education predicts that this gap will continue to widen).
- Among black university students, only 33% are male.
- Men who enter college or university are less likely to graduate from college or go to graduate school.

Part of this difference may be due to the fact that the less than friendly school environment that boys face becomes a hostile environment for young men when they enter college. Some instructors feel free to make disparaging remarks about men in class, while campus newspapers routinely carry articles with an anti-male bias. Consequently, some young men may leave college, rather than stay in an environment where they feel devalued or even despised.

Title IX is a related educational issue which started out as an attempt to guarantee equal opportunity for women in athletics. This has evolved into a system of rigid proportionality between sports participation and enrollment for women. As female enrollment has increased, institutions of higher education are required to increase the proportion of female sports participation in order to meet their required target. This has resulted in many athletic programs for men being cut, while it is questionable that women even want the levels of participation in sports that are required. As with other gender issues, differences in participation rates should reflect individual interests and abilities, rather than an arbitrary quota system.

School violence has been an area of particular concern for boys. Unfortunately, recent school shootings have been carried out mostly by boys, resulting in violence prevention material that targets boys in particular. Overly repressive zero-tolerance policies have probably stigmatized many innocent boys unnecessarily far more than they have helped to prevent violence. While schools should take reasonable precautions against school violence, it would be better if the root causes were also addressed (e.g. bullying and anti-male attitudes by teachers and administrators).

Other Issues

While the six above issues are the most prominent, there are others that deserve mention as well. Some of these are briefly described below.

Male-only selective service registration is mandatory for young men between 18 and 25. Failure to register is a felony punishable by a fine of up to $250,000, imprisonment for up to five years, or both. Furthermore, if a man fails to register, he can be denied certain benefits such as student financial aid and government employment. At times of war or national emergency, the draft can be reinstated by Congress and the President. Such military conscription, while perhaps necessary for national security, is a prime example of men being required to take a disproportionate risk of injury or death.

Unequal sentencing for men is the rule in the criminal justice system. Men are more likely to be imprisoned (and are given significantly longer sentences) than women for the same crime. The death penalty is imposed almost exclusively on men. One study showed that for a conviction of first degree murder, a man is 22 times more likely than a woman to receive the death penalty. While in prison, a man may be subjected to rape and other forms of assault — a phenomena that, unlike with women, is tolerated by prison officials and laughed at by late-night talk show hosts.

Two other common themes in men's issues are false accusations and double standards against men. False accusations of domestic violence or child abuse may result in a man losing custody of his children, while a false charge of sexual harassment or discrimination may result in him losing his job. Even worse, a false accusation of sexual assault may result in an innocent man being imprisoned — women are generally not punished for making such false accusations. Various studies have shown that 40 – 50% of accusations of sexual assault are false. Meanwhile, double standards against men are also common. For example, the media often praises female-only sports clubs as “progressive,” while deriding private male-only clubs as “sexist.” Similarly, unmarried women are often described as “strong and independent,” while unmarried men are disdained as “immature” and having a “fear of commitment.”

Conclusion

As society began to value women more, and feminism became ever more exclusive and elitist, men became devalued. This is morally wrong. There is no valid excuse for valuing one sex over the other. It is also wrong to attempt to build women up by tearing men down. Anti-male bias ultimately harms everyone, as the men who are ridiculed in the media and cheated in family court are someone’s father, brother, husband, or son.

It is time that society recognized that feminism (particularly the “gender” and “radical” variety) is a social experiment that failed. It should be replaced by a movement that fairly balances rights and responsibilities for both men and women – one that values the complementary nature of the sexes rather than pitting one against the other. Only then can society be on a path to true gender fairness.

What You Can Do for Men’s Issues

Contact the media: Write to your newspaper, magazine, radio/TV station or internet service provider expressing your concern at the lack of sensitivity toward men’s issues in the media. Or call in to a talk radio show.

Confront people engaging in anti-male bias: In the most tactful manner possible, of course. Let people know of the harm that such bias causes, and that you would like them to stop.

Boycott companies that use anti-male advertising: Write to companies that promote their products by disparaging men or boys. Let them know that you will boycott their products and services until they cease this practice.

Contact your politician: Let your politician know your concern about men’s issues, and that your vote and support may depend on their position on these issues. Join a political group or caucus, if one is available in your area.

Join or form a local men’s group: This is a great way to meet others in your area who are interested in the men’s movement.

Get better informed: The following contacts, resources, and books are a good start.

Contacts and Resources

Desert Light Journal

http://www.desertlightjournal.homestead.com/

Men's Issues Online

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/MensIssuesOnline

Mensactivism.org

http://www.mensactivism.org

Men's News Daily

http://www.mensnewsdaily.com

MaleDepression.com

http://www.maledepression.com

National Coalition of Free Men

http://www.ncfm.org

National Congress for Fathers and Children

http://www.ncfc.net

Stop Abuse for Everyone

http://www.safe4all.org

Domestic Violence against Men

http://www.dvmen.org

Men's Health Network

http://www.menshealthnetwork.org/

Suggested Reading

Baumli, Francis. Men Freeing Men: Exploding the myth of the traditional male (St. Louis: New Atlantis Press, 1985).

Farrell, Warren. The Myth of Male Power (New York: Berkley Books, 1993).

Farrell, Warren. Women Can't Hear what Men Don't Say: The myths that divide couples and poison love (New York: Tarcher/Putnam, 1999).

Goldberg, Herb. The Hazards of Being Male: Surviving the myth of masculine privilege (New York: New American Library, 1976).

Hoff-Sommers, Christina. The War against Boys: How misguided feminism is harming our young men (New York: Simon & Schuster, 2000).

Hoff-Sommers, Christina. Who Stole Feminism: How women have betrayed women (New York: Simon & Schuster, 1994).

Nathanson, Paul and Young, Katherine K. Spreading Misandry: The teaching of contempt for men in popular culture (Montreal: McGill-Queens University Press, 2001).

© 2003 by Steven G. Van Valkenburg. Adapted from "What is the Men's Movement" by Trudy W. Schuett. Content used with permission of the author.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/19/0231216.shtml

Hi Honey...What's For Dinner Tonight?

Adam · 19 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes " Here is a story about a woman who murdered her male friend 10 years ago and made a stew out of some of his flesh. She was diagnosed as legally insane at the time of the murder and was committed to a state insane asylum.

However, she has now been proclaimed sane by the powers that be and may be moving into your neighborhood soon. Also, the article said she had two young children at the time of the murder. I wonder if she will now be given custody of them when she is released? Probably!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/19/2140222.shtml

New DV center to further criminalize men

Adam · 19 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children adds that partner violence by men is the greatest single source of injury to women requiring emergency treatment. Now MA intends to build a center that will place victims of domestic violence under one roof with police, prosecutors, and advocates. This is very scary and brings MA one step closer to a complete gender based Marxist society - considering the criteria for evidential standards for DV have already been completely erased. I am a victim of the false DV allegations, and I could not have conceived in my worst nightmare that the judicial system in MA could become more biased than it already is. Yet a new Parthenon of misandry is getting built and the hypocrites building it are using sexual assault on children as the Trojan Horse for public support to gain funding for their underhand methods to further obliterate the rights of men/fathers. Once again, the rights of men and consideration for male victims have been completely left out of the agenda. Pleae help anyway you can. Here's the link"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/19/2143259.shtml

When oral sex is outlawed, only men will be outlaws

Adam · 20 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A Singapore policeman has been sentence to jail for two years for receiving oral sex from a girl. The girl was of age and consented to the act but only the male police officer is going to jail. Oral sex is illegal in Singapore."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/19/2146250.shtml

She Longs for the Old Days

Adam · 21 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes "I saw this in a employee rant forum. It seemed appropriate to men's issues in the sense of old school vs. modern family structure. This woman is "busy and bored" at her job and wishes that she could be a "stay at home wife and mother". She's in her early thirties now. She also adds that "When you even mention this to people, even other women, they look at you like you're from another planet..." I'm stealing your experience! Go here and read for yourself."

What was it feminists said about men not wanting to live in the 21st century again?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/20/2144207.shtml

Washington City Paper and "catfighting"

Adam · 21 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Entertaining but predictable article on so-called "catfighting" in DC area bars and pubs. Written by one of the cats herself! Notice she tries to shift the blame for her and her fellow "catfighters" onto men in more than a few places. So much for adults taking responsibility for their actions. Sounds like a chance for a letter or two to the editors..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/21/2042233.shtml

NH Men's Commission TV Footage Now On-line

Scott · 21 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Updated! On Wednesday, the second meeting of the NH Commission on the Status of Men was held in Concord, NH. We had the room packed and two local TV crews filmed the event. NH Public Television aired a half-hour segment with footage from the meeting on their NH Outlook program. You can view streaming video (RealPlayer) of the program at this link. Interviewed on the program included commission chair Gerry Boyle, Rep. David Bickford (who sponsored the men's commission legislation), and Mike Geanoulis, president of the NH chapter of NCFC.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/20/1811236.shtml

Cleveland Brown's runningback is a victim

Adam · 22 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jimmyd writes "apperently william green the runningback for the cleveland browns was attacked by his fiance Asia Gray. who apperantly stabbed him. what I think is most unbelivable about this is that they actually arrested her!! The story is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/21/2043245.shtml

Towards an Understanding of Heterosexual Violence

Adam · 23 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

crescentluna writes "This is the opposition. This is their research. If women use violence against their male partners, they are in need of understanding. We need to examine the cultural attitudes that shape it. Those cultural attitudes are that men abuse to maintain power, whereas women aren't really abusers. Here's the link"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/23/1746216.shtml

BusterB is on Hiatus

Scott · 24 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes "Our beloved BusterB has gone on hiatus. If you don't know who he is, please take a minute to read his site and blog. Actually, take an afternoon. It's good stuff. I'll miss him and hope that he chooses to continue."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/23/191216.shtml

Parental Salary, OOOPS... Government Handout to Women Proposed

Thomas · 24 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

The Liberal Party think tank, the Menzies Research Centre, has proposed that Australian mothers (not fathers) receive tax free $11,000 per year for five years after having a child. Lucy Sullivan, the author of the report, also recommended an additional government payout of "$4000 a year for primary school children and $6000 for high school children."

Women would have the option, through childbirth, of taking this government handout, so they can stay home. Men would have no such option.

Now that marriage is collapsing and men are being systematically removed from the family, men would be forced, through taxes, to support mothers, in most cases whom they've never even met.

Will Australian men be stupid enough to allow this to be done to them?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/23/2032242.shtml

Reader Query Regarding Women Only Gym Areas

Scott · 24 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

albundy writes "My Gym has a "women only" workout area but no corresponding "men only" area. I complained to the manager but was told, "That's just the way it is." I live in California. Is anyone aware of any laws against this blatant sexism?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/23/193210.shtml

Subway Sandwich Chain Bashing Men?

Scott · 24 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

An Anonymous User submitted the following message that was sent to the Subway corporation: "Just a comment on your latest ad campaign. I'm referring to the one in which a man is shown being hit in the groin at the end, for no reason, not that any would justify the physical harm. I wonder why you consider this funny. Your poor taste and insensitivity has just lost you another customer - after years of supporting you, no one in my family will eat at a Subway again. Fire the ad agency, clean up your act!" Please comment if you've seen this ad.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/23/195249.shtml

Turner Touts Female-Dominated Foundation

Hombre · 26 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "From Newsday...

"UNITED NATIONS -- Media mogul Ted Turner has taken a small step to demonstrate his belief that women should run the world because men have "mucked it up" with too much warfare and military spending."

Turner is a very powerful man, we need a large and cohesive backlash to this...now."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/26/0225248.shtml

Men Putting Down the Remote

Hombre · 26 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "This is the second time in as many months I've seen an article on this topic. It seems that Neilsen is saying that TV viewership among males 18-34 is dropping sharply, and the networks are blaming Neilsen's research methods (!@@!). They simply can't see (or refuse to acknowledge) that the emperor is nekkid."

In a related story it seems a local newpaper has lost much of its Jewish demographic after repeatedly portraying Jews as bumblers, depicting violence against Jews as humor, condemning Jews as dangerous, and repeatedly stating that any problems which affect Jews are unimportant and whining since a lot of the businesses in the world are owned by Jews and besides that talking about their problems won't get them laid. Experts are stumped.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/26/031227.shtml

Stormy Future of Marriage

Hombre · 26 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "NY Times article briefly looks at several controversies in the ongoing marriage debate, brought on by the recent Massachusetts recognition of same-sex marriage.

One interesting fact is that single households in the U.S. now outnumber those occupied by a married couple.

And, there's a growing interest in getting the government out of the marriage contract, leaving partners to determine exactly what the terms of marriage will be... including even the option of "renewable" short-term vows.

Between the men's marriage "strike" and multiple emerging forms of matrimony, it looks like the traditional church-blessed union may be fading away....

Article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/26/0312210.shtml

Male DV Victims in Military

Hombre · 27 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "Here is a good article on male domestic violence victims in the military. The article helps confirm that the military is way ahead of the domestic violence movement on this issue. This is exactly what we found when we set up a table at the DV Conference in San Diego, CA this year (where rad-fems tried to get us barred). We came across a number of military folks there who knew, based on their experience in doing DV work in the military while free from feminist propaganda, that men and women are initiating the violence at about the same rate. They explained that their military programs emphasize communication and preventative measures (as Warren Farrell and SAFE do) rather than reactionism, blame, bashing, and gender politics, and that as a result they have seen a marked reduction in the frequency of the problem. Will the DV industry ever learn from this?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/27/0057227.shtml

Washington Mutual TV Ad

Scott · 27 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Yet another man gets tortured for laughs in this ad. It's for Washington Mutual, a bank apparently. The dumb dorky guy is so happy with his loan from this bank that nothing can get him down. He gets a pot of hot coffee spilled on his head, which is fine with him. Then of course, the deal closer. He gets hit in the groin with a bowling ball! How original. Excuse me while I rush out and get a loan! Not! Anyone else seen it??"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/26/2344255.shtml

Feminists want less confusing bathrooms

Hombre · 29 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Men, women, what the... ?
WHERE'S THE "OTHER" CATEGORY??

Ah, those wacky feminists are at it again.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/28/2030204.shtml

NY Times Still Lying After All These Years

Hombre · 29 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "It looks like the New York Times hasn't changed much even after the public exposure about their bias. Here is a recent article titled "Abused Mothers Keep Children in a Test of Rights and Safety." In case the link breaks, here's an excerpt that gives the gist of the article: "Domestic violence has always been a tricky problem for child welfare workers. Studies have shown, for instance, that households victimized by domestic violence can be spectacularly dangerous, even lethal, for children. And even temporary interventions — the brief removal of children or the forced treatment of the parents — can be undone as battered mothers return again and again to their abusive husbands or partners."
Response letters can be sent to letters@nytimes.com or by fax to (212)556-3622."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/28/210249.shtml

Marx, Lenin, Friedan and Feminism

Hombre · 29 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Untold Story of Betty Friedan, an article on MND by Carey Roberts, is an interesting read, and for many it will be an eye opener. Yes, Marxist-Leninism has a long history of affiliation with the Feminist movement."

I understand Elizabeth Cady Staton not only belonged to and frequented church, she also owned her own personal copy of the Bible! I hope that comes as a real eye opener for everyone. Yes, Christianity has a long history of affiliation with the Feminist movement.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/29/0615233.shtml

He's Attacked, yet he's the Aggressor?

Hombre · 29 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Paul writes "She comes after him with a baseball bat, a jar of olives and a butcher knife, yet he's arrested as the aggressor in the situation.

Details here."

Another example of the Christian feminist domestic violence industry.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/29/0619259.shtml

The Eyes of the World are upon us!

Hombre · 29 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Lee Newman writes "The first Commission on the Status of Men in the World has been established in NH.
This Commission was appointed by the Governor to address health concerns and other issues that affect men. This is a very important and necessary initiative considering the high rates of male suicide and other major health, family and even the legal concerns of men.

VIP/SAFE-NH will take an active role in assisting the Commission regarding the issues surrounding violence against boys and men. Everyday we see the impact on men caused by the gender bias that is frequently present in provision of services and compassionate understanding.
We see the impact on boys who are beginning to believe that they are going to grow up to be “bad men”, because of the gender bias they observe and experience as young children.
After a while, if society only hears one version of the ”truth” they begin to believe that it is the only truth…we hope that this Commission will bring another perspective forward that needs to be considered.
Depression, isolation, suicide, stress related illnesses, emotional trauma, homelessness and other issues have a serious impact on the men and boys who go without the services and care provided to women and girls…it is time to “take gender out” of these issues and ”put humanity in”!

We hope that those in our State who have been prejudiced against the formation of this Commission will eventually see it as a good thing for all of us who enjoy the “quality of life” in NH and want to make sure that ALL of our citizens have the chance to pursue that as well!

Please use this link to voice your opinions or show support for this important Commission!
"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/29/0639254.shtml

Schwarzenegger Sellout?

Scott · 30 November 2003 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "It looks like the Terminator may need a new bionic backbone. Schwarzenegger paroles a female murderer because she shows remorse and promises not to do it again." The article also mentions that he has paroled a man convicted of a murder and denied parole to a man who killed a woman in a drunk driving accident.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/30/1926223.shtml

CBC Article on the Gender Gap in Schools

Scott · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has an article on their website about the current gender gap for male youths in terms of reading. It states that the current gap for reading in favour of girls is twice as large as the (now closed) gap for maths and sciences that used to favour boys. It also states that contrary to popular belief boys are not "catching up" to girls as they get older in their reading skills."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/30/1927256.shtml

The Christian Comments were authored by me.

Hombre · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

I'd just like to clear up for the record that the men who submitted the recent articles containing remarks about the "Christian Domestic Violence industry", (Paul and Ray), were not the authors of those remarks.

I added those comments to their submitted articles solely as an attempt to demonstrate a point through analogy and not as a serious attack on Christianity, (I am a Christian after all). I am dissappointed that those remarks were taken as a serious attack, in part because I believe some of the people who did so knew better and wanted to capitalize on the un-PC quality of those remarks when taken seriously. These are people I would have expected better from.

If anyone really was truly offended by what they felt was some kind of religious slur then I apologize and hope that I've cleared up any misunderstandings. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/01/0144234.shtml

The Mankind Project New Warrior Training

Scott · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

JohnC. writes "
Are you looking for a challenge like none other that you have ever faced? Then have we got a weekend for you. The ManKind Project sponsors the New Warrior Training Adventure, an intense educational training presented over the course of a forty-eight hour period. The ManKind Project is an organization of men working together to improve their lives and help other men. The New Warrior Training Adventure is where this starts."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/30/1930233.shtml

False accuser to be charged

Hombre · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

The Gonzo Kid writes "The Detroit Free Press reports that one Nicole Milburn is to be charged with a felony in connection to a September 17 incident. Apparently Ms. Milburn had consensual and protected sex with one of Scotty Anderson's teammates, stole $700 from Scotty, and was trying to inseminate herself with used condoms. According to Mike Dugan, the prosecutor, this was "apparently, either to hopefully cause herself to be pregnant and have a child support claim, or potentially, as it turned out, possibly to support a rape claim." Read the story here at the DFP, and marvel. Hopefully this will become a trend."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/01/0225222.shtml

Parents Bristle at AttornGen child support Crackdown

D · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Stephanie Frostic writes "Some parents bristle at attorney general's child support crackdown

By ALEXANDRA R. MOSES
The Associated Press
11/9/03 9:18 AM

LANSING, Mich. (AP)

""Cox says his PayKids initiative is focusing on those parents who can pay support but don't, not on those who can't afford to pay.""

""""They're taking away custody and only giving visitation. ... Then there isn't a relationship there, it's all about money," says Stephanie Frostic, 30, who pays support for a son from her previous marriage.""

For the full story:
Read Here

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/01/0418237.shtml

Using hate speech to promote business

D · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

LeMorteMark writes "I found a link where a woman claims:
"Today, these fathers rights groups, many of which have posted on their website that they feel women are second class citizens and even should not have the power to vote".

I don't recall ever seeing a father's rights website that says women should not have the right to vote. As I read further, I realized that the true motivation for these sexist lies was the promotion of a "facial exercise" business.

I wonder how much sexism and bigotry this woman is willing to promote to sell her useless crap.

Here's the link so you know what I'm talking about:
Here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/01/0422247.shtml

Men's Movement: Legitimate Grievances?

D · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

In recent years men's and fathers' issues have exploded on the web, including on websites such as MensNewsDaily.com and Mensactivism.org. Are these and other prominent men's sites the beginnings of a coming civil rights movement? Or are they merely a forum for the grumbling and petty complaints of a privileged class?

Tom Sylvester of the Institute for American Values and MensNewsDaily columnist Bernard Chapin debated the virtues and vices of the men's movement on His Side with Glenn Sacks on Sunday, November 23. To listen to the show archive, go to http://hisside.com/11_23_03.htm>

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/01/0425228.shtml

A woman was convicted of kidnapping

D · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

ahhkaboom writes "SANTA FE, N.M. - A woman faces 18 years in prison for plotting an attack in which four of her friends assaulted and attempted to savagely castrate her ex-boyfriend.

read here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/01/0428246.shtml

U.S. News: A "gender gap" in Cardiovascular Disease

Scott · 1 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "U.S. News & World Report has a feature called "The End of Heart Disease" in its December 1 edition. This issue has a graphic on page 42 titled "SEX AND DEATH - a gender gap in cardiovascular disease." This graphic implies that women are at a disadvantage as they suffer more cardiovascular deaths than men. This is misleading as men (on average) die of their heart attacks several years before women. [Note: the online version didn't have this graphic]."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/11/30/2025243.shtml

A strong stand against the DV industry

Hombre · 2 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Cathy Young has done it again. She has outlined in a prominent Boston Globe article how the domestic violence Industry is based on the false premise that violence happens as a result of "patriarchal norms" and not because of personal psychological reasons, and that the current "lock 'em up" dogma that plagues average non-violent men in our society is tragically flawed. Linda G. Mills (of New York University, a professor of law and social work and author of the new book) book "From Insult to Injury: Rethinking Our Responses to Intimate Abuse" addresses the flawed dogma of the DV industry. The current ideology that views all men as wolves and all women as lambs is too deeply entrenched in society needs to be heard by politicians, judges, prosecutors and many others. It took the "mainstream" feminists about 30 years to establish their monopoly on the public debate about domestic violence. Mills' book may be the first step in dismantling that monopoly. Lets show our support for the book and to the Boston Globe for publishing this brave article. Lets get behind this one!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/02/0132240.shtml

Linda Mills on Domestic Violence

Thomas · 2 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

I've decided to list this link separately, rather than mentioning it under the Cathy Young article's post, so that the maximum number of people will see it. Professor Mills provides some valuable insights into the complex problem of domestic violence. One of them is how often shaming tactics are used against men who are victims of DV.

If I were investing in a social movement today, I wouldn't put my hard earned cash into shares of mainstream feminism.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/02/1831211.shtml

'Grope' Gripe

Thomas · 3 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

I'm posting a link to this article, because I think it shows where we are headed in the near future or, perhaps, where we've already arrived.

Now that the courts as well as the general public are becoming aware of the fact that some women lie about being assaulted or otherwise victimized, I suspect we will soon see an increasing number of cases like this, where the woman claims the man abused her and the man claims the woman abused him and government entities find it's in their interest to side with the man.

It was so easy, when we all knew that women never lie about being assaulted (sarcasm off). I can't tell you how often I've been told, "No woman would ever lie about being assaulted by a man," though I haven't heard that one for a couple years.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/02/1953225.shtml

Citigroup's womenandco.com

Hombre · 3 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Citigroup has a program open to women only called Women and Company. Members receive a wide range of benefeits from Citigroup associates such as Citibank, Smith Barney, and Travelers Insurance. Benefeits include a hotline for financial planning advice and discounts for childcare services for mom (sorry, dad). Surprisingly, members have access to lower interest rates for home mortgages, auto loans and student loans. The rationale for all of this is the 76.3 cents per every dollar a man earns argument."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/03/0712220.shtml

Essay on Feminism at the DLJ

Hombre · 4 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "I've got an essay on feminism up at the DLJ

It is a somewhat different viewpoint than I've taken before. Take a look!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/04/0655202.shtml

Judge feels the heat

Hombre · 4 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "As reported in The Age,

The Chief Justice of the Family Court has accused a federal MP of attempting to intimidate him by calling for his resignation amid a heated public debate over child custody.

Chris Pearce, Liberal MP for the eastern Melbourne seat of Aston and a member of the parliamentary committee examining reforms to joint custody law, said yesterday Chief Justice Alastair Nicholson should step down because he had unduly tried to influence the committee.

A prominent parenting lobby group, the Shared Parenting Council of Australia, joined the call for Justice Nicholson's resignation."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/04/070211.shtml

Life-Gap Awareness Day

Hombre · 4 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Henry Vincent writes "I'd like to propose that Dec. 7 be recognized as Life-Gap Awareness Day. Men in the Western world die on average 5-6 years earlier than women. This works out to around 24 days a year less that men have to live than women. The number of days from Dec. 7 to the start of the new year would represent the difference in the amount of lifespan between men and women each year.

Anyone think this is a good idea?"

Sounds like a great way to get the message out to me.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/04/076239.shtml

media injustice

Hombre · 4 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "While people might differ about the importance of the phrase "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance, everyone should agree that it's a tragedy for fathers to be turned into wallets and be legally deprived of the opportunity to be a father. Yet the fact that the guy in this case cares about his daughter is being used in a front-page Washington Post article (Dec. 2, "An Allegiance to Dissent") to portray him as a weirdo! Here's my response to the Post:"

Click "Read More" for the text of the very well-written letter."Your front-page story, "An Allegiance to Dissent," (Dec. 2), associates Michael Newdow's challenge to the phrase "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance with his battle for custody of his daughter. This story associates these two issues with vague insinuations of character flaws while trivializing neglected stories important to your readers.

The story insinuates that "California atheist" Newdow is a weirdo and a congenital troublemaker. He "has a restless, uncompromising mind, a mind that dissents radically from many widely accepted aspects of American life." He says that the whole system of family law is "a crock of dung." The first two paragraphs of the story set up a freakish (?) contrast between Newdow representing himself in family court and him participating once a week in co-parenting classes. The story notes that Newdow objects to gender-specific pronouns: "Newdow uses 'ree' instead of 'he' or 'she,' and 'rees' instead of 'his' or her.'" The story suggests that he's an "out-of-control epitome of the Me generation," someone seeking "a right to be fastidiously self-indulgent and intolerant." Towards the end of the article, a reader might notice that Newdow, who once personally was worth $3 million, may go bankrupt, and that he is spreading himself very thin working on causes not directly related to his own personal welfare. Perhaps that's just more evidence of his selfishness.

What's so bizarre about Newdow and his situation? He is a man who realizes that men in the U.S. today have no reproductive rights whatsoever. The Post runs countless front-page articles about restrictions on partial birth abortion and their grave implications of such laws for women's lives. Meanwhile, the Post does its part to maintain total media silence about men who face an unplanned pregnancy. Simply by virtue of having reproductive-type sex, men can suffer, under the strictures of U.S. family law, harsh financial penalties ("child support payments"), emotional distress, and prison sentences. Such a result could follow from an unplanned pregnancy in which a woman does not choose to have an abortion, does not choose give the baby up for adoption, does not choose to abandon the child, and chooses, sometime in the next 18 years, to identify the father. Image someone who dissents from this widely accepted aspect of American life!

But it's worse than that. In addition to being legally required to pay child support, Newdow loves his daughter and likes to be able to see her. But a judge, who considers himself to be the authority on the best interests of Newdow's child, has told Newdow that if he doesn't get along with his ex-girlfriend, Newdow won't be allowed to see his daughter. Your reporter might have asked if the judge requires Newdow to regularly compliment his ex-girlfriend's hairstyle in order for Newdow to be able to see his daughter. Or perhaps just invite her over for dinner occasionally? The judge ruled that Newdow could not involve his daughter in the case without his ex-girlfriend's consent. Without his ex-girlfriend's consent, such involvement would present a risk to the girls' "health and safety"; with his ex-girlfriend's consent, such risk evidently vanishes. A widely accepted aspect of America life is for men to accept that in a divorce, their children will be taken from them and they will be transformed into nothing more than a source of money. Image dissenting from sexism in child custody cases and family law transforming fathers into wallets!

This story indicates that the Washington Post simply accepts that males are second-class citizens and cares nothing for the real injustices that men face today. The Post needs to make its reporters sensitive to men's issues. I suggest, for a start, that your reporters regularly read Glenn J. Sacks columns, available at www.glennjsacks.com While there are legions of "feminist" columnists, Sacks is one of the few journalists who writes about gender issues from a male perspective. Your paper needs to become aware of that perspective, or it will rapidly lose the respect of its readers."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/04/0713213.shtml

Vote for Spiderman

Thomas · 5 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes:
Vote Spiderman, AKA Dave Chick, as London's Personality of the Year!

I put in my vote,

The Biscuit Queen

Thomas writing now -- The Biscuit Queen/jenk has informed me that they are only seeking votes from Europeans.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/05/1645226.shtml

Petition

Thomas · 5 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "Here is a petition to instate mysandry as a hate crime.

The more the merrier.The Biscuit Queen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/05/1850202.shtml

A Female Rapist !@@!?

Thomas · 5 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "We so rarely see the coarsest of terms applied to women accused of sexual misconduct, so I thought I'd submit this article. It's statutory rape, but rape nonetheless, and the newspaper actually called her a rapist*!"*

Thomas writing now: Slowly... slowly, we are having an effect.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/05/1823211.shtml

Flumist ads

Thomas · 6 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "FluMist has been running misandrist ads showing that a mother with the flu means the house falls into complete chaos with inept fathers. Here are some contacts, let them know how you feel.

Media Contacts:

Jamie Lacey

MedImmune, Inc.

240.632.4035

Douglas Petkus

Wyeth

484.865.5140

Investor Contacts:

William Roberts

MedImmune, Inc.

301.527.4358

Justin R. Victoria

Wyeth

973.660.5340"

Thomas writing now: Please note that, while I have a great deal of respect for Jenk, unless I saw the ad myself, any letter that I wrote would contain a statement such as "though I haven't seen it, I understand that you are circulating an ad depicting fathers as bumbling fools. Rest assured that, if I ever do see such an ad for your products, I will never purchase any of your products again."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/05/1837225.shtml

Kidnapping mom gets back custody

Thomas · 6 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

NOTE (Thomas writing now): I've fixed the bad link in the original post. (Sorry for any inconvenience.) If you tried to view the article and gave up, please try again. It's an interesting read.

jenk writes The former Gwinnett school teacher who three years ago fled to the Cayman Islands with her children, only to lose them to their father earlier this year when authorities returned her to the United States, got them back in a Fulton court Tuesday.

Fulton County Superior Court Judge John J. Goger overturned an earlier order that had given custody of Emily and Jeffrey Taylor Weeks to their father, Jeff Weeks. In a decision late Tuesday morning, Goger gave primary custody of the children back to Joyce Williams, 35, of Sugar Hill, claiming he had misgivings about their father's character.

Thomas writing again: This case may be of concern to both men's rights activists and gay/lesbian/bi-sexual rights activists.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/05/2149237.shtml

This is really old, but still....

Adam · 7 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Boy Genteel writes "...not old enough for me to say she's living in the Stone Age. Page down to a column by Stephanie Mencimer. If we want to tell her how we feel about her, though, it may require some detective work. This is like a copy of a copy of a copy."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/07/2144203.shtml

Susan B. Anthony: Lucifer's Babe?

Adam · 7 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This is the last of the Susan B. Anthony series for now. See it at MensNewsDaily.com, or read the whole series at this site. Or post a reply under the copy of the latest at this site. Feel free to post a whole copy on your Web site (exactly as is, with the links and list of references as shown here), with credit and an e-mail to the author, Art Lemasters, and with a link back to the series at this site or here. Enjoy!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/07/2146211.shtml

New York City Comprimising men's bathrooms

Adam · 8 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

SJones writes "The city council of New York has decided to order that all new buildings proved 2 women's bathrooms for every 1 men's bathroom. Their justification is that it willl 'benefit men too because when you are standing holding her packages it won't take as long for her to come back.' This is the lamest excuse for blatant anti-male sexism they could possibly come up with.

Also, they offer that builders can be put in compliance by simply eliminating existing men's bathrooms or converting them into women's bathrooms.

The story is here"

Notice the bill is called "The Restroom Equity Bill" I was unware that Equity consisted of twice as much as everybody else. And since I'm in a sideswipe mood: Yvette Clarke, the woman behind it, said""We don't have the same type of equipment that you men have and it requires gentle procedures. At certain times that's much more time consuming." That's what this is all about: A woman resents a man's natural ability, and seeks to criminalize him for it. Alot like a certain ideology I could name.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/07/2157223.shtml

Boy Genteel published

Hombre · 8 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Boy Genteel writes "Article>>

I was responding to a column on the diminishing numbers for young males watching television.

bg"

Great work Brian!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/1858222.shtml

If the shoe doesn't fit, get foot changed for whistles!

Hombre · 8 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Does the average woman want to get whistled at in the street, willing to go to such lengths as cosmetic foot surgery to get such attention? A doctor quoted in this article (search on "whistle") seems to think so.

Wasn't men whistling at women in the street a complaint feminists had about men in the 60's and 70s? Or is it now something some of them want?

Such complex times!

BTW, I submitted this under "Media" because no other topic seemed to fit it; one thing I will say was good about this article and decidedly un-NYTimes-like was that it did not have the "obligatory" interview with a "women's advocate" blaming the whole thing on "patriarchal oppression" and somesuch babblings. But the bad thing is that it suggests men (categorically) whistle at women on the street. I have seen sych whistling only a few times, sometimes by women at men. But it is not a regular thing, at least in my experience, to view such happenings."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/195235.shtml

Innocent - Until Proven Guilty

Hombre · 8 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes ""Don't be so quick to judge in Bryant case," is a letter to the editor of the San Diego Union-Tribune, written back in July, but is still a timely read. A growing number of men in the movement are beginning to speak up and get published. Let us hope this continues and becomes a trend. A little media objectivity would be a refreshing change."

Note - The letter is about two thirds of the way down the page.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/1912220.shtml

Police cripple teen over offroad permit

Hombre · 8 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Doctor Damage writes "A young man is confined to a wheelchair and his hopes of a career in aviation are more than likely permanently dashed following an incident of police brutality after a misunderstanding over a permit to take his pickup offroad. The article can be found here and it is being discussed at LibertyForum

Anyone think this incident would have been so egregiously mishandled if the young man were a young woman?"

But haven't feminists taught us that men in power treat other men better than they treat women? In this enlightened age, don't we understand that simply because the officer who savagely attacked the boy was a man his actions therefore represent men's interests?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/2014215.shtml

Penetration Kills

Hombre · 9 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

P George writes " Here is a short article on AIDS. The arctile summary says "Latest AIDS statistics point to sexual and syringe intromission as the vectors of contamination of a disease that disproportionately cuts down women, gays and racially-despised minorities. Created in Quebec by Montreal men against sexism, this logo attempts to raise the issue of penetration as cultural icon."

Now if you go to the bottom of the page it gives a link to the National Institue of Health. Near the top of the page it says "Approximately 50 percent of adults living with HIV/AIDS worldwide are women.", which means the other 50% are men! Then further down the page under the heading " HIV/AIDS in the US" and exactly right above the statistics that these "men against sexism" cut and pasted it says "Approximately 40,000 new HIV infections occur each year in the United States, about 70 percent among men and 30 percent among women." Whose being the sexist here?

Then click on their attached file. It's a picture of a red no smoking sign with a syringe turning into a penis. On the sides it says "Penetration Kills" followed by the inside saying "Montreal men against sexism"! I can't articulate on how this sign is misandry but I can't imagine a similar sign with a vagina that says "cavern of chlamydia" or something. This seems like purely Hate propaganda to demonize men. Why would they do this? What do you guys think?"

I agree with you that the sign is misandrous, and the reason I would call it that is it clearly focuses on the penis as an object of hate and fear, while implying everyone with a penis, (and only those with a penis), is responsible for the spreading of STDs. As to the question of why they would do that, well some people may not be aware of this but in addition to ourselves and groups like the NCFM, ACFC, etc. there is also a fake men's movement. A movement which purports to oppose sexism and care about the issues which effect men but is really just composed of self-hating male feminists. Men Against Sexism is a group which fits this category, and I would bet that the Montreal Men Against Sexism is just a division of that group. A brief perusal of their homepage should tell you what they're about, and why they would actively try to demonize men.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/2032250.shtml

Let's get together

Thomas · 9 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

nick writes "Might I suggest that all men opposed to feminism and other forms of political correctness visit www.traditionalmen.meetup.com . This is part of the www.meetup.com website.

Meetup.com is a brilliant, simple and free (!) website which allows like-minded people to meet up in their home town, wherever in the world this might be. If you visit the site you will understand how this works. There are pages devoted to all sorts of interests and categories and I have persuaded them to start a category for men opposed to feminism and political correctness, which I have called 'Traditional Men'.

If you are a 'traditional man' please join up so that we can all meet up, have a few drinks and discuss issues of interest to us among like-minded friends. Also, if you know anyone else who might be interested in this idea please pass this message on to them too.

Let's fight the good fight – and have fun doing it!

Nick"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/1947258.shtml

Dads vow to storm courts

Hombre · 9 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Our counterparts in Great Britain are making quite a show these days. Can men in the U.S., Canada, Australia, and elsewhere learn from the bold and dramatic tactics of these men, or are they merely committing futile and foolish acts of desperation?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/09/0258237.shtml

Girls enforce gender roles by framing boy

Hombre · 9 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

I'm guessing they were jealous because he was getting a bigger fan reaction than they were. Whatever the reason, the future NOW members of the Pasco High School cheerleading squad demonstrated their support for diversity by allegedly framing the only boy in order to get him expelled so they can have an all girl squad. One of the girls who attends church with some of the cheerleaders says she heard them plotting...

"I heard (a cheerleader) state to these two other girls that she was going to find a way to get Johnathan kicked off the cheerleading squad because he was a boy," she said. Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/09/0311253.shtml

McElroy's Latest Fox News Column Exposes Anti-Male

Hombre · 10 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "Wendy McElroy's recent FoxNews.com article discusses the use of discretion in holiday charity giving and domestic violence shelters, a major factor being their policies toward males. She mentions NCFM, and in particular mentions Deborah Watkins' (leader of Dallas/Fort Worth NCFM chapter) Homeless Project and Mask Project! McElroy also linked Glenn Sacks' Daily Breeze article about NCFM's civil rights lawsuit against DV shelters (click on "women only policy"). Thank you Wendy!

Marc"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/10/0414212.shtml

Another female bomber

Hombre · 10 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Add another one to the list, but remember that when you speak of suicide bombers, always use the pronoun "he".

Moscow Female Bomber"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/10/0418232.shtml

Anti-peonage Posters

Hombre · 10 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "
Here is a site with war posters reworked to fit the anti-peonage movement. Some are very clever, and worth putting up. The Biscuit Queen"

Note - Peonage refers to the imprisonment or forced labor of debtors.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/10/0432257.shtml

Mensactivism.org Temporary Shutdown

Scott · 10 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Both the Mensactivism.org web server and mail server will be unavailable beginning Friday, December 12. Downtime is expected to be up to one week until the servers are relocated. I wish I could have planned this better, but the shutdown is required. Thanks for your patience and understanding.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/08/2052239.shtml

You Just Can't Keep a Good MANN Down!

Scott · 23 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Well, we're back, even if it is a bit late :). The server is in its new home and we should have some more bandwidth to boot. Thanks, everyone, for being so patient during the outage!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/22/2126249.shtml

NCFM-DC gets word out on Joe Farah

Hombre · 23 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Week-end before last, some restless misandry-despising members of NCFM-DC decided to get the word out on man-hater Joe Farah. Read about it, see the pics at the NCFM-DC home page.

Misandrists be warned: we are not going away!

Happy holidays, all, and I am so glad this site is back up!

-Matt"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/23/1617206.shtml

Father's 4 Justice protesters being charged.

Hombre · 23 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

It seems that UK police are demonstrating a pattern in dealing with the F4J civil rights crusaders. A recent demonstration in which five campaigners dressed as Santa and held signs on a walkway above a major road resulted in police assuming they were dangerous, closing the road to traffic, and then charging them with being a public nuisance. Article here.

However unlike the case with David Chick, (aka spiderman), there was no crane or any other impediment to the police simply walking up and arresting them. So why was the road closed? Is this the UK police force's way of trying to bias the populace against father's rights protestors, by making them think they "force" roads to be closed? Would the actions of the protestors be legal under UK law had police not decided traffic needed to be diverted thus causing the Santas to become a public nuisance?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/23/1645205.shtml

Mass protest hits London

Hombre · 23 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Fathers 4 Justice, the tireless father's rights crusaders in the UK, staged a repeat of last years Santa protest when 200 members dressed as Santa Clause to present Minister Margaret Hodge with a 6 foot turkey. Details here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/23/1711209.shtml

Recognizing genuine differences?

Adam · 24 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Doctor Damage writes "Apparently the answer to the question in the subject is "equality". At least, this is what the president of Australian Women Lawyers, Jennifer Batrouney, SC is quoted as claiming in this article at the Sydney Morning Herald.

The whole quote goes like this:

> But the president of Australian Women Lawyers, Jennifer Batrouney, SC, says affirmative action is needed because "equality involves the recognition of genuine difference and, where it exists, different treatment".

I keep seeing this stuff and like the feminists of the 80s used to do, I just shake my head and say: they just don't get it.
When are they going to figure out that equality does not involve the granting of priveliged status for favored groups?"

Anybody else notice how she says equality and different in the same sentance? Oh yeah, no double standards there rolls eyes skyward

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/24/1831251.shtml

Men's Issues - Valid Grievances, or Just "Whining?"

Adam · 24 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Are today's activist men, in today's men's movement, following, lock step in the same "whining," complaining patterns of the "militant feminists of past decades as this author would have us believe, or are they marching to the tune of a different drummer with valid issues completely unique to the real oppressions they are facing? Is their activism just "whining" or do they really have valid grievances?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/24/1835211.shtml

Women Pass Men in White Collar Jobs

Hombre · 26 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "For the first time since tracking began 20 years ago, U.S. women outnumber men in higher paying, white collar managerial and professional occupations. The gap will continue because of a self-perpetuating cycle of workplace gains for women, according to international outplacment firm Chicago-based Challenger, Gray & Christmas.
Article here."

In the younger groups, women far outnumber men in these positions. It's only because many older women have chosen to be housewives that it's even close.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/25/2054238.shtml

Britain's first safe house for battered men

Hombre · 26 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "Britain's first safe house for battered men is to open in secret over the New Year. So far: 1 for men, 426 for women. Women's Aid wants to double the number for women, that's equality for you! "There should be at least 70 refuges for men." Full article at Battered men get their own refuge From the Men's Hour Blog"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/25/2057214.shtml

A Victory for the Men's Movement

Hombre · 26 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes... "Bon Macy's has pulled T-shirts which say "Boys are Stupid--Throw Rocks at Them" after a storm of protest led by men's advocates. To learn more, see Wendy McElroy's "Christmas in a War Zone" and MND Newswire's "Bon-Macy's Pulls Anti-Boy Shirts as His Side Listeners Flood Store with Calls, E-Mails" at "Bon-Macy's Pulls Anti-Boy Shirts as His Side Listeners Flood Store with Calls, E-Mails"

Good work and thanks to everyone who was involved in this protest, and a special thanks to Glenn Sacks for letting the public know about it. Great job!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/25/213234.shtml

ADFORUM

Hombre · 26 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

bledso writes "This site provides information on advertising and advertising agency's. It could be an excellent resource when misandric ads pop up, as they always do. http://www.adforum.com/"

Thanks Bledso, I think this will prove very useful over time and encourage others interested in media misandry to add it to their bookmarks.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/25/2112232.shtml

For Battered Men the Battering Never Ends!

Hombre · 27 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Happy holidays to battered men. Here's a rather plaintiff letter from a male victim of domestic violence.

What I wondered about most was, "Why did this man feel compelled to not identify himself, by name, with the horrible treatment he lived/lives through?" Do you think America should treat this man/all men with more understanding and compassion, or should they just continue showing men the "get tough or die" formula that the D.V. industry, and most of America, now shows to its battered men?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/27/1739228.shtml

Male Bashing on Television

Hombre · 27 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Jack Thomas, Jr. writes "I am so pleased to see a web site dedicated to men fighting back in a society gone berserk under the guise of "feminism" and "women's rights".

I am becoming more and more distressed each day as I witness the continuous, blatant and unrelenting bashing and discarding of men, especially white men, on television. It is very obvious on sitcoms and tabloid/talk shows, but I think it is the worst on commercials. I suppose that it is because they only have 60 seconds to complete their task, which is to make a guy look foolish, inane, and lacking intelligence and to completely destroy his self-respect and image as the head of the household.

The vast majority of television commercials now have a new purpose. Not to sell a product, but to show how many ways a man can be belittled, humiliated and shown to be an inept, blithering idiot to the delight of a "superior" in-your-face female.

There are two things I don't understand about this. The first is why the sponsors approve of and buy this garbage, which is supposedly designed to make the entire population, which I believe still technically includes us "lowly" men, buy their product or service. Do they feel that men are so incapable of making intelligent decisions, have no control over purchasing, and are so are totally inane, that it doesn't matter that the commercials make such fools of us day after day? I keep a list of commercials that offend me in this respect and I refuse the buy their products. If more and more guys did this, believe me, this insane mindset would disappear."

It's a tough battle. Women control 80% of all consumer dollars. Much like the idiotic, clumsy, ape-like, lazy black Jim Crow charicatures promoted a century ago to appeal to the elitist white dollar, the idiotic, clumsy, ape-like, lazy man charicatures promoted today are designed to appeal to the elitist female dollar. The first "Secret" deodorant commercial really exposed just how profitable appeals to female elitism are when their product was yanked out of the hands of a man (filmed in black and white with his face kept off the screen), by a woman, (filmed in color), as the message "made for us" was narrated. Other deodorants, whose commercials showed women or men picking up the deodorant off of the shelf and made no attempts to dehumanize the men by hiding their faces got clobbered by Secret deodorant. In addition to these "women violating the rights of insignificant men who submissively let them" types of ads Hallmark's Shoebox division came out in the early 90s appealing to female elitism by making horribly anti-male greeting cards, often depicting sexual abuse of men as humor. These cards outsold all the other Mother's Day, Birthday, and Christmas cards, (the ones that weren't produced by Shoebox), quickly becoming the most profitable division for Hallmark. There's a lot of money in appealing to the female supremacist majority, and when even most men can't see that Homer Simpson is identical to the charicature of "Sambo" from the Jim Crow days given a bleach job you know misandry has become so infiltrated into the social code as to be invisible.

See read more below for the rest of Jack's article.Continued... "Secondly, don't the guys see what is happening before their eyes? Why are the men of this country allowing this to continue? Ricardo Montalban had the Frito Bandito removed from the air because the cartoon character cast a slightly negative image on the Hispanic population by being a bandit. That was incredibly minuscule compared to what is happening today. Where are the white Ricardo Montalban's looking out for the interest of white men today?

Every sitcom has the exact same scenario. Find a loudmouth, liberated, angry, "victimized" female who can cross her arms and roll her eyes and a man whose every remark is intentionally designed as fuel for her rebukes and insults and there you have it…entertainment television of the 21st century! If you don't believe that, watch any new sitcom.

To the delight of the studio audience, the predominant theme used for daytime tabloid and talk shows is "Boo hoo hoo, look what a man did to me, boo hoo hoo. How can he be destroyed?"

"TV Land" cannot even promo it's reruns of "Father Knows Best" without inserting a disclaimer, "Not always, of course".

A program can no longer have a male host alone. There now must be a female "co-host" whose mission is to out talk him, be heard above him and to be the center of attention. And, of course, to put him down at every opportunity.

And, of course, females have taken over reporting the news. Men are only used now as background and filler and someone to be shown as being subservient to the female anchor. Watch CNN for 30 seconds to see this.

There is a "voodoo" commercial seemingly aired every 10 minutes by Progressive.com. The supposedly jilted female uses her computer and voodoo to completely humiliate and destroy a guy. I complained to the company about this blatant male bashing and the female's response was that it was a humorous way to sell their product, which is insurance, and that it would continue. Am I missing something here? Are men going to buy insurance because they enjoy watching a guy being relentlessly sexually humiliated to the delight of this revengeful female? I think not!

If anything offensive is presented about females, the feminists groups immediately jump on it and it is rebuked. And, of course, nothing negative or offensive can be written about blacks. But it is open season on white men. Anything and everything negative can be said and no one says a word. It is time for this injustice to end.

And, after all this, women still expect chivalry and "ladies first". No, I don't think so.

I think it is time that we men stood up and said loudly, ENOUGH IS ENOUGH! Men need to contact the sponsors who air this trash and let them know that they are not going to buy their products. And to contact the commercial studios who produce this garbage and let them know that men have had enough.

If females want to wear the pants in the family, drive the big trucks and SUVs in order to feel powerful, be "equal" on a 60-40 basis and be the dominator of men, then let's see some commercials where their fat rear ends or tiny breasts are the subject of male ridicule and jocularity and where females are routinely disdained and casually discarded like yesterday's trash and see how long THEY stay on the air.

Jack Thomas, Jr."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/27/1850222.shtml

League of Men Voters

Hombre · 27 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "The League of Women Voters and Emily's List have been part of an effort to increase the female vote over the last few decades. While men and women voted in roughly equal numbers in the early 1960s, there was an 8 million vote deficit for men by the 2000 election. This 15% gap cannot be good for democracy. Fortunately, a long overdue League of Men Voters was created earlier this year to address this problem.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/27/1856246.shtml

VIP/SAFE-NH in the News!

Hombre · 27 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Lee Newman writes "
Please read the Portsmouth Herald Sunday News either here or at the VIP-NH website and feel free to voice your opinions on it.

We are starting to get alot of positive attention and wehave high hopes for the New Year...things WILL change.

Happy Holidays!

Lee Newman

Founding Executive Director:Violence Intervention Program/SAFE-NH"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/27/192212.shtml

Men's Activism Regular gets Net-Published

Adam · 28 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

The Gonzo Kid writes "I wanted to wait and see if it would work out to something of a regular gig, but Mike LaSalle over at Men's News Daily has generously invited me to pitch my soapbox over there on a semi-regular basis. Check out the columns by Pete Jensen, aka yours truly."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/28/1725245.shtml

Hope for Husbands?

Adam · 28 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "A helpline for victimised husbands is now operative in the Indian city of Bangalore. There is definitely a growing awareness about false accusations in India. Is the tide turning? Read it

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/28/1728249.shtml

Shattered Glass Ceiling....

Adam · 29 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Well, what will the fems think about this report? Keep this bit of ammo bookmarked, fellas, as it will come in handy dandy on those days when you encounter fems attempting to perpetuate their full slate of shrill rhetoric. The bigger action to be taken, however, is to reverse the trend in education. Time to take up ranks and make our voices heard!!!! The Shark."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/29/1756223.shtml

Testimony From Hell

Hombre · 29 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Dr. David Reiser gives a very moving and profound description of the misandric judicial system and in particular its insane practice of issuing draconian restraining orders at the whim of a vindictive ex wife.

This is an excellent article that describes what really goes on in the "belly of the beast." After reading this, one begins to see the futility of chasing tyrants in Iraq when very corrupt and evil bastards are right here at home infesting our judicial system and destroying our families and civilization."

As Nick Danger once penned referring to women, "It's their country, let them defend it." As the system continues to trample more and more men they're going to realize that perhaps compared to losing their children, becoming wage slaves, and the presumption of guilty when they face certain kinds of accusations maybe a four finger beard wouldn't be so bad after all.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/29/1843230.shtml

NYTimes.com: Women In Prison

Hombre · 29 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Just look at this!

"Poor Dearism" run amok. Still, they did make some points that they would not have made 20 years ago re the fact that women are committing more crimes than before because of the opportunities to do so. Somehow though, I imagine observers will find ways to make men the fall guys.

But I have to say that this one quote:

"'When you arrest a woman, you are also disrupting the lives of her children,' said Ann Jacobs, executive director of the Women's Prison Association, a New York organization that helps female inmates and their families" realllly makes me see RED!!! I mean, when you arrest a man, same thing happens, yes?? What a load of &()^%^(!!!"

Perhaps this calls for a few letters to the editor at letters@nytimes.com? See this page for a guide to writing them.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/29/1859206.shtml

Accusation of harassment and the response

Adam · 29 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "A former Miss Universe and currently a top model has accused a senior executive of Coca Cola India of sexual harassment. Reaction from the Indian advertising industry is that of disbelief. Happily, the media has been restrained in its treatment of the issue without the usual `guilty until proven innocent' attitude.
link here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/29/1758200.shtml

Woman kills pregnant woman

Hombre · 30 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "I am quite surprised they didn't suppress

this story.

I am sure she will use some kind of "defense" now well-known to many and all. But that the victim was another woman may just lead the sheeple dealing with this one to actually put her away. Well, we can hope."

Notice the story spent more time talking about how much Effie really wanted a baby of her own than on the details of the murder. Oh well, at least they didn't blame her husband yet.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/30/1840228.shtml

Family court euphemisms that make good sign slogan

Hombre · 30 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Please publish the following euphemisms that are related to the mistreatment of men in family court. These euphemisms make good sign slogans as well "fodder" for letters to the editor to your area newspapers. Note: Are you part of a local men and fathers' group? If not, you should be."

See read more below for euphemismsSave these familiar euphemisms to your file:

Petitioner - Mother,

Respondent - Father,

Plaintiff - Mother,

Defendant - Father,

Obligee - Mother,

Obligor - Father,

Judgment Creditor - Mother,

Judgment Debtor - Father,

CP - Mother,

NCP - Father,

Agreed to pay - Ordered to pay,

Willfully ignored his obligation - He is unemployed,

Has the ability to pay - We assume he must have assets,

Your arguments are not well founded - You're the father, stop trying to get fairness,

We are obligated to give you annual notice - This is the only due process notification you'll see,

It's for the children - Your ex-wife gets the money,

Mandatory Mediation - Mediated agreements only apply to fathers,

Imputed Incomes - Father higher than actual, mother lower than actual,

Address of Record - Where we'll serve you with legal notices,

IV-D Services - Mothers only need apply,

Former Family - Your ex-wife and children,

Private Attorneys - What fathers need,

Federal Registry and New Hire Directory - How we track down fathers, Wage Withholding - We don't trust you to pay on your own,

Arrearage Garnishment - Our records are screwed up,

Grievance Procedure - How fathers can complain, but we don't care,

Consent Decree - We got caught screwing fathers,

CS Guidelines - Payment schedule for fathers,

Guideline Reviews - We've already made up our mind, but take a chance anyway,

Privacy Safeguards - Your ex is hiding your children from you,

Federal Legislation - We only screw you because the feds say we have to,

Assignment of Support - You ex is on welfare,

Support Enforcement Division - Nothing here for fathers, Department of Human Resources - Nothing here for fathers either,

District Attorney - Not a father's friend, beware,

Presumption of Inability to Pay - Mothers on welfare never pay, they just collect benefits,

Reasonable and seasonal visitation - Whatever your ex-wife says you can have,

Modification - You earn more now so we're increasing the CS,

Change of Circumstance - What you consider as significant really isn't,

CS Accounting Unit - Where we launder the money to collect our federal bonus checks

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/30/1846238.shtml

I give up

Adam · 31 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

zenpriest writes "I really do give up. The undisputed queen of yuppie kvetching, Naomi Wolf, has actually managed to twist things around so that men's decreasing attraction to women over the past 20 years has nothing at all to do with the rape hysteria and the hostility, suspicion, contempt, and general exploitation that men have gotten from women, and managed to blame it all on porn. She credits Andrea Dworking with being right, by being wrong, and remains blind to the extent to which Dworkin herself contributed to bringing this about. article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/31/189257.shtml

The Men's Movement Looks Forward

Adam · 31 December 2003 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "Things look good for the year to come! I've got my year-end essay up at the DLJ blog."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/31/1815204.shtml

The Wenches War

Adam · 1 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I think you'll like this one for the symbolism, if nothing else. It's a tale of gender archetypes from the 8th century Czechoslovakian style. Grab a seat and a drink, it'll take a few mins to read, but like a certain haircare product, it's worth it. :-)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/03/12/31/2149233.shtml

Call for men victims of family and domestic violence

Hombre · 1 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "The BBC is doing a series on bullying. They are looking around for personal stories of men being bullied by women. Bullying of the whole family and/or bullying/bad reactions by the police and courts would also be of interest. To be considered you should contact Dickon Le Marchant by email dickon.le.marchant@bbc.co.uk or at the office on 020 8752 6209 immediately, certainly in the next week or so.

From Men's Hour Blog "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/01/0114223.shtml

It was a very good year

Hombre · 1 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

As 2003 fades out to make room for the new year, a lot of us are asking ourselves where we're at, where we're going, and where we've been. Normally we ask those sorts of questions about our finances, our relationships, our career goals, etc. but this year I encourage everyone here to set aside a little time to review what all we've accomplished as men's activists as well. We've accomplished a lot, and I know most of us are looking forward to bigger and better things from the movement, but let's not forget to stop and reflect on what all we've accomplished already and give ourselves a well-earned pat on the back before charging ahead.

See read more to look back at men's activism in 2003.2003, at it's beginning, did not promise to be an extraordinary year for the men's rights movement. The creation of the New Hampshire Comission on the Status of Men was being fought tooth and nail by people who wanted to see it blocked. Providian Insurance had launched another of their horribly misandrous "voodoo" commercials. Boys were facing sexual harassment suits for making anatomically correct snowmen. And with talk of the war between the US and Iraq it seemed like the last thing people we're going to be interested in was men's issues.

Things weren't all bad however. More websites, yahoo groups, and internet dialogues were seriously focusing on men's issues. Mini-protests were conducted against the "Vagina Monologues". Martha Burk's protest, designed to shame Augusta, instead proved that people are now willing to stand up to feminist social pressures, even ridiculing them. And articles telling the real story of domestic violence were becoming more commonplace in mainstream sources then ever before. The Status of Women Canada decided something needed to be done. That something, they decided, was to create a report lambasting the men's movement, categorizing men's activists as "hate crime" perpetrators and to drive them off the net silencing them for good.

Whether it was a result of this attempt at censorship or not we can only speculate, but for the rest of the year men's activists were more vocal than ever before in our letters, protests, internet activities, and any other way we could think of, and it hasn't shown any signs of stopping. And we've been more successful than ever before. Here is a list of some of the major men's activists accomplishments of 2003.

Martha Burk's protest showed the impotence of feminism.

Glenn Sacks started the "His Side" radio show, now syndicated in multiple cities.

Gordon Clay opened the first Men's Issues Library.

A Paternity Fraud bill was passed in California.

Dozens of new websites were created focusing on men's issues.

The New Hampshire Comission on the Status of Men went into operation depite the opposition.

Tom Leykis took a stand and mentioned Kobe Bryant's accuser's name, Kate Faber, on the air.

Several celebrities spoke out about men's issues including Mike Ditka and Bob Geldof.

More and more, men's rights concerns were being taken seriously by various mainstream media publications.

Warren Farrell became the first men's rights gubernatorial candidate.

Fathers 4 Justice organized several protests which brought major news, most notably David Chick's Spiderman Protest and the two Santa Clause protests, one of which drew 200 men's activists!

The "Boys are Stupid, Throw Rocks at Them" t-shirts were removed from many stores.

Feel free to add on anything that I missed because I'm sure there's a lot I did, but one thing is for certain, it was a very good year!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/01/0357235.shtml

Not Acting "Like a Man"?

Adam · 2 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Here is an editorial by Michelle Malkin detailing her choices for "Whiners of the Year". Note the segment on Rep. Bill Janklow. Below is the e-mail I sent to her at her address MMalkin@WorldNetDaily.com.

Dear Ms. Malkin,

In your article, you state, "Rep. Bill Janklow. The Republican congressman from South Dakota is still refusing to accept the consequences of his actions like a man." Does this mean that he is acting like a woman? Are all men the same? Do all men act in one particular way? Should they? Is "acting like a man" good? If so, should women act "like a man" also? Do you consider your comment to be sexist?

Sincerely,

Dittohd Austin, Texas"

Whether you agree with the morality of the case in question is not the issue here, the issue here is one of definition. Namely, that we must define ourselves, and not let others tell us what a "man/real man" is, as if they define us, they define our self worth, and our honour and dignity will be forever dependant on others, and we can't have that. So make an unyielding stand, and say "I am a man, and none shall say otherwise" that is all.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/02/033215.shtml

'Monster' movie spreads lies...new call to action!

Hombre · 2 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Well, the feminists are at it again. 'Monster', which will be in wide release soon, is the sad, empathetic story of poor, mishandled Aileen Wuornos, lowly prostitute, serial killer. Of course, all her ill-will is lodged within her by 'men', as usual. This movie acts as though she didn't admit to lying on the stand and in reports (she told the truth before her execution), and so justifies her killing due to a 'rape'.
See the CNN article for more details.

Time to boycott, or maybe even picket. Placard up, boys, let's get to work. The Shark"

Also see the movie's website here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/02/1555254.shtml

Woman, ex-boss dating after harassment suit

Hombre · 2 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "After getting caught together together on Christmas Eve, a woman and her ex-boss have paid back $35,000 in taxpayer funds she received after accusing him of sexual harassment (insert circus music here..)"

Yet more proof that feminist phobias make bad laws.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/02/169215.shtml

Punished just for an accusation?

Hombre · 3 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Scudsucker writes "Ell Roberson, the Kansas State quaterback, might not be allowed to play in his final college game because a woman claimed he raped her at the team's hotel. No charges have been filed, but its possible that he could be banned from the game. Looks like men are usually still assumed to be guilty until proven innocent when it comes to accusations. NYTimes story here, free login required."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/02/2225249.shtml

Faces of the Fallen

Adam · 4 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "The NCFM-DC web site has something very special on it; it's the faces of those killed in Iraq, courtesy of the Wash. Post.

Note they are almost all men (surprise, surprise). Rest in peace, brothers.

Faces of the Fallen

Don't forget to click the "Answer" link in the upper right corner..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/04/189243.shtml

Proposal to draft all young men

Thomas · 5 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

In this op-ed to the Denver Post, Rick O'Donnell, executive director of the Colorado Department of Regulatory Agencies, proposes that all boys be removed from high school after the first semester of 12th grade and forced into homeland security, the armed forces, or community service. He justifies this with a quote from a Colorado legislator who asked, "If more than 25 percent of Colorado men drop out before the 12th grade, and for those who remain it is a blow-off year, why are we paying for it?"

According to this despiser of boys, all boys leave school before or blow off the 12th grade.

Girls, of course, would be allowed to continue their educations.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/04/2059257.shtml

Lieberman Riding The Domestic Violence Horse

Scott · 5 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Presidential candidate Lieberman is pushing the same old tired misandric eyewash (women good men bad) about domestic violence to get the women's vote. Quote from article:

> "I want to say to women who may be in this situation, 'Come out of the shadows. Don't take it. Ask for help,'" Lieberman said during a discussion at a campaign supporter's home in Bedford. "And I say to men, 'Strong men don't beat women. Strong men take care of their women.'"

He says nothing about the other half of domestic violence that is ignored by society and as bizarre as it seems he proposes criminalizing violations of restraining orders as if they are not already!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/05/1518201.shtml

New Campaign Against Boy-Bashing Shirts

Scott · 5 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Glenn Sacks from His Side is organizing another protest against the sales of anti-boy shirts at Tilly's stores, which have 32 locations in Southern California. Glenn writes, "They sell "Boys Are Stupid--Throw Rocks at Them" T-Shirts as well as pajamas, stickers, postcards and journals. Go to Join His Side Campaign Against Hateful T-Shirt for Tilly's and David & Goliath's e-mail addresses and toll free telephone numbers. I want all of you to write them and call them and LIGHT THEM UP. Be polite, but let them know EXACTLY how you feel. Our victory in Washington state shows that this is a battle we can win." Update: Mission success! We're receiving word that Tilly's has announced they will no longer sell these shirts. See the Read More section below for more info, and check Glenn's site for updates.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/05/1529219.shtml

Army discharged 4 soldiers for abuse of POWs - inc

Hombre · 6 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Four soldiers discharged; two were female, one in fact a sergeant. Now how about that old "women don't abuse" thing?

Article here."

Also see this site for an excellent source of information regarding female violence, including 183 documented examples of female serial killers who'd been convicted before Aileen Wuornos supposedly became the first.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/06/0155226.shtml

New Movie: My Baby's Daddy

Hombre · 7 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Bledso writes "Here's another movie that appears to be relying on the "Daddy as inept moron" formula for laughs. The trailer tries to end with a touching moment where one of the men recognizes just how important fatherhood is, but it just can't reclaim my favor after hearing "Three big babies taking care of three little babies". Nevermind seeing little kids and women punching and kicking men. This trend is getting worse. See trailor here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/07/0118232.shtml

Interesting take... comments?

Hombre · 7 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Hmm, saw this editorial and thought it was an interesting take on things. I don't agree with the presumptions underlying the author's opinions; for example, I see the loss in mnfg. jobs here in the US as being less the result exclusively of current or past Rep'n admin'n policies and more the result of the lack of protection for men vs. discrimination/the all-out blitz vs. men in the workplace on-going since the 70s (the numbers of men 'downsized' or not hired at all or promoted when best-suited for a position because they were men and/or white at this point numbers in the millions of such instances), as well as the rush toward "free trade" -- which is something both major parties have been, no pun intended, a substantial and key party to over the last 30+ years. Still, I am sure such an article will illicit comments and observations from this crowd. :) So, fire away, lads!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/07/0121250.shtml

Essay in support of fathers and fatherhood

Hombre · 7 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original angry_young_men writes "The Sydney Morning Herald recently published an essay in support of changing societal attitudes towards fathers and fatherhood."

Worth reading, mentions some points even men's activists often miss.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/07/0127215.shtml

Sugar and spice and everything BRIDEZILLA

Hombre · 8 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Madcap Misogynist writes "'Here's a little lady who was arrested for having a bimbo eruption at her own wedding, later for brawling with her sister and now for mooning a cop. Yeah, that's right. The good ones are all married.

Madcap Misogynist"

Sure, just as soon as the article convinces me she's my soulmate it slaps me in the face with the last sentence, "Her telephone number is not listed." :(

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/08/0313214.shtml

Wow! Recent Court Ruling in Favor of Eric Foretich

Hombre · 8 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Stan Gaver writes "Incredible! I was searching for information on the infamous Eric Foretich vs. Elizabeth Morgan case, (remember that travesty of justice?), and stumbled into a recent US Court of Appeals case that ruled in Foretich's favor, essentially concluding that Congress acted unconstitutionally when it passed the (vomit!) "Elizabeth Morgan Act". Recall that a judge had imprisoned Morgan for contempt for violating court orders, but The Cowardly Congress passed a special law to override the judge's order.

From the article: "Since the abuse charges had been so definitively disproved, the two judges reasoned, Congress could not have been acting to protect Hilary from abuse, but only to stigmatize and punish Foretich, which it cannot constitutionally do.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/08/0326207.shtml

The Proper Care and Feeding of Husbands

Hombre · 8 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "If the content of this book is anything like this article written by the author, Dr. Laura, she deserves a big kiss... and our gratitude. She has made me very angry with a couple of her comments in the past, but on the whole, she is more fair and balanced in her opinions (and equally caustic towards women as well as men when she feels it's deserved) than any other talk show host or hostess I've ever heard."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/08/0338244.shtml

NH Legislature Passes College Costs Bill

Scott · 8 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

On January 7, 2004, the NH Senate passed HB 299. This bill removes judicial discretion to order a divorced parent to contribute to an adult child's college expenses. At least two fathers in NH have been jailed for not being able to pay their children's college tuition. You can read about one man's story here. Once the bill is signed by the governor, this should never happen again. This bill is a huge win for us in returning common sense to the child support system. Married parents aren't required by law to pay their children's college expenses, and divorced parents should not be treated differently.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/08/151229.shtml

Another Woman Who Can't...

Hombre · 9 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "Here we have yet another woman who can't control herself. This time the boy is eleven years old.

Ahem."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/09/0112246.shtml

Roberson's Accuser Thought He Was Someone Else

Hombre · 9 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A.J. writes "Here's a follow-up to the Ell Roberson rape accusation.

Get this - according to the story the accuser thought he was someone else.

"The woman who accused Kansas State quarterback Ell Roberson of raping her on the eve of the Fiesta Bowl said she believed she was having sex with another man, according to a police report released Wednesday."

Roberson's name will always be associated with a rape accusation. In addition to the damage to his personal life, it may make him less attractive to pro teams.

The accuser will remain anonymous."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/09/0119210.shtml

Call for Action

Hombre · 9 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "Here is something that will take only a few minutes, and will make a big difference. John is a member of Fathers4Justice International, and is fighting to see his son. He is asking we all write letters to the governor in Virginia demanding something be done. Here is his letter to me-

"Note, I haven't seen my son in two years..in ten years I have had him around ten times,
My court order says..I can have him fri-sun..twicw monthly,
You know how that goes,
The letter should protest that the Governor is doing nothing at all to fix our problems in Family Law."

Please write to johnlinville99@hotmail.com for the address, let's help him on this one-he has been battling cancer and the courts, and neither has been kind.
Please do NOT use the F4JInt name, this is a private effort not affiliated with the group. Thanks, Jen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/09/0120251.shtml

Domestic Violence claims the life of California Cop

Hombre · 9 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "Here is a blatant and brutal case of domestic violence, and against a Policeman! The story appears in the L.A. Daily News.

This egregious act of domestic violence appears to have just happened early yesterday, and there is also a story in the Los Angeles Times.

Neither paper ever mentions domestic violence, thereby showing an apparent bias against men being victims of domestic violence. How can a man ever get away from domestic violence, if the major medias can't even admit that a male victim exists in a blatant and brutal case such as this?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/09/0126246.shtml

How about this for disgusting...

Hombre · 10 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes ″

Check out the closing paragraph of this article.

"When I met him, I wanted to know what happens if you interrupt and challenge a general," said Lt. Gov. Barbara Lawton of Wisconsin, who was traveling with the general this week. "I didn't want to be party to the election of one more defensive, arrogant male. What I found was that it's part of his nature to understand the lives of women."

OK, so when do we hear a male politician ever saying something like:

"When I met her, I wanted to know what happens if you interrupt and challenge a feminist," said Lt. Gov. Jim Smith of Wisconsin, who was traveling with the candidate this week. "I didn't want to be party to the election of one more defensive, arrogant female. What I found was that it's part of her nature to understand the lives of men.""

Since when did objecting to being interrupted and dealt with in an argumentative fashion become "arrogant" and "defensive"? Oh, since the person is a lowly male and the instigator the intentionally boorish Ms. Lawton.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/09/2237249.shtml

Father's day rally

Hombre · 10 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "
Let me introduce myself, my name is Mike Reagan. I am with an organization called FathersDayDC. FathersDayDC Inc. is a coordinating group that sponsors an annual Father's Day rally in Washington, D.C. to promote public awareness of fatherlessness in America.

On Father's Day, 2004, we invite all organizations, mothers, fathers and their children to join us to bring overdue attention to the problems of fatherless children and the importance of fathers to all children.

FathersDayDC has obtained permits for two locations on the Mall in Washington D.C.. We are currently signing-up groups at both locations for organizations to set-up informational booths, hold seminars, and a forum for speakers. There is no cost for your participation at the event. Volunteers are encouraged and welcome.

Mike Reagan

****

A Men's Activism Booth would be a great idea-I am willing to contact Mike and get space, anyone care to join me?
The Biscuit Queen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/09/2239247.shtml

Bitter Post by ex-family lawyer

Adam · 10 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

hurkle writes "Venemous Kate tells it like it is at her blog. A great post about what the family courts are like and how the privileged members of our society bypass the justice that is dispensed to the rest of us."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/10/2110216.shtml

TSA hiring - if you fit the right mold

Hombre · 11 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "I heard an ad for TSA positions on the radio here in the DC area the other day. It mentioned that women, minorities, and sr. citizens were strongly encouraged to apply. The ad ended two sentences later with "TSA is an equal opportunity employer".

Well, unless of course you are white, male, and under 65."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/11/068241.shtml

White Sambo charicature appearing in more ads again

Hombre · 11 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jack Thomas, Jr. writes to us about the following misandrous ads..."The gist of the Sony commercial is as follows: A young man's kid sister secretly videotapes him singing "You Are My Shining Star" to his girlfriend. Then she shows the tape to the family while they all laugh and make fun of him for the purpose of humiliating and embarrassing him. And, when the dad says to the mom that this is a good line, she does the usual eye roll, making the dad look foolish and immature.

The KFC commercial shows two young white males eating something with barbecue sauce which is smeared all over their faces like a baby eating. Then the black male makes some condescending, disparaging remarks about how foolish they look."

Also, Disney's recent ad about going to Disneyland talks about doing what you really want to do and showing men sleeping in many different places in a manner to mock them as lazy, (again only white men), keep that in mind when planning your next vacation.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/11/0617238.shtml

Sex Survey unearths domestic violence disparity

Hombre · 11 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "A new survey from the University of Chicago found that typical urban-dwellers spend much of their adult lives unmarried -- either dating or single; and that there are no shelters in any of the studied communities for gay domestic abuse victims. The article fell short of mentioning all forms of abuse, but the interesting point about this is that for traditional radical feminist "abuse" shelters to recognize other victims of violence, even gay men, the doors will have to be open for a discussion on the true nature of the DV Industry, which is to criminalize men and destroy the family unit with no evidentiary standards, and neglect every other forms of abuse (including mother on child, or female on male).

The article is an interesting read too."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/11/0620234.shtml

Coup d' Etat at Men's News Daily Forum!

Hombre · 11 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "MEN'S NEWS DAILY Forum has been erased and disabled by the joint actions of the forum's owner and its newbie female moderator, effective Saturday, January 10, 2004.

Anyone visiting the MND Forum site will discover "O" posts on the forum where thousands resided only yesterday.Men's rights advocates interested in witnessing the co-optation of men's free speech on the Internet might wish to follow this story as it unfolds! The only current messages are two communiques from the self-elected People's Revolutionary Forum Junta:

(Quotes from site posts) --

Braveheart (Site Owner) –

"The old forum has been permanently erased. In future, only members approved by the moderator will have posting rights.

This forum will no longer be a haven for misogyny, women-bashing or personal venting. Violation of this basic tenet will result in instant expulsion from the group.

You must be a member of this group to post here."

Navyblue (moderator) –

"The forum is in transition. Please be patient with the changes and you will be notified/receive access as soon as the administrative kinks are worked out."

~ Robin"

Feminist censorship is real. By taking down the MND forum, feminists have just attempted to shove a gag into the mouth of every person that regularly posted there. The question is, how loudly will the activists respond?

Note - since posting this more important information about this development has come out. For one thing, apparently it was not an outside group that had hosted the board which decided to erase it but Mike LaSalle, the owner of men's news daily, (and certainly no feminist), who decided to erase the board himself. Read the comments for more details.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with

comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/11/0638235.shtml

Domestic Violence

Hombre · 12 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes ""A Marine's wife and another woman were arrested with the deadly poison ricin, and authorities said the pair planned to kill the husband to get insurance money." - article .

Once again the news media fails to use the words "domestic violence" to describe violence (planned) against a male by a female "intimate" and her associate."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/12/0045241.shtml

Father Ordered by Illinois Judge to Pay College Tuition

Hombre · 12 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ron Kuris writes "Press release: A father of four was ordered this month by a circuit court judge to pay his adult daughter's college expenses, regardless of his ability to pay, and will be incarcerated if he cannot pay the obligation. See the whole press release here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/12/0051249.shtml

Sacks Targets Universal Studios to Protest Boy-Bashing Clothing

Scott · 12 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Glenn Sacks has announced a new campaign to have the infamous boy-bashing shirts removed from all Dapy's clothing stores. Universal Studios owns the Dapy's chain and are the target for this protest:

> "Dapy's preteen girls section has an anti-boy center - a 6' by 5' display of shirts and other items which say "Boys Make Good Pets, Everyone Should Own One," "Boys Are Stupid, Throw Rocks at Them," and "Stupid Factory - Where Boys Are Made." Some of the products depict violence against boys. Our goal is for Dapy to remove that center and all of the anti-boy products it advertises."

Click here for the full summary, pictures of the shirts, and contact information for this campaign. Let's keep that momentum rolling and score another victory! Update: This victory was quick once again, due to the organized efforts of NCFM-LA. Universal Studios has agreed to pull the offensive shirts from all of its clothing stores and not sell them again! A big thanks to everyone who participated!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/12/1834202.shtml

Sheding Light On Female Sex Abusers

Hombre · 13 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Last week,like many other times in recent years,a female teacher was accused of sexually abusing a male student.This article, (from Florida`s Sun Sentinel), tries to shed some light on the problem and lists other offenders.

I feel this topic is in need of a serious study of some sort."

One thing these articles always seem to miss is the pressure on boys to have sex. By the age of 10, every boy I grew up with knew that if a woman offered them sex they must take it or they are "gay", which to a young boy means they are stupid, don't deserve any friends or respect, and that it's okay for other kids to beat them up. We hear about the pressure teenage boys put on teenage girls for sex all the time, but the media ignores the pressure society puts on boys by it's very concept of manhood.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/13/1632201.shtml

Massachusetts candidates for senate discuss father's rights

Hombre · 13 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

"Three of the seven Democratic candidates vying to succeed state Sen. Cheryl Jacques showed up at a well-attended candidates forum in Wellesley last night hosted by a fathers' rights group."

"For us men who were always first-class citizens; on this issue we are third-class citizens," said Lipof, referring to the rights of fathers in the court system."

- Milford Daily News

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/13/1648211.shtml

Father's rights activist receives award for community service

Hombre · 13 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Congratulations to Larry Davis, co-founder of the Coalition for Fathering Families, on being recognized with a Jefferson Award for his community service. See this Post-Gazette article for details.

"Fortunately, Davis, 43, is a fast learner. As a result of his efforts on behalf of fathers like him, he is a winner of one of seven local Jefferson Awards given for community service. On Jan. 29 at the Carnegie Music Hall in Oakland, he and the others will receive a medallion, and Kaufmann's will donate $1,000 in his honor to the Coalition for Fathering Families, the group he co-founded."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/13/172249.shtml

Anti-Male Bias on Judge Judy

Adam · 15 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Today was a case involving a woman suing a man for return of property she considered hers after a breakup. The man had been honest with the woman for several years that he had no intention of marrying her. Even so, Judge Judy went into a tizzy accusing the man of "wasting her time" whereby she began to award the woman most items in dispute as compensation for her lost time. Then she went off on how "men never get better, we just get used to them." I wrote in to Judge Judy to complain of her bias. She needs to understand that marriage is no longer an intelligent choice for men. And maybe women don't get better either. Anyone else see it?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/14/2113206.shtml

He never came forward because he thought no one would believe him

Hombre · 15 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LUEK writes "Here is yet another article about a female batterer.

But what makes this story special is that the prosecuting Assistant District Attorney (a female by the way!) recognizes the social stigma that protects female batterers and further victimizes male victims in these abusive relationships: HE THOUGHT NO ONE WOULD BELIEVE HIM!"

Even if he was believed at a conscious level, the light sentence indicates to me that the judge at some subconscious level at least just couldn't believe a woman could abuse a man. I would be amazed if this had been a man who'd pled no contest to charges of attacking a woman with a hammer, stabbing her a few times with scissors, disfiguring her genitals by biting them, and sending her to the hospital with a life-threatening injury if the sentence would have been the same, 9 months plus counselling. Anyway, the good news is that the DA recognized the stigma and the article not only refers to a female abuser as an abuser it even mentions her name!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/15/0313207.shtml

Boy Abusing Female Couple Get 30 Years Each

Hombre · 15 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Cleveland Plain Dealer has this story about a woman who stood by and did nothing while her lesbian lover abused 5 boys living at the house.There was also a daughter living there who was not abused.

"She sentenced each woman to 30 years in prison for abusing the five boys by denying them food, beating them, locking them in a closet and forcing them to eat animal feces and lick the toilet seat if it was soiled"

"Assistant Summit County prosecutors Mary Ann Kovach and Greg Peacock told Cosgrove the five boys took the brunt of the physical abuse but all six children suffered long-term psychological damage. "What strikes me the most is that these are hate crimes, motivated by gender and racial bias," Peacock said. ""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/15/0318210.shtml

Earl Sholley's run

Hombre · 15 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "

Below is a Press release for Earl Sholley. He is a strong advocate for Fathers Rights:

Dear Precious Dads & Supporters:

One of our dads... one of us, Earl Henry Sholley, is running for the Mass. state Senate. It's a special election with a primary on Feb. 3 and general election, March 2. It's important to support Earl, not only for the cause, but because he's a highly viable candidate as well.

Here's an immediate opportunity to rally:

This Friday, Jan. 16 at 3:00 p.m. is Earl's first debate to be hosted by the Community Newspapers at 254 2nd Avenue in Needham. Reporters from the following newspapers will attend; Wellesley Townsman, Dover-Sherborn Press, Needham Times, MetroWest and several others.

The Sholley for State Senator campaign needs sign holders, information gatherers and general supporters to be in attendance at the debate in Needham. People should begin arriving at 2:30 p.m. For more information, please contact Alan Thomas at the Sholley Campaign Headquarters at 1-508-699-0432 or reply to this e-mail. Financial contributions are always welcome.

Thank you,

Mike Franco"

Remember this is going to be this Friday so if you want to participate or know others in Massachusetts whom you think might you need to jump on this right away. By the way, does anyone know if Mr. Sholley has a website detailing his campaign?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/15/0327259.shtml

Female school principal strikes boy's face

Hombre · 16 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In January 2003, the female principal at a charter school struck a male student in the face. In court recently, she has entered a plea of no contest. It is said that she will likely get probation. The mother of the boy is not happy about the principal getting a light punishment; the parent removed her son from the school after the incident.

What kind of message does this incident send about the use of violence?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/16/011219.shtml

MSN on Men - refreshingly non-bashing

Hombre · 16 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "MSN usually is not so sympathetic with the male gender on such topics. Still, as we know, they have plenty of opportunity to turn from their misandrist ways in a far more affirmative fashion.

Hey, should MSN have its own topic on mensactivism.org? :)"

Grouping it in with "press" seems okay to me. This article is surprisingly sympathetic for MSN, but myths 1,6, and 10 could use a little work.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/16/0118233.shtml

Clark makes stand...

Hombre · 16 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "
"Democrat presidential candidate Wesley Clark recently spelled out his position on abortion for the Manchester Union Leader. "Life," General Clark proclaims, "begins with the mother's decision.""

Just great, this is all we need. Excellent article though, very well thought out from the male perspective, demanding accountability on the part of women. The Biscuit Queen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/16/0127232.shtml

Internet Activism: Getting Involved

Scott · 17 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

zenpriest recently submitted a request for a permanent thread on Internet activism to be created on MANN. We think this is a great idea, so here's how it will work: post your comments/ideas under this story, and a permanent link will appear on MANN's Activism Projects box for easy access even after the story moves off the main index. zenpriest writes "I would be happy to answer any questions about basic webmastering for guys who would like to try setting up their own men's activist site. Create a few web rings, and we have an instant activist network."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/17/033248.shtml

Steve Irwin Outrage

Scott · 17 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Is anyone else here outraged that Steve Irwin's wife's culpability and sanity in this matter is not being questioned? Since women are automatically assumed to be primarily responsible for their children and are awarded sole custody when women and their husbands get a divorce, and men are automatically assumed to be the "outsider" in almost every case, isn't the wife REALLY responsible for allowing Steve Irwin to perform this stunt with their baby son? Here is the email address I used to send a letter of complaint to Jamie Berry and Claire O'Rourke, the authors of this article: newsdesk@theage.com.au" Steve Imparl also mentioned this event in his blog.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/17/1351212.shtml

Eating Disorders in Males

Scott · 17 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

crescentluna writes "The National Eating Disorder Association's ED Info Index has several articles pertaining to males about anorexia, bulimia, binge eating, enhancing male body image, a statistics page (10% of those who come to a mental health professional about an eating disorder are male), and strategies for prevention and early intervention of male eating disorders. Even on the rest of their site, they strive to not to be biased towards females in their information."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/17/1353203.shtml

Goodbye, Mr. Chips

Adam · 18 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "There are some good points in this article

about the declining numbers of male teachers. However, as always, we get the bigot who gets me going with statements like

"I think," she said, "it means schools are becoming environments where women prosper."

She should have followed that with "and boys get shortchanged""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/18/1627217.shtml

Divorce and suicide

Adam · 18 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Mention of the correlation between divorce and suicide, in an unlikely place, about half-way down the page:
here

An interesting footnote to this study was the discovery of a strong correlation between the rates of suicide and divorce.

Alas it fails to mention the much higher number of men than women who kill themselves after a divorce."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/18/1954258.shtml

DV Petition Against Fathers

Hombre · 19 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "While websurfing I came across an interesting post in a women's forum. The post is split into three sections here:

http://forums.newyork.craigslist.org/?act=Q&ID=117 40964
http://forums.newyork.craigslist.org/?act=Q&ID=117 41009
http://forums.newyork.craigslist.org/?act=Q&ID=117 41023

I don't know if this was just a troll, but it does include a link to a petition to make people accused of domestic violence prove their innocence instead of having presumed innocence."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/19/1834209.shtml

Still too many white males in engineering

Hombre · 19 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "It looks like we need to get busy and disrupt the careers of more white males. Obviously the patriarchy is behind the lack of women and minorities in math and science. Read about the shocking oppression here. "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/19/1840205.shtml

Glenn Sacks's campaign targets Major Outlet! Your assistance needed!

Hombre · 19 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

zenpriest writes "The "A" in "MANN" stands for "Activism", and the most activist thing I have seen come out of the men's movement yet is Glenn Sacks's campaign against the violence against boys advocated by david & goliath. We discussed here before that this issue might be the "Stonewall" of the men's movement. After 3 decisive victories, Glen himself has characterized the current focus, Claire's and Icing, as being the "Stalingrad" of his campaign.

Claire's has 2,875 of d & g's 3500 retail outlets. To encourage them to drop the line would eliminate over 80% of d & g's market. This is the best opportunity for men, AND the women who support them, to roar.
There is nothing defensible about this product line. They slander Asians, blacks, and, interestingly, gold-digging women as well as white males.

http://www.hisside.com/join_his_side_campaign.htm

Here is the text of the email that I sent to the 5 officers of the corporation which Glenn so thoughtfully provided to us. Please, either plagiarize this, or write your own. Forward it to EVERYONE in your address book, and post it to every mailing list you are on."

I would encourage people to choose to write their own as individual letters tend to do a little better than everyone sending copies of the same letter, or to at least put a couple personalizing touches onto Zenpriest's well written letter. Glenn has asked all his listeners to participate. I would like to ask all our readers to participate as well. Glenn has called this battle the "Stalingrad" of this campaign. He needs all the help he can get.

See read more for the text of the letter itself.==========

To: The Management of Claire's
Subject: Serious complaint against one of your lines of products.

In a time when child abuse is a serious concern to all, I believe that selling products which show it in a humorous light to be in the worst possible taste, and a horrible example of poor corporate citizenship.

The david & goliath line of products panders to hatred, and shows violence in a cartoon fashion. Like Wylie Coyote in the Road Runner cartoons, it portrays violence as having no lasting consequences - while in real life it certainly does. One of david & goliath's designs actually shows a child with his eye gouged out and the bloody eyeball lying on the ground. That anyone could find "humor" in this is sad. And, the fact that someone could make the trivialization of such violence into a multi-million dollar company is nothing short of tragic. The reality of what is being suggested - a picture of a real live boy with his eye gouged out - would make most people sick. I am saddened by the courseness of our culture today that a cartoon of it does not have the same effect.

It would be nice to believe that most people are not so concerned about the almighty dollar that simply bringing to their attention the destructiveness of one of their product lines would be enough to get them to reconsider it.

However, there are other factors at work here as well. Claire's and Icing are not just stores, they are brands. As your competitor Gadzooks just learned, it can be serious mistake to have your brand become associated with being anti-something in the public consciousness.

There is certainly no shortage of retail outlets available as choices to the consumer,and small things can tilt the scales toward choosing one outlet over another.

There are 3 Claire's outlets in my immediate vicinity. And, as long as Claire's carries the david & golitath brand, I will prevail on everyone I know, in every way I can, to do no business with any of them.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/19/196224.shtml

Adoptive parents choose girls

Hombre · 19 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes ""Bringing Up Babes
Why do adoptive parents prefer girls?",
By John Gravois.

Adoptive parents overwhelmingly show a preference toward girls, which plays out in many more girls being adopted than boys. Interesting article, with several different veiwpoints presented.The Biscuit Queen"

They seem to have left out the viewpoint that caring about anyone male is antithetical to modern cultural mores, so of course when adoptive parents are looking for a child to love and care for they'll pick a girl.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/19/1920218.shtml

Unequal Justice: Male sex offenders chemically castrated

Hombre · 21 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "

Have any of you ever heard of a female sex offender being chemically castrated? I didn't think so. It is a special punishment reserved only for men. Because a male sex offender is much worse than the equivalent female. Right???

Isn't this an unequal application of the law? Isn't it sick and cruel to castrate, chemically or surgically?? I can imagine the uproar if it was applied to a female. But in our society today we can do whatever we want to men. They are just men, they deserve it.

I think it is great that because of the pressure applied you were able to make some store chains remove their anti-boy t-shirts. I think it is time that we change this obvious injustice.

- Angry man"

Interesting topic. By the way we're still fighting the battle with the t-shirts, and if you haven't written a letter yet, please go to His Side's campaign site and do so.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/20/2034251.shtml

British political party comes onboard

Hombre · 21 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Julian Abbott writes "A big cheer for the British National Party !!!!! The BNP recognises that very large numbers of loving fathers are discriminated against, abused and badly hurt"

Looks like Fathers4Justice may be making an impact. Great work!

Scott's Note: We have been hearing that the BNP is a radical group with questionable policies when it comes to racial issues and immigration. Mensactivism.org is not endorsing the BNP due to these concerns, and readers are encouraged to investigate this further and decide on their own.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/20/2046218.shtml

Boy gets 10 years for breaking girl's hymen

Hombre · 21 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Did anyone see this on the CBS news? An 18 year old is found NOT guilty of rape, but has to serve 10 years for injury to a minor (breaking her hymen.) The female prosecutor misled the jury into thinking it was a misdemeanor, so they convicted. This is going to the Georgia Supreme Court this week."

The poor kid's already spent a year in jail over this. Anyone think the jury didn't just assume the virginal qualities, (both literal and figuritive), of the girl before finding him guilty? Even though it's a ridiculous reason to throw someone in jail, did they ever bother to prove he was the one who took her virginity or was her word on that just taken for granted?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/20/2110248.shtml

9/11 - Too Desperate to Find Women Heros

Hombre · 21 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Stan Gaver writes "Some people just can't accept the fact that, BY FAR, men were the heros of September 11, and that male firefighters -- no, make that fireMEN -- and policeMEN were almost exclusively the ones who gave their lives while saving others.

While doing an internet search to get exact numbers, I ran across this preposterous web page that desperately tries to "out-victim" the loss of men on that terrible day.

While we certainly must also appreciate the duty and sacrifice of women who serve alongside men, I personally find it both amusing and offensive when a femno-writer (femno-liar?) resorts to linking a so-called "war against women" in Afghanistan as "proof" that women's sacrifice on September 11 was equal to that of men. Lord, what crap!

I've filed this under "Humor" because it is so incredibly laughable."

That's nothing. Hillary Clinton once said that "The real victims of war are women and children". Take heed, feminist claims don't stand up to peer review very well, and we're starting to get a voice to expose them.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/20/2123245.shtml

America a Safe Haven for International DeadBeats?

Scott · 21 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Laura Wright has submitted news that a woman who is wanted for non-payment of child support in Germany is running scot-free in the United States, where similar non-payment of child support would ordinarily result in a prison sentence. The short version of her story is, "Ex-wife pushes for prison sentence of so-called deadbeat dad, to find out she is wanted in Germany for non-payment of support for her two abandoned children. She has the staus of a deadbeat parent in St. Wendel, Germany and has taken citizenship in the US to avoid prosecution in homeland-Germany. Immigration says ok." Laura has extensive documentation about this case that she would like to distribute, particlarly to any media outlets. Please e-mail her at lawright10@hotmail.com for more info.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/21/1641259.shtml

Evidence of Prior False Accusations is Inadmissible

Hombre · 22 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A man was convicted of date rape based on the testimony of a woman who made false accusations of rape in the past. And while the judges of Arkansas Supreme Court are intelligent enough to understand that they are most likely destroying an innocent man's life, they unanimously convicted him to further their careers."

Ok, so this guy's going to prison for 13 years, where he will be repeatedly raped and recieve all the treatment famously given to convicted rapists in prison during that time while the guards look the other way but let's have keep some perspective. A woman was saved from the possibility of feeling uncomfortable by talking about her sexual past on the stand! Thank God that travesty was averted.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/22/1645230.shtml

Propaganda In Arizona

Hombre · 22 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

hurkle writes "In the last couple days driving around Scottsdale, AZ, I have seen signs in the back of taxicabs reading, "Break the cycle of Domestic Violence" with a phone number, and the words "Men's Anti-Violence Network".

So I looked it up: website

Turns out it's an initiative of the Arizona Foundation for Women, (kind of like how the sequel to the Vagina Monologues, about penises, was written by a woman) and filled with the same old tired misandric lies. I'm so disgusted, I don't even know what to do. No, that's not true. I'll try to gather some irrefutable facts, and send them a letter pointing out that men are not the only abusers. If it disgusts you too, please feel free to contact them and point out the truth."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/22/1648235.shtml

Celebrity joins battle to save wrestling from title IX

Hombre · 22 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

It seems that actor William Baldwin has decided to try and save the wrestling program at Binghamton University. You can read a short article about it here, and you can also read letters sent out by Mr Baldwin to the wrestling community and university president Lois DeFleur here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/22/172209.shtml

Update on Glenn Sacks's David & Goliath campaign

Thomas · 23 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

zenpriest writes "From an email from Glenn -

Last Sunday evening we initiated round 4 of our campaign against our largest target yet--Claire's, which has 2,875 retail outlets in nearly a dozen countries. They sell hats, wallets, wristbands, socks and other products which say "Boys are Stupid--Throw Rocks at Them" and "Stupid Factory--Where Boys Are Made." The next morning hundreds of you wrote and called Claire's to complain, and Claire's executives met Monday morning to decide whether they should continue to sell the products.

Apparently the result of that meeting was a decision to request that all letter writers and callers send Claire's their full names and mailing addresses so that Claire's could snail mail them a response. I speculate that Claire's did this to gauge our true level of support. Perhaps they believe that our campaign is really the work of a few individuals with a bunch of different e-mail addresses. Also, I believe they are stalling in the hope that our campaign will lose steam.

As I said during my January 18 broadcast, I did not expect Claire's to give in as quickly as our three previous targets did, all of whom capitulated before noon the day following our broadcast. Please give them the information they requested so they will see the broad support our campaign has garnered. Also, urge your families, friends, and colleagues to get involved.

Also, while I'm touched that hundreds of you have joined our campaign, given the size of this e-list it is clear that there are many of you who have not participated. If this is because you disagree with our campaign then I'll respect your opinion. If not, then I urge you to join us. All information about the campaign, including contact information for Claire's, will always be available at Join Campaign Against 'Boys are Stupid' Products.

The campaign against Claire's has received some prominent endorsements and press coverage. and has made local news in Cleveland, Washington state, and others. There are major media outlets who have expressed an interest in covering our campaign, though if our action against Claireâ??s fails they probably won't materialize.

Some of you have been writing Claire's about "Boys are Stupid--Throw Rocks at Them" T-shirts. Please remember, as I stated in my broadcast and on our campaign page, Claire's sells many "Boys are Stupid" products but does not sell T-shirts.

zenpriest writing now: My position is that Claire's has already proven that they are not worth doing any business with in the future. They don't have the quality of people who would discontinue the products just because they are foul, but must have it proven to them that there are enough people involved in this campaign for it to really hurt them if they continue to ignore such people.

Let's show them how wrong they are, and see how much of a decrease in their business we can achieve by bad mouthing them to everyone who will listen."

Thomas writing now: Often people who lead boycotts don't threaten never to do business with a company in the future, even if that company desists in the offending behavior, since by making that threat boycotters make it clear that their actions will be the same, whether or not the offending behavior is stopped. As a result, the company has less incentive to stop. Everyone can decide for themselves, but I agree that Claire's has shown itself to be the type of business with which no decent person should do business at any time in the future. Unless, perhaps, every officer of the corporation is removed over this.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/22/2258221.shtml

Uniquely ME!

Thomas · 23 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Oy, vey! My head is spinning a bit over this one.

The girl scouts are changing their image and recruiting message. Be sure to enlarge the side image to get a good look at it.

I think for now that I'll just post this and people can discuss it, if they want.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/23/0222200.shtml

VIP/SAFE-NH acquires access to Legal Assistance

Thomas · 25 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Lee Newman writes "Our Services are available to ALL Victims

VIP/SAFE-NH acquires access to Legal Assistance for "victim"clients.
Lee Newman
January 23, 2004
--- ---

Thomas writing: SAFE (Stop Abuse For Everyone) is an organization that provides assistance to victims of domestic abuse even if they are male. While this announcement may be of particular interest to readers who live in New Hampshire, this is an important step toward the goal of providing help to all victims of domestic violence.

Please go to "Read More/Post Comments" to see the rest of the announcement.On January 21,2004 Lee Newman,The Founding Executive Director and Deb Roy one of the Founding Co-Director's of Violence Intervention Program/SAFE-NH had a meeting with NH Legal Assistance and was approved to access the same legal services as all of the other Domestic Violence Crisis Centers in the State!

This means that if one of our clients we are assisting needs a lawyer,but can't afford one for DV related hearings or other legal needs that arise from the same ,we will be able to help them through NH Legal Assistance.

We received the income guidlines today and 'intake 'forms and are now able to help 'financially challenged' clients so that they don't have to go to Court without a lawyer or have to go into debt to acquire one.

Prior to this, our clients often would have to borrow legal fees from family and friends in order to have legal representation,or try to represent themselves.

This is a big step toward validation by the 'established' DV resources in NH!

We applaud Attorney Valerie Reed of NH Legal Assistance for her open mind and her professionalism when it comes to helping ALL victims of abuse. We can now do a better job 'Taking a Stand Against Violence and 'Making a Difference ' in NH thanks to NH Legal Assistance!

If you are a victim of Intimate Partner Violence/Domestic Violence in NH and need a lawyer but can't afford one,please contact us.

NEW HAMPSHIRE PRO BONO REFERRAL SYSTEM has income guidlines. You can see the list of guidlines on our website at http://www.VIP-NH.org
Please contact us via e-mail ,phone or using the contact us link on our website for more info. or if you need to have intake paperwork done for legal assistance."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/25/0127223.shtml

Domestic Violence, California Style

Adam · 25 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "A California woman, who poisons her husband (with Oleander and antifreeze) for the insurance money, gets the death penalty, and once again they never call it domestic violence.
Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/25/2152256.shtml

The SCUM Manifesto

Hombre · 26 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Skippy writes "I ran across a copy of The Scum Manifesto by Valerie Solanas on the Web Site of Sweet Briar College where it is treated as just another "woman's voice".

The wildest rantings of the angriest MRA are pretty tame compared to this document, but it is very interesting. Most people dismiss Solanas as some kind of far out kook, but if you can desensitize yourself to the misandry long enough to read and comprehend it, and interpret it in the light of what has actually happened since it was written, you can gain new insight into the feminist game plan. If you have ever been mystified by some new attack on men by a feminist newspaper columnist, the manifesto may help explain what is going on."

The SCUM Manifesto is actually linked by many feminist sites on the web, and is required reading for women's studies programs in several major universities. It is very analagous to the worst of the Nazi's anti-Semitic rants, including a promise to annihilate all men. Lots of excuses have been made for the SCUM Manifesto, including that it was written as sarcasm, however that Valerie went on to commit attempted murder proves otherwise. If you're not already familiar with the SCUM Manifesto, you should probably go have a look.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/26/1735238.shtml

A Sample of Women's Studies Courses

Hombre · 26 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Have a look at the Gender and Women's Studies offerings from the University of Illinois to get an idea what young women are getting stuffed into their heads. Where are all the men's courses? Where are the seminars offering critical thinking? Doesn't Title IX apply here? I wonder if the general public knows how far this has gone?"

Well, it's not like anyone who teaches these courses would know anything about critical thinking.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/26/1755242.shtml

Target Stores Weekly Ads

Hombre · 26 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raegan writes "Twice in January Target stores weekly advertisements have had statements for sale items such as MOM & BABY Stock up for your new life together and MOM & BABY Savings for you & your little one too. I feel that this advertisement and statement is disrespecting fathers suggesting that only mothers do the shopping, especially for baby.
You can view one ad this week at Target.com weekly ads"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/26/184210.shtml

Warren Farrell on NPR

Thomas · 27 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Men's rights activist, Dr. Warren Farrell, will be on National Public Radio's "Talk of the Nation" tomorrow, Tuesday, January 27, from 2 pm to 3 pm, EST, 11 am to 12 pm PST. The program, to the best of my knowledge, is nationally broadcast. He will be answering the question "Is there a Glass Ceiling?"

You can call in to add your input.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/26/2343258.shtml

What Do Women Want?

Thomas · 27 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ye gods and little fishes! Check this out.

Now they want to be supported by men who go out to the battlefield every day to earn a living. The women want to stay in their pretty houses with their children and to take vacations in France -- and maybe to boff that hot, young landscaper. (Hey, he's good genetic stock.)

I was in a bar a few weeks ago, and I met a woman at the pool table, when we became partners for a game. She told me she had recently graduated from the University of Colorado and she was depressed because she had to go to work as a school teacher. She had wanted to get married and have a couple kids and be supported by a man with a good profession. (I didn't preach anything to her. I just enjoyed the wildness of her fantasy.) She didn't strike me as particularly bright, or a particularly good conversationalist, and the only reason she was the least bit attractive was because she was still young.

Why the hell, I thought, would any man want to marry her and have to slave his ass off to support her and her kids, while knowing that, even if her kids turned out not to be his, he'd have to continue to support her (even if they divorced) and her children, with no assurance of ever seeing the kids. (I think maybe I needed a question mark at the end of that sentence.)

To put it mildly, the genie's out of the bottle. I doubt men will go for this in large numbers. Frankly, I think all these idiot books, by and for women, are just marriage, mortally wounded by four decades of feminism, morbidly displaying its death throes.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/27/0329225.shtml

Ambiguous Genitalia & Orthodox Feminism

Hombre · 28 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Michael Wright writes "Study: Genes may trump nurture with intersex kids

Orthodox feminists and "queer" theorists are fond of saying that "gender roles" are purely the outcome of "socialization" by the "heterosexist patriarchy."

One of the most notorious advocotes of this line of trash thinking and ideological mish-mash is the lunatic Andrea Dworkin, who advocates a vision of "pansexual androgyny" which will do away with the recognition of any significant distinctions between males and females. The myth of universal bisexuality is incorporated into this nonsense, but it even goes beyond that, since the notion of bisexuality does at least presuppose that there are differences between males and females.

For debunking this nonsense, the most interesting evidence from the news article about ambiguous genitalia is that eight of the 14 males raised as females later declared themselves to be male, and six of them said they wanted to undergo sex-change surgery to gain penises. All 14 had some male traits: They had trouble interacting with girls (but not boys), and they reported little interest in playing with dolls or playing house."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/28/0049246.shtml

Battered Men? Battered Facts

Hombre · 28 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

P. George writes "Does anyone want to help me with this article? I'm not sure who to believe when it comes to statistics, I'm not good at math and even though I'm down with some mens issues I'm also skeptical. It doesn't mention how battered men quite often have no one to go to for support. And since it's obvious this author had to do some research on this topic she/he/it had to come across the argument that most men don't even report being battered. I didn't get the feeling that this person even cares about men. I've never got that feeling from feminists. Also notice the quotations around "battered men". Can anyone give us an argument against the article? Thanks."

Click "Read More" for more info.P George continues, quoting the article "All these claims and suggestions about "battered men" being as pervasive and serious a problem as battered women are based on studies that are either discredited or taken out of context.....The Gelles/Strauss numbers that Leo and others seize on are based on simply asking people whether they have ever hit, pushed, slapped, etc. their partners. They do not reflect the context of family violence. They do not indicate whether violence was used as aggression or in self-defense, or whether violence caused or was intended to cause injury.....Those who equate domestic violence against men with that against women either ignore or dismiss the results of the federal Bureau of Justice Statistics, which found that 92 percent of those who report being assaulted by an intimate partner are female. They also brush off reports from emergency rooms, where 90 percent of the victims of domestic violence are women.....Sherven and Sniechowski, in their op-ed, claim that "half of spousal murders are committed by wives, a statistic that has been stable over time." In fact, according to 1991 figures from the FBI, which has the most comprehensive murder statistics, 71 percent of people murdered by their spouses are women.
While it is true that some men are battered, research that looks at violence in a meaningful way shows that they are a tiny fraction of the number of battered women--perhaps 5 percent.....These men are not helped by pundits who use overhyped, out-of-context numbers to argue that battering is no one's fault in particular--with the implication that nothing in particular needs to be done about it.""

Here's a list of hundreds of studies which FAIR is ignoring when they claim that one can't equate the amount of violence done against men with that against women. As to the first of the two studies they alluded to but did not provide actual citations for, I'm unfamiliar with any Bureau of Justice Statistics report on the subject. I imagine that such a report would have been created with data supplied from the Department of Justice based only on convictions or supplied from feminist sources, based on their desire to recieve more funding. Neither of which paints an accurate picture. With regards to the reports from emergency rooms, doctors have been trained to question women's claims of "falling down the stairs" and press to try and get them to say they were abused, they've never been trained to question a man's "sports injury" or to press for an admission of being a victim from men. That alone throws out any emergency room studies.

Spousal murders I'm not very well educated on, someone else will have to try and tackle that one.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/28/0126238.shtml

Choice for Men Petition

Hombre · 28 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

JenK writes "This petition has been going on for a while, if you haven't signed it please do, and pass it on to any group you know of. Thanks,
The Biscuit Queen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/28/1444215.shtml

Women as Homicide Bombers

Hombre · 28 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I'm sure the hard-liners here will find some column by this columnist that will seem to speak ill of men. No matter. This piece addresses the growth among Palestinians in the number of women as homicide bombers. No longer can the feminists claim that terrorism comes exclusively from men."

Unfortunately I've yet to see a major media outlet mention the existence of even one female terrorist. They still think Aileen Wournos was the world's first female serial killer!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/28/156210.shtml

Just in time for Valentine's day!

Hombre · 28 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

It's "50 First Dates"! A wonderfully romantic comedy opening in theatres on Febuary 13th about a man who must try to win the love of his forgetful girfriend day after day after day. Remember what Farrell said about human beings and human doings? She gets loved just for being, and his being, (and even his past doings), are forgotten every day and so he must do more to earn her love, (and naturally she simply needs to be in order to "earn" his, no matter how aholish her doings have been). Best of all, while women and girls across the US are oohing and ahhing about how that would be the perfect relationship, they get to watch the beautiful Drew Barrymore beat a man repeatedly with a baseball bat as a hilarious result of him trying to help the boyfriend win her love.

"She's soooooo pretty. I want to be just like her when I grow up!" - A young girl scout, out watching a movie to "earn" herself an entitlement charm.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/28/1525249.shtml

A Breakthrough in Africa

Thomas · 29 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

There's a move toward equality in statutory rape laws, as shown by this article. If proposed changes become law, both boys and girls, who engage in consentual underage sex, can be charged with statutory rape. I have to say that I'm not sure either should be charged, if they're close to the same age, but if the government believes that boys should be open to charges, then girls should also be open to charges. The way the law now stands only boys can be charged.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/28/2228240.shtml

Fathers 4 Justice Protestor "could die" in cold

Hombre · 29 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "Fathers 4 Justice Tamar Bridge Protestor "could die" in the cold but declines police's kind assistance towards a nice warm cell.

In 1588 Francis Drake played his famous game of bowls on The Hoe, Plymouth before joining battle with the Spanish Armada.

In 1620 the Pilgrims set sail from Plymouth's West Pier aboard the Mayflower for the New World.

In 2004 on a Plymouth bridge Jolly Stanesby escaped the police trap when the police reneged on their word ...

From the Men's Hour Blog"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/29/0640259.shtml

VICTORY!

Thomas · 30 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A tip of the hat to hobbes for alerting us to this. Glenn Sacks has announced that "Claire's company spokeswoman Marisa Jacobs says Claire's has 'canceled all pending orders that bear any of the slogans that people found offensive'"

Stalingrad! From which the Nazis recoiled after reaching their limit of power and influence.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/29/2120232.shtml

Study "proves" female execs outperform peers

Hombre · 30 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Here it is. Proof that women are better corporate execs than men. Top companies with more female execs make more money. Oh wait. Maybe it's just "statistically significant," not a study about cause and effect. But let's go ahead and draw conclusions from it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/30/1629238.shtml

Yahoo Coverage of Campaign Against D&G

Hombre · 30 January 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bledso writes "It's good that this is getting some press, but we've been relegated to the "Strange" category. I'm not at all surprised."

A few pieces of the article seem to attempt to bias it against Glenn's campaign, such as the title and the unnecessary mention that he's "often at odds with feminists.", and putting it in the "strange" category. However, I think it's obvious enough that the shirts are offensive that the article won't keep people from realizing it, and if anything is a good advertisement for the His Side radio show.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/01/30/1653228.shtml

An Article

Adam · 1 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

tjc writes "THE MOTHER OF ALL DISASTERS!!!
COWARDLY MEN AND STUPID WOMEN.
/
The papers are filled with it. The courts can't handle it. Welfare offices overflow with it. Ministers rail against it. Teachers must deal with the results of it. Society abhors it. Children suffer for it. And the whole country pays for it in one way or another.

Article Here"

Angry Harry puts things straight here Scroll to about half way to read it.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/01/1542228.shtml

D.A.D.I. To Close Soon

Adam · 2 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

On the 28th of this month, Dadi.org is due to close down due to lack of funds, with ten years of service in our movement. A sad end, seeing as how there's a huge amount of info there, a last second save might be possible, I can't say, but drop Gerald a line at dadi.org@earthlink.net give him some good words for his effort. Perhaps you might want to have a look through the archive, at stuff like this this classic I posted a while ago. A real shame, that's all I can say.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/02/0352221.shtml

Misandry at Texas Tech

Adam · 2 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Texas Tech has been mostly spared the plaugue of misandry in the past, but unfortunatly things are changing. Here is a University Daily article steeotyping modern men and blaming them for lack of chivalry.

You can send a letter to editor at opinions@universitydaily.net"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/02/1956202.shtml

Superman joins Spiderman, Batman and Robin

Adam · 3 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "A number of protests throught Britain started early this morning. This evening some are still going. Details on the blog - Superman arrives and the police are all out of Kryptonite (Fathers 4 Justice protest on roads throughout Britain) and Superman arrested - Will he get Marlon Brando to defend him? (Some down, some to go in Fathers 4 Justice Roads protest)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/03/1813248.shtml

Budweiser's misandric Super Bowl commercial(s)

Adam · 3 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Bud Lite has a Super Bowl commercial featuring two men and their dogs. One man orders his dog "Piper" to fetch a Bud Lite from an icebox. After the dog does so, he asks the other man what his dog can do. The second man prompts his dog "Fergus" to apparently attack the crotch of the first, who throws the beer in the air. It's caught by the second man with glee.

You can view "Piper and Fergus" over

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/03/1819220.shtml

Male contraceptive implant

Thomas · 4 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Shering Plough and Organon are moving forward with Phase II trials for the male contraceptive implant / injection.

If you would like to offer a word of encouragement (and encourage them that there is a healthy market) or even enroll in the trial (to take place at 14 centers in Europe), you might try to contact Schering Plough or Organon.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/04/1728213.shtml

A Woman-Activist in Fathers 4 Justice

Thomas · 4 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jayne Woodman is the first woman to be arrested for participating in a Fathers 4 Justice, F4J, rally in the UK. She speaks her mind on the gender apartheid system of Great Britain.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/04/1850231.shtml

Good press about D&G from alternet.org.

Thomas · 5 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jack Spratt writes "Alternet is a website read by many progressives (what some of you might call leftists), myself included.
This article seems to indicate that many people, not just men's advocates, find the D&G paraphenilia offensive.
*Of course, as ever, it focuses on how the D&G stuff harms women. Ah well, one step at a time.*

Check it out here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/04/1738226.shtml

Seems some stores are developing a soul

Adam · 5 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jimmyd writes "Appearently, according to this article in the light of our actions agianst stores that carry D&G items some stores are (shock) reconsidering the merchindise they carry. however the article also features a new target,urban outfiters, and a glorious qoute by toddy boy "I don't sell rocks with the T-shirts" you gotta be kidding me."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/05/2027258.shtml

Woman found lying about gang rape

Adam · 6 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Woman files a police report claiming gang rape against university basketball players. School officials expelled the team's second-leading scorer and disciplined four other players. Woman reveals she lied about the gang rape. A woman is charged with filing fictitious reports, attempted extortion and prostitution. The MALE basketball players have not had their punishment reversed." TLE also submitted this and said "Good thing it was on video, or she would probably have gotten away with it. Even though the charges turned out to be false, the men are being punished. I wonder if senior Grady Reynolds can get unexpelled."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/06/1837217.shtml

New HBO Series on Women's Suffrage History

Hombre · 6 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Today's men have issues that have always been there (oppressions they have never dealt with), and issues that have come about as a result of anti-male propaganda being disseminated through out the long, misandirst history of the women's activist movement. The time is long overdue that men present a cogent voice addressing the issues of oppression in their lives, issues that are no less egregious than those women have faced, just different in their specifics.

There is a new series soon to be aired on HBO about the Women's Suffrage movement that took place around the time of Woodrow Wilson's Presidency. It is called Ironed Jawed Angels and premieres Feb. 15th, 2004: HBO's Iron Jawed Angels"

Click "Read More" for further info.Ray continues...

"

From a historical perspective this should be an interesting series to watch. From a men's activist's perspective this should be a very interesting series to watch, because the trailers show men of that time in a very negative light, violently attacking female suffragettes and opposing them. I suspect such overtly negative portrayals of men will help to further fuel today's vilifying stereotypes of men. I suspect such imagery will help to further fuel the kind of male oppression that is so feverishly being advocated for through Women's Studies Programs on College Campuses, and through Women's Commissions, which are active in our political and government arenas (to name but two hotbeds of radical feminism).

By the way the term "Iron Jawed Angels" comes from the hunger strike the suffragettes staged while in prison. It seems no one had ever picketed the White House before, and they got arrested for that. In one of the trailers they show some women inside a government building unfurling a banner in the presence of Woodrow Wilson. The seamstress skills of those early suffragettes was evidently of significant use to them in their cause.

I am eager to see this series to see what political tactics and strategies the suffragettes employed, but I am equally eager to see what portrayal HBO gives to the suffragette's political ideologies, and how historically accurate that is. I will not presume a liberal Hollywood bias, but will watch carefully for any instance of that, since there is reason to suspect it, based on the track record.

There are a number of well established actresses in this series: Julia Ormond, Angelica Houston, Hillary Swank, Francis O'conner. and others.

There is an old saying which says, "That he/she who forgets history is doomed to repeat it." I will be watching this series intently to see what mistakes men and women of that time made in dealing with women's activists of that time. There were a number of issues in the women's activism of that time that intertwine into today's more radical feminist movement so I will also be watching, studying this docudrama intently to see how those issues have led to further oppression of men and the further striping away of their rights.

I can only wonder when the day will come when a series will be done showing the oppressions males have faced, just because they're males. Let us make sure that the history of men's oppression, in all its forms, is not the legacy we leave to a future generation of disempowered males."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/06/1853207.shtml

Ad Council

Hombre · 6 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bledso writes "You have to see just how lopsided this "campaign" is. It's about "Dating Abuse Prevention"(the domestic violence campaign isn't any better). Guess who they are interested in protecting from abuse? Be sure to check out the media links on the right hand side of the page here and it will be painfully clear."

Isn't nice that they make these lessons to teach boys not to be abusers, and girls not to be abused? Since boys and girls are equals we know that boys are more mean than girls and not as innocent, because that's what feminists have taught us equality means. Since we know that girls are always right, (or at least, close enough that it's best to pretend they are and not make videos showing the girls as guilty or anything), then we know that the behavior must have been unwarranted. In the first conversation perhaps she had his study materials for his upcoming SATs and he needed them in order to try and get into the college he wants to go to. But even still, because of our "girls are innocent" principal of "logic", we know that if that is the case, he must have done something really mean to her to deserve that. Or maybe she just forgot to return them and it's his fault for not reminding her properly or for loaning them to someone who was obviously so absent-minded. No matter what, he has no right to be mad because she avoided him that day, because we've taken as an assumption that she's right and he's wrong. It's just too bad being a jerk isn't a crime yet, because this guy is obviously really upset with some girl somewhere and yelling at her so he deserves to be in jail. Ack!

PS - You can contact the organization responsible for this ad at info@teenactioncampaign.org

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/06/1934241.shtml

Policeman fired based on accusation alone

Hombre · 7 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

hurkle writes ″

The Phoenix New Times this week has a cover story about a rookie policeman who brought in a woman who would likely face charges of DUI, and she immediately charged him with anally raping her. She has a history of such behavior, but as we all know, that don't mean nuthin'."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/06/207236.shtml

Freedom of dress

Adam · 8 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Interesting story - men seeking right to wear skirts and not be assumed to be transvestites, gay, etc. Didn't women have the same thing with dress pants a couple decades back? I doubt though these men will get as much sympathy as women got then. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/08/1942235.shtml

Men Are Dogs

Adam · 8 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Skippy writes "Feminists have long complained about men objectifying women, and most of us have learned to be cautious about using words like "chick", "fox" or even "girl" unless it is pronounced with two r's. But little is said about the ways in which women objectify men. The author of Men Are Dogs actually claims to like men. Or at least she likes dogs which is almost the same."

Is there some of weird trend to paint the nearest man as an animal going on? First it was "The Care And Feeding Of Husbands" and now it's "Men Are Dogs" and all this from supposedly non-feminist women too. Ugh, I'm taking a hit of the whiskey right now.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/08/1949246.shtml

Bright Beacon

Thomas · 9 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This Men's Program at Pierce College seems to send a bright, positive message.

Those of you who may be interested in getting involved with forming a similar program at another university may be interested in inquiring with them to see what works."

This does look like a good program. I was in a high school yesterday and saw their list of National Honor Society students -- 20 females and 5 males. Yup, girls are the victims of terrible discrimination in the nation's academy. Sure, you betcha.

On a related note, this program may signify much more than what appears on the surface. Today women are able to have professional organizations, but such groups of men are seen as discriminatory. It would be good to see men, and not just those who benefit from programs such as this, start to form men's professional organizations to help each other with job placement and advancement and other workplace issues. Full-time employed women, on average, work far fewer hours than men, and there are far fewer full-time employed women than men, yet most company officers are women. It's time men started ignoring the lies about anti-female discrimination and started networking to help each other.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/09/192208.shtml

More False Accusations

Thomas · 10 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here's yet another story of a false rape claim. Note that Washtenaw County Sheriff's Cmdr. Dave Egeler stated, "I'm not sure charges (for filing a false police report) are likely." The article goes on to state that next Wednesday's safety awareness meeting will still be held. Janet Hawkins, a spokeswoman for the community college said, "This will be an opportunity for us to review our safety procedures on campus."

Why do I doubt they'll be discussing how to make men safe from false accusations?

And here's a story of a false accusation of assault against a homeless man, who spent eight months in jail as a result. At least in this case, the girls were arrested. Since they were apprehended at school, students saw that society might be starting to hold females responsible for their actions.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/10/1649255.shtml

Paternity Fraud: Female Violence Against Men

Thomas · 10 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

As K. C. Wilson states in this essay, "Any fraud a man commits is called a crime. In forty-six states, the one exclusive to women is protected." He goes on to say, "Estimates are based on limited data but range from 3% to 5% of all children may be fathered by someone other than who they call by that name." I'm not sure where he got that statistic. From what I've read the rate for the entire population is about 10% and for the self-selected group of men who are suspicious the rate is about 30%. In any case, it's a prevalent, monstrous crime that is legal.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/10/178215.shtml

Divorce Court

Thomas · 11 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I've got to share this. Any man who is contemplating marriage should watch "Divorce Court" on TV. I just had to sit through a show for some research that I'm doing, and it was an eye opener.

The divorcing man accused his wife of domestic violence. When the judge asked the woman if it was true, the woman gave a snide smile and a little nod, which the judge took to mean "yes." When the judge told the woman that her actions were against the law, the woman kept saying, "He ain't gonna call (the police). He ain't gonna call." The judge lectured her about how she could go to jail for domestic violence but did nothing. (Would the judge have had the husband taken off to jail if he had admitted to beating his wife?)

In fact, the woman admitted to threatening on several occasions to call the police on her husband, when she was angry at him for (one example) using dishwashing liquid to wash the clothes. When the judge asked the woman what she would have told the police if she had called them, if she would have lied to the police, the woman just smirked. It was clear that she could have made a false accusation against her husband, who always left when she ordered him to. One time he had just stepped out of the shower, was wearing nothing but a towel, and had to cross town to go to a friend's house in the cold.

The kicker was at the end when the judge ruled on the settlement, gave everything but one car to the woman, and said to the woman (I swear this is true) "There's such a thing as equality, and you're getting most of it."

My god! I'm gonna have to remember that one.

I guess if a man is madly in love and has a desperate need to have kids, he'll want to get married, but men need to wake up and realize something. If a man is ever alone with a woman and doesn't record every moment, under the law he becomes that woman's slave. She may or may not do it, but she knows she can beat him with near assurance of impunity and destroy him in a moment with a false accusation.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/11/185221.shtml

A tale of Valentine's cartoons

Adam · 12 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Compare the two Valentine's cartoons on the same internet page (courtesy Daryl Cagle of MSN). The "Valentine's cards" by Ann Telnaes feature four abused/oppressed women. The cartoon at the bottom, by Mark Streeter, shows a man giving his partner an inappropriate Valentine card and gift. At the bottom, the man has been beaten up and wrapped in duct tape, while saying he's lucky she didn't have the keys to the Mercedes.

This telling juxtaposition can be found :

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/12/1758212.shtml

Fred on Everything

Adam · 12 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I laughed when I read this. Fred Reed at his best. Enjoy..."

For the humour impaired, this is satire, SATIRE! and besides, I doubt there's a demographic group on the planet Fred hasn't taken sideswipes at anyway....

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/12/183204.shtml

Prison for Filming a Sexual Encounter

Thomas · 13 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

As anyone knows, if they've been reading the news linked from this site for even a few months, one of the few ways that men are able to prove their innocence, when they're falsely accused of sexual assault, is by providing a recording of the sex act. In this case a man was sentenced to one and a half years in prison and three and a half years of extended supervision for recording consensual sex acts. According to the defense attorney, the recordings were never shown outside of his house or distributed in any way, and there is no indication in the article that anyone disputed this fact or the fact that the sex was consensual.

By removing more evidence from the defense, this could prove to be extremely dire for falsely accused men.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/12/2154214.shtml

The Words of a Former Prosecutor

Thomas · 13 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

In this essay, former prosecutor, Craig Silverman, states that "during my time as a prosecutor who made case filing decisions, I was amazed to see all the false rape allegations that were made to the Denver Police Department. It was remarkable and surprising to me. You would have to see it to believe it."

I wonder how many of these were formally filed false reports for which no prosecution took place.

Silverman goes on to say, "Any honest veteran sex assault investigator will tell you that rape is one of the most falsely reported crimes that there is. A command officer in the Denver Police sex assaults unit recently told me he placed the false rape numbers at approximately 45 percent."

The article is part of a dispute between Silverman and Jeff Shapiro, a former reporter for the tabloid "The Globe", who is apparently coming out with a book about the Kobe Bryant case. If you want to skip much of the stuff related to the dispute between these two and get to the former prosecutor's statements on the rate of false accusations of rape, seach the page for "For 16 years" and read that paragraph and the following several paragraphs.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/13/008225.shtml

Women and Trump

Adam · 13 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Speaks for itself:
Commentary
is interesting, isn't it, esp. toward the end."

Crunch time guys: In an age where there is nothing a woman is forbidden to use against the nearest man, and where a man can't use even the most basic self defense to defend himself, I want every man reading this to ask himself one question: Do I want to fight fair, or effectively?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/13/200239.shtml

Besting Misandry

Adam · 13 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Glenn Sacks explains the importance of his campaign. Moreover, Dillards victory seems to have come unexpectedly."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/13/203250.shtml

Watch out MEN, Catwoman is coming

Adam · 15 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Thundercloud. writes "Any one seen many previews to the up comeing Halle Berry movie "CATWOMAN"?
I haven't either but I have seen snipetts of the film. and guess what? we apearantly have yet ANOTHER whip crackin' dominatrix type woman that will, You guessed it;, tie up, gag, beat up and hit men with a whip.
since the subject of anti-man violence has been brought up on other posts, I just thought I'd give every one a heads up on this little gem of a flick.
Frankly I'm sick to death of these types of films. and I wish there was more protest from men about them.
The film is to be released on July 30th 2004.
How long do we let this go on?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/15/0457230.shtml

Irish Father on Hunger Strike

Adam · 15 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Father of two, Tony Hamilton, on hunger strike in Dublin prison after inability to pay maintenance payments to his wife."

You want to know what this is really about? This is about making men pay for sex. Yep, from alimony to child support and everything in between, men get thrown into prison for not wanting to be treated like a sub-human. I think I better get to work on updating my anti-alimony article....

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/15/057242.shtml

Glenn Sacks vs. Michael Moore

Adam · 16 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Glenn Sacks blasts best-selling author Michael Moore's manbashing in his latest opinion column, "Michael Moore, You Used to Be My Hero." The column can be found here"

Yep, It's a good one. I would advise you to keep a very close eye on folk like Michael Moore for the simple reason that as the winds of change blow our way, people like him will try to double back on what they said, and get all man friendly and the like. Of course, we won't fall for that will we?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/16/0247219.shtml

Assemblywoman Rebecca Cohn

Thomas · 16 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "Okay, this probably isn't really BIG news, but it is unusual: A woman elected to state office being accused of sexual harassment, by some of her aides. I've always wondered why it is that this and related indiscretions by men are big news, while women who stray across the line are given a pass. Have any of you wondered when a woman elected to office was going to have an affair exposed by the media? (Don't believe for a minute they don't happen!)"

It's certainly possible for someone to be oversensitive about what they perceive as sexual harassment. Nevertheless, I'm sure harassment can be severe enough create a horrible, untenable situation for the target. This article highlights the fact that we need to bear a few things in mind. Men are often considered far more likely than women to cheat in relationships, despite the fact that every survey and study I've seen for the last few years (sorry, I don't have links handy) has indicated that women are at least as likely to cheat. Men are generally considered far more likely than women to commit domestic violence, despite the fact that studies consistently show that women commit at least as much DV against men as men do against women, women initiate the domestic violence more often than men do, and women commit most DV against children.

I wouldn't doubt that, if the truth ever comes out about sexual harassment in and out of the workplace, we'll find that women commit at least as much as men.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/16/1724212.shtml

Female serial killer portrayed as victim

Adam · 17 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes
"The Academy Awards are coming up with Charlize Theron favoured to win the Best Actress award for her role in Monster, which claims it is 'based on a true story.' But it is not as true as you might think."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/17/1921220.shtml

"Rape Free Zones" at Penn State Fraternities

Adam · 17 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Interfraternity Council at Penn State voted to establish fraternities as "rape free zones", "educate" the fraternity members about sexual assault, and place optional "rape free zone" stickers on their doors. There is also an editorial from the student newspaper commenting on this plan, justifying the feminist idea that "all men are rapists". This is similar to an incident a few years ago when the campus "Men Stopping Rape" group placed urinal splashguards on campus reading "You Hold the Power to Stop Rape in Your Hands." as well."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/17/1925252.shtml

Girls only program

Adam · 18 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "I just noticed an ad on the local FOX TV station calling for girls from 8 to 12 to attend a free video film production workshop. The program is called Girlstart and has funding from many sources. The intent is to help ensure girls get good careers in technology. Of course, there is no boystart program. Who cares about them?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/17/1927234.shtml

No Indoctrination....

Adam · 18 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I thought I'd share this No Indoctrination web link with the group. The organization in question seeks to push back on the liberal bias that's so apparent in our colleges and universities today. I know there are visitors here who regard themselves as liberal and dismiss the notion of conservatives being better supporters of men's rights, and perhaps that's valid, at least partially. What's useful to note about the postings there (click on the "View Postings" link at the upper left corner) is that there seems to be a large percentage of them complaining about the women's studies programs. I didn't look at all of them, but of the number I did check, I thought that protests against women's studies was inordinately large. I also sent this group an email asking them their position on administration-sponsored claims of "one-in-four women will be raped" to which I have not yet received a reply. I will post it when I get it. If you know anyone in college, you might share this link with them, as I did with my daughter this morning. (No reaction yet from her.)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/18/1914241.shtml

A tale of two standards

Adam · 18 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

NextEntity writes "An advertisement for a novelty dartboard featuring a women breasts as targets is drawing heat in Britian, yet the ads featuring damage to men's genitals continue to be "cute".

Read the Article Here!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/18/1934249.shtml

3% Gender Gap at Penn State

Adam · 19 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This article about the gender gap at Penn State praises the use of affirmative action to correct the "problem" of there being more men majoring in the information sciences than women, while at the same time ignoring the greater number of women majoring in education. Article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/18/1938230.shtml

Boys' Education Gap

Thomas · 19 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Maine State Education Commissioner is forming a study group to examine causes and solutions for boys having lower grades and educational aspirations than girls. The Bangor Daily News article is here: and includes the following:

"Research says boys are in trouble on other fronts. They are 15 times as likely as girls to be victims of violent crimes; they commit suicide more often; drop out of high school at four times the rate of adolescent girls; and are more apt to be left behind a grade and diagnosed with attention deficit disorder."

The article also states, "During interviews a couple of years ago when asked whether they liked school, the majority of little girls said yes, while most little boys answered no." Many of those looking into this will probably try to sing and dance around the truth, but the fact is: Feminist teachers and administrators have turned the nation's academy into a viciously hostile environment for men and boys.

The article also states, "It doesn't bode well for society in general. Boys are abandoning ship." Well, if feminism continues to poison all of industrialized society, especially the English speaking nations, then we won't have to worry about this for long. Industrialized society, through the end of birthing, will cease to exist.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/18/2137225.shtml

"Menstrual Awareness Week" at OU

Thomas · 19 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Michael Wright writes "The faux feminists at the University of Oklahoma have found a new cause: "period week" or "menstrual awareness week." The idea is to encourage women "not to be ashamed of their bodies" and to "expel taboos that are part of being a woman."

They are also "reclaiming" something "that's thought of as bad by our society." That's funny. I never thought periods were bad.
But faux feminists have to make everything a confrontation against the "patriarchy." They believe that evil patriarchs have been slandering women for centuries because they have periods. Now it's pay-back time.

They'll have the usual "health experts" addressing this topic. I'll bet you a dollar to a dime they won't tell women what they really need to know about periods, i.e., when they stop happening, beware of hormone replacement therapy. There's a growing body of literature among the truly hip (rather than the pseudo-hip we find in abundance at OU) about the problems of HRT. At OU, they won't be treading on the profit interests of the pharms as they wage their "struggle" against the "patriarchs."

Go here for the Oklahoma Daily article about "menstrual awareness week."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/18/2147215.shtml

Male-friendly Domestic Abuse Helpline Needs Financial Support

Scott · 20 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jan Brown writes, "The Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men (DAHM) needs your help! Our call volume to the toll free 24/7 helpline has quadrupled in the over three years we have been in existence. Additionally, Verizon is working over the next year to include our toll free 24 hour number on the crisis line page of every phone book they make in the country! Please click Read More for the rest of this request for help.

For over three years we have worked out of a small home office responding to callers 24/7, developing trainings, mailing requested materials, and setting up annual educational conferences on male victimization etc. Now is the time to start expanding our services and capabilities! There is a building for sale nearby that has just the space we need to accommodate offices for our volunteer staff and a larger room to hold trainings, support groups and other meetings. There is also an efficiency apartment on the second floor. The building needs some updating and remodeling and friends of DAHM are willing to donate time and services to make this happen.

When we began our mission in October 2000 to give voice to male victims/targets of domestic abuse we had no idea what the need was. The first two years it was quite a struggle to keep the helpline running 24/7 with just two volunteers covering the line and funding limited to a few small private donations. Today we are still pretty much self supporting but we have an all volunteer staff made up of an Executive Director, a Volunteer Coordinator and seven trained volunteers who man the helpline as well as donated services from the American Message Center of Ohio, a 24/7answering service.

We have had over 3,000 calls to the helpline since that time and have discovered that there is an undeniable need for support, referrals, shelter and advocacy work for male victims/targets and their children. Please help us to expand DAHM so that we can continue to do this much needed work!

The approximately 20 x 40 log building (on a slab) we have in mind is sitting on 3.75 acres of land here in Harmony, Maine. The price has recently been reduced to $19,900 and we hear that the owner is willing to pay some of the closing costs. We are looking for a contributor or contributors to buy the building and donate it to DAHM. If one person donated 19,900 or 25 people donated 1,000 each or 250 people donated 100.00 each DAHM could have an office and expand their services for male victims of domestic abuse. Please consider making a tax deductible donation to help us make this dream happen!

To find out more about us visit our website: www.noexcuse4abuse.org or contact the Executive Director, Jan Brown at: 207-683-5758. Thanks!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/19/2113234.shtml

Sheila Kuehl Hates Men and Loves Paternity Fraud

Adam · 20 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

amperro writes "California State Senator Sheila Kuehl (D-Santa Monica) is an enemy in the war on paternity fraud, and the proof is in this article We will never be able to win people like her over with reason, compassion, fairness or logic. Therefore we must ensure that they never win re-election again."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/20/2215256.shtml

Judgement Against Anti-Male Discrimination

Adam · 20 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Here's an article about a judgement against the U.S. government's Small Business Administration after a female manager tried to rid the organization of its "too many" male supervisors and then retaliated against a woman employee who wouldn't cooperate, forcing her to eventually quit the organization. Progress!" Frank H also said "This story is self explanatory. It seems the Small Business Administration has been undertaking a campaign to get rid of what it regards as "too many" male supervisors. The sad thing here is that the plaintiff, a woman who chose to speak up, is the only beneficiary. I wonder how many men actually lost their jobs or had their opportunities for advancement diminished? Will they be able to sue now, as well?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/20/2218244.shtml

Kidnapping mom caught 14 years later

Adam · 21 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "Authorities arrested the mother of a 17-year-old boy after her son saw his picture on a missing children's Web site and discovered that she was accused of abducting him from his father 14 years ago."

The thing that sickens me is that the mother gets sympathy, no one has even mentioned how the father felt or why he got custody in the first place, and the boy is in foster care. I would like to think the father would get him immediately, after the mother stole the last 14 years.

The Biscuit Queen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/21/0136235.shtml

P.C. at U.C. -- Football Coach Reprimanded in Rape

Adam · 21 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "
University of Colorado football coach Gary Barnett has been reprimanded and placed on administrative leave after he had the temerity to speak truthfully about the "awful" level of play of a former U.C. female kicker who has made rape allegations against the team.

"Not only was she a girl, she was terrible. And there's no other way to say it. She couldn't kick the ball through the uprights."

U.C.'s President, Elizabeth Hoffman said "In the context of rape allegations, it is inappropriate to make statements about the ability of the player."

Apparently U.C. has expanded its already draconian campus "speech code" to now include Thought Crime!

CNN on-line has full details here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/21/1531241.shtml

Raping Boys for Fun and Profit

Thomas · 21 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

This article in the Detroit Free Press describes how a woman, who 15-years-ago had sex with a 14-year-old boy (it was probably a crime, since she was an adult at the time), has now been awarded child support. The court, of course, says it's all for the sake of the child.

Notice to all American women, or at least those in Michigan: If no man is willing to be stuck with you while you have and raise kids, just rape a boy! The courts will reward you! And remember, you're a widdle baby wictim of da paaatweeeaaaarchy! WAAAAAAAAAH!!!

ADDED NOTE 02/22/04: LSBeene, aka Steven, has provided us with this additional news on the case. The victim claims that, when the woman (Laura Michelle Evelyn) raped him, she drugged him with alcohol. The court has yet to decide how much of a reward will be taken from the victim and given to the woman (Laura Michelle Evelyn) who raped him.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/21/186234.shtml

BBC Web Pages on Fathers4Justice Disappeared?

Scott · 22 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "The only place on the BBC website that mentions the police raids on the homes of Fathers 4 Justice demonstrators has disappeared.

Now maybe there's a minor problem or the BBC doesn't want to say that the fathers are being treated badly in any way, in other words it's just a bunch of men complaining about nothing. Maybe I'm paranoid or maybe they're out to get me. Probably both.

http://men.typepad.com for full text."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/22/0433218.shtml

Secret Anti-perspirant Ad

Scott · 22 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Cain writes, "Procter and Gamble are running yet another unbeleivably contemptous television ad for their product Secret Antiperspirant and since a search on this site has turned up three ather articles concerning ads for the same product I have sent them the attached email and suggest that others send similar emails or letters. It would seem that since the product is an exclusively female one Procter and Gamble are reluctant to take men and our response to the ads for this product seriously. So I have included a list of products that are not exclusively female and I would encourage all those that read this to spend their money elsewhere. See the Read More section for Cain's letter and send your feedback here.

I am writing this in response to your companies long standing policy of displaying the most extraordinary levels of contempt and derision towards everything male. Your company Procter and Gamble has been running a television commercial for the product Secret Antiperspirant in which a lone male is shown helplessly stranded on the side of the road with a flat tire desperately calling a female for aid. She arrives and promptly asks "where's the spare" the response given by the hapless male is "whats a spare". She changes the tire for the poor little boy expressing the appropriate amounts of contempt and derision then walks of to the sound of "strong enough for a man but made for a women".

The contempt and derision are clear since they were intended to be so but what astonishes me most was the lie used as the vehicle of your contempt. Female presented as more than male, and male presented as less than female in an area that is at the very center of male culture and activity namely mechanical literacy, which is also an area that is almost completely absent from female culture and activity. And yet this lie and others like them so activity promoted by feminism seem now to have become Procter and Gambles lies as well.

There is a web page online known as mensactivism.org that I am quite sure your company is aware of since a quick search of the site turned up no fewer than 3 other mentions of advertising campaigns for Secret Antiperspirant all expressing the same levels of contempt. I will be posting this email along with a list of products made by Procter and Gamble and encouraging its members and visitors to spend there families income elsewhere.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/22/0444259.shtml

Men's Studies Programs, Departments

Thomas · 22 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Here is a link to over 700 women's studies programs, departments, and research centers (mostly in the United States): Women's Studies Programs, Departments, and Research Centers
With Title IX wreaking havoc in Men's Sports Programs, why is there no comparable legal ruling demanding an equal number of "gender specific" programs educating about and advocating for the many issues that males face? Men's Studies should be taught in colleges and universities (from the male perspective) based on the number of students (by gender) enrolled in each college or university? Sexism 101 (taught from a male perspective) would be a good beginning, explaining how schools today treat male students in sexist and hostile ways."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/22/1848254.shtml

Naomi Wolf - Lipstick Fem Abuser

Thomas · 23 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "In a piece to be published this week in New York Magazine, "lipstick feminist" author Naomi Wolf ("The Beauty Myth") has publicly accused aging Yale professor Harold Bloom of groping her in the 1980's when she was his student. A shameless self-promoter who has used her vixen facade to market her pseudo-intellectual brand of new feminism, Ms. Wolf apparently also has no qualms about using "third party abuse" via the media to destroy the reputation of an eminent scholar.

Independent Women's Forum has a good take on the flap.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/22/195200.shtml

Raising boys' achievement in schools (UK)

Thomas · 23 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original rage writes "Here is an article from The Independent (UK) about the ongoing initiatives to helping boys catch up with girls in schools. For those interested in the topic, you can go to www.google.com and make an advanced search with the exact phrase "raising boys' achievement" and you will see that there are currently in Great-Britain lots of programs designed for young male underachievers. It seems that things are beginning to change at last.

Rage"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/23/0033219.shtml

When will it stop

Thomas · 23 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I remember the Doctor asking me if I wanted this procedure done when my son was born. I wondered if they would have been so eager to perform a clitorectomy if I had had a girl? Guess not.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/23/0057241.shtml

Female computer virus author arrested

Adam · 24 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A female computer virus author in Belgium was recently arrested. Apparently, she was angered when a male anti-virus expert made a statement that most virus authors are male and she wanted to show that he was wrong. The virus author was also angered about comments that suggested stereotypes about virus authors."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/24/1347200.shtml

Dominatrix in the dumper!

Adam · 24 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Thundercloud. writes "I know I probably seem hyper-sensitve to the subject of female on male violence in "entertainment". especialy when the violence is sexualized and in a sado-masochistic manner.
I recently posted an article about the movie "CATWOMAN" and it's use of a 'dominatrix' type character, and aired my concernes on the matter. But perhaps I've been a bit to hasty in my concern over the polifferation of this image.
Case in point. The movie "EURO-TRIP" was released this past friday. It boasted of scenes with Lucy Lawless as, (what else?) a Dominatrix and a TEEN AGED boy in (What else?) bondage.
Well, according to Yahoo news the movie BOMBED.
If, when "CATWOMAN" is released the male audience again rejects this "Dominatrix-male victim" scenerio, perhaps I'll back off the subject a bit.
Perhaps...,"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/24/1352225.shtml

"Wifebeater" Night is Offensive?

Adam · 25 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Isn't it funny how this lighthearted joke at a bar is considered offensive but "Boys Are Stupid, Throw Rocks at Them" t-shirts are harmless fun. Notice the last line in the article, "Police will visit the pub to outline their dismay.
""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/25/1741219.shtml

Why Women Expose...

Adam · 25 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I don't usually spend a lot of time at Joe Farah's WND, as I have a rather low regard for him and his positions on gender equality. However, I did come across this second part of an article by Dennis Prager. It is actually a 2 part piece (which can be found here) on why women are exposing themselves through provocative dress, and it comes more or less in response to Nipplegate (Janet Jackson and her "exposition" during this year's Superbowl halftime show). I like his analysis, and if you read part 2, you'll note his position on sexual harassment laws and how they are so one-sided."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/25/1747222.shtml

Sacks, 'Boys are Stupid' Designer Mix it up on CNB

Adam · 26 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User writes "There was no love lost between a crusading radio talk show host and the businessman who is the target of the boycott he organized as the two debated on CNBC's "Bullseye" yesterday. Read the full story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/26/1729254.shtml

Woman Going To Prison For Booze,Sex,Porn Parties

Adam · 26 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This time a 37 year old woman(and mother of 3) was given 2 years in prison for giving underaged boys sex,porno, and booze while hubby was at work.Her 39 year old friend also took part and got 4 years.They let kids as young as 12 drink at their "parties" Point of interest from story (quoting Prosecutor Daliah Weiss):

Predatory behavior necessitates prison time," she said. "Two women acting together -- it's unusual, but again predatory, just as it would be considered if it were a man. The fact that both of them were sentenced to prison says something. It's just not to be tolerated, period."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/26/1731253.shtml

Men's Medical Association

Adam · 26 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

FutureDoc writes "St. Louis University School of Medicine is attempting to charter a student group [tentatively] called "American Men's Medical Association". The initiative is to offer male students (who are a statistical minority this year) the same benefits and representation that the women's group (AMWA) provides. There has been an incredible uproar as the meer proposal is "a slap in the face of [oppressed] women". It is likely that the group will never be allowed to be sanctioned; funny since educating about prostate cancer and the risks of heart disease in men are amongst the most pertinent topics in practical medicine; instead we will continue to support breast cancer (in women only) and try our best to insure that our female classmates are propelled ahead of us in the professional field through whatever means necessary."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/26/1733238.shtml

New Boys Are Stupid Game at David & Goliath

Adam · 27 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

hurkle writes "While we've been slapping our backs and congratulating ourselves on a big victory for men's activism, Todd Goldman has been busy capitalizing on the press generated by the "Boys Are Stupid" campaign. Check out the new game he has at their website: here How many boys can you hit with a rock? Please note the black eyes, bloody lips, and the like that appear when you play. Cute and silly as he claims? No way. Offensive? Oh yeah."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/26/1739220.shtml

MSN: Ways to get men to do chores

Adam · 27 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes " At no time have I ever seen an article extolling women to stop being so uptight about things like the occasional sock here and there. And puhleeze, you think today's man doesn't do his share of the housework and more? Note that this article never mentions that men do most or all of the "handy" work in the average house. Somehow that isn't considered housework. And let's also not forget that there is "man clean" and "woman clean". If we are really seeking equality, there ought to be equal consideration to the standards of both parties, not just of the female.

Stuff like this is only more reason for men to eschew marriage... on top of all that legal stuff... :)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/27/1658224.shtml

"You all look alike to me" - Black Congresswoman

Adam · 27 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LSBeene writes "During a closed briefing on the Haiti crisis an African-American Conresswoman, who was opining that Bush's policy on Haiti was racist, said that Bush's representatives were: "A bunch of white men". A member of the committee, whom she was directly addressing and who was hispanic, told the Congresswoman he was offended by her racist comment. Her reply: "You all look alike to me."

Link to story:

here"

I think you can guess why this is posted, if not, here's a hint: reverse the roles, can you guess what'll happen?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/27/170239.shtml

Men's Rights Congress - June 2004

Adam · 29 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "DC Chapter of NCFM is sponsoring a mens' rights congress this summer, over Father's Day week-end. This will be a summit of sorts, intended to bring many different groups together to find ways men's rights activists can start interacting and working with one another on an on-going basis. We will find our strength in cooperation and numbers, and this is where it can begin.... bot ONLY if you are willing to make it happen!!

Please go to www.mensrights2004.com and register for the conference as soon as possible so we can make the appropriate conference-related logistical decisions in good time to accomodate attendees.

Matt"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/28/2010227.shtml

DV against men

Adam · 29 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "In India, a man in his mid-twenties commited suicide. According to the police, the reason seems to be torture and harassment from his wife. Read the story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/29/2056244.shtml

Differing views on critics of boy-bashing clothing

Adam · 29 February 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "An article in the San Franicsco Chronicle newspaper targets the critics of boy-bashing T-shirts. The article implies that nobody would actually throw rocks at boys due to a T-shirt. For females, it mentions that there are issues for them such as female-bashing rap music and pressure to dress like hookers. Rush Limbaugh has his comments about this article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/02/29/2058219.shtml

Grade School Nefarious Program to Feminize Boys

Adam · 1 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Local 6 in Florida is reporting that a preschool forces five year old boys to wear dresses as punishment for "talking too much while watching TV." The female teachers humiliated several boys in front of their class. For all of the feminist hype about women being being more caring and nurturing, forgive me if I don't see it here. The DFC investigated and didn't lift a finger. But keep in mind, that's the Child Protective Service that literally looses children in their care. Anyway, I think everyone here, at least, sees thru the ulterior modivations. It has nothing to do with punishment, it's a deliberate attempt to feminize the boys according to feminidiot doctrine that gender doesn't exist."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/01/1735246.shtml

Birth control for men nearly here?

Adam · 1 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

According to this article it says: "A new contraceptive for men has been developed - the biggest revolution in family planning since the launch of the Pill. Thousands of volunteers will begin testing the implant - which works by lowering sperm count with doses of the female hormone progesterone - this month. Experts are confident that the treatment will be almost 100 per cent effective and side-effect free, and predict it could be on the market in three years." Don't forget there's similar work happening in various countries on this as well.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/01/1742233.shtml

No Child (Girl?) Left Behind?

Adam · 2 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "The title of this article is "No Parent Left Behind." It addresses the things that the No Child Left Behind Act requires that schools make available to parents. Among these things are information on achievement numbers by race, teacher qualifications, test explanations, and offers to transfer students from struggling or dangerous schools. What's missing is gender. This law does NOT require that districts maek achievement by gender available to parents.

This is a small thing but the implications are large. It's something we ought to try to change."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/02/1945204.shtml

Fathers Rights

Adam · 2 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Mother jailed for denying Father access to child ! Unbelievable. There has been more positive developments in mens rights in 2004 than in the past 20 years. See link here: article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/02/1946228.shtml

Virus Spoofing Attack Targets Mensactivism.org Users

Scott · 3 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

This morning I received an e-mail which claimed to be from "support@mensactivism.org." The message claims that the recipient's account has been disabled, and to see the attachment. It claims to be from "The Mensactivism.org team." The attachment, of course, is a virus (W32/Bagle). Please forward the entirety of any messages you receive along these lines (with the complete mail headers) to scott@mensactivism.org. Update: This is a known new internet worm that is attacking other organizations as well. Keep your anti-virus software up to date and don't trust suspicious or unsolicited e-mails.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/03/1311211.shtml

L.A. judge acknowledges anti-male bias

Adam · 3 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "This article at NBC4.TV discusses the paternity fraud case of Taron James, a Gulf War veteran in Torrance, CA, a member of NCFM-LA, and the founder of Veterans Fighting Paternity Fraud. Taron was stationed in the Gulf of Mexico on drug interdiction when a woman falsely identified him as the father of her child in order to collect benefits. The DA obtained a default judgment against Taron using faulty service that wasn't even in Taron's name. When the DA then came after Taron, he got a DNA test that excluded him as the father. The DA still pursued him and took over $45,000 of his property, driving him virtually penniless. When the DA garnished Taron's unemployment pay, Taron appealed it. The administrative law judge wrote a decision saying that he cannot do anything about it but that this was totally unjust. The article quotes part of the decision, but the best part, not quoted in the article, is when the judge says: "Further, it is acknowledged that ongoing fraud in the child support arena occurs regularly, and there is a distinct anti-male prejudice at work, of which the claimant is a victim. Hundreds if not thousands of individuals are being deprived of their due process rights to liberty and property as a result of draconian child support laws."

When NCFM-LA gets its website finally updated, we'll post the full decision."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/03/189218.shtml

Blaming Hubbie to Stay Out of Jail

Adam · 3 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mark Turner writes "Here's a great story: Dar Heatherington is a city councillor in the city of Lethbridge, Canada; about a year ago she disappeared on a business trip to Montana and showed up in Las Vegas three days later, claiming to have been drugged, kidnapped and sexually assaulted. A few days later she admitted to making the whole story up, and running off to Las Vegas with a married man. (background) NOW, in order to stay out of jail, she is claiming that her husband STALKED her, even though she's lied to police before and has absolutely no physical evidence to prove her allegations. (Story)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/03/1811251.shtml

Texas Jury Didn't Honor The Abuse Excuse Card!

Adam · 5 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "
A Texas jury convicted a woman for the brutal murder of her husband.

Her defense was based on the abuse excuse and claimed justified self-defense. She alleged he repeatedly beat her and she killed him after he raped her adding in the marital rape charge which is becoming a domestic violence popular false allegation to use against the husband.

Also, she murdered him by stabbing him almost 200 times!!!"

TLE also writes "In Houston a woman was just convicted of the murder of her husband, claiming "self defense" as the justification for stabbing him 193 times while he was bound to the bed.

CNN acticle here.

Houston Chronicle article from last week here.

How could they convict her? She's so cute!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/05/2113252.shtml

Abduction faked to hurt ex

Adam · 6 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A dethroned beauty queen admitted yesterday she staged her own abduction and beating and blamed her ex-hubby to bolster her position in a child-custody battle. Story

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/06/0128203.shtml

Amnesty International Spreading Misandry

Adam · 6 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes " Now Amnesty International has gotten into the disinformation act about violence against women.

The are stirring up the crock pot by spewing out the same old tired myths about how a woman is raped, beaten or otherwise abused by a man ever couple of seconds somewhere in the world.

Never is any mention made of the violence perpetrated against men!

Too bad Amnesty International has turned into a political organ and has apparently abandoned its original purpose as a humanitarian organization.

There is an e-mail address to contact the local Amnesty International office in your country if you would like to educate the twits!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/06/0126245.shtml

British dad's magazine

Adam · 7 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Fq Magazine

Hm! 150 k or so subscribers. Looks promising, no? Some of this, some of that, some articles on F4J! Have a look

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/07/1630256.shtml

If? More like already is! But not for much longer....

Adam · 7 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Get a load of this "use" of taxpayer money (mostly the nearest man's I imagine) It pretty much proves Esther Vilar right when she says man hardly exists in woman's world. Sometimes, I think a gendered civil war is pre-determined, what am I saying? We're already in the middle of one!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/07/206242.shtml

WashPost columnist decries Naomi Wolf's latest

Hombre · 8 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Washington Post columnist Anne Applebaum courageously and rationally called Naomi Wolf on her latest attempt to get attention for herself, ruin a man's career and/or repuatation, and otherwise be a jerk. The column speaks for itself.

While three weeks old, I came across a reference to it in today's Post's letters. Two were published, predictably both denouncing Applebaum's column. Well, what did I expect? :-)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/08/0355251.shtml

John Kerry And Sucking Up To Feminism

Hombre · 8 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Likely Presidential candidate John Kerry says if elected his administration will put American government and our legal system back on the side of women.

Well excuse me Mr. Kerry but as I see it the government has made women a social class of over privileged aristocrats at the expense of men. I don't believe this arrangement is what this country is about.

It is past time for the tide to go the other way and restore men's rights for a change!

I don't know wether to label this misandry by the Kerry campaign shameless pandering or just plain stupidity. Probably a mix of both."

Additional reading of his site shows that he supports affirmative action and Title IX, believes that women only earn 73 cent for every dollar earned by men due to massive hidden discrimination by millions of employers and not women's own choices to work fewer hours, safer jobs, etc., co-sponsored the Violence Against Women Act and the Women's Health Equity Act, and will only appoint pro-choice judges to the Supreme Court. I'm not sure that it matters whether his misandry is shameless pandering, stupidity, or anything else. As long as he's going to act like a feminist, he might as well be one.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/08/0428240.shtml

End of the Line for Canada's Top Feminazi Mandarin

Hombre · 8 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MAUS writes "Canada's foremost elected feminist official has been crowded out of the arena. After coming dangerously close to winning the leadership of the front running Liberal Party, Sheila Copps, who championed the initiative to form a "hate watch"of men's groups on the internet has lost the nomination to re-run as a Liberal in her once secure bastion. Apparently she has also burned her bridges with the NDP. This marks a receeding of the tide of feminist power in Canada. Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/08/052250.shtml

Anti-male sexual violence in the media

Adam · 9 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Doug Wells writes "Here is a (heavily edited by the newspaper) letter to the editor that I submited to the Idaho State Journal about attacks on the male groin as a source of "humor". It criticises the widespread acceptance of this particular form of sexual sadism (not to mention the hypocrisy (sp?) of women who enjoy this) and its consequences for boys. The bottom line is that best-estimates run around 50,000 school-age boys in the U.S. suffer medically-significant sexual injuries each year due to "acceptance" of this brand of sexual assualt, and the media are partly to blame for putting this "humor" nearly all childrens shows, movies, etc."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/09/171213.shtml

NH Men's Commission Web Site Up

Scott · 10 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The NH Commission on the Status of Men now has a web site where you can download the meeting minutes and keep up with what is going on there. Also listed is contact information for the Commission members, and a calendar of upcoming meetings/events.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/09/187245.shtml

Anti-Circumcision Bill Submitted to Congress

Scott · 10 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

napnip writes "A group called MGMBill.org has submitted a bill to Congress to ban routine male genital mutilation. Their website is here: http://www.mgmbill.org

Any thoughts on this? Do you think there is a chance Congress will put it to a vote? Since infant girls are protected by law from genital mutilation, I feel that it's only fair that infant boys receive the same protection.

Also, is there any chance that exclusive protection of girls could be challenged as unconstitutional, since it violates the equal protection clause?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/09/189243.shtml

UK Advertising Standards Authority Adjudication

Adam · 10 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "There is an interesting Adjudication from the UK ASA on a series of adverts from Nokia on their N-Gage Phone/Games Console. PC Pro reports:

"With tag lines such as 'This is where I took on three guys... And made them cry like babies' and, 'This is where I made Kev look small', the ASA ruled that some of the ads were indeed 'offensive and distressing' and could 'condone or encourage violence'. The judgement also said that one advert which featured the line 'This is where I left Kate, Lucy and Michelle begging for more' might encourage sexual violence towards women."

The whole adjudication can be read here. Look under New Adjudications Published, 18th Feb-10th March, then search by Advertiser name.

It's interesting that they feel "taking on three guys... and making them cry" refers to violence by persons, but where female names are mentioned in the adverts, then that can only encourage violence against women"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/10/1914255.shtml

National Committee on Status of Women broke?

Adam · 10 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Henry Vincent writes "The National Action Committee on the Status of Women is broke because the government stopped giving them money and women didn't continue to support it with monetary donations. One of Canada's loudest feminists even says the feminism born in the 60's is dead, but she still thinks the government should keep handing over money despite the fact that Canadian women seem to think this organization is irrelevant. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/10/1916210.shtml

Kobe's Prosecutors Seek to Erase History

Hombre · 11 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The prosecutors in the Kobe Bryant rape case have appealed to the Colorado Supreme Court to deny the defendant's inquiry into the sexual history of his accuser. Under Colorado's rape-shield laws, the pattern of sexual promiscuity and predation by the female accuser are to be deemed "irrelevant." Interesting that this intrepretation of the law basically means that the "lady" seeking to end Mr. Bryant's career has no personal responsibility for her own past actions and choices, and that the CO. law is biased against any man who seeks vindication by showing a pattern of intentional predatory behavior by a female. Go figure.

Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/11/1620245.shtml

Hollywood 'Stereotypes Violence to Women' - Actor

Hombre · 11 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "The mind boggles...

Hollywood 'Stereotypes Violence to Women' - Actor"

"The film industry is partly to blame for the global culture of violence against women, Star Trek actor Patrick Stewart said on Friday."

Of course they are. Just like they are to partly to blame for the interplanetary war we have with hostile martians. Both are Hollywood creations.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/11/1628224.shtml

Group to review prosecution practices

Hombre · 11 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Prosecutors and police in Suffolk County (MA)will review investigation and prosecution practices after the release Monday of a man wrongfully convicted of rape. This sounds like a step in the right direction. One has to wonder how many innocent lives have been ruined by false rape allegations? When a "she said he did" basis is used for convictions, one has to seriously question the direction that democracy has taken.

Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/11/1636213.shtml

Feminist response to false accusations

Adam · 12 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "This is how Indian feminists are responding to the growing awareness about false accusations. According to them, the perception that women make false accusations is 'a myth'. Read the story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/12/1851213.shtml

New Site Helps Men with Life Struggles

Adam · 12 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

GeekFish writes "A story is running on Religion Journal about a website geared to helping men with men's issues. MensRefuge offers individual help for men seeking advice, who may not otherwise reach out in a non-anonymous enviornment. The site is based on Christian principles, but offers hope and advice to all men, not just Christians. Looks like they don't even allow women to post on their forums. Finally, someone reaching out to men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/12/1857236.shtml

Age is no Barrier

Adam · 13 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "It seems age is no barrier in preventing a female killing her husband and then blaming it on other people. This 81 year old, killed her husband and blamed it on two male burglars, before claiming he committed suicide before finally admitting the truth. It seems she was tired of his deteriorating health and having to look after him. Although not in this particular news item, it was reported in other stories that the defence claimed that it "was not in anyone's interest" to prosecute an old woman."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/13/2017255.shtml

Feminist inspired mess in Massachusetts

Adam · 14 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "MA is perhaps one on the worst states to live in if you happen to be male. The same court system that is now under national scrutiny because the will of 4 judges intends to change the definition of marriage for all citizens in the state, has denied upholding the basic constitutional rights of divorced fathers and for all men for decades now. "We're up against like powers that be in the courts," (in regard to the courts decision on marriage) said Mike Franco, state chairman of The Fatherhood Coalition. "It's judicial tyranny and activism where judges are using their discretion to put forth a political agenda." Feminist Jurisprudence has wrecked havoc in men's lives for decades now. Several of the "couples" suing to effect marriage change are NOW lesbians. In MA the media is pro-feminist in all issues relating to gender. Another issue in MA is that the Boston marathon has decided to let the women run 25 minutes before the men so that women will not get "lost in the pack and enjoy the victory without 2nd-tier male athletes in the way." This prestigious sporting event has been spoiled by gender policy! All of the local newscasts ran 5 minute segments about an alleged "groping" of a female college student where no one was hurt before airing this news about the marathon. Every station! This had to be a deliberate attempt to stir up anger in women and shame men before dropping another feminist/elitist maneuver on the public. Another court case, where both parents starved a child to death, the man gets life, she got time served. Every day, it is an outrage living in MA, and most people still view women as oppressed? How much longer until women and men have a completely separate set of laws? article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/13/2027231.shtml

Woman who worked in clip joint has 'Heart of Gold'

Adam · 14 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original ahhkaboom writes "In London, England, the Soho district is notorious for its 'clip joints'. Women lure men in with the promise of a cheap strip show, and then bouncers arrive after ten minutes to rob the man of all he has. The police laugh at you if you complain about this robbery, probably because you've committed a heterosexual-male-crime by going into a strip club. Recently, a robbed man stabbed a woman who worked at clip joints, but she had a 'heart of gold' according to the press. Articles here and

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/14/2013223.shtml

Britain's Father's Rights Activists Rock Family Law

Adam · 14 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MND is covering Britain's Father's Rights Campaign: here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/14/2014208.shtml

Happy Birthday to MaleDepression.com!

Steve · 15 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I'm happy to announce that March 14, 2004 was MaleDepression.com's second birthday! We would serve cake and ice cream if we could figure out a way to do it virtually that wasn't too messy. :-) The guys on our team are ready to come out swinging in our third year of helping men who suffer from mood disorders. Please visit our home page (http://www.maledepression.com) for the latest updates about the exciting things happening at the site.

Over the past two years, it has been a real blessing and privilege to provide this site. This work has been very important to me and I hope to continue it for many years to come. I especially thank Scott G., MANN's founder, for his generosity and his unflagging support for MaleDepression.com and all men's health issues.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/15/1145207.shtml

Sacks Nails NOW on Family Court Hypocrisy

Adam · 15 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User writes "Glenn's latest column concerns NOW's role in the crucuial LaMusga move-away case currently in the CA. Supreme Court. He writes:
"My wife is a successful career woman. She has moved up rapidly in a competitive field, and is advancing her career by attending law school at night. I work out of our home and I do most of the child care. If I decide I don't want her anymore, should I be able to move our kids 2,400 miles away from their mother?

The California National Organization for Women thinks I should."

Read the full column here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/15/2044230.shtml

More good work from Fathers 4 Justice

Adam · 15 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "More good work from Fathers 4 Justice in February. Read all about it! Keep up the good work, guys! a bit

here and some more here and more there and a bit over here as well"

Don't relent now folks, keep up the pressure.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/15/2056222.shtml

Drive for Referendum on Shared Custody in Michigan

Adam · 16 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Larry writes "Dads of Michigan is starting a petition drive to get a question on the the November Ballot. The ultimate goal is to get a law passed so that divorced couples share custody of their children, unless one parent is declared unfit. The kickoff of the campaign was covered by both Channel 7 News in Detroit and the Detroit News newspaper. To learn more about the petition drive that Dads of Michigan started Saturday at post officers across the state, give Dads of Michigan a call at 248-559-DADS."

Look at all this activism! In all my time as an admin here, I've never seen so much activism happening as I have now.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/15/2059219.shtml

Sex, Lies, and Video Stores

Adam · 16 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Hunchback writes "Usually with false allegations of sex abuse, the best the accused can hope for is exoneration. The man barely escapes with his life in tatters, and the true victimizer drifts back into anonymiity with her life in tact. What happens when (finally) the accused strikes back. Check this out"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/16/1931234.shtml

UK Police Data on DV - Women Abuse Too

Adam · 16 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "An excellent illustration of DV stats by the London Metropolitan Police which debunks the myth of "male=offender, female=victim". The BBC article shows that in 25% of all cases investigated, the woman was the abuser.

Unfortunately, there is the usual mitigating statement about some women's violence:
"[some women's]..violence appeared to be defensive and in retaliation to the threat of or actual violence from the male partner."

Since every rational person could argue that "some" men would also have been "abusers" by this definition, and that these two groups of abusers should cancel each other out, then the fact remains that the police force in the UK's biggest city has found that 1 in 4 DV perpetrators it arrests/investigates are female!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/16/2331259.shtml

Men's Health is the topic of the future

Adam · 17 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

rage writes "Although the first article in PDF format is a bit old, I thought it would be interesting to inform the site's readers about the implementation of a vast men's health network throughout the Western countries. Now there is even an MPs' group in the UK parliament dedicated to men's health that gathers left-wing as well as right-wing MPs.

The second article is also very useful, as it informs us of the creation of the equivalent of gynecologists for men in two cities of Germany, so that men could be followed early in life by doctors (like women). The purpose is to reduce the lifespan gap between the sexes. As it is said in the article, once having reached the age of 70, the difference of life expectancy between men and women is only 2.5 years, so it highlights the need for early prevention for young men, who are the most at risk.

Good news, after all maybe men will see their lives getting better in the future."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/16/2336247.shtml

Mother charged in killing newborns

Adam · 17 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mcc99 writes "Wow.
In this story they sort of suggest that the insanity excuse will be pursued. Predictably."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/17/2315206.shtml

Another falsified police report

Adam · 18 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jeff writes "Another woman lies, scares the community, and costs taxpayers. Oh, but she's sorry...guess that makes everything okay, doesn't it? When will it stop? Will these women ever be held accountable for their actions? Read the article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/17/2316243.shtml

False rape accuser convicted of 2nd degree murder

Adam · 18 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes ""A 17-year-old girl whose false rape claim led to the shooting death of television and film actor Merlin Santana was convicted Tuesday of second-degree murder" article

here"

Registration Required.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/17/2321219.shtml

U.S. Supreme Court ruling on Hearsay Evidence

Adam · 18 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "Supreme Court Ruling on Hearsay Evidence The Oregonian reports on a recent ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court, which will help a defendant to face his accuser. The article reports that this will affect domestic violence and abuse cases, and is a victory for our Constitutional law (6th Amendment), which states that a defendant has a right to face his accuser. One can't help but wonder what will happen to the numerous, almost identical, victim advocate reports that are used in alleged abuse cases by victim advocates as they regurgitate the vernacular of the gender feminist domestic violence movement?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/17/2324230.shtml

Differences in Male and Female Sexual Behavior Biologically Determined

Thomas · 19 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

It cracks me up that so many feminists still claim that differences between males and females are social constructs and that the world will be far better off once men's artificial masculinity has been properly deconstructed along the lines of feminist doctrine. It's as though mainstream feminists, in the face of a growing torrent of scientific evidence, are hell bent on making laughing stocks of themselves.

Here's yet another piece of evidence debunking that ridiculous feminist myth. With respect to the long "debate about how much sexual behaviour was biological and how much was learned," Dr. Darren Russell, senior lecturer in sexual health at Melbourne University, states, "I think more and more we're moving toward a biological model of sex, that a large part of our sexual behaviour and other behaviours are preordained... A lot of our sexual chemistry and behaviour is probably determined before birth."

I s'pose many fembots will eventually drop their claim that differences between males and females are social constructs and instead state that males and females are fundamentally different and females are, by nature, superior.

NB: Joe Manthey submitted this related essay on the importance of biological differences between males and females.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/19/1710233.shtml

The Kraken Wakes

Thomas · 19 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Wendy McElroy has published an essay on FoxNews.com (probably read by quite a few people) about the cold reception being given to Naomi Wolf's most recent claim to victimhood. As McElroy points out, "a cultural tide has turned."

It's been my personal experience to find that, here at the hypocenter of the Kobe Bryant tempest, women as well as men are no longer falling for the vile claim that women don't lie about rape. Most of the people with whom I've spoken about the Bryant case, at least those who state their opinion on the matter (and in many cases they're the ones who broach the topic), say they believe he's innocent. And several, including women, have expressed outrage at this nation's plague of false accusations against men.

Hey, Ray. Do you have a T-shirt that states, "Imprison False Accusers"?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/19/1739227.shtml

Man seeks $65,000 for flawed alimony ruling

Thomas · 20 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "STOCKHOLM (Reuters) - A Swedish man who paid alimony for 13 years for a child he knew was not his has been proven right and now wants half a million crowns ($65,000) in compensation."

Thomas writing now: Maybe the law wouldn't allow it, but it's too bad the man isn't trying to have the mother imprisoned for fraud.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/19/1748227.shtml

Police officer in landmark challenge for single fathers

Thomas · 20 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Julian Abbott writes "In the UK, A divorced police officer begins a sex discrimination challenge against his force today, accusing senior officers of adopting practices that favour single working mothers over single fathers."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/19/1754211.shtml

Not one, but two false complaints in Rhode Island

Thomas · 20 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "There is another report of a woman, by the name of Sinead E. O'Brien, charged with submitting a false rape report to the police. She was charged 1 week ago. The case also occurred in Rhode Island, the same state where another woman, Stephanie E. Estep, was also charged on the very following day.

Thomas writing now: The second case is discussed on MANN here. And here's a discussion of the hateful, feminist declaration that women don't lie about rape.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/19/1810222.shtml

Child Abuse

Adam · 20 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "What influences in American culture have led these females to believe that "a girl kissing a boy" deserves this kind of behavioral reaction?
Females Batter Child Into Coma Has radical feminist ideology so stigmatized heterosexuality that "puppy love" now triggers such a violent reaction?"

Registration required.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/20/226259.shtml

A man friendly book

Adam · 21 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Am I to believe Rachel Snyder's book on amazon called "What There Is to Love About a Man" has only two reviews? Outrageous! you know what to do.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/20/2224234.shtml

Blog for DAHM

Adam · 22 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "I've begun posting another previously-published novel of mine in blog form at The DesertLight Journal here.

This is "Friends to the End", about a male victim of domestic violence. This is a subject that seldom comes to light, due to society's resistance to the idea that a man could actually be a victim.

While it is fiction, I've been told by men who have been in this situation, that it is in fact, quite true to life.

Readers can make a donation to the Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men at the link provided at the DLJ."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/22/1830241.shtml

Domestic Violence Against Men in South Africa

Thomas · 23 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "I came across this news report from South Africa. Looks like the authorities in that country are taking the problem seriously and initiating measures to tackle it. Read it here".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/23/0918251.shtml

Advances in Education -- BIG TIME!

Thomas · 23 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Looks like ol' George is following through, and the results may well be magnificent. (I might actually vote for this guy. That's a mind bender, but a different story. Hell, I might even campaign for him.) This FoxNews.com article reports on how the Bush administration is "following through on a promise to make it easier for school districts across the country to operate girls-only and boys-only schools".

Of course, the article goes on and on about females' educational needs and never mentions how boys are lagging far behind girls in school these days. Nevertheless, this is great news. I went to an all-boys high school. It was one of the greatest experiences of my life, and that was before feminist teacheresses and administratoresses turned schools into bastions of anti-male indoctrination.

It's a lot to say, but I think this education-movement may prove to be one of the most important advances/corrections in American culture in decades.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/23/1013247.shtml

Advances in Education -- BIG TIME!

Thomas · 23 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Sorry. I'm not sure why, but this got posted twice, so I'm deleting the text message here. If you're going to discuss this topic, please do so on the other thread.

Thanks.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/23/1015235.shtml

Have a drink for your heart

Thomas · 23 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes Here is a little good news for men (and women) who like to have a drink now and then. Drinking in moderation appears to reduce heart-related deaths in men with high blood pressure, new research suggests, challenging the belief among many doctors that alcohol should be off-limits to such patients. It is nice to see a contemporary study with a focus on men for a change in the Boston Globe."

Thomas writing now. I've now seen reports on numerous studies indicating that drinking in moderation is good for one's health (typically one drink per day for women and two drinks per day for men). Of course, there are always caveats published with the results. Some of the studies have indicated that wine, especially red wine, is best for one's health. Others seem to indicate that it is ethanol that has the health benefits. Every report that I've read warns about excessive consumption and emphasizes that individual circumstances are of critical importance. In any case, it is good to see this study done with such a large sample of men. 14,125. Wow.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/23/0930239.shtml

Offensive Foley's ad

Thomas · 23 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Today I saw a Foley's ad on some of the plasma TV's hanging in the middle of the FlatIron Crossing Mall (Broomfield, CO). This showed a male mannequin admiring a woman who was trying on clothes in the store. A female mannequin next to him then hit him over the head with her purse. Afterwards, he looked humbled while she had a smug smile on her face.

I'm so sick of companys marketing misandry.

Here is Foley's home page."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/23/0936249.shtml

Yahoo! portal features Men's Health Week

Adam · 24 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Well, 'bout time! yahoo is featuring Men's Health Week. A pleasant surprise. The feature links to this page: here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/24/193208.shtml

Spin Sisters

Adam · 25 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes ""Spin Sisters: How the Women of the Media Sell Unhappiness and Liberalism to the Women of America" by former Ladies Home Journal editor Myrna Blyth, exposes the predominance of liberal, feminist-leaning journalists in women's magazines.

Aricles:
first
,
second and third"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/24/194252.shtml

New Free E-book: Breaking The Shackles

Adam · 25 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roan Kaufman writes "I am currently working as the publisher of the newly revised edition of Breaking the Shackles, edited by John Everingham and Roy Schenk. The book features chapters with Robert Bly, Gershen Kaufman, Bill Kauth, Rich tosi, Asa Baber and more.
The book is available for free at www.shametojoy.com
Please let your readers know.
Sincerely,
Roan Kaufman
(608)-238-6681"

Do make an effort to donate and help support this kind of work ok?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/25/2323210.shtml

Woman Fired for Sexual Harassment

Adam · 25 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

hurkle writes "The tide slowly turns. Of course, this article about a woman getting fired for sexual harassment appears in Yahoo's Oddly Enough section, but it is clear that the PC world of do-nothing-nice-for-anyone-ever is now beginning to backfire on women. The way it's written, everyone involved seems slightly confused that this could actually happen. Hah!

article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/25/2327206.shtml

Bobby Brown is being used as an example

Adam · 26 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Singer Bobby Brown was jailed for failure to pay $63,500 in child support payments to the mother of two of his children. After being incarcerated for one day (but up to 90 days) in debtor's prison by Family Court Judge Paula Carey, he paid this court ordered debt. Brown is by no means a role model, or perhaps even a good man, but his life reflects that of many underprivileged men who end up in debtor's prison (remember the constitution was supposed to protect against this). Now this isn't to say that fathers do not have responsibility for their children, but awarded monthly support payment amounts often exceed the actual costs of raising a child and often resemble punitive damage payments to the mother who has sole responsibility for every decision for the child. The "Spin Sisters" in the media have made sure that Bobby's imprisonment is broadcasted and set as an example for other men who have similar backgrounds to Bobby. Obey, pay, or jail."

You know, whenever I look at articles like this, I keep being reminded of a name "Daniel Amneus" perhaps if you did a search, you might find out why?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/26/136237.shtml

Advocates fear due process

Adam · 26 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "The woman accusing NBA star Kobe Bryant of rape will be forced to testify Wednesday about her sex life a move some experts (who are these experts?)fear could discourage other women from reporting sexual assaults, so the feminist media outlets are already crying foul and are concerned that due process might get restored in cases of alleged rape. Women are indoctrinated from early childhood to report any issue that hints of assault, so to say that someone's history is irrelevant is ludicrous as everywoman knows that she can ruin a man on mere allegation alone today. When one has a rape allegation against them, the media broadcasts his face and name to the world before a verdict is met while the "victim" hides behind a veil of secrecy. The victim advocacy that exists in today's courts jeopardize any semblance of a fair trial, plain and simple. The media outlets never give someone acquitted of charges much attention. With DNA testing, many men are freed from jail every year, and I bet if a look at the false accuser's life were admissible in the court room, many innocent men would not have their lives ruined to satisfy feminist jurisprudence and the feminist media spin doctors.

article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/26/137225.shtml

Canada's Top Court Upholds Pre-Nups

Adam · 27 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MAUS writes "Today the Supreme Court of Canada overturned decisions of two lower courts which cut a man's assets in two in spite of pre-nuptual agreement. The top court has ruled that pre-nuptuals and separation agreements, especially when both parties had fair access to legal council WILL NOT be subject to review or revision by any court in Canada because one party may deem them unfair after the fact. For unscrupulous lawyers in Canada who have profitted by the culture of mysandry, becomming a millionaire through screwing men in divorce court has just become harder. Prehaps the thought police commisioned by SOW to monitor mens activism sites on the internet are starting to get the message article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/27/1112207.shtml

Suing the False Accuser

Adam · 27 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes ""How much money do you think it would be worth to you for every year spent in a maximum-security prison for a crime you didn't commit?" Soldier whose rape case was overturned files suit That's a tough question to ask, but that is exactly what the man in this story is doing. Another question one might want to ask is, "Did 'Rape Shield Laws' play any part in the false conviction and incarceration of this innocent man?" When one goes to the Innocence Project web site, Innocence Project and looks over the 143 people (all but one are male) who've been freed by DNA evidence, it boggles the mind to think how many other innocent men must be rotting in American jails today. Look over the reasons for false convictions on that web site if you get a chance. Are those 143 men who were falsely convicted just the tip of the iceberg in our misandric country that now has the highest rate of incarceration in the world (we passed Russia), 93% of whom are men? No wonder more and more men have no confidence in the integrity of our entire legal system."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/27/1744205.shtml

Female teacher busted for sexual abuse

Adam · 28 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "The unusual twist in this story, one that should make the public response to the case particularly interesting to watch, is that the student is a female. here's one
article and the other"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/28/1656211.shtml

Glenn Sacks asks for our help

Adam · 29 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LSBeene writes "I wrote to Glenn Sacks about starting a new campaign. I suggested that we target a company that makes male-bashing commercials or uses violence against men as an advertising tool. He replied:

Steven--I can't do a campaign on this right now for various reasons. What I would like to do is to do a show on anti-male TV and radio advertising, with audio clips from some anti-male ads. If you and your sympathizers could collect some for us (Foleys and others) we could do the show. I don't have the staff to prepare it myself, at least for now.
Best Wishes,
Glenn Sacks

I am hoping that people at this BBS and others I post on would be willing to send him examples of violence against men as an advertising tool. From our examples he can get a new campaign started. This is our call to action. I could really use the help. What do you say?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/29/2024242.shtml

God Made Her Do It, Not The Devil

Adam · 30 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Miss Yates said it was the Devil, Miss Laney will claim it was God.

This is the first I hear of this one, but I obviously missed it the first go round. This article says that it is already at trial and that this all happened on May 10 (2003?) Did anyone see this reported back in May? I have seen many stories on women killing their children in the last year, even though it is usually only a blip on the newspage and usually in one of those "oddly enough" sections. But, I think I would remember if this was one of them. I actually find this one more disturbing than Andrea Yates. A tip for Miss Laney: when you tell the jury that God made you do it, make sure you point out that in this kind of situation, God is a man."

RPB659 also writes "Here is a link to a story about a woman that killed two of her sons with rocks, and seriously and permanently injured the other (18 mo. old) son. We should make sure that POS at David & Goliath sees this. Remember when Todd Goldman said that no one was actually going to use rocks against boys?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/30/1235239.shtml

Duped Husband Also Guilty?

Adam · 30 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "In this case, a woman duped her husband and others into thinking their daughter had cancer to keep the husband from leaving them. They both accepted donations to cover nonexistant cancer treatments, the father trusting the wife and having her handle all the medical visits and bills. The woman got 6 1/2 years in prison. The husband - 4 years 11 months. Are men ever "victims"?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/30/1237233.shtml

Paternity Testing Now!

Thomas · 31 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

amperro writes "Marilyn vos Savant, of Parade magazine's "Ask Marilyn" (Sunday, March 14, 2004) states that "based on genetic counselors stumbling across many cases of discrepant fatherhood in the course of testing for inheritable diseases" 10% of American children were fathered by someone other than "Daddy"! She goes on to say that the figure may be even higher, stating women might avoid "medical tests unless absolutely necessary." WE NEED MANDATORY PATERNITY TESTING AT BIRTH RIGHT NOW!!!"

Thomas writing now: Sorry I'm late getting this posted.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/31/0251248.shtml

Child support agencies not doing their "job"

Adam · 31 March 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "The Senate voted Tuesday for an additional $6 billion for child care for welfare recipients. This increase in welfare begs a few questions: If the huge amount of federal money spent to subsidize the government attack on "dead beat dads" is in place to supposedly decrease the burden of taxpayers in an effort to support single mother homes, then perhaps the anti-father collection agencies backed by our government's forces aren't functioning correctly. Or perhaps these agencies exist for the sole purpose of attacking heterosexual males as run by feminist power bureaucracies, as huge budgets will get allocated for welfare needs anyway? One opponent of this additional money, Sen. Rick Santorum, R-Pa., said a $1 billion increase already built into the legislation was sufficient. "The idea that there isn't enough money out there for day care is a ruse," Santorum said. "What this is about is a social policy that people should be more and more dependent upon government." Article is

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/03/31/2024214.shtml

Vote on "If... women ruled the world" good or bad

Adam · 1 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "The BBC broadcast a programme called "If... women ruled the world". I discuss it on my blog. BBC - "If... women ruled the world" - Don't Blink You Might Miss The Men Talking.

"All the drama-documentaries in the IF series are based on rigorous journalism and research, here's just a few facts about how women's roles have changed, and could continue to change in the future."

I'm tempted to say that it was researched as well as weapons of mass destruction were researched before the Iraq invasion.

Anyway, at If... women ruled the world you can vote on "Would a women's world be a better place?" Currently 55% No. Can we get it higher?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/01/1658213.shtml

25 Greatest Getaways for Men by MSN

Adam · 1 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes " We've found the best places you've never been. The map is in your hands. All you have to do is pack a bag and walk out the door. Here is a little pro-male reporting from the typically misandric MSN crew. Enjoy, and perhaps take a trip."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/01/171219.shtml

Do We Need a Men's Rights Movement?

Thomas · 1 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Christian Science Monitor is having a poll on whether or not there should be a men's rights movement.

Unfortunately, they missed the boat by having as the only two options, "No. Men still enjoy a privileged position," and "Yes. Casual male-bashing has become too commonplace." Casual male-bashing is hardly the only anti-male discrimination in a society, where men and boys are disappearing from the educational system; male suicide is rampant; far more money is put into researching female-specific diseases than male-specific diseases; for a given crime men receive far more severe sentences than women; paternity fraud is pandemic; men are railroaded in divorce and child custody determinations; domestic violence by women against men is either ignored or excused as self-defense; men account for 94% of workplace fatalities, and there is a federal Office of Women's Health but no federal Office of Men's Health, despite the fact that on average women outlive men by the better part of a decade — to name a few items.

If you'd like, you can vote here. When I last checked, the poll was running 81% in favor of a men's movement.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/01/2013232.shtml

IWF dismisses men's concerns

Adam · 2 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes ″

Notice their commentary reflecting a lack of sympathy for men paying C/S and then on to talking about what happened recently in Iraq. Do they suppose those Iraqi men were raised by their fathers? And I won't even start on the question of whether or not anyone, male or female can be trained to be killer or for that matter, whether they appreciate being invaded and occupied.

This is again part of the general dismissal of men's issues I find so offensive, coupled with a lack of ability to analyze situations that come from too many people of both sexes these days. Really makes me want to move out. I suppose the idea of paternity fraud doesn't strike IWF as being patently unfair, or the sexist selective service, etc., etc.?

I am sure in their own way groups like IWF mean well but the truth is, they're still feminists. They don't care a whit about men except in so far as we are useful in some way to women."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/02/2144247.shtml

Fred on the Feminization of America

Adam · 4 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Philalethes writes "In his usual haphazard, insightful and amusing fashion, Fred Reed once again hits several nails on the head: To quote: "In the United States women are, I think for the first time in history, gaining real power. What will be the consequences? ... Men use [power] to conquer their neighbors whether in business or war, women to impose security and pleasantness. ... Just about everything that once defined masculinity is now denounced as "macho," a hostile word embodying the female incomprehension of men. ... The question may be whether one fears most being conquered or being nicened to death. ... Men are happy for men to be men and women to be women; women want us all to be women."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/04/142200.shtml

The time for revolution is now!

Adam · 4 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "
Stephen Baskerville has compiled the most accurate assessment of the anti-father police state machinery. This article clearly exposes the horrendously misandric governmental controls that has been spawned by the relentless machinations of feminism and right wing criminology on fathers. "Virtually every major social pathology has been linked to fatherless children: violent crime, drug and alcohol abuse, truancy, unwed pregnancy, suicide, and psychological disorders—all correlating more strongly with fatherlessness than with any other single factor. Tragically, however, government policies intended to deal with the "fatherhood crisis" have been ineffective at best because the root cause is not child abandonment by fathers but policies that give mothers an incentive to initiate marital separation and divorce." Forward this article to everyone you know!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/04/144236.shtml

Man fighting for equal rights.

Adam · 5 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "In this article

Christian Tompras can't get a seat on Chesterfield Township Republican Committee because he's a man. This married 43-year-old Saint Louis University law student plans to sue, alleging that Missouri's committeeman/committeewoman setup violates federal and state anti-discrimination laws. His papers were rejected because state law mandates that only a woman can run for this post. Once again the Associated Press (AP) and the Boston Globe have relegated government sanctioned sexism against men as an "Odds and Ends" news report, whereas if this were to happen to a woman it would be all over the media.. Hasn't society suffered enough due to feminist inspired lawsuits that simply hint of sexism, yet our own government and the same feminists that created these very same types of lawsuits support overt sexism against men? Lets get behind this one…"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/05/2012211.shtml

Misandric Dairy Queen commercial

Adam · 5 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Shortly after the misandric Capital One commercial, I also saw the last part of a misandric Dairy Queen commercial in which a toddler head butts and kicks his dad in the groin because dad didn't share his food.

To complain about this commercial to Dairy Queen, please go to:

here

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/05/2015230.shtml

Justice Denied to Abused & Murdered Boys

Adam · 6 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "A Texas woman who brutally battered two of her young sons to death with rocks in a barbaric act of domestic violence was found not guilty by reason of insanity: Rock kills boys - Female "not guilty" A third son was left badly damaged. It was revealed that "hearing voices" was one of the criteria she met for insanity. Isn't it an ironic coincidence that women's voices, pleading for lenient sentencing, are more frequently "heard" by our courts than male voices pleading for justice. It appears no one in that court "heard" the cries of those three little boys."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/06/1522204.shtml

Domestic violence propaganda in California

Adam · 6 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Severin writes "This article discusses a group called WEAVE (Women Escaping a Violent Environment) based out of Sacramento, CA. It would appear that this group is promoting a very one-sided picture of domestic violence and is doing it in the public schools in front of, as the author of the article states, "a captive audience of students." A read of their website is also rather enlightening, and frustrating. I intend to write them, directing them to some appropriate alternative viewpoints. Anyone else want in on this?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/06/1522251.shtml

Sacks Condemns CA Senate Assault on Fathers

Adam · 7 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User writes "In the LaMusga move-away case, the California Supreme Court is currently debating how to best preserve the bonds between children and their parents after a divorce. By contrast, Senate President Pro Tem John Burton (D-San Francisco) is trying to slip a bill through the legislature to make it easier for custodial parents to sever these bonds by slipping out of town."
See Glenn's article on the bill here"\I>

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/07/179246.shtml

Again With The "Strange News"

Adam · 8 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Here we go again... Anything a female does wrong is automatically considered "Strange News". Fifteen months for buying beer? Right! Sounds to me like she got a sweetheart deal for a perverted little fetish of getting naked in front of young boys.

It goes without saying, but I'll say it anyway. Switch the genders. I know she did not admit to, nor was she convicted of, the stripping thing. But substitute a man in her position buying beer for young girls. For one thing, it would be called "plieing them with alcohol" rather than just "buying beer". And only 15 months, sure...."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/08/1511212.shtml

New legislation announced today

Adam · 9 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "California State Senator Bill Morrow (R-Oceanside) today announced he is authoring Senate Bill 1335, a legislative "Academic Bill of Rights" designed to protect students and promote learning in California's public universities and colleges.

Senate Bill 1335 would implement several affirmative principles that protect the academic freedom of students and faculty. The legislation would direct the California State University system and California Community Colleges to adopt the safeguards. SB 1335 would recommend voluntary adoption by the Board of Regents of the more autonomous University of California system. The principles include:

(partial list)

Faculty shall expose students to the spectrum of significant scholarly viewpoints on the subjects examined in their courses and not use the courses as platforms for the purpose of ideological, religious or anti-religious indoctrination.

Selection of visiting speakers, allocation of speaker program funds, and related activities shall observe the principles of academic freedom and intellectual pluralism."

"The only question I asked Sen. Morrow was, "How will this legislation affect the historically biased veiwpoint that women's studies programs have historically presented concerning all "men?" I await his reply.

If you live in California I urge you to write and call Senator Morrow in support of this legislation at:

Senator Bill Morrow -
State Capitol, Room 4048 -
Sacramento, CA 95814 -
Phone: (916) 445-3731 - or email: Senator.Morrow@sen.ca.gov

If this submission is posted I will post more of this bills points from the email sent to me. I have been unable to find a link to this bills contents."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/09/1445226.shtml

More 'Oddly Enough' on Yahoo's news site

Adam · 9 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Article.

Of course if she had been a he... we all know that he'd be in jail and get fined!

Maybe we ought to start an e-mail write-in campaign to Yahoo re its sexist 2x-standard placement of when-she-was-bad stories in the "Oddly Enough" section vs. placing the when-he-was-bad stories right up on the front page. Any takers?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/09/2333243.shtml

AP: Women and children only may leave Fallujah

Adam · 11 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "The following AP article speaks volumes about the expendability of civilian men in Fallujah, Iraq:

here
"A stream of hundreds of cars carrying women, children and elderly headed out of the city after Marines announced they would be allowed to leave. Families pleaded to be allowed to take out men, and when Marines refused, some entire families turned back."
In fairness to the Marines, almost all of those killed in Iraq have also been men as well - Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/11/1116238.shtml

Grown men need to grow up apparently

Adam · 11 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jim writes "This article from the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. examines the reasons why so many men are apparently still living with their parents well into their 30's and 40's. I thought this would be an objective look into an interesting subject, but it soon becomes obvious after a few paragraphs that this is not an even-handed article. Who agrees?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/11/1118251.shtml

Domestic Abuse Helpline For Men Fundraiser

Adam · 11 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "No Excuse For Abuse

The Domestic Abuse Helpline For Men is having a fundraiser of $20,000 dollars to purchase more space to carryout the ever growing number of cases of domestic abuse against men that are coming its way. So far as I can tell there has been a whooping $2,000 raised for this noble effort! Have all the men and women who visit this site sent in a contribution? You can donate by Paypal on site. I have!

The call volume to our toll free 24x7 helpline has quadrupled in the over three years we have been in existence. For over three years we have worked out of a small home office responding to callers from all across the U.S. 24 hours a day, developing trainings, mailing requested materials, and setting up annual educational conferences on male victimization etc. Now is the time to start expanding our services and capabilities! There is a building for sale nearby that has just the space we need to accommodate offices for our volunteer staff and a larger room to hold trainings, support groups and other meetings."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/11/1120210.shtml

Bumbling Dad Ads

Adam · 11 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MB-Chicago writes "Clueless Dads

Search: Bumbling Dad Ads

Ads have found new fall guys to sell products

By Theresa Howard, USA TODAY

Clueless men and bumbling dads have been the laughing stock of Madison Avenue lately. With political correctness putting an ever-increasing portion of the population off limits for humorous situations, advertisers are increasingly casting straight males as folks who can't cook, drive or watch the kids without making a mess of it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/11/1122216.shtml

We are looking for 50 good men and women

Tom · 12 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Are you tired of seeing good men shot down by bad laws and bad courts? Are you tired of the feminist propaganda being the status quo?

If you are please join us and take a stand at the href="http://www.mensrights2004.com"> Men's Rights Congress this

June 18-19 in Washington DC. If these issues are important to you please drop what you are doing and join us. We need you to be there. Our goal is to gather a sizable number of men and women to make a strong statement that our issues deserve to be addressed. We have a goal of registering at least 50 people by May 15th. If you are planning to come, as many of you are, please sign up now. In the event that we don't get a good turnout we will likely cancel the event so href="http://www.mensrights2004.com/reg.php3">please sign up now.

All too often men's events such as this are under-attended and we are determined not to let that happen for this event. Join us! Take a stand at the U.S. Capitol on Capitol Hill. Be there.

We have gotten a great response from presenters and leaders from around the country who are planning to be with us. Scott Garman, the creator of MANN will be among them. Come and meet Scott along with Steven Baskerville, Jack Kammer, Michael Geanoulis and many others. Mike is a member of the New Hampshire Men's Commission and will be presenting one of many planned sessions. Glenn Sacks and Warren Farrell may also be attending.

If you can't come please consider offering a href="http://www.mensrights2004.com/reg.php3">scholarship or making a donation to the cause. If you are worried about money let us know. We will do whatever we can to help you attend including help in finding affordable housing.

We must all hang together, or most assuredly we shall all hang separately. - Benjamin Franklin, 1776

If you won't take a stand who will?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/12/186247.shtml

Womenforhire.com

Hombre · 12 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "Got an email from careerbuilder.com advertising a WomenForHire (www.womenforhire.com) event in the DC area. Immediately my blood pressure went up. Do they do MenForHire conferences? No.

Calls to their office at (212) 580-6100 nets one a less-than-ideal response. Comments, they say, are taken via e-mail at jami@womenforhire.com.

Let them know what you think of their sexist ways. Would "MenForHire" or "WhitesForHire" stand a chance of going unchallenged? Why let this go unchallenged?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/12/2020243.shtml

Refuting the "Self-Defense" DV argument

Hombre · 12 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc Angelucci writes "In the recent discussion at mensactivism.org, an anonymous poster (who sounds like the male feminist known as "ampersand") quotes Dr. Richard Gelles as saying that domestic violence by women is often self defense or retaliation. I wrote a response but I don't see it posting. I think it's important that men's rights activists all be aware of why the "self defense" argument is unfounded. Too many of us go silent when confronted with it due to lack of awareness about the research, and feminists are using this as a very misleading tool. Below is a response I wrote to the anonymous poster on the issue in which I give references to some very good refutations of the self-defense argument. Anyone who is not familiar enough with the "self defense" argument should look up the sources and be prepared to answer it when the argument comes up, which it will.

*Marc"*Anon, You quote Richard Gelles in a 1994 article in which he implies that domestic violence by women is often self defense or retaliation. I provide a link (below) to a thorough refutation of the "self-defense" argument (which stems from the claim that the Conflict Tactics Scale used by many studies does not ask about context or self-defense).

But first, you should know that your 1994 source is outdated and that Gelles later took a completely different position in his 1999 article, "The Hidden Side of Domestic Violence: Male Victims," in which he states: "contrary to the claim that women only hit in self-defense, we found that women were as likely to initiate the violence as were men. In order to correct for a possible bias in reporting, we reexamined our data looking only at the self-reports of women. The women reported similar rates of female-to-male violence compared to male-to-female, and women also reported they were as likely to initiate the violence as were men." http://www.ncfmla.org/gelles.html

Gelles' email is on the article and you are free to email him, as I did, to confirm that he stands by this 1999 article.

When Gelles spoke at the San Diego DV Conference in California in 2003, someone asked him, "but couldn't a person 'initiate' DV as an act of self-defense when they see an assault coming?" Gelles, answered, "that is true, on BOTH ends" (i.e., both women and men can strike in self-defense). (Interestingly, feminists have been citing studies that use the Conflict Tactics Scale for decades to show figures on female violence, including the Department of Justice studies, and it is only when the same studies show high numbers of male victims that feminists suddenly find problems with the Conflict Tactics Scale.)

In 1997, Dr. Murray Straus, who was Gelles' research partner, explains this shift in beliefs when he says: "In previous work I have explained the high rate of attacks on partners by women as largely a response to or a defense against assault by the partner. However, new evidence raises questions about that interpretation." After explaining, Straus then says: "one can conclude that the research on who hit first does not support the hypothesis that assaults by women are primarily acts of self-defense or retaliation." (Quoted from pages 213 and 215 of "Physical Assaults by Women Partners: A Major Social Problem," published in the 1997 issue of "Women, Men, & Gender; Ongoing Debates.")

In a recent paper, Dr. David Fontes, who is the Employee Assistance Program manager for the California Department of Social Services, thoroughly refutes the self defense myth. He references several studies that inquired about motives, context and self defense and shows how those studies found that women and men initiate DV for very much the same reasons, most often "to get through to" their partners, and that self defense accounts for only a small percentage of the violence by either sex. Fontes also goes into the important issues relating to injuries and "aggregate violence." ("Violent Touch," available at http://www.safe4all.org/essays/vtbreak.pdf , go to page 34.)

Still recently, Dr. Martin Fiebert and Dr. Denise Gonzales of California State University surveyed 978 college women at Cal State Long Beach and found that 29 percent of them committed violence against their male partners. Their top three reasons were: "My partner was not sensitive to my needs," "I wished to gain my partner's attention," and "my partner was not listening to me." www.batteredmen.com/fiebertg.htm This supports the research cited by Fontes in "Violent Touch."

Dr. John Archer further refutes the self defense argument in a meta-analysis in the November 2000 issue of the Psychological Bulletin., a top-notch, peer reviewed academic journal published by the American Psychological Association. Dr. Martin Fiebert references Archer's meta-analysis in his bibliography at http://www.csulb.edu/%7Emfiebert/assault.htm, which summarizes 150 scholarly investigations, all of which show that "women are as physically aggressive, or more aggressive, than men in their relationships with their spouses or male partners."

Again, for a thorough refutation of the self defense argument I highly recommend Dr. David Fontes' Violent Touch" at http://www.safe4all.org/essays/vtbreak.pdf It is easy to reach, thorough, and addresses other important issues as well, such as injury rates and "aggregate violence."

Marc

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/12/2024243.shtml

Woman closed airport to avoid vacation with boyfriend

Hombre · 12 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "No one here will be suprised to learn that a woman fabricated a story for personal gain (yet she still is a "victim")and the system was easy on her. In this case a Woman closed an airport to avoid a vacation with boyfriend. The threat prompted authorities to shut down Germany's third busiest airport on a busy Sunday in September, stranding 64,000 people for hours, while police searched in vain for a bomb. The woman was given a suspended sentence after admitting in court that she called authorities and, in a hoax, made an al Qaeda bomb threat because her parents disapproved of her boyfriend. If a male had done this, you know that he would have been locked up for a long, long time. Again, this story is listed under the "unusual article" section, damn spin sisters."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/12/2030253.shtml

Freedom is scary to some, no?

Adam · 12 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here we have a interesting article called Heather's Compromise by Terrence O. Moore which is quite simply, A morally bankrupt shaming ploy. Indeed, the whole article can be summed up this one quote "Though women can command higher salaries, they have ceased to be able to command men."
He also wrote an similar entilted article Wimps and Barbarians given the spate of articles like this, the status quo folk must getting worried about our advocacy efforts. It is crucial that we as men are not dependant on others for our self worth, and that we are not shamed into doing things for certain demographic groups (you know who you are!) that harm and compromise us. Still, at least the self flagellant stance in the articles will make for a good discussion eh?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/12/1842224.shtml

ACLU appeals to only-women-are-battered myth

Matt · 13 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mcc99 writes "The ACLU has, like Amnesty International, been overtaken by feminists. Like AI they try to keep it quiet but it comes out every now and then unequivolcally in what they choose for their causes. Thus an organization that started off as being good and noble and a necessary corrective has become a force for feminist indoctrination and promulgation of women's-interests-only-need-be-considered thinking. ACLU won't touch men's issues with a 20' pole but will happily promulgate feminist myths of all kinds. Like AI it champions a number of gender-non-specific causes and then when it finds a feminist one, it goes all-out advertising it and pushing it. They try to avoid getting noticed for their bias but alas they cannot help but be scrutinized.

ACLU's latest offense can be seen in their recent action item at:
http://www.aclu.org/CriminalJustice/CriminalJustic e.cfm?ID=9955&c=249

Get this in the second talking-point item:

"Many victims' organizations oppose the amendment. Victims' rights groups like the National Network to End Domestic Violence, Citizens for the Fair Treatment of Victims and the National Clearinghouse for the Defense of Battered Women oppose the amendment because they are concerned that battered women -- who are often arrested and charged with assaulting their batterers -- would lose the right to a fair trial and presumed innocence. Other victims' groups are concerned that giving victims the 'right to a trial free from unreasonable delay" will force hasty prosecutions that result in the wrong person being convicted.'"

Their feedback form URL is:
https://www.aclu.org/feedback/feedback.cfm

Let them know what you think of their tactics to demonize men at the same time they seek to guarantee presumed innocence - not like men charghed in DV or other he said-she said cases are presumed innocent, anyway, is it?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/13/1729257.shtml

Man gets 15 to 225 years for phone harassment

Adam · 14 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A man who harassed more than 40 women whose names he got from accident reports and obituaries that ran in local newspapers was sentenced to 15-225 years in prison along with 46 years of probation after his release. The guy definitely has some problems, but I would suspect that if the sexes were reversed in this case, this story wouldn't have even made the news, and the woman would have got nothing more than a little slap on the hand. article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/14/1855231.shtml

Call to Protect Abused Children From Men (?!)

Adam · 14 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "NOW-NYS Demands Federal Investigation - Family Courts Fail to Protect Abused Children: A National Crisis (click) For Immediate Release Maybe we should support this, but not for the reasons given by NOW... Is it possible they really don't get it?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/14/1859235.shtml

A One Stop Divorce Shop in Virginia

Hombre · 15 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Here is a very interesting letter that was sent anonymously to Mensactivism, that wound up as post #93 in the discussion on "Domestic Violence Propaganda in CA," and is entitled, A One Stop Divorce Shop In Virginia. I am very pleased that Mensactivism has reached a level of integrity, where someone feels confident enough to send/post such a letter. I forwarded it on to "appropriate authorities" as best I could, and requested that they try to further ascertain allegations made in the body of the letter. Lastly, in post # 94 of that thread, is a copy of my forwarding email, REGARDING:A One Stop Divorce Shop In Virginia that I sent directly to Anon."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/15/050255.shtml

We have bigger lawyer problems than ACLU

Hombre · 15 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MAUS writes "Look at what was submitted to Dear Abby as advice on how to deal with unwanted flirting. If this group of lawyers is anything like their counterpart in Canada they are composed of lesbians with marine sergeant haircuts, little round Leon Trotsky glasses and snears that would intimidate a rottweiller. And they are bent upon making heterosexuality as illegal as possible. I know this will make a great forum discussion and I think it might be a nice gesture if we gleaned the best of that discussion and sent it as a reply both to Abby and this "ERA" group of lawyers."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/15/059212.shtml

"What Are Men's Issues?" Introductory Flyer

Scott · 16 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

After many delays, I've finally converted Steve van Valkenburg's What Are Men's Issues? document to PDF format to make it available for easier distribution. Click on the link to download it or find it in the Activism Projects box on the right side of the main page. We encourage everyone to download, print, and distribute this document wherever appropriate. It's a wonderful introduction and summary of men's issues and is a great resource to be used in men's advocacy. I'd like to thank Steve and everyone who contributed to its creation for doing such a professional job!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/16/0510232.shtml

You Are What You Learn

Adam · 16 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "This study says Girls Have Been Faster Learners, but faster learners of what? And what biases of the reasearchers led them to conclude that what girls learn is what boys should also learn? Are educational researchers telling males, "This is a woman's world," rather than taking a more objective approach showing that the sexes learn different things at different rates based on their interests, and perhaps their "hard wired" genetic differences?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/16/2137255.shtml

Females dominate teaching in Nova Scotia

Adam · 16 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A shortage of male teachers is causing concerns in Nova Scotia. "Many elementary students come from single-parent families typically headed by women, and they can benefit in many ways from exposure to positive male role models at school." Except 80% of school teachers are female.

Maybe they need some affirmative action to encourage men to go back into teaching.

Read the story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/16/2140213.shtml

Sororities scrutinized-- in a manner of speaking

Matt · 17 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

There's so much to say on this, I don't know where to begin! A book written by an undercover 'investogator' re sorority life in America. She ends the review saying they have really great parties. The usual rape stuff is mentioned, too. I am not surprised MSN carried this review. Frankly I think this is a work of fiction. Thoughts?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/17/1545251.shtml

Convicted Women Drunk Drivers Are Victims.

Adam · 17 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "For many women drunken drivers, jail not a cure
Prisons need to offer gender-based treatment options, officials say
But some prison officials have concluded that the system has to improve the type of treatment it offers and come up with more gender-specific programs.

Women often have a harder time than male alcoholics re-integrating themselves into the community after they have been punished, said Sandy DeYoung, a social worker who counsels female alcoholics at Taycheedah.

"The stigma of going to prison for a woman is huge," DeYoung said. "It adds shame and guilt to the underlying reasons they have for drinking in the first place.

"The issues for women are different than men. That's been a problem we didn't understand for a long time."

"It's absolutely amazing how many of these women have been sexually abused. Eating disorders are huge in here. The issues just pile on and on." article
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/17/1846247.shtml

Domestic Violence

Adam · 17 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Dr. Stephen Baskerville writes of yet another atroctity committed by our government against men (and their families) in his article. Violence Against Women Panel Commits Violence Against Democracy. In this election year, it appears the Bush administration has no desire to offend any of the potential voters in that multi-billion taxpayer ripoff, (cesspool of corruption) known as the domestic violence industry. It likewise appears he has no care about offending every voting male in America, including this registered Republican."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/17/1847234.shtml

False Accusations and Justice - or lack thereof

Adam · 18 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "In the story about the 19 year old student who faked her own abduction it is revealed that the police (in looking for a "male suspect") had a gun to the head of one male fitting their profileFalse Accuser and Her Victim.

The 19 year old student has been charged with two misdemeanor counts of obstructing officers, each carrying up to a 9-month jail sentence plus a fine.
False Accuser Student Charged. In looking over the facts involved in this chaotic series of events one can only wonder, "Has justice been served, and if so, how?""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/18/1729231.shtml

College student charged in fake abduction

Adam · 19 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jeff writes "It's okay that she fabricated the assualt and abduction (here) ...she is a "young woman upset by a fading relationship with her boyfriend, Ryan Fisher. Friends said the two had been fighting, and Seiler's roommate, Heather Thue, told officers that Fisher did not pay as much attention to Seiler as she wanted. Seiler's mother told police her daughter had not been herself lately and was "extremely needy" of Fisher.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/19/1911239.shtml

Life as a guy (Ah, L'Amour)

Adam · 19 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

While This is going in the humour section, I doubt most guys will find this funny, here's a link to Life as a guy (Asf File) there's some history behind it in case you're interested. make of it what you will.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/19/2048213.shtml

The tip of the iceberg...

Matt · 20 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

PJ writes "Would it be about time to establish a database of the false accusers?
(You might need to login for free to NYTimesonline to view the story: "Study Suspects Thousands of False Convictions")"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/20/1539250.shtml

Woman "Wins" Boston Marathon

Matt · 20 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Woman "Wins" Boston Marathon

...with a half-hour head start. Why don't the men get the head start? Oh I know, so a woman can be first to cross the line thereby "winning". Also I'm sure that the leading men had to also deal with the obstacles of lagging females thereby increasing their times.

Upon reading the first sentence, I was thrilled to see that a female had won the whole thing. I really do want a woman to win so that they can then get rid of these silly men's/women's divisions. Once a woman wins, they can no longer claim that it is some kind of biological obstacle preventing them from winning.

Her time was actually 14 minutes slower than the winner of the "men's race". Geez, I can run two miles in 14 minutes and I hardly consider myself to be a runner at all.

I don't know how they record these things, but is she actually declared the official winner? Also, how many men finished under 2:24:27?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/20/1540257.shtml

No Such Thing as a Free Lunch

Thomas · 20 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

This is apparently yet another case of a woman falsely accusing a man of rape. The man, who was accused of rape, has filed a lawsuit for just over $25 million. (He is, of course, identified by name, while the alleged false-accuser is simply called "Amy Doe" in the suit.)

It would be good to see successful civil suits against false accusers, but the plague of false accusations is unlikely to abate until lengthy prison sentences are meted out to perpetrators of this monstrous crime.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/20/1633235.shtml

Another son-murdering mother

Thomas · 20 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Matt writes "It's getting so routine, isn't it? Read it and weep:

Bet she'll get put into an 'institution' for the 'criminally insane'. Men get prison. Women get psychiatry. And boys continue to get murdered by their mothers without any real effort to stop it.

Things like this continue to confirm my decision to remain unmarried and childless. America, sow what you reap."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/20/1834208.shtml

American Men: Brace Yourselves

Thomas · 20 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The drumbeat to reinstitute the draft is growing louder.

American men need to gird themselves for being called up to fight, kill, be maimed, and die at rates far greater than those faced by women. At the same time it's a safe bet that, if women are drafted, they will on the whole not only be given far safer positions than men. They will be given positions in which they will learn skills with which they can later make a comfortable living. And no doubt we will still hear about how oppressed women are.

In addition, numerous high ranking officers will be women, who have never had to face combat. In many cases these women will determine where the male-draftees will be sent to suffer the hell of war.

The majority- (read "female-") elected government is preparing to come for you.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/20/1853242.shtml

No Wonder Australia Is Collapsing

Thomas · 20 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

This piece is from Pru Goward, the federal Sex Discrimination Commissioner of Australia. Note the standard, feminist distortions and lies about "the greater poverty, violence and earnings disparity suffered by women." Also note that she cops the feminist attitude that generally goes along the lines of "it's men's fault" or "men can't handle strong, independent women" rather than addressing the many legitimate grievances presented by the men's movement.

Australian men might consider doing themselves a few favors: Give women as little preferential treatment as possible in the workplace; avoid marriage; do your best not to become responsible for some woman's children (by law, they won't be your children).

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/20/2159206.shtml

A Witch-hunt at the University of Colorado?

Thomas · 21 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Frankly, the sexual assault scandals at both the Air Force Academy and CU have had the foul smell of witch-hunts from the start. In this essay, Wendy McElroy gives her take on the growing skepticism in response to claims of sexual assault.

On the whole, I think this is a fine piece, but I do have to take some exception to her statement, "I was raped years ago. As a teenager, I ran away from home and lived on the streets, which placed me in a high-risk category for violence. Were I to go to Richard Grego right now, would he listen with sympathy or skepticism? If the answer is "skepticism," should I blame Grego or the university/tax-funded program of false awareness that pushed a compassionate person toward disbelief?"

No blame should be attached to the skepticism. Every accusation of a crime should be viewed with skepticism until it is shown that the crime did, in fact, take place.

I can speak about this with the perspective that comes with personal experience. I was raped when I was 14. But my statement regarding the matter should be viewed with skepticism by those who weren't witnesses.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/21/0022237.shtml

MSN covers unfaithful wives

Matt · 21 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Surprised to see this on MSN.

Usually MSN's line is as we know, "men are the cheaters, women are not." I note the speed with which MSN pulls in "experts" to explain away the causes, however. How about just this: Long-term monogamy doesn't come naturally for most people of either sex. Why is this so hard for so many people to accept when experience bears it out again and again?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/21/1732215.shtml

Men for Justice Website

Thomas · 21 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Men for Justice is a new Website dealing with men's issues. People who were involved in "The Great Erasure" at Men's News Daily will see, as site builders, a number of others, who were involved.

I have to admit that I've only glanced over part of this site, so I can't speak for all of it. But what I've seen looks damned good.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/21/195245.shtml

Mousey Got No Daddy

Thomas · 22 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Well, scientists have now done it with mammals. Two female mice have been used to reproduce without the need for a male parent. A lot of high-tech tricks had to be used to pull this off, but the implications for humans may ultimately be profound.

Perhaps.

Actually, I have to say that this type of thing used to concern me, but it doesn't any more. For one thing, I'm convinced that men will become able to reproduce without women at about the same time that women will become able to reproduce without men. For another thing, I think that feminism and political correctness have already sent us reeling toward disaster to such an extent that these scientific wonders will soon be the least of the problems faced by male-female relations. It won't much matter if a few women and men have children without each other, when the vast majority of women and men are having no children at all.

Anyway, I do find this stuff fascinating.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/21/2310216.shtml

Denver's 9news.com promulgates wage gap myth

Thomas · 22 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes Here we go again with the wage gap myth, this time from Denver's 9news.com. Their article states that "Colorado women won't close the 'wage gap,' which limits their earning power compared to men, until 2040."

What about the extra overtime worked by men when their wives work part time due to childcare? What about how the money is actually spent?

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/21/2316216.shtml

No climbing up the balconies Fathers 4 Justice

Adam · 22 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes ""When an ordinary person is pushed to an extreme, they become capable of extraordinary things. The Rising - Fathers 4 Justice Documentary by Kevin Keating"

There's a free showing of the Fathers 4 Justice documentary "The Rising" next Wednesday, 28th April in London. It includes the Fathers 4 Justice march and Spiderman who climbed a crane near Tower Bridge and stopped London traffic for several days and helped put father's rights on the map.
See Men's Hour Blog for details."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/22/2258259.shtml

www.stopthedraft.com

Matt · 23 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Please visit http://www.stopthedraft.com/ . You will have access there to articles that have been published re the US gov't's plans to reinstate the draft. Visit http://thomas.loc.gov/ and type "national service" in the search box and hit "Search". The first two hits will be the two bills on the House and Senate describing the "National Service" plan to make all 18-to-25-year-olds required to perform "national service" for two years, presumably mostly military service but also other kinds as determined by the authorities.

While these bills make females subject to the draft, they also allow the gov't to determine how people will serve the country, either in military or non-military roles. You can be quite sure that women will not be required to don uniforms in the same number as men, nor will they be required/expected to go into combat. Do you think any of these coffins hold women, and if they do, do they hold nearly as many women as men? If men do not stand up against this, it is us who will lose our own lives, freedoms (what we have of them), and watch our sons, nephews, and grand-sons have to deal with this situation. If we do not stand up for ourselves, who will?Those of us with teen-aged children/relatives need especially to be very concerned with this development, as well as anyone under the age of, I'd say, 22. There is bi-partisan support for this in the Congress and the only person of administrative rank and real policy influence in the current administration who really opposes it is Sec'y of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, only because he feels conscripts are more trouble than they are worth. But he can be persuaded and I predict he will be as long as US military retention rates drop and morale sags, and/or the war in Iraq continues to get more intense.

I predict the vote on the two "National Service" bills will come at latest in January 2005, perhaps before then (but after November when the elections are over). Both GW and John Kerry have endorsed this idea. Historically when the president has asked for conscription, he has gotten it. Both of the major candidates support it. It will happen - unless the people make it clear it won't be tolerated.

Please get busy with this, contacting your legislators on state and federal levels (use http://www.congress.org/congressorg/home/ to look up contact info.), if you do not want to see young Americans forced to serve in the armed forces. If you do, then do nothing, for most assuredly it will happen if you don't.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/23/137246.shtml

Sexist attack against "The Donald"

Matt · 23 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Here is an editorial article by Rabbi Smuley Boteach attacking Donald Trump because based on situations Rabbi Smuley could not possibly know to be true, he asserts that "The Donald" can't be a hero because he allegedly doesn't honor women. There is so much bias against men and so much blind "honoring" of women in this article, I think we all need to write to him and tell him how biased he is and why he is so wrong on so many fronts, as respectfully as possible considering his title. How and where is he wrong? I could no doubt write a book and am drafting my comments to him tonight. There is a link to email your comments at the bottom of the editorial web page."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/23/139250.shtml

L.A. Times Prints NCFM-LA Letter Citing Data on DV

Matt · 23 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc Angelucci writes "Mineke Schipper is a feminist who is getting publicity for her book in which she digs up proverbs, from all over the world, that are negative toward women and then uses these proverbs to help spread stereotypes and one-sided distortions about gender and domestic violence. The Los Angeles Times ran her op-ed a few days ago. Today they printed this http://www.latimes.com/news/opinion/letters/la-le-violence23apr23,0,7034554.story?coll=la-news-comme nt-letters letter from NCFM-LA in response. Unfortunately they cut out the web link to Dr. Fiebert's bibliography, but at least they printed the letter. Note the interesting letter following it by a Rabbi who quotes female-positive proverbs from the Bible that Schipper never mentions, and then says, "I guess this makes the Bible a radical feminist document." (The web link will probably break after about a day or two.)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/23/1315224.shtml

Feminism vs. Male Sexuality

Thomas · 23 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here is an interesting essay from the Website Men for Justice. It discusses the extent to which feminism has been waging war on male sexuality for decades. And for those, who are inclined to fall for the lie that feminism was a noble movement in the 60s and 70s, I'll emphasize the dates of the following quotes from feminist leaders.

"The nuclear family must be destroyed, and people must find better ways of living together.... Whatever its ultimate meaning, the breakup of families now is an objectively revolutionary process.... No woman should have to deny herself any opportunities because of her special responsibilities to her children...."
" Functions of the Family," WOMEN: A Journal of Liberation, Fall, 1969 - Linda Gordon

"We can't destroy the inequities between men and women until we destroy marriage."
From Sisterhood Is Powerful, (ed), 1970, p. 537 - Robin Morgan

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/23/207207.shtml

New Web Resource on Family Law

Scott · 24 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Tom James writes "Family Law Source is a new web site that has been set up to provide information on family law topics, including custody, child support, domestic violence, and many others. It includes links to the laws of all 50 states and the federal government, books, articles, and a growing list of links to related web sites and helping organizations."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/24/0514255.shtml

Activism time

Adam · 25 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LSBeene writes "A girl who had consensual sex with 3 boys in a school bathroom later claimed it was rape. The boys went through the hellish ordeal of being accused rapists. The girls story quickly fell apart and she confessed to lying. The interesting parts: 1) the forensic evidence originally said to be VERY CLEAR that she WAS raped. Now that same evidence is "inconclusive". 2) The boys (15-18/yo) have had their names dragged through the "accused rapist" mill, while the girl, even after she confessed to lying, will remain anonymous. 3) Also, the DA says no charges will be filed, and that he'll recommend the girl get "help". 4) At the high school, AFTER the confession, administrators, parents, and students had a meeting to discuss "the incident and other safety issues". The feminist buzz words for concentrating on rape, which didn't happen, the girl, who is the only criminal here, and boys sexuality. No mention of a discussion on how to safeguard boys from false accusations or any invites of men's advocates mentioned. (big surprise)
Link to article:here

Let's write a few letters on this one? I have all the E-mail addresses and will post them as my first post, with my letter, once this gets "up".
Steven"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/25/170226.shtml

More anti-male commercials

Adam · 25 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here are some more anti-male commercials for you guys to ponder. One is from SuperCuts, a hair salon/barbershop. In the commercial it shows young men trying to describe what kind of hair style they want. The stylists (female) always interrupt them with a smart-ass remark like, "soemthing that says I don't live in my parents basement" or something to the effect of not looking like a failure in women's eyes. Also, Ford has not listened to you guys - they have come up with a commercial that shows a wife folding seats and preparing the kids safety seats while the husband struggles with the stroller. At the end she does it for him with ease and he's left standing there."

It's activism day today, so can anyone verify?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/25/177234.shtml

Domestic Violence Against Men Being Recognized

Adam · 25 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "
Here is an article about how slowly but surely domestic violence against men is being recognized in Britain.

According to the article there are now 3 shelters for men in Britain but women still have something like 500+ devoted to them only.

article here

BTW: How many have contributed $ to the only domestic abuse helpline for men that I know of in the US at:

No Excuse For Abuse"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/25/1710211.shtml

Fourth annual Genital Integrity Awareness Week

Matt · 26 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Genital Integrity Awareness Week

The fourth annual Genital Integrity Awareness Week is in Philadelphia May 1-7 with demonstrations at the Pennsylvania Convention Center lead by the International Coalition for Genital Integrity (ICGI) picketing the national conference of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG) for performing non-therapeutic infant circumcisions.

More details... click "Read More"Obstetricians and gynecologists perform half of the circumcisions in the United States. Technically, they are trained only to deal with female anatomy, yet they have published a male circumcision brochure that explains the so-called "benefits" of the male genital surgery they are willing to perform for $350 or more each. Seven out of eight OBs in the Northeastern states perform circumcisions. Activists will be demonstrating outside the ACOG convention to remind obstetricians they took an oath to "First, do no harm". By performing unnecessary circumcisions, obstetricians are violating their oath, risking litigation, and putting their patients at short-term and long-term risk, plus the disadvantages of being circumcised.

"We are focusing on the rights of every child to an intact body," ICGI director Dan Bollinger says.

ICGI is joined with Stop Infant Circumcision Society (SIC Society), and the National Organization of Circumcision Information Resource Centers (NOCIRC) in a week of activities (May 1-7) with marches, demonstrations, and an education fair.

Demonstrations will be at 12th and Arch Streets.

A Federal law protecting girls from genital cutting was passed in 1996 and activists are asking for equal protection for boys and intersex children.

CONTACT INFO:
International Coalition for Genital Integrity
Dan Bollinger
1970 North River Road
West Lafayette, IN 47906
protectbabies@icgi.org
http://www.icgi.org

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/25/2214212.shtml

More Misandry

Adam · 26 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

35699 writes "Latest commercial from Cooper Tires focuses on the wife telling her husband what a moron he is. Just a dumb person in a brown sweater who obviously bought another brand of tires and she's not happy. I emailed Cooper tires and told them they lost my business...you should do the same."

Come on people, let's get some contact info and do some activism.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/26/1347249.shtml

NFI, Fathers' Rights Activists Shoot it out

Adam · 27 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon user writes "The National Fatherhood Initiative has launched an insulting billboard and bus-card campaign depicting small black children who have biting words for their fathers. Reginald Brass and Alvin Thomas of My Child Says Daddy and NFI president Roland Warren had a spirited debate on the issue last night on His Side with Glenn Sacks. To see the anti-father billboards and to listen to the show archive, click on here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/27/169252.shtml

Men's Tribune

Adam · 28 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I think the regulars here will be interested in visiting the Men's Tribune and just recently, the site has been updated with E. Belfort Bax's book The Legal Subjection of Men and also his other book The Fraud of Feminism As they were written around the early 20th century, there are must reads.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/28/1531204.shtml

How to cash in on your divorce?

Adam · 29 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Philalethes writes "This guy found his ex-wife's wedding dress in the attic ('she took the $4000 engagement ring but left the dress') and put it up on eBay, hoping to recoup the $1200 it cost him when 'my drunken sot of an ex-father-in-law swore up and down he would pay for but didn't so I got stuck with the bill. Luckily I only got stuck with his daughter for 5 years. Thank the Lord we didn't have kids. If they would have turned out like her or her family I would have slit my wrists.' Seems he hit a nerve; it's been forwarded around the 'Net (I heard about it from a friend's mailing list), and after six days the auction's had more than 4,800,000 hits (yes, that's four million eight hundred thousand -- 25,000 in the last four minutes), the bidding's over $15,000, and he's had a lot of emails, both negative and supportive. And media invitations. (The auction ends today, but the page should remain accessible for 90 days.) Looks like a possible new career for this guy."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/28/212255.shtml

Trident commercial revisited

Adam · 29 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Sometime last year someone posted here about a Trident ad called "The Fifth Dentist" featuring a squirrel biting the testicles of a man.

To view (and rate) the commercial online), please go to:

here

You can now go to the Trident website to email your contempt for their advertising practices at this link

Select the "Contact Us" option at the top of the page to do so.

Note: Last year Trident's "Contact Us" feature did not work.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/29/2017250.shtml

April NH Men's Commission Reporting

Scott · 30 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Foster's Daily Democrat printed this article about the April meeting of the NH Commission on the Status of Men. One of the noteworthy eye-openers of the meeting was testimony by Lee Newman of VIP/SAFE-NH, who explained that the NH Coalition Against Domestic Violence refuses to designate "grantee status" to his program because he works predominantly with male victims. The Commission continues to make headway in research on male suicide in NH, but little else appears to be in the works. Only two of the seven Commissioners showed up at April's meeting, which also hindered progress since a quorum was not present.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/29/238211.shtml

Remember Gary Dotson?

Adam · 30 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here is a blast from the past about a man who was convicted of rape and was tortured by the state for 8 years before the false accuser recanted. Even after she told the truth Gary Dotson still was not released from prison by the sadistic state!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/30/1336257.shtml

Only men can stop domestic violence?

Adam · 30 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "485 men living North of Boston have taken a pledge to effect change on other men though "attitude" — by stating the need for men to stop abusing women and children and then taking this attitude into places of work. These men are part of HAWC - which has billboards stating that they "Make Domestic Violence their BUSINESS" all over the Boston area. HAWC has Clear Channel sponsoring anti-male billboards on every major route North of Boston, every month. HAWC has put posters in just about every store front including state run facilities (even motor vehicle registry) with their anti-male DV propaganda. The state has placed actual road signs along all major roads entering many communities that read "you are entering a domestic free Zone." May 2nd there will be a major DV walk. Bumper stickers that state "Strong men don't bully" are all over Northern Boston area. If you look at the websites, it is easy to tell that this activism is blown out of proportion. This shelter has room for 6 people, yet the amount of presence HAWC has in many communities can not even closely be matched by any business. HAWC is perpetuating a sexist one sided feminist model on a complex sociological problem. HAWC would label and prosecute you as an abuser if you have ever "disregarded your wives thoughts." At the same time, HAWC wants all women to study martial arts. Any ideas about doing some activism on HAWC's Walk day? This organization is out of control.

12 things and Men for Hawc"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/30/1339226.shtml

UNH Take Back the Night Event Evokes Anti-Male Sentiment

Scott · 30 April 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Today's front page story in the University of New Hampshire's school newspaper demonstrates a rise in anti-male feminism on campus. This year's rape awareness march, Take Back the Night, which has traditionally welcomed the participation of campus fraternities, was this time an exhibit of anti-male hatred and fraternity bashing. Members of the Feminist Action League protested the participation of men with a large banner reading, "We Don't Negotiate With Terrorists," equating fraternities with terrorist organizations. Two members of the FAL were quoted extensively in the article but their names were anonymized due to concerns over their safety. Apparently there were no concerns about holding these individuals accountable for the sweeping statements they made about fraternity members such as "We need to stop coddling the perpetrators." There are a few additional photos of the event on the NH Independent Media Center: one, two, three, four.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/04/30/2138232.shtml

Forced labor for child support

Adam · 1 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Here is a glimpse into one of the many different directions that feminism is going in today. Granted this is just an op-ed piece, but do not think for one moment that things are not already heading this way: Any time a court ordered child support parent (read father) loses a job, quits one, or even gets laid off, this person would automatically be put into a government run - forced labor program to collect child support. If a person is forced into jail because they can not meet the court ordered payment level, the same program would exist for these poor convicts. Can you imagine what type of people would run this forced labor program? "1984" was different in what way?

article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/01/1950203.shtml

Landmark child custody ruling

Adam · 2 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Doctor Damage writes "It seems that every time I turn around, I am seeing hopeful signs of a change in the wind. A landmark ruling by the California Supreme Court upheld a decision by a lower court to transfer custody to the father if the childrens mother chose to move out of state. Even more hopeful in my opinion, are these words from NOW:

"The National Organization for Women said the decision "binds the lives of many women and men, for that matter, who are trying to provide safety and economic opportunity for their families."

Setting aside the blatant attempt to portray moveaway moms as abused waifs fleeing from the depredations of slavering males, if even the NOW is beginning to recognise that it takes more than weeping over the hardships of women to move public and/or official opinion, then perhaps our work has not been in vain."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/02/1132234.shtml

Jared commercials disdain men

Adam · 3 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "There are at least two Jared commercials in which the men who buy their wives Jared jewelry receive the incredulous response "He went to Jared!" while the men that don't are treated with disdain by their wives. One of these men gets a cold look from his wife, while in another commercial the "offending" husband has a piece of "non-Jared" jewelry dropped in his drink.

You can let Jared know what you think of their commercials at here.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/02/2226229.shtml

Father with custody forced to pay child support

Adam · 3 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

OldManSenile writes " Heres one to boggle your mind here, Isn't child support for the children? I think some judges were smoking something."

This is why it should really be called mommy support.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/03/1622218.shtml

Female soldier gets in on the fun

Matt · 3 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,118627,00.html

To the extent that these guys are guilty of being terrorists, I really don't give a $hit what happens to them. But, just look at the delight on her face. I think these soldiers should be disciplined for this but somehow I think that the fact that a female is involved will not find its way into the history books. Also, yeah I know their giblets were blurred out but there is no way in hell a photo of naked female prisoners in this type of situation would be shown on mainstream news TV(these same pictures were just shown on FOX a few minutes ago) like this, as if they would even TAKE female prisoners - you know all that "women and children" crap!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/03/2038259.shtml

Taron James, Paternity Fraud Victim & Gulf War vet

Matt · 3 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "The following detailed story of the paternity fraud case of Taron James, a Navyman, Gulf War veteran, and NCFM-LA member, appears on the front page of the 5/3/04 issue of the Los Angeles and San Francisco Daily Journals, the official newspapers of the city and county of Los Angeles and San Francisco and the largest legal newspapers in California. (The Monday issue comes out on Saturdays.) It has a big photo of Taron on the front page wearing his military medals, and a statement that he is suing L.A. County. The story broke as a result of an NCFM-LA news release that also resulted in a short NBC4.TV story at www.nbc4.tv/news/2891653/detail.html. There is no link because it's subscription only. It could be harder-hitting and it has errors but it's a good eye-opener especially considering the caliber of the paper and its circulation.

Marc

Los Angeles Daily Journal

May 3, 2004 (Monday issue comes out on Saturday)

Fighting Paternity-Fraud Bureaucracy
State's Process Crushes All Contrary Evidence, Critics Say

By Susan McRae

Daily Journal Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES -Taron James is fighting back.

The Gulf War veteran contends that officials have snared him in a paternity-fraud nightmare with no end in sight. It's all because of an unforgiving state law that makes it nearly impossible for a man to challenge a paternity judgment once it's been entered, even if he later turns up DNA evidence excluding him as the father, James said.

He spent eight years trying to get a default judgment against him set aside, including conducting genetic testing to prove he was not the father.

Now, the Torrance man has decided to sue Los Angeles County, alleging officials illegally forced him into supporting a child who isn't his.

James, 34, said he was never notified about a hearing that resulted in his wages being garnisheed. The court action drove him into bankruptcy, he said.

"I can't believe the system operates like this and is allowed to continue to operate like this," James said from the South Bay home of his aunt, where he's lived since his money ran out.

His complaint, filed last month, also names the child's mother, Tami Burton, who James said acted with reckless disregard for the truth when she told county welfare and child-support officials that he was the father of her child, while knowing he was not or "at minimum was not certain" that he was. James v. Burton, BC312873 (L.A. Super. Ct., filed March 29, 2004).

The lawsuit alleges fraud and negligence against Burton and claims the county violated his due-process and equal-protection rights, among other causes of action.

Burton, who lives in Arizona with her son and husband, could not be reached for comment.
James isn't alone in his predicament.

Philip Browning, director of the county's child support services office, said the department's rate of default judgments, in which the defendant doesn't show up and the court issues a judgment against him, stands at 48 percent. The state's rate is 47 percent, Browning added.

"I feel so bad for some of these situations," Browning said.

He added that California is one of the few states that does not allow for overturning a paternity order once a judgment has been entered. "It just doesn't seem fair to me," Browning said.

An assemblywoman is sponsoring legislation, which, if passed, would extend the time limit to contest a default paternity judgment to two years from when a man "knew or should have known" he had been named as the father in a court action.

AB252 by Assemblywoman Hannah-Beth Jackson, D-Santa Barbara, also would provide a two-year amnesty from the time of its enactment to allow men to contest past cases.

James claims that Burton was after his military benefits and that a growing number of veterans are facing similar claims.

His case has become a cause célèbre among lawyers and grass-roots men's groups that advocate for child custody and support reform.

James also spawned a group, Veterans Fighting Paternity Fraud, that supports Jackson's legislation and encourages men to consult a family law attorney in these situations.

James' complaint reiterates his claim made eight years ago that county officials never notified him that a petition for child support had been filed against him.

He said the first he knew of it was when the Department of Motor Vehicles informed him that his driver's license had been suspended for failing to make child-support payments.
By then, James said, the default judgment was in force, and it was too late to do anything about it -although he tried, without success.

The suit seeks from the county and Burton the $19,000 James was forced to pay. It also asks that his paternity judgment be set aside permanently, that he be relieved of any further debt and that his credit be restored.

Browning said that he's sympathetic to James' claim but that the office can do nothing.
"The problem is the law," he said. "As it's currently written, it does not allow us to right this situation."

Child advocates said the laws were written to protect the children, so a father cannot just walk away or delay or defer payments by going to court.

Under California law, a man can be declared a father if he has established a relationship with a woman and assumed parenting duties, even if he has no biological link to the child.
But in trying to help children, men's rights advocates say, the law has gone too far.

Under the state's Code of Civil Procedure, the laws governing default judgments are the same for paternity claims as for any other civil action. But the consequences for the defendant can be more severe.

To establish a paternity judgment, a woman must file a claim with the county's child-support services department. The department, in turn, notifies all the parties of the court date and the amount of child support sought.

If the alleged father contacts the department before the hearing to challenge the claim or if the woman says she isn't sure who the father is, the department may provide genetic testing at its own expense. But it cannot force the woman to comply.

However, once the matter goes to court, a judge can order testing in cases in which paternity is in dispute.

Like in any civil case, if the defendant doesn't show up in court, a default judgment is entered. And, as for any civil order, the opposing party can go back into court relatively easily within six months of the judgment and argue to have it set aside.

After that, relitigating a case is difficult unless fraud is suspected. Even then, it must be appealed within two years of the judgment.

Once a claim is finalized, it cannot be undone. The idea is to provide closure so people can get on with their lives.

Support payments can continue until the child is 18.

"The premise is that the state is trying to get parentage established, and there's not much support for undoing parentage, even when it's known by genetic testing that the man alleged to be the father is not the father," Browning explained.

"In the scheme of things, it makes sense when talking in general terms about establishing parentages and making sure the child has a legal father," he said.

The difficulty is with cases, such as James, in which a man turns out not to be the father, has never held himself out to be the father and claims never to have received notice of a paternity claim.
Marc Angelucci, a men's rights attorney who is representing James in his civil suit, has been at the forefront of a movement for legislative change to help paternity-fraud victims.

"Taron's case is the tip of the iceberg," said Angelucci, president and founder of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Coalition of Free Men. "It's been devastating for some of these men. Many are going underground. They feel hopeless and in despair. In most cases, they say that they don't even know the child.

"A lot of these men are in the military, and that makes them good targets because of the benefits and because the men are overseas [and not around to fight the claim]."

Angelucci, who worked with legislators on earlier versions of proposed paternity-fraud laws, said that the coalition is creating a paternity justice program to specialize in helping men overturn mistaken paternity judgments if Jackson's bill becomes law.

The California Commission for Women, which opposed earlier legislative efforts, supports Jackson's bill because it specifically states that a judge has the discretion to determine paternity based on how much the man has been involved in the child's life.

Other versions did not provide these safeguards, said Vicki Atwood, the commission's legislative coordinator.

James said that he saw the child only once, briefly, and has never been involved in the boy's life.
James said he met Burton, then named Tami Cooper, in 1991, and the two had a one-month affair. When he decided to join the U.S. Navy, he told Burton that he wanted to end their relationship.

Three months later, he said, Burton told him that she was pregnant and that he was the father. At the time, he said, he believed it was possible. He said that he talked to her about marriage to "do the right thing for the child" and that she agreed it would be a good idea.

But when James came home on leave a month later, he said, friends warned him that Burton had been going out with many other men and was intimately involved with at least one.
He said that he decided to call off the marriage but nonetheless told her to keep in touch and that he would send money for the child when he could afford it.

While he was deployed to Panama, he said, Burton gave birth to a son and, without telling James, named him as the father on the birth certificate.

The next time he heard from Burton was four months later, when he received a letter from Cliff Burton, who said he met Burton the year before, that they immediately became intimate and moved in together and that he had bonded with her son. The couple later married and have had two more children together, James said.

Three months after hearing from Cliff Burton, while James was deployed in the Persian Gulf, his superiors received a request from Tami Burton for child-support benefits.

Navy officials asked for proof of paternity and recommended she arrange for a blood test, which the Navy would pay for, James said.

Burton never replied or tried to contact him, he said.

James said that he tried to keep in contact with Burton, but she and her husband moved frequently, and Burton's father refused to tell him where she lived.

In March 1994, when her son was 18 months old, Burton, without James' knowledge, began collecting welfare for her son, naming James as the father, he said.

That December, the district attorney's office served notice to James' mother that a paternity claim had been filed. But when James opened the summons, the notice was in someone else's name.
James said he immediately notified the district attorney's office about the error. After acknowledging the error, state officials told him that he had been named in a paternity action.
James said he asked whether the office could arrange a blood test because he wasn't sure he was the father. He said that he was told it could be done, but he would have to wait.

For the next 15 months, James said, he phoned the district attorney's office to follow up and repeatedly was told to wait until he heard from their representative, he said.

Instead, he heard from the Department of Motor Vehicles that his license had been suspended for nonpayment of child-support payments. Only then did he learn that a default judgment had been entered against him.

By the time he got legal advice on how to challenge the claim, the six-month time limit had passed. Still, he tried representing himself in court.

He subpoenaed the process server who testified that he served a "John Doe" summons on James at his mother's address. But the server couldn't describe the house or the person who took the summons.

In January 1998, Los Angeles Superior Court Commissioner Roberta Lee ruled that James had been properly served and denied his appeal.

James began paying $150 a month in child support. When he fell behind because of his minimum-wage job, the child-support office began garnisheeing his wages. He filed for bankruptcy. Later, the office garnisheed his unemployment checks.

"There's a joke going around that, if you want to catch Osama bin Laden, file a paternity claim against him," James said.

Meanwhile, James had not seen or heard from Burton for several years.

In March 2000, the district attorney's office phoned James and asked whether he knew Burton's whereabouts because the office had collected $9,000 on her behalf but did not know where to send it. A month later, Burton wrote him from Arizona, saying she had received the money.

In 2001, James found a family law attorney who agreed to help him. After trying unsuccessfully to reopen his case, Karen Miller of Manhattan Beach was able, with James' help, to get Burton to agree to genetic testing. The results excluded James as the father.

With that information and a written agreement from Burton that she did not want to receive any more child-support money, child-support officials agreed to close the case - but they refused to promise it would not be reopened.

James said that Burton also agreed to repay him the $19,000 he shelled out, but since then she has cut off all communication.

Under current law, James' paternity case remains active. Burton can reopen her claim at any time until her child reaches 18, seven years from now.

"All she has to do in theory is sign up for welfare, and with me as the 'legal father,' the nightmare starts all over again, and I am living in constant fear of that," James said."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/03/2045220.shtml

Need a Maid? Article drips with misandry and classism

Matt · 4 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MSN, not content to hate men and blame us for the rise in divorce as this article does, now is also adopting snooty classist tendencies. Only, they peddle them in a softer, less elitist way. Take not my word for it, read up and barf on it for yourself.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/04/1626230.shtml

9news.com: Boys lagging behind in reading

Matt · 5 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Denver's 9news.com posted a story about the reading gap between boys and girls in Colorado schools. At least this issue received some attention this time.

An excerpt from the story:

"Educators are scrambling to find books that appeal to third-grade boys after statewide scores released Monday show they consistently lag behind girls on reading tests. ... The results showed 77 percent of girls tested proficient and advanced, compared with 70 percent of the boys."

The story is here:

http://9news.com/acm_news.aspx?OSGNAME=KUSA&IKOBJE CTID=4b839e04-0abe-421a-01d8-f8efb06b2c46&TEMPLATE ID=0c76dce6-ac1f-02d8-0047-c589c01ca7bf

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/05/1636250.shtml

Women Compete Poorly Against Men

Matt · 5 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

hurkle writes "A new study in the QJE shows that women do not compete well against men in a competitive environment. They do, however, compete well against other women. Has implications for the "glass ceiling" and single-sex education.

http://www.stanford.edu/~niederle/Gender.pdf"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/05/1638259.shtml

Take action to stop the draft

Matt · 5 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Workingassets.com has an action center release to contact representatives re the draft. It is found here. Please use it to lobby against the reintroduction of the draft.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/05/1640259.shtml

Women Paying Child Support

Adam · 6 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

borgy1 writes "WISCONSIN
More moms made to pay child support
A single mother in Milwaukee who had spent years raising her son without the financial support of his father gasped when informed that she would be required to pay child support. This article seems gender biased at first, but does give the male viewpoint toward the end of the

article."

Luek also submitted this story and said: "This article from Wisconsin, a misandric crazed state if there ever was one, states that more women are being required to pay child support. The article has some telling points that are very interesting like these:

"It was pure sexism," said John Hayes, director of the Milwaukee County child-support agency. "Fifteen years ago, you simply didn't ask for child-support orders against women."

Last June, the daughter was placed in Holland's care all but six hours each week. While he could use money to help pay off the $10,000 in attorneys' fees he owes from the custody battle, Holland doubts he'd succeed if he sought support from the mother. "During the custody case no matter what Mom did, I was held to a higher bar," Holland said. "I don't care what people say. The system still treats women differently than men."

Indeed, expect to hear cries of "reform!" quite soon if this trend continues.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/06/2011203.shtml

Canadian divorce rate declines at joint custody

Adam · 6 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Its kind of sad that 35,000 children were involved in divorces in 2002, but the good news is that Dads are way more involved with their kids now.

"Fewer than half of the dependents were put in custody of the wife in 2002. Of 35,000 dependents for whom custody was awarded by the courts, 49.5 per cent went to the wife.

About 42 per cent of dependents were put into joint custody.

In 1988, custody for 75 per cent of dependents was granted to the wife in divorce proceedings." Article is

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/06/2016238.shtml

Ucomics: misandric cartoon

Matt · 7 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Ucomics.com has a new cartoon called Clear Blue Water (by Karen Montague-Reyes) that got off on the wrong foot with me. The May 5 strip features the quote of the wife about men "You can spit, and belch, and scratch yourself, and lots of other things."

The cartoon is here:

http://www.ucomics.com/clearbluewater/2004/05/05/

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/06/2210224.shtml

Female role in Iraqi prisoner abuse

Adam · 7 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "The cover up has already begun. Even media outlets are allowing General Janis Karpinski a chance to state her innocence. Karpanski is in charge of the prison where naked male Iraqi prisoners of war were humiliated into forced sex simulations and endured female taunting of their genitals. The Army has photographs that show a detainee with wires attached to his genitals. Another shows a dog attacking an Iraqi prisoner. Other photos have piles of naked men bent over with their genitals exposed with a smiling female soldier stands behind them. If you remember how the feminists used Tailhook (an incident where male officers were accused of touching some women) as a national outrage to effect change within the "patriarchal" military, what should be the logical outcome of this mess? If the genders were reversed, the media would still be force feeding us this atrocity, and any male general in charge would already likely be out of power. The media would be demanding a breakdown of the whole chain of power. These Iraqi men are victims of female sexual assault, yet this type of thinking is not part of the dialogue on this matter. Link to pics

The emphasis in bold is my doing, to remind you of how this is most definitely a men's issue, and that the link leads to pics of the torture, so be warned.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/06/2030232.shtml

Update on the Men's Rights 2004 Congress

Tom · 7 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Update on the Men's Rights 2004 Congress

Thanks to many of you for registering for the Men's Rights Congress in Washington DC on June 18-19. The response has been great. We have men signed up to attend from Texas, Utah, Colorado, Minnesota, Florida, New Hampshire, Maryland, Virginia and of course Washington DC. We are looking forward to a great time together in June and hope that more of you will be registering.

Glenn Sacks and Steven Baskerville are now confirmed as speakers for the event as are Carnell Smith and Dean Tong. Mike Geanoulis from the New Hampshire Men's Commission will also be a speaker.

It will be great to be around like-minded men and women who are working on these issues. Join us and make a difference. If you don't take a stand, who will?

More information

Register here

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/07/1529220.shtml

Deadbeat Dads Offered Jail or Vasectomy

Matt · 7 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

OldManSenile writes " Can you believe this? It's OK to impose this on a man, but not a woman. I think that females should be held to this ruling also, and if not, stop doing it to men. If a female is gonna reproduce and take no responsibility, cut her reproductive organs out. I dont care if its "invasive" or "ir-reversible". How would this judge feel to have his balls cut on?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/07/1550219.shtml

Marcus Dixon Update

Scott · 8 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Remember the 18 year old who got 10 years for "aggravated child molestation" for having consensual sex with a 15 year-old? Looks like the Georgia Supreme Court has thrown out the charge, allowing him to be sentenced for statutory rape instead. This is good news because it overturns the feminist judge's original rape hysteria ruling. Story here." Noteworthy is the fact that statutory rape has a sentence of one year, while the aggravated child molestation conviction got him a mandatory sentence of 10 years, of which he has served 15 months already. This could mean Marcus should walk free sometime soon.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/08/1314240.shtml

No. 1 "deadbeat" pleads not guilty

Adam · 9 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "This article ran in a local paper, as well as the Boston Globe. The Salem Evening News (which has a large subscriber base) had a picture of the ex-wife and her friends taunting and yelling at this poor man as he was lead into the court from jail tied in chains. This man is destitute of property or means of comfortable subsistence; yet the court ordered him to pay over $2200 a month after taxes. He also maintains that the child-support system made mistakes and he did try to make some payments."

Click "Read More" to read more, naturally. The link isn't working at this second in time, but one of you might find the article if you look, Regardless, we have activism to do.
The judge didn't even look at these when bail was set at $200,000. A special dead-beat Dad DA was brought in to punish this man as an example for the rest of us. I'd like to add that this guys fat ex-wife yelling at him in the picture does not look like she has been deprived at all. The local feminist reporter (Julie Manganis) called him indigent, and gave a one sided account of matrimonial discontent by the wife. Manganis further denigrates the local Fatherhood Coalition advocates for trying to contact the ex-wife for mediation purposes.

Even though this article was front page news, Manganis quotes the ex-wife with "I'd like to see more media attention paid to the issue of deadbeat dads....I don't think the public is aware of what really goes on...Maybe more people would be brought to justice." sic... The reporter also added "the ex-wife was disappointed that he wasn't convicted" immediately for up to 5 years. Julie Manganis is towing the feminist line in all issues related to Please write the Salem Evening News expressing disgust in Manganis' biased reporting, and add your thoughts on the nature of court ordered payments too. We need to start making our voices heard.

I already wrote mine.Editor Karen Andreas, (978) 338-2671 for corrections or comments on overall editorial content and quality; e-mail kandreas@ecnnews.com.Metro Editor Helen Gifford at (978) 744-0600 for news coverage of Salem, Beverly and Peabody; e-mail hgifford@ecnnews.com.

Link here

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/09/1844225.shtml

Female Soldier charged over Iraqi prisoner abuse

Adam · 9 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A female soldier, Lynndie England, is facing charges for alleged involvement in the abuse of Iraqi prisoners. One picture shows her with a naked prisoner on a leash and another picture shows her giving a 'thumbs up' sign next to a naked prisoner. Her sister thinks England is innocent and that someone else told her to do what she did. Some of England's companions in the military justified the mistreatement of prisoners. Let's see what happens...On the topic of Iraqi prisoner abuse and the female gender, There's this Reuters article, a female soldier, Sabrina Harman, was told to break down prisoners for interrogations. Harman appeared in a photo with naked detainees. It is said that she struck detained individuals, and did the stand on the box or be electrocuted by attached wires technique on a hooded prisoner."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/09/1850243.shtml

Boy's Conference article

Matt · 9 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Joe Manthey writes "Boys' brains influence teaching"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/09/2050242.shtml

Sex Offender Listing Prompts Suicide of 20 Year-Old

Matt · 9 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

borgy1 writes "He maintained an ``A'' average at Oakland Community College and planned to start a computer business with his father.

Then his past came back to haunt him.

Fawcett, who as a teenager was charged with statutory rape for having sex with a fellow high school student, learned his name would appear for 25 years on the state's sex offender registry, despite a plea agreement that allowed him to avoid inclusion on the list.

A few weeks later, on March 19, the 20-year-old was found dead of an apparent drug overdose at his boyhood home in West Bloomfield Township. Story link."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/09/2058259.shtml

Men and skirts?

Matt · 10 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Brad Pitt is suggesting that his new film, "Troy", may encourage fashion-conscious men to try wearing kilts/skirts in public at events.
[Click "Read More" for more]Once the avg. man feels he won't be diminished for wearing a kilt/skirt/whatever, or attacked by homophobes, he may just try it. The reason men's clothing styles are so limited is because of the western tradition of uniformity among males in appearance. It has to do with the militarization of the male person as well as the psychology of tribal inclusion. Women have this going on too but not nearly to the same degree since their persons are not militarized in the popular mind-set or culture.

Something like getting men to try wearing skirts may in fact do a lot to help de-militarize the male person and thus help promulgate men's civil rights, which are in desperate need of defense.

What do you all think? Please post your commentary.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/10/1637248.shtml

More on false accusations, unjust laws

Adam · 11 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "This is a news report from the Indian Express. What I like about this one is police officials have openly admitted that 1) false accusations by women as well as outright harassment of men do happen, 2) Indian law on DV is blatantly anti-male. Harassment of a married woman is punishable with up to 3 years of rigorous imprisonment plus fine. It is also a non-bailable offense (which means husbands can be arrested and held without bail based on the mere complaint by the wife). Harassment of married men is not a criminal offense at all, so the police has no option but to attempt some sort of counselling! The story is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/11/1718255.shtml

Down At Abu Ghraib....

Adam · 11 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is an interesting atricle, that makes some points most of our traidtional media seem to be overlooking. Abu Ghraib and American Misandry"

Sidor's Goat writes "In some expert's opinion, atrocities of female soldiers at Abu Ghraib are due to the culture of misandry prevelent in USA. The story is here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/11/1722213.shtml

No Arrests in CU's Rape Allegations

Thomas · 11 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I've placed this article under education, because I think the whole situation points to the American culture of anti-male bias that is centered in the nation's schools. You can bet the Attorney General looked long and hard to find prosecutable evidence of rape in these cases, yet his office made a "unanimous decision against charges." This whole thing stinks of a witch hunt. Feminists have testified before the investigating committee that a culture of rape exists at CU. It's time more men started standing up for themselves and each other by pointing out that a culture of false sexual assault accusations exists throughout American society.

This reminds me of the charges at the Air Force Academy. Many women claimed they were sexually assaulted, but the woman, who was in charge of looking into such matters, said that not one claim involving any type of coercion came before her. Some of the accusers claimed they were punished for coming forward with their charges, but I was left wondering if they admitted that they were drunk, when the alleged assaults took place, and they were in fact punished for getting drunk. (I'm pretty sure that getting drunk is a violation of academy rules.)

Living in Colorado, the current epicenter of this cultural earthquake, (Kobe Bryant, the Air Force Academy scandal, the CU football scandal), I can report first hand that more and more people around here are starting to see what's going on. Many parents of football players are in fact stating outright that this is a witch hunt.

IMPRISON FALSE ACCUSERS!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/11/1912218.shtml

McElroy Comments on Fraternity Perceptions and Stereotypes

Scott · 12 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Wendy McElroy writes in her latest FoxNews column about the stereotypes people have regarding fraternities. She examines the media portrayal of fraternities and comments on the modern day "threat" fraternities pose to political correctness on campus. That threat is likely the primary reason why anti-male groups on campuses have such free reign to bash fraternity members as rapists and terrorists.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/12/1633246.shtml

Lesbian mom finds out what it's like

Matt · 12 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Welcome to the jungle, madame. You now know what it's like to be the "donor" of genetic material when things go downhill and the law gets involved. Welcome to the 'equality' of being treated 'like a man'.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/12/1729251.shtml

Now Racism Used To Get Back At Males

Scott · 12 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "A 15 year old Ohio school girl reported that several white boys she knew, one of which was her insensitive boyfriend, were going to shoot black students in her school on the anniversary of the Columbine Massacre. She concocted this story to get back at her boyfriend. Also true to form, she accused one hapless young male of, drum roll please...sexual assault. It is time to publish the names of these "nasty girls" who use accusations to "get back" at males they don't like!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/12/1639224.shtml

Dads Deliver More Than Just DNA, Scientists Say

Adam · 13 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes ""Despite the specter of cloning and the birth of a fatherless mouse, scientists have uncovered evidence that men play a more vital role in procreation than they may have thought." Read it here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/13/1853216.shtml

Lynndie England : Quintessential Feminist

Thomas · 13 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Looks like America's feminist darling, Lynndie England, just keeps getting in deeper and deeper. I saw part of her interview last night on the news, and the reporter handled her with kid gloves, feeding her opportunities to justify her actions. Among other things, she claimed that she was just following orders. Well, now it comes out that she was recorded having sex with numerous partners, in some cases in front of Iraqi prisoners. How many people believe that she was just following orders to have sex in front of numerous viewers including prisoners, who had no choice in the matter?

I can understand the argument for refusing to release the new photos and videos to the public, at least until after investigations and trials are over. I'd hate to see evidence compromised. After the trials, though, I hope they become public. This babe is a pure expression of feminist culture, and it would be good for all interested adults to be able to graphically see what that means.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/13/1850200.shtml

Again...Yahoo Puts Killing of a Husband in "Oddly Enough" Section

Scott · 14 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

this is not equality writes "As we have come to expect from Yahoo..."A Portuguese woman confessed to murdering her husband and hiding his body in a kitchen freezer for three years." I realize that the freezer makes it a bit odd, but if the husband and wife were reversed, you can bet the story would not wind up in Oddly Enough."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/14/1731259.shtml

Spiderman Found Not Guilty

Scott · 14 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "From the Men's Hour Blog: Today in London, to applause from Fathers 4 Justice supporters in the court room, Dave "Spiderman" Chick was found not guilty of causing a public nuisance when he climbed a crane last November by Tower Bridge, London and stayed there 6 days to highlight his being illegally stopped from seeing his 4 year old daughter. It emerged that the police used the road closures around the crane, which caused 2 hour plus traffic jams in central London, as a bargaining tool with Dave and didn't open them because it would weaken their case. Dave called the verdict "Common sense" and as to further protests he said "Watch this space!""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/14/1735242.shtml

Spike TV Announces "First Network for Men"

Scott · 15 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. sent us this article about Spike TV positioning themselves as the first network geared exclusively towards men: ""Every day in every way, Spike TV is revealing just how testosterone-lite television used to be... Now, the only cable network to actively alienate women has assembled its first slate of news and documentary programs aimed specifically at men."" They also mention a series they're developing called "True Dads" about the issues that fathers face.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/15/1823206.shtml

Defendants to Pay $100 Fine for Being Served with a Restraining Order in NC

Scott · 15 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Michael_NC writes "An article in the Raleigh, NC News and Observer tells of new regulations and laws for domestic violence. The one thing that stands out the most is the introduction of a $100 fee that the person served with a restraining order would have to pay to help defray administrative costs. So lets see if I have this right. I saved the text of the article, so email me if you would like it. A woman gets a restraining order on dubious grounds to make room for a new boyfriend. So not only is the current guy out on the street, he gets to pay $100 for the privilege? I think this is rotten to the core."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/15/1827244.shtml

An 11 year old girl arrested for filing a false rape

Scott · 16 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

SuzMemphis sent us this article (registration required) and writes "In Memphis, TN an 11 year old girl accused a man of rape, but for once someone LISTENED to her story and found it to be false. Instead of allowing her to ruin an innocent person's life, she was arrested for the false accusation. Perhaps this is an indication that this horrible habit of believing all children without question will come to an end? We sure hope so!
We did notice that folks are still making excuses for this appalling behavior, but as long as justice is served, that's ok with us. We don't want children hurt either."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/15/1830209.shtml

DV Against Men (Barbados)

Adam · 16 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "A meeting of police officials and other govt agencies dealing with DV was held in Barabados. The main focus was violence against women, but DV against men was also discussed, which is `swept under the proverbial carpet'. Some participants also acted out a scene where a man is facing physical abuse (the story carries a picture of the scene). Some awareness! Read it here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/16/1952258.shtml

Teacher Wrote Love Letters To Student

Adam · 16 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Age issues aside, there seems to be some serious stalking issues going on here. Also interesting is that the attorney for the school board is concerned about how this could disrupt the school. HELLO!!! Screw the school, how about the poor boy who has some whack job psuedo teacher stalking him ready to ruin any meaningful relationships that he may develop. It's a matter of time before she will defend herself with phony sex assault allegations."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/16/1955215.shtml

Playing Both Sides

Adam · 16 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The NCFM regarding the article in the NY Times here

I don't think this is something that the NCFM should be celebrating -- another poorly veiled power grab by 4th/5th wave feminists. The NYT is printing this article not because they are stepping back on feminism, but because they are stepping up. They want women to rule the workplace AND the family. Women can have as much as they choose to want in the world of employment - time to put the brakes on men when it comes to family.

Don't be convinced by this feminine stroke on the male ego. (Oooh you big strong working man!) I'm certainly not impressed."

You can probably guess what to click to read the rest by now.

Problem here is, sometime during the 1990's, younger feminists started putting their panties back on. They wanted all the priviledges of being a man, but they still want to be treated like a woman. As always, a woman wants to choose between work and family; men are stuck with whatever is left over. Nobody even asks you.

Note, I don't see any mention in this article regarding who gets custody of the kids in case of a divorce (No doubt they feel it ought to be them). It doesn't say that women who choose to stay at home are any less likely to divorce. It doesn't say anything about "family values." Or how (in contrast to 50 years ago) these women can end up screwing their husbands by taking the children yet expecting to be "supported in the manner to which they have grown accustomed." Or even that stay-at-home moms should be especially appreciative of their working husbands. In fact, husbands aren't even mentioned at all.

If you're a guy, you're not even a consideration so far as the article is concerned. It's the same old story. Women have kids. Man's paternal relationship to the children extends by proxy through the mother. She's legally and financially protected yet has no obligation to you at all. You're obligated to everyone and are perennially out on a limb.

Don't be a bunch of idiots. These women aren't retreating back to tradition. They're not giving up no-fault divorce. The divorce rate is not 50 %, and there is no indication that isgoing to change. They're not going back to the presumption that the male "rules the roost" in the house and owns everything material in the marriage. How is this in your best interest to be sucked into sucha situation?

There is no going back on these issues. Clearly, this is a case of "What's yours is mine and what's mine is mine too."

For the luxury of staying at home with the children, what exactly are they proposing to reciprocate? They haven't said.

Because they don't care.

There is NO TURNING BACK. DEMAND equal respect and consideration as a parent. After all, what's the use of having a career if you are divorced and have no family?

See it for what it is. This is one of the most selfish feminist articles I have ever seen.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/16/202233.shtml

Sacks, Leving Fire Back at 'Vasectomy or Jail' Judge

Adam · 17 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon user writes "Family attorney Jeff Leving and columnist Glenn Sacks fired back at the now famous Kentucky judge who ordered 'deadbeat dads' to have vasectomies or go to jail in their new column, "It's Child Support Guidelines that Need Surgery, Not 'Deadbeat Dads.'" The column is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/17/183220.shtml

Domestic Violence Charges

Adam · 17 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "The man in this domestic violence story Bethlehem woman found guilty of assaulting boyfriend was "Beaten so badly he lost 80 percent of his kidney function." Yet, the Prosecutor questions the veracity of the man, "who took his beatings like a man" without striking back at the woman. The Prosecutor asked, "What man would allow himself to be beaten like that?" and "Why didn't the boyfriend just leave?" If you want to see a glaring example of a domestic violence victim being battered, then battered again by the legal system, then look no further. ...and what would have happened to this battered man if he had tried to leave, or had put up his hands to ward off the blows, or simply tried to hold (restrain) his brutal attacker? How can a man get away from domestic violence, when every shelter he calls treats him like a batterer, or refuses him admittance, or tries to send him on a hundred mile drive?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/17/188209.shtml

NH Child Support Study Committee Holds Final Hearing

Scott · 17 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Laconia Citizen reported on the final public hearing of the NH Child Support Study Committee last Friday in Plymouth, NH. The Commission was formed to examine the current child support system and make recommendations for change. Some of the ideas that are likely to be brought forward officially by the Commission are to base child support on the USDA data of the cost to raise a child rather than the current "standard of living" measure. Many people have testified before the Commission that the current system is abused to benefit the custodial parent rather than the child, and provides enormous incentives for women to marry, have a child, and then leave the marriage to obtain child support money. Rep. David Bickford chairs this Commission, so the outcome of this is likely to have a major impact.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/17/1925225.shtml

Lawyer says man robbed bank for child support

Adam · 18 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

this is not equality writes "This is what it comes down to for some men who just can't take the abuse at the hands of ex-wives (and society) anymore. Some have killed themselves, while others rob banks (article). Things will continue to go downhill until laws are changed.

Jeff"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/18/1941211.shtml

Fathers 4 Justice Throws Powder at Tony Blair

Scott · 19 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

caeruleus writes "According to this members of Fathers 4 Justice threw a capsule of purple powder at British PM Tony Blair." There is also a CNN story on the event. Whether or not you agree with F4J's actions in this case, they are now getting global media attention. Adam also writes, "I'll advise some caution here, while this could well be the work of F4J this could just as easily be be part of a smear campaign against them. Either way, why not visit the talking points and have your say?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/19/1544208.shtml

Debunking Yet Another Feminist Lie

Thomas · 19 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here's an essay by K.C.Wilson debunking the typical, feminist lie that in the past men were allowed to beat their wives, so long as their weapons were no wider than their thumbs.

I've put this under false accusations because the so-called "rule of thumb" is a standard feminist lie against the alleged "patriarchy." In other words, it's a typical, false accusation against men in general.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/19/173254.shtml

Needed: More Women's Studies Classes

Thomas · 19 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A couple essays related to the college scene...

Here's Wendy McElroy's most recent FoxNews.com essay. What troubles me is that, instead of pointing out that an increasing number of men face extreme difficulty as a result of not receiving good educations, she seems to feel that all will be well with women being far more educated than men. A true, two-sided role reversal would hardly be a disaster for most men. But women will not allow a system to develop in which women find it nearly impossible to have careers, and in many cases find themselves social pariahs, unless they support men and the men's children, and in which, if the relationship breaks down, the men receive the houses, custody of the children, and alimony/child support as long as an ex-husband and ex-wife are both alive or until the ex-husband remarries. (Can you imagine feminists calling that situation oppression of men they way they call the reverse situation oppression of women?)

The sociologists in Wendy's essay, who are bemoaning the fact that their poor daughters will have to go slumming, clearly need to take more women's studies classes. Haven't they learned that their daughters can all just decide to be lesbians?

(To see the rest of this post, click on "Read More.")And this essay by Terry Mapes opens with an absurd claim that women tamed the wild west. Men, of course, had no desire to have families and didn't care if their children were safe and educated. The article then goes on to present a twisted take on what's happening in the college mating scene.

There's no doubt that college men today are more able to freely test many waters than they were in the past. Since a great many college women today have heartily and happily bought into feminist lies, far fewer of them than in the past are worth having a committed relationship with. College men aren't a bunch of savages. Many of them would like to have a committed relationship with a fine woman. Given the plethora of feminists, however, and the associated dirth of fine women, many men will simply avail themselves of the sexual abandon of the women while avoiding marriage, fatherhood, and divorce, which in far too many cases today are hellholes for men.

Note that, according to Mapes, the college women, who have bought into feminism complete with sexual license, are not responsible for what's happening. According to Mapes, when there were fewer women than men, women could afford to be choosy. Now that there are fewer men than women, it's not that men are being choosy, it's that women are facing difficulty getting the attention of college men.

Now why wouldn't a man want to marry one of these wonderful, eternal victims?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/19/1758200.shtml

Kidnapping Grandma Released Early (Egypt)

Adam · 20 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Here is a story about a woman forgiven for kidnapping two kids "because they were family". This is an ongoing crime and one of the two perps is simply given a literal "get out of jail free" ticket. She's being deported not extradited! Why is she being set free when the kids are still in the kidnappers' hands?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/20/1925241.shtml

Women with kids can't work?

Adam · 20 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

dipy911 writes "In thisarticle
I was reading the costs associated with moms working I saw several problems.
1. Daycare may not be mandatory. The dad may be willing to take the kids while the mom works. The woman's mom might be willing to take the kids. She might even find a job with daycare.

2. The grocery bill doesn't have to be larger. Just bring in the same food to work that you normally eat. I do this and save quite a bit of money.

3. You do not have to pay for gifts at work. This is always optional. If you have little money, most co-workers understand your situation.

4. You don't need to spent a lot every month for clothing. I probably spend no more that $500 a year total on all my clothing. Just wear the same clothing over and over again. Now if I could just convince my office to allow my kilt, which look more professional that a lot of the skimpy outfits that women at my office wear."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/20/1926245.shtml

Quite a quagmire for those feminists

Adam · 21 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

this is not equality writes "Here is an interesting article from Canada (go figure) that should pose quite a dilemma for those hypocritical feminists. I'm not condoning this man's actions, simply pointing out the quagmire that will exist when those nutty feminists read it (i.e. We hate males, but do we want to admit that he ended a human life?? Hmmm?) article

here.

This line is the kicker...'Society cannot tolerate a male partner in a relationship unilaterally putting an end to a pregnancy.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/21/1935231.shtml

Women in Sports be Damned!!

Adam · 21 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I submit this article on the International Olympic Committee here because I think that this decision, which may well be celebrated by the feminists, may spell the end for women's sports. The nitwits that think the differences between men and women can be reduced to nurture, not nature, are going to celebrate this, but the reality is that biology plays a far larger role than the courts choose to recognize. Look for transexual females (formerly males) to compete at the highest levels in all sports, thereby ruining women's sports. This is not a good thing for men, either. On the other hand, I guess it's wise to be careful what you ask for, isn't it?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/21/1936242.shtml

Fight the flour

Adam · 22 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "A humorous (i.e. positive), article about the purple flour incidence, surprisingly from the usual feminist-inclinced Guardian:

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/22/1914247.shtml

Female False Accusers

Adam · 22 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "A third teen is involved in filing a false police report that alleges sexual assault, all in a weeks time. This story talks about two of the teens, A Female Would Never Lie About Sexual Assault What makes females lie about being raped? Judging by the responses of these three, I'd say, "anything." Is it possible that females could lie about other things like domestic violence, child abuse sexual harassment, etc., where physical evidence isn't as readily available to show their lying? Only our gender feminist trained police, judges and law makers are stupid enough to believe they wouldn't."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/22/1917207.shtml

Talking toilet orders men to sit down

Adam · 23 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Philalethes writes *"'A German inventor who developed a gadget that berates men if they try to use the toilet standing up has sold more than 1.6 million devices.' Came across this link in the weblog of Claire Wolfe, who remarks that '...this whole business of trying to get men to sit to pee has a lot more to do with feminism gone amuck than with keeping a ty-de-bowl,' and also links a great Walter Williams article I remember from a couple years back. Sigh. More and more I find myself feeling relieved that at age 60 I probably won't live long enough to see the worst of it."*

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/23/1857219.shtml

Call to Activism

Adam · 23 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Mensactivism is prominently mentioned in this article published at Men's News Daily Are We Men, Or Sheep, Or Men, Or... The author issues a call for men to supersede their natural (and learned) drive to be isolated individuals (loners/dominate males) for the sake of the greater good of all men. Men alive today are targeted as individuals in a group by various "oppressive things," but men have not learned to respond to those "oppressive things" in a concerted fashion. Men tend not to be effectively united as a group, yet they share a common bond as men affected by common "personal" issues. Is it the targeted personal shaming of each men's deepest and most private feelings by radical feminist tactics, that has left men as individuals and as a group so utterly disempowered, or do we each fall prey to our own innate drive to be more dominate than the next male? Men have many, many valid issues! Men are certainly dying to prove that, but not intentionally."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/23/1857253.shtml

Orlando Sentinel Covers Male-Bashing Ads, MANN

Matt · 23 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Nice work from Kate Santich of the Orlando Sentinel. Please drop her a note at ksantich@orlandosentinel.com to thank her for covering this topic.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/23/2139248.shtml

Doonesbury strip shows man's head on platter

Matt · 23 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "The Doonesbury comic strip (by Gary Trudeau) for May 23 shows the character "Joanie" carrying a platter with a university president's head on it. The headless man says "What's this?" to which she replies "A good start."

The strip's site is found here. Universal Press apologized for running the strip so soon after Nicholas Berg's beheading in Iraq.

Why it would be OK to have published the cartoon if the beheading had not recently taken place?

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/23/2143229.shtml

UK Petition on Contact Orders

Scott · 24 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

ReformEightyNine writes ""We, the undersigned, ask the Government to recognise the flouting of contact orders to be an act of harassment against the non-resident parent under the Protection from Harassment Act 1997. Further that contact orders be made with notice that denial of contact will be met with either non-punitive or punitive action or both." This is a genuine opportunity to lobby the UK Government and apply pressure for reform. PLEASE add your signature in support because your signature will count. Electronic petitions of 300 or more signatures are usually assured of an official Government response on the Prime Minister's website."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/24/0418225.shtml

Special Restrictions for Male Rescue Volunteers

Scott · 24 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

An Anonymous User writes, "The Orange County Rescue Mission has an application packet which individuals can use to apply as volunteers [file is in PDF format.] (View application as HTML.) This packet has some restrictions whereby male volunteers are prohibited from holding female children. Also, male volunteers may not meet with a client when the door is closed without a female present. Notice that these restrictions are specific to the male gender. Likely, it is because abusers are usually men (or are usually thought to be men) that these restrictions exist. Protecting children from abuse is important, but how effective are restrictions like these? (Perhaps they just guard against false accusations.) Or are there better methods that minimize discrimination?" See the Read More section for additional commentary."Notice that even hugging is restricted for those of either gender (only 'side-hugs' are allowed.) This too is likely for reasons of preventing abuse. (If it is impossible to allow hugging by males due to liability, a ban on hugs by any might be more fair than a male-specific ban on hugs. This might be considered with respect to some of the other male-specific restrictions.) It could be considered whether a potential for liability can mean it is better to overdo the restrictions than to not go far enough. A hug by a non-abuser or being held by an individual might provide comfort for a child who is having a difficult time. Is there a way to protect children and provide comfort which is fair to everyone?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/24/0423218.shtml

Prison Abuse Blamed on "Gender Inequalities" in Military

Scott · 25 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "OK, so here's the reason for the prisoner abuse in Iraq: it was women soldiers trying to fit in with the men. See this insightful article courtesy of ABCNews.com. Notice that the article doesn't mention the inequality in the number of deaths suffered by men in the military."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/25/0546213.shtml

Murder Over a Sexual Harassment Suit?

Scott · 25 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Something must have gone terribly wrong with somebody . . . In Kentucky, a female worker was shot and killed after filing a sexual harassment suit against a male co-worker. She was going to testify two days later. The male co-worker, whom some said had an interest in the woman, was suspected. A female who had been in a relationship with the victim was also suspected (she had threatened the victim in retaliation for a previous threat.) However, she said she was sick in bed at the time and was not responsible for the murder. In the end, the male worker was found not guilty because proof was lacking and some witnesses were questionable. There is a timeline of articles on the case to see."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/25/0550235.shtml

Women charged with dog-drowning, false reporting

Matt · 25 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Another example of a counter-stereotype. Won't see this story beyond local news: Woman Drowns Boyfriend's Little Dachshund and 2 women charged in dog killing

I am amazed it made it that far, really.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/25/1753218.shtml

Carpitcher Loses Appeal

Scott · 26 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "Aleck J. Carpitcher, sentenced to 38 years for molesting an 11 year old girl, has lost his appeal to the Virginia Supreme Court. Carpitchers accuser recanted her testimony nine months after he was convicted in 1999. There was no physical or corroborative evidence. This appeal challenged a Virginia law prohibiting introduction of new evidence more than 21 days after conviction.
Roanoke Times Story

There was a Men's Activism story two years ago about this, before the appeal: Men's Activism Thread from 2002

And of course, it made News of the Weird this week: Fourth Bullet under 'Can't Possibly be True'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/25/0551232.shtml

The MALE Vote

Thomas · 26 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "You won't actually read the New York Times saying that the male vote is swinging the election, but if you read between the lines here, you'll see. Of course, the pollsters and politicos won't say it out loud because they WANT the women to have the power, or at least think they do, and they don't want the politicians actually DOING anything to get the male vote, like maybe standing up to the feminist minority. But it's there, guys. It's there."

Thomas writing now. This article is actually about the white male vote.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/26/1712228.shtml

More Women, More Underaged Boys

Thomas · 26 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Hey, I thought men were the ones who had to be looked after when it came to interacting with teens? At least that`s what society tells us. A New Brighton woman was arrested on accusations that she performed sex acts on a 13-year-old friend of her son and provided pornographic materials to other boys. In another case, an angry judge is holding Rebecca Burden in jail until she comes up with $100,000 for a full-cash bond. The 27-year-old Bullitt County woman is accused of having sex with two 15-year-old boys."

Thomas writing now. It's important to keep these cases in the open to try to wear thin the feminist notion that women are always innocent or even victims. Here's a commentary by K.C. Wilson on that issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/26/1726222.shtml

Honda Pilot ad: "My husband was raised by wolves"

Thomas · 27 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Honda has an annoying ad for its Pilot SUV where a wife states that "My husband was raised by wolves." The first time I saw this was on Super Bowl Sunday (the day of the infamous Janet Jackson incident at half-time). It showed the husband looking all dishevelled while licking a plate like a dog, drinking straight from the water cooler at work, and chasing a Frisbee (thrown by his son) into a stream.

I hate this nonsense! They can expect a letter from me about where I'll buy my next car (unless there is an apology and a retraction of the ad in which case I might reconsider).

To contact Honda, try this:

By Phone:
Toll-free number: (800) 999-1009

By Fax:
(310) 783-3023 (24 Hours)

By Mail:
American Honda Motor Co., Inc.

Honda Automobile Customer Service

1919 Torrance Boulevard

Mail Stop: 500 - 2N - 7D

Torrance, CA 90501-2746

Honda states: "Our business hours are Monday through Friday, 6:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Pacific Time."

Note: No email address was provided.

Their site is:
http://www.hondacars.com

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/26/1732257.shtml

Glenn Sacks on F4J

Adam · 27 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon user writes "Columnist Glenn Sacks defends the English Fathers' Rights group Fathers 4 Justice in his latest column here. While F4J has received criticism for its actions, Sacks points out that "most protesters have court-ordered visitation with their children but cannot get English courts to enforce those rights. Their protests have broken the law, but have done so only in an effort to get the English government to enforce the law."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/27/218217.shtml

One in 75 US men in jail

Matt · 28 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Yahoo! News finally comes out with something that desperately needs revealing. The gulag system of criminalizing and warehousing men seems to be getting more and more efficient as time goes on. Read about it. The article actually notes the huge disparity in incarceration numbers for men and women as well. Great start, Yahoo!, keep it up!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/27/2329250.shtml

Major Seattle Station Spreads Misandry

Matt · 28 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

seattleshark writes "KomoTV, a Seattle ABC local newstation, has posted an extraordinarily misandric report on their website. http://www.komotv.com/stories/31443.htm. Here's an excerpt: "Of the teens aged 15 to 19 who are murdered each year in this country, a third are killed by their boyfriends." Need more? Here: "Forty percent of students aged 14 to 17 say they know someone their age who has been hit by a boyfriend." The end of the article offers the following: "For more information on teen domestic violence go to www.loveisnotabuse.com and click on "Just for teens." Please make your displeasure visible by writing the reporter: AprilZ@komotv.com. Oh, and it's time to add Liz Clairborne to the list of companies to boycott!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/27/2326246.shtml

"Men's Habits, Not Biology, Cause Early Death"

Adam · 28 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "Quote: "Last week saw two new developments in the emerging men's health movement: the debut of a peer-reviewed scientific journal, The Journal of Men's Health and Gender, and what sponsors say is the first men's health conference convened in the USA."

Article
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/28/214240.shtml

Daily Toon from a Single Father's POV

Adam · 28 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original tparker writes "Just came across "The Humble Stumble", a cartoon about a single father and his daughter. (Incredibly, the mother didn't die, she divorced him.)

It's not exactly great art, but after most of the stuff on the comics page, it's a bit of a relief."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/28/215230.shtml

Mike's Hard Lemonade Ad

Scott · 30 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Bledso writes "Mike's Hard Lemonade has released a new commercial that condones violence against men. A man and a woman are sitting at the bar and another man walks up with a series of blatantly cheesy and juvenile pick-up lines in an attempt to impress the woman. He's clearly portrayed as a big jerk. The first and second attempts draw eye rolls. On the third attempt, the man that's with the woman attempts to tell the offender to leave, but is cut off at the pass when the woman head butts the pick-up artist, knocking him to the floor. Then, apparently, all is well again. The violence seemingly justified. As always, imagine if a man head butted a woman in an ad. The horror! The web site isn't exactly easy to navigate, but you need to get to the "Mike's Media Room" section to see the ad."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/30/0410234.shtml

Can Gender Be Socially Constructed?

Adam · 30 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Can Gender be socially constructed as women's studies programs teach on our college campuses? Wendy McElroy writes about the life & death of Bruce Reimer, a boy whose botched circumcision led to medical science's failed attempt(s) to literally, physically, (and mentally) transform him into a girl, Death By Theory The gender controversy that raged around (and in) his life, rages to this day. School Debates Difference Between Gender & Sex Should children as young as elementary school be allowed to choose their "gender" as California law advocates? Letter From CA Dept. of Ed Have steps to protect the rights of homosexual children created a climate of "politically correct heterophobia," that threatens the rights of heterosexual people not to be "harassed" by the gay, lesbian and transgendered agenda? In this whole debate, is the right to be a heterosexual male the one sexual construct that is being left totally out of the equation? The issue appears to confront a number of perspectives as wide ranging and intritcate as the topic of human sexuality itself. California law purports to be seeking an enlightened perspective. However, is the current California attempt to define human sexuality in an all encompassing benevolence, yet one more example of the "tyranny of tolerance" that has for decades worked so aggressively to belittle and humiliate all things associated with heterosexual maleness as unacceptable oppression of the "privileged patriarchy?""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/30/168247.shtml

The girls who cried wolf?

Adam · 31 May 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Doctor Damage writes "On Friday May 28, The Republican published this story in which feminists complain that judges are no longer taking claims of domestic violence seriously, saying that the court system "derides these allegations as a tactic in divorce litigation"

Chickens coming home to roost?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/05/31/1832236.shtml

Degrading Hardees Commercials

Adam · 1 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Josh N. writes "Recent Hardees® commercials depict men as too stupid to select a loaf of bread or open a cardboard tube of instant biscuits, while a narrator's voice proclaims that "without Hardees®, some guys would starve…" Aren't we all lucky that Hardees® is making sure that the men of America don't die of starvation because they're so stupid? Hardees® though, is not the only culprit. For example, another series of advertisements from Domino's Pizza's promoting their Philly Cheese Steak Pizzas show a group of men teasing a dog by summoning it with a bell (a parallel to Pavlov's bell experiments) so that the dog comes in expectation of food, but instead is mocked as a "stupid dog." A few seconds later, the doorbell rings, and all the men run to the door making panting dog sounds (another Pavlov draw, this time equating the men to dogs) and are greeted by a pizza delivery man who says "No drooling this time guys." Thus the commercial first takes the time to establish the dog's intelligence as "stupid". It next makes the men behave like dogs, so an easy inference can be made by the viewer based on what they've established about dogs' intelligence, that men are also stupid."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/01/126240.shtml

The Empire Strikes Back

Scott · 1 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Hunchback writes "How does the femborg fight back when the true face of domestic violence is being exposed? It latches on to a handful of sensational, well publicized cases; one of its reps sponsors a bill to create an "advisory board"; eventually the "findings" of the board funnel even more public funds into selected feminist-controlled coffers. This article depicts the birth of a dark star. The campaign was executed quietly, announced publicly only when the result was a fait accompli. Notice the background of the bill's sponsor and the proposed make-up of the board. Letters to the editor might forestall this measure from becoming a national model. Letters to the editor should be no more than 70 words and submitted immediately."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/01/1851253.shtml

Women's Right/Gynaeocracy is The Supreme Law

Adam · 2 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes " U.S. National - AP

Judge: Bush Abortion Ban Unconstitutional

3 minutes ago Add U.S. National - AP to My Yahoo!

By DAVID KRAVETS, Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO - In a ruling with coast-to-coast effect, a federal judge declared the Partial-Birth Abortion Ban Act unconstitutional Tuesday, saying it infringes on a woman's right to choose.

U.S. District Judge Phyllis Hamilton's ruling came in one of three lawsuits challenging the legislation President Bush (news - web sites) signed last year.

She agreed with abortion rights activists that a woman's right to choose is paramount, and that it is therefore "irrelevant" whether a fetus suffers pain, as abortion foes contend. The article quotes:

"a woman's right to choose is paramount, and that it is therefore "irrelevant" whether a fetus suffers pain"

Matriarchy or Gynaeocracy is the Supreme Law and death and suffering then become "irrelevant.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/02/1714206.shtml

No more "Ladies Night" in New Jersey

Matt · 2 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steve Krakauer writes "Check out this story about New Jersey's court ruling banning Ladies Night promotions at bars and clubs after a man took a club to court claiming gender bias.

I guess equal rights means paying equal for drinks and cover also...

It makes sense."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/02/190233.shtml

UK Telegraph warns men to avoid divorce in Britain

Matt · 2 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Can you believe a man's future earnings will be open to confiscation should he and his wife split? This is anticipated in Britain. Read it here.*

Interesting is the commentary contrasting things in GB with here in the US, New York in particular.

Stay single. Just stay single. For the love of God, man, STAY SINGLE!!

* Registration required. Go ahead, it's free and only takes a second.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/02/209256.shtml

Peterson vs. Harris

Adam · 3 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "According to this article, Scott Peterson's double murder trial begins today. For me, there's no question: if he's guilty, he deserves his punishment. Put aside, for a moment, the notion that he's being tried for one kind of murder that women commit every day in this country. Consider, instead, the harsh treatment he'll receive at the hands of the media and compare that with the sympathetic way in which Clara Harris was treated during her murder trial. Ladies and gentlemen, I submit to you a true and clear demonstration of anti-male bias in the media."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/03/1626253.shtml

The Estrogen Is Choking The Environment....

Adam · 4 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CrimsonArrow writes "... But do not take my word for it, just read about the 'March for Women's Lives' rally from Frontpage Magazine written by Anthony Gankarski. As Ashley Judd puts it: "This is what feminism looks like.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/04/1830219.shtml

Cartoon Strip on MND Portrays Violence Against Men

Adam · 4 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "If you go to the Men's News Daily site regularly you will notice the cartoon strip Day By Day written by someone called Chris Muir. This strip has recently given in to the concept that violence against men by females is okay and humorous. The current one, as of 4 June, has a male character called Zed getting slapped by a female character because he sent a picture of her breasts, I think it was, over the internet.

I sent Mr. Muir this e-mail protesting his condoning of violence against men by females as okay and funny." See the Read More section for the e-mail.

Hello Mr Muir,

(FYI,his e-mail address is: daybyday@daybydaycartoon.com)

I have been reading your cartoon strip, Day By Day at the Men's News Daily site for a couple of weeks now.
The most current one has a male character called Zed who gets slapped by a female character for e-mailing a picture of her bosom I presume over the internet. I also recall another male character in an earlier strip getting hit by an object thrown by a female character over some slight.

The media has developed a very bad habit of portraying violence against men by females as something that is okay, justified and even humorous.
Even men getting hit or kicked in the testicles an act which could be defined as criminal sexual assault, has become a common sight in too many commercials and movies where the assault is suggested as being funny and even empowering for the abuser who is usually a female.

If you think I am being overly sensitive and just not appreciating the joke, well how about doing this as an experiment? Switch the scenario where the male characters slap or otherwise abuse the female characters over some trivial offense and see the reaction from the public. It would be an outrage!

So would you please do something about combating the social acceptance of domestic and other violence against men? It would be original and even more entertaining not to mention more intelligent.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/04/1833206.shtml

Spot the double standards! (there's several)

Adam · 5 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "article 1

A Parma woman who carried on a two-year sexual affair with a boy who was 13 when it began dodged prison Wednesday when a judge sentenced her to probation on felony sex charges.

Dawn Bacon, a 34-year-old mother of three, pleaded guilty earlier to 20 counts of unlawful sexual contact with a minor. She will serve six months of electronically monitored home confinement and must continue psychotherapy...

Another story in the same vein article 2

Jennifer Joel Wilder, 33, was charged with sexual battery on May 14. She is free on $10,000 bond.

Authorities said Wilder was a science teacher at East Central High School. They said the teenager was not in any of her classes."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/05/2047211.shtml

Eleven-Year-Old Girl Slashes Classmate's Throat

Adam · 5 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Story here "The killing appeared especially shocking because of the age of the children involved and the fact that both were girls. "
The age of the killer can legitimately be referred to as "shocking", but there is nothing shocking about a female killer. The shocking part is that it made the news and that she was actually identified as female. There are many stories I see where a violent female is referred to as a: coworker, friend, acquiantence, classmate, or other gender neutral term. Many times even after reading the entire article, the gender of the perp is still not divulged - which is a near guarantee that it is female. They also had to throw in a couple mentions of young boy killers to show that young killers are supposed to be male."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/05/2050213.shtml

Colombian police arrest woman for stealing unborn

Adam · 6 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ragtime writes "Colombian baby 'stolen from womb' -- Colombian police say they have arrested a woman for stealing an unborn baby from its mother's womb."

What was the motive? I wonder.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/05/2053230.shtml

Domestic Violence Batters Men

Adam · 6 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "Domestic violence information is honestly reported here, Women who batter, and the men who fear them Male victims of domestic violence really need to be written about in main stream media, but rarely are. Robert L. Jamieson shows journalistic integrity by objectively reporting the events in this story, without all the usual domestic violence industry misinformation and lies we so frequently see in media coverage of domestic violence stories."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/06/2028249.shtml

Ray Blumhorst Cited in ChicagoTribune Article

Adam · 7 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Frequent poster to MANN Ray Blumhorst was quoted in a "Commentary" piece by Kathleen Parker (6.2.02) - "Blindsided by Political Correctiness..." an essay regarding the damages done to feminism by the recent Abu Ghraib scandals.

Ray's quote: "What happened in Abu Ghraib is no isolated incident, no abberation," wrote Ray Blumhorst... I have little doubt that all of the females implicated at Abu Ghraib will have little trouble finding jobs in the multi-billion-dollar VAWA (Violence Against Women Act) domestic violence industry, just as soon as American, gender feminist justice rationalizes away all their misbehavior."

Link to full article here"

Registration required.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/07/1140212.shtml

California's History of Politically Correct Group Attacks

Adam · 7 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here's a convoluted piece of writing, Politically Correct, Pseudoscientific Ideologies Targeting Groups of People in the Golden State that compares and contrasts California's past practices with present day practices in regards to the Golden State's "unique ways" of dealing with issues of "societally deficient" human beings, human sexuality, and "gender." Apparently, today's males have not been the first group of people to be systematically stigmitized, demonized, and persecuted by "Golden State" politics and pseudoscientific hokum. The details presented in this article, reveal a fascinating past and present for the "Golden State" that is a truth hiding in plain sight, yet seldom mentioned. Gee, I wonder why?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/07/1144217.shtml

AP News Wire Bias in Wage Reporting

Matt · 8 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "The Associated Press ran a report last Friday on the gender wage gap in which they claim that women earn less than men for the same work. Once again the crucial factor in earnings, the number of years an individual has been performing their job, is left out.

For comments AP spoke exclusively to women. They mention education, but fail to mention that women now receive more degrees than men. And for the finale the economist they quote equates single-parenthood with motherhood and argues that employers should be forced to pay more for less productive workers."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/08/1527203.shtml

Forbes article covers worker injuries... sort of.

Matt · 8 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Read this article in Forbes on-line, off-linked from the AOL AIM news pop-up. The article is glaring in its omissions. My letter to the editor is below (comments to Forbes can be submitted here).Carrie Coolidge's "The Most Dangerous Jobs in America" falls way short of adequately covering the topic. Moreover, she leaves out vital statistics with regard to who receives injuries while on the job based on such factors as gender and ethnicity, factors that are cited in nearly every sociologically-relevent topical discussion in the popular press except for those that do not favor a certain agenda. The fact of the matter is that men are far more likely to be injured or killed on the job than women and that non-whites suffer disproportionately more injuries on the job than do whites. Also, no mention of injuries and deaths in military service is mentioned, most of which are sustained by men.

Next time Forbes runs such an article as this, please be sure to do it the topic the justice it deserves, including the relevant demographic information that normally accompanies articles of this type.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/08/1539230.shtml

John Kerry opens thread on mens issues

Adam · 9 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Betrayed in America writes "The wage gap brought MRA's to Kerry's "womens issues" thread. This opened the door to the report (not study) used to foster womens vote, by MRA's. A lot of debunking going on there. Also the MRA's injected some men's issues. . .to the point were a mens issue's thread was opened. Now I don't know if the thread was an attempt to derail the men on the wage gap or a genuine desire to here mens issues. Either way there is a public thread on a presidetial candidates site. It seems to be a good opportunity to get some issues into public debate. Please be courtious as they tend to ban people easily there. Beware there are a couple of seemingly feminist that are attempting to trivialize and deter the issues. Stay focused. . .have fun! One note: If the link doesn't work. . .the thread is listed under the topic of "womens issues" as "issues that concern men"."

Update: Betrayed in America writes "Its under "Civil rights for all Americans" now. Here's the

link."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/09/1820250.shtml

Abusive women

Adam · 9 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "This article is from Malaysia. Particularly good in the opening. It starts with some historical perspective on violent behavior by women - from Catherine II to Lynndie England. It also mentions that violence by wives against their husbands is quite common in Malyasia, but men don't report it because they are ashamed to admit what happened to them, and that women abuse children as much as (or maybe more than) men do. The later part is somewhat disappointing. It offers a number of explanations (excuses) for femal violent behavior.

It seems that the media in diffrent parts of the world has begun to report on violence by women and/or against men. Surly a good sign!

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/09/1826235.shtml

Sexism is OK against men

Matt · 10 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Man can't fill woman's spot on county committees political party office."

Our broken judicial system sided with the motion to deny this man an opportunity: "The Supreme Court upheld that decision, saying a political party office was not the same as public office. As such, the court said it was not protected by a state constitutional provision stating that "no person shall be disqualified from holding office in this state because of sex." Anytime someone registers for office, be it political or public, and someone has to first see what they look like -- be it man, woman, black or white -- there's something wrong with that. Feminism - do as we say, not as we do...as usual. This is an "Odds and Ends" piece. If the genders were reversed Dan Rather would be talking about it...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/09/2253209.shtml

Violent femme gets noticed under "Entertainment"

Matt · 10 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Not unlike men getting murdered by women showing up under "Oddly Enough", I have come to expect this sort of thing from Yahoo! News. The (in)famous Courtney Love, high on coke and who knows what else, attacks another woman with a deadly weapon, and it is reported as "Entertainment". You know, I can't help but think that if the victim were male, it would not even have made it into the paper much less get the attention of the law.Get this from the piece:

Love was not in custody, and it was unclear whether she had been served with the warrant. She has been charged in three additional cases, including two that occurred hours apart in October.

Those other cases, the article notes, included an attempted break-in into a former boyfriend's house. Yet, she remains out of jail and out on bail, as they say. Doubt she'll do real time for any of this.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/09/2321232.shtml

Pay Gap Reporting

Adam · 10 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is an article from MSNBC

here

The studies say what we've been saying all along: women are more apt to leave the work force.

Of course, the article puts a VERY biased slant on the interpretation of these statistics, implying that the blame rests on employers who are not accomodating. Did it ever occur to them that men are under greater competative pressures to work, garner experience, and earn more money, hence why they are less apt to leave the work force? That women have choices to leave the work force that men don't have? That leaving the work force is a sign of lesser commitment to work, rather than a cause (because women are more able to find partners who are willing to financially support them)? Did it ever occur to them that this might be unpleasant for men?

I hear many women complaining about have to make choices regarding whether or not they wish to work. Funny, nobody ever asks me what I would choose. "Fully 96% of these prime-age women worked at least one of those 15 years." Gee, they make it sound like such an accomplishment. Sounds like a pretty low standard. I never grew up with the expectation that I would spend any number of years without working. That would be swell, though.

Must be nice to have the choice to relax and not stress out, then have everyone feel sorry for you once you do."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/10/1515215.shtml

Men's Rights Congress next week! Here's the synopsis of issues

Tom · 10 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

We are looking forward to seeing many of the posters from MANN next week at the Men's Rights Congress in Washington DC, June 18-19. We have a great group of nearly forty men and women who are registered and coming from 14 states and Great Britain. We expect more. Please sign up soon if you are planning to come. We need to make accurate estimates by next Wednesday for food for lunch on Saturday so let us know soon if you are coming! Join us!

We have written a brief synopsis of men's rights issues for the Congress. We would love your feedback on it. What would you add? What would you edit? Let us know. Click 'Read More / Post Comments' to see the synopsis.

Summary

We have developed a booklet for the Congress that has a 2-4 page summary of each issue listed below. Each of the separate summaries is written by men who are experts in their topics. Authors include Glenn Sacks, Warren Farrell, Marc Angelucci, David Burroughs, Carnell Smith, Stephen Baskerville, Dean Tong and many others. These will be distributed at the Congress.

Let us know what you think!

Men's Health – Men die on average over 4.5 years earlier than women, commit suicide 4 times more often than women, for all 10 leading causes of death, have higher death rates than women, yet our government focuses on women's health and ignores men. We have 4 offices of women's health in the Department of Health and Human Services, and none for men. Prostate cancer receives only a third of the funding of breast cancer from the National Institutes of Health, but kills as many men as breast cancer kills women. Funding for male specific health research is less than one half of the funding for female specific research. We need equity. Our government needs to help both men and women.

Circumcision – Over a million infant boys are subjected to painful, sometimes dangerous and life altering surgery each year without their consent. The American Medical Association tells us that routine circumcision is not medically necessary, that this procedure is invasive, painful, and is known to diminish sexual pleasure later in life. Our country has laws that protect little girls from this sort of procedure but has nothing to protect our little boys.

Domestic Violence - Although the department of Justice tell us that 835,000 men are victims of domestic violence every year these men have no services or shelters. Actually research clearly indicates that it is women who initiate domestic violence more often than men yet the feminist driven domestic violence industry does its best to make people think that men are but a tiny fraction of the victims. Billions of dollars have been spent for the aid of women who are victims. Don't you think it is time to care about both men and women?

Paternity Fraud - With the advent of DNA testing we can now easily prove paternity. The shocking truth is that so far, of those tested who were questioning paternity, 33% have found that they were not the father! This indicates that paternity fraud is likely a profound problem which leaves many men paying for and in some cases forced to pay for children which are not actually their own. Up to this point we have trusted the mother's word about paternity. The wisdom of this assumption is now rightly being called into question.

Selective Service – Our young men must register for the draft or face stiff fines and possible incarceration, along with a denial of benefits and opportunities which are available to young women without further requirement. Our boys can be forced to serve their country and die if necessary. Our girls have no such responsibility. Is that fair?

Family Courts – Fathers are being removed from their children and families against their will and through no fault of their own. False accusations of domestic violence or child abuse are commonplace in an effort to insure custody goes to the mother. Men are then subjected to a system that forces them to pay lawyers they didn't hire and pay child support without any system of gurantee or audit to make sure the money they pay for the benefit of their children is actually used for such. The system then refuses to enforce their ability to see their own children.

Education - After decades of shifting educational environments to help girls our boys are left to school environments that are hostile to their nature. Their more active nature is being pathologized and medicated. A striking example of this is that the recess period is now being eliminated from schools all over America. Our schools are becoming more and more unfriendly to boys. While the girls are encouraged to claim their power the boys are getting the message that they are defective. They are responding by dropping out at higher percentages than girls, failing more often, graduating less often, less likely to attend college, and, sadly, committing suicide six times more often. Our boys are very bright, traditionally outscoring girls on both math and verbal parts of the SAT's. Their intelligence is excellent; it's the anti-male environment that is causing the trouble. Our boys need our attention and help now!

Criminal Bias - Gender is the most significant biasing factor in determining whether or not someone will be charged, prosecuted, indicted and sentenced, as well as determining the severity of the sentence. Simply put, men get longer sentences for the same crime and are 20 times more likely than women to receive the death penalty when convicted of murder. If you are a man you will be treated more harshly by our court system.

False Accusation – 270,000 men and fathers are victimized each year across America by unfounded and false child sex abuse reports. This number is pushed much higher when you include false accusations of rape and domestic violence. Being accused of any of these crimes is often decimating to a man's life. Even though he is proven innocent (which is often required for him not to be found guilty, in contradiction of the right of presumed innocence) he will still carry the scars of this false accusation and the damage to his reputation and psyche. The false accuser is often allowed to remain anonymous and usually is permitted to remain without responsibility for her false accusations after the fact.

Reproductive Rights - Men have no reproductive rights. Women can choose to have the baby, or an abortion, or put the baby up for adoption. The man has only one option if the woman chooses to have the child: pay child support. If a woman has the right to "opt out" of a pregnancy via abortion or adoption why shouldn't a man also have this right? Many are suggesting "paper abortions" as a means to give men a similar right.

Wage Gap – The "Wage Gap" disappears when factors such as maternity leave, overtime hours, and educational levels are taken into account. Women tend to choose occupations that allow them choices in their time with family and options such as school or leisure. Men tend to only work full time. This difference leads many to erroneously assume that men make more for the same work. This assumption is a media sweetheart and is proclaimed loudly. It will be put to rest with the publishing of Warren Farrell's next book on this topic.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/10/228241.shtml

Missing Men Underreported in Media

Matt · 11 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

seattleshark writes "Find out more here. Very good article on the plight of the families of missing men, and how the media generally ignores them. Those of you that don't support foxnews should really take another look. Of the major media outlets, fox is the ONLY one that gives reasonably fair coverage."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/11/0413228.shtml

The survey says for the english woman....

Adam · 11 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CrimsonArrow writes "Oh, crap! Another poll is taken from 2000 women living in the UK. The results? 'Eight out of 10 women surveyed (81%) said they wished they could change their lives, 67% felt like they were on a treadmill and were worn out, and 60% thought life was easier for men.' That is not all, folks. If you read on, it gets worse for these poor, girls ..."

Anon user also submitted this: "Over 2,000 women in the UK were interviewed for a study and the end result? Most women are very miserable in a post-feminist age. Among the study findings -- Six out of 10 women said they felt their work/life balance was the greatest obstacle to their happiness, while the emotion experienced on a daily basis by 56% of women was "frustration". More than half admitted their finances were "out of control", while six out of 10 found their social and sex lives "unfulfilling", 92% declared they were unhappy with their bodies, 60% felt "life was easier for men" and 66% of women wanted to "quit the rat race". Are women finally wake up to the failure of modern feminism?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/11/2144202.shtml

New women's prison in Britain

Adam · 12 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

cosmo writes "In order to aid female prisoners' "state of mind", a new prison is opening in Britain that will offer TVs, baby rooms, and fitness centres. Sometimes I think that women would be less upset if we just didn't send them to prison in the first place! Article at: this link"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/11/2144257.shtml

Good men come in all sizes and ages

Adam · 12 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "I was stunned by this story, Boy Who Saved Girl in Pool Now on Life Support and didn't know quite what to make of it. The next time a gender feminist wants to stereotype all men and boys as violent or evil by saying, "What can males do to stop their violence against females," tell the bigot about this story, and ask her what she ever selflessly did to make the world a better place for "all" people."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/12/2119231.shtml

ABCNews.com: Double bash headline special

Adam · 13 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Two of the three main "headlines" in ABCNews.com today promulgate the wage-gap myth and insult fathers.

One is titled "Pay Snub: Why do most women earn less than men?"

here

The other is titled: "Daddy Knows Best? One father says he was accused of child abuse for taking his child off Ritalin."

and here

As a bonus, I got to see a pop-up ad from Honda with the caption “My husband was raised by wolves.” Sounds familiar.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/12/2121249.shtml

16 y/o girl murders step-dad, mom planned it

Adam · 13 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

zenpriest writes "A 16-year-old girl has pleaded guilty to murdering her stepfather and will testify against her mother, who is accused of plotting the killing."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/13/2046211.shtml

Where is the switch ...

Adam · 13 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CrimsonArrow writes "... so we can turn Amy Alkon off?! A guy writes in a simple question at McCall.com and proceeds to get blasted by a long winded femi-speech. Excerpt: 'Men want beautiful women. Women want men of status and power. Deal with it. This isn't some new phenomenon. Any man alive today is a beauty-grubber descended from a very, very long line of beauty-grubbers — stretching all the way back to the Pleistocene era. Likewise, modern women are hard-wired to be "gold-diggers" — descended from an equally long line of female ancestors who would have sold their hairy left knuckle to bear Joe Alpha's furry little children.'

I think it best that this guy take Bernard Chapin's advice from his articles, The Presumption Against Marriage parts [1] &
[2]

' ... with women, unless they're without flaw, my advice is to ride the train for as long as you can, but let some other sucker pay for its maintenance and servicing, and always make sure you get off of the route before it reaches matrimonial terminal.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/13/2047252.shtml

Lunatics Setting Child Support Amounts

Hombre · 13 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here is yet another story of a man who has been turned into a financial slave by the lunatic family court system.

He has been ordered to pay 81% of his take home pay by some blacksheeted bastard that answers to the name of Peatross. He will probably go to prison for this and not being able to pay for braces for his kid's teeth!

It is stories like this that makes one wonder just why we are in Iraq fighting tyranny over there when there is plenty of tyranny here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/13/2146259.shtml

Sons and Daughters Giving Praise To Dads

Adam · 13 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CrimsonArrow writes "Here is something positive that is worth cheering about. From the Rocky Mountain News: 'My Dad Is A Hero, 6 Winning Essays For Father's Day. Awesome. Special Extraordinary. Committed. A Super Hero.'

'My dad is a hero because he does so much for me and my brother. He cooks, he drives us around, he cleans and he makes sure our clothes are clean. When my brother and I are fighting, sad, or upset, he tries to fix it. What makes him the most special is that he does all of this without the help of a wife. He does this all by himself because my mom passed away four years ago. I'm thankful to have a dad to raise me after such a tragic event.'

Read the stories of kids celebrating their hero: Dad."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/13/2049251.shtml

What Is Mine Is Mine, What Is His Is Mine!

Hombre · 14 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CrimsonArrow writes "Look, I know this is article is a month old, but that changes things not one bit. Another poll of 2100 women was taken in the UK that suggested, 'Young mothers are rejecting equality in the workplace and preferring the idea of becoming full-time housewives - but not ones who actually do housework.

This is the overall conclusion of research among 2,100 British adults that says women are happy to abandon the workplace but not if it means spending all day at home cooking, cleaning and looking after children.'

Being married to these broads sounds like a great life, huh? wink"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/13/226247.shtml

False rape accuser sentenced to a year in jail

Hombre · 14 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Finally, a woman recieves jailtime for falsely accusing someone of rape. They even mentioned her name in the article! The 1 year sentence was awfully light, but it's a start.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/14/1440240.shtml

Supreme Court: Fathers lack standing

Matt · 14 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Is this really so unexpected? The US Supreme Court dismissed the case of the father who sued the school district of the school his daughter was attending to allow her not to recite the Pledge of Allegiance using "under God". Regardless of whether or not you think the pledge should include that phrase, the point here is that the SC has affirmed what many of us already know either by experience or previous studies: fathers lack standing to make decisions for their kids. Note that the father in this case is in a custody battle with his ex-wife, the mother of his children. The SC decided he didn't have "sufficient custody" to give him standing. That he brought them as they are into the world apparently is not enough to give him standing.

You can bet your next paycheck that if a mom had brought the suit, they would not have dismissed it for that reason. Perhaps another, but not for that one.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/14/1456209.shtml

Police Web Site Prints Photos, Addresses Of The Accused

Hombre · 14 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This article is about the Dallas Police Department. They`re posting pics and other info of alleged johns. I guess if they`re guilty or not doesn`t matter. I don`t know if they`re posting pics of the hookers.

"The DPD is posting pictures on its Web site of people busted for allegedly soliciting prostitution.""

"It is important, likewise, that the habits of thinking in a free Country should inspire caution in those entrusted with its administration, to confine themselves within their respective Constitutional spheres; avoiding in the exercise of the Powers of one department to encroach upon another. The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create whatever the form of government, a real despotism." - Hamilton Abert Long

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/14/1459250.shtml

Underacheivement of males in the education system

Hombre · 15 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A_level_student_needing_help writes "As an A level sociology student I am interested in completing a piece of coursework detailing the underacheivement of males in the education system. Why is it? I need to include some parliamentary acts passed within the last centuary to support this argument. If anyone has any ideas that I may find useful please post on this site. Any contribution whatsoever would be appreciated, and I'll let you know how I get on. Thanks."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/15/0733210.shtml

The Vasectomy Judges Speaks

Adam · 15 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here

from the horse's....ah....mouth is Judge D. Michael "Mickey" Foellger who gained 15 minutes of fame by ordering a man to be sterilized or go to jail for not being able to pay child support.

Notice how he always refers to men's sexual indescretion in cases he cites but never the women's. Also, he never acknowledges that women unlike men can abort their parental responsiblities before the child is born.

If anyone knows how to contact him let us know."

Well, you could just look at the fifth result over here and reach for the phone....

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/15/1852224.shtml

The New Face of Wealth Wears Lipstick

Adam · 15 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

NextEntity writes "News on the British front shows that more women are wealthy than men now. Now new and improved with glib quotes, statistics and an ending along the lines of:

"Once upon a time little girls on both sides of the Atlantic may have dreamed about marrying a millionaire. These days they're dreaming about running their own companies. Will little boys dream about marrying them?"

How long before the tired old hat of rich men being the oppressors and evil bastards gets retired in favor of the opposite?

The full article can be read
here".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/15/1858236.shtml

Economist Rebuts NH Child Support Guidelines

Scott · 16 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Economist R. Mark Rogers of Economic Consulting wrote a concise and insightful rebuttal of the NH Child Support Guidelines in PDF format. Not only are the guidelines full of inconsistencies and unfair burdens (mostly to the disadvantage of the non-custodial parent), but it turns out that the current NH guidelines do not even use the sliding percentage of income scale that the NH DHHS recommended, but instead are based on a fixed percentage of income with no cap. At only 11 pages, this document is a quick read and I hope will it inspire others to investigate child support guidelines in other states and form rebuttal strategies.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/16/0317201.shtml

Useful DV Stats in California

Adam · 16 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "Aside from all the randomized surveys showing that men and women initiate DV at the same rates (like in Fiebert's bibliography here and Linda Kelly's law review journal in PDF format), sometimes it is also very useful to cite local and state police reports and other "archival" data in one's advocacy for male victims in civil rights lawsuits, lobbying or other advocacy. Below are some California stats from an online State of California source that can be very useful in this regard. Marc

The document I refer to above is titled "The Prevalence of Domestic Violence in California." It is a State document that, despite the extreme gender bias in its analytical language, still shows that, according to police data, men comprise about 1/4 of DV victims. The document is available at this site in PDF format.

Here are some highlights:

1. In 2000, 9,340 women and 41,885 men were arrested for DV (p 40).

2. From 1988 to 2000, women went from 6 percent to 18.2 percent of DV arrestees, while men went from 94 percent to 81.8 percent (p 41).

3. In 2000, out of 147 homicides with DV as a precipitating event, 22 victims were husbands and 72 were wives; 8 were boyfriends and 32 were girlfriends; 1 was an ex husband and 0 were ex wives (p 45).

4. In San Diego County in 1996, law enforcement showed that 18 percent of DV victims were male and 82 percent were female, while 82 percent of suspects were male and 18 percent were female (p 48).

5. From July 1, 2001 to May 31, 2002, in the victim compensation program for DV victims, 2,936 primary claimants were male and 9,898 were female (p 53).

6. "One responding shelter, located in Los Angeles, reported a significant number of gay and lesbian domestic violence clients, with more male domestic violence victims than female." (p 14.)

Marc"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with

comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/16/1751239.shtml

Woman abandons baby in bar parking lot, isn't charged

Matt · 17 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

At this point I wouldn't have kids to save my own bloody life. Look at this will you. Apparently, in CA anyway, a mother can abandon a baby anyplace and as long as she calls for pick-up, it's OK. If a man did that, he'd be toast.

Barf.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/17/1630248.shtml

IWF - A Supporter of Fatherhood

Adam · 17 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Granted, the IWF has been an advocate for traditional fatherhood and for marriage - they should be lauded for this. But look at their "Father's Day" page:

here

Read the first listed article, "Meet Today's Dad: A Model to Avoid." Grrr..."

Hmmm. I dunno about you, but I'm starting to get the feeling the IWF values the nearest man's uses more than his characteristics. For independant women, they sure do glorify the traditional man, but not the traditional woman? if there was ever going to be a universal slogan for this kind of thing, it would have to be "No reciprocity? no way!" Or perhaps "You can't have it both ways baybee!" as a wise man once said.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/17/1937231.shtml

It's No Joke: TV Dads Get Short Shrift

Adam · 18 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes ""Dads, you see, are the last subculture in America whom it is permissible to bash and malign with impunity. They have no lobby whose sole task it is to protect their honor. You can depict dads as stumbling, bumbling doofs all you want and receive not a single shred of flak for it. "

Full article
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/17/2349235.shtml

Missing Men

Adam · 18 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Here is an excellent article about the underreporting (or should I say non-reporting) of men who are missing, as opposed to the media frenzy when a woman is missing."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/17/2351227.shtml

Nicole Kidman Movie Causing Outrage

Adam · 18 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "It seems in her new movie "Birth" she fools arond with a 10 (!) year old boy in a hot tub.The movie may never come out because of the trouble it`s causing. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/17/2354230.shtml

Does 'Victim Status' justify crime?

Adam · 19 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes " A woman bites off her boyfriend's tongue and perhaps swallows it because he squeezed her a bit too tight while kissing. The AP news story granted her "victim status" on her account alone, which as usual is an odd twist of logic aimed at justifying violent female behavior based upon her previous experience with men. Media's constant justification of violent female behavior seems to be the norm today and it softens the impact of violent female behavior, and denigrates men in the process. This was another "odds and ends" new item."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/18/000229.shtml

2004 Men's Congress Day One: Big Success!!

Matt · 19 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I am very glad to announce that Day One of the 2004 Men's Rights Congress was a big success!! Activists from all over the country converged at a church near Capitol Hill to organize and depart for "Lobby Day on the Hill". I can't tell you the great sense of satisfaction and accomplishment that came just from going directly to the seat of legislation and making our case to our senators and Congressmen, or their staffers. Following that, participants made signs and protested in front of the Supreme Court, talking to passers-by, handing out leaflets, and posing for photos taken by tourists and passing media people. From there, we moved on to the Capitol lawn to join fellow protesters for photo ops and to make our presence known there as well.

It was a long but very satisfying day. We remained stolidly undaunted in the face of the heat and humidity. :) We all look forward to tomorrow for the second day of the Congress at the Carnegie Endowment for Peace building.

Oh yes - photos coming soon!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/19/0154210.shtml

All men are voles..?

Matt · 19 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "

Apparently scientists have discovered a gene that makes voles faithful and ends their natural promiscuity. I just love the comments about 'how women may want to implant this in their men'..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/19/0144227.shtml

2004 Men's Rights Congress, Day Two: Great Big Success!!

Matt · 20 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The second and final day of the 2004 Men's Rights Congress concluded today as a big success. With upwards of 50 attendees and a great list of speakers, along with a great deal of enthusiasm and a spirit of cooperation and commonness of cause, the Conference Day ended too soon.

Attendees left with a strong sense that this Congress was the start of something great. We who were part of its organization and execution certainly hope so! If you were there, you know what I mean, and thank you for attending. If not, well, you missed a great conference! :) Hope to see you next year in any case!

Oh yeah....pictures coming soon!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/20/0112210.shtml

Woman leads caging of boys

Matt · 20 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

ahhkaboom writes "Adopted boys were systematically abused on an ongoing basis for 13½ years by their adoptive parents, with the adoptive mother taking the lead.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/20/017243.shtml

Washington Times op-ed piece on father's rights, 2004 Congress

Matt · 21 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

2004 Men's Rights Congress Committee member Brett Freeman had an op-ed published today in The Washington Times. The Times and the Washington Post are DC's two major newspapers. Way to go, Brett!!!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/20/235205.shtml

NYTimes.com: Guess Who's Holding the Briefcase

Matt · 21 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I could hardly believe my eyes, but there it is in black and white. The New York Times itself has published this article in its Week In Review section, an article which appears to unabashedly sympathize with the plight of the "modern" married man.

Happy Father's Day!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/20/2314252.shtml

Happy Father's Day

Matt · 21 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Nancy writes "To all of you who are fathers, step-fathers, 'big brothers', uncles, grampas, role-models and friends. This is your day. HAPPY FATHER'S DAY!!!!!!!!!!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/20/2310213.shtml

Post-Father's Day slap - the Bridget Marks case

Adam · 22 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Hunchback writes "By now everyone should be aware of the Bridget Marks case, championed by the NY Daily News. This latest insult to falsely accused fathers everywhere has to be seen to be believed. The authors' book should be titled "Why Women are Running Family Court." (Letters to the Daily News should be under 60 words--written letters with name, address, and daytime phone seem to have a better chance of publication than e-letters.)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/22/1610229.shtml

Woman sentenced for killing son

Adam · 22 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

OldManSenile writes " Finally, Score one for the good guys and gals. This 20 yr old tried to play the "I'm sorry" cards and got shwacked. The only bad thing is, they never said anything about the father IE... where is he, his feelings, or even if he would have taken the baby so she didn't have to kill the son. Here is the link."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/22/1612210.shtml

Wil Hetherington Up For Parole?

Adam · 22 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Please take a little time out of you day to send some kind of letter of support for Mr. Hetherington. Thanks!

From: QT - Joe O'Connor
To: QT topic subscribers

Reply by email or visit here I just received a letter from Wil stating that he's coming up for parole soon and that he needs as many letters as possible to the parole board asking for his release.

The address is:

Michigan Parole Board
c/o Executive Secretary
P.O. Box 30003
Lansing, MI 48909

Wil says he would like everyone sending out a letter to make 2 copies for him and send them to his address. He would also like a copy, if possible of the response the parole board mails out.

His current address is below:

William J. Hetherington #186155
1790 E. Parnall Road
Jackson, MI 49201-7139"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/22/1620224.shtml

Will New Jersey overturn the ban on Ladies Night?

Adam · 24 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Ladies Nights (where bars, etc. charge women less than they do men) have been banned in New Jersey. However, Assemblyman Joseph Cryan (D-Union) has introduced a bill that would allow facilities to have gender-based prices but "for economic purposes only". The New Jersey Restaurant Association opposed the ban on ladies' nights for reasons of revenue and the good of the community. The owner of the restaurant where the ladies night policy was originally challenged claimed that ladies nights are a benefit for men. A university professor said that ladies nights were examined by 15 states in terms of discrimination, and that 12 states banned the practice with no bad effects. None of those other states have legalized ladies nights so far. In another article, an individual claims that the man would not have challenged ladies nights if he had a girlfriend. Some men supposedly preferred places with more women. The executive director of the ACLU in NJ said that ladies nights discrimination was not as serious as discrimination against women and minorities but that she did support the ban.The second article compares ladies nights to senior discounts or McDonalds Happy Meals for kids, but virtually everyone is a kid at one time and a senior at one time, regardless of gender. On the other hand, gender itself never changes. It might be worth considering what would happen if a mens night was implemented somewhere. What would be the reaction?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/24/1843200.shtml

Men admit they're working too hard (England)

Adam · 24 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Seventy per cent of men say their work is suffering because they're working too hard.

The modern euphemism, used in the survey conducted by a men's magazine with the Department of Trade and Industry, is 'work-life balance' but what it really means is that working in the country with the longest working hours in Europe is knackering.

In the survey, more than half the men questioned (52%) said their personal relationships were their main priority. Almost a quarter (23%) named their health as the main issue. Despite this they were working longer than they wanted to and didn't have time to exercise. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/24/1847254.shtml

Virginia Department Of Health Says....

Adam · 24 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Men are the only ones who do anything wrong
here
"The campaign targets men age 18 to 29. The campaign hopes to change the norms around relationships with minors, making it no longer acceptable for adults to engage in sex with minors. "We encourage adult men to talk to their peers and discourage them from pursuing teenagers. What they are doing is unhealthy and against the law," said Robert Franklin, male outreach coordinator for sexual violence prevention at the Virginia Department of Health.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/24/1850241.shtml

British court upholds a man's right to choose

Adam · 25 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes ""A British woman lost her legal battle on Friday to have a baby using frozen embryos which her former partner wants destroyed."

Read the full article
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/25/1958253.shtml

Nothing "odd" about female violence!

Adam · 25 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

alphamale writes "Once again, Reuters.com has an article about a woman assaulting her male partner with a weapon and has placed the article in their 'oddly enough" section. It boggles the mind how this sort of domestic violence always ends up as being considered "odd." If I were to stab my wife because I didn't want to watch some show she was watching (think "Extreme Makeover"), would the article about me stabbing her show up under the "oddly enough" section? Not likely. I'd be on the front page of every newspaper and be branded a violent, typical male who should be locked up forever. Providing yet another excuse for female chauvinists to demand that billions more should be spent on preventing violence against poor, helpless, innocent women."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/25/200245.shtml

Destiny Hunter tells men to put down remote control

Adam · 25 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dr. Dan writes "In this Savannah Morning News article Destiny Hunter says she sought to know "why [men] struggle to say they're sorry." She concludes with apology instructions summarized with: "this means you are going to have to put down the remote and talk to your sweetheart." Stereotype alert! And guys are supposed to accept this misandrist drivel. Are women really better than men at apologizing? Do only guys have to say "I'm sorry"? I don't buy it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/25/202258.shtml

T-shirts that mocked violence aganist women pulled

Adam · 26 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

this is not equality writes "I'll bet (my opinion) most of these women and girls felt that the David and Goliath shirts were no big deal, but look at their successful actions and comments once the tables are turned! "Any violence against women is not a good thing to be advertising" or "It's not funny."

article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/26/208213.shtml

ABC news report on women and violence

Adam · 28 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Toaster writes "Women during wartime can be brutal, sadistic, sexually depraved and equal to their male counterparts in the worst possible way.

women might "forge whole new ways" to torture and sexually humiliate their victims.

--
A certain kind of feminism, or perhaps I should say a certain kind of feminist naiveté, died in Abu Ghraib," wrote noted feminist Barbara Ehrenreich in a recent Los Angeles Times column. "It was a feminism that saw men as the perpetual perpetrators, women as the perpetual victims and male sexual violence against women as the root of all injustice."

And of the seven U.S. soldiers charged in the Abu Ghraib prisoner abuse scandal, three are women."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/28/1317243.shtml

Ask Marilyn column on male bashing

Adam · 28 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "I normally don't get the Denver Post, but the Sunday paper was being offered for free at the local supermarket today. In the Parade Magazine section, I found this in the Ask Marilyn column:

Why do so many women complain so much about men? It seems to go on 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. This just blows my mind! David Alston, Silver Spring, Md.

Please click on "Read More" for Marilyn's reply."

Marilyn vos Savant replied:

It's everywhere these days, isn't it? I think that a teensy bit of jealousy may reside at the heart of the matter (along with some other stuff, of course). Men seem to have it all - with the exception of things like enough hair - and this rankles many women, expecially those who believe that some men abuse their positions. P.S. I'm bracing myself for an onslaught of mail, David. Sometimes it's easy to be honest, and sometimes it's not!

So what do you think? At least Marilyn was brave enough to call women on being jealous, as well as using the phrase "Men SEEM to have it all" and "This rankles many women, especially those who BELIEVE that some men abuse their positions."

Perhaps we could email Marilyn and inform her more of our perspective, though I'd like to thank her for at least not reflexively bashing men. Well, she does have the world's highest recorded IQ - it's nice that a woman with such intelligence is able to at least see part of what is going on.

Her site can be found

here

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/28/1326233.shtml

Lopsided at the top. Girls rule academia.

Adam · 28 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "For the past five graduating classes, girls have made up a majority of Boston's top-ranked high school seniors. The girls' share of the No. 1 rank started creeping up and reached 80 percent this year. This numbers reflects decades of local and national efforts to broaden girls' career aspirations and guide them into college, educators say (when will the boys receive the same?) "A lot of the reasons women made gains are the specific programs made for them -- programs for math, for science, mentoring that give them a high level of support," Said Andrew M. Sum, director of Northeastern University's Center for Labor Market Studies. Other quotes from the article in the Boston Globe: "it is girls' nature to be more focused," "Guys are not as organized as we are," "They're boys -- they mature a little bit after we do." As graduates lined up Friday afternoon in the gymnasiums, seniors pointed out the academic divide, far more girls wore honor society vests than boys. It is clear that secondary academic institutions (especially in MA) have become hostile environments for boys, and nurturing empowering environments for girls. Feminism is to blame for the war on boys. If boys are achieving higher scores on standardized testing, why are they so behind in academia? Please write your opinions to the Globe on this article, and do what you can to support programs that will restore academic honesty and equality to secondary education.

article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/28/1332219.shtml

Double Standards on Sexual Relationships

Adam · 28 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

OldManSenile writes " Here it is, the guy gets four years in jail. The girl was 18, but they said he used his authority to manipulate her. Here is the link OMS"

Compare and contrast that article to this one sent in by a anon user to see some real double standards.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/28/1336253.shtml

Liberty and Justice for All (except men)

Adam · 29 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Here is an important story about proposed legislation that could have a Draconion effect on men's activism as well as a stifling effect on free speech in America in general, Afraid to Say What We Think . This is yet one more example of the erosion of America's constitutional freedoms. It appears that soon it will be only men who will be allowed to be targets of hate crimes. This article proves yet again why Carey Roberts is one of the most insightful commentators writing on issues affecting men. I sent e-FAXes to elected representatives today, alerting them to the dangers of this unAmerican legislation."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/29/184244.shtml

Group Says No Such Thing as False Rape Reporting

Adam · 29 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

amperro writes "The National Coalition Against Violent Athletes (here) insists that false rape accusations are almost non-existent. In fact, they claim that there are more people who fake their own deaths than there are those who file a false rape report. They use a "quote" from the FBI to support this claim. I'm skeptical of that claim."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/29/187249.shtml

Alderwoman found guilty

Adam · 30 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ragtime writes "Finally, this nut-bar has been found guilty.

What's really appalling is the kid-gloves treatment she's getting: she needs "psychiatric assessment" and "time to heal." Amazingly, her husband, who her lawyer tried to portray as the perp, is standing by her. Personally, I think he should run like hell away from her as fast as he can. And get this; she still has her seat as an alderwoman! Though the mayor is thinking of asking her to stand down... The mind boggles."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/30/2022220.shtml

Another female teacher has sex with 14-year-old

Adam · 30 June 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "It's happened again, even though women don't do this kind of thing, and if they do it must have been love. We'll have to see if if she gets equal treatment like women have been demanding. Link here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/06/30/2023228.shtml

Father Knows Best? Not if he’s Homer

Adam · 1 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Here is an MSN article that outlines TV's worst and best dads. Naturally the article was written by a liberal woman who chose to take a humorous view of the grossly negative portrayal of fathers on TV for the past several decades instead of asking why fathers are bashed in modern media. Dads from vintage shows were omitted, as "we (she) had to draw the line somewhere." By doing so the article neglects to note that the state of fatherhood has been reduced to almost a purely dysfunctional state on TV. The author chose to add feminist issues that occurred on these shows mixed in with occasional compliments towards TV dads/men. She has no real interest in fatherhood (nor does MSNBC), then again, what feminist does? Take a minute to vote for your favorite dad."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/01/2012223.shtml

Dan Reynolds' "Men Are Idiots" feature

Adam · 1 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "How's this for the bottom of the misandric barrel. Cartoonist Dan Reynolds has created a series of cartoons that were posted on MSN's "Daryl Cagle's Professional Cartoonist's Index." The whole spectrum of misandric themes is covered in this sexist anti-male collection. See for yourself

here

I'm waiting for Dan Reynolds to come out with an equivalent "Women Are Idiots" collection of cartoons (sarcasm).

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/01/2014227.shtml

A critique of the modern world

Adam · 2 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is an interesting essay on the 1970's post-apocalyptic film Logans Run. The author takes the reader through the story line of Logans Run and analyzes its Freudian/Jungian meanings, especially in relation to the 60's generation that the film was aimed at.

The author sees Logans Run as a critque of the feminist dominated post 60's era, which over-protects and controls people, while also imprisoning them in a neurotic pleasure seeking consumerism, where masculinity and the realities of life are kept from them. The author sees the film suggesting that the weakness of the modern paternal role combined with the overpowering strength of the maternal/feminist role is the primary cause of this situation.

These findings could never be more relevant than today, with childern of dysfunctional families without a strong paternal presence falling deeper into a false pleasure-seeking neurosis comprised of over-eating, isolationism, TV, computers, drugs and suicide."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/01/2015215.shtml

Girls Know The Rules Don't Apply To Them

Adam · 2 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "These two bits of news are a trifle old, but I didn't run across them when the initial debacles happened. To me, the key quote was "girls know the rules don't apply to them". Welcome to the happy place."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/02/1928222.shtml

Judge favours father over mother in custody dispute

Adam · 3 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Amom User writes "That unusual still that this is the actual headline of the piece in the UK's Telegraph newspaper. What's really great though, is that it appears that there has been some real, though small, movement for father's rights here: "Mrs Justice Bracewell supported calls for new legislation. The courts needed the ability to refer parties to mediation at any stage of the proceedings and additional powers were required, short of imprisonment, to enforce contact orders." It still took a case involving "constant litigation since the year 2000, which has involved 17 court orders and directions and 16 judges" for her to realise this, but it's a small step forward."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/03/2127228.shtml

Woman Gets 5 Years For Sex With Foster Son

Adam · 3 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is a story about a very bad foster mother "(Whited) used every means possible to control him, including alcohol and threatening suicide," said Lane. "(She) prohibited him from sleeping in his own room and constantly harassed him after he left the residence." It also says
"During that time the boy contracted an incurable sexually transmitted disease from Whited.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/03/2129219.shtml

Study Finds Girls Molest Young Boys

Adam · 4 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "New research from New Zealand discovers under-reporting of female sexual predation of young boys, suggesting that it is more widespread than limited media coverage would indicate.

Interestingly, social reaction to young male molestation is typically that it is a "positive, developmental" experience, quite unlike being raped if you are female!

Full article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/04/1931259.shtml

2 Women Go On Crime Spree

Adam · 4 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes " Who says girls are made of "sugar and spice and everything nice?" These two monsters killed three men for just $30 to $200 dollars each in a six week long crme spree! It must have been for "kicks" since there was very little money taken. The money must have been an after thought."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/04/1934200.shtml

CA Appellate Court Overturns Paternity Fraud Judgment

Adam · 4 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "The Second District Court of Appeal of California just overturned L.A. County's false paternity judgment against Manuel Navarro! L.A. County KNEW the child was not his because a paternity test excluded him, and it knew that he never raised the child, and yet it pursued child support against him as it has for thousands of other men. Navarro appealed, and the appellate court reversed it and said it is WRONG of L.A. County to do this. Paternity fraud victims should use this landmark decision, as controlling authority in CA, and as persuasive authority outside CA, to overturn their false paternity judgments. Please distribute this case to all PF victims. It is at here (PDF File) Marc"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/04/1936251.shtml

Mother Orders Savage Beating To "Defend Family Honour"

Adam · 5 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "I found a more detailed description of the savage all-girl beating that took place because someone kissed a boy on the cheek at a family birthday party. The story gets even better -- the beating was ordered by the matriarch of the clan. Even more amazing is that two out of the six females involved in this gang-bash were very much adults! To put it right over the top of surreal, the principal of the girls' school said, 'But for a lot of girls, it's all about respect, defending your turf, fighting for your man.' An adult-encouraged savage group beating is a form of respect? Another person's birthday party is 'your turf'? Fighting for 'your' 'man'? Since when is a male, of whatever age, an object or possession? Since when is a 13-year-old boy a 'man'? And what the hell kind of principal would say that? Can you guess the gender of the quoted principal?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/04/1940203.shtml

Score "1" for equal justice under the law

Adam · 5 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Say what you want about small town America. These two prosecutors exhibit a world more common sense and constitutional fairness than the whole feminist indoctrinated District Attornies offices of some bigger cities like Los Angeles or Boston. Stiff sentence imposed following probation violation "...a college-educated white female, should not be given a substantially lesser sentence than Flowers, a black male raised in a disadvantaged economic situation," Stouffer said at the time of the sentencing. "As prosecutors, Jay and I have lived by the premise that no one should be above the law and that who a defendant is should not determine criminal liability."'

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/05/2219236.shtml

School shootings by women

Adam · 6 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In 1979, 16-year-old Brenda Spencer opened fire at her school which was located across the street from her home. Two male staff members were killed. Brenda Spencer said "I don't like Mondays" to a reporter who asked about a motive. In the end, Spencer got a sentence of 25 years to life. The Boomtown Rats music group did a song that was inspired by the incident. One of the staff members who was killed was trying to protect students. Later, in 2001, 14-year-old Elizabeth Bush fired a gunshot that injured a female student at school. It is said that the shooter had been picked on by the student who was shot at but this is not clear. A male student talked Elizabeth out of shooting herself and likely prevented further trouble. Anyone heard much about these two incidents?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/06/2312243.shtml

Female Cheating Now OK!

Adam · 7 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

ikeman53 writes "The cover story for the July 12, 2004 issue of Newsweek is "The New Infidelity" and seems intent on telling us that not only are more wives cheating, but that it's good and women have earned it. About half the article , naturally, talks about how awful husbands are - as if we get everything we want out of our marriages! All in all, the article is mostly generalizations and some shaky statistics designed to push this agenda that all manner of sexual misdeeds by women in this day and age are OK, but if you're a man you're evil and icky. Check your local newsstand or, for our brothers outside the United Sates, visit here."

Anonymous User also submitted a similar link and said "Newsweek has an article on cheating wives. Not surprisely, "overscheduled lives and inattentive husbands" are listed as reasons. It's not hard to get the drift from the article that if your wife cheats its because you as a husband were not supportive, kind, loving, enough to your wife.
I wonder if they did an article on cheating husbands if the men would be given the same free pass and non-judgemental treatment?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/07/1810224.shtml

Maths Teacher Arrested

Adam · 7 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "In the wake of a half-decade of horrific school shootings, it is reasonable to expect that any student or teacher who threatens to come to school with a loaded shotgun and start killing randomly will be instantly taken down by a SWAT team via bullets and tear gas. Why didn't it happen here? Why didn't we hear about this in the major press? And why is there no follow-up? Why am I asking questions I already know the answers to? I'm sure she'll receive some state-funded counselling to help this poor, administratively victimized woman come to terms with her terrible mental illness."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/07/1818208.shtml

Oh Canada!

Adam · 7 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Would anyone like to bust a gut at this story ?"

Another Anonymous User also submitted a releated link and wrote "Let me get this straight:

She lied to police and almost got her ex jailed but "did commit a crime, but I'm not a criminal"

Notice how they refer to the husband as abusive. One must take note that, in Canada, you are encouraged to plead guilty by everyone when accused of domestic violence (it's easier they say). Who'll take a bet that she lied about the abuse in the first place (call me a cynic)

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/07/1824248.shtml

Teacher kicks student, gets paid leave

Adam · 8 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "In the state I live in (Oregon), if I walk up to someone and hit them in any way, I will get five years of jail time (minimum). However, if you're a female teacher and kick a student, you will get paid leave and the issue will simply evaporate. Viva la difference!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/08/1932200.shtml

Daddy, Mommy Never Used A Hood!

Adam · 8 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "The July 4, 2004 Doonesbury cartoon concerning the torture at Abu Gharib prison left me in tears -- it says it all, as does the title I put on this entry."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/08/1933236.shtml

Man Imprisoned For Impersonating Ex

Adam · 9 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

borgy1 writes "Prosecutors charged that Anthony Lee Napier posed as his ex in Internet chat rooms -- looking for sex partners. Napier -- impersonating his former wife -- gave out her address and phone number and said she would play dumb when the men called but still wanted sex. This week he was sentenced to two years in prison and another 10 on supervised probation.
Quite a harsh sentence for this crime. Compare this to false allegations of domestic or child abuse. Rarely is the women punished at all. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/09/226219.shtml

Child's Last Wish

Hombre · 12 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

DasCoon writes "This is the article.

Well, it is pretty sad that all this kid wants out of life is the pain of others. What is even worse is that the foundation would even consider trying to make it a possibility. Trying to ambush a man visiting a sick kid so they can punch him repeatidly in the testicles. I can only hope if they do that they are charged and prosicuted to the full extent of the law."

From the article "Why do I hate Barry Bonds? There's no specific reason. I just think he's a dick," said Wickman. "He's so conceited and he thinks he's better than everyone else". I wonder if this kid ever hated any woman for thinking too highly of herself. Obviously, the Make-A-Wish foundation would not try to ambush a woman who consistantly referred to herself as a goddess, (thus demonstrating a greater ego than Barry's), and repeatedly attack her genitalia, they know that would be wrong.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/11/2319245.shtml

Cnet article says men hog remotes

Hombre · 12 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LeMorteMark writes "According to this article at cnet.com, 35 percent of men want to add a second television to the house and 46 percent of women want to add a second television. The author of the article makes the assumption that these statistics mean that men are "hogging the remote".

He doesn't even entertain the possibility that men don't want a second television because they're simply too busy working to watch it.

I like this snotty little statement here: "In short, a lot of married women apparently aren't getting to watch the regularly scheduled programs they like." I guess now we're all guilty of television abuse.

Here's a link to the article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/11/2354209.shtml

Anti-Marriage website

Hombre · 12 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

EvilPundit writes "I've just found NoMarriage.com, a site that provides comprehensive arguments against marriage for men. The author sells a $9.95 manual to help men evaluate whether they really ought to get married, but the site is much more than a marketing exercise. I think it's worth publicising this page because it says a lot about what men are missing in our society."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/12/0033221.shtml

No Rights to Cohabiting Women in Britain?

Adam · 12 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Is this really true? Or is it just more lies to stem the tide of more and more men deselecting the marriage option? And what about child support which they don't mention, I suspect conveniently. Isn't this the way it should be?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/12/1955256.shtml

Inciting hatred of women "should be made a crime"

Adam · 12 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Inciting hatred of women 'should be made a crime' - because, women in Scotland are like Jews in Germany or something ..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/12/1957259.shtml

Worst movie of the year?

Adam · 13 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Though I haven't seen it (I refuse to contribute money to such things) I can tell Anchorman will be my candidate for worst movie of the year. In case you haven't seen the ads, Will Ferrell is the typical man trying to keep poor Chistina Applegate from succeeding in 1970 pre-feminism America. It's the cartoon image of manhood that feminism has been promoting all this time, and apparently, have convinced men like Ferrell to participate in. Since he wrote the script, he spares himself the mandatory crotch kick. That's reserved for one of his asshole male chauvinist compatriots.

Here's a positive review from a female CNN writer.

I prefer this negative review."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/13/1729207.shtml

Sacks Launches New Campaign

Adam · 13 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User writes: "Last night men's rights radio talk show host Glenn Sacks launched a new listener campaign, this time to fight a new, extreme feminist, anti-father bill in the California legislature. To take action, go to here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/13/1731233.shtml

Woman kills man by spiking his smoothie with antifreeze

Adam · 13 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "In this article, a woman charged with killing her brother-in-law by spiking his smoothie with antifreeze admits putting the chemicals in the drink, however she pleads not guilty to the charge of murder. Why? Because she only intended to hurt her relative severely enough so that he would have to move into her home — and she could then take control of his finances, claims her attorney. Who wants to bet she'll end up with some sentence like a year in some low security prison while if a man was found guilty, he'd be sitting in the chair?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/13/1736217.shtml

Is Innocence Now A Defense?

Thomas · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Wendy McElroy has penned this essay on the recent paternity fraud decision by the Second District Court of Appeal of California. I suppose we'll have to wait, to see if this goes to the California Supreme Court, but this may prove to be a landmark for the state and a guiding light for the rest of the country and beyond.

Our work is paying off.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/163254.shtml

Women Can't Find Good Men? Blame Feminism!

Thomas · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Resa LaRu Kirkland has published this rant against feminism and some of its negative effects on women. Here's just a tidbit:

Does any decent American man want a modern American woman?

Signs are there...no, they don't, or given our behavior, they shouldn't. And we only have women to blame. Yeah, I said it: women.

WHOA! Are women starting to hold women responsible for their wrongdoings? Why, it's a veritable revolution! I've believed for a while that, as feminism collapses, the worst offenders (perpetrators of paternity fraud, those who drug school age boys to deconstruct their masculinity, false rape accusers, etc.) should be brought to justice by fair-minded men and women.

I'm now beginning to suspect that, once it becomes clear how terribly the lies of feminism have hurt the majority of women, it might be best to just let women deal with the hate mongers. ;) I'd pay good money for a ringside seat.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/1621212.shtml

Woman lies about nazi attack

Matt · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

plebius writes "This story from the BBC tell of a woman who lied about being attacked and covered with swastikas. This shows you the lengths that some women will go to for attention."

Ed. commentary: And it also shows the speed with which people will believe them without corroborating evidence. French newspapers were quick to press with this story, needing days later to retract it based on investigations by the police that showed her story was false. Now we'll see if she is even prosecuted. (She'll probably write a book or something saying why she did it and still get lots of sympathy for essentially perpetuating a public fraud. Ugh.) -- Matt

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/1833233.shtml

Rental Discrimination

Matt · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

DB8 Link writes "I'm looking for housing in Baltimore/Washington DC. My girlfriend is looking for the same housing in the same area in the same timeframe.

Today, we went separate ways looking for housing. I came back after looking at 8 places - each requesting credit checks and significant application fees with deposits. I applied to one, and will have to wait 7-14 days for them to call every contact on my application.

My girlfriend, on the other hand, went to 10 places, two of which offered her rent at a $100 discount. She signed a lease today, with no credit check, and then her new landlord gave her a ride home.

I've found, perusing rent sites that you see "Female Only" all the time but never "Men Only". This has been the case on both coasts, including my 6 years in Los Angeles. It's hard to find housing as a single man in this country."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/1834229.shtml

Woman sets son on fire

Matt · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A Canadian woman set her 13-year-old son on fire. Amazed it even made it to press, really, given the sexes of the people involved.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/1836231.shtml

FIRM's TV & First Seminar

Matt · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Eric Ericson writes "FIRM's TV & First Seminar

www.FIRMncp.com

FIRM@FIRMncp.com

Click on "Read more" link for a full description of FIRM's event.

On Sunday, July 25th at 2 P.M. E.S.T (11 Pacific, 12 Mountain & 1 Central Standard Time) Fathers' Integrity & Rights Movement (FIRM) will have it's first seminar and internet TV show with renowned North American speaker, Big Bad Dad discussing:

I. Introduction

II. Separation Agreements / Pre-Nuptual Agreements

III. Restraining Orders

IV. The Courts and Pro-Se Litigants

V. Lawyers

VI. False Allegations

VII. Motions

VIII. Affidavits

IX. Exhibits

X. Paperwork and Filing Procedures

The seminar itself will be 3-4 hours and may last into Monday morning depending upon the questions that you ask...

These topics will cover the basics for the novice and for the experienced and are a must for you to know whether you are beginning, in the middle, at the end or have muddled through litigation already.

If not able to attend in person, you will be able to call in and ask your on topic questions or instant message your questions via MSN Messenger or Yahoo Messenger.

Please e-mail me (do NOT respond in any group or forum) if you wish to attend or watch the seminar on the internet since the show will be password protected and you will need to know the procedures to use your Windows Media Player (all Windows operating systems have this player and can normally be found here: Start Menu\Programs\Accessories\Entertainment\Windows Media Player. If you do not have Windows Media Player- NO MATTER WHAT OPERATING SYSTEM THAT YOU HAVE, you can download it for FREE from www.Microsoft.com

For those that attend the seminar in Northern Maine, you are more than welcome to stay at my home for free to visit with Big Bad Dad, me and others in like situations.

We may be having a few surprise speakers and guests. Big Bad Dad will be staying at my home with all of us for about a week before and after the seminar. You can stay for a day, night or up to a week.

If you have problems getting to Northern Maine, let me know and we will see if we can get you a ride here.

If this show is a success, it will launch FIRM's TV that will broadcast 24 hours a day, 7 days a week all over the world. If you truly want to know what is happening in the Fathers/Children rights arena along with non-custodial parent news, grandparent rights, Step-parents, paternity fraud, choice for males, new laws, support of the UPREPA proposal as found on the www.FIRMncp.com site and etc., you need to support us by watching, participating and helping us get the word out. Please tell everyone you know about this seminar. All groups, all individuals, all Usenet, all forums...EVERYONE.

Please feel free to create or copy and paste this announcement into a flyer and post the flyers EVERYWHERE. You can also add the following as a heading if you so desire:

ATTENTION ALL MEN!!

Do you have children??

Are you separated / going through a Divorce??

Then educate yourselves before you decide to pay for a lawyer

It could save you, your family and your assets!!

E-mail: Eric@FIRMncp.com

or

(E-mail me for physical address and/or telephone number)

I look forward to hearing from all of you,

Eric Ericson

www.FIRMncp.com

Eric@FIRMncp.com

P.S.: We are looking for hosts for FIRM's TV from all over the world. If you are interested in representing your group, as an individual, or want me to contact someone to be a host, please E-mail me if you have not already.

P.S.S.: Please DO NOT inquire about the seminar in any group or forum. Please E-mail me: Eric@FIRMncp.com"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/1841213.shtml

Just Say "No!" To Marriage?

Thomas · 14 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here's an essay by Carey Roberts on men who are postponing marriage or flat out deciding against it. This social development may continue to grow, even as courts are forced to recognize a few of men's and fathers' rights. It's gonna be hard to get the genie back in the bottle, now that men are realizing that they can get most if not all of the benefits of marriage without tying the knot.

If and when we add safe, efficient, easily reversed male birth control to our cultural soup (and that ingredient may be tossed in soon), we're likely to see a further collapse in fertility rates. More and more men may opt out of having children -- something that was once a difficulty that also brought great joy and fulfillment but that many men now see as a one-way ticket to wage slavery.

It's taken men 10,000 years to build the comfort, health, and long lives that so many enjoy today. It may well take feminism 1% of that much time to destroy it all.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/14/1634241.shtml

Lewd and Lavicious Behavior

Adam · 15 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "This article describes a complaint made about a senior Republican FEMALE in the White House drug policy office who is a possible candidate for the US Senate (Republican) from Illinois. She thinks it's all behind her and it ought to be forgotten. It so happens she's looking to take the candidacy that was recently vacated by one Jack Ryan, who had his divorce records unsealed by the Chicago Tribune. You remember Ryan? The one who allegedly asked his model/actress/wife for public sex at a swingers club? Waddaya think, guys? Think we should vote for her? (Naaaaaahh.)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/15/2110240.shtml

Tennessee May Use GPS on Parolees

Adam · 15 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "A chilling story, particularly toward the end where TN considers using GPS devices on "those convicted of domestic violence or behind in child support payments." Do I hear George Orwell somewhere? 1984 was just off by a couple of decades.

Curiously, I found this at Space.com, a place I go on the internet to get away from this kind of stuff:

here

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/15/2111249.shtml

Domestic Violence Research Data Suppressed

Matt · 16 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "(click) Researcher Hides Domestic Violence Study Behind University Lawyers This article by Mark Charalambous details the efforts of Steve Basile to find out the truth regarding domestic violence and domestic violence research.

Click "Read More" for more.This article questions: the "scientific methodologies employed by other researher(s) at a leading university (Harvard), the secrecy with which Harvard University protects information that should be readily available for other researchers like Steve to study and replicate. Are the conclusions of domestic violence researchers at Harvard University (as well as information those conclusions are based on) so confidential that the level of secrecy being employed is required, or are there more sinister factors at work here such as: suppression of academic freedom, the freedom of information act taking a back seat to domestic violence industry ideology? Have any public (taxpayer) funds been spent doing this Harvard University research, or do the funds for such questionable research come from private sources? If from private sources who are those private sources supporting such ethically questionable behavior? Could the following study be just some of the information that the Massachusettes domestic violence industry doesn't want the public to know? (click) Comparison of Abuse Alleged by Same- and Opposite-Gender Litigants as Cited in Requests for Abuse Prevention Orders. Just click the PDF link at the top of the page if you'd like to buy a copy of Steve Basile's Research."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/16/1517220.shtml

Feminist Law Professor Supports Pat. Fraud

Matt · 16 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes:
This is unbelievable. Very infuriating and insulting to all honorable men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/16/1532200.shtml

Belief.net author covers "women's spirituality"

Matt · 16 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

An interesting commentary indeed and one you are not likely to see in mainstream press. She must be getting inundated with hate-e-mails!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/16/1534218.shtml

Dan Reynolds "Women are Fools" feature now on MSN

Adam · 17 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Dan Reynolds has posted several "Women are Fools" cartoons on Daryl Cagle's Professional Cartoonists Index! The link is

here.

While the cartoons have probably been around awhile, I wonder how much influence Men's Issues Online and Mensactivism may have had in this becoming a feature alongside the older "Men are Idiots/Fools."

Thanks to all of you who wrote to Dan Reynolds to complain.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/17/2222254.shtml

14 Year Old Girl Must Register As Sex Offender (Scotland)

Adam · 17 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "For those interested in cases of boy abuse by girls:
A 14 year old girl having to register as a sex offender?Is this a first?The girl committed the crime against a boy aged nine when she was 13. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/17/2223250.shtml

The unfairness of the Kobe Bryant trial

Adam · 18 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Saneman writes "The famous trial-laywer Gerry Spence offers his insights on the Kobe Bryant trial, and how the legal system and the media unjustly favor the female accuser. Gerry Spence is a prominent figure in the US legal system, and his opinions about this case are well worth reading as he points out some fundamental problems with how these cases are dealt with in both the legal system and the media. From here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/18/191247.shtml

Its the man's fault more women aren't in politics

Adam · 18 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "Typical article again blaming men for the failings or lack of participation of women in government, the writer said "Macho posturing has always been part of politics; it's one reason women have found it hard to break into the business". Heres the full article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/18/198246.shtml

Anyone want to join the Air Force now?

Adam · 18 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "I know I wouldn't. Even our Republican President has caved to the rape hysteria and nominated a woman psychologist as dean of the Air Force Academy. No mention in the article about the number of false accusations at the academy."

Anything and everything to have dominion over the nearest man, ain't that right guys?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/18/1912208.shtml

"Girlie Men" comment by Gov. Schwarzenegger

Adam · 19 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Did Governor Schwarzenegger hurt all men's issues in California, when he made a "sterotypically macho/anti-macho" comment about Democrats that denigrated gays? "Girlie Men" Does Gov. S. have a "macho/chivalrous image/prejudice" that he expects all men to try to live up to? Should men be divided by Gov. S. into categories such as gay, macho, etc. for means of poiliticizing issues? Has Gov. S. crossed that line of political correctness, by uttering this clearly sexist remark about gays as Sheila Kuhel (avid men's rights opponent) says? Has Gov. S. committed sexual harassment and does he now need to be sent to sensitivity training, or are the negative reactions against Gov. S. just one more example of the rampant Heterophobia that grips the State of California?"

amperro writes "Okay, maybe this doesn't directly concern the men's movement, but California State Sen. Sheila Kuehl, a major Paternity Fraud Supporter, got a little hissy when Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger used the term "Girlie Men" to describe state legislators in this story

I guess we should all care what Sen. Kuehl thinks."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/19/203208.shtml

ABCNews Special

Adam · 20 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "I found the following misandric stories about men on ABCNews.com today. One story implies that a high ratio of males to females in some countries (e.g. India, China) is dangerous, and can lead to warlike conditions:

here

A related story suggests that men have higher mortality rates as they are genetically inferior:

over here

The first story is mitigated by suggestions that women can be violent too, while the second story ends by suggesting a push for men's health issues.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/20/1814207.shtml

The great thing about HIV is...

Adam · 20 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "...it will empower women. Who would have thought that HIV would be the catalyst to liberate women throughout the world? Not me, but apparently, "Many experts" say so. So do "Advocates," and "Experts at the conference..." Read the "good" news here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/20/1815259.shtml

Double Standard Female Teacher Alert

Adam · 21 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In this story here

"Chmela, 34, a former substitute teacher in Crystal City, pleaded guilty in February on one count of second-degree statutory rape and one count of second-degree statutory sodomy. The case involves two boys, ages 14 and 15"

It also goes on to say(Guberman is her lawyer):

"There are two schools of thought on this," Guberman said. "One is that a woman should be punished as much as a man, the other is that there is a double standard that boys do not have to be protected to the same extent as girls.

"All statutory rape cases are different," Guberman said. "You have to look at the facts of each case and how much harm was done. In this case, I don't think much harm was done."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/21/1817242.shtml

Teacher found not guilty in killing

Adam · 21 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Pittsburgh Post Gazette Story of Kindergarten teacher, who originally lied about boyfriend's death...but is still acquitted. article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/21/1818252.shtml

MSN article discusses missing persons reporting bias

Matt · 22 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Well, sometimes the sun rises in the west! MSN has covered the discrepency between reporting of cases in national media involving missing women and men and the factors involved. Read it here. Will wonders never cease??

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/22/1545252.shtml

3-Year-Old Ethan Faces Genital Mutilation

Matt · 22 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Acksiom writes "Ethan Azar, a 3-year-old boy in the midwest, is facing forced genital mutilation. His mother Camille, along with many men's genital integrity intactivists, is fighting hard in the courts -- of both judicial and public opinon -- to protect him from this lifelong sexual violation. Ethan desperately needs our help, and this case has tremendous potential to break through the Lace Curtain of bigoted silence and censorship surrounding male genital mutilation in particular and men's issues in general. Initial media response has been more positive than any previous case which I can remember, so let's EXPLOIT THE OPPORTUNITY! Get ACTIVIST, and contact everyone you can think of -- help tear down this Curtain, for little Ethan and for boys and men everywhere!"

Ed. Note: Some links on this topic: FreeRepublic article, NBC article,
Columbia Tribune article

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/22/1550224.shtml

columnist writes about "groin kicks"

Matt · 22 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Boy Genteel writes "A writer for the LOS ANGELES TIMES did a piece about the history and prevalence of men being hurt in the groin in entertainment. Unfortunately, the writer's approach is to explain "why it's funny" (when, of course, it isn't) and makes the false claim that no one complains about this "gag". I've written the TIMES a letter to disabuse him of that myth, at least. I strongly suggest you do the same, at letters@latimes.com.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/22/1554243.shtml

TrueEquality.com site now up and running

Matt · 22 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Good news to report from the 2004 Men's Rights Congress Committee: the TrueEquality.com web site is now up and running. As time goes on we will be adding material and updating it from the content of the 2004 Congress site. We intend that the Men's Rights Congress be an annual event for the foreseeable future, growing each year and supporting the men's rights cause in its efforts to achieve social, legal, and social equality with women. The trueequality.com web site will, we hope, serve as a base for that, as well as help facilitate cooperation and activism across group lines and issues.

Also note that we have started a listserv for the Congress attendees. However others are welcome and encouraged to join the list so as to help promulgate the intent of the site and to facilitate communication and cooperation among groups and individuals. The list may be joined at this page.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/22/2053220.shtml

Men's Rights Activist or Total Nutbag?

Thomas · 23 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The EU-parliament has a member who claims that he represents men's rights. Here's an article on him. While the guy strikes me as a nitwit, the article does point out that the UK's current paid-parental-leave policy is two weeks for fathers and six months for mothers.

Aaaaaah. Eeek-wallet-eeeee.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/22/2116252.shtml

The End of Civilization?

Thomas · 23 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The world has begun to harvest the bitter fruit of feminism -- population collapse resulting from the ruination of male-female relations, the systematic removal of fathers from the family (the destruction of the traditional, nuclear family), and so-called "family planning" (birth-control and abortion). Fertility rates in most advanced nations continue to decline despite the fact that they are already, in some cases drastically, below replacement rate. (In advanced societies, replacement rate is about 2.1 births per woman, since a man and a woman must be replaced and not all children reach the age of average rate of reproduction. In less advanced societies, replacement fertility rate is higher due to a greater mortality rate among youths.)

This chart gives fertility rates by nation, region, and the world for the years 1970-1975 and 2000-2005 (projected, of course).

This article describes the overall failure thus far of Japan's effort to stave off disaster through its "new angel plan." I've read elsewhere that young men and women in Japan are increasingly avoiding each other -- the women preferring to shop and the men preferring to relieve sexual pressures in private, alone.

This article reports that more than 80% of German women are happy to live without a man "in tow."

Please see "Read More."As the populations of aging, advanced societies collapse, they will be replaced somewhat by immigration, often from poor nations. These immigrants don't always adopt their new home's culture; instead they often hold onto the cultures of the nations that they left. Also, they are generally less educated than the average person of the nation into which they move. It's important to note that this population contraction in many nations is not controlled or gentle, it has begun to occur, in numerous cases, at an untenable, catastrophic rate.

In addition, feminism's left hand hasn't been careful about what its right hand is doing. Governments are encouraging women to have more children, which will require that men, who to a large extent have been removed from the family, work more to create more wealth to support both the additional children and the women, who will spend more time with the additional children and less time out in the workforce. Unfortunately, while men have been removed from the family, they have also been driven from the academy. Overall, they won't have the educations to replace the better educated women. (In Iceland, for example, 83% of women attend college, while only 42% of men do so.)

Many of these advanced societies will soon be defaulting on pensions and social security. Not only will a shrinking pool of well-trained, well-educated workers have to support retirement systems for a growing population of elderly people, they will also in many cases be burdened with the massive debts bequeathed to them by the aging population. (Call it "fiscal child abuse.") In the mean time, the marriage strike is growing, and male birth control will soon arrive on the scene.

Hold onto your hats, folks. It's gonna get ugly.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/23/191250.shtml

Hairdressers to be trained to report men for DV

Adam · 24 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Doctor Damage writes "This article really speaks for itself. My astonishment and outrage at the undisguised hatred that exudes from the people being quoted is exceeded only by my surprise that I can still be shocked and outraged by this stuff. Fortunately, Hairdressing salons have so far been reluctant to participate in being trained to recognise a man who drives his partner to the salon as abusive."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/24/1944237.shtml

Wearing a dress to work to protest

Adam · 24 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "There's a rule in Montreal that says men have to work 30 years to retire but that women have to work only 25.

He's protesting by wearing a dress to work, but he's told to stop it. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/24/1951204.shtml

75% of suicide victims are male (Japan)

Adam · 24 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

alphamale writes "While I do not know the population of Japan offhand, 34,000 suicides in a year seems to be a catastrophe no matter what the population is. This is a shocking loss of life in epidemic proportions. 75% of the suicides were committed by men. Yet nothing is done. You can bet if 75% of the suicides were of women, there would be a beating of breasts, tearing of robes with billions of yen being thrown at the problem. Japan is not an aberration, the percentage of suicide participants who are male is similar the world over, yet society continues to ignore these lost, neglected and forgotten souls. Check out the story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/24/1953229.shtml

Woman kills man in DV dispute, 3 articles vary greatly

Adam · 25 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

seattleshark writes "it's important that you read all three articles, then try to figure out what's what. Amazing, is all I can say (the last article may require registration...very easy to do). The first article, the second article, and the third article"

Third article requires registration.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/25/217218.shtml

A Response to Melanie Jacobs about Paternity

Adam · 25 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LSBeene writes "I wrote a response to Melanie Jacobs article that said that "Paternity Fraud is a legal theory". Mike LaSalle was kind enough to post it on MND. Due to the length (6 Pages in WORD) it is in the Archive Section. I sent my reply to Melanie too. My article:
here.
Paternity fraud isn't a "theory" any more than pregnancy is a "theory". It makes a wage slave of an innocent person so that a lazy deceitful person can steal to live more comfortably. The best parent is BOTH parents.
Steven"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/25/218236.shtml

Woman Reveals Machiavellianism Via Maxim

Adam · 26 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Truly amazing. Here we have a fascinatingly frank article from a gal at Maxim, supposedly giving advice to younger men on how to hunt older women. In its insights, it reveals appalling shallowness, subterfuge, manipulativeness, condescension towards all males, bitterness towards 'commitmentphobes', an amazing neurosis concerning age (since when is 26 'old'?), and complete and utter disregard for any form of emotional link between two adults. Not only is it disregarded -- it is aggressively encouraged. This woman is specifically hunting for a 'toy' to use and drop like a used Kleenex, and is triumphantly proud of it. Moreover, she makes it clear that she beleives utterly that this is all that males have ever or will be interested in. Oh, and one more thing -- the 'older woman' should always be in charge of every aspect of the situation, because she's smarter and more experienced at everything than you, and don't you forget it. I have no problem with the idea of dating older women, but this person's attitude towards the entire thing left me wanting to take a shower and join a men's drumming circle. Please read it, and let us know what you think."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/25/2110243.shtml

PA court rules sperm donor must pay C/S

Matt · 26 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Is it really any surprise, a report of this recent ruling requiring a sperm donor to pay child support? The justification again: best interests of the child. I will say this much though-- the old maxim that a verbal contract is not worth the paper it is written on holds in pretty much every context you can imagine, including this one. Keep watch for the fallout; it may be that this ruling serves as the basis for going after contractually anonymous sperm donors when the mother decides she wants a new sportscar and that "nice man out there" just may be the perfect means to that end.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/26/169246.shtml

MSN reports 1 in 36 Americans in jail, probation, etc.

Matt · 27 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MSN reported (with characteristic lack of detail when it comes to these topics) that 1 in 36 Americans are in prison, on parole, or on probation.

Click 'Read more' for more commentary.The actual report and supporting data charts can be downloaded here. I note in looking at this report that the authors broke down probation/parole statistics by gender, among other things; but they did not break down incarceration by gender. I find that interesting to say the least. If someone else finds this break-down, please post it. Even so, note the number of men v. women on parole as a percentage in 2003 for those persons on parole: 77% male to 23% female. If we (are forced to, essentially, for now) assume that the same ratio holds for incarceration, that would mean in 2003 of the 3.6% of Americans under penal supervision of some kind (including jail), 77% of that number of the locked up portion of adults is male. According to the report, the number of adults in jail or prison by e/o 2003 was 2,078,570 (on page 1 of the report, adding the jail and prison figures together). If the 77% figure holds true, this would mean 1,600,498 men are in jail in the U.S. (while only 478,072 women are in jail). Somehow though I don't think the 77/23 ratio holds; I imagine it is even greater for men than women, probably more like 85/15 or even 90/10.

Consider then that the US has a population of 138,053,563 men (see the census chart). Estimating therefore with a conservative figure of 1,600,498 men being in jail, this would mean 1.1% of the male population is in jail. But wait; we're including all males in this calculation at this point. Subtract males under 19 and over 59 and the number of males you have to work with is down to 77,262,100. OK, so now the %age of adult men under 59 in jail comes in at 2%. This means 2 in every 100 men (or every 1 in 50 if you prefer to think of it that way) in IN JAIL--not just on parole or "under supervision"-- IN JAIL. And this report indicates the trend of people in jail and "under supervision" is only going upward.

Read the report, by the way-- I think you will find the headings of certain areas quite telling. For example, one heading on page 4 reads "At year end 2003, 1 in 5 probationers were women; 1 in 3 were black". Well gee, this would mean 4 in 5 probationers are men and 2 in 3 were other-than-black (white, Asian, Latino, etc.) Given that these numbers are larger and have as much implication for society's well-being as anything else, why do you suppose they chose to call attention to statistical discrepancies this way? I'll leave it to you to figure out.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/26/2228253.shtml

More women in Engineering?

Adam · 28 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "The American society of Civil Engineers feels the pressure that if there aren't just as many women in the field then something must be done! I find this sickening, how about a coalition to get more men into college. All the great achievments man (as in males) have made in techonology and engineering will get glossed over as it means nothing. If someone wants to be an engineer, it should be becasue they find the discipline awe inspiring, not because a handful of women were involved now lets make a curriculum out of it. Here is the article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/28/183251.shtml

Oddly Enough More Female Violence Trivialized

Adam · 28 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Oddly enough, Yahoo news is continuing to classify horrifying acts of public female violence as a mere current events trivialities. For example, a woman can publicly assault an 11-year-old boy in front of God and everybody at a water park, kicking him in the groin, and attacking bystanders who try to intervene. What will happen? Her water park pass will be revoked and she will receive trivial charges, the STRONGEST of which is third-degree assault. What would a news story look like in which a grown man, say at an ice cream parlor, slapped, punched, and kicked an 11-year-old girl to the ground for cutting in line front of him? What would the man be charged with, and how do you think our hypothetical case would be presented differently from the real one cited above? It is also intriguing to see the glimpses of personality revealed by the woman culprit's own words concerning unrelated subjects."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/28/185203.shtml

Gender Bias at the DNC

Adam · 29 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Cain writes " Just one more female political group whose main agenda is hypocrisy."

Yep, it's the old do as we say, not as we do.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/28/1811225.shtml

MANN Mail Server Problems

Scott · 29 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

E-mail to admin@mensactivism.org is piped through some mailing list sofware that has been giving us problems for the past week. There are quite a few messages in the queue that have not yet been delivered, and it may take until the weekend for me to find time to fix the problem. The messages have not been lost but they are not accessible at this time. Your patience is appreciated.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/29/1333212.shtml

Man Wins Lottery 2 days After Divorce

Adam · 29 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "All I've got to say is this guy better spend his winnings as fast as he can, before his ex can get the word, get all the advice she's going to get from all her girlfriends, and then sue him in court, saying that she should get half because he bought the ticket with "their" money while they were still married. Ha! ha!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/29/1954205.shtml

MSN: "Activities that Attract Men"

Matt · 29 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

More of the same, right here from MSN. Article's author is a man, too, but as we know, men are often men's worst enemies!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/29/1958240.shtml

Zeta-Jones death threats from female stalker

Adam · 29 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Colin writes "Actress Catherine Zeta-Jones has received a string of abusive letters and phone calls containing death threats from a stalker - guess what? The stalker is a woman. I thought only men did things like that. The story is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/29/1956202.shtml

Hollywood Chases Young Men Online

Adam · 30 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Well well, it looks like the withholding strategy is something worth considering with the news article makes. To quote "While the major movie studios spent just 1.3 percent of their $6.76 billion advertising budget online in 2003, the portion will balloon rapidly in coming years, industry executives say. Hollywood doesn't have a choice. Young men and other desirable audiences are not watching television, and they are relying less on newspapers to find reviews and movie times, according to industry research" You hear that? withholding has been used against the nearest man for long enough, it's about time he made it work for him.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/29/225206.shtml

Breaking Through Thick Skulls Down Under

Thomas · 30 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

There may be some problems with the government proposals that are being bandied about south of the equator, but there's no doubt that men's rights activists have gotten the attention of polititians down under.

In this article, we see that New Zealand's Minister of Youth Affairs, John Tamihere, seems to be taking men's issues to heart.

Here we see that fathers' rights advocates in Australia have gotten the attention of the government, though the politicos seem to be trying to get away with tossing men a bare bone from women's/mothers' table of plenty. As Men's Rights Agency director, Sue Price, expressed, "the proposed changes would do little to help divorced fathers get more access to their children... She was worried staff at family centres might be biased against fathers." At least we've got their attention. We'll see what happens next.

Then there's this piece, which includes statements from Sue Price as well as Nigel Spence from the Association of Children's Welfare Agencies.

What gets me is that the politicos in Australia are insisting that "responsibility" be equally shared, but not time with the children. Hmmmmm. Responsibility for men without associated rights... Why does this sound familiar?

At least we're getting their attention, even if some of them are apparently trying to get away with what any thinking person should know won't succeed.

As a side point I've gotta say, Sue Price sounds mighty kewl to me.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/30/0133210.shtml

The First Rejected Change This! Manifesto

Adam · 30 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "You may have heard about Seth Godin's experiment in social change.
My submission on domestic violence was rejected for whatever reasons; and so it appears at the DLJ in its entirety. For downloadable versions in Word and plain text formats, please go here.

This is a long piece, about 5000 words, but I did my best to cover all the bases."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/30/1630203.shtml

Are educated women interested in blue collar men?

Adam · 31 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "This article seems to describe something that I've noticed more and more, and that is women complaing they are too "educated" for some men. I don't ever recall the reverse being true. That men who are educated complaining about not being able to find an educated women. I think it is because these women are arrogant and priveledged and they are still looking for someone to "take care of them" and obviously do not know true equality. "Then there was Judy, a twice-divorced and once-widowed lawyer and mother of grown children. She sometimes felt a little too experienced and too sophisticated for the men in the conservative Bible Belt city where she lived" Here is the full article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/31/1845229.shtml

Misandric Leanin' Tree card

Adam · 31 July 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Leanin' Tree greeting card spotted today:

Men have often been compared to dogs, pigs and jackasses.

But I just don't think that's fair.

Why pick on dogs, pigs and jackasses?

(The card had a picture on the front of three men that looked like each animal. Har har har.)

Leanin' Tree

Note: I couldn't find this on the leanintree.com website, but I did find another one (Top 20 reasons why chocolate is better than men):

here

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/07/31/1847259.shtml

MSN: Vatican paper criticizes radical feminism

Matt · 1 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Vatican's letter is reported here. I would be curious to read it myself though I suspect it may not go quite far enough in that it probably does not explicitly condemn feminism as the hate movement it is. It's been my experience that large religious institutions fear women in many ways and so despite many such groups' restrictions on females being admitted into such things as the religious orders (which I personally think is wrong for them to do), they tend to pander to them in other ways, such as promulgating the myth of feminine moral supriority and fostering mother-obsession and denigration of the father while at the same time paying lip-service to "family values". Well, anyway...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/01/0140205.shtml

Sit down before you read this article

Adam · 1 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original apetr writes "The title says it all, A Men-ual ROBIN BAKAY'S GUIDE TO MEN. She is some kind of sports caster. I've already emailed and told her she is a female chauvanist pig. Enjoy it here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/01/1835257.shtml

A Different Perspective on Polygamy

Adam · 1 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A.J. writes "This article is about young men and boys that are thrown out of the nation's largest polygamous community. Most opponents of polygamy characterize it as slavery for women and power for men but conveniently ignore the near equal birth rates for males and females. What happens to all the "excess" males? Many are simply banished for alleged "sins". A quote from the article: "The worst sin, though - the one for which most are banned - is simply becoming a mature young man in a society where older married men are seeking younger brides.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/01/1839201.shtml

Discrimination against men by Los Angeles County

Adam · 2 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "This news story Budget woes, jail crowding let many female inmates out early , points out that, "Male inmates serve anywhere from 10 percent to 100 percent of their sentences, depending on the seriousness of their offense..." and one legal expert points out that this policy will be difficult to challenge, "Legal experts said it would be difficult to challenge the sheriff's policy on the grounds that it discriminates against men.

"It's not a cut-and-dried equal- protection violation,' said Carrie Hempel, a clinical professor of law at USC. "The standard for equal protection for prisoners is much lower than for someone who's not incarcerated.'"

That's right, criminals lose constitutional rights when they are sentenced, and here I thought they were losing their rights just for having been born male. What do you think?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/02/1948215.shtml

Medical profession losing stature

Adam · 2 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

thatold55 writes "In an interesting article, Britain's Professor Carol Black suggests that as the medical field becomes ever more dominated by women, the profession runs the risk of suffering the same loss of stature as in the field of education."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/02/1949203.shtml

Misandric Kleenex Commercial

Adam · 2 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "A Kleenex commercial shows a young man walking along the side of a muddy dirt road. An attractive young woman speeds by in a sports car, which splashes him with muddy water. She stops, and he looks at her like she's a goddess. Without a word she throws a box of Kleenex at his chest and speeds off.

Contact Kleenex at here (Note: I had to turn off my pop-up blocker to get the site to work).

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/02/1950224.shtml

Feminized Men are more successful in work?

Adam · 3 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "Metrosexuals or feminized men, apparently are finding more success in the executive world because they are possesing traits normally associated by women. Slowly we are being turned into women and girls, boys are being drugged in school for dare I say "being boys" and now, if you are a man who behaves more like a women, you will be more successful! How wonderful it must be to be a women, it is not masculinity but femininity, see they don't have to change, we do, to become better human beings. Here is the article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/03/1744200.shtml

Sacks, NOW Clash over Bryant Ruling

Adam · 3 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User writes "Columnist and talk show host Glenn Sacks debated two leaders of the National Organization for Women on the recent rape-shield ruling in the Kobe Bryant trial in the San Francisco Chronicle. See:
here

and over here

The Chronicle has a web-based vote on the Bryant decision at this link"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/03/1746246.shtml

Mary Kay Letourneau Update

Adam · 3 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Mary Kay, the teacher who had sex (or as the Post calls it "forbidden love affair") with her 12-year old male student is about to be released from jail. In this article by the New York Post, they speak of her letters that she has recently written to her victim. In these crazy and sometimes angry letters she brags about: having sex with a 23 year old prison guard,flirting with a lesbian, and she tells of how "People pay big money for my autograph now" article here"

And in related news Thundercloud writes "Just to show that the whole fad of female pedophiles is not only on the rise but has gained acceptance in western culture, I submit to you the up coming TV show "DESPERATE HOUSEWIVES", When this show airs this fall we will be treated to yet another relationship between an older woman and an under aged teenage boy. I am not sure how old the woman is supposed to be. I think she is in her late 30s, and the boy is supposed to be 16. Although the actor portraying the boy is 18 or 19. Which, of course, isn't the issue. The issue is FEMALE PEDOPHILIA and STATUTORY RAPE! and the fact that it is being celebrated, again and again in the mainstream media.
You can bet your a$$ that if there was a trend going on where men were RAPING underage girls,it would NOT be celebrated, pushed and submitted for approval by the "entertainment" industry. No it would be completely CONDEMNED by all.
this thing has gotten out of hand! We MUST start holding FEMALE pedophiles to the same standard that we hold male pedophiles! We must tell female pedophiles that we will NOT tolerate this!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/03/1754226.shtml

MA Supreme Court allows online sex registry

Adam · 4 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "The same state supreme court (MA) that ruled that the unique institution of heterosexual marriage violated the rights of gays/lesbians, and also denies the natural parental rights of fathers to be involved in their own children's lives with custodial privileges - today ruled that the right for widespread public access of level three sex offender information on the internet including pictures, names and addresses is "an 'apt fit' to contemporary life." This was a unanimous decision (7-0) with the understanding that this ruling violated the liberty and privacy rights of a person accused and found guilty of a Level 3 sex crime (and who also served their sentence). It was also noted and accepted that by publishing this information could lead to harassment or even vigilantism. Rulings like this open the doors for the further dilution of liberty and privacy rights of citizens as precedent has been set, and socio-political interest groups have been empowered by this decision. For issues relating to gender, father rights and male citizenship and liberty, this is a milestone ruling as it will likely start trickling down into lower courts. This is not an argument to protect criminals, but rather a statement concerning "what next?" An apt quote: "In Germany the Nazis first came for the Communists and I didn't object because I wasn't a Communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't object because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't object because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't object because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me." Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/04/1848220.shtml

False accusations (India)

Adam · 4 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Indianmale writes "Sangyabalya is a men's rights group in India. They have recently launched their website. It's http://www.sangyabalya.org.

This is an article from Amnesty International. This says that the growing concern in India reg false accusations by women is `much ado about nothing'. Read it here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/04/1851211.shtml

DIsney Employee Found Not Guilty of Molestation

Adam · 5 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes "A Walt Disney World worker who portrayed the character Tigger was found not guilty Wednesday of touching the breast of a 13-year-old girl while posing for a photo at the Magic Kingdom. Read more here..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/05/1723204.shtml

SAFE New Hampshire loses domestic violence office

Adam · 5 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original jadeforrest writes "The New Hampshire Chapter of Stop Abuse For Everyone (VIP/SAFE-NH) has had to close its office due to lack of funds. This is not affecting the services offered there, but it underscores the need to support truly gender-neutral domestic violence services:

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/05/1727233.shtml

GOP Asks for Grassroots Participation in 2004

Adam · 5 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

this is not equality writes "The GOP is asking for individual input for the party platform in 2004. This year, for the first time, suggestions given online may be included in the final document.

Anyone can logon to the web site (here) and participate in the platform process.

We need to tell the Republicans that Men's Issues are important. If we don't make an effort, we can only blame ourselves.

Please help form the GOP platform in 2004. Visit the website and tell them that we are fed up."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/05/1728239.shtml

There Is Good Out There

Thomas · 6 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I almost always enjoy FredOnEverything. Quite often, the guy hammers the nail smack dabby on the noggin, and I particularly enjoyed this piece.

Fred makes a distinction between many US women and oh-so-many women of Mexico by saying about relationships with Mexicanas, "You don’t marry a hundred pounds of irrational anger looking for an excuse." Just tonight I was in the hot tub, at the gym where I work out. A woman sat next to me (it was somewhat crowded). I was stretching, pulling my left knee up toward my chest, when a large guy walked past me as he headed out. He caused a current that knocked me off balance and almost pushed my left arm against the woman's right tit. All of a sudden, I found myself struggling so that I wouldn't make contact with her. I knew I was facing a possible decade or more in prison. I sincerely wished she wasn't part of my universe.

Anyway, it seems the man in Mexico may have fallen in love.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/06/0310225.shtml

Crime if slapped by men but not by women

Adam · 6 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bharati writes "In this article in outlook magazine in India it mentions that it is a crime to slap a women and then it makes old discredited notions about how Australian men abuse women . In another article in India however a police constable who has been regularly beaten by his wife is given advice on how to "Please" his wife so that she will hit him less. Different strokes for Different Genders I guess"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/06/1634212.shtml

Domestic violence coalition honors man killed

Adam · 6 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original jadeforrest writes "In a sign that things may be changing in the domestic violence community, a domestic violence coalition in North Carolina is marching to honor a man who was killed by his wife, and are calling it domestic violence. They are marching every Tuesday after a person is killed for domestic violence

here.

Other links and discussion:

over here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/06/1637239.shtml

Onion: Deadbeat Dads March on Las Vegas

Matt · 7 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "The Onion has posted an insulting and sterotypical view of "deadbeat dads" in this article. OK, it's supposed to be satire, but there sure is a disconnect between what I see posted on men's groups and what appears in this article.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/06/2217207.shtml

Teenage Girls Accused in Stabbing Deaths

Matt · 7 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "This might be one worth following."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/06/2217240.shtml

Misandric Expedia commercial

Adam · 8 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Expedia.com has a commercial in which a man and his wife are discussing vacation plans. The man is looking up places to see in New York on his laptop. The wife asks if they would be able to see a play called Magique. The man imagines himself at the play, where the actors strip off his shirt and paint a goofy face on his chest. The man then suggests an alternative event.

To contact Expedia.com, please go to

here"

Here is my email to Expedia.com:

I am writing in regard to an Expedia.com commercial called "Magique." This commercial shows a man and his wife discussing vacation plans in their kitchen. The man is looking up places to see in New York on his laptop computer by using Expedia.com. The wife asks if they would be able to see a play called Magique. The man imagines himself at the play, where the actors strip off his shirt and paint a goofy face on his chest. The man then suggests an alternative event, which the wife agrees to.

I realize that it's important to have a sense of humor, but it gets tiresome when men are always the butt of the joke. Frankly, I'm tired of commercials in which men are humiliated like this. I don't think you would have shown a similar commercial with the gender roles reversed. Please discontinue this commercial (and others like it) and start portraying men in as respectful a manner as you portray women. Otherwise, I will not use your online service anymore.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/08/1753229.shtml

Dinosaurs out!

Adam · 8 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "OK, I guess I knew that India is conservative in many respects, but wow, check this out!

> BJP leader Sushma Swaraj on Tuesday advocated the need for a regulatory body "to stop distortion of women's image in society."
>
> "In the name of entertainment, it is despicable the way women are portrayed in the so-called popular primetime soap operas," the deputy leader of Rajya Sabha said
>
> ... She said women are increasingly shown as conspirators and home breakers in these soaps and serials, causing a negative impact on the society, particularly children.
>
> "During my tenure as the Information and Broadcasting Minister I took off the air many ads that were offensive to women," she said, stressing immediate need for a body to screen and monitor the serials.
>
> Swaraj said she had raised in Parliament the issue of formation of a broadcasting regulatory authority as a follow up of the Convergence Bill she introduced during her tenure.

If nothing else, this is more proof that ultra conservatives and feminists are reading from the same hymn sheet.

Thank the Lord that the West isn't this bad .... lol"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/08/1759231.shtml

Rison to be jailed for delinquent C/S

Matt · 9 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

YahooNews reports here that Andre Rison is to be arrested for failure to pay C/S payments.

Of course if his ex denies him visitation, that's just fine, though.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/09/1754215.shtml

Web page lists movies featuring male groin attacks

Matt · 9 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Someone has done a listing of movies where men are hit in a certain sensitive area by females. As of this date, there are 1,560 movies listed. Some of the descriptions seem to almost take pleasure in what happens. On the other hand, this could serve as an instance of how pervasive male groin attacks are in movies (compare it to equivalent attacks on females.) Of course, it is easy to find amusement from something as long as it happens to someone else."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/09/1751227.shtml

Judge tells teens to fear rape in prison

Adam · 10 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

NextEntity writes "These people aren't even trying to deny the cruel and unusual punishment anymore. While I'm all for shock tactics if they work to turn around young kids lives, threatening them with man on man rape in a federal prison by a judge whom acknowledges this goes on seems over the top. Remember rape is only bad if someone without a penis is involved boys, otherwise its funny as a kick in the groin.
Article located
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/10/191227.shtml

More articles calling out domestic violence

Adam · 10 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original jadeforrest writes "There are two more articles I've noticed this week that have called violence by women domestic violence:

here

and

over here

While there is still a lot of work to do before domestic violence services are available for all (man or women, gay or straight, old or young), this represents a large shift in the media's coverage. I wasn't seeing these articles a couple of years ago."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/10/193200.shtml

Mens names made public for soliciting sex

Adam · 10 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes ""The names of 16 men convicted of soliciting prostitution have gone up in big,
The billboards are part of an offensive by several neighborhood associations southwest of downtown Omaha to stop prostitution by outing the men who pay for it."

Thats right folks, there is no worse crime in the world. What about the women, are they "protected". Why don't they put up their names in lights? I forget, by being female, they are innocent! Here is the article"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/10/194240.shtml

SAFE activists receive important invites

Matt · 11 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jadeforrest writes "Two activists from Stop Abuse For Everyone (the domestic violence organization that offers services for everyone) have been not only been invited to attend an invitation-only domestic violence conference of the movers and shakers in the domestic violence community, but they have also been given a scholarship!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/11/183236.shtml

Man Murdered and Eaten in Phillipines Over Accidental Touch

Matt · 11 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Well I imagine there may be more to the story that just the reported accidental butt-touching incident, but it does point up the extremes some men will go to in order to "protect" a woman. This is misandric chivalry at its "finest", combined perhaps with a great deal of family dysfunction and mental health problems.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/11/187220.shtml

Biological Referees

Matt · 11 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

thatold55 writes "Here's a good article from the Christian Science Monitor on nontraditional custody issues. A couple of sections jumped out at me as I read it.

Click "Read More" for thatold55's observations.

From the article:

> Also in California, a woman last week won a $1 million lawsuit against the fertility clinic which implanted her with the wrong embryo, mistakenly giving her one created using another client's sperm (rather than sperm donated anonymously) instead of an embryo from two anonymous donors. She learned of the error after her son was born, and has been engaged in a custody battle ever since. The sperm donor and his wife - who had another child from the same batch of embryos - insist the boy is their son. The woman who bore him considers him hers. A judge declared her the mother, the sperm donor the father, and the donor's wife no relation.

I have not heard about this case, but I would like to know if the "father" was given custodial rights to the child, or merely given the privilege of supporting the child?

In another case, a lesbian couple produced a child using artificial insemnination with an egg donated from one mother implanted into the birth mother. When the relationship failed, the birth mother wrote the egg donor mother out of the equation. What was interesting was the comment of the donor's attorney...

> Jill Hersh, K.M.'s attorney, is convinced the case wouldn't even be an issue if her client wasn't a lesbian. "If they were married, the donor document would have been irrelevant, and if they were unmarried, but a man and a woman, they wouldn't let the man off the hook," she says. Ms. Hersh cites a recent Southern California case where an unmarried man, living with a woman and helping to raise her child, was judged a legal parent.

So basically, it sounds like the attorney is arguing the donor should be put on the hook, and given the privilege of supporting the child without equal custody?

Is it me, or are things kind of out of control?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/11/1811218.shtml

Cable "Public Service" Announcement

Adam · 12 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Bledso writes "A website called ControlYourTV.com felt the need to explain to us how we can set up parental controls on our remote controls. Naturally, the best way to do this is to make a man look as impotent as possible, especially around his wife and daughter. This is the "Public Service" announcement. It's called "Debbie & Dad". here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/12/1833201.shtml

Father "abducts" his own child?

Adam · 12 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "
Well the media went into "full alert" over this story. Here is a story about a father trying to keep his child while his wife was trying to get a restraining order against him, and he suffered injuries from her, yet he is the "kidnapper." The the police with full headline news coverage from the media in MA (both knowing that the father had the child anyway as cited in the police reports) enacted a state wide Amber Alert. Was this an alert for the safety of the child or an alert to citizens that men have no rights? The whole time the father had his own child, yet he is a criminal? There is a serious issue with the way the media covered this story. It seems that any tactic to make fathers/men look bad is the the goal. I bet this man - who is an immigrant- will suffer for this... Welcome to the U.S."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/12/1834227.shtml

No More Than 6 Months In Jail For Woman Who Raped

Hombre · 13 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "
"Tuifel was arrested in March 2002 after the boy came forward. Jury selection in the case began on Monday. The boy's family, however, had urged the prosecution to accept a plea from Tuifel, to spare the student from having to testify, prosecutor Joy Watson said." Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/13/1122229.shtml

Perhaps we should form a Men's Political Action Co

Hombre · 14 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "It occurred to me this week (Primaries) that the men's movement might be able to form a Men's Political Action Committee (MPAC?) along the lines of the Leauge of Women Voters and Emily's list. What if the NCFM were to team up with, say, the fledgling League of Men Voters to form such a MPAC. We could contact various political parties (Republican, Democrat, Reform, Green, Libertarian and Constitution) with a list of men's issues questions for their candidates."

More under Read Comments section.Those candidates for the U.S. Senate and House that are most amenable to men's issues would be supported by the MPAC list. We could then fund those candidates as well as endorsing them - after all, money talks in politics, as well as votes.

Here is a good site for finding the various candidates and their views:

http://ontheissues.org/default.htm

Interestingly, I found many of the positions of the Constitution Party to be similar to the traditional part of the men's movement. For example, Michael Peroutka (their nominee) decried the denigration of fathers in the media and society:

http://www.constitutionparty.com/news.php?aid=107

However, I can see where more liberal men's advocates may take issue with other parts of this party. Well, it was a thought.

On a bit of a tangent:

I find the political diamond concept this site uses (i.e. Liberal, Centrist, Conservative, Populist, and Libertarian) to be interesting, although perhaps a bit superficial on specifics. I did an unscientific survey by comparing the people who cosponsored the Office of Men's Health with their position on this political diamond. I expected that there would be a cluster of these politicians centered in the moderate conservative range. Instead, it turned out that they were scattered across the political spectrum from liberal to conservative. So perhaps men's issues aren't soley the domain of moderates to conservatives.

The list of Men's Health Office supporters is here:

http://www.menshealthoffice.info/list.htm

For example, Randy "Duke" Cunningham came out a conservative, but Mark Udall (D-CO) in my district is a moderate liberal (well, it does include Boulder). And he's on the list because I went to one of his meetings and handed his legislative assistants a hard copy letter advocating for the Office of Men's Health. So even if your Senator or Representative is a Democrat, that doesn't mean that they won't be receptive to men's issues, provided you contact them.

On the other hand, it's possible that different politicians will react differently to different men's issues. A Democrat may be more receptive to government solutions to these issues (and an Office of Men's Health is one). A Republican may be more receptive to amending overbroad feminist-inspired legislation that impinges on men's rights.

Anyway, that's my download for tonight. Let me know what you think.

Steve Van Valkenburg

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/14/1231249.shtml

Day Care provider found innocent of murdering yet another child

Hombre · 15 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

It's hard to fault the jury in this case. After all, they weren't allowed to hear the testimony of those who had formerly been abused and injured in Dianne Scribner's care. Also, it appears from the article, (though it isn't entirely clear), that judge Timothy McManus didn't allow the prosecution to mention that this is the second time a child has died while in her care. Everything seems to be business as usual here, Mr. Scribner was the first prime suspect in spite of a rock solid alibi, the Star Tribune publishes the story with a very sympathetic tone for Mrs. Scribner, community members show her lots of support, and we can only hope that next time her history of abusing and murdering children is found admissable.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/15/1540225.shtml

The Sexually Manipulative Abuser

Adam · 16 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Sexually Manipulative Abuser

Vili Fualaau, the 21 year-old boy statutorily raped by Mary Kay Letourneau when he was 12 years old, was interviewed by Matt Lauer: here . He states that she destroyed his ability to have relationships with women close to his age. He has been emotionally troubled. He was unable to finish high school. There were two children, the first born when he was 13. Sadly, Vili is now asking to reestablish contact with Letourneau."

Another link and more commentary below.Perhaps if he had better self esteem, he would realize that he didn't need her; that he has his two children and can make a life for himself. If she really is a decent person, she'll find herself the best job she can, work long hours, and support him the best that she can. She owes him at least that much. I'm not a lawyer, so I don't know where this will all end. I hope he finds happiness. It only saddens me that Letourneau may gain in all of this, and that ultimately she is the one left with the emotional power to either destroy or (perhaps seemingly) repair this young man's life. Particularly disgusting is the fact that she appears (so far as I know) entirely remorseless. She deserves everything that she got, and more. It doesn't matter how this turns out in the end. You don't take these kinds of risks with a young boy's life. Society rightfully rebukes her character. Even if Vili ends up all right in the end, it could have been worse; ergo, it's reckless endangerment.

Letourneau fits a prototype which one could label the sexually manipulative abuser.

Another article:
over here
Following are some quotes from the article:

"..."F--- HIM, if he doesn't have more class than that ... I don't expect him to forget that he has a penis [he needs to remind her it's mine] but there are other ways ... he may as well spit in his babies' faces - and tell them 'Mommy's dead' too ... it's just not right." .. "Today I heard you weren't going to court tomorrow," she said in one letter. "Why not? Did you give up? ... F--- you. Some f--king warrior. I'm fighting ... until I f--king die." ... When the lashing-out didn't work, Letourneau tried other approaches, promising Fualaau more sex and a new car if he would only tell the judge that he forced himself on her. "I LOVE YOU ... Big loves Big kisses Big f--ks Big sounds Big squeeze Big sigh Big missing you ... so so much. Hold on ... take me away." Two former inmates who knew Letourneau in prison claim she did end up having two lesbian relationships behind bars. Aside from the lesbian games, Letourneau boasted of at least one steamy romp with a male correction officer. "I fell into some crazy spell here, and I let this guy totally come on to me," she wrote to Fuave. "I let him even touch me ... more happened that you don't need to hear about. ..."

Notice the sexual teasing, provoked anxieties regarding a young adolescent's developing masculinity, insistence on exclusively emotional thinking (to which young children are susceptible, in short part due to social conditioning), use of sexual and monetary bribes. She grabs power and control over a younger person by sexual enticement and psychological torcher. Emotions can be like weapons. (A hard lesson learned for children; those who live by the sword, often die by the sword.)

Note also the hypocrisy that she employs to manipulate ("spitting in his babies' faces"... when in fact she was legally married and had four children with her previous husband at the time she statutorily raped Vili.)

Last, Letourneau wishes to be reunited with her children. She has already demonstrated lack of restraint in her sexual attachments to children. There are some indications that she has poorly developed ethical boundaries and gravitates towards the taboo. Will her visitations be supervised? I don't even know if she is on parole.

In summary, this could turn out badly for Vili or perhaps decently. What actually happens in this specific case is more or less irrelevant. If a 12 year old child were to implore a woman to drive him at 130 mph in her car "to see what it would be like to be a race car driver" and she obliged, she would be rightfully charged with reckless endangerment, regardless of the child's assent, and regardless of whether the car came to a safe halt. A criminal took an enormous risk with this child's life. Bright line, best interest.

A young boy's eagerness for sexual attention makes him more vulnerable to sexual exploitation, not less vulnerable as some would suggest. One can only expect that the trends towards sexual exploitation of young boys by sexually aggressive women will increase in incidence over coming generations.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/16/1550209.shtml

Blog Interrupted

Matt · 16 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I am posting this link regarding Jessica Cutler, aka The Capitol Hill Blogger. I will refrain from commenting ahead of time. I am more interested in others' thoughts and comments. Please post.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/16/1638257.shtml

A tide of violence

Hombre · 16 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Davie_boy writes "This article in a Salt Lake City newspaper left me fuming.

Apparently, women just don't commit acts of domestic violence. This article speaks volumes about the media bias against men. I just wonder how, as Searle suggests at the end of the article, men are supposed to stop domestic violence when people are turning a blind eye to 1/2 of the problem. It's unfortunate that what will probably happen as DV advocates try to educate the public and local ecclesiastical leaders on the issue is that it will always be from a "woman is victim" position. Sadly, I think this approach will only add fuel to the fire."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/16/1940212.shtml

Book Review, Domestic Violence: The 12 Things you Aren't Supposed to Know

Hombre · 17 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jadeforrest writes "Stop Abuse For Everyone speaker and board member Dr. Jack Turteltaub reviews Thomas James' Domestic Violence: The 12 Things You Aren't Supposed to Know, a book that attempts to debunk a lot of the myths in the domestic violence community."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/17/207248.shtml

Many Reservists Losing Civilian Jobs

Hombre · 17 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes ""Benefits reduced. Promotions forgotten. Jobs gone. It's tough to find these conditions when returning home from the mean streets of Iraq, ready to resume your civilian career. Increasing numbers of National Guard and Reserve troops returning home are experiencing just such disappointment."

Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/17/2019258.shtml

Biased article on move-aways

Hombre · 17 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes *"The New York Times is such a s*y and biased paper. Here is a clearly biased article on move-aways. It belongs in the editorial section, not the news section. Nary a word is offered to point out that non-custodial dads are almost always just as good or better parents as their female counterparts. Thus, switching primary custody to the dad in case the mom moves away should most often be a clear and healthy alternative to allowing mom to uproot the child and move away."*

More in the Read More section. Anonymous User continues - "The Times sheds crocodile tears over moms who move away to leave a child behind with the dad, but don't mention fathers at all, except in the third-person sense. I've seen dozens of articles on dads who are left behind by move-aways. The "paper of record" could not find just one with whom to speak? The fact that fathers are likewise torn from their children when moms move away with the children. "But Ms. Sheid's ex-husband, who shares joint legal custody of their daughter, refused to allow the girl to move away. So Ms. Sheid has spent much of the last year using JetBlue to shuttle between her son and husband on the West Coast and her daughter (and ex) on the East." Obviously, this is sad. But equally sad would be where the mother moved away with the child and the father had to spend much of the last year using JetBlue to shuttle between his job and seeing his daughter. It mentions that Mr. Shied (mom's new husband) has a job on Wall Street. Does Ms. Shied have a job? If not, wouldn't it be easier for her to shuttle using JetBlue than for the child's father (whose name isn't even mentioned) to do the same, given that the dad probably works to support his child? "Worst, she added, 'they are making me choose between my children.' " Point out, that she is making her child choose between her parents. Can't Mr. Shied find a job doing something else? Can't she find a job? "But now mothers with physical custody say they feel trapped in untenable situations, especially since alimony has become uncommon and the economy remains rocky in many regions." Yes, see, but they don't have to maintain primary custody of their children. They can transfer primary custody to their husbands voluntarily. "Practically, though, judges know they can often stop a move by threatening to give the other parent custody. (Noncustodial parents can move without dealing with the court at all.)" I love how they throw that one in there - as if this is somehow unfair (gasp a woman being required to do something that a man is not.) Actually no, custodial parents can move without dealing with the courts. It's just that they may have to voluntarily transfer custody of the child over to the other parent in order to do so."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/17/2033225.shtml

Old boys' clubs contribute to gender gap in IT?

Hombre · 18 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes ″

This item from a recent Penn State newsletter mentions some "research" that has been done by the university regarding the "problem" of there being more men than women in the information technology field (of course, there is no "problem" that there are less men than women in the education field).

"Because only one in four IT jobs belongs to a woman, the researchers questioned how the combination of an Old Boys' Network and the male-dominated IT workplace affected women."

The conclusion of the "study" is that companies need to provide special social networking opportunities for women to solve this "problem".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/18/186218.shtml

Stress and the Super Dad

Hombre · 18 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "Interesting article, would like to hear other's thoughts on it. Here is the article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/18/188252.shtml

Dr. K's divorce

Hombre · 19 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Kyo writes *"Former Mets and Yankees pitcher Dwight Gooden and his wife are divorcing, and despite the fact that they as a couple have shown themselves unable to manage their assets, the judge seems to be setting his ex-wife up nicely, forcing Dwight to turn over close to 60% of his current salary as a Yankees advisor to her. It's not going to get any easier for Dwight to pay his wife $5,929 per month, is it?*

Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/19/1423204.shtml

Fishing trip with wife ends in death

Hombre · 19 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "It is unfortunate when anyone loses a life due to violence - whether inflicted by a male or female. Here is a case where a couple went fishing, the wife became angry, went home, and threw her husbands belongings out on the lawn of their apartment complex. After he arrived home, he began laughing at her, and she ran him over five times with her mini-van.
Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/19/1437253.shtml

Foley's "Girls Rule" shirt in advertisement

Matt · 19 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Foley's has just sent me an advertisement with a picture of a smiling young girl wearing a "Girls Rule" shirt."

Please see my e-mail to them under Read More/Post Comments
Here is my email to them:

"Several months ago I had expressed concern over a mannequin commercial in which an animated female mannequin hit a male mannequin over the head with her purse. Fortunately, I received an apology for this from Foley's, and the commercials were discontinued. Following this, I opened a Foley's account, which I now use.

Therefore, I was disappointed to see what I feel is an inappropriate piece of merchandise in your latest advertisement. This shows a smiling young girl wearing a gray "Girls Rule" shirt.

To say that "girls rule" emphasizes the purported superiority of girls over boys - whether the boys agree or not. Such statements are, in my view, contrary to Foley's policy of non-discrimination; it is therefore disappointing to see such language used.

Please consider the impact on family violence when a generation that has been told that "girls rule" for years comes to maturity. This will, at best, create tension rather than harmony between the sexes; domestic violence may even worsen. Surely, Foley's does not want to contribute to this scenario.

I would urge Foley's to discontinue such merchandise as soon as possible."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/19/1634249.shtml

Empowered Women Teaching Respect Via Violence

Matt · 19 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Here is yet another story in which a mother takes matters into her own hands to teach someone a lesson in 'respect'. In this case, the woman in question did it with a long length of steel pipe, leaving six people injured. The reason? Her teenage son was asked to leave a party that he gate-crashed. When, exactly, did liberation and empowerment just melt right into psychotic sociopathy?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/19/1635220.shtml

She's no angel, she's a witch

Matt · 19 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

seattleshark writes "I'm not really trying to inflame everyone here, but this story is almost unbelievable. Also, I challenge ANYONE that reads this site to find a similar story involving a father doing the same, and being treated the same.

May justice have mercy on your maleness."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/19/1636211.shtml

Cars let angered females inflict serious violence

Matt · 20 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

An article explains how angered females can inflict serious violence from the wheel of a car . Such incidents of female violence include a man who was run over after a fishing trip and the Clara Harris incident. Men were killed in both incidents. The article says that for violent females, vehicles may compensate for their lack of physical strength compared to men. It does not sound as though a huge amount of concern is expressed in a sense. For example, females are often viewed as the "weaker sex" (and thus usually incapable of violence.) However, vehicles used as weapons can even the odds such that they can do serious violence.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/20/030236.shtml

YWCA takes example from YMCA

Matt · 20 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

DasCoon writes "Here we see an article on a YWCA allowing men in on the board of directors. The article states YMCAs have allowed women on the board of directors for over 70 years. Of course some women are protesting it for the same old reasons. What's good for the gander is good for the goose."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/20/034222.shtml

Popular Campaign Kills CA. Anti-Father Bill

Hombre · 20 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In the face of enormous opposition, California Senate President Pro Tem John Burton (D-San Francisco) has decided to withdraw a bill which would have granted custodial parents an almost unlimited right to move children far way from their noncustodial parents.

Popular outrage--including over 2,000 calls, letters and faxes to Sacramento as well as wide media coverage--was generated by radio talk show hosts Glenn Sacks and Dr. Laura Schlesinger.

Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/20/1640244.shtml

Two Women Shoot Each Other's HUSBANDS Over Dispute

Hombre · 20 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Normally, I'd think of a clever commentary to go with the headline on this particular current-events tripe, but I'm flabbergasted. WTF? And why the HELL doesn't anyone else find this as outrageous as I do?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/20/1641246.shtml

Mother Abandons Son In Turkey For New Lover; Police Monitoring Situation

Hombre · 21 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "As we read this heartwarming story of maternal love, we see once again how women are obviously naturally superior mothers, with enhanced 'emotional knowing' and social networking skills. (Yes, that's sarcastic.) Note that the police are far more worried about protecting the mother than the child. Also note that the father simply doesn't exist in the picture at all -- no mention is made of him whatsoever. Did this child spring whole from the forehead of Zeus?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/21/1727250.shtml

Eerily Familiar?

Hombre · 21 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Does this sound a bit familiar? Like the woman who is accusing Kobe Bryant of rape? Sex with a lot of men... then suddenly accuses one or more of rape? The meat is in paragraphs 3 and 4. Sick! Sick! Sick! Do we need some serious, new laws to protect men against these false accusations or what?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/21/1731239.shtml

Paternity Fraud Battle in CA

Hombre · 21 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "Here is a Washington Times article about the turmoil in California over the Navarro case. Manuel Navarro got his paternity fraud case overturned in a heroic decision by the 2nd District Court of Appeal. But Child Support Services is asking the CA Supreme Court to depublish Navarro, saying it is causing confusion in the courts (which is really nonsense). Both sides are submitting amicus letters to the California Supreme Court."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/21/1752204.shtml

Deadbeat Dad Hypocrite

Hombre · 21 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "This American guy who lives in Mexico and married a Mexican woman has written articles criticizing "thousands of Mexican men (who) use emigration to abandon their wives and children," calling them "deadbeat dads", yet he repeatedly reenlists in the U.S. National Guard after marrying and having children, knowingly setting himself and his family up for exactly what just happened to him/them. Now he's been Called to Fight in Iraq (duh!) and is complaining about not having U.S. law to protect his job while he's gone so that he can come back to that same job when (and if) he makes it back. Plus he complains that his family has now lost the health insurance his previous employer provided.

Isn't this guy every bit a "deadbeat dad" as all the other men he criticizes or what? Was he putting his family and children first and foremost each time he reenlisted in the National Guard or wasn't he selfishly putting his family at risk in return for the few extra dollars he received from the U.S. Government for staying in and repeatedly reenlisting in the Guard?

What a loser!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/21/1756232.shtml

Exposing the REAL situation of men in ISRAEL

Hombre · 22 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jacob Kandlaker writes "Finally, here's an interview from Jerusalem Post that expose the real situation of men in Israel, living under Feminist dictatorship.

Taly Bron's story

Taly Bron. 'Many men have committed suicide in similar situations...The establishment is responsible, especially the feminist movement and women's lobby in the Knesset.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/22/1843208.shtml

Women Behaving Badly Because Of Men

Hombre · 22 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Intially I was quite intrigued by this article that explores why women turn so readily on other women in work / social situations...until I discovered the terrible secret that it was all men's fault! Yes, you see, the world outside the bedroom is apparently so "universally misogynistic" that women are required to behave "like men", i.e., cruelly. When men behave badly, it is our fault. When women behave badly, it is our fault. Get it?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/22/1851250.shtml

For Jesus' Sake, Smash: The Days And Nights Of Ca

Hombre · 22 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "This masterpiece of historic, political humor made me laugh until I spilled my coffee, concerning a subject that should make me cry. Hysterically bluntly written, factual, informative, and so funny it hurts. Please, please, please read to get a fascinatingly frank view of historic feminism and activism. Brought to us by our delightfully suave and hip masculist friends, Modern Drunkard Magazine."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/22/1851227.shtml

Two Women Seduce, Then Stab 13 Times In The Groin

Hombre · 23 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "My day begins with this testament to the peaceful, spiritual, saintly purity of the double-X chromosome. Note the coordination and preplanning that went into the attack, and note their motivation, the motivation for all too many instances of female violence: not self-defense, but money. Lots of money.

It is a cliched rhetorical question, but how would this story be reported differently if two young strong black men, armed with butcher knives and a hammer, had tag-teamed stabbing a middle-aged woman 13 times in the groin? Would they be hung, drawn, quartered, burned alive, or all of the above, before he even made it to trial? And how many pages of text would we see testifying to the heroic strength and character of a female victim? Whereas here, the victim is flatly portrayed as just an older man looking for sex, and no further mention is made of him aside from his role as a female punching bag."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/23/1824202.shtml

Child custody laws poised for change

Hombre · 23 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Wendy McElroy writes on the current battle over California SB170, the bill which attempted to remove the rights of non-custodial parents in move away cases. The article gives informative details of some of the important cout rulings involved as well as providing the history of the bill itself, showing us why "SB 730 had the appearance of legislation being sneaked in through the back door."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/23/1941237.shtml

Woman calls for men to stand up for ourselves and our rights

Hombre · 23 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

After apparently watching one more episode of "Everybody Loves Raymond" than she could stand, Kerry Marsala has written an article challenging men to stand up for ourselves.

"So the real question is: Are you A Man or just a male sperm with fecundating fluid that enjoys being kicked in the groin?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/23/2027202.shtml

Male homosexuality 3 1/2 times more damaging to Zanzibar than female homosexuality

Hombre · 23 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "The New Feminine Order continues its worldwide spread. In Zanzibar, they have freshly outlawed homosexual sex. If you are a woman, the maximum is seven years. If you are a man, the penalty is 25 years. No explanation is really given for this, other than it will "really improve the country"."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/23/2036202.shtml

NH Men's Commission Gets New Member

Scott · 24 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I'm honored to announce that I have been recently appointed to serve on the NH Commission on the Status of Men. Commissioner Tony Raymond, a Police Chief from Plymouth, NH, resigned from the Commission earlier this summer due to family and time constraints. Governor Craig Benson then nominated me on July 28 and the Executive Council unanimously approved the nomination on August 18. I am excited to be able to serve on the Commission as an official member, and look forward to the challenges that lie ahead. Please see the Read More section for more info, and a request for assistance.The Commission on the Status of Men in NH has three main areas which it was assigned to study by the legislature: Men's health needs, the effects of fatherlessness on society, and the educational needs of boys and young men in the state. To date the Commission and the public have given quite a bit of attention to the first two mandates. So while I intend to help the Commission on all of its work, I plan to make my particular focus on the educational status of our state's boys and young men.

Young people are literally the future of our society. I am aware of many national trends which show that males are, on average, doing quite poorly compared to females in our educational institutions. From dropout rates to learning disabilities to college enrollment and academic performance, a substantial percentage of our nation's young male population is not laying the groundwork for a successful future. This is a gender issue that does not receive the attention it deserves, and there is still a lot of misinformation and stereotypes out there that have blinded the public and educational administrators from paying proper attention to this issue.

I intend to help quantify the educational needs that boys and young men have in NH, and identify areas where their needs are the strongest. Not only do the education administrators and teachers need this information, but the media and public need to be educated about it as well. In recent years, I've seen at least a half-dozen front page news articles about a local school district's alarming dropout rate, but never is it framed as a gender issue, nor are the statistics reported on even broken down by gender.

There's no way I can do this work in a vacuum, and I would like to request the help of anyone with a background in education, statistics, or young male advocacy. You don't have to be local to New Hampshire if you'd like to offer help - I need to obtain data about national trends to compare them with what's going on in NH. Please drop me an e-mail if you'd like to help out and I will start a mailing list where discussion of this work will be held. I want to see this Men's Commission succeed, and become an example that others can follow. Any assistance, either financial or in time, is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Scott Garman

scott at mensactivism dot org

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/24/1345242.shtml

Teflon Military Women

Adam · 24 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "The American military machine is not immune to the gender-based poisons in our society. Here we have the short, sour, and heartripping story of a Lieutenant Colonel Williams. Lt. Col. Williams had entirely consensual, comprehensively documented sex with two female soldiers, one an NCO. He was instantly court-martialed in disgrace, and sentenced to seven months of good hard prison time. His girlfriends? Not a single black mark on their records -- they were let off scot-free. Why? Well, they were women*, weren't they? On the same site, one can also read just how well PFC Jessica Lynch is doing in the midst of all her personally generated confusion and controversy.Military women seem to be Teflon -- st just won't stick!*

Seconds after I typed that, I found this. I'd say 'enjoy', but I doubt that applies here. If you don't have time to read the story, the summary is simple: Male = dishonorable, female = honorable. Just like in civilian life! Oh, and did I mention she suddenly decided months after landing in hot water that she was raped? Did I mention that this was clearly a steaming load? The article ends by telling us that this poor, suffering, flower of womanhood avoided 26 years in pound-me-in-the- military prison because the fragile doe was suffering from attention deficit disorder and post-traumatic stress. Naturally I'm fighting back the urge to send the traumatized little girl a fruit basket out of sheer pity and sympathy."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/24/1918246.shtml

Lesbian not required to pay child support

Adam · 25 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "MA Supreme Court has a history of contradictory and odd rulings. In this case a woman who agreed to have a child with her lesbian partner cannot be forced to pay child support, the state's highest court ruled Wednesday. Because the defendant is not a parent under any of the statutory provisions enacted to establish parenthood, she has no duty to support the child financially, and she may not be ordered to pay child support," I honestly think the court would have ruled differently if this had been a man involved. Also, if this court agrees homosexual marriages should be like normal marriage arrangements, this is a highly contradictory ruling. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/25/2147217.shtml

DSS Used to Abuse Children

Adam · 26 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "Two teenage girls in Australia ran away from DSS custody after being abducted from their home where they had been living with their father. Despite the girls choice to live with their father, and their claims of his innocence, DSS is insisting they not have any contact with him.

They haven't even bothered to tell the father that his children are on the run : "The girls' father, who is fighting the protection orders, said he had not been advised by the department that his daughters had absconded from care." News.com.au link"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/25/2155250.shtml

Major progress for shared custodial rights in MA!

Adam · 26 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "I have to admit I was shocked to see the Boston Globe cover a pro-father issue, but progress can not be denied as the Mass fatherhood Coalition got a nonbinding question that will appear on ballots in 37 legislative districts this November asks voters if they support joint custody of children after divorce, unless one parent is deemed unfit or both agree otherwise. "It's like putting up guardrails on the road of marriage," said Mike O'Neil, co-chairman of the Fatherhood Coalition, a statewide group that has about 3,000 members. "We just want protection of our rights." Lets applaud Mike Franco for his efforts in Mass where men's rights have been brutalized for decades.

Fatherhood Coalition article
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/26/1946209.shtml

Maleness or Extinction? (Israel)

Adam · 27 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jacob Kandlaker writes "In Israel, beating feminism is a prerequisite for standing up to the external enemy. Maleness or Extinction by Gil Ronen Militant Israeli feminists have determined the national agenda since the early 1990s, mocking all things male and and criminalizing normal masculine behavior. If we wish to regain our fighting spirit and discover new leaders in our midst, we must first restore dignity to Israel's men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/27/1942208.shtml

'Virtual girlfriend' demands gifts

Adam · 27 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "She needs to be coddled with sweet talk and pampered with gifts, but you'll never see her in the flesh. A Hong Kong company has developed a "virtual girlfriend" for new cell phones with video capability.If she's neglected, "she'll be unhappy and she won't talk to you," The company also hopes to develop a virtual boyfriend by early next year. I wonder what he will expect? Respect perhaps? Chime in with your opinions... here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/27/1943224.shtml

Violent crimes by girls rising, but....

Adam · 27 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This article says girls are victims who need help, even when they are violent. here The shrinks are confused why after empowering girls they have turned violent. Even when females are violent they are victims of society in some way. Notice they say the reason juvenile female violence is rising is unclear. The reason is obvious 30 years of radical femminist ideaology. I think these shrinks are all in denial ha ha. Here is a quote from a womens studies professor. "We have a crisis in the juvenile justice system," said Meda Chesney-Lind, a professor in women's studies at the University of Hawaii, who has written books on female violence. "We're arresting all these girls, but we're not doing anything to deal with their issues.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/27/1944247.shtml

Men "scared" of sexual women

Hombre · 28 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Doctor Damage writes "Yup, even though the practice is performed and perpetuated by women, female genital mutilation is the fault of those nasty evil (and frightened) men. Article here "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/28/1547219.shtml

Male Heroism

Hombre · 28 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Short and sweet: Can you easily imagine an everyday woman doing this? Had a woman done so, how would the article be different?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/28/1552207.shtml

Interesting

Hombre · 30 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

gudenuff writes "A 10-year-old boy believed to have killed his father was a longtime witness to an ugly, drawn-out divorce that included unproven allegations of sexual abuse.
Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/30/180257.shtml

Guys fill new network lineups - more misandry - or

Hombre · 30 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Not too long ago, the networks were obsessing over women. Is TV courting male audiences this season, after last year's ratings scare, when Nielsen Media Research announced that men age 18 to 34 were leaving TV for video games, DVDs, and the Internet (or bad programming for men - which was left out of the analysis)? The TV networks are hoping to snag viewers by showcasing the lives of men. Most of the fall's fellows deal with ambivalent feelings and they shed tears. This is in stark contrast to the cover of TV Guide's 2001 fall preview which stated - "Tough Women Rule." Lets see what happens...more misandry or is it time for gender equality in the media?

Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/30/187251.shtml

Joint Custody Blues

Hombre · 31 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "Finally, here is an article, in main stream media, which presents the joint custody issue pretty fairly. The Biscuit Queen"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/31/1650202.shtml

Canada's Supreme Court - God help us all.

Hombre · 31 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ragtime writes "Two recent vacancies in the Supreme Court of Canada had justice-minded Canadians hoping for new appointees who might show some respect for our Constitution and Charter of Rights and who would enforce law rather than try to create it to suit their personal agendas. Instead, our hopes have been cruelly dashed: at least one known radical feminist lesbian has received the nod.
Justice Rosalie Abella spells even worse times ahead for men, fathers, and boys and any right-minded citizens who oppose judical activism. The, ahem, jury is still out on the other appointee, Justice Louise Charron. CP News"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/31/1651232.shtml

When Good Husbands Go Bad

Matt · 31 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jadeforrest writes "When Good Husbands Go Bad lists a bunch of bad men doing bad things. It isn't hard to find a lot of list of men doing bad things, or for a list of women doing bad things..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/31/195213.shtml

belief.net: Theology of the Body

Matt · 31 August 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Pope's biographer discusses The Theology of the Body, supposedly promising to revolutionaize the Cath. church's POV on sexuality and the body. Well, we'll see.

But condemning male sexuality is still very much on the agenda. On page 4 of this epistle, one reads:

> What response have you been getting specifically from women?
>
> I do seminars specifically for women and I begin these seminars with an apology for the lusts of men and for the way that male lust has wounded the female heart.

Just great.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/08/31/1911207.shtml

"Gunmen" and "Attackers" at Russian School

Thomas · 1 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes

"http://www.foxnews.com/story/0,2933,131060,00.html

Wow! Just wow! Absolutely no mention that some of the terrorists are female. When refering to hundreds of men and just a handful of women dieing in combat, we must call them "men and women." When referring some male and some female terrorists are threatening to blow up kids, we must call them "gunmen" and "attackers". I'm sure that the ladies involved are only there to nurture."

Thomas writing now:

The threat of these "black widows" is growing, as pointed out in this article. Of course, the article goes out of its way to try to absolve these women who murder innocent civilians, including children. "There is no religious aspect to this -- it's psychological ... terrorists exploiting the misfortune of these women."

If all males had the decency to die, then every person on earth would be spiritually perfect. (Sarcasm off)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/01/2017227.shtml

Kobe Bryant Case Dismissed!

Thomas · 2 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The criminal case against Bryant has been dismissed.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/01/2322202.shtml

Son Carries Mother 6,000km, Eight Years

Adam · 2 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "This man has carried his blind, aged mother across the whole of India on a holy pilgrimage for the past eight years. She says he is "nice". He is indeed a holy man."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/02/1825224.shtml

The Sexual Revolution Becomes Passe

Adam · 3 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Cain writes "An interesting article highlighting the conflict between reality and feminist ideology.

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/03/1735220.shtml

Hunger striker enters 7th week

Adam · 3 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "John is now 6 weeks into a hunger strike in Newbury, England as the media continues to ignore his story. Full item at Thames Valley branch of Father 4 Justice (Hosted by the Men's Hour). You are welcome to add comments for John. John is aware of the debate about the usefulness of hunger strikes in the father's movement but feels it is his only option so any encouragement and messages of support would be most welcome."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/03/1735245.shtml

THIS IS A TEST...

Hombre · 4 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Larry writes "THIS IS A TEST OF THE ACTIVIST'S BROADCAST SYSTEM

The Rapid Response Team at menforjustice.com is dedicated to identifying new strategies against the men's movement as they appear and providing the MRA community with clean, efficient defenses against such tactics. Please read the following to inoculate yourself against the latest attack, then pass it on."

Vaccine found in the Read More section.Larry continues "From the Detroit Free Press:

ASK SADIE: Bloviating hubby is a bore

August 30, 2004

Dear Sadie: My husband has always been opinionated, but now he's gone over the edge. He's joined a men's rights organization. Some years ago, he had problems with his first wife over alimony, which he's never resolved in his head. Anyway, he recently connected with some fellow he met on the train about this organization, and it's become his "cause." It's bad enough when he carries on with me, but he bores everyone with his new passion. Any ideas? -- Bored Wife

Sadie says: Quick, did you sign a prenup? (OK, kidding -- maybe.) Now if he were Mr. Sadie, I'd just scream, "Shut up already! People are wearing garlic around you!" and then don heavy-duty earmuffs. But that would be so tacky. Then again, so is preaching points over shrimp puffs.

Getting it: Your personal strategy

The sensible thing is to say simply: "Darling, I love seeing you passionate. But serving up too much public passion is like too much sushi. A bit tantalizes. But if your dessert is hand-rolled, your guests will fling rice at each other in a boredom-frenzy." Tell him his attempts at enlisting interest (or converts) are collapsing under the weight of his ponderous stump.

Follow the cues. Gently tell him that, if someone asks what he's up to, he may certainly intro his new org and follow with a tonally pleasing brief conversation. But when his audience yawns, darts, moves off, interrupts, changes the topic, flees for an exit -- or picks up a carving knife -- it's time to change the topic to something less emotional -- Michael Moore . . . the 9-11 report . . . WMD . . . anything but men's rights.

Signal the cues. If BM (Boring Mate) still finds himself blabbering to little children or the rumaki, agree to stand by him next time and signal when he needs to quit mouthing off and move off.

Let him write it! Nothing can quiet excess puffery faster than a pen. He has a position? Write a paper. It's easier on the ears and might be a nifty handout that piques interest without putting his public into a state of petrifaction. Finally, this passion with men's rights is quelling some old grudges. Time could be the best toner. Give it some. Oh, and go check on that prenup. Wouldn't hurt.

ASK SADIE appears in the Free Press Mondays and Wednesdays. E-mail asksadie@aol.com. Write her and other advice columnists at P.O. Box 828, Detroit 48231.

****

NOT from the Detroit Free Press:

ASK MRA GUY: Bored wife is a downer
September 3, 2004

Dear MRA Guy: Some years ago, my first wife turned on me and put me through a devastating divorce in which I lost everything. I have since put my life back together and remarried. Anyway, I recently met a fellow on a train who connected me with a men's rights group. They've helped me understand what happened and how the courts were stacked against me. I have become an enthusiastic men's right activist (MRA) and talk to everyone I can about it. My wife says that I'm boring her and boring everone I meet. She thinks I'm just mad about having to pay alimony. How do I show her that it's not the money, that the alimony is just a constant, galling reminder of how I was betrayed, demonized and walked on by a woman I thought loved me? - Deflated in Detroit

MRA Guy says -Quick, did you get a prenup? (OK, kidding -- maybe) Your wife's reaction is not uncommon. When she says she's bored, what she really means is that she's uncomfortable. As you have no doubt experienced, talking about men's issues is NOT boring. It's emotional dynamite! As my sister advice columnist Sadie so aptly put it - "it's time to change the topic to something less emotional -- Michael Moore . . . the 9-11 report . . . WMD . . . anything but men's rights."

Your wife is uncomfortable with your new activity and wishes you would stop. Toward that end, she is feigning boredom in the hopes that you too will become bored, lose your enthusiasm and drop your activity. She is uncomfortable on two levels. On the surface, she is uncomfortable that you are not engaging in small talk, "If traffic is heavy on I-999, I like to switch onto Hubert Wicker Avenue in the mornings" but starting passionate debates. A no-no in her idea of polite society.

On a more serious level, she is uncomfortable with the possibility that you will succeed. Most states have a time period for marriages after which a woman becomes eligible for alimony. I don't know the time period in your state, but you can bet that your wife does. Under the current family law system, she knows that if she decides you aren't "fulfilling her needs," she can kick you out of her life. With some standard whining ("I sacrificed my career for him!"), she can count on a court forcing you to continue to support her financially. If MRA's are successful, she won't have that option. You say your sweetie wouldn't do that? Well, you thought that about your first wife, too.

It is doubtful you can ever convince her that you're not focussed on the money because she is focussed on the money.

Don't let her apparent indifference get you down. She'll either get over her discomfort or she won't. Oh, and go find that prenup and put it in a safe place. Wouldn't hurt.

MRA GUY is a Man for Justice."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/04/2058218.shtml

The logic behind prohibiting teacher-student touching

Adam · 5 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon User writes "The paper Risk anxiety in the classroom: teachers touching children explores the logic behind the idea that teacher-to-student touching (no matter how "innocent") must be considered suspiciously and must be avoided. (Without mentioning gender, it should be quite obvious that teachers of a certain gender have to be more careful about this...) There is the issue of avoiding false accusations, but the authors refer to the perceptions of risk and danger in society. It is said that "no touching" policies have lead to such situations as male teachers afraid to pick up injured students lying on sports fields. Basically, this report talks about why teachers end up being warned about touching students and the effects that can result from rules and fears about touching students."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/05/191255.shtml

Marcel Shurman's anti-male greeting cards

Adam · 5 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Marcel Shurman's anti-male greeting cards

Today I was at the Border's at the Flatiron Crossing mall in Broomfield, CO. I stopped by the greeting card section to see what was available.

There were several cards by Marcel Shurman that could be considered misandric:"

If you wanna "read more", I think you can guess where to click.
- A card with a photo of a fat man on the beach next to a hippopotamus.

- A card with a photo of a woman carrying a man over her shoulder. The caption said something like "A rummage sale is a great way to get rid of useless stuff." On the inside it said "Such as your husband."

- A card with a drawing of two men. The caption said "There are two kinds of men - nice guys and jerks." On the inside it said "The nice guys become jerks later."

- A card with a picture of a man ironing. The caption said something like "The good news is that there are men that iron." On the inside it just said "You know the bad news." (Let me guess, the card implies that men that iron are gay?).

- A card with the caption "Fortunately, you only need to know three topics to have a conversation with a man." On the inside it said "Him, him, and him."

To be fair, there were many cards that were cute and creative, but the presence of these five cards spoiled the effect for me, and I would never buy a card from Marcel Shurman (though I wonder if you can buy a card, photocopy it as evidence, then return it to the store - "It turned out I didn't really like it.")

There is a "Contact us" option on this twit's homepage, but the cards in question weren't displayed.

Shurman's site

I noticed a book in the store titled “I still miss my ex, but my aim is getting better.” Nice.

As I walked through the mall, I checked in on Claire's to see the status of the "Boys are smelly" line of goods (ironically, something sure smelled bad in the store today). It was heartening to see that the display had dwindled as it was sold off, but there were still some of the offensive items there. (Claire's decided a few months ago not to reorder David and Goliath merchandise, but to sell the remaining stock.)

As I walked by a store called "Limited Too" I noticed a few signs saying "It's a girl's world." Well, sure it is, thanks to three decades of misandry. Make that four.

Steve

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/05/211257.shtml

Society Is Killing Its Males

Adam · 6 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Fresh in from Scientific American, we have an excellent article examining male and female mortality -- right from the get-go, they are quite emphatic that an enormous number of social factors are to blame for males' early demise; it is not purely a question of longevity being linked only to physiology of gender."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/06/186244.shtml

Touching Teacher Stories

Adam · 6 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Rather ironically in regards to the immediately previous entry concerning the total and absolute prohibition on teacher/student contract, particuarly emphasized towards men, we have this heartwarming tale of a female schoolteacher harassing several of her students with endless pornographic messages, as well as forcing the class in general to discuss her sexual habits with her boyfriend. Clearly, a total, modern woman. Oh, by the way -- the case against her was completely dismissed due to court irregularities. How handy! How fitting! How standard! How obscenely offensive to any sapient two-legged organism with the faintest concept of human equality!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/06/1812230.shtml

SPIKE TV

Matt · 6 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original tonysprout writes "Spike TV claims it is the first network for men. I'm a man, and I don't watch it. I've sent email (via an online contact form at here) asking them to consider doing a show advocating men's rights.

We NEED this show. You NEED to contact them and ask for the same thing. As a channel for men, they continue to reinforce the negative stereotypes of masculinity with shows like "Stripperella"."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/06/1915222.shtml

Nobel Prize Winner Loses In Divorce Court

Matt · 6 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Apparently being one of the most brilliant men on earth earns one the right to get penalized for it by one's ex-wife in divorce court. The judge ruled that since his ex's future career prospects were 'paltry and stagnant', that his prize money should be regarded as income for her to take. He's more successful, she's less successful, so therefore his wealth becomes hers. A breathtaking demonstration of The New 'Equality'."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/06/1918242.shtml

MSN's "Top Five Reasons to go for a Younger Man"

Matt · 6 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ahh, MSN again. Just amazing. This latest has it all: stereotyping, men-as-means-to-an-end, and on and on. But I will say that it does lack the usual "men suck and are basically evil" fare that MSN, et al., usually serves up, substituting it this time for a men-as-sexual-tools theme.

Suppose they will publish an article tomorrow entitled "Top Five Reasons to go for a Younger Woman"? Nah.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/06/1934255.shtml

Promoting Women In Business Is Cruelty

Adam · 7 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "I simply never would have thought of this spin on modern life. Here we have an article from the BBC explaining that if a woman is put in charge and the business does badly, it does NOT mean that the woman was in any way unsuitable for the position; it means that her promotion was actually an act of discrimination by the Old Boys' Network, to try and MAKE the business fail. You see, now that the glass ceiling is dissolving, we males have constructed 'glass cliffs' instead. As Pulitzer Prize winning journalist Dave Barry has often noted, 'I am not making this up'."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/07/205226.shtml

'Black Widows' behind Beslan tragedy

Adam · 8 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bharati writes "Story on terrorism by black widows . violence is not one genders game and past time"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/08/1654248.shtml

Gender discrimination in justice

Adam · 8 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This quote says it all:

"I think you're getting the deal of the week," Arnold said. "If you were a man standing in front of me we would not be talking about misdemeanor probation; we'd be talking about how many years you're going to prison." said the judge. Time for a CLASS ACTION SUIT I think.... read all about it
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/08/1659218.shtml

Domestic Violence Ignorance Month

Hombre · 8 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "An excellent article denouncing the flagrant 'women and children only' bias ingrained at all levels of our society."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/08/1855233.shtml

Teacher Forces Potty Mouths On Students

Hombre · 8 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Straight from the shoulder: A teacher, frustrated by her 'unruly' students, forced twenty of them to lick toilet floors. Here we again see the advanced, more evolved nature of modern femininity. It is becoming a cliched rhetorical question, but how would people have reacted, both locally and in the media, if the teacher in question had been male? Would a simple apology clear up the matter then? I don't think so, but I would love to be proved wrong..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/08/1856229.shtml

50 Year Old Female Teacher Accused Of Sex Assault

Matt · 9 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes
In this disgusting story we read that:

"Cecelia Schneider, a high school mathematics teacher, is accused of child endangerment and aggravated sexual assault. "

and

"Complaints against Schneider, suspended with pay from her job as a mathematics teacher at Monmouth Regional High School, Tinton Falls, allege that in 2002 she performed oral sex on the boy and produced and distributed child pornography, specifically a photograph of herself with the toddler.
"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/08/2316250.shtml

Another Teacher and Student

Adam · 9 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CPM writes "Story here

It seems that "teaching" is the preferred profession for these perverts who need an icebreaker to prey upon young boys. With all of these teacher/student "trysts" that I am aware of, it seems that it is almost always a woman that is the pervert. Knowing how the media try to bury incidents of criminal behavior by females, I can't even fathom how many of these teacher/student incidents aren't even making it to the news. Perhaps women should not be allowed near young students, you know kind of like male day care workers.

I particularly like when she said that it was not just about sex. Well, then it must be ok, so long as there was more to it than just sex. There's also the money she will try to get if she can manage to get herself knocked-up.

Geez we almost need a seperate category here just for these female teacher/young boy stories.

If you'll excuse me, I'm late for a vomit appointment..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/09/1652229.shtml

More men report being molested by Women

Adam · 9 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "In this article men reporting being sexually assaulted is on the rise. Men, given an outlet for these crimes against them will show that it is not the majority of men who are perpetraitors, establish some other shelters and such for men and you will see just how many have been abused."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/09/2038226.shtml

Nicole Kidman Booed For "Child Love" Film.

Adam · 9 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "Democracy in action: Theater patrons walked out and booed viciously at the movie screening for Nicole Kidman's new film which features her molestation of a 10-year-old boy -- only as she is a woman, this act of pedophilia is referred to as "love". As excellent as it is that she received the public ridicule she so richly deserved, how do you feel the audience would have reacted if Tom Cruise had made a movie about himself taking a nude bath with a ten-year-old girl, and would his character have had the brass cojones to tell an unsuspecting public that it is entirely okay because he "loves" the girl in question?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/09/2043257.shtml

Glass corridor?

Adam · 10 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Indianmale writes "India's top corporate (women) professionals are quitting their jobs to stay at home and take care of the kids. The story blames it on `social conditioning'. At another place, it also mentions the choices available to women - work (full time or part time), stay at home (for the kids or yourself), and the flexible working conditions offered by corporates (one year's leave, time off to attend an event in which her daughter participates). None of these choices are available to men. (Under the current law applicable to Hindus and Christians, the husband has a legal obligation to support his wife). The story is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/10/194217.shtml

Update on Zeta-Jones stalking case

Adam · 10 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The trial has been delayed because the stalker attempted suicide and then blamed Zeta-Jones for driving her to it. You can't help pitying the woman. The latest tawdry episode is here.

hhere"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/10/197203.shtml

Australia: Woman beats boy viciously, gets 4 months

Matt · 12 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Proving once again that the phenomenon of women-are-innocent-even-when-proven-guilty spans the globe, this from Australia. She is found guilty yet sentenced to only four months in jail for doing what would have landed a man in jail for years had the genders been reversed.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/12/0038206.shtml

Germaine Greer cheers divorcing women

Hombre · 13 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "In this article, feminist Germaine Greer recently was quoted saying that "the high rate of divorce should be celebrated as the major sign of progress in the feminist movement." What ever happened to trying work things out first?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/13/013244.shtml

As a father, where do I go from here?

Hombre · 13 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

J writes "Hi,

I spare you the details, but when my wife levied false allegations of domestic violence in Nov 03, the last thought on my mind was to attack the lies and twisted references to truth. I was too focused on saving my marriage, living on the hope of reconciliation for our children, 4, 5 and 11. Now she's filed for divorce and 100% legal and physical custody. She denies: (1) her psychosis (e.g. seeing demons leap from one person to another, putting oils on the heads of our children who she fears might be possessed -- REAL Andrea Yates stuff, (2) her perjuring herself numerous times in her written declaration to the court and to the court appointed 730 evaluator, and (3) her moving her lesbian lover in when she moved me out. The problem is, with women, it seems allegation carries the day, and all the documented evidence in the world will do a man no good. I have an attorney (just recently fired one for not fighting), but in the 9 months I've been battling this I've lost my house, the kids and over $20,000. I love my little ones. Any suggestions???

J"

Hombre - We get a lot of submissions here asking for assistance for troubled fathers, so any large organizations that any of you know of which can offer real help to men in these situations will be appreciated by many readers.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/13/0117247.shtml

Fathers 4 Justice protest at Palace

Thomas · 13 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A protester dressed as Batman has climbed on to the balcony of Buckingham Palace. This is the latest in a series of recent high-profile demonstrations by the British men's rights group Fathers 4 Justice. Long may it continue.

Details here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/13/1649226.shtml

Activist opportunity for Virgina residents

Matt · 13 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

All,

Those who live in Virginia, especially those whose House rep. is Jim Moran, will be interested to know Mr. Moran is sponsoring a women's issues conference for Sept. 18, 2004. Info found here. Please contact Mr. Moran's office by using his site feedback form here asking for equal time for men.

Please click "Read More" to see the note I sent him.Dear Mr. Moran:

I got your e-mail re the women's issues conference. While it is a good and noble effort it is alas duplicated all over the country. While surely it is useful to have a women's issues conference, it has as they say been done before, is being done now, done often, and likely to continue to be done.

What our society lacks at this point is public men's issues conferences. It would be wonderful if your office would consider sponsoring one. Please see:

http://www.trueequality.com/booklet/for more re what are men's issues of today.

Your constituent,

Matt Campbell

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/13/1913220.shtml

ABC's new Fall Headliner: "Desperate Housewives"

Matt · 13 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Saw an ad for it today on the side of a bus and just knew what to expect... my suspicions well-confirmed. The show's pilot plot is discussed here. Look for plenty of husband-murdering and complaining about all the things mom isn't getting, aside from the house, car, lack of job responsibilities, etc.

What's "funny" is that the concept authors, etc., all seem to be men - or at least the ones they talk about on the site. Sad but predictable.

I am sure it'll get high ratings.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/13/2022256.shtml

The perennial issue of female nudity

Adam · 14 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Britain's biggest-selling newspaper 'The Sun', publishes a topless photo on page 3 every day. This article

article

traces the history of this phenomenon, and the efforts of feminists to stop it. It's interesting to hear the models themselves defending their choices. I accept the argument that nude girls are not news, but it's difficult to accept the feminist whining about them being exploited - look how much money they earn! This kind of censorship is really about policing male sexuality, and attempting to manage the sexual market-place by controlling the supply-side."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/14/1821214.shtml

Dating advice from a "man-trainer" on MSN

Adam · 14 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "MSN is so casual and blatant in publishing astonishingly misandric articles. Here is a "love advice" columnist whose credentials read as follows: Womanly Arts and Mama Gena's Guide To Owning And Operating Men. Her advice in this particular piece tells women to "Join the ranks of the brilliant man-trainers of the world: Women who use men to fulfill their dreams and desires!"...and… "guys on their own recognizance won't necessarily aim very high. A beer and a channel-changer is about enough excitement for them" The problem with this form of casual misandry is that the same type of article with the genders reversed would not be published as it would be highly offensive to women. Let's write MSN to tell them what the "man-trainer" can do with her advice...

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/14/1823218.shtml

Fathers 4 Justice protest causes national furore

Adam · 14 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The fathers' rights protest at London's Buckingham Palace has caused a national scandal. Good work guys! Details

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/14/1824241.shtml

From A Kids Rights Org

Hombre · 16 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Eric87443 writes "Good People & People of Faith,

I wanted to bring you up-to-date on what has been happening in Syracuse regarding our efforts to get a meeting between Senator Clinton and parents. I will be returning to the outside of the Syracuse Federal Building at 9am on Tuesday, Sep 21st, and my trial (open to the public) is scheduled to start in Federal Court at 10 am.

It would be nice to see a few of you there and have a chance to talk before the time for Trial. If you are new to the group or need more background, you will find a complete history at:

http://www.AKidsRight.Org/actionc_syr
"

Rest under Read More section.Eric87443 continues...

"When I returned to the building on Sep 2nd I was very surprised to see the extent security went to - to keep me out of the building. After again 'pushing' me out of the entrance two officers kept watch as I attempted to move between the doors to enter. They would 'push' me farther away if I go to close, but then I would just come back. This went on for two hours and I couldn't help feeling 'silly.' The effort appeared to be coordinated by the US Attorney's office and the Judge didn't seem to care what was happening . . . what could I do next? What could WE do next?

I couldn't help but feel 'flashbacks' to the way things are in Family Court. The way all of us were simple 'pushed' out of the way when it came to our children. The silly allegations and the simple indiginity of the entire process. The Judges and Lawyers and staff -- just too busy for us and ready to get on with it - NEXT!

I've had some thoughts on how to proceed (and I welcome yours) and you may see some different NonViolent Action next Tuesday. In a another attempt I wrote to Senator Clinton, the Judge, and the US Attorney's office (below). I certainly appreciate the efforts of those of you who have written and called - it has made a difference. I have repeated the contact information for all these people at the end of this message -- your personal contact with them would be a great help both to me and our effort.

Best regards!

John Murtari

========== From the letter ==========

Mr. Richard Southwick, Assistant United States Attorney

RE: United States v. Murtari

P.O. Box 7198

100 S. Clinton St

Syracuse, NY 13261-7198

Dear Mr. Southwick and Ms. Clinton: (13 Sep 2004)
Events at the Federal Building in recent weeks have caused me to reconsider my methods. I never expected to be `pushed' away from the building as I attempted to contact a Member of Congress (but not charged with a crime). Physical force has been used to resolve an uncomfortable situation. This has placed me in a difficult position. I had to review all that has happened:
I am a peaceful and respectful parent trying to communicate with my Member of Congress about recognizing and protecting the Civil Right I have to be a parent to my own child. I have been:
* Arrested and tried unjustly. Found guilty of violating rules that don't exist or of actions that did not happen. I was surprised to find how `weak' building rules were, but GSA has a giant staff and they should have rewritten their rules.
* Reported unjustly to the Secret Service (by my Member of Congress) for investigation and have staff use that as an excuse for no meeting to take place.

* Pushed around a Federal Building without arrest and had a Federal Judge aware of the situation offer no protection.
* Subjected to a 'broad' stay away order that prohibits me from peacefully visiting the offices of ALL my Members of Congress in that building.

The 'overwhelming' physical power of the State separated me from my Son (and didn't care of the love we had), it has ruined my personal life and it is difficult for any parent to respond. I have no animosity toward the individuals, but what happened then (and now) is just plain wrong. I am being (was) treated like some kind of 'bag lady' that just needed to be pushed away....
Between the Offices of Senator Clinton and the US Attorney, and myself - we need to resolve this, but no one appears ready to reconsider. I know there are accommodations that can be reached in the `interest of justice.' As a minimum, to allow a constituent to peacefully petition outside her offices on the 14th floor - if the Senator is still not ready for a meeting. But I think we need to "write things down" - that peaceful conduct will not be disturbed; I will not be `pushed' away from the building again - that reporting a peaceful constituent to the Secret Service was a mistake.

Both of you are in positions of great power and authority. I hardly think to pull back a bit would be seen as a sign of weakness. It would certainly be seen as a sign of compassion and graciousness. It would send a positive message to the many people watching this situation and who are cynical about government.
As the `weakest link' I am hardly in a position to withdraw. It would too easily be seen as cowardice and lack of conviction (especially now that physical force is being applied). I would have to deny my belief in NonViolent Action and in the power of peaceful voluntary sacrifice in major social reform. What could I say to the loving parents of the AKidsRight.Org group - `it all sounded good in theory, but didn't work out too well in practice?'

Most of all, what could I say to my son, Domenic. I have talked to him about Faith, and Love, and a God that loves each of us dearly (more than any parent loves their own child). He is old enough now to understand what Daddy `does' to try to change things and I have talked to him about the Civil Rights struggle to break segregation. That people had to sacrifice and there was a lot of pain (and it is hard for him to understand why - it still is for me). But I have told him that `good things will happen' and that `someday' we will have a normal life together - how can I ever just walk away?

Please, I do ask you to act quickly and before the Court date next week. There is no need for more jail time here. Because of the change in `schedule' I was able to plan a trip to see Domenic for the weekend with my mother - we even got a good deal on the fair. I am thankful for that time and so is Dom.

Respectfully yours,

John Murtari
http://www.AKidsRight.Org/

315-635-1968, x-211

315-430-2702 (cell)

CC: Federal Magistrate Gustav J. DiBianco

CC: Washington & Syracuse Offices of Senator Clinton
==========

========== Contact Information ==========

Please send a fax or make a phone call to the Senator's offices both in Washington and Syracuse. They are paying attention to what is going on here. The Senator is a member of the Senate Subcommittee on Children and Families.

http://labor.senate.gov/committee_members.html#Chi ldrenFamiles

You don't have to be a resident of New York to call her offices.

Syracuse Local rep, Cathy Calhoun,

tel: 315-448-0470, fax: 315-448-0476

Washington Scheduling Office, Lona Valmoro (Senior Advisor to the Senator),

tel: 202-224-4451, fax: 202-228-0121

Most of all, you don't have to express anger. Just let her staff know that you care about Civil Rights protection for families and the Senator should meet with parent's groups regarding the need for National reform... Let them know being a parent is one of our GREATEST rights. It needs official recognition and protection.

If you take the time to send a fax, try to send copies to the Judge and US Attorney (also email us a copy or tell us about your phone conversation). Let them know you care.

Honorable Gustav J. DiBianco

US Magistrate Judge

RE: United States v. Murtari

P.O. Box 7396

Syracuse, NY 13261-7396

US Attorney Glenn T. Suddaby

RE: United States v. Murtari

Hanley Federal Building, Room 900

100 S. Clinton Street

Syracuse, NY 13261

==========

John Murtari

Coordinator AKidsRight.Org jmurtari@AKidsRight.Org "A Kid's Right to BOTH parents"

Toll Free (877) 635-1968(x-211) http://www.AKidsRight.Org/

==========

Newsletter mailing list

Newsletter@kids-right.org subscribe/unsubscribe info below:

http://kids-right.org/mailman/listinfo/newsletter"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/15/2243243.shtml

This piece of misandry PRINTED in CORNELL SUN real

Hombre · 16 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "You should read Anna Weiss's manhating gendercidal rant about men being useless here. You can also submit a comment below the article. Also you should send a letter to the editor of the Cornwell Daily Sun here. They think that men are perfect target for unlimited abuse*. Flood them with letters! Show them that we are not their whipping boys! Also as it is the newspaper for the university we can sue them for hate speech to get Weiss and editors in trouble."*

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/15/2250228.shtml

False Accusations of Rape

Adam · 16 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "The Los Angeles and San Francisco Daily Journals (the largest daily legal newspapers in the U.S.) just printed an expanded op-ed by Glenn Sacks on the frequency of false accusations of rape and how the media, victims' advocates and prosecutors neglect the problem, in light of the Kobe Bryant events. The Daily Journal has no link for non-subscribers, but the article was re-printed at Michnews.com here at this link The data cited can be helpful for advocates to raise awareness about this problem that, like male victims of DV, is severely neglected and covered-up because of gender feminist politics."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/16/1926219.shtml

Domestic Violence

Adam · 16 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "This article Would You Help a Domestic Violence Shelter that Helps Men "...provides us with a means to honor Domestic Violence Awareness Month (October) by contributing to a neglected cause -- helping the male victims of violence." Thanks to Wendy McElroy for posting this information about the Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men (DAHM) at her Ifeminist web site, and thanks to Mensactivism for helping the many male victims of domestic violence who have so often come to this site for help."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/16/1927243.shtml

DLJ Gets Back

Adam · 17 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "Since March, the DesertLight Journal blog has been posting Friends to the End, the first-ever novel on domestic violence with a male victim. The book now appears in its entirety. It will stay up at the blog until October 1st, when it will be removed from the site.

The book will be replaced with a new campaign to promote full awareness of the issue of domestic violence. This campaign will be the simplest, and possibly the most effective so far. The way it will work is this: I'm asking everyone to track their local media and keep an eye out for stories on DV shelters and services that promote the well-known myths and bad statistics. Send me a link to these stories when they appear online, or in national media that I can access. I'll post them on the DLJ blog, and contact the source with corrections whenever possible. I'll be happy to credit each of you who submit links!

If you have a blog or website of your own, please feel free to post this announcement there, or pass it along to your friends however you like. On October 1st, I'll post the most frequently-repeated misinformation for everyone's reference, along with the reasons why the statements are wrong. Please don't hesitate to use this information in making your own contacts.

If bloggers and new media can take down CBS, there isn't any reason why we can't make a dent in domestic violence services that serve no one, and exist primarily to promote divorce and misandry.

Please use this e-mail to submit your information: DVA2004 at desertlightjournal –dot-com
You can also send a postcard to: TW Schuett P.O. Box 1252 Yuma AZ 85366

Also, the DLJ will continue to provide the link for donations to DAHM."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/17/2018204.shtml

Shortage of surgeons in U.S.

Adam · 17 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

thatold55 writes "About two months ago, we were discussing concerns within the British medical community that the full spectrum of medical care was not being covered because of the influx of women into medical schools, and the unsuitability of some areas of specialization to the needs and wants of women. See this archived Mensactivism article.

Now, Newsweek reports a similar trend in American medical care. Residency requirements for surgeons require 80 to 120 hour week of training. This requirement, and the general unpleasantness of working with nasty, veteran male surgeons, is causing women doctors to shy away from surgery. Depending on how you look at things, we face either a shortage of surgeons, or a glut in ob/gyn, internalist, and gp areas."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/17/2019258.shtml

Domestic Violence Coalition sued

Adam · 19 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "The Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men (DAHM) and a person identified as John Doe have filed suite against the Maine Coalition to End Domestic Violence here. The news article quotes "Andy" Slater (who is representing DAHM) as saying, "The Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men wants to assist battered men and their children with the same ability that the nine coalition members do with women and their children," Slater goes on to say, "It appears on its face that the coalition is drawing a distinction and stating that women and children deserve more protection than men."

At the risk of repeating himself Ray Blumhorst asks yet again, "Would You Help A Domestic Violence Shelter That Helps Men?" here and especially here. It appears "on its face" that the Maine Coalition to End Domestic Violence has a hearing problem, or even worse a prejudice against men problem."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/19/157202.shtml

Military Corruption.com

Adam · 19 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ever wonder about double standards in the American Military? You don't have to wonder any more, you can go to Military Corruption and find out. With a special look at the double standards involved (you can guess which half of humanity the status quo benefits can't you?) It's one site you should be aware of.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/19/1829212.shtml

Sacks Attacks 'Fatal Fathers' Myth

Adam · 20 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon user writes "Glenn Sacks takes on the latest anti-father media drumbeat in his new column "'Fatal Fathers' Myth Promoted in Wake of Peterson, Hacking Cases" (Daily Breeze [Los Angeles], 9/17/04, LewRockwell.com, 9/17/04). According to Sacks, despite the furor, "...only one out of every 75,000 are murdered by a male intimate each year. Moreover, contrary to popular belief, there are as many wives and girlfriends who murder their male partners as vice versa."
Read the full article at
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/19/215226.shtml

Separated Parenting Access and Resource Center (SPARC)

Adam · 20 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Since we get asked for help alot on family issues, I'm gonna post this link to the Separated Parenting Access and Resource Center. It's got just about something for everyone there. So have a look.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/20/1919259.shtml

Is the woman's draft coming?

Adam · 22 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "According to this article in Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the chief of the Selective Service System has proposed registering women for the military draft. The only question I have is, if they were to introduce the draft again, think the girls would be sharing the front lines with the boys?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/22/195215.shtml

Latest Dumb Dad Sitcoms

Adam · 22 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "The new TV season offers us a couple more stupid dad shows. The first is CBS's "Listen Up" with Seinfeld's Jason Alexander as an idiot dad with a comb-over who embarrasses his intelligent beautiful teenage daughter. The other is ABC's "Rodney," which features a loser redneck wannabe standup comic who can't hold a regular job, is a bad influence on his kids, and is addicted to betting. The frustrated wife tolerates him because, well, she loves him in spite of all his shortcomings. There's a feedback form at the bottom of the CBS website here. ABC viewer relations can be emailed at: netaudr@abc.com. I will be sharing my unambiguous thoughts with them."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/22/198241.shtml

Even football is getting feminized.

Adam · 22 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jenk writes "Even football is getting pretty in pink. New rules are looking to make football less about contact and more about...um..not much."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/22/1911201.shtml

Modern Schools: Girls Good, Boys Bad

Hombre · 23 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes... "Glenn Sacks's latest piece, Start of School Very Different for Parents of Boys, Parents of Girls, criticizes the school system, saying "rather than reform a system woefully out of touch with boys' real world natures and needs, our schools find it easier to demand that boys be something other than boys." Read it here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/23/0051233.shtml

Planned Parenthood sued for sexism, racism

Adam · 23 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jimmyd writes "Well, well, well seems that our feminist friends down at planned parenthood are in some hot water for their anti-male sexism and the us of a certain n-word given that the ACLU and NAACP may get involved, it looks like it may be a job for the NCFM as wll as a chance for some good publicity the story is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/23/1756225.shtml

Women are the future of I.T. (?)

Adam · 23 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

robrob writes "It is reported here that Professor Wendy Hall, computer scientist, advisor to the government, and president of the British Computer Society thinks the future of I.T. is female. Perhaps she could answer why everytime certain "female" skills are seen as important, women seem to think that they will soon dominate that particular field. As for her suggestion that we could discriminate by allowing women to study IT at university for free, we could perhaps ask her if we could do the same for men in medicine, law and teaching courses where men are now under-represented. Remember, she's an advisor to the UK Government!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/23/1757221.shtml

Unsafe sex is criminal act against Women

Adam · 25 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Aquix writes "In this article author seeks to prosecute men, and only men, for not using condoms duing intercourse. He claims unprotected sex is 'wreckless' and irresponsible.

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/25/1253219.shtml

Hypocritical Protests on T-Shirt Designs

Adam · 25 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

D. E. Unrau writes "This article
"has a T-shirt that plays on the issue of domestic violence is generating plenty of controversy as well as getting attention from the Ontario government.

The shirt is sold at a St. Catharines clothing store and features a hammer dripping with blood above a statement that reads, "she was asking for it.""

What the article doesn't say, and what wasn't protested it all, is that the store also sells a shirt that has a pair of bloody scissors that says "he was asking for it.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/25/1258219.shtml

Men, Women More Different Than Thought

Adam · 26 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "According to this article, researchers are discovering that men and women are even more different than anyone realized. However, as usual, the researchers and doctors interviewed for this article, seem obsessed with making treatment more "female-friendly". Even at the end of the article, there are links provided to two female-only health organizations."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/26/1733204.shtml

Ohio mayor murdered man in 1982

Adam · 26 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "The (female) mayor of East Cleveland brushes off the fact that she murdered a man in 1982. Oh that. It was in self-defense. Nevertheless, she wanted the records sealed. Read it for yourself here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/26/1734228.shtml

Barbara Walters' Interview with a Pedophile

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Tonight (Sept 24, 2004) ABC's 20/20 aired Barbara Walters' interview with pedophile Mary Kay Letourneau. Mary has had a long-term sexual relationship with her then 6th grade student. Because she is a women pedophile the interview centered around her 'tragic relationship.' She was asked questions like 'How did you feel [when you were caught]?', 'your children [the victim's] are growing up without a mother', and 'Will you marry him?' A pedophile should never be given such treatment regardless of gender but for some reason women pedophiles are given a free pass. Shame on you Barbara, 20/20, and ABC."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/26/2253257.shtml

College students in trouble for having stippers' pole

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Amyone who thinks males/male sexuality are not being persecuted on college campuses need only read this story. I doubt if the sexes in the story were reversed would a group of girls get into any trouble. (Pleae click 'Read More', below).These boys (termed men of course - making them men maks it easier to persecute them) merely held a contest, giving away a $100 gift certificate to Victoria's Secret to the winner, who didn't even disrobe as part of the contest! For this, they are punished?? I have seen a lot more intense behavior on college campuses than this go unnoticed/unpunished. So much for consenting adults and the right to life, liberty, etc.-- well, for males, anyway. The winner of the prize got into some amount of unspecified trouble as well. She was probably told to "stop contributing to your own oppression" or something like that. Wonder if she spent the $100 Victoria's Secret gift certificate prize money already?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/26/231245.shtml

Nun Receives Suspended Sentence for Child Molestation

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

It isn't just certain priests in the church these days, apparently, in trouble for sex-related offenses against children. However you are not likely to see this story on the front page any time real soon. Her punishment? 6 months in jail, counselling, and a 10-year suspended sentence. The story closes with: "Commonwealth's Attorney Harvey L. Bryant III had sought a long prison term, noting that this was not a one-time act."

Wonder what she would have gotten if her victim in this case had been a little girl instead?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/27/0338238.shtml

Another father railroaded by the legal system...

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

... in collusion with a vindictive ex-wife. Read here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/27/0341259.shtml

"Kill gay man" remark gets applause, reluctant apology

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I doubt he would have said anything like the same sort of thing were he discussing lesbians.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/27/0346225.shtml

Cheerleaders bully reluctant sticker-non-taker

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I didn't know whether to post this under Humor or News. I settled on News since it sure wasn't a funny episode to their victim - or since the victim was female, was it that the cheerleaders were empowered and picked the wrong target to vent their righteous and wholly understandable anger against the evil, oppressive patriarchy? Or was it something else? I am sure a man or men are going to be held to blame eventually...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/27/0356201.shtml

Girls' HS Volleyball Team Beats Up Opponents

Matt · 27 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Another violent femmes type story here. Apparently "empowerment" without good sportsmanship is the rule of the day in some girls' high school athletic deprtments.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/27/1952251.shtml

Another serial killer nurse

Matt · 28 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "51 year old female nurse charged with murdering 3 elderly patients, attempting to murder 1 more, and harming 13 others. It will be intersting to follow how this one develops. Story is here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/28/1615215.shtml

Males Are Never too Young to be Humiliated...

Matt · 28 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

... by a woman, or so it appears yet again. The War on Boys continues unabated. Latest chapter is here. You can be sure she would not have done this to a little girl.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/28/1617202.shtml

How the DVA2004 Media Recon Project Works

Matt · 28 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "This is a cooperative event, folks!

I have set up alerts from Google, Yahoo and Bloglines to notify me and am monitoring Topix for news stories related to the obvious keywords. I'll be checking these each day from now through the month of October, posting links to those that either provide disinformation (as noted in the categories below each post) or PROGRESS!"

Please click "Read More" for more information.

"Since there are so many posts each day, I'll also add contact information for the various publications whenever easily available, and commentary if a specific point merits doing so. You will most likely find the stories to be closely similar, with the only differences being the location of the publication. This has been happening for years, but it is only with the advent of the search engines and newsreaders that we've been able to track the full impact of the disinformation machine put in place by women-only services.

When a publication is noted, please send them an e-mail, or phone if they are local to you. If they are providing disinfo or faulty statistics, politely inform them of this, and request correction or clarification as soon as possible. If they are making progress toward truth in reporting, by providing information on services for the unserved/underserved populations, or otherwise informing the public that domestic violence is not a gender or political issue, send them a thank you note for their honesty and clarity.

The links in the section marked Information should be helpful for you to see how the various agencies fudge their numbers in order to make them seem as if their impact on the problem is far more extensive than it really is, or that only women are ever victims. Their intention is to lead the public to believe that male victims, female abusers, and serial victims of both sexes are undeserving of public notice and/or assistance.

If you refer to this project or any specific disinfo/progress posting at your blog, please let me know at twschuett-at-peoplepc.com, in the comments section, or trackback to the post if your blog allows for that. This project has been publicized to the best of my ability, now it's your turn to alert your readership of this event!

Please keep in mind the domestic violence "establishment" is watching this project closely and will most likely be using this information in the same way as we are. So don't think that the DLJ's voice is enough. Your voice must also be heard in order for honesty and full awareness to take place. Billions of your tax dollars and charitable donations are being wasted in ineffective programs that are ultimately damaging to the community at large.

There can be no solutions for domestic violence without full awareness! Services must be provided on a gender-neutral basis, with assistance and help that offers other options beyond simply running away from the problem, only to have it happen again in another location. These options cannot be found as long as the public believes current programs are effective."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/28/1620218.shtml

The Cornell Sun Says....

Adam · 29 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

In response to The End of Mankind by Anna Weiss, that it was all a joke. Yup, that's right, gendercide is a laughing matter when it's aimed at the nearest man. Given the responses, I don't think they'll be doing something similar anytime soon. Then again....

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/29/1633249.shtml

Kiss Singer Against Marriage

Adam · 29 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Gene Simmons, AKA the front man of KISS, has just come out to say his thoughts about marriage. To quote "It's not beneficial for a man to marry." It's a short article, but it shows our beliefs on the marriage strike are starting to get heard. Article's over here in case you're wondering.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/29/1827242.shtml

At The Cornell Sun....

Adam · 30 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The fun never stops. And things are hotting up quite a bit, since they're not too fond of folk like us apparently.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/30/164237.shtml

Pitcairn sex abuse trials

Adam · 30 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Not quite sure what to make of this one. Half the male population of Pitcairn Island (7 men!) are facing a string of sex abuse charges, but the island's women have rallied to their defence, claiming that the young 'victims' were coerced into testifying. Story

here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/30/168237.shtml

A dating violence site

Adam · 30 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

LibertyUNH writes "
Unlike your tipycal misandrist DV organisation which does not even mention male DV victims, See It And uses gender neutral terms to describe abusers and victims. Unfortunately, their poster gallery and advertizing is very misandrist and one sided.

See It And Stop it advertizement to end DV appears constantly under the electronic version of The UNH newspaper. As most UNH students read the paper online, IT EFFECTS THE CLIMATE AT UNH VERY MUCH!

Contact them and tell them that by portraying men as only the abusers they show absolutely no compassion for male victims. Tell them that men will be far more likely to join them if they had at least one or two posters about boys who are abused. Given their well intent from the start they may listen."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/30/1820233.shtml

Class Action Lawsuit on behalf of Dads & NCP's

Matt · 30 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Masculiste writes "Sorry About The Size But It's Too Important To Delete..."

Text of article is at this link entitled "Across U.S., Non-Custodial Parents Sue," by Wendy McElroy.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/30/2042212.shtml

A win or tie on DV

Adam · 30 September 2004 · Archived copy · Original

NextEntity writes "While I care a lot more about reproductive rights and equality for men, this article concerning DV after natural disasters was surprisingly non gender specific. Chalk one up for the good guys. It's a start. Article located here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/09/30/1821223.shtml

VIP/SAFE-NH represents SAFE's Mission in D.C.

Matt · 1 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

VIP SAFE NH writes "NH's Violence Intervention Program/SAFE-NH Makes Impact in Washington, DC

Lee Newman, Founding Executive Director of VIP/SAFE-NH traveled to Washington to attend the "invitation only" 10th Anniversary Symposium of the Violence Against Women Act. (also known as VAWA)

Click "Read More" to read the entire submission.

This was his second trip to DC, having presented testimony originally at the meeting of the National Advisory Committee on VAWA in April of this year. After his initial meeting with this Committee which reports directly to John Ashcroft at the Department of Justice, Mr. Newman received an invitation to this exclusive National event held September 13th and 14th.

This Symposium was in part to celebrate the 10th Anniversary of VAWA as well as to learn from the experiences of the past and to discuss initiatives for the future. It is an honor for a new program such as NH's Chapter of SAFE to be recognized and included among the attendees. Due in part to the fact that VIP/SAFE-NH currently has no major funding, Mr. Newman, applied for and was awarded a full scholarship to attend.

Ms.Diane Stuart, the head of the VAWA Office in DC, met Mr. Newman in April, while attending the National Advisory Committee meetings and again briefly when she made a speech at the NH Domestic Violence Conference at the Mount Washington Hotel in May of this year. Ms. Stuart made arrangements for VIP/SAFE-NH brochures and other SAFE materials to be available to all attendees at the Resource room that was available throughout the 2 day Symposium.

Mr. Newman was also in Washington during this trip to present information to members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Senator Orrin Hatch, Senator Joseph Biden and members of the National Advisory Committee on VAWA. This was done at a bi-partisan luncheon Sponsored by the Independent Women's Forum and was billed as a Summit on Intimate Partner Abuse. At the conclusion of his presentation Mr. Newman distributed written Recommendations and Policy Questions developed by SAFE to be considered by those responsible for changes in the Violence Against Women Act during the reauthorization process.

The intention of Mr. Newman's presentation was to bring awareness to the plight of the underserved victims who are not represented in VAWA. The mission of VIP/SAFE-NH and of the entire organization of SAFE was to encourage the attendees to make VAWA an inclusive Act that will provide relief for ALL victims regardless of gender, age or lifestyle. The first 10 years of VAWA have proven to be discriminatory to all but the "traditional" female victims of abusive men, while not providing funding streams for any of the other voiceless victims in this Country, including the innocent children of these citizens.

VIP/SAFE-NH is the NH Chapter of Stop Abuse For Everyone and provides direct services and support to victims of Domestic Violence throughout the State and operates a 24 hour Crisis Line. The focus of VIP/SAFE-NH is to provide these services to the "underserved" victims including heterosexual men, gay men, lesbians, bi-sexual, trans-gendered men and women, the elderly, teens and victims of sibling violence.

VIP/SAFE-NH was founded by Mr. Newman and his 2 Co-Directors after having worked together as Domestic Violence Advocates and realizing that there were many victims who were not able to access equal services within the existing Coalition and Domestic Violence services framework.VIP became the NH Chapter of SAFE in October,2002.

If you would like to learn more about the innovative and progressive approaches to Intimate Partner Violence and surrounding issues that are represented by VIP/SAFE-NH check out their website at http://www.VIP-NH.org or simply do a search for VIP SAFE NH. If you would like to contribute time, services or money, all would be greatly appreciated.

If you need assistance in New Hampshire call
VIP/SAFE-NH (603)859-0859"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/01/0326252.shtml

"Desperate Housewives" panned by NYTimes

Matt · 1 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I almost thought about adding this under Humor. Anyway, it seems that to the NY Times' Alesandra Stanley, "Desperate Housewives" is a terribly sexist, regressive TV show that never should have made it to TV. (She pans "Boston Legal", too, which apparently has William Shatner himself on it.)

Well, who knows. I must say I was surprised; I rather imagined a different kind of show being reviewed. But you know, why should it be too surprising? The pilot hasn't even aired yet so no one except media, industry insiders and select audiences have even seen it.

Hmm, maybe I should have posted this under "Humor" after all...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/01/0333237.shtml

Scalia advocates for orgies

Matt · 2 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

OK, I am posting this under 'Humor' only because you will of course laugh hysterically when you read it. However, this is a real story from the UK"s Guardian and I will presume it is accurate unless they issue a retraction for whatever reason.

How does it fit into Men's Rights activism? I am not sure. I think it does fit in somewhere though however. Just, I am not sure how. =)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/01/2256220.shtml

Court asserts man's right to procreate

Adam · 2 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "A sentence that restricted a man's right to procreate was overturned by the Ohio Supreme Court. A lower court placed felony charges (jail) on a father who had children with multiple women if he fathered another child. This father was behind on child support for some of the children. It appears that this man has bad judgment, as any man should now understand that the US government (as mandated by decades of un-opposed feminist jurisprudence) has taken over the family unit. Soon enough we will see more rulings against a male's right to procreate while we see more hysteria about a woman's right to chose.

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/02/1751219.shtml

Move-away leads to death of son

Adam · 2 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Hunchback writes "This story of a bereaved single father mourning for his son, but grateful to be reunited with his daughters, is a direct consequence of the Michigan move-aways laws. The newspaper's coverage, while sympathetic, was bland compared to the reportage on this story here which in days past had the usual full spread pictures, etc."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/02/1951227.shtml

Boys' play creates sensitive boys AND girls

Adam · 2 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This research suggests that Boys play creates sensitive children, whereas girls talk creates less sensitive children. Feminism taught me it was the other way around. Here is the story."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/02/1952242.shtml

The MIO DAHM matching funds challenge

Adam · 3 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "The Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men (DAHM) needs your help! So far people have been generous enough to donate $805 towards roofing materials for the shelter (this is for the rebuilt second floor) before winter sets in. Without a roof it will be very difficult to keep snow, ice, and sleet from damaging the inside of this newly built apartment. This will be used to house male DV victims (and their children)when ready.

[Please post the rest under Read More/Add Comments]

Also the downstairs is ready for sheet rock and could be usable later this winter if there is a roof on the second floor. However, the total need is about $4,500. So, in order to raise more money, I'm willing to match donations from others up to $500.

You can contribute to DAHM through PayPal at:

here

Or send a check to:

Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men
P.O. Box 252
Harmony, ME 04942"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/03/176227.shtml

Feminist Speech Underlies a World of Man Hating

Adam · 3 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "You could almost laugh along with Mr. Roberts at the rediculousness of this story here, but the reality is no laughing matter. The addled, Femi-babble language that defines the radical/gender feminist hate movement is at the core of women's studies programs on college campuses. What can the future hold for America when dumbing down ideology like the feminist agenda, with all of its misnomers and inane definitions, is sweeping through America's higher educational institutions and disallowing all: opposing viewpoints, dissenting opinions, objective criticism or constructive criticism. In California with the recent passage of Sheila Kuehl's SB 1234 we are one step closer to the concept in law of "anti-intellectual feminist harassment" (a form of sexual harassment) that threatens academic freedom and free speech as never before. Big sister is running amok in our society, and I for one am sick and tired of her gross intolerance, and downright hatred of all things male. Maybe the time has come to sue the gender feminist bigots for the hate speech they spew at males."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/03/1710220.shtml

Why is this Mens Rights Group run by Women?

Adam · 3 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "So I'm reading through the local livejournal community for my city and come across an open invitation to attend a talk held by both a Womens Group and a Mens Group. September Feminist Culture Club Meeting So who the heck is NOMAS? Why haven't we heard about them before?

After taking a look at their website, they appear to be composed entirely of Womens Studies graduates, with a gay man and a hetero male apologist thrown in for good measure. Their stated goals are :

1. Pro-Feminist
2. Gay-Affirmative
3. Anti-Racist
4. Dedicated to Enhancing Men's Lives

#2 and #3 are all well and good. Why is #1 there at all, and why do men come in 4th place in an organization that sounds like it should be pro-Men?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/03/1712207.shtml

Wells College students upset over admission of males

Matt · 4 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Brian writes "When equal rights is reversed, it becomes a problem. They use the excuse of "tradition" for not allowing males admitted. Funny, was the same excuse thought of as archaic in conjunction with gold courses (Augusta) and the like that are male-only? Read here.

Ed. note: This could have gone under News, Education, or Inequality, it covers so much ground. But that's not uncommon for many stories on this site.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/04/1650202.shtml

Male BC

Adam · 4 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "So called "child support" laws punish men even for "unplanned parenthood" and place a huge burden on male sexuality. Male birth control pills would offer men a choice to avoid this artificial, government created penality for having sex. There's some good news about male birth control, but naturally it put in a story dripping with contempt for men and disgusting attempts to obscure reality."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/04/1940234.shtml

CBS encourages Domestic Violence

Adam · 5 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Tom writes ″

From Stand Your Ground. The show Suburban Madness was on CBS last night. It focused on Clara Harris and the story behind her murdering her husband by running him over three times in a parking lot. Rather than portraying her as a violent murderer the show's voiceover near the conclusion of the movie asks the following loaded question: "Clara Harris was in a life and death fight for her family. Her survival instinct kicked in. I want you to ask yourself, would you kill to save your family?" Kill to save her family? How can she save her family if she is killing them?

The misandry, hatefulness, and misdirection are astounding. Here's the phone number for CBS's main office in NYC:

212 975-4321

Tell them you have a comment about a program and they will connect you with the programming department that tallies the comments.

Please call and complain! Tell them that they are advocating murder, that they are encouraging violence in the family and that is an insult to any viewer. Demand a personal apology.

You can go to www.cbs.com and go to the bottom of the page and click on "feedback" to leave online comments.

It's time we gave them a ton of feedback. Please take a moment to call and give them your perspective. This is an outrage."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/05/170204.shtml

The Significance Of Male Hair

Adam · 5 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Now here's a silent classic by Raj Singh back in 1997 (makes ya feel a bit old huh?) about the symbolism involved in men's hair, I won't spoil it, but there is a alot to think about. It's a good one folks.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/05/1711204.shtml

SAFE starts up Media Corps

Matt · 6 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jadeforrest writes "Stop Abuse For Everyone has started up the volunteer SAFE Media Corps, for those of you who are inclined towards tactful letter-writing compaigns."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/05/2233202.shtml

Provisional NCFM chapter for Colorado

Matt · 6 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "I am announcing my intent to create a provisional NCFM chapter for Colorado. We have the required minimum 5 members for such a provisional chapter, but would like more, so feel free to contact me if you're interested at mens_issues@att.net. We hope to be able to meet for the first time sometime this month, preferably on a Saturday afternoon.

More under "Read More"Our activities could include contacting and lobbying politicians (particularly at the state level where a lot of laws are made), contacting companies that use misandric advertising (and boycotting the recalcitrant ones), getting libraries and bookstores to carry "men's issues" books, outreach (particularly at universities) to counter the effects of feminist influenced media, and protests - such as the one at the CO state capitol (thanks to those who showed up for this in June).

Steve Van Valkenburg"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/05/2236237.shtml

IWF expose feminist lies about work

Adam · 6 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "In this interesting article, the Independent Women's Forum refers to the Department of Labor's Time Use Survey to expose some familiar feminist lies about how poor, oppressed women have to do more work than those lazy good-for-nothing men. Guess what? It isn't really true...

(URL again:)
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/06/1920200.shtml

SAFE posts essay

Adam · 6 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

jadeforrest writes "Stop Abuse For Everyone has posted an essay by Richard L. Davis entitled An Unbiased Domestic Violence month."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/06/1921249.shtml

Feminists attack Asperger men as deviant

Adam · 6 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This article was published in April, and discusses how radical feminists are trying to characterise men with Asperger's Syndrome as deviant sociopathic abusers, based on the femi-fascist superstition about 'women's ways of knowing' being superior. It is a lesson in how even basic things like health care can be poisoned by misandrist femi-fascism.

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/06/1924205.shtml

Radical Marxist-Feminist Awarded Nobel Prize in Literature

Thomas · 7 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The 2004 Nobel Prize in literature has been awarded to Austrian Radical Marxist-feminist, Elfriede Jelinek.

Additional note by Thomas: I'm adding the following after there've been 10 posts to this thread, but I don't think it should cause confusion, and I want to show up front how far gone this Ms. Jelinek is.

Here are the Nobel organization's "biobibliographical" notes for Ms. Jelinek. Note that "Jelinek lets her social analysis swell to fundamental criticism of civilisation by describing sexual violence against women as the actual template for our culture."

So, sexual violence against women is "the actual template for our culture."

Also, her Gier. Ein Unterhaltungsroman (2000), is "a study in the cold-blooded practice of male power."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/07/1510252.shtml

Swedish MPs want men taxed

Adam · 7 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "Let me quote this story:

"A group of Swedish parliamentarians has proposed levying a "man tax" to cover the social cost of violence against women. "It must be obvious to all of us that society has a huge problem with male violence against women and that has a cost," Left Party deputy Gudrun Schyman told Swedish radio on Monday. "We must have a discussion where men understand they as a group have a responsibility," said Schyman, one of the party members to sign the motion for debate on the new tax." So, equality equals man tax. Makes you wonder about inequality, doesn't it?"

Anonymous User writes "In Sweden a group of MP's have suggested to pose a tax on men... Check the vote next to the article and see the opinions!!!

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/07/1849242.shtml

NCP Lawsuits Get National Coverage

Matt · 8 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Great news! ACFC's, et al., recent series of lawsuits have made Yahoo!'s main news board. Let's hope it makes the airwaves, too.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/08/1744219.shtml

Cornell Apologies to Men....kinda?

Matt · 8 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original thea writes "On October 7, Zach and Alex wrote an article under Opinions called 'Editor's Note' at (you may have to scroll down and look to the right or look it up under Red Letter Daze) saying they concede that had the bigoted article been a man wanting to commit mass gendercide on women, then the Cornell would have been in deep trouble. And because of their immature and disrespectful remarks to Male readers they have been forced to resign. But at the end of the article you ask yourself "WTF?""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/08/1747254.shtml

Hate Reaches New Depths at UNH

Scott · 9 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

At the University of New Hampshire (my alma mater), radical feminism has reached new depths of public contempt for men. It appears that last year's Take Back the Night rally was only a hint of things to come. Whitney Williams, a Feminist Action League member at UNH, has been taking her radical anti-rape message that blames men and fraternities for violence against women to the school newspaper, where she writes a column. Recently she claims to have received a death threat and has rallied more supporters to her cause, who attended a protest rally on Tuesday. On Friday, Williams printed her most extreme diatriabe yet against men, which clearly exposes her intentions. It is, in my opinion, the worst time ever to be a male at UNH. And it continues to baffle me why these young men sit in silence.Quote:

I do not write for men. I do not write for the men who whine about feeling stereotyped, generalized, discriminated against, sad, upset, sorry, or guilty. I do not write for you. I do not do this work for you, I do not believe you and I do not live for you. I do not care that you think I am wrong, stupid, angry, narrow-minded, uneducated, or any four letter words. I do not owe you an apology, an explanation, a written response, or acknowledgment. Women do not owe you anything. You do not deserve to be praised for taking women's studies classes. You do not deserve gratitude for abstaining from raping women. You do not "deserve" anything; but you keep taking as if you do, you keep raping as if you do, you keep talking arrogantly, astonished by my audacity, as if you deserve getting away with it all.

I do not care if you think you have never raped or hurt a woman. I do not care if you think you are not complicit in women's oppression. That is the point. You are not even aware of what you do. You do not even know what rape is. You do it all the time and call women "sluts" for "being too drunk to decide." You do not know what oppression is. Guess why: you don't have to!

Men: you have a responsibility. You must stop raping women. You must stop beating us and coercing us and objectifying us. You must stop oppressing us in the workplace, at home, on the streets. You must tell other men to stop. You must do something. You must apologize. And then apologize some more, and then some more. You must not tell us that "I don't rape" and turn your back. You must stop using pornography and demeaning language. You must stop raping. You must stop raping and beating women, minorities, GLBTQ people, children.

You must stop.

You will be held accountable without apology.

- Whitney Williams, Oct 8, 2004

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/09/2141248.shtml

UNH Update

Matt · 10 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here is an update on the fallout from Whitney Williams article and claim of being the target of a death threat, dated Oct. 8, 2004.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/10/1441214.shtml

A 'mother' starves her two sons...

Matt · 10 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "Here's a shocking story about a woman who lived a very comfortable life while, at the same time, starving her own two young sons. She was sentenced to a pifitully short 15 months in prison!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/10/1434243.shtml

Students Form Group to Fight UNH Misandry

Matt · 11 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Via a comment to the previous post, I was made aware of this newly-formed group at UNH to fight the kind of misandry we have been seeing there. Great work guys!!! The fight will be hard and an uphill battle for sure, but men have got to stand up for themselves and this is one way you are doing it. Congratulations and I hope you will succeed at building membership and freeing your campus from the grip of feminist tyranny.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/10/228238.shtml

Positive CNN Article on Custody Reform

Matt · 11 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dave K writes "Shocked me to read it...
It appears that some of the liberal media is realizing that this is a subject that is going to be addressed... irregardless of how much they try to ignore it. Lawsuits accross all 50 states is something I would certainly consider newsworthy."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/11/1629228.shtml

The changing face of violence

Matt · 11 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "What's interesting is for the first half the usual excuses are given, then this quote:

"They may be even more committed than their male colleagues, because they have more social hurdles to overcome. But in the West, they are often tied to the conventional stereotype of reacting to male violence."

After this, interesting read.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/11/173221.shtml

Request from Reader for Support for NCP Class Action Suit

Matt · 12 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MANN Admins received a note from Dr. Richard C. Weiss, displayed below in the "Read More" section, for support for the Alabama NCP class action lawsuit. Especially if you live in Alabama, please take the time to express your support of the action to the presiding judge.ALL:

This is an urgent request to ALL Alabama noncustodial parents affected by the class action AND ALL interested parties no matter what state or country you reside. This MUST be a concerted and OVERWHELMING response.

PLEASE send a letter to Federal Judge Harold Albritton (address BELOW) who is presiding over the noncustodial parents class action lawsuit and give your strong support for this action. This is CRITICAL! I cannot overemphasize how much that this mass effort of letters to him showing the widespread support and need for relief will help our cause.

Please keep your letters BRIEF, and TO THE POINT... If you feel like adding any details about your own horror story with a state judge/court/etc, still BE BRIEF.

ALL letters should be only one brief page [preferable], but with an absolute MAXIMUM of TWO (2) PAGES TOTAL. Absolutely no more than two full pages. Ever.

ALL letters should be DIRECTLY ADDRESSED to Judge W. Harold Albritton and salutory, as in, "The Honorable W. Harold Albritton (for address) and "Your Honor: [begin first paragraph just below]"

PLEASE ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO:

The Honorable W. Harold Albriton

United States District Court

Middle District of Alabama

P.O. Box 711

Montgomery, AL 36101-0711

Thank you ALL for helping out, your contribution is invaluable!

Dr. Richard C. Weiss

Principal Plaintiff, Alabama

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/11/2255221.shtml

Request from Reader to Sign Petition

Matt · 12 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MANN administrators also received a request from a reader to sign a petition addressed to Pres. Bush, the Congress, and the Supreme Court, demanding redress for the ignoring or misapplication of Constitutional principles that has resulted in the problems of fathers separated from their children, imprisoned, abused, and driven to suicide by the legal system. The note MANN admins received is below under "Read More". The link to the petition is http://www.petitiononline.com/usncpr.Dear Sir or Madam,

There is a Petition located at http://www.petitiononline.com/usncpr asking for changes in the child custody laws in order to give parents equal rights to their children. I hope you will take the time to read the Petition and forward the link to anyone you know that would be willing to sign. It would be a big help.

Thank you for your attention.

Sincerely,

Paul W. Koda

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/11/230219.shtml

Update on DVA2004 – The Media Recon Project

Matt · 13 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes ″

We’re only two weeks into October, and I’ve tracked about 175 news items from traditional media and blogs all over the US. The first ten days was mainly about various fundraisers and events, now we get into the important news!

There has never been a better time to contact your local media and government officials and have your voice heard! Communities all over the country have begun to question their domestic violence programs, laws, and procedures. It’s time for you to speak up and be a force for change! You can have the most impact at the local level, which is where the changes are beginning. District attorneys, law enforcement administrators, public officials of all kinds will soon be involved in re-visiting old policies that no longer serve their communities.

Every media outlet mentioned in the DLJ has heard from me – now it’s your turn to add your voice! Check the DLJ for activities in your local area.

"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/13/1740256.shtml

Violence against men covered in Singapore paper

Matt · 13 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Indianmale writes "This report comes from Singapore. The coverage is very pro-male, comprehensive. During the last six months, I've read stories on this topic from India, South Africa, Barbados, Malaysia, and now Singapore. I think it's a good beginning."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/13/1742226.shtml

ISU Article Misleads on DV

Matt · 13 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

dougwells writes "Here is yet another grossly misleading domestic violence article by a university student newspaper (Idaho State University) that quotes a number of false (anti-male) statistics. Please let them know that such dishonest (or lazy) reporting should not be tolerated."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/13/1749202.shtml

Update on the Cornell Sun

Thomas · 14 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Just to allay any doubts that may have existed, the femboy, Alex Linhardt, is still Associate Arts & Entertainment Editor at the Cornell Daily Sun.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/13/235230.shtml

Cox Buckles On Misandric Contest

Matt · 14 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "
Seems that the misandric self hating Attorney General of Michigan Mike Cox has backpedaled on one part of a campaign to further marginalize and criminalize non custodial parents (90% of the time this is fathers) in a bizarro contest aimed at the children of broken homes. Their artwork was to be used to help keep the child support racket going. Note: Father's rights groups were instrumental in getting this Cox cretin to back off!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/14/1659241.shtml

Kerry Promulgates Wage Gap Myth

Matt · 14 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Well, I was conflicted with myself on posting this. Surely there are supporters of Sen. Kerry as well as Pres. Bush who are MANN regulars. In the end though this is about getting the facts right and discouraging pols from pandering to feminists by promulgating their falsehoods. Regardless of whether you are a Bush or Kerry supporter, most MANN readers would agree that any politican promulgating the wage gap myth does a disservice to men, to the truth, and also ultimately to women and children as well. So please contact the Kerry campaign by phone or fax regarding Sen. Kerry's incorrect statement in last night's debate that asserted the standard falsehood that women underearn men 76 cents on the dollar for the same work under the same circumstances. Please see the transcript if you need to, searching on "76 cents" to find the line.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/14/177204.shtml

Request from Reader for Feedback re Spike TV

Matt · 14 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MANN admins received a request from a reader who asked that her inquiry regarding Spike TV and how it portrays men be passed along to MANN redership. Please see "Read More" for the details and her contact information. Also please note that this request for feedback times out in two weeks (ie, on Oct. 28, 2004) since it is pursuant to a college assignment.

Hello,

My name is Jessica Krippendorf and I am a fourth year media studies student at Malaspina University-College in Nanaimo, BC. I am currently writing a narrative on Spike TV and the ways in which I feel it 1) excludes a huge demographic of men and 2) promotes negative stereotypes about men.

I was glad to happen upon your site and see that you are attempting to approach Spike TV to be more inclusive and include material focusing on mens' rights and issues.

I was wondering two things:

1. From the perspective of a mens' rights group, what are the key demographics you feel Spike is not appealing to?

2. What sort of reaction, if any, have you recieved from Spike in regards to your proposal?

If you have time to answer these questions, I would most appreciate it. If not, I understand and I wish you all the best in your endeavours.

peace~

jk

jessicakeely@shaw.ca

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/14/1714216.shtml

Martian Psychopaths Take Over Government!!!

Thomas · 14 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Damn. This essay would belong in the lowest of tabloids, if only it didn't contain so much truth. It really captures how bad things have gotten.

In his examination of anti-male discrimination throughout society, including the police forces and courts, Michael Gilson De Lemos states, "Increasingly, thanks to the Internet, a variety of eccentric but informative sites have emerged as men begin to talk to one another and realize that if the Nation had been invaded by psychopathic infiltrators from Mars who had jimmied the entire legal system and brainwashed their very families, things could scarcely be worse."

I was happy to see De Lemos go on to say, "these (Internet) sites regularly collect hard-to-find government statistics, collate similar stories from many sources and countries, and act as an intellectual underground for academics who go to them to track down contrarian information that has disappeared from State University research libraries — and, as I found recently, which sites are censored so they cannot be accessed from some Public Libraries."

By the way, De Lemos is on the US Libertarian Party's National Committee.

Folks: We are having a powerful impact. Group hug! Group hug!

P.S. Thanks and a tip o' the hat to Angry Harry, on whose site I found the link to this article.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/14/2117233.shtml

NSBA: Okay to discriminate against boys.

Adam · 15 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Aquix writes "The National School Board Association, here, suggest specific dress code restrictions on boys only. Girls should be allowed to wear pants and dresses, but boys should not be given the choice of the two.

While many may agree, it's yet another example where girls get a choice and boys are excluded."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/15/2136255.shtml

The Kinsey Movie

Adam · 15 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I submit this article from WND because I'd like the perspective of this group. I rememebr reading excerpts from Kinsey's research when I was a kid hunting for some titillation in my mother's Good Housekeeping magazines. I really don't recall having much judgement on the value of the research, but I do recall his work being the justification for a lot of talk on sexual liberation. Here's the thing: the person attacking him is a woman named Dr. Judith Reisman. She wrote a white paper here In PDF Format, that appears, on a cursory inspection, to attack men as exclusive perpetrators of sex misbehavior.

More recent examination of sexual misbehavior now includes women as perpetrators, and it appears to me that Dr. Reisman still lives in the world where all evil comes from men, and so my analysis of her response to the Kinsey movie is that it is decidedly baised against men, and therefore specious."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/15/2141207.shtml

Suzanne Fields' Anti-Male Diatribe

Matt · 17 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ed writes "Columnist Suzanne Fields has just unleashed another attack on men, "A Long Way from Kabul, Baby," which recently ran in the Washington Times. How's this for enlightened political commentary:

'Many Afghan men fear that the presidential election marks the loosening of their traditional power and control over their women, and we can rejoice that they're probably right. Warlords and tribal elders are particularly threatened.'

You can view the whole article here.

Here's the e-mail for Letters to the Editor:

Letters@washingtontimes.com

And while you're at it, here is Fields' e-mail: sfields1000@aol.com"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/16/2225231.shtml

Starting NCFM chapters

Thomas · 17 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Pradeep Ramanathan writes

Lords & Ladies,

Recently, someone on the Mensactivism site enquired as to what was the difference between provisional chapters of NCFM and regular chapters. Also, there was some question as to how to start a chapter. As Vice President of NCFM, it is my responsibility (among other things) to assist with chapter development. The following is a brief excerpt from a 12 page pamphlet that Tom Williamson and I wrote years ago to assist with chapter development. I have not included comments on how to go from provisional to official since that takes place over a year after establishing the chapter. Hope this helps.

Please see "Read More" for details.Starting an NCFM chapter happens in two stages. The first stage is to start a provisional chapter. All chapters start out with provisional status. The purpose of giving a group "provisional" status is so that they can benefit from using the NCFM name, logo, resources, a start-up grant of money, etc., even while they are trying to build membership, and jump through the paperwork hoops to obtain "official" chapter status. This way, you can place ads, etc. and call yourselves a "chapter" of NCFM even though you aren't really official yet. Otherwise you'd have to go around saying that you're a group of people who intend to become a chapter - kind of cumbersome.

After the provisional chapter has been in existence for a year, has a total of 10 or more members of NCFM, and has demonstrated that it upholds the mission and standards of the National Coalition of Free Men, as well as meeting a few other requirements, the provisional chapter may then petition to be granted official chapter status.
...

(Side note: The only difference between provisional and official chapters, aside from IRS rules, etc., is that delegates from provisional chapters don't get to vote on issues of the national board of directors, whereas delegates from official chapters do. Otherwise, delegates from provisional chapters do have a voice and do participate fully in all aspects on the national board.)
...

Summary of the 7 Steps to Become a Provisional Chapter:

1. Form a group of at least 5 local people who are paid members of NCFM National.
2. Hold face-to-face meetings at least once per month with your group of 5 or more paid members.
3. Establish a dues structure for your chapter. (ie: decide on how much to charge for chapter dues - can be as little as $0)
4. Select chapter officers, representatives, and delegates.
5. Submit a petition (letter) to NCFM requesting provisional chapter status.

Upon being granted Provisional status:

1. Submit a treasurer's report 2 times in the first year (at 6 and 12 months).
2. Set up a bank account (to deposit dues and donations).

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/17/1713246.shtml

Equal access to children after a divorce

Thomas · 17 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Cathy Young has published this brief analysis of the case for joint parental custody after divorce. She's presented some references, though not specific citations, and debunked the feminist distortion of the 1989 Gender Bias Study of the Massachusetts SJC.

This good read was published in the Boston Globe.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/17/1720203.shtml

Upcoming natural science, gender role broadcast

Adam · 18 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Here is an upcoming TV show here Series: The Most Extreme, Episode: Battle of the Sexes,

"It's all about who's in control and the males and females of the animal kingdom will use size, speed, strength, and brains to come out on top. Find out which gender will rule the roost in this epic battle of the sexes."

Oct 19, 2004 @12:00 AM on The Animal Planet. Other times and date are listed too so check your local listings.

IMHO, Gender can be a modern social construction to the degree that homo sapiens have the ability to intelligently manipulate their role in their environment and still survive as a speices.

Beyond that I see gender purely as a construction of nature/evolution with the intent of survival of the species as the ultimate goal of the "constructed genders."

Given how gender is being legislated by lawmakers like Sheila Kuehl, and others, to suit gender feminist ideology here , this episode of the The Most Extreme looked interesting."I for one do not think that we will easily manipulate and change millenia of biologically constructed gender roles that are intent on preserving the viabitlity of homo sapiens, no matter how much jack boot idealists would like to impose their viewpoints on our species.

Sheila Kuehl may want to fool Mother Nature with her imposed constructions of gender, but it's not nice to play so foolishly with other human's lives.

I suspect that gender feminists who watch this episode will allege that this show helps prove that all homo sapien males are natural impregnating machines (rapists) intent on power, control, domination, fornication, violence and aggression in an advanced societal hierarchy of homo sapiens that would be better off without such primitive natural encumbrnaces (heterosexual males)." What do you think?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/17/2016237.shtml

DV Urban Legends Debunked

Matt · 18 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "The two major urban legends related to Domestic Violence -- "95% of victims are women" and "a woman is battered every 15 (9 or 6) seconds" have been debunked and laid to rest at the DLJ. Please feel free to pass this info along to anyone you care to inform!

Thanks to Jan at DAHM for contributing info!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/18/004210.shtml

A Woman Gives Her Opinion On Drafting Women

Adam · 20 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

amperro writes "This article speaks for itself.

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/20/1734221.shtml

Bob Geldof defends marriage and the family

Adam · 21 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Live Aid organiser Bob Geldof speaks out in defence of marriage, the traditional family, and father's rights. Interestingly this article is on the Women's page! After all, where else should a story about parenting go? Here is a much better commentary by journalist Melanie Phillips."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/21/2046206.shtml

Russian Army Crippled by Bullying

Adam · 21 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Russia has 2-years compulsory military service for all men (none for women!) However, the army is crippled by a culture of bullying which causes widespread misery, has led to suicides, and reduces combat effectiveness. I wonder if other armies are so different. This is another issue to consider when talking about the draft. Article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/21/2048204.shtml

Double standards - incessant

Adam · 21 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

robrob writes "A female prison officer has successfully argued that it is sexual discrimination against her that she has to strip-search male inmates. Of course, female inmates enjoy the privilege of only being strip searched by female officers. She, the employment tribunal and the BBC seem oblivious to the double standard. Men can be strip-searched by men or women, women can be strip-searched by women only. The female officers that strip-search the men are discriminated against. Mind boggling.....read it here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/21/2049216.shtml

All pregnant women to asked: "Does your husband beat you?"

Adam · 22 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "A truly terrifying turn of events here. All pregnant women in Britain, will in future be asked if their husbands (or boyfriends I guess) are beating them! Words fail me...

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/22/1811259.shtml

How to turn boys on to studying

Adam · 22 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This article is an unusual ray of optimism, showing what can be done to improve boys' educational performance. In short: stop treating them like girls."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/22/1813223.shtml

Another Step Toward Women In Combat?

Thomas · 23 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Washington Times reports here on another step by the Pentagon to move women closer to direct combat roles.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/23/0043224.shtml

Kerry: Learn about 'hard work' from women

Adam · 23 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "I got rather annoyed when reading about how John Kerry felt he had to deprecate men in order to pander to the women's voting bloc. He predictably throws in the old canard about the "wage gap" as well. I'm voting for Badnarik for President anyway (and Libertarian for the U. S. Congressional races as well). The CNN article is here (originally in Reuters):

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/23/1919215.shtml

Nuns take turns shooting burglar

Adam · 23 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Two nuns in Tunja took turns in shooting a burglar as he lay motionless. They were acquitted of murder on the grounds of self-defence. Story Here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/23/1919249.shtml

Plan To Jail Men For Questioning Feminism

Adam · 24 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jacob Kandlaker writes "Here is an interesting article I found about Feminist political action in Canada actually planning to arrest men that have the nerve to critizise Feminism in the Internet!

Canadian Feminazis Shock Plan To Jail Men For Questioning Feminism - by Steven Stevenson"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/24/1657231.shtml

Misandric Advertising

Adam · 24 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MassMutual is engaged in misandric advertising. One of the television commericials show the need to save for a girl who overcomes the glass ceiling to be a success. The other television commerical shows the need to save for a "deadbeat" son who never leaves home. Go to the MassMutual website and let them know how you feel about their misandry."

Anyone else seen this? If so, kindly verify.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/24/2044224.shtml

"Teen Action Campaign" Promotes One-Sided Views

Matt · 25 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Buddy-Rey writes " After seeing a TV commercial for http://www.seeitandstopit.org/, an anti-Domestic Violence group sponsored by the Ad Council, I visited their website, just to see what the whole thing was all about. It seemed pretty harmless, but then I noticed something. Out of two TV spots, one radio spot, and six profiles, not ONE featured a female abuser, or referenced a woman's capacity for violence, except toward female victims.

If you're as incensed as I am after seeing it, contact here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/25/0156208.shtml

Some election time humor for you

Matt · 25 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Given some conversations I have heard, this one comes to mind....

Once upon a time, living in a cotton field, was a rather large community of boll weevils. There happened to be in one weevil family two brothers. The first was rather lazy and spent a lot of time hanging out drinking beer and smoking. He got little or no exercise except for jumping to conclusions, watched TV a lot and generally didn't lift a finger all day. Predictably, he didn't do a lick of work. Why his parents put up with him is anyone's guess since he lived with them well into adulthood. Now, the second brother was studious, industrious, and thrifty, always looking for ways to better himself. He got lots of exercise, worked hard, saved money, went to college, and otherwise made his parents proud as punch, opening no fewer than three new businesses, writing 4 books, and did a successful break-out marathon on the book-signing and talk-show circuit. He had his sites set on the governor's mansion and he was only 28 years old (in weevil years)! He positively shown bright from among the weevil peoples.

So naturally the first of the two brothers was known among the insects of the field as the lesser of two weevils.

=)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/25/1636229.shtml

Pro-Male NH State Rep Needs Your Help

Scott · 26 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

NH State Representative David Bickford is seeking re-election this fall and is taking out newspaper ads for his campaign. I can attest to Rep. Bickford's motivation and values to improve the state of men's and father's rights. He is probably the most consistently pro-male lawmaker in the country. Rep. Bickford has been the most important sposnor of father friendly-legislation in the state, and has a strong strategic sense of how to succeed in his work. He is tirelessly helping to make steady progress in NH, and by example, for the rest of the country. Rep. Bickford helped establish the first state Commission on the Status of Men in the country, and he needs your financial help to continue his work. Please Read More below to view a list of his recent activity and information on where to send donations to.

Rep. David Bickford writes:

Please consider helping me win another term as NH State Representative for District #3 with a campaign contribution to me.

I know we're up against another tough year. We've awakened the opposition with the passage of some of the following bills I sponsored:

HB 587 of 2002 established a Commission on the Status of Men. The mission of the Commission includes promoting education and policies that bring fathers and children closer together, with an emphasis on the importance of the role of the father in child development.

HB 299 of 2004 that ended the court's ability to order divorced parent to pay their adult child's college expenses.

HB 1312 of 2004 ending the court's ability to extend child support obligations after high school.

HB 447 of 2003 limiting retroactive child support awards to no more than 3 months of paternity action.

HB 509 of 2001 sets a 5 year statute of limitations for spousal support orders, also known as alimony.

HB 674 of 2003 Prior to any order authorizing foster care placement, the child protective service worker shall inform the judge of efforts to locate any non-custodial parent for placement.

I missed getting signs out in the communities due to a water main that broke in a community system I own. The leak is repaired and I'm now cleaning up from the backhoe work and fixing equipment. Now I'm ready to go after re-election.

I can make up for time by advertising in the local newspaper. It costs $255 per ad, 2" x 3.5" in size and twice that for the next size larger.

Please make check to Rep. David A. Bickford and state "re-election contribution" in the memo line of the check.

Send check to:

Rep. David A. Bickford

183 Brackett Road

New Durham, NH 03855

(603) 859-7899

david1@worldpath.net

Your generosity and help are greatly needed and appreciated.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/26/1246208.shtml

Shhh! Don't Tell Anyone

Adam · 26 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "Chuck Shepard's News of the Weird continues to be the prime source for men's rights news, this time with the lead story that a court in California has refused the LA child support agency its request that a reversal of paternity be kept secret, with the intention of preventing other falsely named fathers from finding out precedent has been set for DNA evidence to be used to clear them. The media that originally published this story was the Reverend Moon's own Washington Times. Nothing like seeing the principles of an open and honest society at work."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/26/1728247.shtml

UK Gov. Promotes Workplace Myths

Adam · 26 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The UK government has bought into the feminist mythology about the workplace. This BBC article tells how Secretary Patricia Hewitt will announce a new drive to help women who want to work in 'male dominated sectors', such as IT and science, at a Downing Street conference on Tuesday."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/26/1730210.shtml

Rape? RAPE!?

Adam · 27 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "Why, I think this article is a first! Or at least, a first in recent memory: a news organization actually using the term 'rape' in association with a woman "having sex" with her students. Check it out."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/27/190204.shtml

Sexist Volkswagen

Adam · 27 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In Australia Volkswagen advertised the Golf in TV ads that objectified men. Women driving the cars were using the rear vision mirrors to ogle men's crotches. The punch line of the ad revolved around objects viewed in the mirror may appear larger.

What I found totally offensive is the fact that the Australian Advertising Standards Bureau found the ad acceptable yet if any ad reversed the roles and had men ogling women, the ad would never have aired."

Anyone verify and got contact links? Let's get some activism going.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/27/194220.shtml

Woman attacks co-worker over promotion

Matt · 28 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A woman cut the brake cables on her male co-worker's car, because he got the promotion she wanted. The judge gave her 4 years. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/28/1528236.shtml

Female Men's Rights Activist Is Number One

Thomas · 28 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Canadian Senator Ann Cools has been voted the top woman in the Toronto Sun's 10 Top Women poll. She's a men's rights activist.

Senator Cools received nearly 50% of the votes, mostly from men. Are men's rights activists starting to gain serious attention? You'd better believe it!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/28/2131254.shtml

Female Sexual Harrassment Predator FAILS!

Adam · 29 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes " Bill O'Reilly, the top ranked Fox News commentator as we all know was hit by a sexual harassment lawsuit by one of his female co workers. He countersued on the complaint that the female accuser and her ambulance chasing male lawyer were just working a corporate shakedown scheme to get $60 million dollars to drop the suit.

The news is that both complaints have been dropped with the female predator admitting that no harassment took place.

But before this resolution it was widely reported that Bill O'Reilly would be forever damaged by this accusation whether or not he prevailed against the accuser. Just the mere fact that a man has been charged with the dire act of sexual harassment is enough to ruin a vibrant career.

However, since the accusation, Mr. O'Reilly's show's ratings, which where in the top percentile before the slander, have skyrocketed an amazing 30%!!!

Maybe this is a sign that the majority of the public is becoming wise to the sexual harassment gambit played by golddigging females to advance their careers?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/29/1758218.shtml

Article on Domestic Violence

Adam · 29 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This article from the 'lectric law library' debunks many of the myths about DV, and contains many useful facts and figures."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/29/1759226.shtml

UNH Student Evicted From Dorm for Posting Flyer That Insulted Women

Scott · 29 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

UNH continues its administrative assault on men. A male sophomore student, Timothy Garneau, posted a flyer in his dorm hall suggesting that female students could lose the "freshman fifteen" by taking the stairs instead of the elevator if they only live a few floors up. The offensive (and admittedly tasteless) flyer was removed within two hours and the student promptly found guilty of violating policies on affirmative action, harassment and disorderly conduct. He was evicted from his dorm and now lives out of his car. The Foundation for Individual Rights in Education is defending him.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/29/2131223.shtml

Women excluded from DV pledge

Matt · 31 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "In Austin, the annual pledge against domestic violence took place with great fanfare outside the Capitol steps, and you guessed it - only MEN were called upon to make the pledge. The local shelter (which claims to accept male victims as well as female) called SafePlace can be reached here for anyone wishing to ask them why women are not called upon to promise not to commit violence against men and children. And why not also have women promise not to provoke violent responses from men by throwing and breaking things, or lying about sexual assault? I suspect they accept male DV victims (in theory) to get around legal funding problems, while never admitting that women also commit DV."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/30/229208.shtml

Woman dissolves husband in acid bath over child custody

Adam · 31 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "I think this happened in 2003, but I just came across it. Those child custody battles can get very messy..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/31/1913211.shtml

The Price of the Fatherless Family

Adam · 31 October 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Remember Germaine Greer praising divorce?

After 30 years of socially re-engineering the family, this excellent site shows the truly horrible results.
"The weight of evidence indicates that the traditional family based upon a married father and mother is still the best environment for raising children"

All fathers need to read this."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/10/31/1913252.shtml

False Rape Accusation was Revenge

Adam · 1 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A woman whose anonymmity is protected falsely accused teacher Giles Rush of rape after a date. He left immediately after sex and she wanted to teach him a lesson. Story here, but check out this commentary by Victoria Coren in the highbrow London Observer - apparently Mr Rush got just what he deserved. Even dating is becoming increasingly dangerous..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/01/1936218.shtml

Fatal Fathers No.1 for killing pregnant women

Adam · 1 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

SJones writes "The A&E Network is as I write this running a "Special Presentation" program called "Fatal Fathers" in which it promotes the sexist lie that fathers are the number 1 cause of death for pregnant women.

Here is their advertisement for this misandric propaganda:

"The death of Laci Peterson has captivated the nation--but it turns out that her tragic case is part of a much larger phenomenon supported by a frightening statistic--the leading cause of death for pregnant women is murder...by a spouse, partner, or ex. In this hour, we will examine this phenomenon and help shed light on a subject that is currently only whispered about. Includes interviews with leading experts and the words of a man who actually killed his pregnant wife."

If possible, write or call them and complain loudly. Get someone in person on the telephone if possible. I have searched their website and not found any available means of communicating with them. Here is all I found and it appears to be nothing more than a message board in which the offensive program is not even offered as an option."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/01/1942252.shtml

The New Enforcers

Adam · 2 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "This is a comment on how Boston's media favor females in positions of power. Boston's new Police Commissioner Kathleen O'Toole took over the police department after February's Super Bowl riots which left one man dead. The newspapers vigorously attacked the previous police chief and forged public opinion in favor of O'toole. Now less than a year later the same police department shot and killed a girl during the Red Sox celebration (not a riot) and the media has not once looked to the top (O'toole) for accountability. Instead the leading newspaper has an article honoring (?) the new heads of the police, prison, and sheriff's departments – all who are woman who have careers in domestic violence policy. Just to remind people, MA has biased and fascist DV policy. Remember this before voting anyone from MA into any office. Article

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/02/2011222.shtml

"Should Have Kicked You Higher And Harder"

Adam · 2 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Benjamin Adam Studtmann writes "We are all taught that we must endlessly respect and nurture diversity of all forms -- race, religion, age, sex, and political leanings. Unless you're a female college professor -- in which case, you can assault any male student you like if he's wearing a GOP T-shirt to class."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/02/2012224.shtml

A&E Program Propagates False Information

Matt · 3 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

SJones writes "The A&E Network is as I write this running a "Special Presentation" program called Fatal Fathers in which it promotes the sexist lie that fathers are the number one cause of death for pregnant women.

Here is their advertisement for this misandric propaganda:

"The death of Laci Peterson has captivated the nation--but it turns out that her tragic case is part of a much larger phenomenon supported by a frightening statistic--the leading cause of death for pregnant women is murder...by a spouse, partner, or ex. In this hour, we will examine this phenomenon and help shed light on a subject that is currently only whispered about. Includes interviews with leading experts and the words of a man who actually killed his pregnant wife."

If possible, write or call them and complain loudly. Get someone in person on the telephone if possible."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/03/1658227.shtml

Title IX Run Amok

Adam · 4 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "As the Kansas City Star reported, St. Mary's voluntarily forfeited its Sept. 24 football game against White City High School when it learned that White City's roster included a 14-year-old freshman girl who plays offensive and defensive line. Title IX is not mentioned in this here article. But it's in there nonetheless. Despite those here who rail against chivalry, the point being driven home here is not chivalry, but the foolish, feminist-driven notion that there is no difference between boys and girls."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/04/1652221.shtml

No Wine Without Wife's Permission?

Thomas · 4 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

It seems that in Bihar, India, men may soon face three years in prison if they consume alcohol without written permission from their wives.

Sometimes I think that instead of throwing a party for a man before he gets married, his male friends and family members should dress him up like a corpse, have him lie in a coffin, and hold a funeral ceremony.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/04/1852234.shtml

A History Lesson

Adam · 4 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This BBC article says "The greatest Victorian serial killer wasn't Jack the Ripper, as you may think. It was a woman! In 1873…Mary Ann Cotton was hanged and it was believed she had murdered three husbands and 15 of her children! Mary Ann is forgotten while Jack the Ripper, who killed half the number of victims, is remembered. Strange." More info here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/04/1653217.shtml

Humor is dangerous to your health...?

Adam · 5 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Gilligan writes "Here's another one from the halls of Political Correctness. Timothy Garneau posted fliers in his dorm which suggested that some of the women in the dorm could lose weight by taking the stairs instead of using the elevators. His intent was to humourously suggest a way to relieve congestion, since many students were using the elevators to go up one or two floors, and he lived on the seventh floor. UNH's Judicial & Mediation Programs Office initially found Garneau responsible for harassment, disorderly conduct, violating affirmative action policies and lying. The Judicial Affairs Office at the university found Garneau guilty of all charges, sentenced him to immediate expulsion from student housing and put him on probation through May 30, 2006. He was also required to meet with a counselor to discuss his actions, write a 3,000-word reflection paper about the session and write a letter of apology to residents of Stokes Hall. Fortunately, he was able to fight the sentence with the help of the Foundation for Individual Rights in Education and has since moved back into campus housing. You can read the entire article here:

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/05/1923209.shtml

Equal numbers of men as women are assaulted

Adam · 5 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "This story claims that one in three assault victims treated at casualty departments in Wales, is there as the result of domestic violence. And of those, a quarter of the victims are men. Hardly an insignificant amount!

The article then goes on to say that an Israeli report suggests that there are equal numbers of men and women subject to domestic violence.
article
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/05/1925206.shtml

Another Gendercide?!

Matt · 6 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Jacob Kandlaker writes "Look:
Falluja emptied of women and children

Only women and children allowed to leave the city Falluja at Iraq, so only men will die in cross-fire zone, even if they are totaly unarmed and innocent! It's seems that when it's comes to massive death of men, nobody care that men are dying like flies and it's even doesn't get into the catagory of human rights violation or war crime!

Where are all those so-called brave Feminist women who demand equal rights?? They will fight for women's politictal representaion in Afghanistan but mass death of many thousands of civilian males it's "OK"!

That's a GENDERCIDE!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/05/2351210.shtml

Female Supremacists and Lesbian Separatists Agenda

Matt · 6 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This is an excerpt of James Roger Brown's The Family Defense Manual. It's an eye opener where he describes how radical Feminists are trying to subvert males and normal nuclear marriage. One quote from the excerpt is an example of the information he uses to base his argument: "I claim that rape exists any time sexual intercourse occurs when it has not been initiated by the woman, out of her own genuine affection and desire."

I don't know if this has been posted before, but it is an eye opener."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/06/001233.shtml

Glass ceiling not so urgent?

Adam · 6 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "From this press release:

BOSTON, MA (PRWEB) October 21, 2004 -- When asked what causes them the most stress in the office, the majority of the 2,000 members surveyed by the Downtown Women's Club (DWC) -- a business networking organization for women -- ranked "too much work" well above the "glass ceiling."

Looks like the "glass ceiling" is not regarded as the most important problem. But here comes the surprise:

What is surprising is the low ranking of stress about the glass ceiling and lack of equal pay. Especially when, for the first time in 12 years, we have seen an increase in the gender gap, with women make only 75.5 cents for every dollar that men earn, according to a release this summer by the U.S. Census Bureau. "It's almost a Catch-22 where women are working too much to focus on the gender gap, and as a result are creating a situation where they'll have to work even harder and longer for less money in the future," concluded Danielson.

Now it looks like women work too much, therefore they cannot spare some time to complain about the gender gap (?)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/06/223209.shtml

www.parents4protest.co.uk features Geldof videos

Matt · 7 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Layton Bevan of http://www.parents4protest.co.uk contacted MANN administrators to let us know that a series of new web-based videos was available for viewing on their web site, featuring Bob Geldof advocating for father's rights. Please take a look and support their efforts!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/06/2215235.shtml

Woman accused of severing man's penis

Adam · 7 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "When a woman cuts off her partner's penis, it is not domestic violence, it is a joke, or a noble revolutionary act. But if a man was to cut his partner's genitalia while she slept, it would be a hate crime, a gross act of misogyny.
Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/07/201229.shtml

Ejaculation may protect against cancer

Adam · 8 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A US scientific study finds that men who ejaculate frequently are less prone to prostate cancer: "Although much more research remains to be done, the take home message is that ejaculation is not harmful, and very probably protective of prostatic health - and it feels good!" There are implications for social attitudes towards male sexuality - the fact is, masturbation is good for you! Article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/07/1959226.shtml

Sacks Launches New Campaign--Men, Take Action!

Matt · 8 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

. writes "Radio talk show host Glenn Sacks has launched a new campaign--this time against an insulting Verizon DSL commercial. In the commercial a father is trying to help his young daughter with her homework when he is belittled and scolded by his wife, who orders him to 'leave her alone!' and go wash the dog. To view the ad and participate in the campaign, go to http://hisside.com/verizon_campaign.htm"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/08/1816232.shtml

Procreation Bans in Parole

Adam · 10 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "A month ago the Supreme Court of Ohio didn't overturned a lower court decision to prohibit the fathering of additional children by a father on probation for failure to pay his child support charges Fox News Reference. The Court of Ohio failed dodged the issue of whether such a restriction was legal in favor of overruling this particular case on the grounds that there was no provision for the man to pay up and then have more kids.

By way of comparison, People v. Pointer (California, 1984 available at Findlaw.com, free registration required) the Supreme Court of California found that a similar prohibition for a female convicted of child abuse and neglect was too great an inhibition on her constitutional rights :

"[5d] The challenged condition was apparently not intended to serve any rehabilitative purpose but rather to protect the public by preventing injury to an unborn child. We believe this salutary purpose can adequately be served by alternative restrictions less subversive of appellant's fundamental right to procreate."

A similar ruling was handed down by the Supreme Court of California in 1992, People v. Zaring after a judge there ordered a mother of five and heroin/cocaine addict not to conceive as a term of her probation. The California Supreme Court overturned that, saying

"Recognizing that drug addiction could have an adverse impact on the unborn, we must conclude under the law that even if we were to assume arguendo that the safeguarding of the health of any yet to be conceived unborn child of appellant may properly be the subject of probation conditions, it is clear to us that other conditions, less drastic than an outright ban on pregnancy, could be used here to accomplish this objective, just as they could have been used in Pointer."

They also quoted similar rulings from Kansas, Ohio and Florida, all of which illustrates a clear double standard with respect to procreation. A woman's right to concieve is inviolate, despite convictions of child endangerment, child abuse, neglect or even kidnapping. A man's right to procreate is fair game for having incurred a bad debt."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/10/1851219.shtml

29 Year Old Woman Arrested for Sex with 8 Year Old

Matt · 11 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

amperro writes "How much longer will the feminists deny that this crime happens?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/10/2241235.shtml

Woman Reportedly Tortures 'Special Needs' Students

Matt · 11 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "A 48-year-old teacher in Seminole County, Fla., is accused of torturing her autistic students, including allegedly rubbing a child's face in vomit and slamming another child's head so hard that he lost his front teeth."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/11/1750224.shtml

Chemical castration for sex offenders in France

Matt · 11 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "France introduces chemical castration for sex offenders - but only for male ones. Sweden and Germany already use it. Story here".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/11/1751246.shtml

Liza Minnelli Sued Over Sexual Harasment

Matt · 11 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Story here.

I know, I know, innocent until proven guilty. Indeed, he may be making the whole thing up just to get money. Then again, maybe not. Suppose she'll be given the benefit of the doubt because she's a she? I am betting so. We all know what happens in that regard when the sexes are reversed though don't we?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/11/1754249.shtml

Female Mobs Murder Men Who Were Freed by Courts

Thomas · 12 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Remind me never to visit India.

Mobs of women are attacking and killing or burning down the houses of men, some of whom were set free by the courts after being accused of rape and other crimes. In one case, a man was stabbed and stoned to death in court by a mob led by women. Police detained five women, but released them in response to public outcry.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/11/2054232.shtml

More Truth about Male DV Victims

Thomas · 12 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

And more lies from the British government, I'm afraid. We've sure got a long way to go, with governments largely controlled by feminist hate-mongers, but at least the truth is starting to come out.

The article states, "Men accounted for 34 per cent of victims last year, compared with 27 per cent the year before," but I suspect that the difference is due not only to an increase in victimization of males but to the fact that male victims are starting to come forward.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/11/216220.shtml

U.S. Won't Let Men Flee Fallujah

Adam · 12 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dave K writes ″

After arguing that the US wouldn't do this (in a thread below)... I have to admit this is exactly what they're doing.

Looks like their belief is that it's better to force male refugees back into the city to prevent any combatants to escape than to incarcerate them. Obviously they don't want combatants in jail... they want them dead, and are willing to risk the lives of (an admittedly low percentage of) innocent Iraqi males still in the city to do it.

It's a sad thing, right or wrong."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/12/1939229.shtml

Yeah, She's the Victim Here

Adam · 12 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The_Beedle writes "This woman intentionally causes a collision and then babbles at the Police that she was trying to hurt her boyfriend, yet the press is calling it 'Road Rage'. What does a woman have to do before it's labelled Domestic Violence?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/12/1941208.shtml

Police Use Tazer on 6-YO Boy

Matt · 13 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I wonder if the police would have done the same thing had a 6-YO girl been behaving this way? I can only imagine what sort of effects this will have on him, as clearly he is already very disturbed by something going on in his life and/or mind. I wonder if the officers will even get into any serious trouble for what they did? Now contrast the concern for his well-being as compared to the concern for this girl's, both appearing as links on CNN's home page as of this writing. Would these stories be written the same way had the sexes been reversed? You bet they would not have.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/12/214244.shtml

Respectyourman.org - Australian web site

Matt · 14 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The operator of http://www.respectyourman.org/ contacted MANN administrators to let us know of his site. Please take a minute to visit it. There's some good stuff there.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/13/2226235.shtml

Anti-boy Toys "R" Us commercial

Matt · 15 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Toys "R" Us has an anti-boy commercial on TV showing two boys exiting their bedroom at the same time. They get stuck in the door and are apparently too stupid to figure out how to solve the problem. Their sister condescendingly says "Maybe next year boys," while reading a Toys "R" Us catalog. She goes into her bedroom and closes the door, which has a sign saying "Girls Rule, Boys Drool."

Contact these jerks here or call 1-888-869-7932. The Toys "R" Us corporate Web site is at http://www.toysrusinc.com."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/15/066231.shtml

FL Police's Second Tazer Use Incident

Matt · 15 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

This time, they used a tazer on a 12-YO girl who was believed to be drunk, skipping class, and fleeing police. According to the article, that use of the tazer was apparently wrong-- but not the other one wherein they used it on a 6-YO boy who apparently could not be stopped from self-injury any other way.

No 2x-standards here... nope...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/15/0613204.shtml

Swedes Post Photos of Men Violating Women's integrity

Adam · 16 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "A news item posted on the iFeminist site reports that a Swedish newspaper plans to publish the names and photos of men "convicted of violating the integrity of women."

Apparently women are born with this "integrity chromosome..."

It's hard to believe that American feminists have overlooked this lucrative scam to further criminalize maleness.

(Brief article here) -

Swedish newspaper to name men guilty of violence against women

STOCKHOLM : A Swedish newspaper announced on Saturday it would break with press custom and in future publish the names and photographs of men found guilty of violence against women.

Norrlaendska Socialdemokraten, the leading newspaper of the northern region of Norrbotten, made the announcement after a local man killed his ex-wife, a mother of three, with an axe.

"We will in future publish the names of men convicted of violating the integrity of women (the legal definition in Sweden of any form of violence or threat against women), together with photographs if we have these," wrote editor Lennart Haakansson.

He said there were men who "committed systematic, serious and repeated violence and acts of repression against women, worthy of the worst mafiosi."

"Very often they use violence against women they have just met," the editor continued.

He said his newpsaper's action, rare in the Swedish press in such cases, was in the public interest.

"We consider it important to let our women readers know the identities of individuals to avoid." – AFP

Full Story"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/2012222.shtml

UK Anti-Male Paedophile Witch-Hunt Continues

Adam · 16 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A new report claims that the conviction rate for child sex abuse is too low. Particularly worrying is the call for "better handling of "soft" information - such as anecdotal evidence of past wrongdoings". Are more men going to be jailed on the basis of gossip? As usual, no mention of women offenders, no mention of false accusations.

Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/2013212.shtml

Female sexual abuse more common than thought.

Adam · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dave K writes "From the Herald Sun via MND: here

It seems that adult women abusing young men may... JUST MAY... be more of a problem than previously thought. In fact, I'll bet a dollar that it just may be more prevelant (due to it's virtually OPEN acceptance in society) than the reverse (which will get you jail time).

I know I was propositioned by an older woman when I was Well under 18. I distinctly recall thinking she was ANCIENT... 30 or maybe 35! I know friends who's first experiences were with "older" women. To be honest I didn't think anything of it at the time, but how many young men get pulled into those sorts of relationships... I'll go out on a short limb and say "A LOT".

So lets encourage the study of this sort of behavior, lets point out all the Mary Kay's out there. Our young men need as much if not MORE (slower development remember?) protection from predatory women as young women need from predatory men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/2014253.shtml

Government Women's Health website

Matt · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

SJones writes "The U.S. government is spending a large amount of our tax dollars for the Women's Health network, while spending nothing for men's health. They have set up a website, http://www.4woman.gov/, which includes not only information about women's health issues, but also the usual disproven female supremacist propaganda about violence against women, and suprisingly a link to minor information about men's health.

Click "Read More" for more information...
The link leads to a page defining men and men's health in female terms, as if males are a new life form that we know little about. Under the "men's" links about violence is more propaganda about violence against women. The women's pages open with Netscape or Internet Explore, but the men's pages don't work with Netscape.

Complain to your Congressmen about the discrimination of not funding a Men's Health network equal to the one they created for women as well as about the feminist propaganda on the women's page. We have fought this before, but it isn't over. We have to keep fighting until they stop blocking the use of taxmoney for men's health research and education and establish a website for men's health issues. If there is a 4woman.gov site then there should be a 4men.gov site. And there should be an equal amount of taxmoney spent on men's health research and education as is spent on women's."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/225254.shtml

Radio Program on Equal Pay

Matt · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The BBC radio show Woman's Hour is both a national institution and a feminist mouthpiece. Here is a recent item they covered "Gateshead Council is giving a pay-out to female employees but not to the men who work alongside them". You need RealPlayer to listen."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/227210.shtml

29 year old woman "has affair with" 8-year-old boy

Matt · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "A 29 year old woman called Tammy Imre has 'sex' with an eight year old boy!

What's the betting she doesn't get sent to prison? I'm sure she'll be declared 'insane' and given three months in a hospital. If the sexes were reversed of course, the man would be facing life behind bars."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/229256.shtml

"Mother" starves sons to death

Matt · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

This story made it to the front page of cnn.com, but only as an off-link. Well, sometimes, it does happen that these kinds of stories are not totally buried on page G67. Note she had a history of child abuse and neglect but that wasn't enough to get her custody of these children called into question; apprently it isn't a priority to save the lives of children, particularly when they are male and when the abuser is their "mother".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/16/2217244.shtml

More failure at the UK Child Support Agency

Adam · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The UK government agency responsible for seizing fathers' income, the Child Support Agency, continues to be a national embarrassment. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/17/1830222.shtml

1990s UK Child Abuse Witch Hunt

Adam · 17 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Britain has been in the grip of a child-abuse witch-hunt since the mid-1980s. As a result, innocent men have gone to prison and many children have been removed from their families unnecessarily. This article traces the history of the sorry affair, and notes that feminists have played a significant role in stirring up the hysteria. Also see the excellent site of writer Richard Webster."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/17/1831230.shtml

Alberta Council of Women's Shelters ad campaign

Adam · 18 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Kavius writes "I heard a radio ad this morning sponsored by the Alberta Council of Women's Shelters (http://www.acws.ca).

The ad features a 911 call of a little girl crying asking for help while her parent fight in the background. Right at the end of the ad, the little girls screams "DON'T HIT MY MOMMY!".

In my opinon, this was reasonable (difficult to listen too, but reasonable), until the little girl screamed those words. Unless the ACWS has the intention of running similar ads where the father is the victim (which would not make sense since they are a Women's group) these ads are damaging.

I have written a letter to both Country 105 (who played the advertisement: http://www.country105.com), and the Alberta Council of Women's Shelters, indicating that I consider the ad to be inflamitory and damaging to men's reputations who may be the victims of domestic violence.

I was not impressed the response from the radio station and am still waiting on a response from the ACWS. I'll post that as a comment."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/17/1833231.shtml

More on the Baby Bust

Thomas · 18 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Here's more info and commentary on the growing baby bust in developed nations. The writer comments that women are having fewer children because: "Women are putting off childbirth, either for financial reasons or because they want to establish their careers first. High house prices have made it impossible for many couples of child-bearing age to afford a home large enough in which to bring up a family." In typical fashion, the author doesn't mention the wide scale destruction of male-female relations as a direct result of feminism. He also avoids mention of any male-specific reasons for avoiding parenthood. The explosion in divorce rates, the systematic separation of many fathers from their children, the high rate of paternity fraud, the financial exploitation of fathers after divorce, and the associated and growing marriage strike (which may well be occuring in Australia as it is in the US) fail to warrent his attention.

Please see "Read More."There are a few problems with the article's analysis. First of all, men's specific needs must be addressed in any honest attempt to solve the soon-to-be devastating aging and collapse of populations. Second, proposed solutions involve greater government intrusion into the family. Third, a bonus of £3,000 to new parents might encourage poor couples to have a child that they otherwise wouldn't have, if only to get a desperately needed short-term financial boost. But I suspect that few solidly middle class and wealthy couples will have children that they otherwise wouldn't have, just to get the £3,000. As a result, there will probably be a further drain on government finances (such as welfare payments), which are already approaching collapse due to increasing inability to make transfer payments, such as Social Security in the US. And this approaching collapse is a direct result of the baby bust. We may already be caught in a dangerous positive feedback loop.

Such proposals ask the government to do too little too late and show no awareness of the specific concerns of men, who are, after all, potential parents.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/18/1931221.shtml

Growing Awareness of Sexual Abuse by Females

Thomas · 19 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

By the day, the feminist delusion that females are victims and males are evil continues to collapse. Here's commentary on the growing awareness of sexual abuse of children by females. Now I wish they'd more frequently address the often hidden and ignored violent abuse of children by women.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/18/1939205.shtml

Dying Woman Confesses To Mudering Her Husband

Matt · 19 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

thea writes "CNN's website reports on a woman confessing to murdering her husband and getting rid of his body in a much similar and gruesome form of a serial killer on her deathbed to one of her children. Would it have made any difference had she lived and been arrested? Or would she have gotten a slap on the wrist with a "distraught" defense, then a book and movie deal? Oh and don't forget an interview with Oprah and ABC."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/19/1926228.shtml

WashPost.com: Mother Charged in 1972 Murder of Son

Matt · 19 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Do my eyes deceive me? The Washington Post's web site home page as of this writing has a large link to this story. I decided to post this under "Media" because while of course the story content is very significant, we all know women murdering their own kids is not new. However the Post putting link to such a story on its home page sure is.

Click "Read more..." for more.A quote from the article:

"It is quite an unusual case," Baltimore County police spokesman Bill Toohey said yesterday. "It's old, the mother is accused of killing her child, and the tip came from another child."

Actually Mr. Toohey, it's not unusual at all. It's just unusal that it gets reported on.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/19/1931230.shtml

F4J USA on way!

Adam · 20 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "From the Men's Hour Blog

Father4Justice is coming to the United States of America (big place, across the Atlantic, you can't miss it). F4J USA operations will commence in 2005. The full press release is at Fathers 4 Justice Announce US Launch & Co-ordinator and there's a photo of the F4J co-ordinators conference in England at conference. Jamil, USA co-ordinator, is bottom left next to one of the Supermen."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/20/1650225.shtml

White Feather Feminism

Adam · 20 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "In Britain during WWI groups of feminists, including the great Pankhursts, used public humiliation to coerce men into enlisting in the army by presenting them with white feathers, a symbol of cowardice. Next time you hear a feminist complain about male aggression don't forget to remind her of this. Articles here and here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/20/1659213.shtml

F4J Protester handcuffs himself to Children's Minister

Adam · 20 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "In another dramatic demonstration, the same Fathers4Justice protester who climbed Buckingham Palace and stood on the Queen's Balcony handcuffs himself to Children's Minister Margaret Hodge during a conference. Story Here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/20/172233.shtml

Massachusetts Dads' group pushes for fairness

Adam · 21 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Scott Haltzman writes "

- DADS' GROUP PUSHES FOR FAIRNESS IN CUSTODY LAWS
Lowell Sun
November 14, 2004
By JULIE MEHEGAN, Sun Statehouse Bureau

BOSTON - Advocates for divorced fathers say they won their first fight by convincing voters that shared custody of children is a good idea.

Now, they hope to win over the state Legislature.

On Election Day, voters approved a non-binding question backed by Fathers & Families, seeking to reform custody laws. "This is a great step in the right direction for kids," said Ned Holstein, president of the nonprofit advocacy group. "We now have both the voters and the researchers agreeing that the best thing for children is spending a lot of time with both parents."

Holstein and Garry said they will press to ensure family courts enter divorce proceedings under the assumption both parents want and are entitled to shared legal and physical custody."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/20/174214.shtml

Another Male denigrating TV commercial

Adam · 21 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "I keep seeing this really annoying Dell Computer commercial airing on TV stations. I just saw it this morning on the FOX cable channel in Los Angeles. In alternating scenes, a young man is sitting at his computer: playing cards, cutting and pasting his head on statues, crying at a scene of a dog running on the beach. He is then shown "rocking out" to music as he is uses drum sticks on the back of his chair to keep rhythm.

At this point a woman with blond stringy hair barges in and asks, "How are the bills coming?" Is this woman his wife or his mother? She could be either. The young man says, "okay" or something like that, the woman leaves, and he goes back to what he was doing. Moments later the woman barges back in again, this time hurling the door open with no regard for what, or who, is on the other side, and the young man says, "What?" In the final scene after Dell shows some of it product, the man is shown really rocking out, jumps on a chair and falls on the floor like a "big dufus." "

More below."One can only wonder, "Is Dell trying to send a message to half the population (males) that they should buy a Dell Computer and then make payments in an irresponsible manner?"

This commercial portrays the male as an irresponsible bill payer and the female as a physically aggressive, authoritarian figure who has power and control over the male, and who needs to "mother" the male to make sure he is responsibly paying his bills. What would be the public response if the sex roles were reversed and the male was treating the female in this way? The female's controlling behavior, when viewed in light of domestic violence industry parameters, clearly qualifies as a form of domestic violence. Imagine the revictimization and trauma that a male victim of domestic violence feels when seeing this commercial. If you are as tired of seeing this demeaning, "male bashing" commercial as I am, then write to Dell Computers here:

Dell Inc.

One Dell Way

Round Rock, Texas 78682

United States

They're web site only has this email feedback for its web site here and here is their customer care phone # 800-624-9897."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/21/2034227.shtml

British Govt still promoting DV myths

Adam · 21 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The UK govt announces additional funding to deal with DV against ethnic minority women.

"We are targeting domestic violence in general and that includes all women."

Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/21/2035212.shtml

Kobe's Story to be made into a film in India

Adam · 21 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bharati writes "The abbaas Mastan Duo are planning a release of the film "Aitbaar" here
This is loosly based on the trials and Tribulations of Kobe Bryant though it will be Indianised by having Songs and Dances In words of Abbas "Basically, it is about how a woman can destroy a man's career by accusing him of sexual harassment. We have taken the idea from famous cases that hit the headlines - like the Kobe Bryant case, the South African judge accused of rape in Mumbai and other fairly frequent examples where women in corporate houses have accused men of sexual harassment. In some of these cases, men often turn out to be victims".

I think it would be a good watch given the fact that Abbas Mastan have produced really good movies in the past. It is due to be released soon."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/21/2040243.shtml

The Blue Ribbon Prostate Initiative

Adam · 22 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anon user writes "Blue Ribbon Prostate Initiative

I was watching "Deborah Norville Tonight" on MSNBC today (11/18) and saw a story about a prostate cancer awareness advertising campaign. The story focused on whether or not the ads were "appropriate" for children to view because of their slogans. (Of course, I don't think that similar ads for breast cancer awareness would be "inappropriate".)

Julie Lewit-Nirenberg, the President and CEO of the Blue Ribbon Prostate Initiative (BRPI), mentioned that prostate cancer awareness is important enough to justify the campaign that could save the lives of 30,000 men a year.

She also pointed out that prostate cancer is as dangerous for men as breast cancer is for women, something that MRAs already know, but it was the first time I saw something like this mentioned in the mainstream media. The BRPI was only formed a few months ago, and from what I saw on their web site, it looks promising!

From the BRPI web site:
"The Blue Ribbon Prostate Initiative was started by women who are veterans of the breast cancer wars. For several reasons, some of them selfish:

* We want our men healthy and able to perform.

* We want them alive.

* We have seen what the power of driven women can do.

* We have seen what information and ingenuity can do.

* We believe that saving men's lives is as important as saving women's lives."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/22/2132243.shtml

Woman plots to kill marine husband

Adam · 22 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A woman plotted to kill her husband, a marine serving in Kuwait, by getting her lover, another marine, to fake a terrorist attack. She had planned to make money from talk shows afterwards. She got 7 years, the lover 25. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/22/2135200.shtml

Australian Study Says Men Are Softies About Pain

Adam · 23 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dr. Dan writes "A study in Australia found that men take more narcotics than women even when the pain level is the same. "Men's reputations as being big softies when confronted with pain could also help explain the result," said Prof. Mari Botti, the woman who chairs the research unit where the study was done.

Isn't it tiresome that when men complain about pain, we're babies or "softies," but when we tough it out, we're harangued for just trying to be macho?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/22/2142214.shtml

Six-year-old accused of harassment

Matt · 24 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Cain writes "
The Queensland Government has ordered an investigation into why a six-year-old boy was suspended from school after being accused of sexual harassment.

The Year 1 student was sent home this week after he poked a female classmate on the bottom."

Story here

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/23/2032235.shtml

F4J Protester Makes International AP Headline News

Matt · 24 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Congratulations to F4J, once again! Driving into work today my commute was made bearable by the news on Washington, DC's WTOP radio news that F4J protester David Pyke, dressed as Santa Claus, handcuffed himself to Buckingham Palace's main gate! Wonderful!

More coverage at:

CNN.com

NYTimes.com

sfgate.com

Fox News

Click "Read More" link for more....As of this posting, this story is noticably absent from the Washington Post. You would think that they would at least mention it in their Europe section. Well if you feel moved to mention the omission to them, the e-mail address for feedback for that section is: world@washingtonpost.com. And to be fair, the Washington Times, which is considered ideologically contrary to the Post and more likely to take a less misandrist stance on news-related matters than the Post, is not covering the story either, even in their World section. It is available though if you search their AP news stories and is found here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/23/2115247.shtml

Murder and Mutilation by "Mother"

Matt · 24 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

OldManSenile writes "Dang, Where does it end. Check this article out.

A mother with a history of postpartum depression and psychosis cuts her childs arms off. She went through a 7 month investigation for alleged abuse in the past and the children services said she was fine.

Click "Read More" for more...
"Schlosser, who had a history of postpartum depression, had been investigated on child neglect allegations earlier this year, but Texas Child Protective Services had recently closed a seven-month investigation, concluding that Schlosser did not pose a risk to her children. Neighbors said she seemed to be a loving, attentive mother."

Of course about half way through the article is where all the excuses start filtering in:

"There were never any indications of violence with this family," agency spokeswoman Marissa Gonzales said," and "'At the time we closed the case, we had been assured that Mom was stabilized and that she was not a risk to herself or her children,' Geoff Wool, spokesman for the Family and Protective Services Department, said.'"

Top it all off, they want to interview the 2 surviving kids and the father before they decide if they want to remove the rest of the children from the home:

"Child-protective officials were interviewing Schlosser's daughters and would talk to the father before deciding whether to remove the girls from the home."

WTH she is a risk. Remove her from the home and into a psychiatric ward for evaluation then to court for prosecution."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/23/2119254.shtml

Links on manipulation

Adam · 24 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This page contains many links on the subject of manipulation and violence by women, lots of facts as well as information on how to protect yourself."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/24/1920201.shtml

Celebrate Thanksgiving

Matt · 25 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Celebrate Thanksgiving by thanking your favorite mactivist for his or her efforts in fighting anti-male bigotry and anti-male laws. I'd like to thank Ray, a regular right here on this site. As anyone who visits this site knows, Ray is a courageous and tireless fighter for men's basic human dignity. He drives a truck that shows the world the signs they need to see. He makes male-positive t-shirts and has given some for free to homeless persons. He's a deligent letter-writer on behalf of justice for men. In short, he's a real man, a guy fighting for a better life for all of us. THANKS RAY!!!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/25/1715226.shtml

Half of sub-Saharan African Adults with HIV are Women

Matt · 25 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "An article on CNN mentions that half of adults infected with HIV (in sub-Saharan Africa) are women. Doing the math, that must mean that the other half are men, worthy the same awareness as the female statistic. However, as usual, men are only mentioned in this article as a scapegoat for the rising infection rate in women."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/25/1717241.shtml

Nearly Half of AIDS Sufferers are Women! Shocking!

Matt · 25 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "Er... what about the other AIDS sufferers? Not worth making a fuss about them I suppose. Unbelievable...

"Record numbers of women with HIV"

"Nearly half of 37.2 million adults living with HIV are women, figures show."

I'd expect no more from the oh-so-feminist BBC though. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/25/1722230.shtml

The father they never had

Adam · 26 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

apetr writes "A moving article about a real life preacher acting as a role model for troubled boys. here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/26/1918247.shtml

Mom forces 12 yo son to rake leaves in the nude

Adam · 26 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bro writes "Here is the article. I wonder if this would have gone the same way if it was a father forcing a 12 yo girl to do this? It just goes to show how biased the judicial system is when a woman can do this to her son and only walk away with a possible slap on the wrist?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/26/1922200.shtml

A man shortage in London?

Adam · 27 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

According to this article
there is a man shortage in London, and it's going to get worse. However, I have a feeling the real meaning of this article can be found in this quote "This could make it increasingly hard for the city's women to settle down with their ideal partner, said Jenny Trent-Hughes, a relationship expert and agony aunt." Ah, that sounds about right. For "ideal" read: high earning man who enables her to stay at home, I think that's what they mean by man shortage. The question remains, with the "man shortage" bound to get worse, what will women's reaction be?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/26/2050214.shtml

Open letter to Mr. Paul Martin, PM of Canada

Matt · 27 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

MANN Admins received the following from William Levy of The Council for the Status of Men - Canada. It is as follows:

Council for the Status of Men - Canada

Conseil pour la Condition Masculine - Canada

344 Lagace, Dorval, Québec, Canada H9S 2M3

Tel: 514-999-0001 Email: csmcanada@hotmail.com

CANADIAN READERSHIP IS NOW OVER 106,231 STRONG !!

JOIN CSM TODAY AND HELP END GOVERNMENT ANTI-FAMILY TERRORISM

Press Release:

Open letter to Mr. Paul Martin

11-24-04

HOW MUCH MORE BLOOD Mr. Martin!

10 YEARS AND 30,000 MALE SUICIDES

- STILL NOT A PENNY FOR MEN

The Suicide Letter of Andrew T. Renouf (10 YEARS AGO October 17) - http://www.fact.on.ca/renouf/r_letter.htm

If Andy was a Woman, he would still be alive today, clothed and fed, seeing his now Adult daughter and getting money for his home and free counseling.

Click "Read more" for the rest of the letterLike half of the humans inhabiting Canada Andy had a penis! As such he did not qualify for keeping his parental, civil or human rights because of a change of marital status, or for any of the free shelters or services the government provides only for Canadians with Vaginas!

So he was murdered by his Canada through its disregard for the rule of law, human rights and the fundamental Principles of Justice in the matter of Canadians with Penises.

Andrew T. Renouf committed suicide on or about October 17, 1995 because he had 100% of his wages taken by the Family Responsibility Office, an agency of the Government of Ontario, Canada.

Should he have eaten Cake Mr. Martin (As Marie Antoinette said to the hungry masses ?)

We are still waiting for your pre-election promise to meet us Mr. Martin.

You do still have a penis do you not?

Respectfully,

William Levy

Ethics Committee

Cc: Worldwide friends, Media

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/27/061238.shtml

Jared's anti-male commercial reappears

Adam · 27 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "One of the anti-male Jared commercials reappeared on TV earlier this week. Please click on "Read More/Post Comments" to see my message to them at:

this link

"Jared has in the past run several commercials where the men who buy their wives Jared jewelry receive the incredulous response "He went to Jared!" In contrast, the men that don't are treated with disdain by their wives. Several months ago there was a letter writing campaign which targeted these commercials, resulting in an apologetic response from Jared.

For some time it appeared that these commercials had been taken off the air. Unfortunately, at least one of these commercials seems to have reappeared."

More Below.The one I am referring to starts with a social gathering in which one woman proudly proclaims to another that that her husband "Went to Jared." The other woman replies indignantly "Oh, really." Apparently her husband had the poor judgment to have purchased jewelry elsewhere. This woman then exacts revenge on her husband by dropping the offending piece of "non-Jared" jewelry in her husband's drink, to which he replies "What?"

Why do companies feel it is necessary to sell merchandise by putting men down in their advertisements? These commercials aren't flattering to women either, as the women in these commercials come across as spiteful and materialistic.

Please find an alternative way to advertise jewelry that treats both men and women with respect. After viewing these commercials, I'm more inclined to shop at a competitor. I know many other men feel the same, as we share our views on such anti-male advertising in numerous online forums which are viewed by thousands of people each day."

Steve

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/27/1948245.shtml

Doesn't anyone see this as child abuse??

Matt · 28 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

this is not equality writes "Granted, this is occuring in the middle east, but shouldn't someone be calling these mothers out for abusing their sons by encouraging them to commit suicide in the name of allah...by using lies, pressure, propoganda and pseudo-martyrdom status?!?!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/27/220222.shtml

The Ultimate Female Blame Shift Gambit!

Matt · 28 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here is an article about a woman who posed as a Saudi Princess and got a special big spender's credit card from American Express and maxed it out big time. Now she is claiming innocence and compensable injury because AmEx should have known she was a fake and mentally unbalanced and is suing them for $2,000,000. She is out of jail on $100,000 bail which she probably put on another credit card. Something gives me the feeling that she might win!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/27/222245.shtml

Husbands are jerks

Adam · 28 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

chicago joe writes "An article appearing in the Chicago Tribune today explored the controversy surrounding the use of a testosterone skin patch to treat female sexual dysfunction. In the article, Amy Allina, the Program and Policy Director for the National Women's Health Network based in Washington D.C. states that a lack of sexual desire in a woman can be related to one thing; "Maybe the real problem is their husband is a jerk."
Here is a woman that is a program and policy director for a national organization and she finds comfort and confidence using ugly gender stereotypes and degrading language to analyze and procure policy in Washington D.C.. Anybody else find this disturbing?
I'm going to drop them a few words explaining how disgusted I am with their imature "Sex and the City" approach to serious healthcare issues. If anyone cares to join me, their contact info is: nwhn@nwhn.org.
Maybe they need to find a real woman to do Mrs. Allina's job because this teenage approach isn't working."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/28/2232232.shtml

9news.com (Denver): Women "inappriopriately" arrested

Adam · 28 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "This article is a rationalization by a law professor (Jan Laitos) regarding the increasing arrest of women in domestic violence cases. It appears that she can't accept the reality that women are as responsible for domestic violence as are men. She is mostly concerned that the arrest of women in DV cases is "inappropriate"

A link to the story is:

here
To email this station: kusa@9news.com

To email Jan Laitos: jlaitos@law.du.edu"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/28/2235247.shtml

Texas Woman Charged with Severing Baby's Arms

Adam · 29 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "Reuters tells us about the latest news from the "nurturing department": "HOUSTON (Reuters) - A Texas woman who allegedly severed her 11-month-old daughter's arms and then called police to report the crime was charged with capital murder on Monday, authorities said. Police in the Dallas suburb of Plano said Dena Schlosser, 35, sounded calm when she phoned the department and told officers what she had done." Of course, it's always due to depression. Also note the usual lack of the strong words..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/28/2239219.shtml

F4J Does It Again

Matt · 29 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ahhh, nice to read this after a long and tiring holiday week-end... good work guys!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/29/0516249.shtml

Fathers and Families covered in Boston Globe

Matt · 29 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The Lace Curtain getting a few tears in it.... encouraging story here. Their website is here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/29/1746215.shtml

Mother accused of poisoning son aged 9.

Matt · 29 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "In London, a mother is accused of killing her 9-year-old son by deliberate salt poisoning. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/29/1748208.shtml

Cultural 'bias' keeps women off death row

Matt · 29 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A.J. writes "In this article Jim Walsh at the Arizona Republic removes a few threads from the lace curtain. He proposes that women are less likely than men to get the death penalty in capital offenses due to cultural reasons. A quote from the article: "In the minds of the jury and the judge, they don't believe women deserve the death penalty." The author can be contacted at: jim.walsh@arizonarepublic.com.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/29/1751224.shtml

Verizon DSL Advertising and McGarry Bowen

Matt · 29 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Please consider our new web site as it relates to McGarry Bowen and the Verizon DSL advertising campaign. Please let them know what you think, and pass it on!

Ed. note: This is a follow-up to the issue discussed here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/29/1756213.shtml

Schoolgirl mob attacks girl

Matt · 30 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A 'Mob' of 40 girls suspended from school after attacking and threatening to kill a girl in a dispute over a boyfriend. What was that about 'sugar and spice'? Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/30/1617240.shtml

F4J USA Seeks Feedback and Participants

Matt · 30 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Posted on behalf of author:

Hello everyone.

I am working directly with the United States coordinator for Fathers 4 Justice and would like to hear from anyone that is being raked over the coals and that would be interested in becoming active with F4J on any level.

Many of our local groups tread lightly and speak with a soft voice and we have all seen exactly how much hasn't changed for any of us. While some are intimidated by F4J, as you have seen people are taking notice whether it is Batman or Santa, things are happening abroad as a result of their efforts and the time has come for us to get on board here.

We owe it to ourselves and our children to do whatever it takes (legally of course) to make change happen. If you are willing to be an active participant in a demonstration or if you'd prefer to be involved behind the scenes we need your help.

I can be contacted at MnDadsRock@aol.com. I look forward to hearing from you.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/30/1623226.shtml

Airport Pat-Downs Too Intrusive, Say Some Women

Matt · 30 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

As tempted as I am to go off on an editorial, I will let MANN readers do the honors. Read it and laugh/weep/fume/etc.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/30/176213.shtml

Debunking Feminist "Science"

Thomas · 30 November 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Scientific American has published an article on David C. Page, who has spent a large part of his career debunking some of the proclamations of feminist "science."

A couple of worthy quotes from the article:

"The very idea of investigating the Y chromosome offends those feminists who believe that it serves as nothing more than a subterfuge to promulgate an inherent male bias in biology. And, in Page's view, some reputable scientists have even pandered to these sentiments by writing books and papers that predict the extinction of men--or the Y's disappearance."

and

"Biologist Jennifer A. Marshall Graves of the Australian National University in Canberra argues that gene conversion in the palindromes represents a form of 'genetic masturbation' that may not only fail to inhibit deleterious mutations but may even speed the process of the chromosome's decline. Page's terse response: 'Ah, rhetoric and theory unburdened by experimental data.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/30/1734223.shtml

Another Falsely Accused Man Freed

Thomas · 1 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

After spending 14 years in prison as a child molestor, James Bernard Parker has been freed. His accusers admitted that he hadn't committed the alleged crimes or that the crimes had, in fact, never occurred. Note, however, that the article still refers to the false accusers as "victims." Who is the true victim, and who are the true criminals?

The article also states that "Police found no physical evidence (of the alleged molestations), even though children told stories of being tied to trees and fed poisoned ice cream. They also gave a wide range of descriptions of their attacker." In addition, "The Charlotte Observer ran stories in 2002 in which 15 reported victims and witnesses said the crimes never happened or that Parker wasn't the attacker."

2002... It's damned difficult for a man to prove his innocence in the US of A.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/11/30/2117252.shtml

Orbital trouble for women!

Adam · 1 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "According to CNN, there's a new mighty tool in the hands of abusive men: satellite imagery. Don't believe it? "Cindy Cowan, the director of a Toronto shelter for battered women, echoed Rastogi's concerns, saying the technology could put women at greater risk of abuse. "Already the Internet has become a place where women are stalked, so to give another tool to abusive men motivated to find and track and stalk -- it frightens me," she said." Gone are the days when the simple minded "abusive male stalker" just stalked around pointlessly: now they will spend countless hours chasing their potential victims from the sky. Is this getting ridiculous or what? Will abusive males eventually team up with alien abductors? Makes you wonder..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/01/1956235.shtml

More on the AIDS being a disaster for women story

Adam · 1 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "So all along we've believed that AIDS is a disaster for all people. But now it seems it's only catastrophic for women:

here

"...a generation of African girls is standing on the frontline of the carnage...."

Unbelievable..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/01/1957238.shtml

"It's Still a Man's World on the Idiot Box"

Adam · 2 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "From Maureen Dowd of the NYT

"I honestly thought, eight or nine years ago, that when we left," Mr. Brokaw said, referring to himself, Peter and Dan Rather, "that it would be the end of white male anchor time."

Nah. Those guys are hard to kill off. Indeed, white men are ascendant in Red State America.

As my mom said, discussing her belief that Martha Stewart had been railroaded by jealous men, "If men could figure out how to have babies, they'd get rid of us altogether."

Article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/02/1454214.shtml

Verizon's "Homework Ad" Pulled Off the Air

Matt · 2 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Congratulations to Glenn Sacks and to all of us who participated in the campaign to end the now-infamous "homework ad" that Verizon was airing! They have informed Glenn that they are no longer going to air it. Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/02/1950229.shtml

The Pinky Defense?

Thomas · 3 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

We've definitely made progress, when the sexual molestation of a child by a woman is called rape, as is the sexual molestation of a child by a man. It will be interesting, though, to watch the progress of this case. Will defense attorneys succeed in having Debra LaFave acquitted on the basis of insanity partly because of her cutesy talk involving a "pinky promise?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/02/2343247.shtml

Pay closer attention: Boys are struggling

Adam · 3 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bro writes "Here "Boys are doing miserably, and nobody knows quite why. On measures ranging from writing ability to the likelihood of needing special education, boys are flat-lining - or worse."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/03/1920248.shtml

Blunkett seeks child access

Adam · 3 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "If Secretary Blunkett has to go to court to get access to his child, maybe he will have some sympathy for the father's rights cause. Let's hope so. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/03/1921230.shtml

News from Italy: First father's shelter, C/S Injustice

Matt · 4 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "If you do not speak Italian, good! You will not be able to fully understand these two very painful news items. First: if you are a divorced father, earn less than 650 euros/month, and have to pay for child support, do not have DV precedents, you're lucky: you may access the first father shelter! The article even suggests that these fathers will feel kind of younger, because - you see - it's like a college dorm. Second: a court of appeal just decided that a father has to pay child support for his two daughers. Too bad his daughters have 34 and 32 years: the court said that there's no age limit to "child" support, and he has to pay until his daughters get a job and become "independent". Now fathers have to "demonstrate" that the "children" willingly avoid working. (hey - I told you it was painful)"

Ed's note: You can use the "Translate a Web Page" facility at http://babelfish.altavista.com/ to translate these articles from Italian to English.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/04/0432244.shtml

Sermon text: "Living Under Fascism"

Matt · 4 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Read this and thought it was thought-provoking material. I am sure it will likely generate some discussion here on MANN. :)

Click "Read More..."The one thing I can safely predict will get some people's dander up is the author's listing of features of fascism, with no. 5 being:

5. Rampant Sexism

The governments of fascist nations tend to be almost exclusively male-dominated. Under fascist regimes, traditional gender roles are made more rigid. Opposition to abortion is high, as is homophobia and anti-gay legislation and national policy.

Indeed, he's right that under any totalitarian state there will be plenty of compartmentalizing and categorizing in order to manage people en masse without consideration for the justice or rightness of the methodology or the aims. Sexism will be part of that apparatus, no doubt. But he does quite obviously fail to recognize that it's men today who are suffering the most egregiously with the misandrist sexism that permeates our society. He also ignores completely the fact that when fascist banners fly and orders to march troops to battle are given, these troops are also exclusively male (with rare exception) and many motivated by coercion and fear of punishment (ie, death or worse) for failing to obey. Nonetheless despite these obvious failings to be complete, the sermon-as-essay he has written is quite thought-provoking and, IMHO, courageous, even if it is subject to interpretation and disagreement.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/04/0442238.shtml

Female Pedophile Teacher Abuses and "Weds" 14 YO

Matt · 6 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "In this article it is mentioned that a teacher and a 14-year-old former female student whom she is accused of sexually assaulting participated in witchcraft together and even "wed" in a pagan ritual. Call me cynical but I suspect this case may result in more sympathy and a harsh sentence then previously female teacher abuse cases only because the victim is only a female."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/06/0233248.shtml

Men are broken, need fixing....

Matt · 6 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

... or so says Ms. Beverly McPhail in this op-ed. Masculinity is so closely tied to violence, she reasons, that it must be re-invented for the good of all, most especially men.

Well perhaps she's right in a few senses-- men do suffer greatly from violence as being expected of them and as the targets of violence most of the time. But she utterly ignores the many acts of violence committed by women to pace those of men if not exceed them. More of the same, folks-- men are violent, women are not, men broken and inferior, women the model in all things and superior. More of the same.

The Houston Chronicle's summary of who she is is a bit lacking. Apparently she's more than a writer; she appears also to be a teacher of WST courses at the U of Houston as well; see here. The Chronicle's editor can be reached at viewpoints@chron.com.

Ms. McPhail can be reached at bevmcphail@earthlink.net.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/06/0255219.shtml

Russia's Collapse Has Begun

Thomas · 7 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The collapse faced by the developed world, as a result of the catastrophic fall in fertility rates, has begun in Russia. Each nation's collapse will have its own style. The US, for instance, may well maintain growth due to immigration, but the entire world economy will be dragged down due to extreme population aging and collapse in most developed (and then undeveloped) nations.

The causes are the destruction of the family and widescale use of birth control and abortion. In Russia, feminism's highest sacrament -- abortion -- is especially to blame. When we are in dire economic circumstances as a result of this, if you want to talk to one of the people who are most responsible for causing our collapse, look for a Women's Studies professor.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/06/2350234.shtml

Batman will not face criminal charges

Adam · 7 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes ""A Fathers 4 Justice campaigner who scaled Buckingham Palace dressed as Batman will not face criminal charges." here But who is this? "Speaking about Mr Hatch's case, Norman Brennan, director of the Victims of Crime Trust over here, said: "This man could have put the security of our monarchy at risk - that there are no laws which can be used to prosecute him is barmy.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/07/1736253.shtml

UK: Women MPs bullied in Commons!

Adam · 7 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "More news from UK: women get "bullied and abused" in Commons. "When scores of young female MPs arrived in the Commons in 1997, Labour's Claire Curtis-Thomas assumed the red ribbons tied to coat hangers were for Aids day, only to be told they were for members to hang up their swords. Another new MP, Yvette Cooper, found it hard to persuade Commons officials that she was an MP, not a researcher or secretary."

This is standard stuff - get this one: "But the research suggests that Britain's politics have been dramatically changed by the arrival of more female MPs." - say what? - "Commons' hours have been made more "family friendly", and childcare and domestic violence have become important concerns for parliament."

Maybe F4J didn't notice that the Commons have been made more FAMILY FRIENDLY? (makes you wonder...)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/07/1738233.shtml

Massachusetts Reforming Misandric Judiciary?

Adam · 7 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes ""As a result, when a father walks into Family Court, he is the only one in the courtroom without immunity to commit perjury and fraud,"

The quote from the article above indicates that the state of Massachusetts may be waking up from its comatose sleep induced by the feminazi sirens song of perpetual female victimhood.
Well, let's hope so because when it comes to the legal status and standing of 50% of the states population (MEN!) there is no place to go but up."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/07/1740202.shtml

Over-50 Divorce Rate Soars

Thomas · 8 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ugh!

"Over the past five years the divorce rate among over-fifties has risen by 8.7%... Generous divorce settlements and the right of a wife to claim part of her husband's pension are fuelling the rise." You can read the rest here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/07/2242242.shtml

Woman Runs Over Boys

Matt · 8 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Kingsley G. Morse Jr. writes "This is what boys are up against.
A forty seven year old woman ran over two boys after they accidentally hit her SUV with the golf ball they were bouncing in a parking lot.
Then she calmly smoked a cigarette and watched her victims lie there.
Is it any wonder that todays boys are struggling? Click here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/07/2327225.shtml

Call to Join NCP Class Action Case As Plaintiff

Matt · 9 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Posted on behalf of Harold Leist. One need only be an NCP but you do not need to be a Virginia resident even though it is a Virginia case.

"We must all hang together or assuredly we will all hang seperately." -- Ben Franklin

Please click "Read more..." to read Harold's request.
Hi everyone,

As I tell everyone, when I have news I'll let you know.

Well we have now been directed to ask who would like to intervene (join) the suit. I would encourage all of you to do so and become a part of it and not be part of "and on behalf of all persons similarly situated".

What do you have to do? Not much. However, you do need to do it by Friday. What you have to do is send me your name, address including zip code and your telephone number. Very quickly I'll return to you a set of documents that you will need to print out and sign. Then return one to the state and one to the court BY REGULAR MAIL. Why the deadline? Because we go to court on Monday and the court needs them AND THE SOONER THE BETTER.

What are the rules to Intervene? You have to be a NCP because of a VA court case. You do not have to live in VA.

You can not have been convicted of a crime.

So who can I count on for support? Please fill up my email box.

Email me quickly by return mail.

Thanks,

Harold

=====

Harold Leist

VA Coordinator,

National Non-custodial Parent Class Action Law Suit

http://www.leist.us (read the suit)

harold@leist.us (contact me)

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Virginiacivilrightscouncil (discuss the case)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/08/232251.shtml

Sprewell suspended for verbal abuse at a woman

Adam · 9 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "In this article, it seems that a female fan was verbally assaulted by Latrell Sprewell, and because it was a female fan, Sprewell received a harsher than usual penalty. Read for yourself..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/09/2048214.shtml

Boys Struggle at School because Women are Cleverer

Adam · 9 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "London: A male Labour MP has stated that boys' academic performance is no cause for concern. It is because women are cleverer than men, and this is a cause for celebration. He is stooping very low to attract extra votes. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/09/2049214.shtml

Child Support - But NO Child

Adam · 10 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original warble writes "In another indication of how corrupt and biased against males the child support system is we find that a male is forced to pay $20,000 in child support before the court listened and determined there was no child.

Heeeellllloooo! Mandatory DNA testing anyone?
Funny how the news media thinks this stuff is rare. What exactly do they think is happening with the current widespread paternity fraud against males and children? Where there is paternity fraud THERE IS NO CHILD! Yet if the woman can produce ANY child, even another mans child, then it is assumed that there is a child and that the man should be screwed to the wall.

Finally, what really burns me is that if a male were to kidnap the pseudo child in question, the authorities would issue an Amber alert, arrest the male on kidnapping charges, and throw away the key. But nooooo! This kidnapper is a woman; special priviledge and laws apply because she is assumed superior to a male.
Therefore, the DA feels that kidnapping charges do not apply. Note how the actual child's mother exclaims she, '... couldn't keep up and lost them both. I thought I was never going to see my baby girl again ... It's the scariest thing. Anything could happen.'
Well DUUUUUGH! Yea. I'd say so! 'Anything' did happen. The child was in fact kidnapped for at least an hour if not more."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/09/2051222.shtml

The BBC showing their true colours

Adam · 10 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Today's headlines:
Women 'bearing the brunt of war' here

Egypt feminist in presidency bid
over here

Women cleverer than men, says MP right here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/09/2053214.shtml

interactiveDAD.com Online Dad Magazine

Matt · 10 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Check out this new magazine just for dads. GREAT original articles and resources. Kicks FQ's butt!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/10/0210208.shtml

The National Men's Council of Ireland

Adam · 10 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Harry Rea writes "Parental Rights in Ireland, November 2004

An Analysis - National Men's Council of Ireland - how do we compare to Australia?

This extraordinary analysis of parental rights in Ireland in 2004 is of extreme public interest especially at this point in time when the Government have asked for a Review to be conducted into the position of the Family in Irish society.

We believe it is of vital importance that parents know where they stand in Law in relation to their right to protect and nurture their children."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/10/2219240.shtml

CBS 60 Minutes: 5,500 MEN have deserted the U. S.

Adam · 10 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Tonight's 60 Minutes (CBS) episode concerned 5,500 MEN deserting the military during the war in Iraq. It's interesting that the media always talks about over 100,000 MEN and WOMEN fighting in Iraq, but when it comes to soldiers deserting the military for Canada every last one of them is a man.

Here's the story:

here

Let CBS know how you feel about this sexism by writing them at:

CBS

Click on "Feedback" at the bottom of the home page.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/10/2220257.shtml

Women Lie !@@!?

Adam · 11 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "I realize this article is nothing more than restating the obvious, but there you go..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/11/2138247.shtml

9news.com (Denver): Women "inappropriately" arrested

Adam · 11 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Here we go again with the second part of 9news.com's report on domestic violence. They have a hard time understanding that it's a two way street.

Here is the story

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/11/2143257.shtml

Domestic Violence at a Wedding

Matt · 12 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here's an interesting article. Why was the wife not charged with battery for having hit him over the head with an ash tray? If the injuries to his head could have caused him to react in a violent and confused manner towards others subsequently, could she not be held responsible for the entire episode?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/11/225246.shtml

NY divorce law: unfair - and just?

Matt · 12 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "In this editorial, Susan Cheever makes some outlandish assertions. She obviously did no homework whatsoever but instead chose to get her statistics right out of her a--."

Click "Read more..." for more.Clancy continues...

"On the one hand, it's a shame to spend resources keeping people together who don't want to be together. On the other hand, making divorce difficult protects those who don't want divorce, and this often includes the wife and children of the marriage.

According to what I've read, women overwhelmingly initiate divorce proceedings. The following paragraph made me wonder if I was in one of those evil parallel universes where everything is backward.

There's a difference between justice and fairness. 'This law is still the last protection of the abandoned wife,' says one experienced lawyer. The law as it is gives the rejected spouse the power to say no. The world isn't fair, and it is particularly unfair to women who have compromised their earning power to raise their children. As long as women make less money and do most of the domestic work, and as long as women still lose their sexual power at an age when men come into theirs, the world will be unfair.

Let's see. If a woman loses her sexual power at an age when the man is coming into his, that must mean the woman is about 30 years older than her husband. Maybe it's just me but I think this column has more holes in it than Bonnie and Clyde's last set of clothes."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/11/2211200.shtml

Irritable Male Syndrome?

Matt · 13 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "http://www.mensnewsdaily.com/archive/m-n/m-n-misc/ manthey121104.htm"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/13/0513254.shtml

MSN.com asks: Is he a Scrooge?

Matt · 13 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Need I say more?! Here it is. Exercise: Replace the "he"s with "she"s and vice versa, then maybe add/change some of the activities that are described as part of the questions such that at least some of them are the sorts that men may actually enjoy doing, and then see what you get!

Ahh, MSN is sure keeping up its well-earned reputation for hating/devaluing/picking on men. Maybe MANN should have an "MSN" category all its own?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/13/1821215.shtml

Internal Army Report leans toward women in combat

Adam · 14 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "According to this article, the US military is slowly moving towards putting women into combat roles in the US military. And the feminist response? Straight from the article -- "Female soldiers, including young mothers, should not have to pay the price for Pentagon bureaucratic blunders and gender-based recruiting quotas that have caused apparent shortages in male soldiers for the new land-combat brigades," Mrs. Donnelly said. "It does not make sense to sacrifice the advantage of modular organizations, just to make ideological points about gender equality. Land combat is not fair or equal, nor is it even civilized," she said. Sorry sisters, you wanted equality and gender quotas, you got it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/13/2117228.shtml

NPR Airs "The End of Men"

Matt · 15 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Have a read, and listen to the report either by clicking the "Listen" link on the page or you can use use this link. Windows Media Player worked for me.

Click "Read More..." for commentary.A friend sent me the link to the page. I replied to his note as follows; tell me, readers, what's your take on it?

Hmm, I listened to this story. The story was not openly misandric and so I have a hard time wondering that MANN readers will have much to say about it when they hear it. There's far more openly misandric stuff out there that gets and rightly so a lot of attention from MANN.

I think the phrase "the end of men" is more of a commentary on the state of society. Manhood as a defined thing seems to have been eliminated. Rather than the social role emphasized the biological role has been emphasized for the sexes. This perhaps to some degree explains why "guy" and "male" have replaced "man" in much conversation and writing, as manhood is not needed for reproduction but maleness is. I also think it's both a mechanism and symptom of the diminution/decrease of respect for men in general; in the mean time, the use of "woman" versus "female/gal/girl" has been vaunted and asserted so that it is used all the time, and even to describe, laughably, adolescent girls ("the rights of this 15-year old woman can't be denied!" and other ridiculous stuff like that). And there is no mistaking or ignoring the shift from "men and women" to "women and guys" in conversation. "Ladies first" has become "Women (wymyn) first," in particular when referring to the sexes as two groups in the same sentence. So the end of men is really more of a contemporary social and political phenomenon rather than a biological one.

I rather think humanity will have died off for other reasons long before Y chromosomal breakdown destroys it.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/14/2044228.shtml

Andrea Yates Seeks Appeal

Matt · 15 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The infamous child murderer is seeking an overturn of her conviction. Read it here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/15/0011202.shtml

Male Birth Control

Matt · 15 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A global sex survey reports: "More than half of men globally (59%) would be willing to take the male contraceptive pill - but less than half of women would trust a man to take it responsibly."

What the survey apparently does not ask, is what percentage of men trust a woman to take their birth control responsibly. I know I don't. Mayhaps, if there are two people having sex, neither of whom wish to become parents, both of them should be using birth control?

Why trust anyone, when it comes to such grave decisions, especially if one does not have to."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/15/0012229.shtml

Mom Beats Student on Camera

Matt · 15 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Perhaps MANN should also add another category called "violent women", simply because there seems to be so much of it even despite the underreporting of it. Apparently she didn't bother to show up for sentencing in the matter either. Story and video here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/15/1814242.shtml

Global warming spells the end of woman!!!

Matt · 16 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "Great news, men. The faster the glaciers melt, the sooner feminism will die since there will be no more women to support it. They'll all be dead. And, as simple as it was to kill the Martians in H.G. Wells 'War of the worlds', as the oceans rise from melting ice, millions of women will flounder to their death because "...often women don't know how to swim, so in a flood situation that can lead to a higher instance of death or injury,..."

Could it be that simple? Discourage all women from taking swimming lessons???? Beleive it, or not!

How in the name of God's Green Earth can EVERYTHING that happens either naturally, or un-naturally, ALWAYS be detrimental to WOMEN????? Take heart O ye men of the world for we are immortal. We ALL know how to swim!!! BWAAAA HAAAAA HAAAAAA!!!!!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/16/1821256.shtml

Contact Information for NPR's "End of Men" Author

Matt · 16 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

As a follow-up to this story on MANN, contact information for the NPR correspondent who wrote and aired it, Joe Palca, is as follows:

Joe Palca

NPR

635 Massachusetts Ave.

Washington, DC 20008

202-513-2776

jpalca@npr.org

Feel free to share your thoughts on the tone or content of his report with him.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/16/1826229.shtml

Blunkett custody fight ends in resignation

Matt · 18 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Home Secretary David Blunkett has lost his career as a result of his battle for access to the child he believes is his. He went to court to get parental rights, the child's mother responded by making allegations of corruption, and he was forced to resign.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/17/203215.shtml

How to live longer

Matt · 18 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Men are more likely than women to die of heart disease. Changing your diet could increase your life span by more than 6 years.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/17/204231.shtml

Mensnewsdaily.com hacked

Matt · 18 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "What happened to the Mensnewsdaily.com website?

Did they close it down? Were they hacked into and brought down by the feminazis?

Just in case things get back to normal between now and when you see this post, this is what I found this afternoon when trying to bring up the site. Everything was centered on an all black background:

Rebellious Fingers Brazilian Defacements Crew!

We'are:

Ackstr0n_X - D3m0n_suspect - failed - FDL

irc.gigachat.com.br on #rf | Email: rf@iname.com

"Pra quem vive na guerra a paz nunca existiu"

"Racionais MC's"

"Negro Drama"

Dittohd"

Ed note: Wow, looks like the site was hacked by some individual or a group calling themseleves "Rebellious Fingers Brazilian Defacements Crew". I hope they will have the site back up soon.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/17/207215.shtml

Women Like Women More than Men Like Men

Adam · 18 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes ″

This new research shows that when adults' automatic attitudes are measured, they have more positive feelings about women as a group.

"Even though men are often perceived to be at the top, especially in the corporate world, new gender research shows that men are not generally the preferred gender. This new research shows that when adults' automatic attitudes are measured, they have more positive feelings about women as a group.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/18/1834236.shtml

Washington Post Launches Pro-VAWA Campaign

Matt · 19 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A reader in the DC area who is involved in men's rights work has sent me the following item. This is definitely an activism item for us MANN regulars and for anyone else interested in stopping legislated bigotry and institutionalized judicial inequality.

Please click "Read more..." for the details and, as they say, "follow the directions!"

Washington Post set to launch pro-VAWA campaign – And this time we're ready!
NEWS FLASH:

According to inside sources, the Washington Post is about to launch its publicity campaign to renew the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). But the Washington Post's coverage of this issue will be biased and will unfairly stereotype men.

BACKGROUND:

Violence between intimate partners is a concern in our society. Research consistently shows that men and women are equally likely to initiate domestic violence [See http://www.csulb.edu/~mfiebert/assault.htm]. Linda Kelly recently analyzed this issue in the Florida State University Law Review, and concluded that feminists frequently present a distorted picture of domestic violence, depicting only women as DV victims [See http://www.papa-help.ch/downloads/kelly.pdf].

The Violence Against Women Act, which first passed in 1996, was written to benefit female victims only. VAWA was renewed in 2001, with a $4 billion price tag. The current VAWA expires in 2005. Renewal legislation for the third cycle will be introduced in the next few months.

The key question this time will be whether VAWA will continue to discriminate against male victims. Gender equity experts say the law should be broadened to include all persons, and the law should be re-named the Violence Against Persons Act.

The National Organization for Women continues to claim that only women suffer from domestic violence. N.O.W. wants to continue to exclude male victims from this legislation, which funnels billions of dollars to women's shelters and other feminist programs.

The Washington Post is well-known for its pro-feminist stance. This bias affects both its editorial positions and news reporting of gender issues. When Congress was debating VAWA five years ago, the Post ran numerous articles on domestic violence. The articles consistently depicted women as victims.

THE WP STRATEGY:

Beginning Sunday, December 19, 2004, the Washington Post will be running a three-part series on Maternal Homicide. This is the publication schedule:

Sunday, December 19: Many New or Expectant Mothers Die Violent Deaths

Monday, December 20: The Victims

Tuesday, December 21: The Legacy

As this series unfolds, we will see media bias at work. We will see that statistics are presented in a misleading manner, that misleading logic is used, that false headlines are employed, and that male victims are excluded from consideration.

By giving front-page coverage to this emotion-laden issue, the Post is attempting to pre-empt discussion on whether VAWA should become gender-inclusive.

OUR STRATEGY:

In the past, men have had to simply tolerate the false stereotypes as abusers and women as victims. But this time we're ready.

Set a bookmark to http://www.washingtonpost.com/

and make note of these key contacts:

1. Letters to the Editor: letters@washpost.com

2. Ombudsman:

Michael Getler

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

Over the next three days we plan to ask the Washington Post editors why their coverage of this issue repeatedly does violence to the journalistic principles of objectivity, fairness, and balance.

Stay tuned for more!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/19/0019245.shtml

Washington Post Launches Pro-VAWA Campaign - Sunday

Matt · 19 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

A follow-up report on the Washington Post's pro-VAWA series, with links and actions to take. Please click "Read more..." for more.

The Washington Post: Where Men's Lives Count for Less
NEWS FLASH

On Sunday, December 19, the Washington Post features a 3-page article titled "Many New or Expectant Mothers Die Violent Deaths". The article probes the deaths of mothers due to domestic violence. Sadly, the Washington Post continues its pattern of ignoring male victims of domestic violence.

WHAT THE WASHINGTON POST ARTICLE SAYS

The Washington Post reports on the issue of domestic violence against pregnant and new mothers. The WP reporter, Donna St. George, surveyed all state health departments and interviewed the victims' family members.

Ms. St. George concludes that 295 new or expectant mothers die from homicides each year, and that 70% of these deaths were caused by boyfriends or husbands. So the Washington Post analysis indicates that 207 maternal deaths each year are the result of domestic violence.

WHERE THE ARTICLE GOES WRONG

According to the latest report from the Department of Justice, 510 men are killed each year by their wives and girlfriends (see Table 1 on p. 2 of linked document). This number represents 28% of all persons killed due to partner violence.

But that critical fact is never mentioned in the Washington Post article.

The Post article is designed to appeal to the reader's emotions. Much of the story provides graphic details of the deaths. It features the names and color photographs of 24 female victims. The article features alarmist commentaries by domestic violence experts and emotional headlines such as, "Researchers Stunned by Scope of Slayings."

The article is designed to arouse women's sense of fear and vulnerability. The essay does not provide anything that resembles an objective or balanced discussion of an important social problem.

A PATTERN OF BIAS AND NEGLECT

Each year, 510 men and 207 mothers die as a result of domestic violence.

It is good that the Washington Post has highlighted the tragedy of 207 mothers killed by domestic violence. As the article sadly notes, "Their killings produced a few local headlines, then faded, a seeming aberration in the community where it happened."

But what about the 510 men?

The Washington Post has never published a three-page article on men killed by their wives or girlfriends. The Post has never surveyed health departments or interviewed their grief-stricken family members to piece together their stories. The Post has never printed their pictures. Their killings have never produced front-page headlines in the Washington Post.

These male victims remain neglected and invisible.

At the Washington Post, it's not just that the lives of men count for less. It's that the lives of men killed by their wives and girlfriends simply don't count.

A PRINCIPLED RESPONSE IS CALLED FOR

The voices of men killed by domestic violence are now silent. But we need to speak out:

1. Letters to the Editor: letters@washpost.com

The Washington Post

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20071

(Include your name, address, and daytime telephone number)

2. Donna St. George

E-mail: stgeorgedr@washpost.com

3. Washington Post Ombudsman:

Michael Getler

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/19/1812223.shtml

A Sense of Helplessness

Matt · 20 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "An article of interest appeared at MSNBC today concerning the recent increase in killings of new, expectant mothers. The article quoted Pat Brown, a criminal profiler based in Minneapolis. She said:

'For some men, the situation boils down to one set of unadorned facts: if the woman doesn't want the baby, she can get an abortion. If the guy doesn't want it, he can't do a damn thing about it. He is stuck with a child for the rest of his life, and he's stuck with that woman for the rest of his life. If she goes away the problem goes away.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/20/0536246.shtml

More about the Italian father shelter

Matt · 20 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "I found a good translation of the news item about the italian father shelter in Bolzano.

'Divorced and separated men who have been _forced_ to give up their houses and empty their pockets for child support can apply for one of the five rooms with private bath in the communal home which could soon be copied across Italy.'"

Click "Read more..." for more from the submitter.Linucs writes
"The proper translation for "mamma-loving country" should be "forcibly emasculated country under the radical-feminist boot", while "forced" actually stands for "fraudolent wealth redistribution", but you get the idea anyway: divorced dads sound like refugees from some war torn country. The thought of being possibly removed from my own house and sent to a socialist-sounding shelter really is the wind under my wings... Hey, at least we still have "democracy"."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/20/0539258.shtml

Woman Murders Woman and Steals Unborn Baby

Matt · 21 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Many of you have seen different reports about this story in the news recently, but to not mention it would be ignoring the proverbial 800-lb. gorilla. It is just too unspeakably horrible to contemplate and maybe that is why no one posted it on MANN... until now. Anway, I am at a loss for commentary, except to say, just imagine how this story would have read if the perp had been male.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/20/2335258.shtml

DLJ Launches anti-VAWA Campaign

Matt · 21 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "We've activated our resources and were prepared when the WaPo story hit!

To launch the campaign, there's an essay entitled Why YOU Should Fight VAWA here.

Click "Read more..." for more from Trudy
Also some early responses to the piece. I'll track the reactions from bloggers and various news outlets, and add them as I see them. If anyone's got a heads-up on a piece I may have missed, leave a comment at the DLJ, or send e-mail.

I'm also actively seeking essays and commentaries from those who may not yet have your own blogs or websites. e-mail me at DVA2004-at-desertlightjournal-dot-com

I encourage anyone who has been thinking about starting a blog to do so now! They're free at Blog-City http://www.Blog-City.com but cheap if you want more than the basics. The more blogs we have speaking out against VAWA, the better progress we can make!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/21/002206.shtml

Washington Post Launches Pro-VAWA Campaign - Monday

Matt · 21 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Following on its opening story of yesterday, the Washington Post continues promulgating half-truths and half-picture reporting on DV in an effort to support re-funding VAWA. Click "Read more..." for the details.

The Washington Post: Where "Rape Hysteria" Takes a New Turn
NEWS FLASH

On Monday December 20, the Washington Post featured a 3-page article titled Violence Intersects Lives of Promise. This story, written by Donna St. George, is a follow-up to a similar piece that ran on December 19.

The purpose of the second article is to provide heart-rending descriptions of several pregnant women killed as a result of domestic violence.

BACKGROUND

Beginning in the 1920s, newspapers in the Southern United States began to run stories of black men who had allegedly raped white women. The sensationalistic articles played on readers' emotions in such a way that the public at large became unduly fearful.

The inflammatory news coverage had two effects:

1. Thousands of men, mostly black, were lynched by vigilante mobs.

2. Laws were passed that made it easier to convict alleged rapists.

In the early 1990s, rape hysteria descended on America's college campuses, this time under the guise of stopping "date rape". As a result, colleges instituted new disciplinary procedures that, in many cases, removed the presumption of innocence from accused male students.

Now in 2004, a new type of rape hysteria is on the rise. That hysteria is being promoted by the domestic violence (DV) industry and by certain media outlets.

WHAT THE WASHINGTON POST ARTICLE SAYS

The Washington Post article provides graphic details, based on interviews with family members of two DV victims -- Shameka Fludd and Ceeatta McKinnie - and summaries of the deaths of several other women. The essay includes 7 photographs of victims and their family members.

A sidebar article, "States Add Penalties for Death of Unborn" discusses the effects of the Laci Peterson death on homicide laws around the country.

WHERE THE ARTICLE GOES WRONG

The WP article is anecdotal in nature. It is written to play on the emotions. It does not provide any real news beyond what was reported in the previous story. It is the kind of story one would expect to see on the Oprah Winfrey or Jerry Springer shows.

The concluding paragraph of the account reveals the legal outcome of one of the woman's murderers, Donte Allen, who was sentenced to 45 years in prison. After the sentence was announced, the father of the woman was quoted to say, "It's not enough."

Translation: We need stronger laws to prevent domestic violence.

CONCLUSION

Each year, 207 mothers (some pregnant, others not) and 507 men die as a result of domestic violence. Their tragic deaths are never pleasant to recount. A three-page account of the slayings of the 507 men would have had a similar emotional impact.

Those men who have been victimized by domestic violence should no longer be ignored. Nor should the tragic deaths of 200 women be exploited by the domestic violence industry to sway public opinion about upcoming federal legislation.

The Washington Post is engaged in a biased - some would say scurrilous -- effort to impose a one-sided perspective on a problem that affects men and women alike.

TELL THE WASHINGTON POST TO HALT THE DV HYSTERIA

Please contact:

1. Letters to the Editor: letters@washpost.com

The Washington Post

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20071

(Include your name, address, and daytime telephone number)

2. Donna St. George

E-mail: stgeorgedr@washpost.com

3. Washington Post Ombudsman:

Michael Getler

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/21/0012203.shtml

Wesley Snipes sues NYC over DNA order

Matt · 21 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From CNN, Action film star Wesley Snipes sued the city Monday, charging that it had no jurisdiction to seek his DNA in a paternity suit filed in Indiana by a woman he said was crack-addicted and mentally ill. Always nice to see a man who can fight back, does against these dingbats."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/21/1838227.shtml

Slate's response to Washinton Post DV articles

Matt · 22 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Jack Shafer, who is editor-at-large for Slate magazine, writes a decent analysis of pregnancy murder statistics in response to the Washington Post's sexist policies. As you all know, the Post has been arguing for the VAWA act, without arguing for changes that would provide adequate and comparable services to male victims of domestic violence. The Post is creating news at a time where there would otherwise be none, designed to coincide with politicians' push to re-fund VAWA. The Post continues to neglect the problem of female-on-male DV."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/21/2258200.shtml

Washington Post Launches Pro-VAWA Campaign - Tuesday

Matt · 22 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The last of a three-part series on Domestic Violence which utterly ignores male victims by the Washington Post concluded Tuesday, Dec. 21 with, as predicted, more of the same. Please click "Read more..." for a review and a response, as well as actionable contact information for the Post.

The Washington Post: Where Male DV Victims are Shortchanged

NEWS FLASH

On Tuesday December 21, the Washington Post concluded its three-part series on maternal homicide. Tuesday's article Mending Shattered Childhoods, provides an in-depth account of the murder of Cherica Adams and the struggles of her surviving son.

The main article is accompanied by three shorter articles: "Bittersweet Childhoods of Love and Loss," "Boyfriend Indicted in Slaying of Girlfriend, Fetus in Fairfax" and "Baby Cut from Mother's Womb Leaves Hospital."

This series is an example of newspaper coverage which ignores male victims of domestic violence.

BACKGROUND

Research shows that women are just as likely as men to instigate domestic violence:

1. Law professor Linda Kelly reviewed the domestic violence research in the Florida State University Law Review and concluded: "leading sociologists have repeatedly found that men and women commit violence at similar rates.".

2. Psychologist John Archer reviewed 522 articles and concluded, "Women were slightly more likely than men to use one or more act of physical aggression and to use such acts more frequently." (Psychological Bulletin, Vol. 126, No. 5, 2000)

Summaries of the actual studies can be seen at http://www.csulb.edu/~mfiebert/assault.htm

MALE AND FEMALE VICTIMS ARE PRESENTED DIFFERENTLY

Domestic violence is an equal-opportunity problem. But the Washington Post continues to emphasize the paradigm of male-as-perpetrator, female-as-victim.

The Washington Post coverage of female victims tends to be more frequent and extensive, and to include color photographs. These articles are often given prominent location on page one of the section, above the fold.

In contrast, the WP treatment of male victims is different: The articles are much less frequent, shorter, and present the issue of male victimization in abstract terms.

This bias was seen in the recent Maternal Homicide series, which concluded that 207 expectant or new mothers die each year from homicide. The series never acknowledged the fact that the Department of Justice has found that 510 men die each year from domestic violence [see Table 1].

PERSISTENT BIAS

What is distressing is the Washington Post reporters have seemingly ignored the efforts of WP readers to correct the bias.

On March 25, 2000, the Post ran a Letter to the Editor which warned: "Your article 'What on Earth?' [02/18/00] wherein you publicize the allegation that 'one in three women around the world has been physically assaulted by her husband or intimate partner' is dangerous reporting."

A June 7, 2000 Letter to the Editor explained, "women are as likely as men to commit violent acts against their opposite-sex domestic partners. This is borne out by research. Further, most studies show that domestic violence is not gender-motivated but the result of psychological disorders, alcohol and drug abuse."

On August 17, 2000 the Post published a Letter to the Editor which stated, "Every credible study on domestic violence has shown that women initiate domestic violence as often as men. One study published in the American Journal of Public Health in 1989 found that according to FBI statistics, wives had been the perpetrators of 43.4% of all spousal murders."

This pattern seems to be explained by Armin Brott, MD, who wrote an article which appeared in the Post on December 28, 1993. Dr. Brott presciently wrote, "Despite all the evidence about female-on-male violence, many groups actively try to suppress coverage of the issue."

THE BIAS NEEDS TO STOP

The Washington Post needs to follow accepted journalistic standards of fairness, balance, and objectivity in its coverage of domestic violence.

1. Letters to the Editor: letters@washpost.com

The Washington Post

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20071

(Include your name, address, and daytime telephone number)

2. Donna St. George

E-mail: stgeorgedr@washpost.com

3. Washington Post Ombudsman:

Michael Getler

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/22/054239.shtml

'Tis the season for false accusers....

Adam · 22 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A civil servant has been acquitted of rape after a 14-month ordeal. The accuser said she was too ill to continue the trial. One thing to notice about the case is the lack of anonymity for the accused man - his name, photograph and place of work are openly published, but his accuser is described as 'a woman'. This anonymity gives shelter to serial false accusers. Story here. Check out the 'See also' links on the right for the history of the case."

Luek writes "

The Innocense Project has used DNA to vindicate another innocent man accused of rape. He had served 17 wasted years of a 75 year sentence.

The article states that whe MAY be eligible to receive a measley $25,000 from the state for each year he was incarcerated.

It is time to review the rape laws in this country and impliment effective safeguards that will prevent state atrocities like this one happening again! No more of this "he said, she said" and her word rules garbage."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/22/178217.shtml

Father charged with abducting his own children

Matt · 22 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Story here. A Father is held in jail with a $100,000 bail set for 'abducting' his own children from state social workers - while his wife, who is divorcing him and has accused him of abuse is under treated for depression and other mental illnesses. An Amber alert was activated so the entire police force in his state was notified of this event.
The article paints this man as a monster, likely he was just fighting for his right as a parent. The tone of this article (in typical feminist fashion) makes this man look like a monster and depicts the social service programs as a solution. Since when is an Amber Alert supposed to be used on fathers?"

Click "Read more..." for excerpts.
Some excerpts:

1. The abduction came a day after testy court appearance for this father.

2. "A judge on Monday admonished Yeaw for not filing financial affidavits and other paperwork on time, Karanian said."

3. "This man told the judge, 'There's no sense in me doing anything. I'm going to lose my parental rights anyway.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/22/1741213.shtml

From India: Only Men Arrested in eBay Porn Mess

Matt · 22 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From the Guardian:

'The trouble started a few days after the teenager made the recording, when someone tried to sell a video clip of him and his 16-year-old girlfriend on the Indian online auction site Baazee.com. The firm is a subsidiary of the US auction giant eBay.

'On Friday detectives arrested Baazee.com's chief executive, Avnish Bajaj, a US citizen and Harvard graduate. On Saturday a court bundled him off to jail for a week.

'Yesterday the police arrested the 17-year-old boy as well.'

Not surprisingly, the girl has not been arrested."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/22/1746210.shtml

Resisting VAWA: Excellent Analysis by Trudy Schuett

Adam · 22 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Trudy Schuett of desertlightjournal blog has posted two excellent essays examining the Washington Post's current campaign in support of reauthorizing funding for VAWA (Violence Against Women Act). She exposes the dangerous, fraudulent, sexist lies that underlie VAWA's assault against men, women, and families.

(1)

Why YOU Should Fight VAWA

(2) Washington Post Series -- Part Two

"Rape Hysteria" Takes a New Turn"

An excerpt:

"All it takes for a woman to begin turning the wheels of VAWA in her aid is an accusation. No proof or demonstration of need is ever required by women's shelters, because it is presumed that no woman would ever misrepresent or lie about being abused. An accused man has no recourse in defending himself, guilty or not. Generally, an Order of Protection is arranged for ex parte, that is, separate from the accused. Some locales even allow for application for the orders to be made online. Often an accused abuser has no knowledge of the order, and finds himself informed of it only after he's violated it by going home. In one extreme case I'm aware of, the accused was hauled out of his bed by police and arrested. His wife had not bothered to even tell him about his violation, or of the order itself. They'd had dinner and spent the evening as usual, and this man had no hint of what was in store for him after he fell asleep.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/22/1712215.shtml

Woman uses Rohypnol to rob men

Adam · 23 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "London: A woman has been convicted of using the 'date-rape drug' Rohypnol to render men unconscious before robbing them. Are we going to start calling it the 'date-rob' drug? Is the media going to start a hysterical campaign warning men against 'date-robbery'? Don't hold your breath..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/23/1815228.shtml

CS Monitor Covers F4J and Growing Father's Rights

Adam · 23 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The Christian Science Monitor prominently covers the British Fathers for Justice phenomenon and growing social support for father's rights in piece titled "Divorced British dads push courts for more access to children: Former cabinet secretary's push to see his child highlights a growing father's rights movement."

An excerpt - "There is a presumption that a father has to prove himself... We are constantly up against this accusation that a father doesn't deserve his children. Mothers never get that even if they are hopeless."

Full article -
here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/23/1816250.shtml

Insulting story on MSNBC.com

Matt · 24 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Leslie Burns-Dell'Acqua writes "This article on MSNBC.com repeatedly refers to a men's lounge section in a London department store as a "men's nursery." Mind you, the store doesn't do this--just the writer (and, by extension, MSNBC.com)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/23/2052217.shtml

Footballer loses job - for jilting his bride

Matt · 24 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "The BBC reports that a Malaysian footballer has been sacked after he jilted his bride at the altar, for 'bringing the game into disrepute'. He did it by text which is a pretty heartless act - but if the roles were reversed you can bet she'd have kept her job, without a doubt..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/23/2054205.shtml

Washington Post DV Series Draws Criticisms

Matt · 24 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Predictably, the Washington Post's recent series on maternal murders has drawn criticism. Click "Read more..." for excerpts and links.

The Critics Are Having a Field Day Over the Washington Post DV Series
NEWS FLASH

The Washington Post has just concluded a three-part series on Maternal Homicide. The series presented a one-sided view of domestic violence which stereotyped and vilified men. The articles were seen as a publicity effort by the Washington Post on behalf of the Violence Against Women Act, which comes up for renewal this coming year.

Now, the critics are having a field day. Here are five examples:

1. THE MUDDLED MATERNAL MURDER SERIES LOSES ITS WAY

Research shows that women are just as likely as men to instigate domestic violence:

Slate editor Jack Shafer criticizes the failure of the Washington Post series to meet minimal standards of good journalism. Shafer concludes:

"The pity of this series is that after latching on to a compelling subject and reporting the murderous hell out of it, the Post lost track of what all its research added up to."

2. EXPECTANT MOTHERS' REAL RISK OF VIOLENCE

Richard Davis takes aim at the shoddy statistical methods used by Washington Post reporter Donna St. George, especially her reference to a 2002 Massachusetts study. Davis summarizes:

"The problem of domestic violence, in all its different insidious forms, must not be used by any single group as a means to achieve their particular social and political agenda."

3. WOMAN STRANGLES EXPECTANT MOTHER, CUTS OUT BABY - ANDY ROONEY UNAVAILABLE FOR COMMENT

What is distressing is the Washington Post reporters have seemingly ignored the efforts of WP readers to correct the bias.

Mike LaSalle was disturbed by the media's attempt to sweep the Bobbie Jo Stinnett murder under the rug. He comments:

"The Washington Post has gone several steps further with a three-part series meant to dilute the gruesome murder of Bobbie Jo Stinnett at the hands of Lisa Montgomery by reminding readers that Scott Peterson did it too, and by restaging Stinnett's unique murder as a statistical fluke against the backdrop of 'hundreds' of murders of pregnant women that have taken place of the years."

4. PREGNANT WOMEN, PREPARE TO BE MURDERED

Peter Ambler takes issue with the fear-mongering tone of the Washington Post series. He notes:

"Instead of creating a discourse addressing the vulnerability and disconnectedness of young girls who become pregnant, Ms. St. George fear-mongers by talking about the invisability of this 'social syndrome' and intimating that, because of our ignorance, maternal homicide is far more prevalent than she can even currently count."

5. WHY YOU SHOULD FIGHT VAWA

Trudy Schuett sees the VAWA legislation as having an essentially ideological agenda. She writes:

"VAWA is nothing more than one of the last bastions of feminist superiority. We can erase this horrible mistake and begin to move forward in providing real help for the abused if we can get rid of this badly-conceived law."

THE ONE-SIDED REPORTING NEEDS TO STOP

The skeptics have spoken their minds - now how about you?

1. Letters to the Editor: letters@washpost.com

The Washington Post

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20071

(Include your name, address, and daytime telephone number)

2. Donna St. George

E-mail: stgeorgedr@washpost.com

3. Washington Post Ombudsman:

Michael Getler

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/23/218246.shtml

Open Letter to Washington Post from NCFM-DC

Matt · 25 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

I received the following (click "Read More..." for the text) from the NCFM-DC chapter. It seems they are not impressed by the Post's recent DV articles. No surprise there! Please read and e-mail the Post in support of the sentiments expressed.The following letter is being sent to Leonard Downie, Executive Editor of the Washington Post. If you wish to support this letter, please e-mail the Washington Post at:

1. Letters to the Editor: letters@washpost.com

2. Michael Getler, Ombudsman

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

==========

December 24, 2004

Leonard Downie, Jr.

Executive Editor

The Washington Post

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20071

Dear Mr. Downie:

I am writing on behalf of the National Coalition of Free Men – DC Chapter to express our numerous concerns with the Washington Post's recent series on Maternal Homicide. The series, written by Donna St. George and others, consists of three main articles:

December 19: “Many New or Expectant Mothers Die Violent Deaths”

December 20: “Violence Intersects Lives of Promise”

December 21: “Mending Shattered Childhoods”

Before sharing our concerns, I will mention that others have expressed serious reservations about this series:

1. Jack Shafer, Slate editor-in-chief: THE MUDDLED MATERNAL MURDER SERIES LOSES ITS WAY [http://slate.msn.com/id/2111254/]

2. Richard Davis, vice president of Family Non-Violence Inc.: EXPECTANT MOTHERS’ REAL RISK OF VIOLENCE [http://www.ifeminists.net/introduction/editorials/2004/1222davis.html]

3. Mike LaSalle, MensNewsDaily.com editor: WOMAN STRANGLES EXPECTANT MOTHER, CUTS OUT BABY – ANDY ROONEY UNAVAILABLE FOR COMMENT [http://mensnewsdaily.com/blog/2004/12/woman-strangles-expectant-mother-cuts.htm]

The Maternal Homicide series contains many serious flaws, both of a journalistic and social nature:

DOES NOT REPRESENT GOOD JOURNALISM

On nine counts, the Maternal Homicide series does not measure up to accepted standards of good journalistic practice:

1. Gives a Distorted Picture

Research shows that women are just as likely as men to instigate domestic violence (DV).

Law professor Linda Kelly reviewed the domestic violence research in the Florida State University Law Review and concluded, "leading sociologists have repeatedly found that men and women commit violence at similar rates." [http://www.law.fsu.edu/journals/lawreview/downloads/304/kelly.pdf].

And psychologist John Archer reviewed 522 articles and concluded, “Women were slightly more likely than men to use one or more act of physical aggression and to use such acts more frequently.” (Psychological Bulletin, Vol. 126, No. 5, 2000)

But the Washington Post series never acknowledges that domestic violence is a problem that affects men and women alike.

2. Does Not Include Relevant Context

The series focuses on 207 expectant or new mothers who were killed each year by their boyfriends or husbands. While tragic, the series does not mention that there were 4,022,000 -- over four million -- births in the United States in 2002.

While the articles foster the impression that maternal homicide is widespread, statistics reveal the exact opposite: only five one-thousandths of 1% of expectant or new mothers – that is, 0.005% – are victims of fatal domestic violence.

3. Ignores Conflicting Information

The series states most maternal homicides arise from domestic violence. To support that thesis, Donna St. George did an in-depth review of only 72 cases. On the basis of that review, she concludes that "nearly 30 percent" of them were not due to domestic violence.

St. George’s “nearly 30 percent” figure is very different from the large Massachusetts study that she cites. In Massachusetts, 62% of maternal homicides were not related to DV [www.mass.gov/dph/fch/safemoms/preg02rg.htm]. The large discrepancy between “nearly 30 percent” and 62% seriously undermines the thesis of the articles.

Clearly the reporter’s 72 cases do not consist of a representative sample, and therefore cannot provide the basis for drawing generalizations.

4. Contains Factual Errors

The "Researchers Stunned by Scope of Slayings" article states, “In 2002, Massachusetts weighed in with a study that also showed homicide as the top cause of maternal death, followed by cancer.”

That statement is incorrect. For White non-Hispanic women, the Massachusetts study found that motor vehicle accidents, not homicides, were the number one cause of injury-related death.

5. Imposes Agreement When No Agreement Exists

The Sunday article states, “many experts have come to agree that 4 percent to 8 percent of pregnant women – 160,000 to 320,000 a year – are physically hurt by husbands, boyfriends or partners.”

That statement is self-evidently false. A two-fold difference in the range of 160,000 to 320,000 DV cases a year does not represent anything that resembles “agreement.” And given the controversies in this field, why doesn’t St. George provide the reader with the names of her “experts”?

6. Relies on Innuendo

Sunday's article includes statements suggesting the problem may be far worse, but provides no factual basis for that implication: “The Unknown Toll,” “few could be sure they knew of all or even most cases,” etc.

7. Uses Emotion-Laden Headlines

"Many New or Expectant Mothers Die Violent Deaths," "Researchers Stunned by Scope of Slayings," and "Mending Shattered Childhoods" are the type of headlines one would expect to find in a supermarket tabloid, not in the Washington Post.

8. Provides Very Little News

The real "news" of the series can be summarized in a single sentence: Each year 295 new or expectant mothers die from homicides, and possibly 70% of these deaths are caused by boyfriends or husbands.

That finding deserves a single 1,000-word article, not the front-page recounting of tragic anecdotes that the series becomes fixated upon.

9. Represents “Red-Meat” Journalism

Fatal domestic violence against mothers is a highly emotional issue that deserves objective and balanced journalistic treatment. Unfortunately, this is not the case in the Maternal Homicide series.

DOES A DISSERVICE TO YOUR READERS

In addition to the above-listed journalistic flaws, the series does a disservice to the Washington Post readers:

1. Leaves the Reader with the Wrong Conclusion

By failing to mention that there are over four million births each year, the series implies that DV-related maternal deaths are commonplace. That is an ostensibly false conclusion.

2. Promotes a Form of "Rape Hysteria"

The series becomes overwhelmed with tragic anecdotes. Women are always depicted as victims, and men are portrayed as perpetrators. The parallels between this series and newspaper articles in the southern United States in the 1920s that promoted “rape hysteria” are disturbing indeed.

3. Ignores Abusive Women Who Need Help

Women who initiate domestic violence need help. By ignoring those women, society never focuses on assuring they can receive the counseling and therapy they need.

In summary, the Washington Post’s Maternal Homicide series, in both the journalistic and social senses, is grossly deficient. Whether intended or not, its effect is to stereotype and vilify men.

ACTIONS TO TAKE

Domestic violence is an important social issue, and it deserves balanced treatment by the Washington Post. Therefore we are requesting that you promptly implement the three following actions:

1. Schedule an educational session for your reporters and editors, to be presented by one or more of our Chapter members, on the scope, nature, and trends of domestic violence, based on the findings of scientific research.

2. Research and run a three-part series that features domestic violence against men. The series should address the following topics: research findings, how male victims are often ignored by DV programs and services, and what male victims can do to protect themselves and get help.

3. In all future DV articles, the Washington Post should assure that your reporters and editors provide a balanced and fair perspective.

In closing, I know that you are dedicated to the highest ideals of journalistic practice, and strive to assure that the Post reflects the best standards of objectivity and fairness. I look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

National Coalition of Free Men, DC Chapter

P.O. Box 1404

Rockville, MD 20849

cc:

Steve Coll, Managing Editor

Milton Coleman, Deputy Managing Editor

Michael Getler, Ombudsman

Donna St. George, Reporter

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/25/0511227.shtml

"Wars happen because men like fighting"

Matt · 25 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "On Christmas Day 1914, exactly ninety years ago, British and German soldiers in WW1 called a ceasefire and got together to sing carols, exchange gifts, and play football. In some places on the front line, the peace lasted for weeks. Meanwhile back in London, feminists were giving out white feathers to men not in uniform. See 'Christmas Truce' by Malcolm Brown and Shirley Seaton.

Links here and here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/25/0513201.shtml

Washington Post DV Series Draws More Criticism

Matt · 27 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Again from Slate's Jack Shafer, this time an article entitled, Body Count: Doing the Math on the Washington Post's momicide series."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/0436232.shtml

AIDS: it's a female epidemic

Matt · 27 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The BBC presents Princess Kasune Zulu sweetly smiling in tradition African dress. She declares, "The latest UNAids annual report only confirms what we know -- Aids is a female epidemic." Thanks for delivering that load of manure, Princess. But wait, there's more. The Princess intones that AIDS prevention programs should "expand the freedom of girls and women to negotiate their sexual activity, and engage boys and men in discussion about their assumptions regarding their own gender roles." Great AIDS prevention strategy. Sounds to me like warmed-over Western academic feminitwit-babble. It's the new form of global colonialism. And it shows contempt for men lives and ignores the many male victims of AIDS. Thanks for your care for men, Princess."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/0438238.shtml

Who's Your Daddy?

Matt · 27 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Last year, more than 3,000 DNA paternity tests were commissioned by Australian men, and in almost a quarter of those cases, the test revealed that not only had their partners been unfaithful, but the children they thought were theirs had been sired by someone else. The Supreme Court in Victoria is scheduled to hear an appeal from a woman who was successfully sued by her ex-husband for paternity fraud. This report examines the ramifications of this landmark case. Meanwhile, in Germany, father's rights groups in Germany are fighting to retain their right to have secret paternity tests without a mother's permission. They say it is the only way to combat paternity fraud.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/0443232.shtml

Men "Still Suffering in Silence"

Matt · 27 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes
"Most may be too humiliated to report it, but PAUL BOWEN bears testimony to the fact that men endure domestic abuse at the hands of their female partners."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/0445222.shtml

"Vagina Monologues" draws protest

Matt · 27 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "According to the Oregon Daily Emerald, the 'Vagina Monologues' drew protests. What kind of protests? Get this: 'In flyers handed out to audience members at the show, University graduate Nicole Sangsuree Barrett wrote that while there was `diversity` in the show, it was minimal. Women of `a variety of skin colors, body sizes, abilities and gender expressions were not adequately represented,` she said. Maybe women are underrepresented in this diverse, multicultural, inclusive process, which will lead to dialogue and facilitates emancipation from the patriarchy-made race-based stereotypes that may hurt sensitive and oppressed women.'

At last, I see the light..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/0449219.shtml

Another biased DV story

Matt · 28 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ric writes "Sydney's leading daily newspaper has just run another story about domestic violence and you guessed it - no mention of violence against men or against children. RespectYourMan has set up a protest page with sample email to send to the columnist - Piers Akerman. This is the third DV article along these lines in this newspaper in the last 12 months. Enough!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/2316254.shtml

Home Run at the Post!

Matt · 28 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Please click "Read more..." for the good news. Thanks to all who participated!

We Hit a Home Run at the Washington Post!
Last week the Washington Post ran a three-part series on Maternal Homicide that was an example of writing (it didn't qualify as 'journalism') that appealed more to the emotions than the intellect.

But this time around, we were ready. Thanks to a cooperative effort among the National Coalition of Free Men - DC chapter, the Men's Activism News Network, the Desert Light Journal, and several men's rights discussion groups, we hit a home run!

On Saturday, the Post ran two excellent letters to the editor.

And then on Sunday, the WP Ombudsman Michael Getler devoted one-third of his weekly column to a critique of the series. This was his best line: "The criticism that seemed most worthy of attention was directed at the statistical underpinnings of the project, especially those statistics that were not in the articles, and the cautions about the data."

This time we proved that we are capable of mounting a fast response; that we are able to generate hundreds of emails, phone calls and letters from around the country; and that we are able to be heard by a high-ranking editor at the Post.

A hearty clap on the back to everyone who helped to make this a success!

And while you're still in the generous Christmas spirit, why not send Mr. Getler a quick thank-you note? We want to show our appreciation -- and give him a subtle reminder that we will continue to closely monitor the Washington Post's coverage of the DV issue!

Here's how to contact him:

Michael Getler, Ombudsman

E-mail: ombudsman@washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/27/2323214.shtml

Winnepeg Sun Columnist Writes Hard-Hitter

Matt · 28 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Ross Parent writes "Lydia Lovric of the Winnipeg Sun, has penned the most honest, hard-hitting, truthful essay about the equality scam that I've seen since Donna Laframbious left the National Post. You really must read this to believe it. I hope she still has a job. Check it out soon, as I don't know how long it will be accessible. A quick note to the Winnipeg Sun and Miss Lovric would be great."

Ed. note: Ms. Lovric's web site is found at http://www.lydialovric.com/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/28/1753204.shtml

Susan Sontag's Death Reported - with Omissions

Matt · 29 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

The AP and the are reporting BBC the death of Susan Sontag, among other news providers (see stories: AP and BBC). However they failed to make note of Ms. Sontag's feminism or her pinning the responsibility for 9/11 on the US. Contrast the BBC's report with this writing, originally appearing on the IWF web site.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/29/0129245.shtml

National Non-custodial Parent Class Action Lawsuit Seeks Virginia Coordinators

Matt · 29 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Harold Leist seeks local coordinators to continue the NCP lawsuit effort in Virginia. Please click "Read more..." for the details and if you are an NCP in Virginia, please consider joing Harold's efforts to help you and other NCPs get some sembalnce of justice.

Hi everyone,

Well as you all know we are not dead in the water. Considering the judge gave us leave to amend the complaint and told us what the problem is, I would say we are looking good. I would like to think that all of you who sent letters and all the other things that have been done had some impact on it.

I write to you today in an effort to form leaders in every county in Virginia. Of the group that we have we go from the coast to the mountains, from rural farms to the largest of cities. We are everywhere. The problem is we have only scratched the surface of the people who know about us.

Would you be interested in putting together a team where you live to help get the word out? You would be asked to set up some type of email service (yahoo works great) so you can contact people, work on passing fliers by posting in Wal-Mart, K Mart and passing them out at the malls and other such stuff to try to get people involved.

Now you don’t have to do all the work yourself. It will be up to you to build a local team to help you with the projects.

Now would be a great time for everyone to get involved. According to the court tracking system (Pacer) lots of paperwork has been filed for the case. Lots more wouldn't hurt. Let the court, and everyone else know we are here.

There are over 360,000 NCP’s in VA. Add to that what every you want for those who have remarried (you new wife or husband has the same problems you have) and you could say we are a large voting block that needs to be considered.

So let’s break the state down into smaller pieces and press to get the word out and everyone on the same page. It will only help our children.

Let me know if you can help,

Thank you,

Harold

=====

Harold Leist

VA Coordinator,

National Non-custodial Parent Class Action Law Suit

http://www.leist.us/ (read the suit)

harold-at-leist.us (contact me)

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Virginiacivilrightscouncil
(discuss the case)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/29/1748229.shtml

Domestic Violence Delusions...a PBS documelodrama - Part 1 of 3

Matt · 29 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Part 1 of a 3-part essay, submitted by Harry Crouch. Click "Read more..." for the text.

The author is a full time men's rights activist, co-proprietor of MENSBIZ, publisher of Women Industry News, member of the San Diego Domestic Violence Council, and Board Member of the National Coalition of Free Men Los Angeles.

At his request, if you e-mail him, please use "re KPBS Documelodrama" as the subject line.

Domestic Violence Delusions…a PBS documelodrama
The evening of Wednesday, December 8, was reserved for the screening Breaking the Silence, Journeys of Hope, a new PBS documentary produced by KPBS, which operates from a large plush building on the main campus of San Diego State University, the home of the first women's studies program in the United States.

The documentary was co-sponsored by The Waite Family Foundation, which funds many of San Diego family violence related events and organizations, including $125,000 of the San Diego Domestic Violence Council's annual budget.

I walked into a party of sorts, thought I was in the wrong room; there was a stage, couple of podiums, nice chairs in neat rows, display tables filled with literature, and lots of good eats. There were all sorts of finger foods, including shrimp, pot-stickers, veggies, egg-rolls… Gourmet stuff, not that frozen in the box deep-fry. I guess the cash strapped domestic violence industry does better than they let on.

Thirty or forty people surrounded the food table, others gathered to talk, and more sauntered in. Someone was singing and strumming cords on a guitar. Maybe it was a wedding and I made a wrong turn. Nope, I spotted some DV industry operatives I knew. I brought a selection of brochures and put them conspicuously on a display table by the door. I really needed a cup of coffee, found it, and surveyed the room for allies. I spotted one, but not the one I had come with, Albert Schafer, a rehab therapist case manager and President of The Coalition of Parent Support. Albert was already lost lobbying somewhere in the growing crowd.

The coffee was decent. I grabbed a pot-sticker. Then, it hit me like a ton of frivolous restraining orders. One of men's rights activist allies recently had to beg a local shelter for a hotel voucher for an abused man looking for a safe place to hide from his violent wife. Initially, the shelter refused. After more begging, the activist was able to secure a voucher for a roach motel. I imagined a junkie crash pad, mold in the walls comforting rats, and unwashed, stained sheets on a lumpy bed with squeaky, broken, box springs. The next day the advocate begged for a better and safer room for the abused man. The shelter relented and coughed up three days rent for a room minus my imagined roaches, mold, rats, and stained sheets. Here I was sucking down a fancy pot-sticker. I wanted to spit it out, but that would have been tacky, plus it was tasty. I ate nothing more, guzzled my coffee, and wondered how many hotel vouchers could have been bought instead of the gourmet frilly food. What a waste of supposedly precious resources. There must be an abuse excuse for that to… They should always have coffee.

One of the event's opening speakers was a young woman from the Waite Family Foundation. After a few comments, she announced that 95% of all domestic violence perpetrators are men. Truth aside, the young woman delivered the party line straight faced like other victimhood party operatives. Her research apparently overlooked the recent assessment of domestic violence resources in San Diego. The County Office of Violence and Crime Prevention conducted the assessment and found that women accounted for 24% of domestic violence arrests, which is just the tip of the proverbial iceberg, as most reputable family violence researchers and cops know.

Virtually every California police officer I have asked about male versus female aggressors, perhaps a 100 or so, gave roughly the same answer; about 50/50 with up to a 10% or less variance one way or the other.

Interestingly, I witnessed a San Diego Police Domestic Violence Unit Investigator announce the 95% myth in a training that I recently attended, and one Queen of Denial Long Beach Sergeant Sheriff's deputy had never, ever, not once, heard of a woman perp. Hmm… Long Beach and San Diego must be safe places for heterosexual men and lesbians, which they are not, or the good Sergeant and SDPD Investigator work part-time in the misinformation office of the National Organization of Women.

Of course, the industry wants people to believe western women are still oppressed and suffer horrendous abuse simply because they are women. I wondered if they ever considered that men die six years earlier, suffer almost all work related deaths and injuries, die by the thousands in war, suffer the most alcoholism, and commit suicide 10 times more than women when intimate relationships end. Unfortunately, the male bias in the abuse industry directly contributes to the premature death of men, particularly suicides. Even so, everyone knows victims cannot be blamed, except for men, and, to reiterate, there is no excuse for abuse, except for women; hence, long live the 95% myth.

A local who's who of San Diego's domestic violence industry insiders comprise the Advisory Board of the KPBS Domestic Violence Awareness Campaign, a subcommittee of which appears to have guided the production of the documentary. However, none of the Who's Who seemed to know the first thing about, or at least care about, male recipients of domestic abuse, unless they are gay.

Radical feminism's influence on KPBS, local domestic violence industry operatives, and the industry's disregard for heterosexual males came through loud and clear in what was shown of the documentary. Such bias permeates KPBS's domestic violence campaign's "Someone You Know Needs Help" website too. "Someone," being women of course.

The website has sound bites like, "…teaching young boys that violence against women and children is wrong" and "…half of female victims of intimate violence live in households with children under the age of 12." There is not one word I could find about teaching young girls that violence against men and women is wrong, so I guess female perpetrated violence is Ok, if not promoted, excuse or no excuse. The first sound bite, by omission, also implies it is fine if boys learn that violence against men is Ok. Moreover, I wonder which households the millions of abused men and boys live in, apparently none with children under 12? The link "Learn the Facts," reveals a short list of me-ism Gender Feminist statistics with not one mention of an abused man or boy, like we only exist to beat women and deserve no further consideration. Violence is a high price to pay for ignorance, politics, and ideology.

The documentary is stale, rehashed, and stereotypical pandering propaganda. It has standard tear-jerk stories of beaten women, followed by a white heterosexual man's rendition of life as a reformed woman beater. The film has a well-known actor, perhaps Hispanic, telling young school children about his saga growing up with an abusive father and beating bad dad into a fetal position until he blubbered like an idiot, just before our actor roll model ran away to find fame and fortune in Hollywood.

With all the Law degrees and PhDs on the documentary subcommittee, one would think the slightest degree of fair and original thinking might shine through. However, the documentary is the same old gender biased stuff; bashing bad man breeders of European descent. It is just repackaged, in another, "We refuse to talk about women who kick, maim, and kill" documelodrama.

How do these professionals, some with graduate degrees in child psychology and family counseling, justify showing such incomplete and misleading drivel to children who may go home every afternoon from school, only to be beaten bloody by a drug addicted, alcoholic, or personality disordered mother?

Part 2 will be posted tomorrow.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/29/2012202.shtml

Domestic Violence Delusions...a PBS documelodrama - Part 2 of 3

Matt · 30 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Part 2 of a 3-part essay, submitted by Harry Crouch. Click "Read more..." for the text. [Part 1 is found here.]

The author is a full time men's rights activist, co-proprietor of MENSBIZ, publisher of Women Industry News, member of the San Diego Domestic Violence Council, and Board Member of the National Coalition of Free Men Los Angeles.

At his request, if you e-mail him, please use "re KPBS Documelodrama" as the subject line.

Domestic Violence Delusions…a PBS documelodrama
(continued from part 1...)

The documentary played up the bad dad slight of hand, again blaming wife beaters for raising boys to beat women. Nevertheless, there was no mention of women like Texan Dena Schlosser, who cut off the legs and arms of her 11-month-old baby. I saw no reenactment of Waco whacko grandma Rose M. Cherry who daily whipped her 4-year-old granddaughter, until she died from blunt force trauma. The propaganda included nothing about New South Wales Kathleen Folbigg who killed in cold blood her four children over a ten year period because their crying annoyed her and the little buggers interrupted her gym time and dancing. I saw no segments about any of the millions of women who abuse men, women, or children.

The documentary did not even mention local Astrid Tepatti and her lesbian lover Ebony Wood, who unsuccessfully tried more than once to murder Tepatti's Camp Pendleton Marine husband, Stephan Tepatti, for his insurance money. Earlier this year, Houston's Dr. Rick Lohstroh's, 10-year-old son pumped bullets into his Dad until dead. After a contentious divorce, ex-wife Deborah Geisler bought the gun and may have encouraged their son to use it. Moreover, let us not forget infamous women like Clara Harris with her Mercedes, her weapon of choice used to run circles over her estranged hubby. Harris even took their daughter along for the ride. Later, incarcerated murderer Harris was awarded legal custody of her children. Geisler and Harris did not make the documelodrama's casting call either. Go figure…

I guess examples like those don't qualify as domestic violence; either that, or, industry operatives can't find a man to blame, like some blamed the husband of estrogen deficient mass murderer Andrea Yates, who snuffed out her five children in a matter of minutes. Obviously, such situations are a hard squeeze into the misogynistic patriarchal model of oppressed women victimhood, as are homosexual on homosexual violence, lesbian on lesbian violence, prison rape, and all those abused boys caught up in the continuing Catholic Church debacle, particularly the ones abused by Nuns. Then there's Lynndie England's having way to much fun smile as she tortured naked male prisoners in Iraq, but that's foreign violence and doesn't count here, or does it?

Men who beat women may be responsible for some boys growing up women beaters, but there is no question, none, nada, zero, zip, that westernized women commit the lion's share of child abuse and a hefty hunk of adult on adult family violence; so, who really raises most of the boys that abuse women? If boys were raised by and survived Schlosser, Cherry, Folbigg, Geisler, Harris, or women like them, can anyone reasonably believe such boys would grow up with no propensity to abuse women?

Additionally, what happens to little girls and young women in analogous situations, like Clara Harris's daughter along for the ride? Then there is the California woman convicted of stalking the foster family caring for her teenage daughter and soliciting a former client to kidnap her. Last month, a jury convicted the woman of residential burglary, child endangerment, and battery. The daughter was reportedly hit, kicked, and suffered years of physical and emotional abuse, though the mother maintained innocence, alleging her daughter invented the abuse charges after an argument. Regardless of truth, it appears the daughter may have continuing difficulties, particularly with her mother, family lawyer, Marilyn Freeman. Only wrongheaded ideologically driven politics keeps us from better protecting such children.

The KPBS documelodrama was apparently stopped short to make room for more speakers and a panel discussion. Two speakers of note were recipients and givers of abuse. The first was a young woman whose story was truly heart wrenching, then they paraded out the token gay guy. I had seen this trick before when I took a 40-hour volunteer course for the Family Justice Center, where, to offer up a victim and show gender inclusiveness, they paraded out a gay guy whose lover stuck a knife somewhere. Nevertheless, this gourmet bash was different; this gay guy was a reformed perp. Whoa! A reformed perp gay guy, how progressive is that? Moreover, he was Hispanic. One has to applaud the multi-faceted diversity. I felt honored just to be there, especially since so few heterosexual guys were in the group, relatively speaking.

Curiously, they had a gay guy who abused another gay guy, and a woman abused by many men, but no lesbian who abused another lesbian, or man abused by many women. No women who abused anyone? Now how did that happened?

A gnarly story about kinky lesbian intimate violence would have added a bit of color. Maybe even a passing mention about the lesbian dilemma and theoretical debate about lesbian consensual sadomasochism and how it squares with intimate abuse and the law.

But, Hey, why discuss anything relevant to help lesbians? No reason to "…disrupt certain dominant feminist homogenizing views," as remarked by Janice Ristock in her landmark work No More Secrets: Violence in Lesbian Relationships, wherein she also reports that a whopping 48% of the lesbians she studied experienced sexual assaults by their lesbian lovers. Lesbian Ristock says,

> "(Her) whole book is a refusal of the science/social drive to create all-explanatory models. (Her) point is that all such models, all monolithic understandings of abuse, are flawed. 'Mutual abuse' is wrong, 'power and control' is wrong, 'effects of patriarchy' is wrong when indiscriminately applied."

Go girl! Ristock put herself at great risk in the feminist community by sharing her thoughts and findings.

KPBS's monolithically myopic production Breaking the Silence, Journeys of Hope, took no risks and walks straight down the industry line of delusional sobriety. More apt is, Causing More Violence, Travels in Omission by the Politically Correct; or, perhaps, Blame the Big Bad Man and Shame the Male Child, Adventures in Misandry and Other Card Tricks.

The panel discussion came next. On stage were Sterling Alexander, PhD., licensed clinical psychologist and the Chair of San Diego County's Commission on Children, Youth and Families Child Abuse Prevention Committee. To his left sat Pat McGrath, Deputy District Attorney, Assistant Chief of the Family Protection Division. Then came Aurora Zepeda, M.P.A., who advises various organizations on policies concerning the whole range of victimhood, from infancy until death. Last, was Vincent J. Felitti, M.D., Clinical Professor of Medicine at the University of California and founder of the California Institutes of Preventive Medicine. Dr. Felitti conducted research on the long-term relationship of adverse childhood experiences to adult health.

I must say, with no disrespect, that I don't remember much of what this esteemed panel said, since I'd heard the bullet points many times before; so, the information bounced off me with the redundancy of Klingon torpedoes caroming off Starship Enterprise's force field. When at such events, I hear a continuous subliminal chorus chanting, "bIjatlh 'e' yImev. naDevvo' yIghoS. bIjatlh 'e' yImev. naDevvo' yIghoS…," which in Klingon means, "Shut up. Go away. Shut up. Go away…" Paranoia can be fun. No matter, there were a few memorable moments.

MC Gloria Penner, host of the popular local KPBS show "Editors Roundtable," asked the panel a question about emotional abuse, which panel members seemed to quickly sidestep. The question also gave me a great lead for a question. I raised my hand when the question period began and was chosen. I offered something like, "I want to thank Ms. Penner for raising the issue of emotional abuse. I wonder if Mr. McGrath would explain how many emotional abusers the District Attorney's Office has prosecuted for paternity fraud, parental alienation, and false accusations." The room got quiet, but McGrath deftly fielded the question. His short answer, none. His long answer pitched such matters back to family court. McGrath was truthful, to his credit.

Part 3 will be posted tomorrow.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/30/1829254.shtml

BBC: Women 'still face glass ceiling'

Matt · 30 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

More "glass ceiling" nonsense from the BBC.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/30/1843224.shtml

Insult woman - go to jail!

Matt · 31 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "Will it ever stop? From the Guardian: "The law puts anti-gay and sexist comments on an equal footing with racist or anti-semitic insults, allowing French courts to hand down fines of up to €45,000 (£30,000) and jail sentences of up to 12 months for "defamation or incitement to discrimination, hatred or violence on the grounds of a person's sex or sexual orientation"." Aside from saying goodbye to free speech, I cannot help but wonder: what is a "sexist comment" for the Law? "The feminist group Les Chiennes de Garde, or Guard Bitches, added that it hoped the law would lead to a fall in the number of physical attacks on women "by first outlawing verbal violence"." No, this will not outlaw anti-men advertisement and media bias, but thanks for asking. Maybe we could outlaw any form of speech for men, so everybody would just climb trees, eat fruit and get along? Oog oog!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/31/0311254.shtml

National Geographic Places Women's Suffering Above Men's

Matt · 31 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "The newly arrived January 2005 issue of the National Geographic has the following text on page 89 "The women of Anefgou mourn the death of one of their own, from old age. Tied to the countryside by tradition and lack of education, women "do the heavy lifting," says GEOGRAPHIC researcher Marisa Larson, who served this region as a Peace Corps volunteer. Women plow the fields and raise the children while their men increasingly toil in the cities."

Ed. note: On-line excerpt from article is found here.

Click "Read more..." for more.

So, it seems that the Moroccan Patriarchy is oppressing the Berber women in the Atlas Mountains, while their men have the privilege of living in shantytowns on the outskirts of Casablanca and Rabat where they work long hours for a pittance to send home.

Granted, it sounds like a tough life for BOTH genders, but is it necessary to denigrate the Berber men like this? The National Geographic is a fine magazine otherwise, but it has this annoying tendency to insert "academic" feminism into many of its articles.

Ironically, on page 85 the following text may be found "Bold strokes of saffron mark a woman in Zaouia Ahansal as the mother of a boy being circumsised and also as a Berber, or Amazigh (Free Person)." Also, page 91 has "Following Muslim custom, villagers circumcise a two-year-old [boy] in a Taarart courtyard."

Where is the outcry against male genital mutilation by the National Geographic?

Contact the National Geographic via this page, or send a letter to the editor at: ngsforum@nationalgeographic.com.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/31/0324240.shtml

Desperately Seeking Quote to Rebut DC Post

Matt · 31 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

DemandingJustice writes "Sorry if this isn't the right place for this request, but I looked all over and couldn't find any other way to submit it.

I'm writing a lengthy article to rebut The Washington Post's recent articles on "murdered mothers", and am trying to find a particular quote that I had stored away some years ago, but (of course!) cannot find now that I need it. I'm hoping that a MANN reader might be able to help me.

The quote is by a woman, I believe a university professor from New England (or at least the northeast). In it, she says something like: "Feminism has done more damage than any other movement in history and most of this damage is irreversible [or maybe "permanent"].

PLEASE, I've spent the past 4 hours looking for it on my PC and on the web ... does ANYBODY remember seeing this statement anywhere?

THANKS!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/31/0326212.shtml

Domestic Violence Delusions...a PBS documelodrama - Part 3 of 3

Matt · 31 December 2004 · Archived copy · Original

Part 3 of a 3-part essay, submitted by Harry Crouch. Click "Read more..." for the text. [Part 2 is found here.]

The author is a full time men's rights activist, co-proprietor of MENSBIZ, publisher of Women Industry News, member of the San Diego Domestic Violence Council, and Board Member of the National Coalition of Free Men Los Angeles.

At his request, if you e-mail him, please use "re KPBS Documelodrama" as the subject line.

Domestic Violence Delusions...a PBS documelodrama
(continued from href="http://www.mensactivism.org/article.pl?sid=04/12/30/1829254">part 2...)

Nonetheless, such abuses are devastating and often life-threatening forms of premeditated emotional abuse and otherwise clearly satisfy legal definitions of criminal domestic violence, child abuse, and elder abuse, as applicable.

Fortunately, for the abuse industry, family courts are not overly encumbered by minor inconveniences like due process, witness testimony, physical evidence, pushy public defenders, and bail hearings. Of course, many in attendance knew that, some even worked hard to make it that way.

Without question, when one considers the high incidence of paternity fraud, parental alienation, and false accusations, women violently and maliciously abuse men overwhelmingly more than men violently and maliciously abuse women, including traumatizing forced rape for good measure. I guess many at the screening knew that too, which is why the room got so quiet and the industry shuffled such abuse over to family court, where it could be better hidden and manipulated, primarily in favor of violent women; again, in the best interests of children of course.

Now, I may have been remiss, since it appeared the entire documelodrama was not shown. So, let me apologize now to whomever I offended if it turns out the rest of the production shows violent and abusive women, lesbians even; and, abused men, like gays. Alas, I must confess, I still suspect there is nothing included about women abusing heterosexual men or transgenders abusing whomever transgenders abuse. Diversity is one of the best exclusive inclusiveness schemes ever conjured up.

In my view, the "Diversity Movement" mirrors a reverse hate group grope, like the KKK. Instead of hooded white guys, the Diversity Movement seems tightly controlled largely by pampered rich to upper middle class white women once uniformed in tie-dye cotton smocks with sandals, flapping around hand painted "Men are SCUM" signs; now turned contemporary custom English men's business suits, Gucci pumps, thinking about flapping around "Men are SCUM" signs printed at Kinko's. So showing women beating men in this documelodrama was surely considered counterproductive, even if men are abused regularly simply by omission? Talking about abused men, particularly heterosexual men, is apparently tantamount to sharing the location of the next cross burning with the FBI. Maybe these lateral thinking, connected way of knowing, Gender Feminist, documelodrama producers ought to come out of the closet and join the rest of us non-haters, if for no other reason than diversity. We can work on truth, understanding, and tolerance later.

I was anxious to leave and I suspect many others were equally, if not more, anxious for me to go, even though I was well behaved. As soon as all the mucky-muck thanking was over, I headed for the door shaking hands on the way. I forgot to mention that between the pot-stickers and first speaker, most of the brochures that I had earlier conspicuously placed on the table by the door disappeared and I had to go back to the parking garage, open my trunk, and drag some more back to the festivities. Leaving through the entry, I noticed a few second trip brochures still on the table; I strained my neck backwards looking at them, jeopardized my balance, stumbled over my own feet, and bumped into the gay guy.

"Whoops, Sorry, I appreciate very much you sharing your story with us," I stammered quickly while regaining my balance and trying not to sound glib, since he deserved the compliment.

He was a bit nervous. Apparently, this was the largest group to which he had shared his soul, "Thanks, I appreciate you telling me."

Now that we had appreciated each other with proper humanist protocol, I offered, "Yeah, they always parade out a gay guy, never a heterosexual. Go figure... I'm a men's rights activist, did you get any of our brochures?"

Somewhat chagrined, he said, "No, I..."

I cut him off, put my arm around his shoulder, turned him around, and gave marching orders, "Come on obligatory gay guy, I've got some good brochures about gay victims of domestic violence in here. Let me show you..." and off we went.

We talked some more after I rescued copies of the brochures that I drug in, including the one about abused gay guys, and encouraged him to give me a call if he needed someone to talk with or whatever, but I don't date. As far as I could see, no one else brought literature to help gays or lesbians, amazing, if true.

Then I butted into a conversation between Dr. Alexander and friend David Bruer, the other men's rights advocate there. David operates the Fathers Resource Center in Encinitas, CA.

After some discussion, Dr. Alexander asked me if I had any solutions in mind. That threw me. In the last three years as an equity advocate, there were only two times I can remember when anyone in the San Diego abuse industry asked me about solutions. Those opportunities came from Linda Wong-Kerbert of the County Office of Crime Prevention and members of the non-denominational SAFE Place Faith Communities committee designing and implementing a broad based information, education, and referral program for area congregations. I was totally unprepared for Alexander's question.

I started babbling incoherently and could not understand myself or shut up. Must be the better living through chemicals approach I adopted. No matter, I spit out in no particular order rough ideas about getting various abuse industries to talk with each other, better assessment, mostly health problem not criminal, long-term support systems, prosecuting false accusers, meaningful programs for abused men, and trashing the bad man, patriarchal, ideological garbage. I referred him to Linda Mill's book, Insult to Injury: Rethinking our Responses to Intimate Abuse, and gave him a copy of Domestic Violence: The 12 Things You Aren't Supposed to Know, by Thomas James. We exchanged cards and I followed him out blah, blah, blah as we went. I would have driven me crazy. I have to get over those short periods of uncontrollable excitement when someone in the abuse industry shows interest in what I might know or have to say.

From beginning to end, the later of which we are approaching here, I judiciously gave away five copies of the Thomas James book, including one to the 95% young woman from the Waite Family Foundation. In handing it to her I said, "Here, I'd like you to have this. If you read it, you will find that men perpetrate nowhere near 95% of domestic violence." They never have.

Maybe anyone who reads this should send a letter to their local PBS station denouncing the documelodrama, particularly NPR and PBS contributors. Several have done so in San Diego along with a comment that their donations will no longer be forthcoming.

Harry Crouch

NOTE: I took great liberty with dialog since I can never remember who says what to whom, and for brevity.

End of essay

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/04/12/31/1917239.shtml

Court throws out $88.5 million award to Anna Nicole

Adam · 1 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From USA Today, A federal appeals court Thursday threw out a judge's ruling that awarded $88.5 million to former Playboy model Anna Nicole Smith from the estate of her late husband, an oil tycoon who died at age 90 just over a year after they wed. The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled a Texas probate court's decision that the oilman's son was his sole heir should stand. The appeals court said the federal judge in California who ruled in Smith's favor in 2002 should never have even heard the case. Now if we could only get family courts to recognize that some women are only motivated by financial greed."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/01/206201.shtml

Women 'still face glass ceiling'

Adam · 1 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes " Is this the BBC trying to stir up gender hatred again and taking advantage of a natural disaster to announce the report and entwine the two in the hearts and minds of the readers?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/01/2011234.shtml

Glass Ceiling myth still not shattered

Adam · 2 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The British media is pandering to another biased report from the Equal Opportunities Commission, recycling all the tired old myths about the glass ceiling, and the supposed unfair discrimination women face in the workplace. Links BBC, Guardian and Independent "research shows that most high-ranking jobs in business, the judiciary and the police are filled by men...women's careers are still blighted by a glass ceiling." There is another explanation - maybe women just aren't as motivated as men to seek top jobs."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/02/192240.shtml

Woman "accused" of scalding baby to death

Adam · 2 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From CNN, A pregnant woman was charged with killing her boyfriend's toddler daughter by scalding her in what prosecutors say was 147-degree water, then ignoring her suffering for several hours."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/02/194208.shtml

Most complained-about ads of 2004

Adam · 3 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "Sydney Morning Herald today reports on the most complained about ads of 2004, and how many of them involve violence and sexual references read it here.

Interestingly 4 of those ads relate to men with two in particular being what I would term derogatory in nature - for example one involves a woman using her rear-view mirror to stare at a guys crotch, the other a guy crashing naked through his shower floor to a girl-packed dancefloor below.

The complaints were dismissed - but hopefully the fact that these ads made it into the top ten means men are complaining more often about these forms of ads, which is a good start..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/02/196234.shtml

Women escape car insurance hike

Adam · 3 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I notice that the BBC have said nothing about part of the original directive which was to give women the same pension payments as men even though they lived longer. This of course is still sex discrimination against women whereas the car insurance hike is not a case of discrimination.

If ever there was a reason to fight feminism and come out of the EU especially in the UK this is it. It shows in true colur the hypocracy of feminism and it's twisted logic.

Notice also that the BBC state men cause most of the serious accidents. I suspect then that women cause most of the non serious accidents but the BBC don't tell you this...."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/03/1427251.shtml

False accusations can kill

Adam · 3 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Getting back to things in India, the mob justice is picking up in pace. While reading the article, notice that for a so called "tradtional" society, they're already making excuses for the women who go around killing, and the feminists are making excuses for them as well. At this rate feminism will be entrenched there soon enough, due to them exploiting traditional chivalry. Are you starting to see how the radfems subvert cultures by playing on traditional chivalry yet?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/03/1438237.shtml

New breed of consumers?

Adam · 4 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "From the Guardian: '"Young women now drive the decisions on what to buy and, unlike older women, it is she, and not her boyfriend or husband, who decides how much to spend,' said Young." That looks fine, as long as she spends her own money... "But Joanna is playing hard to get. She may be the darling of the corporations, but, despite her education and strong opinions, she has left the politicians confounded by her reluctance to vote." - And what will happen to the dumb, uneducated men? '"Young women are the great untapped power in today's society: it is not an exaggeration to say future democracy relies on engaging their voices and their votes in a way we have so far failed to do,'" - Big idea: let's place some voting booths inside Body Shop. '"The feminisation of the high street has been so pronounced in the last five years that men are being chased away: your average heterosexual man feels completely out of place on the high street now,' said Experian's Patrick Gray. 'It is only "feminised men", or metrosexual man, who dares to face it. Most men prefer the internet to real-life shops now.'" - I surely feel out of place while reading The Guardian..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/03/1440250.shtml

One Doctor's Words Against Circumcision

Matt · 4 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This is part of a doctor's journal regarding his experience as an intern. It has some really good information re circumcision in it. Send it on to anyone who tells you it's "medically necessary" or "advantageous" to do this to an infant.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/04/0632206.shtml

Too smart to be a wife?

Adam · 4 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "News.com.au reports here that a recent study has found that intelligent women are less likely to be married than less intelligent ones. All through the article, this is blamed on men - men are intimidated by intelligent women, men prefer 'the little woman' to stay at home and be like their mothers. It's all mens fault. Almost nothing is made of the opposite finding - that less intelligent men are far less likely to be married, and this certainly isn't blamed on women. Then right at the end, the quoted expert finally admits, "We find more women now are choosing not to have children or get married.". Hmm."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/04/180223.shtml

"True Love"

Matt · 4 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Interesting page on the NYTimes.com site. A reporter interviewed a number of scientific persons regarding decidedly non-scientific topics via the question "What do you believe is true even though you cannot prove it?" and came up with some fascinating replies. The last one in particular was quite noteworthy. Click the "Read more..." link for it.From http://www.nytimes.com/2005/01/04/science/04edgehed.html?oref=login&pagewanted=all:

David Buss

Psychologist, University of Texas; author, "The Evolution of Desire"

True love.

I've spent two decades of my professional life studying human mating. In that time, I've documented phenomena ranging from what men and women desire in a mate to the most diabolical forms of sexual treachery. I've discovered the astonishingly creative ways in which men and women deceive and manipulate each other. I've studied mate poachers, obsessed stalkers, sexual predators and spouse murderers. But throughout this exploration of the dark dimensions of human mating, I've remained unwavering in my belief in true love.

While love is common, true love is rare, and I believe that few people are fortunate enough to experience it. The roads of regular love are well traveled and their markers are well understood by many - the mesmerizing attraction, the ideational obsession, the sexual afterglow, profound self-sacrifice and the desire to combine DNA. But true love takes its own course through uncharted territory. It knows no fences, has no barriers or boundaries. It's difficult to define, eludes modern measurement and seems scientifically woolly. But I know true love exists. I just can't prove it.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/04/1844249.shtml

More statistics: Violent kids and the military

Matt · 4 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "Straight from the Military.com: "The Josephson Institute of Ethics, after conducting a national survey, found that "43 percent of high school and 37 percent of middle school boys believe it is ok to hit or threaten a person that makes them angry." The same survey found that "75 percent of all boys and over 60 percent of all teenage girls said they hit someone in the last 12 months because they were angry." These are the same students that are recruited into the Army. Think these anger issues are resolved before they enter the military? Think they won't be a problem in the future? Think again." At last, we found the other half of violence..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/04/1845256.shtml

Girl Not Prosectuted in Illegal Abortion

Matt · 5 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Garth writes "Two teens, a mother and father to be, decide to end a pregnancy using the do-it-yourself method. Guess who gets arrested?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/05/0059228.shtml

N.O.W. on the Post Series

Matt · 5 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The N.O.W. site has posted their typical P.C. feminazi take on the recent three-part series in the Washington Post on pregnancy and homicide.

Note all the usual feminist deceptions ... omit critical information, selectively quote the so-called research, ignore voluminous rebuttals and even the Post's own admission that the articles were poorly written, and finally, lay the groundwork for yet another DV myth and the necessary hysteria.

It's the usual standard of integrity we've come to expect from the Stalinist sisterhood, though one might agree with N.O.W.'s concluding statement – "It's not too late to save the next victim..." .. OF FEMINIST LIES!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/05/012214.shtml

BBC Amps "Women and Children" in Wake of Tsunami

Matt · 5 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Well, didn't we just have to expect it? Here it is, gang. Surprised it took them this long, actually.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/05/0247238.shtml

Wells College Going Co-Ed Draws Uproar from Students

Matt · 5 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

NPR has a piece on how Wells College in upstate New York is going co-ed. The audio clip is available form this page.

Amazing, some of the comments to be heard, all the while the interviewer speaks with a tone of sympathy in her voice. When all-male schools went co-ed in the 1960s, few in the press seemed sympathetic to the complaints of male students. More of the same: Boys bad, girls good.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/05/1959246.shtml

Andrea Yates' Murder Conviction Overturned

Matt · 6 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

dschmidt writes "The Associated Press is reporting that a Houston Judge has overturned Andrea Yates' conviction for murdering her children (all boys)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/06/1722205.shtml

The non-existent child

Matt · 6 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "You can read more about the non-existing child previously discussed here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/06/1725259.shtml

Lesbians raising sons; got a problem with that?

Matt · 6 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes: "BP News has a commentary on:

FIRST-PERSON: Lesbians raising sons; got a problem with that?

It can be read here HERE

Click "Read more..." for more commentary from the submitter.ArtflDgr writes:

The article is blithly interspersed with all manner of offensive junk.
for example:

"The disproportionate number of boys born to lesbian mothers is thus, at least in part, an ironic slap in the face from an unforgiving biological fact."

of course no one is mentioning that the reason that nature makes more males than females is that we die off faster in all age groups from adolescence on. Though the article is making the assumption that lesbians only want girl children, which then begs the question of what or why the author things this is so.

of course the article points out that these boys will be utopian men who "dance, sing, decorate, play music, sew, and do theater and imaginative dress-up as well as play football and baseball, surf, ski, and shoot hoops"

The sad part of all this is not the issue in how the boys are raised or what their interests in, but what happens when they seek mates of their own. i dont know about you guys, but i dont see the men who do "imaginative dress-up" doing too well in the dating arena. generally those horrible brutes do better... i am not saying its right, but ladies pick what they like, and men like this are not high on their list of selections...

The truth is that if the majority of attractive women went after men like this rather than the men that get their blood running hot then we would have tons of men like this. raising your children as part of a social experiment as to how you think the world should be, over how it is, doesnt help either."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/06/181231.shtml

Prenuptial Agreements May Suffer Setback for Men

Adam · 7 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Boston Herald ran an article titled "Judge to hubby: Forget prenup, pay up" in their December 30, 2004 edition. The first sentence of the article sums it all up nicely: "In a possibly precedent-setting case, the state Appeals Court has ruled that an ex-wife is entitled to alimony even though she signed a prenuptial agreement waiving it." The upshot? Men: don't get married!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/07/1947211.shtml

When science and feminism become bedfellows

Adam · 7 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "An article about the pro-feminist bias in scientific research of sex-differences and the media that report it:

Over here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/07/1950220.shtml

Female teachers and sex offenders

Adam · 7 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "In the news. 2 examples of sexual abuse coupled with the fact that they are both teachers, and women. What are the odds? What are the odds that either will serve time?

Article 1 and
Article 2"

bandersnatch writes "Article 3, A Bay City high school teacher was arrested and charged with having sex with a student, Local 2 reported in an exclusive story Wednesday. Janay Willson, 31, was indicted on two counts of sexual assault of a child. Matagorda County officials said she had a sexual relationship with the 16-year-old male student in December 1999 and January 2000 but it did not come to light until 2004. The student has since graduated. As usual, it's not rape or sexual assault but "having sex" with a minor."

I've also found another article or two you might be interested in,

Article 4 and
Article 5
. Perhaps we should start gender profiling women teachers, after all it's for the children.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/07/204228.shtml

More on the Washington Post and VAWA

Adam · 8 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "Somebody is doing the math over the latest Washington Post stunt over the VAWA."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/08/1856200.shtml

Female arrested in cyber-abuse case

Adam · 8 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From WAFB 9, We all know about high school bullying but have you heard of cyber-bullying? It's real and three Loranger High School students have been arrested for it. You're looking at computer equipment confiscated as part of the Attorney General's High Tech Crimes Unit investigation.
They say the bullying started when a 15-year-old female student created a website picking on a 14-year old male student. He responded with his own site featuring poems with threatening language. A concerned parent alerted the Tangipahoa Parish Sheriff, and he contacted authorities. One student, 18-year old Joseph Sanchez, was arrested for contributing to the delinquency of a minor; he helped the younger male set up and maintain his website. Was the girl disciplined for her website and teasing? There's no mention of it in the article but my money's on the bet she hasn't nor will she."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/08/1859231.shtml

N. Korea Wages War vs. Men's Long Hair

Matt · 9 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I simply didn't know what to list this under so I chose 'News'; it could have been 'Inequality' or maybe even 'Humor', but to the publicly condemned men who are mentioned in the article, there is I am sure nothing funny about it. Well we are talking about N. Korea here so there's no end of discussion we could have about abrogated human rights. But I do wonder if they also have a similar campaign devised to exhort women to wear their hair in a "womanly" fashion? One thing's for sure: stuff like this confirms my belief that the world is a strange place and getting yet more stranger with each passing day.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/08/2236252.shtml

AP news: "Feminists Face Tough Times"

Matt · 10 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Well, readers, have you comments regarding this news story?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/10/068213.shtml

New TV ads paint pictures of competent Dads.

Adam · 10 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "Dad's in Charge in New TV Ads
Monday, January 10, 2005
By Catherine Donaldson-Evans:

They say sex sells in advertising, but apparently, Daddy changing a diaper can also lead to big bucks. Fathers are watching the little tykes without Mom around in ads for carpeting, department stores, nasal spray, wireless technology, cereal and other products — a move that experts say reflects the modern family.

rest of story over here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/10/2017242.shtml

Newspaper Publishes Op-Ed Criticizing maternal homicides

Adam · 10 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anon user writes: "Glenn Sacks' newest column, "New Report on Maternal Homicide Crisis: Myth-Making and Manbashing" (Lexington Herald-Leader, 1/3/05) criticizes the Washington Post's recent series on maternal homicides. To read the article, go to here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/10/2020208.shtml

VA General Assembly Bill Would Make Failure To Pay C/S a Felony

Matt · 11 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

A pending bill (HB 1737), section 1.B, in the Virginia General Assembly would make failure to pay child support a Class 6 felony. Delegate John A. Cosgrove (R-Chesapeake) has introduced the bill and under its conditions would make any NCP in arrears $25,000 or more subject to arrest and prosecution (ie, persecution) for "failure to pay child support". In short, Del. Cosgrove is trying to make Virginia a lot like Michigan in that should a man be unable to find work, have a computer error happen with his payment records, or just plain have a judge not like him and refuse to allow him to submit evidence of payment, he will go to jail, be denied a profesisonal license, and the right to vote, among other things.

Click "Read more..." for more information and contact links.The 2005 VA General Assembly convenes tomorrow, Jan 12, 2005. If you live in Virginia it is imperative you contact your delegate and let your opinion be known. If not, please contact the bill's sponsor and let him know you're watching from outside the state and don't like what you are seeing.

For Del. Cosgrove, click here.

To look up a Virginia delegate, click here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/11/0520254.shtml

Good News for Those with Prostate Cancer

Adam · 11 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "HealthCentral published an article titled Biothermy for Prostate Cancer, which relates the story of men who are "successfully treated only to have their cancer return a few years later." The new treatment, biothermy, is "very promising," according to Arve Gillette, M.D., a radiation oncologist at Community Health Network in Indianapolis. Biothermy uses high dose radiation -- 10,000-times more powerful than standard radiation seeds. "You can perfectly paint the dose so that every bit of prostate that needs treating gets treated," Dr. Gillette says."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/11/2215208.shtml

New research shines a light on why women live longer

Adam · 11 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "This article was posted to physorg... you can read it here.
Given that this subject comes up all the time i thought i would include it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/11/2216208.shtml

Men's willingness to reproduce 'the key to parenthood'

Adam · 12 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "Looks like we're not that powerless when it comes to reproduction!

"Men play the dominant role when it comes to making decisions about planned parenthood, social and medical experts said.
"In recent years, birthrate research conducted in the US has been focusing on men instead of women, because studies show that men's willingness to reproduce is the key to parenthood"

Full article here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/12/2011252.shtml

Latest Guard Deployment Includes Mostly Women

Adam · 12 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "Maj. William Yuhas said the Taylor detachment is 85 percent women, most of them under 25. He said many women have joined because the 228th is the only non-combat unit in the area." as a man, would you complain that women are still given preferential treatment in the military? Or, thank them for serving our country no matter what the capacity?"

Ray also writes "Here is a timely news story reflecting America's Women in War "zeit geist." I take my hat off to women who are willing to accept the same responsibilities put on men, and tangibly be equal to men. Males are still the gender dying in this war over 97% of the time, yet the percentage of women who are experiencing the military responsibilities (historically placed on men for thousands of years) has arguably never been greater. Is it possible that through our never ending desire to show compassion for females (in this case female soldiers) we will somehow increase our compassion for male soldiers? ======
"Maj. William Yuhas said the Taylor detachment is 85 percent women, most of them under 25. He said many women have joined because the 228th is the only non-combat unit in the area." "Spc. Corchado-Reyes said she was inspired to serve by her father, Luis Corchado, a Vietnam veteran.
"I'm sad because I know what people see in war," he said."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/12/2015252.shtml

Demand Equal Pay for Equal Work!

Thomas · 13 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

It's time men started filing a load of anti-discrimination law suits. The fact is: Men deserve equal pay for equal work. In this article, Carey Roberts relates some gems from Warren Farrell's newest book, Why Men Earn More. The book can be purchased here.

The demand for Equal Pay for Equal Work should be a bellwether of the men's movement.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/12/2040228.shtml

Which Men Marry and Why

Thomas · 13 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Late last year, the National Marriage Project at Rutgers University released its 2004 annual report on the state of marriage in the US.

One interesting point:

"Challenging the popular stereotype of the marriagephobic male, findings from a new national survey of young heterosexual men, ages 25-34, indicate that while men are delaying marriage until older ages, most men are "the marrying kind." Among all men surveyed, those from traditional, religiously observant family backgrounds are more likely to be married, to seek marriage and to have positive views of marriage, women, and children than young males from nontraditional and nonreligously observant family backgrounds."

Please click "Read More" for further details.Another excerpt:

"Compared to the rest of unmarried men in this sample, those who say that marriage is "personally not for you" are strikingly more averse to marriage on a number of key questions. For example, they are substantially more likely to mistrust women to tell the truth about past relationships (60 percent v. 39 percent); more likely to worry about the risks of divorce (66 percent v. 53 percent); more likely to believe that it is okay for a woman to have a child on her own (70 percent v. 61 percent); more likely to say that they do not want children (29 percent v. 6 percent); more likely to say that single men have better sex lives than married men (52 percent v. 31 percent) and more likely to agree that "if you marry, your biggest concern would be losing your personal freedom" (62 percent v. 30 percent). They are also less likely than other unmarried men to have grown up in traditional families (41 percent v. 58 percent) and less likely to have had fathers who were involved in their lives (58 percent v. 75 percent)."

The article can be downloaded as a pdf file here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/12/2133245.shtml

VA HB1737 Going to Vote 1/17/2005

Matt · 13 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

With reference to this story on MANN, MANN received the following from Harold Leist:

Hello everyone,

Earlier we chatted about HB 1737. I have been informed that today it came up for consideration in the Virginia General Assembly House Courts of Justice Criminal Subcommittee.

To refresh your memory, this is the bill where they will put you in jail for being $25,000 behind in your child support. Now for some that seems like a lot of money. To some of you it would take a couple of years of not paying to rake up that much past due. However, to some on this list it is about 4-5 months. All it would take is for someone in this range to have a serious medical condition or get fired before they can go to jail.

Click "Read more..." for the rest of Harold's note.

This Monday, 1-17-05, it's going back to a vote. I want to ask each of you to contact everyone on the list below and express your displeasure over this bill. It needs to die in the subcommittee where it currently is.

For those who know me you know I'm not much on the "slippery slope" thinking. However, what is next year? Reduce it to $15,00 then what?

In the chat from the state coordinators it looks like lots of state Attorney Generals, who want to run for Governor, are making their bones on "being tough on deadbeat dads". I wouldn't put it past or AG Kilgore for doing the same thing.

Please contact the people below. Please have your friends do it also. Remember the vote comes up on Monday. Please do this soon.

Harold

Chairman:

Albo, David B.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1042

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Albo@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 527

Legislative Assistant: Jeremy Greenfield/J.B. Young

Secretary During Session: Bonnie Yospin

Armstrong, Ward L.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1010

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Armstrong@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 501

Legislative Assistant: Anna McClain

Secretary During Session: Kay Smith

Bell, Robert B.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1058

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Bell@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 810

Legislative Assistant: Jo Viglione/Mick Bransfield

Secretary During Session: Sandy Talmadge

Griffith, H. Morgan

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1008

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Griffith@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 607

Legislative Assistant: Karen Stephenson/Karla Boughey/Joshua Myers

Secretary During Session: Pat Lorimer

Hurt, Robert

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1016

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Hurt@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 812

Legislative Assistant: Brenda Bowman/Denise Van Valkenburg

Secretary During Session: Julia Bouck

McDonnell, Robert F.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1084

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_McDonnell@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 529

Legislative Assistant: James Toscano

Secretary During Session: Billie Thompson

McDougle, Ryan T.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1097

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_McDougle@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 517

Legislative Assistant: Anne D. Korman

Secretary During Session: Frances Phillips

Melvin, Kenneth R.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1080

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Melvin@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 502

Legislative Assistant: Necole Hodges

Secretary During Session: Kay Smith

Moran, Brian J.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1046

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Moran@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 711

Legislative Assistant: Elsie Mosqueda/Audra Tafoya

Secretary During Session: Donna Knicely

Watts, Vivian E.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1039

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Watts@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 406

Legislative Assistant: Deborah Sherman

Secretary During Session: Cynthia Burkholder

Weatherholtz, Glenn M.

General Assembly Building

P.O. Box 406

Richmond, Virginia 23218

Phone: (804) 698-1026

Fax: (804) 786-6310

Constituent Viewpoint: (800)-889-0229

Email: Del_Weatherholtz@house.state.va.us

Room Number: 716

Legislative Assistant: John H. Elledge, III

Secretary During Session: June Stephenson

Robert F. McDonnell - (Ex-Officio)

=====

Harold Leist

VA Coordinator,

National Non-custodial Parent Class Action Law Suit

http://www.leist.us (read the suit)

E-mail address (contact me)

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Virginiacivilrightscouncil

(discuss the case)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/13/1959226.shtml

Teacher's aide charged with having sex with boy

Matt · 14 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Tampa Bay 10 News, A 35-year-old central Florida teacher's aide is under arrest on charges she had sex with a 15-year-old male student.
Yet another female pedophile sexually assaults a young boy and the media headline calls it "having sex"."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/13/201232.shtml

Pittsburgh Tribune-Review: "Deadbeat dads work to avoid manhood"

Matt · 14 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User submitted the text of this article.

Ed note: It's a must-read. Contact info. for the author is at the bottom of the article.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/13/205234.shtml

Australian MPs' sperm in demand

Matt · 14 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In Australia, they have decided to remove the anonymity of sperm donors. Result: Men aren't donating anymore. Solution? Ask sperm from the MPs. Will it work? Probably not.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/13/207219.shtml

Woman rips off her ex-lover's testicle

Matt · 14 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "... for refusing to have sex with her. Another example of 'the fairer sex' in action.

She pleaded guilty but has yet to be sentenced. I bet she doesn't get a custodial sentence. If a man had mutilated a woman in such a way (cutting off a breast f'rinstance) he'd be locked up for years and put on the sex offenders' register for life etc etc..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/13/208241.shtml

Fight for paternal custody rights proving popular

Matt · 14 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "So says Phyllis Schlafly in this Op-Ed. It begins with:

One impressive Nov. 2 vote has been overlooked by the media. By 85 percent to 15 percent, a ballot initiative in Massachusetts approved equal legal and physical custody of children whose parents are divorced.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/13/2011230.shtml

RADAR...Coming this Sunday!

Matt · 15 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

R.A.D.A.R. = Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting....

....Domestic Violence Media Watch for Men....

....Coming Sunday, January 16.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/14/2220256.shtml

NiceGuy. a new site I found.

Matt · 15 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Thundercloud. writes "I was just roaming around the 'net and came across a "new" website. It is called "NICEGUY'S WOMEN/AMERISKANKS (MOSTLY) SUCK PAGE"

The webmaster is called "NiceGuy". Although I find him a bit too harsh and critical of American women, at times, and he is obviously very angry (often with good cause) he makes alot of valid points about 'Male-bashing', the media, socialized American women and especialy feminists and the workings of feminism.
If you can get passed his anger and mild gynophobia, it is a very interesting site and an interesting read. Judge for yourself.

Here's the link:
http://niceguy.dearingfilm.com/index.php"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/14/2222233.shtml

UK F4J continue to make headlines

Matt · 15 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The UK is gripped by the reality TV show Celebrity Big Brother, and in the latest in an on-going series of spectacular publicity stunts, Fathers 4 Justice broke into the show's compound and set off fireworks. Well done guys!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/14/2231221.shtml

Maureen Dowd: Men just want mommy

Matt · 15 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Here is the latest in a series of Maureen Dowd's misandric rantings in the New York Times. This time it's about how men supposedly don't want to marry women who are more successful than them (she then equates this with men wanting to marry their mommies). Huh? I thought that the trend more that women don't want to marry men less successful than them.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/15/0452207.shtml

RADAR is Scanning for Media Bias

Matt · 15 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Over the past 10 years, the American public has been fed a steady diet of negative depictions of men by the mainstream media. We see it on the Oprah Winfrey Show, TV sitcoms, advertisements, movies, and even Hallmark greeting cards.

At best, men and fathers are portrayed as inept and confused. At worst, men are presented as the object of derision and scorn.

There is no better example of these negative portrayals than how the media covers the issue of domestic violence.

Over 100 studies have analyzed the nature of domestic violence. These articles consistently report the same result: domestic violence (DV) is an equal opportunity problem. Women are just as likely to initiate partner aggression as men. Anyone can review these studies by visiting the online compilation of Martin Fiebert, Ph.D., professor of Psychology at California State University at Long Beach.

Click "Read more..." for more.But the mainstream media see things a little differently. Playing fast and loose with the truth, the media routinely portray men as the aggressors and women as the victims.

Biased media depictions of DV are a particular problem for fathers. Eventually those false stereotypes become translated into unfair laws and law enforcement procedures. And those stereotypes give rise to false allegations, which are used to evict fathers from their homes and remove them from their children.

The media misrepresentation goes far beyond what anyone could reasonably call sloppy reporting or inadvertent bias.

Editors and reporters have been repeatedly informed of the bias, both by letter and direct telephone conversations. But the calls for balanced and fair coverage remain ignored. The unspoken -- and arrogant -- message is, "We don't care what the truth is. We know what information you need to hear. Now go away."

Four weeks ago the Washington Post ran a sensationalistic three-part series on Maternal Homicide. The full-color articles were splashed across three pages. The series attracted withering criticism from websites representing the full political spectrum: the liberal Slate, ifeminists.net, libertarian LewRockwell.com, and the men's rights site Men's News Daily, and elsewhere.

On December 24 the DC chapter of the National Coalition for Men sent a five-page letter of complaint to the Post. And what was the official response? A seven-sentence dismissal that ended with the absurd claim, "In no way does our coverage of this issue stereotype or vilify men generally."

That's exactly what CBS did when it responded to the recent Rathergate scandal: deny, dissemble, and stonewall.

This deplorable state of affairs is about to change.

On Sunday, January 16, a concerned group of men and women from around the country will launch a domestic violence media watch. The effort is called RADAR. RADAR stands for Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting. The purpose of RADAR is to assure the media, especially the major newspapers and other national media, provide fair and balanced coverage of the domestic violence topic.

The issue is timely, since the current Violence Against Women Act is set to expire later this year. Advocacy organizations soon will be introducing renewal legislation. To support passage of the VAWA renewal, gender advocates at media outlets will no doubt begin to "plant" stories that cater to the scurilous gender stereotypes.

So how will RADAR teach the old media dog new tricks?

Simple: Every time a biased article is published, RADAR will generate hundreds or thousands of phone calls, e-mails, and letters from concerned readers. The letters will be factual and reasonable in tone, but will drive home the basic message: DV is an equal opportunity problem. By ignoring male victims, our society will never solve the problem of domestic violence.

Those e-mailers, telephoners, and letter writers will be people like you, persons who are sick and tired of being maligned and vilified as a batterers and abusers.

But how will we learn about those biased articles?

Actually, that's the purpose of this messge. RADAR is currently searching for Media Monitors across the country. The Media Monitors are persons who read their newspapers on a regular basis - either online or the paper version.

When the Monitor spots a biased article, he or she will have two possible courses of action, depending on whether the source of the biased story is a national publication (like the New York Times) or a local media outlet (like your hometown newspaper):

1. Major national paper: The Monitor will send an e-mail to the RADAR Coordinating Team, which in turn will put out a general alert via internet websites, listservs, and the RADAR website.

2. Local paper: The Monitor will write a letter to the editor, make a friendly call to the reporter, or other appropriate action.

RADAR currently has a number of persons who have signed up to bird-dog their local media. But we want to exponentially expand that network.

Are you game?

Contact Mark Rosenthal, the RADAR Media Monitor Coordinator. Send the following information to him at info-at-mediaradar.org (use a @ in place of -at- in the actual e-mail address you use):

-Your name

-Media outlet you want to track

-State (like Illinois) where the media outlet is located

Join the RADAR campaign, assure fairness in the media, and make a difference. If not now, what are you waiting for?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/15/0458233.shtml

RADAR – How Can I Help?

Matt · 16 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Are you are tired of media articles that depict men as abusers and batterers? Are you worried that one day you might be falsely accused of domestic violence? Have you felt frustrated wondering what you can do to stop this?

Now, there's a solution in sight. RADAR – which stands for Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting -- is a campaign that will harness the efforts of hundreds, if not thousands, of men's and father's rights advocates around the country.

Click "Read more..." for more.RADAR has identified five key messages:

1. Women are just as likely as men to commit domestic violence
2. Men sustain over one-third of all domestic violence-related injuries
3. Men are far less likely to report the incident
4. Media coverage of the DV issue is often biased
5. That bias often allows DV myths to continue and to grow

These messages will be conveyed to representatives of the media through e-mail communications, telephone calls, and letters to the editor.

So how can people get involved? Here are eight steps to success:

1. Visit our website, and visit frequently: http://www.mediaradar.org/. We need to get our site listed high in the Google search engine. Every time you visit, that ups the Google rating. And when reporters do a search on "domestic violence," they are more likely to find our web site.
2. Become knowledgeable about the facts of domestic violence. We have assembled the key information under the Resources section of our home page.
3. Begin to track how your local media covers the DV story. Pick one local media outlet – newspaper, radio, or TV – and establish positive contacts with its reporters, editors, or producers.
4. If you are tracking a major media outlet, join the national network of Media Monitors.
5. Sign up to receive the RADAR E-lerts. You can do that at the RADAR home page.
6. When you receive an E-lert, respond promptly. Send an e-mail or letter, or telephone the listed editor. Your message doesn't have to be detailed or lengthy. Suggestions on how to get your letter published can be found here.
7. Disseminate the male perspective on DV to the blog scene.
8. When you get your letter to the editor published, or convince your local paper to run a story on male victims, let us know about your successes. We'll list them in our Campaign Successes section!

The men's/father's rights movement has become the civil rights movement of the 21st century, and we are on the cutting edge. Now, let's do it!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/16/194250.shtml

German Pols Want to Ban Man-Initiated Paternity Tests

Matt · 16 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Bad news from Germany!

German Justice Minister Brigitte Zypries plans to outlaw paternity tests without the mother's or a court's consent. The law shall be extended to the whole European community. According to the BBC, there are similar plans in the UK and in North America(?).

See the following links:

http://www.deutsche-welle.de/dw/article/0,1564,145 7216,00.html

http://www.deutsche-welle.de/dw/article/0,1564,142 2595,00.html
(You can write a comment at the bottom of the page.)

Some interesting papers concerning this issue can be found here.

Best Wishes,
Samuel"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/16/1911241.shtml

Mother Murders Daughter Over Virginity

Matt · 16 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Madcap Misogynist writes "You know women are too fat when they kill people by sitting on them.
She killed one of her kids."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/16/1914206.shtml

Woman gets prison for extortion

Matt · 16 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Garth writes "A California woman successfully extorted $2 million, and went for $13.5 million more, by threatening to accuse a wealthy man of fondling her at a Las Vegas Casino. After the second threat the man went to police, and they recorded the woman making the threats. She is facing at least 28 months in prison. It is possible that her biggest mistake was targeting the husband of famous singer Celine Dion. I doubt that a less well connected man would be so lucky."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/16/1916204.shtml

Watershed NH study on Child Support

Matt · 16 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "This report honestly looks to be a major milestone. It is highly critical of current NH child support guidelines and how they unfairly treat the non-custodial parent. Included are specific recommendations on possible resolutions as well. It looks like New Hampshire has now become the first state to conduct a comprehensive legislative review of child support issues and how the non-custodial parent's rights are abused. Please do whatever you can to spread the word about this and help facilitate the grassroots effort that will keep the pressure on the New Hampshire legislature as the necessary and long overdue legislation to resolve this massive problem is being evaluated."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"My understanding is that the next step is an attempt to get an appropriation passed by the New Hampshire legislature to provide for expert economists to objectively determine what the real level of support should be... If New Hampshire can get it done then it should only be a matter of time until other states follow suit.

I have more information on the associated (and as yet unpassed) bills relative to an appropriation for hiring an economist to develop new guidelines and extending the task force which would be responsible for overseeing the implementation of the committee's report recommendations..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/16/1919230.shtml

Rohypnol robber jailed

Adam · 17 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The woman who used the date rob drug to render her male victims unconscious has been locked up for five years. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/17/2018217.shtml

Salvation Army converted to feminism?

Adam · 17 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

SJones writes "The Memphis Tennessee Salvation Army has joined the swelling ranks of feminist non-profits that claim to assist families, but create their own definition to excluse fathers altogether. I sent them money and received a letter of thanks say, "on behalf of .. all the other women and children we serve, we once again say thank you." No mention of serving men at all. When I worked for AutoZone's corporate office in Memphis the Salvation Army convinced the company to donate money for a women-only shelter in which pre-existing space for homeless men was switched to a female-only building. When I asked about this they claimed there are far more homeless women than men. I checked on this claim and found it to be completely false.

I emailed the Salvation Army a reply to their letter saying, in effect, since you quietly discriminate against males while claiming to be a Christian ministry I will never again offer any assistance of any kind to you. Spread the word. Anyone who wants to give to their local Salvation Army needs to check it out first. I checked their main homepage and found only a women's ministry, but no men's ministry. There was a policy statement saying that females are the cornerstones of family and society, with no mention of males having any value at all. I emailed their main office asking for an explanation and warning that I am going to spread the word to men's rights groups about them. So everyone spread the word. And then bombard them with letters or phone calls."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/17/2020241.shtml

RADAR ALERT: Washington Post: 'In no way does our coverage of this issue stereotype or vilify men...

Matt · 18 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Contact the Washington Post and tell them the following:

1. The Washington Post series on Maternal Homicide sensationalizes and distorts an important social problem.
2. By failing to place the issue in proper context, the series serves to stereotype and malign men.
3. Mr. Downie's letter, which does not respond to any of the requested actions, insults the basic notion of media accountability.

Click "Read more..." for backround and contact information.

Washington Post: "In no way does our coverage of this issue stereotype or vilify men generally."
Here's the contact information:

1. Leonard Downie: Telephone: 202-334-7512 (please be nice to the polite lady who will answer your call)
2. Michael Getler, Ombudsman:
   1. Telephone: 202-334-7582
   2. E-mail: ombudsman-at-washpost.com

3. Letters to the Editor:

   The Washington Post

   1150 15th Street, NW

   Washington, D.C. 20071

   letters-at-washpost.com

   (Include your name, address, and daytime telephone number)

To help generate media interest in RADAR, please mention you are contacting the Post in response to a RADAR Alert.

Folks, it's time to take action. Can we generate at least a thousand phone calls, e-mails, and letters this time?

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Beginning December 19, the Washington Post ran a three-part, front-page series on Maternal Homicide.

The series has received intense criticism from persons representing the full gamut of political perspectives. These essays can be found on the RADAR website: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

On December 24, the NCFM-DC sent a 5-page letter to Leonard Downie, Executive Editor of the Washington Post. You can read the letter here.

The letter detailed the journalistic problems with the Post's Maternal Homicide series, and explained why the series did a disservice to the Washington Post readers. The letter concluded with three requests:

> "1. Schedule an educational session for your reporters and editors, to be presented by one or more of our Chapter members, on the scope, nature, and trends of domestic violence, based on the findings of scientific research.
>
> 2. Research and run a three-part series that features domestic violence against men. The series should address the following topics: research findings, how male victims are often ignored by DV programs and services, and what male victims can do to protect themselves and get help.
>
> 3. In all future DV articles, the Washington Post should assure that your reporters and editors provide a balanced and fair perspective."

On January 4, Mr. Downie responded. His letter, which can be read at the end of this message, did not respond to any of the requested actions. In fact, his letter denies any journalistic flaws with the series whatsoever.

Mr. Downie's response is identical to how CBS News handled the Rathergate scandal: deny, dissemble, and stonewall.

Mr. Downie's letter concludes, "In no way does our coverage of this issue stereotype or vilify men generally."

Many would disagree with Mr. Downie's conclusion. In fact, some would label it absurd.

THE WASHINGTON POST

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, DC 20071-5502

(202) 334-6000

Leonard Downie, Jr.

EXECUTIVE EDITOR

(202) 334-7512

January 4, 2005

NCFM – DC Chapter

PO Box 1404

Rockville, MD 20849

Dear Sir:

Thank you for your thoughtful and detailed letter of December 24 critiquing the series of articles that The Washington Post recently published about maternal homicide.

I understand the viewpoint that you are expressing, but this series of articles did not cover the entire subject of domestic violence. It was focused only on homicide cases involving pregnant women and women who had recently become mothers. It never stated that this phenomenon was widespread and did not generalize beyond the specific studies it covered and the research our own reporter did.

The stories made clear that, because the research done so far and the statistics kept by law enforcement agencies are fragmented on this subject, the cases presented to readers were not necessarily a representative sample. However, the research made clear that this is a significant and newsworthy phenomenon that had not been reported elsewhere in the media. In no way does our coverage of this issue stereotype or vilify men generally.

Sincerely,

/s/ Leonard Downie, Jr.

Executive Editor

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/17/2325200.shtml

F4J campaign showing results

Matt · 18 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Blair's government has announced plans to allow equal child access by both parents, and to punish parents who refuse access. It doesn't go far enough, but it is something. Despite what the government pretends, this would never have happened without F4J. The only concern is that it might turn out to be a sop to take the momentum out of F4J without really changing anything.

The BBC page also allows you to post your own comments."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/18/1722217.shtml

Harvard U. President Under Fire for Comments

Matt · 18 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Local6, The president of Harvard University prompted criticism for suggesting that innate differences between the sexes could help explain why fewer women succeed in science and math careers. "It's possible I made some reference to innate differences," he said. He said people "would prefer to believe" that the differences in performance between the sexes are due to social factors, "but these are things that need to be studied."
He also cited as an example one of his daughters, who as a child was given two trucks in an effort at gender-neutral upbringing. Yet he said she named them "daddy truck" and "baby truck," as if they were dolls. As usual, the feminists are fuming."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/18/1723250.shtml

NH child support study and more information...

Matt · 18 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Posted on behalf of Marc S....

Here is a list of the pending bills associated with the prospective implementation of the report's recommendations and the appropriation for appointment of an economist to develop guidelines. [Ed.: See this MANN item.] Please try to get the word out on these bills which bills need grassroots support. Thanks for your work there, and many thanks to Rep. David Bickford and the other courageous individuals who contributed to the pursuit of this issue in New Hampshire.

If we can all get together and work behind the New Hamsphire effort to rectify the ugly reality of child support laws/guidelines endured by so many of us then perhaps we can save the next generations of would-be alienated and disenfranchised single parents (sadly, too often Fathers) from the same overwhelming grief. This is truly a major step (potentially) toward the reestablishment of marriage and the family as a viable and worthy American institution.

Marc

Click "Read more..." for details.----------

(CHILDREN AND FAMILY LAW COMMITTEE and extending the family law taskforce)

TUESDAY, JANUARY 25

CHILDREN AND FAMILY LAW, Room 206, LOB

9:30 a.m. HB 61, extending the family law task force.

2005-H-0147-R

HB61 extending the family law task force. Sponsors: (Prime) Carolyn M Gargasz

David A Bickford

Peter E Franklin

Sheila Roberge

Link to committee page; click 'Show Bills Currently in Committee', then click 'HB61'.

2005-H-0586-R extending the commission to study child support and related child custody issues and relative to hiring an economist to assist in revising the child support guidelines and making an appropriation therefor. Sponsors: (Prime) David A Bickford

---

2005-H-0905-R relative to the child support guidelines and establishing a committee to study further revisions to the guidelines. Sponsors: (Prime) David A Bickford

---

2005-H-0524-R separating child support and child custody laws from the chapter governing divorce and legal separation, implementing parenting plans, and changing terminology based on the recommendations of the task force on family law. Sponsors: (Prime) David A Bickford

---

2005-H-0110-R establishing a presumption in favor of shared parental rights and responsibilities. Sponsors: (Prime) David A Bickford

---

2005-H-0889-R relative to the periodic review of child support guidelines. Sponsors: (Prime) David A Bickford

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/18/1740251.shtml

Two college women arraigned on rape charges

Adam · 19 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "NORTHAMPTON, Mass. -- Two women, including a Smith College student, pleaded innocent to charges they raped and handcuffed another female student and slashed her with knives.

here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/19/1843228.shtml

BBC's subtle media bias..?

Adam · 19 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "The bbc reports here what at first glance looks like a balanced article on divorce, and how partners use family court as a means of revenge. The stories of one man and one woman are presented, with little else. It could be me being too sensitive, but look a little closer and it no longer seems quite so balanced. The woman's story appears first (of course). She eloquently puts her story, an unreasonable and combative husband who refuses to agree to anything and demands everything, a judge who 'hated her on site' and made unfair decisions. Poor thing. Then the mans story, and he almost immediately admits to voilence and abandonment. Just seems to present another picture of women as victims, and men as whinging trouble-makers..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/19/1846221.shtml

Laura Bush Comes Out Swinging for Boys

Matt · 20 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes *"Read about Laura Bush's expose for her second-term agenda. She comes out swinging for ... Gasp... Boys' education! Read all about it in Maggie Gallagher's new column. USA Today also covers her here.*

Bless her little heart. Apparently, someone in Washington is listening. Hopefully, some of the messages from Christina Hoff Sommers' War Against Boys have made it to the top!
If you like, email the White House to convey your personal experiences. In the words of Glenn Sacks, as always, be polite and be positive (e.g. congratulate her on her bravery; don't engage in rabid anti-feminist rants.)

Direct the email to "First Lady Laura Bush" in the subject heading. Email addresses include president-at-whitehouse.gov and first.lady-at-whitehouse.gov."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/20/0013253.shtml

Blake Murder Motivation: Avoid Paternity

Matt · 21 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Read it here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/20/2151236.shtml

Intellect related to sucide risk

Matt · 21 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes ""Between 1971 and 1998, the suicide rate for women in England and Wales almost halved, while in the same period the rate for men almost doubled." Research suggests more intelligent young men are less likely to take their own lives, perhaps because they have better prospects. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/21/1650238.shtml

DNA Acquits but court still wants a trial

Matt · 21 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bharati writes "DNA acquits and yet prosecution wants to continue and army wants to court marshall. Need I say more?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/21/1652236.shtml

Collecting a DNA sample from every man in town

Matt · 21 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In one town, police are seeking a DNA sample from every man. The purpose is to hopefully solve a 2002 murder of a woman writer. (Semen was found on the murder victim.) Providing the samples is voluntary, but information is being recorded about those who do not cooperate. The article says that wide sweeps for DNA have not been effective with respect to solving previous crimes. The ACLU has criticized the "DNA dragnet" as well."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/21/1654212.shtml

NOW calls for Summers Resignation

Matt · 22 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "NEWS FLASH!!!

NOW Says Harvard President Lawrence Summers Should Resign.
Will Pressure Harvard to Promote Women Regardless of Ability.

Boy, I never saw THIS coming. If you read the article please take note that Lawrence Summers has issued no less than 3 apologies. I would rather he issued 3 middle fingers in rapid succession. Affirmative action? Who needs it. Let us promote women REGARDLESS of ability without any due process or pretense. Why the hell not. I can't see behind the scenes but I'm guessing that every man at Harvard is rolling over into the fetal position right about now. It's A-OK to say that girls are smarter and that our boy's decline in education is, well... "NO WORRIES, MATE!". Has NOW ever considered the male propensity for ACTION when words fail? Especially when they constantly are being handed the short end of the stick."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/0013232.shtml

Original Wisdom

Matt · 22 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

A lot to think about from this essay. An excerpt:

> James Bricknell, who was captured by the Delaware in the early 1800s and lived among them for several years before returning to his family, wrote in 1842: "The Delawares are the best people to train up children I ever was with… Their leisure hours are, in a great measure, spent in training up their children to observe what they believe to be right… They certainly follow what they are taught to believe right more closely, and I might say more honestly, in general, than we Christians… I know I am influenced to good, even at this day, more from what I learned among them, than what I learned among people of my own color."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/0019242.shtml

Sydney Herald: Men should be trained as worker drones for women

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ric writes "Australia's Sydney Morning Herald, serves up this opinion piece: "If more men were supported in lowering their expectations of themselves to be clever in more practical ways, they might also be more valued by women."

The article suggests boys should be taken away from professional education in schools and taught vocational skills like sanding floors and fixing fences. This worthwhile employment will benefit women and cause them to value us again.

Not to forget "Women don't start wars" and "women are more agreeable socially". She forgot "women write self-delusional crap".

I have set up a protest page here
Please make them regret printing this crap.

Regards

Ric"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/2225252.shtml

Women cleverer than men, says MP

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From the BBC, Women are brighter than men, according to the Labour chairman of the Commons education committee. Huddersfield MP Barry Sheerman said there was a "danger" of being obsessed about how boys were doing at school. His comments followed a committee discussion about whether girls or boys found it easier to learn to read.
"My own personal view is that women are brighter than men," the MP said, adding that women now earned on average more than men as middle managers. He said: "We should celebrate this, shouldn't we? The brightest kids are coming through and they happen to be women."
And of course, there's been no calls for him to step down or apologize."

Ed. note: This story was published previously on MANN, but re-publishing it seems appropriate given the recent Harvard flap. The contrast in response is striking, yes?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/2228230.shtml

Police and woman collude to extort money with false rape claim

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

SacredNaCl writes "According to IOL South Africa News, this woman was so bold as to attack the man screaming she would file a charge of rape while holding a soiled condom unless he immediately gave her money. Worse, the police were in on the deal and had delt with her 3 times earlier that week, but not had arrested her, and on top of it, tried to extort money from him themselves."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/2231205.shtml

Sponge Bob Flap: Make them Female and It Would All Be OK

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I can only ask myself, would this recent outcry against two male cartoon characters holding hands have arisen if the characters were female? I doubt it.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/2234219.shtml

Not Exactly Romeo and Juliet

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This story is billed as a modern-day Romeo and Juliet tale. But as I recall and as the article points out, Juliet committed suicide upon learning that Romeo had done so out of despair, thinking she was dead. This story's Juliet did not. Also, Romeo and Juliet were both a lot younger and had feuding families to deal with. No mention of that here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/22/2259220.shtml

Boys Falling Behind in Education

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is an excellent article regarding boy's lagging behind girls in education. Please e-mail the author and thank her for reporting on this important issue."

Ed. Note: Fascinating, this piece, when Harvard's president is knuckling to the feminists (see here). He too can be reached by e-mail, at lawrence_summers-at-harvard.edu . While writing to thank the author of the article on boys' education, why not also let Summers know about its existence as well?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/23/0244227.shtml

CNN: Woman Threw Drug and Sex Parties for Teenagers

Matt · 23 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

... for teenage boys, that is. Read it here.

ARVADA, Colorado (AP) -- A 40-year-old woman held sex and drug parties with teenage boys, telling police she wanted to be a "cool mom," authorities say.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/23/0253213.shtml

RADAR Alert: "Curtis": Wife Can Break Husband's Arm if he Forgets their Anniversary

Matt · 24 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Contact Ray Billingsley (the comic strip artist) and King Features Syndicate (which distributes the comic strip) and tell them the following:

1. The Curtis comic strip which ran on January 18, 2005 represents mean-spirited and highly inappropriate humor.
2. The comic strip reinforces a societal double-standard which warns, "There is no excuse for domestic violence" when the victim is female; but then says, "But it's perfectly fine for a wife to injure and maim her husband."
3. Mr. Billingsley's comic strip is extremely offensive to the hundreds of thousands of men who suffer from domestic violence each year.

Click "Read more..." for background and contact information.These are the people to contact:

1. Ray Billingsley: kfs-cartoonists-at-hearst.com

2. King Features Syndicate

a. Rose McAlister, Promotion Manager: kfs-public-relations-at-hearst.com or telephone: 212-455-4180

b. Keith McCloat, Vice President: telephone: 1-212-455-4000 or snail mail: King Features, 2nd floor, 888 Seventh Ave., New York, NY 10019

3. Your local newspaper, if your paper features the "Curtis" comic strip.

Folks, this "humor" is downright offensive. Would King Features run a similar comic strip if the butt of the joke was a woman? Then why do they tolerate this double-standard?

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Ray Billingsley is an artist whose comic strips "always try to influence his young readers in positive ways," according to his own description. His Curtis comic runs in more than 250 newspapers nationwide.

On January 18, the Curtis comic went like this:

Frame 1:

Hearing the sound of a baby crying, Greg runs in the front door. Greg exclaims to his wife, "Diane, what is THAT?!" Diane deadpans, "It's a baby, Greg!"

Frame 2:

Greg responds, "I know what it is! I mean, Why is it HERE?"

Frame 3:

Diane explains what the baby is unable to say: "I'm from next door! My daddy got a black eye and a broken arm, and mommy had to rush him to the emergency room!"

Frame 4:

Greg is appalled. He wonders, “Oh, man! Poor guy! What happened?” Diane then lands the punch line: “He forgot her birthday for the third year in a row.”

You can see the comic strip by visiting the website of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. However, if your computer has Norton Internet Security, you may first need to adjust your Privacy Control.

If you are unable to see the actual comic strip, the information about the four frames presented above is accurate and complete.

++

WANT TO RECEIVE YOUR E-LERTS AND PRESS RELEASES WITHOUT DELAY?

To have our E-lerts and Press Releases e-mailed directly to you, visit RADAR at http://www.mediaradar.org. In the left-hand column, enter your e-mail address where it says, “Subscribe to the RADAR E-lert!” Your e-mail address will be kept strictly confidential, and will not be released to any outside group.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/24/0445230.shtml

False Accusations Can Be Costly... to Accusers, too

Matt · 25 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "A male basketball couch was awarded almost $5 million on a false molestation charge. He may get even more if punitive damages are awarded later this month!

This guy did not rollover and just tried to forget it or get mad.

HE GOT EVEN!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/25/0554235.shtml

Life Sentence for Husband-Murdering Teacher

Matt · 25 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Read it here, note the elements of her story in the article.

What's your opinion, MANN readers?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/25/061211.shtml

Australia: More Double Standards for Sex with Minors

Matt · 25 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Posted on behalf of TirryB:

On News.com.au in href="http://www.news.com.au/story/0,10117,12044730-1248,00.html">this article, a woman sleeps with a 15 year old boy, is charged with unlawful carnal knowledge of a child and gets a 6 month suspended sentence as she was 'depressed about the breakup of a relationship'. In this similar article, a teacher admits to an affair with a 15 year old female student and gets three charges of committing an indecent act and one count of sexual penetration of a child under 16. He's awaiting sentencing, but what's the betting he gets a serious jail term as well as losing his job/career?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/25/195238.shtml

VCRC Web Site Now Operating

Matt · 26 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Harold Leist writes:

Hello everyone,

I am pleased to announce that a website has finally been completed. It has the updated information on it. The information on my personal website, http://www.leist.us/) will remain up for a while.

Click "Read more..." for more.

You are invited to view, and please make comments and suggestions, about the website at it's new URL http://www.virginiacrc.org/. I would also like to take a minute of your time to thank Tommy Switzer (one of our NCP's) for his time and effort in making this website come to life.

Please invite all your friends and other NCP's to join our action.

Harold

=====

Harold Leist

VA Coordinator,

National Non-custodial Parent Class Action Law Suit

http://www.leist.us/ (read the suit)

harold-at-leist.us (contact me)

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Virginiacivilrightscouncil

(discuss the case)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/25/2242250.shtml

Progressive Insurance's Latest Virtual Neutering

Matt · 26 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dr. Dan writes "Progressive Insurance is thumbing its nose at us on TV again. A woman interrupts her husband while he's watching football. He sheepishly takes the phone she's shoving at him, because he didn't bother to search hard enough for the best insurance deal. They make sure this male-stereotype incarnate has a facial expression making it plain that he's a doofus. The commercial is entitled, "Bad Call."

Progressive will keep up with this crap until it costs them big money."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/26/1719253.shtml

Foreskin Products?

Matt · 26 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clint O writes "I have ?'s and a story. My questions are about the legalities of owning and possessing (female cosmetic) products made from human foreskin. MTV's REALITY TV series "Rich Girls" shows Ally Hilfiger telling her friend, a teenage boy, how her mom's (or step-mom's?) product (some sort of facial product I think) is made from little boys' foreskins. The boy says "What do they do just collect all the foreskins from the little boys getting circumcised?". And it goes on. I think the series still airs on Tuesday nights. Of course I want something and everything done about this. The episode should be pulled, these products should b outlawed and Mrs. Hilfiger should be ashamed at least. Beyond the legal questions, what can I, we do about this particular show and these products? Thanks for this site."

Ed. Note: MANN readers, please post information that may be helpful on this topic, and feel free to add commentary about this particular episode of this particular TV show if you saw it.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/26/1722256.shtml

Bride Kills Husband One Week After Honeymoon

Matt · 26 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From The Telegraph, a bride stabbed her husband to death seven days after they returned from their honeymoon, a court was told yesterday.
Catherine Osliffe, 34, is alleged to have carried out the attack within minutes of telling her victim: 'We`ve only been together for a week and I hate you already. I can't stand you.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/26/1724258.shtml

Action Needed: Vote Pending for Visitation Plan

Matt · 26 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Harold Leist writes:

Hi everyone,

Well tonight I found out tonight that HB 2294 (in Virginia) is going to come up for a vote in the next few days. We need to urge the committee members to vote for this bill.

Ed. note: You do not need to be a Virginia resident to communicate your support of this bill to the VA Assembly. It is important they know that others out of state are watching their actions, and that this is a national-level issue of concern to people all over the country.

Click "Read more..." for what to do.
This bill is based on the TX visitation plan. The TX Bar Association, and the judges in TX support it. It provides guidelines that are good for the children. Studies show that support of both parents is better than the support of one.

Ladies, we really need you to write. It seems that, for some reason, some of these people think this a just a male issue. As we all know that is wrong. While the vast majority of NCP's are male, there are lots of female NCPs.

This list, is designed so you can cut and paste it into the to field of you email program and send the message to everyone at once.

So how do you write to a Delegate? There are a couple of rules that I'll cover here.

1. Keep it down to two or three sentences.

2. Make sure it says you support or don't support the bill.

3. Make sure you include the bill number so they know what bill you are talking about. They have lots to deal with.

4. Don't tell your story. They hear them all the time. They know what is going on and just want to know that what they are doing will or won't fix the problem.

5. DON'T SOUND MAD! If you do they will just dismiss you as an upset complainer.

6. Whatever you say, just make sure you do it. Too many people just never get around to it.

Delegate e-mail addresses to cut and paste:

Del_McDonnell@house.state.va.us, Del_Albo@house.state.va.us,Del_Griffith@house.state.va.us,
Del_Kilgore@house.state.va.us,Del_McQuigg@house.state.va.us,
Del_Black@house.state.va.us,Del_Weatherholtz@house.state.va.us,
Del_Hurt@house.state.va.us,Del_Athey@house.state.va.us,
Del_Janis@house.state.va.us,Del_Bell@house.state.va.us,
Del_Marrs@house.state.va.us,Del_McDougle@house.state.va.us,
Del_Reese@house.state.va.us,Del_Johnson@house.state.va.us,
Del_Melvin@house.state.va.us,Del_Armstrong@house.state.va.us,
Del_Moran@house.state.va.us,Del_Barlow@house.state.va.us,
Del_Watts@house.state.va.us,Del_Brink@house.state.va.us

Also please note this same bill is in the Senate as SB 1231. Please contact VA state senators to express support as well:

district08@sov.state.va.us, district35@sov.state.va.us, district16@sov.state.va.us, district13@sov.state.va.us district03@sov.state.va.us, district32@sov.state.va.us, district18@sov.state.va.us, district21@sov.state.va.us, district20@sov.state.va.us, district33@sov.state.va.us, district36@sov.state.va.us, district06@sov.state.va.us, district14@sov.state.va.us, district37@sov.state.va.us, district26@sov.state.va.us

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/26/1832231.shtml

11 YO Boy Abused by Teachers

Matt · 27 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Thomas Jefferson writes "Mathew Scott Thornberry, through his father, Ryan Thornberry, has filed a lawsuit against Pittsylvania County School Superintendent James E. McDaniel, Twin Springs principal Emma Austin and Twin Springs assistant principal Jenny Eaton seeking a $200,000 judgment for damages suffered as a result of being forced to wear red fingernail polish, lipstick and a bow in his hair on Jan. 23, 2004, according to the lawsuit.

It makes you wonder just why they are only suing for $200,000 for such a terrible incident of abuse. The Virginia state police need to arrest the school officials and teachers involved and be locked away in the pokey for this."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/27/039235.shtml

IL Girl Charged In Dismembering Death Of Girl

Matt · 28 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From WFIE News A 16-year-old Milan, Illinois girl has been charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of another teenager.
Sarah Kolb is accused of killing and dismembering 16-year-old Andrianne Reynolds of East Moline, who was reported missing by her father last Friday after she failed to show up for work.
*According to court records, Kolb, who has been charged as an adult, allegedly strangled Reynolds and struck her with a piece of wood. Her dismembered body was found last night in Black Hawk State Park in Rock Island. Remember, sixteen year old girls are only made with sugar, spice and everything nice. rolls eyes"*

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/28/0320246.shtml

Sexual Torture at Gitmo

Matt · 28 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Yahoo! News:

> Female interrogators tried to break Muslim detainees at the U.S. prison camp in Guantanamo Bay by sexual touching, wearing a miniskirt and thong underwear and in one case smearing a Saudi man's face with fake menstrual blood, according to an insider's written account.

Click "Read more..." for the rest of the excerpt.
The female interrogator wanted to "break him," Saar adds, describing how she removed her uniform top to expose a tight-fitting T-shirt and began taunting the detainee, touching her breasts, rubbing them against the prisoner's back and commenting on his apparent erection. Sexual tactics used by female interrogators have been criticized by the FBI, which complained in a letter obtained by AP last month that U.S. defense officials hadn't acted on complaints by FBI observers of "highly aggressive" interrogation techniques, including one in which a female interrogator grabbed a detainee's genitals.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/28/0323233.shtml

In the company of women

Hombre · 28 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The BBC is still at it. In the Company of Women tells us how more women than ever are starting their own businesses to get away from Old Boy" style networking and the "wage gap". Interestingly, these women somehow have set up "women-only support networks". These are obviously different to the male only equivalents which are unacceptable. The women also feel that there are not enough women in the high paying industries like law, finance and IT. They don't feel that women should be represented in higher numbers amongst our road cleaners and firefighters though.

Finally, they are staggered that the "wage gap" is so high - suggesting that they really have no idea what that phrase means, and how untrue it is."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/28/1757244.shtml

Boys Arrested for Stick Figure Drawings

Hombre · 28 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

From the "males are dangerous and must be strictly controlled" files, this story demonstrates once more the excesses of modern misandric cultures. Yes, someone actually called the police. Yes, they're actually being charged. Yes, with a felony. I'm speechless.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/28/1817246.shtml

Mea Culpa, Mea Culpa: Confessions of a Misogynist

Matt · 29 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "More bad news for Hugo Schwyzer By PAUL ROBBINS, Ph.D.

This has to be one of the best Op/Eds I've ever read. Paul Robbins finds the head of the nail and hammers it over and over....

I think he just became one of my favorite writers. Don't miss this."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/29/0414236.shtml

N.Y Times Mentions Mensactivism, Stand Your Ground

Matt · 29 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "The New York Times reports that men are becoming the target of the gender sneer. But the silver lining is that we're starting to make progress in removing these misandric ads, althought there's still a way to go. And Mensactivism.org and StandYourGround.com were mentioned in this article as well! Everyone who sent notice of misandric ads to this site can be proud.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/29/0416232.shtml

Paternity Fraud in New Zealand

Matt · 30 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Contrast the information in this article with what is found here. When it comes to paternity fraud, there are no national boundaries!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/30/1838254.shtml

Male contraceptive trial

Matt · 31 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Another experimental reversible male contraceptive method enters clinical trials.

Contact information is included in the article for those who may be interested in participating."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/31/192245.shtml

Harvard President's Comments Debated

Matt · 31 January 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "And the debate lineup is 1. Mallika Sarabhai - actor and activist. She accuses Summers of jingoism, chauvinism, and patriarchial attitude. 2. Vikas Singh - Assistant Editor - Times of India. He cites academic research - most of it done by women - confirming that on average, men are better at spatial skills, women at verbal skills. He also attacks the political correctness in academic research. Read them here:
http://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/articleshow/100 5072.cms
http://timesofindia.indiatimes.com/articleshow/100 5080.cms "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/01/31/194254.shtml

NH Legislative Reform Effort Is Going On Right Now

Matt · 1 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc writes "This is both a news story and an activism link. Please help get the word out about the ongoing NH effort. We don't have much time to get the public's voice heard by the legislators at the House of Representatives. They are considering this reform legislation right now! Please visit: http://www.nhchildcustodyreform.org

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/01/0313248.shtml

CBS "Still Standing" episode

Matt · 2 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "A little girl learns the value of false accusations.

Click "Read more..." for more

CBS has a show called "Still Standing" on misandry Monday nights. Last week there was an episode where the youngest daughter, Tina, came into the living room where Brian, an older teenager, was sitting. She announced that she just learned a new trick at a friend's house, and then proceeded to hit her arm and say "Ouch!" Brian came up to her, held her arms and asked what she was doing. She yelled "Stop hitting me!" which resulted in the mother walking in and asking what was going on. Tina replied that Brian was hitting her, which he vehemently denied. The mother didn't believe him, and yelled at him that hitting wasn't allowed in the family. She then ordered him to his room. Meanwhile, she consoled Tina and offered her some ice cream.

Isn't this just great? Now little girls who watched this episode can learn the value of false accusations of violence. Not only do they get a boy or man in trouble, but they also get rewarded for it.

Here's a link to the show:
http://www.cbs.com/primetime/still_standing/about. shtml

Also, it's interesting to note this description of the father:

"Since Bill has a far more immature approach to marriage and raising children than Judy does, they work at striking a balance and remembering why they love each other, quirks and all."

Typical - an overweight immature goofball married to an attractive intelligent woman.

Also, on last night's misandry Monday the following shows (Listen Up and Everybody Loves Raymond) both had scenes in which a female character hit a male character. Yuk yuk yuk.

Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/02/0345249.shtml

Superbowl advertising: 'Mama`s boy' Dolls

Matt · 2 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

chicago joe writes "The makers of "Degree for Men" deodorant are launching a new ad campaign for their product during the second quarter of the Super Bowl game.
The commercial is titled "Mama's boy" and it stars action figures that will be sold on the internet. The other commercials to follow will feature the "Wuss" and the "Suck up". The company will eventually sell the dolls seen in the commercials through the internet after the initial Super Bowl spot. They will be titled the "In-Action Heroes" because a company spokesperson said, "Their determination is to avoid risk and remain inactive". They claim this is supposed to motivate men to take risks. Give me a break! Of course they think it is quite creative and funny.
If you Google "Degree for Men", you can read it for yourselves. Look for the link that says "New Degree(R) for Men begins blitz"."

Ed. Note: The URL to visit is here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/02/0349213.shtml

RADAR ALERT: RADAR Blows the Whistle on Super Bowl DV Myth

Matt · 2 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On January 28, 1993, domestic violence advocates threw the long bomb, which in turn set up the winning touchdown.

The long bomb, of course, was the infamous press conference, held three days before the Super Bowl, which claimed that domestic violence increased 40% after men watched professional football games. And the winning touchdown was passage of the first Violence Against Women Act in 1994.

Click "Read more..." for more.In her book Who Stole Feminism?, Christina Hoff Sommers revealed that the 40% claim was a complete hoax. But that hasn't stopped DV advocates from spreading the myth. RADAR believes it's time to blow the whistle on the Super Bowl myth. So we've developed a blitz strategy, to sack the quarterback before they can lob another long bomb!

Here's the Game Plan:

1. Publication of an OpEd column, "Superbowl Myth has More Lives than a Cat." This column will be distributed to multiple internet sites and newspapers on Wednesday, February 2, 2005. Do a Google search on Friday, and you can see where it's been published!

2. Press Release to be posted on PR Web, which will be seen by thousands of reporters and editors.

3. Press Release to be e-mailed to your local newspaper. But this is essential – we need to get this Press Release in the hands of your local reporter before they write an article that repeats the old myths – in other words, sometime this week.

And this is where you come in.

The RADAR Press Release is attached at the end of this Alert. We are asking that you take 5 minutes out of your busy schedule to e-mail the Press Release to your local newspaper. This is all you need to do:

I. Get the e-mail address:

1. Call the news desk at the local newspaper (or other news outlet).

2. Tell them you'd like to know the name of the reporter who does their stories about domestic violence and family issues. Ask for the e-mail address where you can direct a Press Release to that reporter's attention.

3. If they tell you that there's just one email address for all Press Releases, that's OK. Just take that down.

4. If they say they prefer to receive the Press Release by fax, no problem, just take down the fax number instead.

II. Send them the Press Release by doing the following:

1. Select all the text in the Press Release at the bottom of this page.

2. Copy and paste that text into the body of your email.

3. Type the news organization's e-mail address into your mail program.

4. Type "PRESS RELEASE: Super Bowl Looms, The Hoax Lives On" in the subject line.

5. Click send.

6. If you are faxing the Press Release, simply cut and paste the Release into a separate Word document, print it out, and fax it.

If they e-mail you back with a question, have them contact Trudy Schuett, who can set up an interview. And when they run a story based on our Press Release, be sure to e-mail it to RADAR at info-at-mediaradar.org, so we can feature it on the RADAR website.

Remember, the whole idea is to get our Press Release out first, before they can throw another long bomb!

That's it. Easy, wasn't it? Thanks for your help! And enjoy the Super Bowl.

==========

For Immediate Release

Contact:

Trudy Schuett

928-726-6200

media-at-mediaradar.org

Super Bowl Looms, The Hoax Lives On

Mark Twain once observed, "One of the most striking differences between a cat and a lie is that a cat has only nine lives."

Sheila Kuehl and representatives of an organization, which calls itself Fairness and Accuracy in Reporting, must surely have had this in mind when they held a press conference in advance of the 1993 Super Bowl to announce that Super Bowl Sunday is "the biggest day of the year for violence against women." They claimed that domestic violence increases by 40%. Ms. Kuehl, now a Calif. State Senator, was then an attorney for the California Women's Law Center.

Playing upon the stereotype that men in general and football fans in particular are brutes, these claims were instantly accepted and reported as fact by the media. Ken Ringle of the Washington Post was one of the few reporters to bother to check the claims before accepting them as factual. His article entitled "Debunking the 'Day of Dread' for Women" was published a mere three days after the press conference.

Although the claims were quickly shown to be baseless, those who manufactured this factoid had achieved their goals. F.A.I.R. acknowledges on its own website that the real goal was to get the NFL to provide $500,000 of free advertising.

Even the Family Violence Prevention Fund acknowledges that no rigorous national studies have confirmed a link between sports broadcasts and domestic violence.

Nevertheless, every year many of those in a position to know better keep this falsehood alive. For example, last January, a full decade after the Super Bowl Hoax was debunked, the California Assembly's Select Committee on Domestic Violence issued a press release repeating virtually all of the original claims.

It is time this harmful notion is laid to rest. It is harmful because families affected by domestic violence need the best data possible; not marketing hype designed for shock value.

This year, RADAR (http://www.mediaradar.org/) suggests that all media, both traditional and online, use the power of their medium to provide their readers/viewers/listeners with facts, not fiction. It is a unique opportunity for media throughout the US to show their communities they care, and to reclaim their places as valued and trusted providers of news and solid information.

# #

Online references:

http://www.snopes.com/crime/statistics/superbowl.asp

http://www.fair.org/extra/9304/superbowl.html

http://endabuse.org/programs/display.php3?DocID=262

The following web address had to be broken into three lines to fit onto the printed page. Paste all parts of the link together without any intervening spaces and enter that into your web browser's location bar:

http://www.google.com/search?q=cache:9_D874OA1B0J:
democrats.assembly.ca.gov/members/a24/press/
p242004004.htm+Superbowl+Domestic+Violence&hl=en

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/02/044259.shtml

Infant boy's death a result of circumcision?

Thomas · 2 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

New York City health officials are investigating the possibility that at least three boys have contracted herpes as a result of circumcision. One of the boys died.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/02/1623255.shtml

Pregnant workers face 'discrimination'

Matt · 2 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "The BBC does it again. The evil Patriarchy has come up with another cunning way to harm women, and that's pregnancy discrimination.
"Around 30,000 women a year are sacked or made redundant or leave their jobs due to pregnancy discrimination, research suggests*....many businesses do face genuine challenges in managing pregnancy"*
What, you mean they can't afford to keep an employee on full salary for a year without doing any work, while the other employees (mainly men) have to do extra work to cover for them? How unreasonable."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/02/1729248.shtml

An aggressor in DV

Adam · 3 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Link here: article in question

"It's one thing to ask couples how often their arguments escalate to physical attack. It's another to actually watch them go at it. Deborah Capaldi has. A senior scientist at Eugene's Oregon Social Learning Center, Capaldi has spent hours watching young couples tackle problem-solving exercises in the center's lab assessment rooms.

To the surprise of Capaldi and her colleagues, a partner would sometimes lash out in the midst of debating how to solve the problem.
Deborah Capaldi researches how young women initiate physical aggression against a partner. Who were the primary initiators of such slaps, pokes and kicks?"

Read the article to find out.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/02/2110238.shtml

Fight at Girls Basketball Game

Matt · 3 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Should I have listed this under Humor or just News? I was not sure so played it safe. Note the closing paragraph:

> "People were screaming and running," Prattville cheerleader Cherish Cartee said. "Girls lost their cell phones. Keys got lost. It's something I will never forget."

I'm speechless. And that's not easy to do with me.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/03/1731249.shtml

Builders' Little Apprentice

Matt · 3 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Now this is definitely one for Humor:

This is a quick story about the bond formed between a little girl and a group of building workers. It's allegedly true and makes you want to believe in the goodness of people and that there is hope for the human race.

Click "Read more..." for the rest.A young family moved into a house next door to a vacant building plot. One day Willie Brunsden and a gang of building workers turned up to start building a house on the empty plot. The young family's 5-year-old daughter naturally took an interest in all the activity going on next door and started talking with the workers.

She hung around and eventually the builders, all with hearts of gold, more or less adopted the little girl as a sort of project mascot. They chatted with her, let her sit with them while they had tea and lunch breaks, and gave her little jobs to do here and there to make her feel important. At the end of the first week they even presented her with a pay envelope containing two pounds in 10p coins. The little girl took her 'pay' home to her mother who suggested that they take the money she had received to the bank the next day to start a savings account. When they got to the bank the cashier was tickled pink listening to the little girl telling her about her 'work' on the building site and the fact she had a 'pay packet'.

"You must have worked very hard to earn all this" said the bank cashier. The little girl proudly replied, "I worked all last week with the men building a big house."

"My goodness gracious," said the cashier, "Will you be working on the house again this week, as well?"

The little girl thought for a moment and said, "I think so. Provided those c*nts at Jewson deliver the f*cking bricks".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/03/1738208.shtml

Living off her paycheck, "You go guy!"

Adam · 4 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "It seems more is changing in lifestyles than some women are happy with here .

"'I'm going to quit my job next year and just hang out," Ms. Drozd says she overheard her fiance, then 24, an accountant, boasting to friends. Ms. Drozd, who at 21 already had a successful career as a public-relations manager, says the notion nauseated her. "At that exact moment I felt like I was going to throw up. I looked at him and thought, 'Who are you?'" She soon broke off the engagement."

...so what's so wrong about some guys picking a lifestyle arrangement that many women have enjoyed for centuries???"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/04/2112239.shtml

New Anti-feminist Book

Adam · 5 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Some of you might recall that I have been working on a book. Well, I am pleased to announce that The Rantings of a Single Male: Losing Patience with Feminism, Political Correctness... and Basically Everything is now available on Amazon.

It has been 5 years in the works, with the last 2 1/2 years dedicated to the actual writing and production of the book. I'll give fair warning that this is not a touchy feely book. It's very intense, but also very entertaining. The Rantings is a collection of outrageous original stories, satire, and social commentary from the male perspective. It is my contribution to the meager selection of men's literature. Enjoy!
- Tom Ellis"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/04/2113239.shtml

Discriminatory Abortion Rights in Maryland

Matt · 5 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Douglas Bittinger writes "Maryland has a facially discriminatory abortion law giving women, but not men, the right to terminate pregnancy, and thus the right not to have to pay child support. A father defending a child support action has filed a motion for summary judgment alleging that abortion laws discriminate on the basis of gender, and child support therefore violates men's 14th amendment equal protection rights. The case is CAD 04-04369, in the Prince George's County, Maryland, Circuit Court."

Ed. note: The Daily Docket listing for the court is found here though I was not able to locate a case search facility on the web site.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/04/2335220.shtml

Pay even if you are not the father

Matt · 6 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Apparently Canadian Supreme Court case law dictates that once a person has made a commitment to stand in the place of a parent, they must continue to do so if capable. Read it here.

An Albertan recently discovered he's not the father of a three-year-old girl says he shouldn't have to pay her child support. A Court of Queen's Bench Justice has said Justin Sumner must still shoulder the $165 monthly fee because he acted as the girl's father for two years before divorcing her mother.

Justice Sterling Sanderman said in his decision the real father, they know who he is, walked away from the family.

His ex says. "It's not about the money," Yeah right.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/06/0322229.shtml

Feature Submission: Inequality Demonstrated by Condemning Male Sexuality

Matt · 6 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Alan Millard submitted a feature to MANN entitled "Inequality Demonstrated by Condemning Male Sexuality".

Click "Read more..." to read and certainly enjoy it!

Inequality Demonstrated by Condemning Male Sexuality

by Alan Millard

As part of our self-esteem, we acquire a behavior and an attitude that matches our personal identity. For example, many criminals come from a background of abuse and neglect. They have little self-worth, a poor self-esteem and a negative self-image. This is the category in which the male's sexuality is placed. Instead of accept male sexuality, we target it as unacceptable. And our sexuality is the core to our existence. If we feel poor about our sexuality, we feel poorly about ourselves. The more this occurs the more we damage males and society as a whole. Sexual fulfillment is very important to male health, both physically and mentally. And this exclusive male characteristic is commonly acknowledged in negative terms, despite the female's sexual solicitation. ("Sex is all men want." But that's often all women show men they have to offer, which is conveyed by them as their primary value. Sex is a primary need of the male who is sexually stimulated by visual means.) Compatibility between men and women contributes to a complete and content result regarding sexual relations between men and women. Do you first offer a starving person food or compassion? Are the two entities combined? Often deceit is evident by women who convey their sexual effects without kindness.

Studies have shown that a parallel exists between depriving one's freedom to indulge and problems with abuse when such freedom is inhibited. This is the case with alcohol or other indulgences. For example, many cultures and societies that don't inhibit alcohol indulgence have fewer alcoholics. And those that have fewer restrictions and hang-ups concerning sex, have fewer sex crimes. In the same way, if we accept our sex differences, and work together to make allowances for them, we will find a much happier and content society--if not unified by marriage, by compatibility, with needs at least provided for as once was the case within marriage.

A joke is often made concerning the exploitation of the male's sexuality. He is further punished and ridiculed by religious and some traditional people who convey the endorsement of his victimization—his violation due merely to his sexuality. The following 'joke' offers an example:

> A man driving down a highway sees an advertisement along the road of a house of prostitution operated by nuns. At first he thinks it's a joke, but then he sees another sign, and then a third. Finally, sure enough, he comes upon the business establishment. Thinking it's a safe haven and the money goes to a worthy cause, he investigates. He is greeted at the door by a nun in a long, black gown. He says that he wants to do business. She instructs him to deposit $100.00 in the cup, then to enter through a door at the end of the hall. He enters through the door and finds himself outside the establishment where he started, with a sign reading, "Thanks for your donation. You've just been screwed by... (the name of the church).

This is prejudiced 'humor,' no less 'funny' than a joke about blacks or one against the female's sexuality, perhaps regarding her period. A lot of male hatred is rooted in religion, or at least associated with those practicing it, and within other traditional realms where this type of 'humor' exists. Males/boys are commonly raised to believe they, and their sexuality, are bad, and that their sexual needs as males are immoral. Look at what differences in terms exist pertaining to male versus female sexual aides, with male being pornography/illegal and female being erotica/romance. The male is put down and punished for his sexuality. This stigma, as a premise to being male, is extremely unhealthy and detrimental, but unfortunately, very common.

The prior joke's scenario, instead of sex, could as easily concern a very hungry person paying to receive food and being sent out the door "screwed." In exactly the same way, one is blamed for being hungry and needing to eat. Perhaps this is an anti-meat establishment that advertises a steak dinner in a country where steak is illegal and very difficult to acquire, and the establishment is vegetarian.

Here is a joke I find much more healthy, genuine and realistic:

> A priest who desires to study the original scriptures is taken to a far away, isolated place. He must walk down many halls, go through many rooms, open many doors, and tolerate dusty, creepy conditions to get to where these ancient scriptures are kept. Once he arrives at the location of the scriptures, he stays there studying for many hours. A couple of days pass. When he is summoned, he appears to be very distraught and in a mild state of shock. Upon being interviewed, he claims of making a great discovery that affects the whole world. When asked what he discovered, he replied that a misspelling had caused a horrible misinterpretation and a lack of understanding regarding sexual activity, with the original scriptures, instead of the word celibate, actually reading "celebrate."

The movie “Catch Me if You Can,” offers what one might call 'poetic justice,' portraying a sexy young woman who charges the young man she has seduced $1,000 for him to have sex with her. But since he doesn't have the cash, she accepts a $1,400.00 company check she didn't know was counterfeit, and gives him $400.00 cash as change. She got burned in her attempt to exploit a man by use of her female sexual powers.

Religion's anti-feminist beliefs are not to be opposed. However, they stop short of an effective barrier, and fail to provide a comprehensive and thorough analogy necessary for understanding that must extract from the total realms of maleness the unadulterated truth necessary for a complete equality assessment. Thus, knowledge and understanding necessary to defend the male's equal representation concerning the equality issue, will not be brought out through religious-based means or avenues. Although religion has offered some limited barriers to feminist influence, inroads in to religion are being effectively made by feminism through religion's chivalrous channels. Any effort for men's equality within the confines of religion will eventually, amidst religion's own contents/philosophies, undermine any chances for its success. A premise of truth based on research, individual sex differences, personal understanding and acceptance is necessary for that result to occur.

The idea of a woman being “deflowered”—contaminated—by a man for having sex with her conveys the male dirty/guilty connotation, which couldn't be more damaging to the male's identity, selfworth and equal status to the female. (Even lesbianism is often considered by some to be absent of the “contaminant.”) Any value placed on female virginity and associated “virtue” directly opposes the male's health and well-being—sexual fulfillment—which need, as food, exists whether he's single or married. By harboring this prejudice, with the female considered pure and the male dirty, the equal status of the male's sexuality and maleness to the female's sexuality and basic existence is impossible to maintain. From this premise is where many gender-biased sex laws have originated, which is the platform feminists have used to impose worse sex laws targeting men, promoting the negative perception of male sexuality, with additional laws implemented against it. There could be no worse foundation underlying male/female differences than to regard one sex as the contaminant of the other. Some believe that feminism originated through religious avenues, which is quite plausible when we see such a blatant correlation.

One must believe in, and value the truth, and not blindly accept the wishes of others, including blind followers of religious faith or feminism. Think for yourself. Have a comfort from within, not from the outside based on others' beliefs. Any worthy god honors the truth and what is right within the face of those who claim otherwise. God is in your heart, religion is man-made. Truth and right or wrong comes from within, which quality when applied to the human condition must take into consideration the full spectrum of humanity, equally representing and accepting both sexes in its assessment. And this is done without rating one sexuality above the other, or depriving one's needs due to a belief that holds certain needs in contempt. As a condition of a normal and equal human being, our needs must be respected and accepted with dignity, not condemnation and abuse. This is where feminism and religion mesh against males.

To entertain the sex-biased feminist efforts, is to endorse doom as well as injustice. Something as basic and genuine as male sexuality can't be targeted as bad, with the male's persecution justified, without eventually causing complete social chaos, horrendous suffering, and the destruction of the human race. Prejudice begets more prejudice. Negative produces more negative. But identifying the negative is positive. An equal amount of negative could be brought forth concerning females and their poor traits, with prejudice being produced with it, but this would serve no useful purpose. But perhaps an awareness of the female's imperfections should be included in the equation to keep the balance in check.

Alan Millard is a published writer, and author of the 563-page book, Equality: A Man's Claim, available now for only $12.00 directly from the author. E-mail him at alanlmillard-at-yahoo.com or visit the Men and Fathers For Justice web site.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/06/0334245.shtml

F4J Men to be Re-Prosecuted

Matt · 6 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Three F4J protesters who were cleared of conspiracy charges are, apparently, to be "retried" - that is, re-prosecuted for the same alleged crime! The story is here.

The phrase "miscarriage of justice" leaps to mind. Then again, why should anyone be too surprised?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/06/0358257.shtml

WashPost: Grass-Roots Men's Ministries Growing

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Remarkable, this from the Post! It isn't mean-spirited, hostile, or openly misandrist! Amazing!

Some from the article:

"Men are very confused today about what it means to be a man," said Burke Community Church senior pastor Jack Elwood. "While women are encouraged to be all you can be, men don't know what they want to be. . . . Are they supposed to be a helper or a leader?"

Men's ministries "help men come up with a vision . . . that's bigger than just get a paycheck, go through life, get married, have kids and die," Elwood said. "A lot of men . . . wake up in their forties and say, 'Is this all there is?' I've been ministering to men for 30 years. . . . This is more and more evident to me as a pastor."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/06/212254.shtml

Film Released: Baby's Momma Drama

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

MANN administrators received an e-mail announcing the release of a film on DVD entitled "Baby's Momma Drama", produced by Theodore Miller and directed by Douglas Green. Visit the website here.

I predict that this movie will make a splash. Congratulations to cast and crew!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/06/2227247.shtml

Superbowl Ad "groin attack"

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "As the New England Patriots became the 2nd team to win three Super Bowls in four-year span, the world was entertained yet again with another attack on men's genitals in the most highly viewed commercial sequence of the game. The first set of TV commercials after game play by FedEx Kinko commenced with Burt Reynolds getting kicked in the groin by a Grizzly Bear with the word "Groin Kick" illuminated across the screen for the world to ponder upon. Last year, in the first television advertisement sequence after game-play the TV viewers were treated with a man instructing his dog to attack another man's genitals so he could steal his beer. Please use this link to let the advertisers know that sexual assault is not entertainment. The fact that this has become a recurring theme indicates that serious efforts have been implemented for groin attacks to be the first thing for people to see during the most watched game in the US.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/07/1623220.shtml

Women Who Rage

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From The Age:

Anger management has traditionally been seen as a male domain, but a number of courses cater to females, writes Caroline Illingworth.
In her mums' group in Melbourne's north-eastern suburbs, Angie Perugini is known as the happy, laughing one, the one who "always gets things done". Yet a few months ago, her bubbly facade belied the fact that, inside, she was seething with rage.
As a former chef, Perugini, 32, had been used to stressful environments, but it was only when she became a mother for the second time and found herself at home caring for two young sons that the bubble of calmness slowly began to burst. Best quote ever -- "After going to anger management I realised it wasn't my husband's fault, it wasn't the house, or the kids, it was all those years of not being shown how to deal with life properly, of not being able to express myself.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/07/1626230.shtml

Male Body Images Suffer in Western Societies

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From WebMD, Western men have a much more distorted view of their own bodies than men in Taiwan, according to a new study.
Researchers say the findings suggest that there's an East-West divide in terms of male body image, which may explain why body image disorders, such as muscle dysmorphia, and anabolic steroid use are major problems in western societies yet rarely seen in Asia."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/07/1627212.shtml

U.N. Sharply Rebukes Iran Over Women's Rights

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "
What makes this story worth noting is that each complaint that women have in Iran can be turned around and applied to the plight of men here in the US and the other Western countries.

For instance:

Yakin said in too many cases the tables were turned against women who filed suits, particularly after domestic violence.

"Those seeking redress are condemned as the guilty ones, Sounds like S.O.P. when police go to a domestic violence call, especially in backward misandric places like Massachusetts!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/07/1629229.shtml

RADAR ALERT: Everett Herald Turns Valentine's into a Day of Violence and Fear

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

In recent years domestic violence advocates have attempted to hijack Valentine's Day, and turn a day devoted to love into a day consumed by fear. Julie Muhlstein's January 23 article in the Everett (Washington) Herald is a perfect example. Her article, "The Dark Side of Love" is filled with distortions and sensationalistic journalism.

The article implies that Valentine's Day is a particularly dangerous time for women. That's false! An Indiana University study recently found that Valentine's Day is the one holiday when violence decreases.

Click "Read more..." for more information and what to do.

Everett Herald Turns Valentine's into a Day of Violence and Fear
Contact the Everett (WA) Herald and tell them:

1. Julie Muhlstein's "Dark Side of Love" represents a highly biased and sensationalized portrayal of domestic violence which ignores the 510 men who are killed by their girlfriends and wives every year, as cited at http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/pub/pdf/ipv.pdf.
2. The article makes repeated statements that are demonstrably false, e.g., "Pregnancy is the second most likely time violent crime will happen." In fact, many experts believe pregnant women are less likely to suffer from violence, as discussed here: http://slate.msn.com/id/2111390.
3. The article is an obvious effort to malign men and to frighten women.
4. The editors at the Everett Herald need to start doing some fact-checking, and stop accepting the claims of domestic violence advocates at face value.

Here's the contact information:

1. Executive Editor: Stan Strick

Email: strick-at-heraldnet.com

Telephone: 425-339-3000

2. Reporter: Julie Muhlstein

Email: muhlsteinjulie-at-heraldnet.com

Phone: 425-339-3460

3. Letters to the Editor:

Email: letters-at-heraldnet.com

Snail mail:

Letters to the Editor

The Daily Herald Company

PO Box 960

Everett, WA 98206

(Include your name, address, and daytime telephone number)

Please mention you are contacting the Herald in response to a RADAR Alert.

Fifteen years of this sort of distorted reporting has produced the unfair DV policies we have in place today. It's time we demand that reporters and editors live up to their high-minded statements of ethical principles.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/07/1641239.shtml

WashTimes: A Virgina Family Bill of Rights

Matt · 7 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Stephen Baskerville, president of ACFC, had this article discussing pro-family legislative initiatives in Virginia, published in the Washington Times. Way to go, Stephen!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/07/1648225.shtml

American Heart Association Breaks the Hearts of Men

Adam · 8 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Carey Roberts writes:" On Friday, February 4, the American Heart Association will be celebrating its "National Wear Red Day." And for the second year in a row, the AHA is breaking the hearts of men – see excerpt from my column below. I'm listing their contact information, so you can complain. I don't think men's hearts or lives should count for less.

CR Nancy Brown, Chief Operating Officer

Direct phone: 214-706-1432

E-mail: nancy.brown@heart.org (nancy.brown-at-heart.org)

Snail mail:

American Heart Association 7272 Greenville Ave. Dallas, TX 75231

Carey Roberts
February 2, 2005
Men Feeling Blue on February the Fourth

Two national health organizations are teaming up in an Orwellian effort to pander to women and mislead the American public about the threat of heart disease.....

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/08/228211.shtml

Idaho Teen Is Tied Up and Scalped

Adam · 9 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "This is just incredible: "BOISE, Idaho - A 16-year-old girl was allegedly tied up and scalped with a 4-inch knife in what police say may have been an act of revenge by another woman." - "The motive, as near as we've been told by witnesses, was retaliation for acting in a way that the adult perceived as being offensive to women as a gender," Braddock said. "According to their creed, if you disrespect women you are not allowed to wear a mohawk."

Offensive to women "as a gender." Get it?"

bandersnatch writes "From Newsday, A 16-year-old girl was allegedly tied up and scalped with a 4-inch knife in what police say may have been an act of revenge by another woman. "When I say this gal was scalped, she was truly scalped," said Chief Deputy Bill Braddock. "The top of her head, her hair, was completely cut off.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/09/206218.shtml

Australian Parliamentarian Publicy Takes Up C/S Cause

Matt · 10 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

From the Australian Herald Sun, a Member of Parliament in Australia has publicly taken up C/S reform and anti-male discrimination, as reported in this article. This is good news!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/10/0136257.shtml

Sexual Harassment at Gitmo

Matt · 10 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "The title says "Detainees Accuse Female Interrogators" and the subtext is "Pentagon inquiry confirms sexual tactics." While I have little sympathy for these terrorists, why am I not surprised at the behavior of the women? Read the story here."

Ed note: Same story appears on page 1 of the Feb. 10, 2005 Washington Post here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/10/1646213.shtml

Woman Faces Perjury Charges

Matt · 10 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes From "Local 6:

'At 5-foot-9, 140 pounds, 25-year-old Beate Faanis cut a stunning figure as a University of Central Florida golfer, and she quickly caught the eye of fellow golfer Trason Brooks. They would date off and on over 18 months, but after their last break-up things turned downright bizarre. The first sign of trouble came August 8, when Brooks was arrested while working at the Stoneybrook East golf club and charged with attempted first-degree murder and aggravated stalking.'

This story is absolutely unreal -- read it and see how one false accusation from a vindictive woman can ruin a man's life."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/10/1650206.shtml

Girls Jailed for Murdering Drunk Man

Matt · 10 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From News.Com.Au, Two teenage girls who kicked and stamped to death a drunk middle-aged man who they said made "inappropriate sexual advances" at a party were jailed for life today.
Maxine Breakspear, 19, and Rochelle Etherington, 18, were found guilty at the Old Bailey in December of the murder of 42-year-old James Dalrymple from Northern Ireland."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/10/1654207.shtml

After School, The Documentary

Matt · 10 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From the official website:

In the summer of 2004, Debbie Lafave, a 23 year old schoolteacher from Florida, was arrested for allegedly having numerous sexual encounters with her 14 year old 8th grade student. She has pleaded “not guilty” by reason of insanity; her trial is set for April 2005.
Months after the tragedy, Owen Lafave, her husband of less than one year, wants answers. He has teamed up with a documentary crew to narrate and explore the truth and reasons behind the rise in cases of child molestation by teachers in our schools.
“After School” is a disturbing look at a plague affecting our families and, more importantly, our children."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/10/1655243.shtml

RADAR Super Bowl Campaign Tosses a Shut-out

Matt · 11 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Click "Read more..." to read a press release from RADAR regarding recent efforts to eductate media outlets about the true facts about domestic violence.For Immediate Release

Date: February 9, 2005

Contact:

Trudy Schuett

928-726-6200

media-at-mediaradar.org

RADAR Super Bowl Campaign Tosses a Shut-out

The RADAR campaign to stop false claims about domestic violence on Super Bowl Sunday recorded a shut-out. Not a single article making the claim of an increase of domestic violence on Super Bowl Sunday has been identified. And not a single women's shelter is known to have seen an increase in requests for service that day.

During the week preceding the Super Bowl, RADAR mounted broad-ranging efforts to educate newspaper editors and the public about the facts of domestic violence – that women are just as likely as men to commit partner violence. RADAR Media Monitors sent hundreds of press releases to newspaper editors all over the country.

In addition, RADAR released an Op/Ed column, "Superbowl Myth Has More Lives Than a Cat," which was published on the following websites:

1. Ifeminists.net

2. FreeRepublic.com

3. RightNation.com

4. ThePriceofLiberty.com

5. FamilyRightsAssociation.com

6. SierraTimes.com

7. MensActivism.org

8. TheRealityCheck.org

9. RightNation.us

According to Ned Holstein, MD, a public health specialist in Boston, "By making sure that media reports about domestic violence are accurate, RADAR performs an important public service. The history of public health shows that we cannot cure problems such as domestic violence until we share an accurate understanding of them."

# #

RADAR is the acronym for Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting. RADAR is a coalition of men and women working to assure balanced and accurate media coverage of the domestic violence issue. For more information, contact Trudy Schuett or visit the website, http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/10/2035237.shtml

DV activist beats child to death

Matt · 11 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Thomas Jefferson writes "Lynn Giovanni told state troopers about her horrible crime: How she bashed in her daughter's head while the teenager slept and took off in her car to end her own life. Friends said Lynn Giovanni had written a book, "Judicial System Loopholes," last year that slammed the court's treatment of domestic violence. Giovanni used the nom de plume "Faith Hope.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/11/0234211.shtml

Pregnant woman kills woman attacker

Matt · 12 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I guess men are not the only ones that threaten pregnant women. Read here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/11/211204.shtml

Abuse cases face double standard

Matt · 12 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ahhkaboom writes "A news story about how females sexually abusing males is not taken seriously. It uses examples of school teachers abusing children."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/11/211253.shtml

Woman Fabricates Tossed Baby Story

Matt · 12 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

To hide her pregnancy and abandon her baby, a woman made up a story she told to police. Why do people still question the ability of a woman to lie to the authorities?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/11/214215.shtml

The female/feminist privilege checklist

Adam · 12 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This was written a few years ago by various unknown authors, since it's been going around again, I think you'll be interested in having a read. Anybody else wanna add to this list? I think there's a few things we can add.
The female/feminist privilege checklist:

1. Do you experience other people paying for your dates, or occasionally even picking up the tab in non-romantic settings? Or paying for vacations when the relationship moves along?

2. Do you occasionally experience subservient gestures by the opposite sex(opening doors, giving up a seat in the bus, standing up when you come in the room)?

3. Are you able to simply pursue what you are interested in at university without much societal pressure on "breadwinning" - although you could also take that route if it interests you?

4.a. Have you had to register for selective service? Would you be ripped out of your life and forced to defend your country in time of attack or national emergency? Can you demand strength and full participation in society, but then get out of this obligation by pretending to be weak with no influence over society (only when it suits you)?

4.b. Can you come up with any and every excuse to get out of this without being laughed at ("No one should be drafted" - when you would be the first to cower in the corner and demand that someone do something if China & Russia combined and attacked full force - and "If men start wars ..." when women are the majority of voters and the expression is more likely "Men are SENT in wars ..." - exactly what you're trying to get out of - and sometimes sent by M. Thatcher, G. Meir, I. Gandhi, B. Bhutto and others)

5. Will you statistically get a much lighter sentence for exactly the same offense if you commit a crime?

6. Are you able to take on a job or choose a career route that is only capable of supporting yourself, with no thought to preparing yourself to also support a spouse/children, although you are also free to choose a more difficult career that will bring you more money? Do you not have much pressure on you with regard to this?

7. If you are in a committed relationship, do you have much greater flexibility to choose whether you want to work or simply stay at home (even without kids)?

8. Will you be called an unemployed loser if you decide to be a homemaker?

9. If you have a flat tire on the road, if someone is harassing you in a public place, if an animal attacks you, or if you are lost, will someone be much, much more likely to help you?

10. Are people generally much nicer to you in public? Are you sometimes given privileged treatment?

11. Are you much more capable of "marrying up" - enjoying the money and status that comes with this?

12. Are you statistically much more likely to be given money in a divorce - sometimes huge amounts - even if your behavior caused the divorce (e.g. affair) and even if you didn't work for the money?

13. If you slap a person - or even knock someone's tooth out throwing your Aunt Selma's Christmas mug at that person - is it much more likely to just be viewed as cute, understandable or not a problem?

14. Do you statistically live much longer - possibly due to less stress on you with regard to breadwinning, providing protection, being responsible, not having society viewing you as "expendable" or viewing your problems as not being important?

15. Do you have much more money spent on your health concerns in reality (e.g. 5 times as much on breast cancer as on prostate cancer - although they have roughly the same death rates) while you simultaneously claim that more has to be done for you?

16. Are you much less likely to be homeless? Is more offered to you by society when you are in this position?

17. Is there far less scorn and pressure on you by society when you are an irresponsible doofus? Are your default rates for payment of child support roughly twice those of the other gender, while you simultaneously complain about the other gender not paying?

18. Has whining about and hating the other gender actually been made into a course of studies in college (women's studies) - as opposed to the true, neutral, unbiased study of this topic - which is simply anthropology?

19. Do you have full opportunity to do anything you want in life - become a doctor, a lawyer, start a business - while simultaneously using the fact that many of your gender don't CHOOSE themselves to do these things as an argument to try to gain even more advantages? Do you get affirmative action because many of your gender don't choose to do these things, and thus the numbers don't "come out right"?

20. Can you manipulate the other gender with sex in some cases to get what you want? Can you pretend like you don't even know what anyone is talking about on this topic?

21. Can you manipulate using old notions of men protecting and deferring to women when it comes in handy?

22. Can you effectively manipulate by playing the victim? Do tears work sometimes?

23. Can you get sympathy if you don't work and don't have children by listing all the household work (hmm ... Oprah really does get high ratings, though) while simultaneously being able to bear the cognitive dissonance of calling your sister's husband who stays home a worthless bum that she ought to leave?

24. Can you "mix and match" traditional and progressive roles - finding just the right mix to get what you want? Can you be a "traditional wife" - enjoying the positive features of that (like not having to work) - while simultaneously being a progressive feminist when THAT gets you advantages? Or having a career while simultaneously using traditional chivalry and male deference to your advantage?

25. Can you constantly say "that's just typical" and "it doesn't surprise me a bit" and make a lemon face if you are a parent-in-law? Is near-universal contempt by both genders for your behavior hidden to a much greater extent?

26. Can almost any remark by your partner be construed as verbal abuse if you want sympathy, but the meanest, nastiest, most humiliating things that you can say simply involve "speaking your mind" and "some people just don't want to hear the truth"?

27. Can you use the fact that gender roles were differentiated long ago - with different advantages/disadvantages for both genders - to try to induce guilt today in people who had absolutely no connection with any of that? Can you say that you have been discriminated against for thousands of years - when you're only 20 years old - with a straight face? Can you even make things up about history and no one will really check or dare call you on it?

28. Can you propagate myths and outright lies ("Superbowl/domestic violence hoax", "rule of thumb", 1/4 rape statistic, intentional misconstrual of pay figures, and many more) and be given a "pass" - without more rigor being demanded?

29. Can you rationalize your own failures using the concept of the "patriarchy", and blame the other gender for nearly everything that goes wrong in your life - even with quite contorted explanations that no one would otherwise buy - while failures of the other gender are just ... failures?

30. Do you want to be treated like a child when it suits you but as an adult when you get an advantage from that? Do you "look the other way" when someone doesn't require responsibility from you that they certainly would from the other gender?

31. Can you focus heavily on perceived earnings in the workforce - the statistics of which are influenced by people's choices in reality - while utterly ignoring the inter-family transfer of wealth? Can you completely ignore the fact that one gender picks tougher jobs (garbage collector), works more hours and takes on more responsibility because of more pressure to earn - but the other gender has the same lifestyle and statistically more assets (and not just because of inheritance/earlier age of male at death...). Can you deliberately claim that earnings figures are based on equal pay for equal work? (when you probably full well know that they simply involve all people working more than 35 hours - and don't take type of job, hours worked over 35/week, danger, responsibility, years in the work force etc. into consideration at all).

32. Is what used to simply be an irritation for grown-ups many years ago - the self-centered rantings and foot stompings of spoiled high-school and college brats - now not only embraced by your movement but almost the modern cornerstone of it?

33. And if you irritated about generalizations and stereotypes - and utterly fail to see the hypocrisy in stereotyping and generalizing about one gender while simultaneously making a career (literally in some cases) whining about your own gender being stereotyped ...

... you may have female/feminist privilege! But don't let on - because you can gain much more with a continual victim status.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/12/1841210.shtml

Blogs Aplenty

Adam · 12 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Here's a few blogs to keep you busy, commentary on all sorts of things the mainstream media won't even consider:

Gonzo's Bar and Go-Go Grill II

Men's Hour Blog

Mirror Of The Soul

Man Power: Men going their own way

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/12/1851234.shtml

What, no baby?

Adam · 12 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I just came across an interesting book review over at the The Age about the fertility crisis in Australia. Evidently, a certain half of humanity is still having alot of trouble seeing the link between action and reaction, and just can't quite figure out why their world of hurt is starting to get bigger. And of course, the fact that everything else should change (the nearest man, the enviroment, the workplace policies etc) to suit them, while they remain the same won't strictly encourage you to empathize.

Oh yeah, since it's The Age, read it quick, since they're infamous for archiving their stuff in under a week.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/12/2059241.shtml

Suicide Outstrips War-Related Deaths

Matt · 13 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Just look at this. See the sex-related differences? No surprise to many of us.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/12/2136248.shtml

Son Shoots Father Over DV Perception Error

Matt · 13 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Have a field day with this one: Official: Son Mistakes Parents' Sex For Domestic Abuse Boy, 16, Charged With Assault With Deadly Weapon . This story is missing a few key details, but the details it gives create a whole new perception of how dysfunctional families can be dangerous places. Due to the gender feminists' widespread indoctrination of society, that there's a domestic violence epidemic in families, it's not too terribly surprising to see a "shoot first" attitude towards the family patriarch in this story."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/12/2139241.shtml

Woman who killed child agrees to be sterilized

Matt · 13 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

In Atlanta, a woman killed her 5-week-old daughter. The woman has agreed to undergo sterilization plus 5 months probation in order to avoid a murder charge.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/13/1859207.shtml

Carl Fiorina? He'd Probably Be Out of Work, Too

Matt · 14 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From The New York Times, THE question was bound to come up: If Carleton S. Fiorina were a man, would the outcome of her turbulent tenure as chief executive of Hewlett-Packard have been different?
Most management specialists say no. They contend that the company's misguided Compaq acquisition and sluggish performance would have taken down any chief executive, of either sex. And many note that Hewlett-Packard has tried hard to avoid any taint of sex discrimination; one woman, Ann M. Livermore, a respected Hewlett executive, is a possible candidate to replace Ms. Fiorina, and another, Patricia C. Dunn, is the nonexecutive chairwoman of Hewlett's board. As usual, feminists are spreading their doom and gloom message equating Carly's firing as a major setback for women."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/14/0459200.shtml

RADAR Alert: Men's Resource Center Abuses Men with False Stereotypes

Matt · 14 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On Monday February 14, the Men's Resource Center of Western Massachusetts is running a Valentine's Day advertisement (see below) which states, "Women are entitled to live their lives free of fear of abuse and violence."

The ad conveniently forgets to mention that women are just as likely as men to commit domestic violence. Indeed, the advertisement promotes the worst stereotypes about the so-called "masculine culture of violence."

Click "Read more..." for more.

Men's Resource Center Abuses Men with False Stereotypes
On February 4, 2005, Tammy Warner of Lake Jackson, Texas was indicted for negligent homicide. She is accused of killing her husband, Michael, by giving him a sherry enema that caused his blood-alcohol level to rise to almost one-half of one percent

But the Men's Resource Center would like you to think that victims like Michael Warner don't exist.

Contact the Men's Resource Center and tell them the following:

1. Their advertisement is one-sided and misleading because it ignores the fact that women commit domestic violence as often as men – see RADAR Fact Sheet at http://www.mediaradar.org/media_fact_sheet.php.
2. The advertisement abuses men by promoting scurrilous stereotypes. Tell the MRC, "Men are entitled to live their lives free of social abuse and false stereotypes."
3. The Men's Resource Center's website openly admits it wants to "give Valentine's Day a whole new meaning." But Valentine's is a day devoted to romantic love. It should not be turned into an orgy of male-bashing and fear.

Contact Rob Okun, executive director of the MRC:

E-mail: raokun-at-mensresourcecenter.org

Telephone: 1-413-253-9887, extension 10

Fax: 1-413-253-4801

Address: Men's Resource Center, 236 North Pleasant Street, Amherst MA 01002

Please mention you are contacting Mr. Okun in response to a RADAR Alert.

This group claims to be working to help men. So how does fear-mongering and anti-male propaganda do that?

Here's the MRC advertisement – see it for yourself at the following web address:

http://www.mensresourcecenter.org/menofheart2005.html

++

Release Date of RADAR Alert: February 13, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure balance and accuracy in media coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/14/058235.shtml

Fred on Maureen (and the Sisterhood)

Matt · 14 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Philalethes writes "Fred Reed's latest column does it again:

'Maureen [Dowd] is the resentment columnist for the New York Times. ... In a recent column, headed "Men Just Want Mommy," ... we have the eternal cry (at least it's beginning to feel eternal) of the unhappy feminist: "The whole world can't stand me. What's wrong with the whole world?" ... Actually, what men very much do not want is to marry Mommy. The problem for Maureen is that she is Mommy: censorious, moralizing, self-pitying, endlessly instructive, and so achingly tedious that men find themselves thinking of moldy bath sponges.'

Actually, it's all pretty depressing, but it's good to get a laugh out of it now and then; thanks, Fred."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/14/1622230.shtml

California Default Judgements

Matt · 16 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Adam G. Alsop writes *"I happened to come across your article on Taron James' Paternity Fraud case and thought that this link should be widely spread, as is speaks directly to the heart of that (and many similar cases).*

In this appeal, the Court is VERY clear about the "wording" of the Law vs the "intent" of the law:

"The County, a political embodiment of its citizens and inhabitants, must always act in the public interest and for the general good. It should not enforce child support judgments it knows to be unfounded. And in particular, it should not ask the courts to assist it in doing so. Despite the Legislature's clear directive that child support agencies not pursue mistaken child support actions, the County persists in asking that we do so. We will not sully our hands by participating in an unjust, and factually unfounded, result. We say no to the County, and we reverse."

This is a MAJOR victory for all those falsely accused of paternity and hit with a default judgement. While I am not in a similar position, I felt it important to pass along this information to you and your readers. Hopefully it will help set a standard across other states as well."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/038250.shtml

Swedish government bans science on gender differences

Matt · 16 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Cain writes "Swedish government bans science on gender differences.
"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/0312210.shtml

Stop bogus restraining orders in Massachusetts

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kingsley G. Morse Jr. writes "A new Massachusetts law would put global positioning systems on people with restraining orders. Now that the law is being reviewed, isn't it a good time to ask lawmakers to fix the notorious problem of bogus restraining orders?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/238215.shtml

Men's Courses Bad, Women's Courses Good....

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bro writes "The University of California is reconsidering their earlier stance on a men's lit course called: "Literature By and About Men." You can find it Here.

After being accused of gender discrimination, the University of California has reversed an earlier decision to reject a lower-division English course called "Literature By and About Men."

I bet the feminists are fuming over this university's decision!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/2310250.shtml

Growing Apart From Dad Makes Teens Sad

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Garth writes "A recent study of roughly 900 teenagers suggests that growing apart from Dad makes children more prone to depression. The same link was not found when boys and girls grew apart from their mother. Maybe we should reverse the standard custody practises?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/2313229.shtml

Suicide TV boxer KOd by Reality

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "The full text can be found here.

In today's NY Daily News there is a piece about a Boxer that appeared on the new reality boxing show "The Contender". He didn't meet the cut and committed suicide on Valentine's day in front of his girlfriend's house.

The article is almost a full page and after it points out that EVERYONE around him said the show was not the issue they keep trying to make the new show the issue. Even with the following quote they don't stop.

Click "Read more..." for more. "He kind of made a joke about it," said Gallagher. "He said, 'If we got 10 rounds I would have beaten that guy easy.'
"That's the kind of guy he was. He didn't take it hard."

Philadelphia Police Sgt. Ron McClane added, "There's nothing to tie the suicide to 'The Contender.'"

Two Quotes in the article say the real reason, but is totally glossed over, over and over again throughout the article. they refuse to accept what his father AND girlfriend say. Here are the two key quotes:

"The 22-year-old fighter shot himself in the head after quarrelling with girlfriend Angela Chapple over custody of their 2-year-old daughter, Anyae, relatives said."

But his father said his son told him something that foreshadowed Monday's tragedy. "'I just can't live like this,'" Daniel Daugherty said Turpin told him. "I guess he was talking about living away from his kid."

They won't let the show go and report that he was about to be forced to give up his dream of being a boxer. The courts would never let him continue to lose and not work once child support would start. He also knew the girlfriend (as did the father), and already knew that he wouldn't be with his kid."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/2318224.shtml

Misandrist Domestic Violence legal decision

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "A man who had his leg knocked out from under him in an act of domestic violence committed by a woman, doesn't have "standing" to sue for shelter services for men.

"What a strange (and cruel) irony in the use of that word (standing) from the English language," says Ray Blumhorst."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/2331205.shtml

Circumcision addressed in stage show questionnaire

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Acksiom writes "The website for Richard Herring's stage show 'Talking Cock' has a questionnaire page, which praiseworthily addresses circumcision, or less euphemistically, routine and ritual male genital amputation.

Go to http://www.talkingcock.co.uk/ , "Questionnaire" link at top left.

There's also a questionnaire for women, about which my female intactivist contact who sent me the link said:

"One of the questions on mine was if I ever wished I had a penis or envied men for having a penis...I brought circ up too, and said no...I was happy with my genitals and my sexuality and capacity for pleasure...and I was darn glad to live in a country where my genital integrity was protected, and nobody could cut anything off of me for social, cultural or religious reasons...and that men deserved the same respect and protection."

Let's tell him how we feel too -- it's incredibly rare for anyone to ask about how feel about having been sexually mutilated, and that asking should be encouraged with responses."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/2332259.shtml

Restraining Orders

Matt · 17 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Gordon Hillesland writes "An Oregon State Representative is requesting two bills be written for this session of the legislature. One will put due process into the issuance of a restraining order. The other bill will prohibit the awarding of real or personal property to a person who has no financial interest in the property. Would anyone who is interested in writing letters or testifying before the committee, after the bills are written, especially Oregonians, please contact me. Thank you."

Ed note: Author can be reached at dongtamnsa67-at-yahoo.com.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/16/2335204.shtml

Another RADAR Success

Matt · 18 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc Angelucci writes: Steven Svoboda works closely with them, and we can consider this another RADAR success. Scroll down to "Domestic Abuse."

Marc

Click "Read more..." for the letter text.DOMESTIC ABUSE

Editors, Daily Planet:

I greatly enjoy your newspaper and am especially gratified by its sensible combination of critical thinking and political awareness. It is therefore with some disappointment that I saw an egregious error in the Feb. 4 issue by J. Douglas Allen-Taylor ("Mayor Brown Takes Wrong Turn with Parolee Curfew"). Admittedly, it was not the central point of his column, but it is nevertheless galling to read regarding domestic violence calls for assistance: "The report did not specify whether the victims of the violence were wives or children." Let's see now, who is the author missing here?
Many human beings struck by domestic violence, in fact almost certainly the majority of adult victims are not "wives." Non-married women can of course be victims of domestic violence. And, as the Department of Justice has acknowledged, males constitute a significant percentage of domestic violence victims. Exact figures vary, as they inevitably will, but somewhere between 36 and 60 percent of all adult victims of domestic violence carry a Y chromosome. If there ever was an excuse for willfully ignoring male victims, it disappeared with the 1997 publication of Philip Cook's seminal book Abused Men: The Hidden Side of Domestic Violence. Dr. Martin S. Fiebert, psychology professor at California State University, Long Beach, has tabulated no fewer than 155 studies documenting the substantial levels of male victimization in domestic violence.

Sure, males are on average stronger than females, but there are many exceptions, and the elements of surprise and weapons can easily flip the advantage to a female against even the brawniest male. As best-selling author Dr. Warren Farrell has repeatedly, tirelessly pointed out, out of well over 50 studies using randomly chosen subjects and studying both male and female violence, not a single one has concluded that males commit a substantial majority of domestic violence. Most studies find that, when we compare male and female, violence is an equal opportunity atrocity. At the National Coalition of Free Men, the world's largest and oldest membership organization devoted to public education regarding gender discrimination against males, we deplore all violence equally. We only seek to set the record, and Mr. Allen-Taylor, straight.

J. Steven Svoboda

Public Relations Director

National Coalition of Free Men

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/17/2143205.shtml

Prostate cancer advice

Matt · 18 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "For once the BBC website has something useful for men, a page of information about prostate cancer. Link here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/17/2144256.shtml

An Interesting Read: "Myth of the Perfect Mother"

Matt · 18 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "The latest Newsweek cover is The Myth of the Perfect Mother.

What does this story have to do with men? To me it highlights that in many ways, women have more choices than men. The choice to have children, the choice to work or stay at home, the choice to work part time or full time, the choice to go back to school or not. Men with children rarely have these sorts of options. Ultimately, the article highlights that women who "choose" to have it all rarely end up obtaining their unrealistic dreams. Meanwhile, the men in these women's lives are left to go to work to bring home the bacon that allow these women to eventually "find themselves". Something about the article really bothered me. Being a mother, holding a job, and being a wife is hard----but women need to stop bitching about it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/17/2150241.shtml

'The Contender' to air despite suicide

Matt · 18 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Despite one of the contestant's suicide, the show nonetheless will be aired.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/18/048237.shtml

Morons running the universities

Matt · 18 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The presidents of MIT, Princeton, and Stanford have written an opinion column about "women in math, engineering, and science." What about all those female math and science teachers and all those nursing science majors? Well, the column is really about women holding elite research positions in math, engineering, and science at places like MIT, Princeton, and Stanford. Few women hold those positions. And this is a HUGE problem, or so these university presidents argue. If you have any young children, see if even they can spot the emptiness of the university presidents' "reasoning". Then teach your children to fight against real, major injustices."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/18/046213.shtml

Women denied bail in fatal stabbing

Matt · 19 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Story here.

Quotes:

'Two young women charged with the fatal stabbing of a 19-year-old woman were denied bail a second time. They stabbed the victim several times in the throat and stomach with broken beer bottles and steak knives. The confrontation apparently stemmed from an argument over a boyfriend. In MA, judges routinely deny men bail on simple charges alone if related to DV - it is rare for women to get denied bail unless the case is extreme like this one.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/0119204.shtml

Controlling vs. Empowered

Matt · 19 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ahh, MSN at it again with this. Were the sexes/roles reversed, who doubts that in that case a female partner to the famous one would not be touted as "empowered" or something else. Instead, in this case, he is called "controlling".

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/0122228.shtml

Emasculated Kenyan Boys Receive Surgery

Matt · 19 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The ignorance leading to this attack is truly astonishing. I don't know what else to say.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/0124258.shtml

NY Times Acknowledges Injustice of Child Support

Matt · 20 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Locksley2k writes "This NY Times article exposes the counterproductive measures of punishing indigent men who are unable to pay court ordered child support."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/2226255.shtml

Sexual Harassment Lawsuit Over Gorilla

Matt · 20 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Here is a intriguing episode of "animal sexuality" that borders on the bizzare, Women Allege Monkey Business Caring for Gorilla
. I know at times we primates have all been treated like a monkey's uncle, but can a gorilla really use sign language to say, "Koko's your daddy???" Keep abreast with all the news that's fit to report, and some that isn't, or you too could wind up on the short end of the long arm of sexual harassment law. Once again the poor, lonely male, who was already behind bars this time, was just hoping for a little bonding with the opposite sex, albeit cross speices. I suspect diversity training will take on an all new meaing for Zoo administrators across America after this episode, and Koko will need to be re-educated in the politically correct use of sign language."

Ed. note: Koko is in fact a female gorilla (see this page). The person being sued, Dr. Patterson, is also female.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/2235238.shtml

Heart Disease Research Short-Changing Men

Matt · 20 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes *"Here's a study presented at the 2nd International Conference on Women, Heart Disease and Stroke - Marital stress kills . "Elaine D. Eaker worked with colleagues from Boston University to analyze marital discord and its effects on heart disease and overall mortality." "While the men who kept quiet during a conflict did not suffer harmful health effects, the women did, she found." Whoa Nellie! Could this story be just one more example of advocacy research, propagandized through our feminist controlled news media??? If this story is true, then this fact strikes me as even more amazing - MEN HAVE A 70% GREATER RISK OF DYING OF HEART DISEASE THAN WOMEN . What's going on at the American Heart Association? Is the American Heart Association now spending the money donated to it on an agenda driven by gender feminist ideology, instead of spending that money on an "as needs dictate" basis?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/2238221.shtml

MSN on Men, Women, Love, and Depression

Matt · 20 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

MSN has come out with this story. You know, I can't keep up with them. Today women are just fine without love, the next day, without love they are miserable (and the blame is usually placed on men).

Sadly I am quite sure there are people out there who actually take MSN's babblings seriously.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/19/2242246.shtml

Dead? That's no excuse not to pay child support.

Adam · 20 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Omaha Channel, The state of Nebraska is trying to collect child support from a dead man. This is not child support he owed when he was still alive, but instead, the debt accumulated after he died. The government had intercepted $1,867 of her tax refund to pay her husband's child support. Harriman protested some more, but got nowhere.
Much to Harriman's surprise, that is the law. Nebraska statute 43-513.01 states: "A judgment for child support shall not abate upon the death of the judgment debtor." In other words, a dead man can still owe child support."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/20/2022244.shtml

Girl: Killed sister over burger / Where's Dad?

Adam · 20 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "The article can be found here

The article details in short with a 12 year old "tiny terror" that has been charged with killing her sister in a fight over a hamburger.
the detectives note that it must be "devastating to the mother"
Of course there is no mention of dad, and it seems to me that all the children are getting more and more seriously violent at earlier and earlier ages. as the article mentions...."It's a true tragedy""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/20/2027224.shtml

Men, Women, and Family Issues

Matt · 21 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "This is commentary piece from a professional newspaper writer in Portland, OR. She expresses a fairly common attitude and opinion many women hold these days..."

Click "Read more..." for more commentary from the story submitter."...That only women are concerned with the serious issues of the family. Apparently, men only worry about sports and spend their time day dreaming while it is solely women who think about real issues concerning the family. I know she was trying to be cute with her story but could it be that men seem not too concerned because we know that we have no real choices? Women have all the choices, then spend their time complaining about it. They should suck it up. This is what women wanted isn't it? To "have it all?" Unfortuneately, in their desire to have it all they usually end up doing a half assed job of everything. Choices come with sacrifices, deal with it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/20/236253.shtml

RADAR ALERT: Why Is It So Hard For The Rocky Mountain News To Talk About Male Victims?

Matt · 21 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The Rocky Mountain News in Denver, Colorado just ran a column by Dora-Lee Larson titled, “Why is it so Hard to Call it Like it Is? Domestic Violence is a Crime.” Larson is the executive director of the Denver Domestic Violence Coordinating Council. Larson’s column was printed in response to a series of articles on "Battered Justice" that ran in the Rocky Mountain News February 5-9.

Click "Read more..." for moreThree times in her article, Ms. Larson uses the phrase, “battered women.” But she finds it very hard to talk about “battered men.” She repeatedly equates men as abusers and women with victims. Only once does she give the slightest hint that women also may be batterers: “How many women and children’s lives have been spared if half of the (mostly) men who receive treatment stop battering?”

There is an entire web site devoted to documenting men in Colorado who were abused or killed by their girlfriends and wives -- apparently Ms. Larson finds it hard to talk about that.

= =

Contact the Rocky Mountain News and tell them the following:

1. Dora-Lee Larson’s article glosses over the well-documented finding that women are just as likely as men to commit domestic violence.
2. Readers of the Rocky Mountain News should be asking Ms. Larson, “Why does she find it so hard to talk about male victims?,” especially when their plight has been repeatedly documented.
3. The Rocky Mountain News series on Battered Justice did mention male victims, but the overall series left the misleading impression that female batterers are infrequent and even treated unfairly by the criminal law system.

Here’s the contact information for Letters to the Editor:

E-mail: letters-at-RockyMountainNews.com

Snail mail: 100 Gene Amole Way, Denver, CO 80204

Here’s the contact information for Sarah Huntley, the reporter who wrote most of the articles for the "Battered Justice" series:

E-mail: huntleys-at-RockyMountainNews.com

Phone: 303-892-5212

Please cc your e-mail to info-at-mediaradar.org, so RADAR can keep track of the level of response.

For this week’s Alert, we are looking for objective, thoughtful, persuasive letters to the editor to be sent.

++

Date of Release: February 20, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user

comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/21/0315224.shtml

India: Three-YO Jailed in False Dowry Harassment Case

Matt · 22 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bharati writes "A three-year-old girl is jailed in a false dowry harassment case. This link is from Save Indian Families.

There is also travel advisory warning in USA regarding the misuse of Dowry Act. False acccusation have reached such a huge proportion that even the United States government has been forced to recognise it in a travel advisory here (search on "dowry" to find the relevant text).

Lisa Tsering exposes the dowry fraud in this article here and the history of the travel advisory here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/22/1624235.shtml

Schwarzenegger Remarks on Women Anger Many

Matt · 23 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "False accusations have long been the forte of California gender feminists, but is California's "Governator" burying his foot in his mouth so deeply, that he is hurting the efforts of men's rights activists in California? During Governor Schwarzenegger's campaign he was alleged by some to have groped certain females, and now some women are accusing him of "bullying women" Schwarzenegger Remarks on Women Anger Many . This men's rights activist can only wonder what legislation biased against males , he will sign next to try to appease the growing hostility of women's groups in California."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/23/1833222.shtml

More on Harvard

Matt · 24 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

From Anne Applebaum in the Washington Post, this commentary.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/23/2040241.shtml

Florida boy accused of assault with rubber band

Matt · 24 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "13-year-old suspended 10 days after confrontation with teacher.

I guess he didn't have a conceal/carry license. Yes, folks, rubber bands are deadly and they can hurt you really, really bad. Looks like hard time for this hoodlum. Alcatraz is reopening, I hear."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/24/0344219.shtml

Testicle-ripper gets only 2.5 years in jail

Matt · 24 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "We often hear about sentencing disparities. Here is a woman who ripped off an ex lover's testicle after she offered him sex and he refused her. Her female lawyer mitigates this act by saying "She did not use a weapon, only her rather small hands." She was jailed for 2.5 years.

A man who "offered" sex to an unwilling female and then sliced off her breast in rage at her refusal would be considered the worst kind of sex maniac. He would certainly be looking at 10 years in jail here in the UK."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/24/1733213.shtml

Man Can Sue Over Surprise Pregnancy

Matt · 25 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From My Way, An appeals court said a man can press a claim for emotional distress after learning a former lover had used his sperm to have a baby. But he can't claim theft, the ruling said, because the sperm was hers to keep.
The ruling Wednesday by the Illinois Appellate Court sends Dr. Richard O. Phillips' distress case back to trial court. Phillips accuses Dr. Sharon Irons of a "calculated, profound personal betrayal" after their affair six years ago, saying she secretly kept semen after they had oral sex, then used it to get pregnant.
He said he didn't find out about the child for nearly two years, when Irons filed a paternity lawsuit. DNA tests confirmed Phillips was the father, the court papers state.
Phillips was ordered to pay about $800 a month in child support, said Irons' attorney, Enrico Mirabelli. Scary stuff for men. Is there any surprise some men prefer masturbation or the open arms of a prostitute?"

and

Anonymous User writes "A married woman in suburban Chicago impregnants herself with semen she kept from her lover and gains child support. A court ruled that he at least had standing to sue.

You have to read it to believe it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/24/2335209.shtml

Men Don't Take a Wage Hit?

Matt · 25 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "An associated press story is here and probably in a newspaper near you! The article seems innocuous enough. It simply states the fact that women take a salary hit when they leave the workforce for family reasons. Well duh, ANYONE would probably take a salary hit if they took a year or more off from their career. That would probably include both women and men, not just women. Of course the research study was limited to studying women, not men. This way, the results could be viewed as being discriminatory toward women and they can be seen as the victim once again."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/24/2336244.shtml

Google video search

Matt · 25 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

A good resource for searching TV shows for instances of various kinds of words/phrases is here: http://video.google.com/. I hope it will be of some use to M/R activists.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/24/2345232.shtml

UNtruth at the UN Women's Unit

Matt · 25 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This coming Monday, the United Nations will convene a controversial meeting sponsored by the UN Commission on the Status of Women. The meeting, to be held in New York City, will review the 10-year progress in implementing the recommendations of the Beijing Women's Conference, which was held in 1995.

The Beijing Women's Conference issued the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, a sensationalized document that serves as a sort of Manifesto for women's rights activists around the world.

Click "Read more..." for more.While the document begins by advocating gender equality, the report soon becomes filled with a litany of claims about the mistreatment of women. While the specific examples are certainly true, there is no attempt to provide any kind of hard data, or to place the issues in the appropriate context. The report often uses emotion-laden language.

More troubling is that many of the statements in the Beijing Declaration are demonstrably false. Paragraph 47 alleges: "More than 1 billion people in the world today, the great majority of whom are women, live in unacceptable conditions of poverty." Of course, the report does not offer a shred of evidence to support this claim about the preponderance of women in poverty.

The most egregious lies, however, are found in the section on Violence. Repeatedly, the report indicates that women are victims of domestic violence – but never acknowledges the hidden side of domestic violence.

Five years ago, psychologist John Archer reviewed hundreds of studies from around the world. Most of those studies had already been published before the 1995 Beijing Declaration was written. His research, published in the "Psychological Bulletin", concluded, "Women were slightly more likely than men to use one or more act of physical aggression and to use such acts more frequently."

Beginning this coming Monday, we expect the UN Commission on the Status of Women will pick up where it left off. The Commission will continue its pattern of churning out exaggerations, half-truths, and lies.

But this time, we'll be ready.

RADAR – which stands for Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting – was established earlier this year to respond to media bias in the coverage of domestic violence.

RADAR has established a national network of men and women who monitor newspapers, radio, and TV stations. During the next two weeks, these Monitors will be watching closely to assure media accuracy and balance. When they spot biased reporting, they will contact the reporter, editor, or producer, and request that future coverage of this issue be balanced and fair.

In addition, RADAR will release a report that summarizes the scientific research about domestic violence. The report, "The Emperor's Clothes: How the U.N. Hides the Truth of Domestic Violence," will be released on Friday, February 25. The report will be posted at the RADAR website: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

Finally, RADAR will release a number of press releases and OpEd columns on this important topic.

We encourage other persons to keep on eye on how their local media outlets cover the Commission on the Status of Women conference, and to respond to any bias they observe, as appropriate. Persons who wish to join the network of Media Monitors should contact info-at-mediaradar.org.

As they say, stay tuned.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with

comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/25/0441219.shtml

The Emperor's Clothes: How the UN Hides the Truth on Domestic Violence

Matt · 26 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Here's the RADAR report -- please review it so you can respond to the myths that the media will be reporting from the UN's conference on the Status of Women over the next two weeks.

Click "Read more..." for the report.

THE EMPEROR'S CLOTHES: HOW THE UN HIDES THE TRUTH ON DOMESTIC VIOLENCE
by Mark B. Rosenthal

Over the years the United Nations has issued numerous statements about domestic violence (DV). It began in 1980 at a UN-sponsored conference in Denmark, which adopted a resolution on "battered women and violence in the family." Five years later, the UN General Assembly adopted its first resolution on the subject.

Since then, the UN has sponsored various conferences, reports, and recommendations on DV. At the Fourth World Conference on Women held in Beijing in 1995, violence against women was identified as one of 12 critical areas of concern. In 2000, an Optional Protocol to the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) was enacted which allowed individual abused women to directly petition CEDAW.

Now, efforts to stop violence against women have become mainstreamed into the full range of UN agencies that address health, human rights, and refugee protection. These agencies include the World Health Organization, UNICEF, the High Commissioner for Human Rights, the UN Population Fund, and the UN Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM).

The assumption behind all these efforts is the same: Women are the victims -- and never the aggressors – in incidents of partner aggression.

But does that assumption agree with the research?

Research on Domestic Violence in Western Countries

Over 100 studies have examined the extent of DV in developed countries such as the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, and Australia. These studies have reached a consistent conclusion: men and women are equally likely to engage in partner aggression.

As Linda Kelly recently noted in the Florida State University Law Review, "leading sociologists have repeatedly found that men and women commit violence at similar rates." In fact, some studies have found that women are slightly more likely to instigate partner aggression.

But what about partner aggression in non-Western societies, many of which are less developed economically? Is it possible that males are the sole or primary aggressors in those countries?

Research in Non-Western Countries

Two compilations were searched to locate studies that compared sex-specific rates of domestic violence in non-Western countries. The two compilations were:

1. Population Information Program: Ending Violence Against Women. Population Reports Series L, No. 11, 1999

2. Martin S. Fiebert: References Examining Assaults by Women on their Spouses or Male Partners: An Annotated Bibliography. 2005.

Five studies were identified. Following are summaries of those research projects:

1. Kim, K., & Cho, Y. (1992). Epidemiological survey of spousal abuse in Korea. In E. C. Viano (Ed.) Intimate Violence: Interdisciplinary Perspectives. (pp. 277-282). Bristol, PA: Taylor and Francis. Utilized the Conflict Tactics Scale in interviews with a random sample of 1,316 married Koreans (609 men, 707 women). Compared to findings with American couples, results indicate that Korean men were victimized by their wives twice as much as American men, while Korean women were victimized by their spouses three times as much as American women.

2. Kim, J-Y., & Emery, C. (2003). Marital power, conflict, norm consensus, and marital violence in a nationally representative sample of Korean couples. Journal of Interpersonal Violence, 18, 197-219. A sample of 1,500 South Koreans were surveyed. Marital power, conflict, and norm consensus were correlated with marital violence. Findings reveal that the incidence of husband-to-wife violence was 27.8%, while wife-to-husband was 15.8%.

3. Steinmetz, S. K. (1981). A cross cultural comparison of marital abuse. Journal of Sociology and Social Welfare, 8, 404-414. Using a modified version of the CTS, examined marital violence in small samples from six societies: Finland, United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, Belize, and Israel. Total sample: 630 persons. Concluded that "in each society the percentage of husbands who used violence was similar to the percentage of violent wives." The major exception was Puerto Rico, where men were more violent. The author also reported, "Wives who used violence... tended to use greater amounts."

4. Straus, M. A. (2001). Prevalence of violence against dating partners by male and female university students worldwide. Violence Against Women, 10, 790-811. Dating aggression was studied at 31 universities in 16 countries worldwide. Responding to the revised Conflict Tactics Scale were 8,666 students (2,747 men, 5,919 women). Results reveal that overall, 25% of men and 28% of women assaulted their dating partner in the past year. At 21 of the 31 universities, a larger percentage of women than men assaulted their dating partners. In terms of severe assaults, a higher rate of perpetration by women occurred in a majority (18 of the 31) of the sites.

5. Tang, C. S. (1994). Prevalence of spouse aggression in Hong Kong. Journal of Family Violence, 9, 347-356. Subjects were 382 undergraduates (136 men, 246 women) at the Chinese University in Hong Kong. The CTS was used to assess students' evaluation of their parents' responses during family conflict. Fourteen percent of the students reported that their parents engaged in physical violence. The author concluded, "Mothers were as likely as fathers to use actual physical force toward their spouses."

What Conclusions Can We Draw?

These five studies compared partner aggression rates in the following non-Western countries: Korea, Puerto Rico, Belize, Israel, Mexico, India, Hong Kong, Brazil, and Singapore. The Conflict Tactics Scale (CTS) was the most widely used survey tool.

Among the five studies, the Straus study had by far the largest sample -- 2,747 men and 5,919 women – and was carried out in 16 Western and non-Western countries. The participants were university students enrolled in social science classes, however, so the results may not be generalizable.

The Straus study reported that in Singapore, 27.8% of females and 11.6% of males had perpetrated partner assaults – more than a two-fold difference. In India, 25.8% of females and 12.5% of males had committed severe assaults. Straus concludes, "the most important similarity is the high rate of assault perpetrated by both male and female students in all the countries."

The other studies suggest that in countries such as Korea (Kim and Cho, 1992; Kim and Emery, 2003) and Puerto Rico (Steinmetz 1981), the males in the groups studied were more likely to commit assaults. And in Belize and Israel (Steinmetz 1981) and Hong Kong (Tang 1994), the assault rate was similar for both sexes.

Overall, the results from these surveys of over 12,000 persons in nine non-Western countries are generally consistent with the findings in Western societies: men and women are equally likely to commit partner aggression.

Reconciling the UN Perspective with the Research

The UN resolutions and recommendations exclusively highlight male-on-female violence. In contrast, the research in both Western and non-Western countries shows that partner aggression is split equally. How do we reconcile these conflicting perspectives?

A review of the UN statements reveals a disturbing fact: they provide no statistics or hard numbers; they refer only to studies that surveyed women but not men; or they resort to grisly but one-sided anecdotes.

For example, the UN 1995 Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action is generally viewed as a landmark document on the issue of women's rights. The section on Violence Against Women contains nine single-spaced pages of analysis and recommendations.

But the Beijing Declaration does not mention even a single study or statistic on domestic violence.

The Declaration offers examples of DV and speculates on its possible causes. But it never states the incidence, nor does it give any hint that women are just as likely to engage in partner aggression as men.

The explanation for this surprising omission is found in paragraph 120 of the Declaration: "The absence of adequate gender-disaggregated data and statistics on the incidence of violence makes the elaboration of programmes and monitoring of changes difficult.".

But is that explanation true? The research on domestic violence began in the early-1970s. Almost every study disaggregated the results by sex. It is almost inconceivable that any study would not break out the data. So the Beijing Declaration's claim about an "absence" of disaggregated data is clearly false.

Likewise, the 1999 WHO publication, Putting Women First: Ethical and Safety Recommendations for Research on Domestic Violence Against Women, never gives any hint that women are often instigators of DV. Likewise, the report does not suggest that female abusers be the focus of research.

Engendering Global Myths About DV

Psychologist John Archer reviewed and analyzed 552 DV reports from around the world. His study represents the most rigorous summary ever conducted of the domestic violence literature. His article, published in the Psychological Bulletin in 2000, reached this conclusion:

"Women were slightly more likely than men to use one or more acts of physical aggression and to use such acts more frequently."

But you would never suspect that by reading the many pronouncements on domestic violence from the United Nations.

The UN emperor has no clothes.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/26/0434205.shtml

More on Koko the Gorilla: Third Woman Sues

Matt · 27 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I would laugh but it's so pathetic I can't. A third woman is suing Koko's caretakers over their request that she expose her breasts to the gorilla. Bear in mind, ALL the particpants here in this flap are female. [First post on MANN about this topic is here.]

Eventually though, I am sure someone will find a man to sue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/27/0116231.shtml

A Domestic Abuse Murderer Speaks

Matt · 28 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "The convicted domestic abuse killer Clara Harris gives a rather self serving prison interview to the media recently. There are audio excerpt downloads of this interview available at this site too.

As you may remember she killed her husband by running over him with her car. She was given a 20 year prison sentence of which she will have to serve at least 10. And yes a man who did the same crime would have gotten more and probably the death penalty."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/27/2344208.shtml

Re Feminist PC Garbage at Harvard

Matt · 28 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "A commentary by Deb Saunders is here. She makes some excellent points about the PC feminists that dominate some of our higher educational facilities."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/27/2350223.shtml

RADAR Alert: U.N. Conference Expected to Unleash Torrent of Anti-Male Propaganda

Matt · 28 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

In 1995, the UN Commission on the Status of Women held a conference in Beijing which issued the "Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action". This document presents a distorted picture that focuses exclusively on ill treatment of women, while pretending that men's suffering does not exist. These distortions have served as the basis for male-hostile policies and laws throughout the world.

Click "Read more..." for more.

U.N. Conference Expected to Unleash Torrent of Anti-Male Propaganda
The Women's Commission will be holding a progress review beginning this Monday, February 28 in New York City. If things go as they have in the past, this year's conference will churn out yet another batch of exaggerations, half-truths, and lies. And news organizations across the nation may well report this propaganda as factual.

This time, you can help turn things around. Here's what you need to do:

1. Arm yourself with the facts. Read the RADAR Special Report, "The Emperor's Clothes: How the UN Hides the Truth of Domestic Violence". The Report's conclusion is found at the bottom of this Alert.

2. Watch your local media for one-sided and false reports filtering out of the UN Conference.

3. When you spot these biased articles, send a Letter to the Editor. Remember to make your letter short and sweet – generally 2-4 paragraphs long. Keep it factual and reasonable, and try to make only one key point.

4. Send a copy of your letter to us at info-at-mediaradar.org.

Newspapers publish guidelines for letters on their "Letters to the Editor" page. TV and radio contact information can be found by looking up the station's call letters in the phone directory. Or you can do a Google search on the call letters to find their website.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Conclusion of RADAR Special Report, "The Emperor's Clothes: How the UN Hides the Truth of Domestic Violence:"

"Psychologist John Archer reviewed and analyzed 552 DV reports from around the world. His study represents the most rigorous summary ever conducted of the domestic violence literature. His article, published in the Psychological Bulletin in 2000, reached this conclusion:

"Women were slightly more likely than men to use one or more acts of physical aggression and to use such acts more frequently."

But you would never suspect that by reading the many pronouncements on domestic violence from the United Nations.

The UN emperor has no clothes."

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Date of release: February 26, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/27/2357257.shtml

Missing Aristocrat's Wife Arrested on Murder Suspicion

Matt · 28 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

French police have arrested the wife of a missing British aristocrat on suspicion of murder over his inexplicable disappearance. They arrested her brother too, apparently. Story here. The article's intimation is of course, predictably, that he "deserved it" because he was having an affair, or was suspected of doing so anyway.

Gee, guess that makes murder OK? Well, if you're female, anyway...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/28/0452211.shtml

Junk-Sci Update: Dentists Say We're Wimps

Matt · 28 February 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dr. Dan writes "This report in the Chicago Sun Times begins, 'Put a guy in a dental chair, and he turns into a wimp.' That is the result of a survey conducted by the Chicago Dental Society. The tone of the article shows more amusement, than serious concern about male dental health.

One can only wonder if the reporter would have been more compassionate, or questioned the study's validity, had the results been the opposite."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/02/28/196238.shtml

Humor: "Moment of Clarity"

Matt · 1 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This is very funny, a 3.63 MB .mpg file. It should be available at the link until March 4, 2005. It's also really satisfying to see an otherwise mundane product like bottled water advertised with "the shoe on the other foot," so to speak.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/0340236.shtml

BBC.co.uk: Abortion Major Issue at UN Meeting

Matt · 1 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Looks like it took little time for the UN Women's Conference to get heated. Story here. Now if only they would create a few declarations guaranteeing the rights of men!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/0356255.shtml

Harvard President Receives Support in Press

Matt · 1 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Do my eyes deceive me? Right here, off-linked from Yahoo's main site page, no less!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/041202.shtml

F4J Strikes Again with Batman, Robin, and Capt. America

Matt · 1 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

What a day for news! Congratulations to F4J for their latest protest action!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/044218.shtml

Request from Author for Publishing Guidance

Matt · 1 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

rachel snyder writes: I know this is a longshot, but I just stumbled onto the chat string from March 2004, in which Adam and others spoke of my book, What There Is To Love About A Man (Sourcebooks, 2000).

I was heartened to see men validating my book! Yes, the book is out-of-print, though all rights have reverted to me and I am seeking to repackage, reformat, retitle, and remarket the material. The book was simply ahead of its time: too many women still too angry, and too many men oppressed by male-bashing and anti-patriarchal rhetoric! I was interviewed on more than 85 radio shows, and my heart sank when the exposure did not translate into sales.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Can you help guide me to publishers, magazines, or other media who focus on men-friendly work -- and would be interested in re-releasing an improved version of What There Is To Love About A Man? I am open to a variety of collaborative, co-creative, efforts with organizations or companies who understand why this material is important.

The best response to the book was always from men doing men's work at individual or community levels - both gay and hetero. To the best of my knowledge, no other book exists, written by a woman, that honors and celebrates masculine qualities of body, mind and spirit.

'Tis more than coincidence that I discovered your web site and Adam's rallying cry at the same time I am actively looking to bring this content back around! You may post this, along with my email address.

Thanks so much. I am grateful for the support of the men who participated in the conversation nearly one year ago.

Rachel Snyder

author. storyteller. inspiratrix.

rhaka-at-lycos.com

"365 Words of Well-Being for Women" (Contemporary Books 1997)

"What There Is To Love About A Man" (Sourcebooks, 2000)

"365 Words of Well-Being for Mothers" (McGraw-Hill 2002)

"Making Love To God" (unpublished)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/1740207.shtml

UNICEF chief defends "feminism" in aiding children

Matt · 2 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bro writes "Here is the article.

Carol Bellamy comments: "Women are central to UNICEF's mission in that their well-being directly impacts families and children."

She also comments: "Since 1990, women and children constitute most of the deaths in war zones. Boys were brutalized and forced to become soldiers, while too many women and girls were too ashamed to complain," she said.

My only question is if women and children constitute most of the deaths in war zones, then male deaths don't matter or are there no male deaths within war zones?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/2047250.shtml

USAToday.com: Boys bad, girls good

Matt · 2 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Well it seems 16-YO boys are the main reason girls die in car accidents, or so you may gather from USA Today's March 1, 2005 cover story.

From the article:

To many who knew the victims, the crash seemed like a cruel act of fate, a freak tragedy beyond anyone's control. But it fit a common formula for teen deaths on the USA's roadways: Put a 16-year-old boy at the wheel of an SUV. Add two or three teens, including at least one other boy. Send them out at night. Finally, let them travel fast — and unbelted.

I guess girls never drive recklessly, do they? Not according to this publication from the Scottish government:

Although boys constitute the majority of road accident casualties at all ages, accident statistics show that the difference between boys and girls is narrowest during their early teenage years. This research did not find strong evidence to explain this phenomenon. There was little evidence to suggest that girls were any less likely to engage in 'common risk' behaviour but there was some evidence that they were slightly more careful when they did so.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/01/2054227.shtml

Little League mother guilty of assault

Matt · 2 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "A mother was ordered to watch a sportsmanship video and write an essay about it after she was found guilty yesterday of assaulting an 11-year-old boy who was cheering the opposing team at her son's game nearly two years ago. She was initially charged with kicking the boy in the crotch. Apparently women have behavioral issues at sporting events too. Hard for the gender feminists to say that this type of action is a patriarchal norm... Also, if a man (father) had done this - we all know that he would be sitting in jail right now, and his face would have been on the front page of the paper."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/02/1634239.shtml

Men save '50% more' than women

Matt · 2 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "From here: "More people are saving regularly, but women are managing to save less than men, according to a report published today." - Guess why? - "Women's salaries are, on average, lower than men's so you would expect a lower amount of savings, both in total and regular monthly amounts. But they also save a lower percentage of income."

Surprise..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/02/1635252.shtml

Indian Govt To Prepare Gender Oriented Budget

Matt · 2 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "The highlights of the latest budget presented to Parliament are 1. Women pay Rs. 2,500 less tax on their income, 2. All govt departments required to prepare `gender budgets' which means they should allocate part of their planned fund outlay specifically for the benefit of women, 3. In some Indian states, women pay less stamp duty on property purchase than what men pay (in Delhi, it's 6% & 8%). The Finance Minister recommends the same model to other states as well.

The Times of India editorial is quite supportive of these `affirmative action' measures."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/02/1636253.shtml

Cathy Young on the Harvard Flap

Matt · 3 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Can be read here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/02/2256235.shtml

Counter-DV Bias Letter Published in Major CA Regional Paper

Matt · 3 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Congratulations to NCFM-LA member Harry Crouch for this letter's publication in the North County Times. That "Lace Curtain" gets thinner and thinner every day!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/03/0439202.shtml

Bryant Case Settled Out of Court

Matt · 3 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Here is the story, from the BBC. I quote:

In it, the woman claimed unspecified damages for mental injuries, public scorn and humiliation she had suffered after the encounter.

At the time of the collapse of the criminal case, Mr Bryant issued a statement apologising to the woman for any distress he had caused.

According to the statement, the woman had agreed not to use the apology against him in the civil claim.

No mention of the scorn and humiliation she may have caused Bryant with her unsupportable allegations. The message is clear: fame and money can be gotten for a woman by having sex with a famous/wealthy man, then suing him for it. Makes me glad I am neither!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/03/0526202.shtml

Extreme misandry at UNH

Matt · 4 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Palladin writes "
Here the resident UNH misandrist Whitney Williams spews some of its venom at the male half of human population yet again."

Click "Read more..." for more.
“"Good Guys" in the patriarchy are harder to find than the Loch Ness monster in a desert.”

“I felt astounded repeatedly by many men's refusal to acknowledge their complicity in the oppression of women;”

“By existing as men, men directly aid in the oppression of women … there is no such thing as a "good guy" in the patriarchy.”

But then after showing so much kindness to us in her drivel she blames men for not being her allies:

“"Good guys" condescend us in the classroom and school paper and laugh at our feminist agenda.”

Perhaps she is a little (or not) psychotic, so she should not be blamed. But the newspaper editors who create VERY HOSTILE ENVIRONMENT for men by printing hate propaganda should be contacted by all of us:

To contact the Editor-in-Chief's office, call 603-862-4076.
Send e-mail to: tnh.editor-at-unh.edu.

Also email the UNH president at: presidents.office-at-unh.edu.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/04/0440206.shtml

Female Teacher Accused of Sex Abuse

Matt · 4 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From WOWK TV:

"A Braxton County middle school teacher is in police custody after allegedly confessing to sexual misconduct with five of her students. Toni Lynn Woods, 37, of Strange Creek was arrested Wednesday on eight counts of sexual assault."

Finally, the media is using the headline of sex abuse instead of just "having sex or sexual relations" to describe this."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/04/1558220.shtml

Man Learns Penalty for Wanting to Stay In for the Evening

Matt · 4 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

SLOPDOG writes "Anti-Social Man Almost Loses Nose

A Texas man nearly lost his snout after telling his wife he didn't want to go out.

Police said Maria Serrano, of San Antonio, got in a fight with her husband, Zeferino Barrera, after he told her he'd rather not hit the town last weekend.

"The woman in this situation assaulted the man, nearly cutting off his nose and sending him to the hospital," police spokeswoman Sandy Gutierrez told WOAI-TV.

Barrera said Serrano hit him in the head with a frying pan, but police couldn't find any kind of cutting weapon.

"She claims she never had anything in her hands, that it was simply her fist she used to hit him on the nose," Gutierrez said.

A plastic surgeon doubted that story.

"That would be a huge force to knock it off like that," said plastic surgeon Dr. Thomas Jeneby, who said Barrera's nose could be saved with multiple operations.

Serrano was charged with aggravated assault.

— Thanks to Out There reader David B."

Ed. note: If anyone can provide a URL to this story, please post it in the comments section.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/04/165227.shtml

"We overlook AIDS in women at our own peril"

Matt · 5 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "Are you asking "could it ever get worse?" Sure: just read this. But I'm pretty sure UNAIDS welcomes "funding" from male taxpayers too..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/05/0224217.shtml

Federal Class Action Lawsuit for Equal Parenting

Matt · 6 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

People for Equal Parenting, Inc. writes "The Supreme Court has ruled that parenting is a fundamental right. In a class action lawsuit against the Texas Attorney General, People for Equal Parenting, Inc. (PEP) is challenging current Texas laws which establish non-custodial parenthood and unequal possession of children as unconstitutional. We have a winnable case. PEP seeks donations to a legal fund to change custody laws so that all fit, divorced parents have the presumptive right to equal physical and legal custody of their children."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/06/0346230.shtml

An "Affair" with an 11 year Old?

Matt · 7 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "Everyone involved in this unseemly story is at fault, but once again the media portrays this in the headlines as an “affair”. An adult cannot have a sexual "affair" with an 11 year old boy or girl. The words "slept with" and "having sex" when applied to a child should not be used. Yes, they are just words, but "sexual assault" or "child rape" seems more appropriate. Also, the article seems to spend more time questioning the activities of the victim's father than on the alleged child rapist."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/07/1649254.shtml

Sacks, Leving on 'Sperm Theft' Case

Matt · 7 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

In "Hoodwinked into fatherhood" Glenn Sacks and Jeff Leving discuss the highly-publicized 'Sperm Theft'/Men's Reproductive Rights case--see the article in the Houston Chronicle.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/07/1652257.shtml

RADAR Alert: Lifetime TV Reaches out to Men by Ignoring DV Against Men

Matt · 8 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Lifetime TV is planning to broadcast a one-hour “documentary” about domestic violence on April 4 titled “Terror at Home: Domestic Violence in America.” The Press Release which announces the film is attached at the end of this Alert.

Lifetime TV claims that it wants to stop domestic violence by involving men in its efforts, and is partnering with groups like ESPN. But then Lifetime TV turns around and produces a film about DV that completely ignores DV against men.

Somebody needs to ask Lifetime, “How can you say you are reaching out to men, and then turn around and pretend that men are never the victims of DV?”

Click "Read more..." for more.

Lifetime TV Reaches out to Men by Ignoring DV Against Men
Contact Lifetime TV and tell them the following:

1. In the introduction to its “documentary,” Lifetime TV needs to clearly and specifically indicate that males are also DV victims, and that women are just as likely to commit DV as men. (Lifetime is still finalizing the introductory information to the program, so prompt action can make a big difference.)

2. Lifetime TV needs to air the acclaimed “Men Don’t Tell” program, which examines female-on-male violence.

3. If Lifetime TV is serious about reaching out to men, it needs to partner with some of the domestic violence organizations that actually recognize and provide services to male victims.

Here’s the contact information:

1. Telephone: Call Mary Dixon in Public Affairs at 1-212-424-7195

2. Send an e-mail by going to this web address: http://www.lifetimetv.com/about/write.html -- under “Topic,” select “Other Comments or Concerns”

3. Send a constructive letter:

Meredith Wagner, Executive Vice President

Lifetime TV

309 West 49th Street

New York, NY 10019

If you want, you can also contact Tracey Spector, 917-716-8048 or tspector-at-lifetimetv.com.

While Lifetime TV is to be commended for trying to reach out to men, their decision to ignore female-on-male violence is a slap in the face to men.

++

Lifetime Television Premieres New Documentary:

'Terror at Home: Domestic Violence in America' at Special Screening Monday, March 7

To: Assignment Desk, Daybook Editor

Contact: Tracey Spector, 917-716-8048 or tspector@lifetimetv.com, Maggie Gallant, 917-207-0010 or Maggie@spotlightcomm.com, both for Lifetime Television

News Advisory:

-- Lifetime Television Premieres New Documentary: 'Terror At Home: Domestic Violence In America' At Special Screening Monday, March 7th At 6:30 PM

-- Panel Discussion Following with Filmmakers Oscar-winner Maryann De Leo and Grammy Winner Michael Bolton

-- Launches National College Education Outreach on the Heels of New Lifetime Poll of Young Women and Men Ages 16-24 Finding that 7 Out of 10 Know Someone in an Abusive Relationship

WHAT: Lifetime Television, Amnesty International, The Body Shop, and Comcast host a premiere screening of Lifetime's new documentary, Terror at Home: Domestic Violence in America. The one-hour documentary (which will air commercial-free on Lifetime, Sunday, April 10) is directed and executive produced by Oscar-winning filmmaker Maryann De Leo and executive produced by Grammy-winning singer, songwriter and activist Michael Bolton - both of whom will participate in a post screening panel discussion regarding how women and men can work together to prevent domestic violence. In combination with the documentary, Lifetime is distributing a viewer's guide to help facilitate and inform further similar conversation between men and women across the country.

The special screening launches a national college outreach initiative to engage more young women and men in efforts to stop the violence. It also launches Lifetime's "Stop Violence Against Women Week" in Washington, D.C. -- a series of events whereby Lifetime leads thousands of anti-violence advocates from around the country to raise awareness of an issue which affects one in three women in her life. As part of the "Donate a Phone, Save a Life" initiative, attendees are encouraged to bring used wireless phones to donate to raise funds for the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence (NCADV). Donated phones will be refurbished and sold with proceeds benefiting the NCADV and the Wireless Foundation.

WHO:

-- Maryann De Leo, Academy Award-winning filmmaker (HBO's Chernobyl Heart); executive producer and director, Terror at Home: Domestic Violence in America

-- Michael Bolton, Grammy Award-winning singer, songwriter and anti violence activist; executive producer, Terror at Home: Domestic Violence in America

-- Sheryl Cates, Executive Director, National Domestic Violence Hotline

-- Dr. Oliver Williams, The Institute on Domestic Violence in the African American Community

-- Rachel Coleman, Amnesty International Student Representative

-- Rita Smith, Executive Director, National Coalition Against Domestic Violence

WHEN: Monday, March 7th, Doors open at 5:30 p.m. (Press should be set by 6 p.m.)

WHERE: George Washington University: The School of Media and Public Affairs, Jack Morton Auditorium, 805 21st Street, NW (Corner of 21st and H Street)

ABOUT THE DOCUMENTARY:

One in three American women will live with frightening and degrading domestic violence every day, trapped in relationships from which escape is difficult and dangerous. To acknowledge this too often silent epidemic -- and to foster a conversation among women and men about how it can be stopped -- Terror at Home: Domestic Violence in America offers a report from the streets, police beats, and both modest and spacious homes -- putting a real-time lens on domestic abuse, the escape and the complex aftermath for women and their families. The documentary is a key component of Lifetime's Emmy award-winning advocacy outreach campaign "Our Lifetime Commitment: Stop Violence Against Women."

Lifetime is the leader in women's television and one of the top-rated basic cable television networks. A diverse, multi-media company, Lifetime is committed to offering the highest quality entertainment and information programming, and advocating a wide range of issues affecting women and their families. LIFETIME Television, Lifetime Movie Network, Lifetime Real Women, Lifetime Radio for Women, Lifetime Home Entertainment and Lifetime Online are part of Lifetime Entertainment Services, a 50/50 joint venture of The Hearst Corporation and The Walt Disney Company.

++

Date of Release of RADAR Alert: March 7, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/08/0438255.shtml

Playground insults against females banned, boys ok

Adam · 8 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "From This is London, Teachers are warned today that words such as "slag" and "slut" lead to boys feeling superior to girls and make domestic violence seem more acceptable. Boys should be challenged if they are heard directing such terms at girls. It is considered equally unacceptable for girls to aim such insults at one another. Teachers' leaders said such language is common in secondary schools and even among older children at primaries. Not surprisingly, there's no mention if what happens if a girl insults a guy for being a pervert, a horndog or a lech. I seriously doubt such behavior will be banned as well by the new rules."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/08/193240.shtml

NY Times Prints NCFM letter, NOW letter

Matt · 9 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc A. writes "Peter Allemano of the NY chapter of NCFM just send out the following message that I'd like to convey:

"On page 10 of yesterday's (i.e., 3/6/05) Sunday Business section, THE NEW YORK TIMES published two letters in response to its 2/27/05 article about Warren Farrell. One is a standard-issue, ideological feminist screech about anti-female discrimination and harassment, submitted by Kathy Rodgers, President of Legal Momentum (formerly NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund), and the other is a highly condensed version of the letter I submitted. Although a "search" for both our names on the TIMES's Web site turns up the fact that our letters were published, the actual text of the letters is not available on line. So here's what the TIMES published of mine:"

Click "Read more..." for more

To the Editor:

"Any woman - indeed, any man - who wishes to earn more can do so by following Dr. Farrell's advice. Moreover, as he says, anyone who chooses inherently lower-paying work can better appreciate the nonmonetary benefits of the choice.

I am a man who works full time as a secretary - a predominantly female profession - in a large corporate law firm, earning a small fraction of the wages paid to the lawyers. Unlike many of them, however, I usually can leave work at 5 p.m., sleep eight hours a night and have time to go to the gym. I am not paid any more or less than any of my fellow secretaries who are my equals in seniority. And I am not saddled with a mind-set that insists I should be paid as much as our bosses. It is obvious to me that they work harder, make larger sacrifices for their careers and perform more important work."

Peter Allemano

Manhattan, Feb. 27

The writer is a director of the Greater New York Chapter of the National Coalition of Free Men, which examines sex discrimination issues that affect men.

* * *

Further message from Peter A.: While, of course, I feel delighted that I was able to get NCFM's name into print, at the same time I feel saddened by the need for the TIMES to publish my letter at all. In my opinion, the thoughts conveyed in the letter constitute simple, self-evident truth, and I believe it says something terribly unfortunate about our society's being in the thrall of destructive ideological nonsense that "the paper of record" must quote a secretary, for heaven's sake, to convey a down-to-earth philosophical perspective. This observation is by no means intended to disparage myself for being a secretary. Rather, it is to express dismay that those who we ought to be able to trust in academia, government and elsewhere to productively provoke our thinking often can only be counted on to dispense sanctimonious rodomontade and nihilistic folderol."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/09/0536256.shtml

Rape Reported to Cover Public Drunkenness

Matt · 9 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here is an article about a woman who claimed to have been brutally raped in a restroom to cover up underage public drunkenness and being in possession of alcohol. But later admitted she had lied. Big surprise huh? The upside: she will be charged with making a false crime report. The downside: she will probably not get any jail time, more likely mild probation. And all will probably have a big laugh over it.

More evidence that there is a urgent need to pass federal legislation to prosecute false rape allegations and add real prison time."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/09/1737213.shtml

Australia: Report paints sad portrait of the modern woman

Matt · 9 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "You can read the whole text HERE.

"The new look at the Australian everywoman" that "paints a picture of women as increasingly lonely and unhealthy."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/09/1745226.shtml

Office Romances-- Just Say No

Matt · 9 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "We've all probably heard about Harry Stonecipher, ex-CEO of Boeing. Now we finally hear about the other side of the equation here. It just goes to highlight once again that there is little upside and a great big downside in having an office romance no matter what level you are in the company. If you like your job, don't get romantically involved at work-- it doesn't matter if you are the CEO or not. Actually, according to the article, Stonecipher wasn't fired for the romance, but it led to violation of the company code of ethics. Probably deserved. Now let's see if the company code of ethics applies to the woman executive involved as well."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/09/1746226.shtml

Indian state government offering money to one-girl families

Matt · 10 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Apparently one-child (ie, one-boy or -girl) families do not get the same consideration. Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/10/0445227.shtml

Male pill proposal flawed at conception (allegedly)

Adam · 10 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

It's been quite a while since we had a condescending talking down about the male pill by a woman, or a pseuedo-man lackey, so here's a new article. Of course, we all know the condescension is really a projection of fear onto the nearest man for being able to do what women have been doing for at least 2 generations, or longer if you consider keeping your fertility ambiguous is what a certain half of humanity use to sexually manipulate the other half of humanity? Yeah I think so. Even if the side effects are harsh, it would most likely reverse the sexual dynamics, and that alone would be worth it. And since we're at it, shall we take a few guesses at the scare mongering tactics we'll have to endure when our pill gets released?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/10/0011226.shtml

Boeing employees raise Stonecipher questions

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From USA Today, Boeing on Tuesday issued a brief notice to all employees that said "many employees" have questioned why the female executive remains with the company while Stonecipher was forced to resign. It's good to see individuals in the workplace (usual awash in femnazi HR policies) asking this exact question. After all, if it was violation of company ethics for Stonecipher to have an affair. How come it's not one for the female executive in question?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/10/2139223.shtml

IKEA in trouble over male-only furniture assembly

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From CNN Money, Swedish home furnishings giant IKEA is guilty of sex discrimination by showing only men putting together furniture in its instruction manuals, Norway's prime minister says.
*Isn't there something better Norway's Prime Minister could target? shakes head"*

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/10/2142203.shtml

Feminist Recruiting Targets

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Neil Steyskal writes "Here is an interview that details some new feminist recruiting targets.

The site, beliefnet.com, has a dialog icon where the writer replies to comments from 'respectful guests.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/10/2149251.shtml

Women given 15 minute handicap at LA Marathon

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Running USA:

> Under hazy skies, relative calm and temperatures in the mid-50s, the elite women took off 15 minutes and 50 seconds ahead of the elite men and the rest of the 25,000 plus entrants. The handicap differential was determined by past LA Marathon winning times and the relative strength of the elite fields (last year's, differential was 20:30).

After the race, Lyubov Denisova expressed disappointment in finishing third in The Challenge (46 seconds behind) and believed the 15:50 handicap favored the men. I'm confused and speechless. Confused as I thought whatever a man can do, a woman can do just as good or better. So why the need for a handicap, ladies? Speechless because I can't believe I just read a woman saying that a 15 minute handicap for the women runners favored the men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/10/2154239.shtml

NCFM-LA Mentioned in MI Ballot Proposal Story

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The NCFM-LA lawsuit against California was metnioned in a news story regarding a challenge to Michigan's state university admission policies.

Click "Read more..." for more.On-line, this story is found at:
http://www.mlive.com/newsflash/business/index.ssf?/base/news-23/111048131026580.xml&storylist=mibusiness

Ballot proposal could threaten programs for women, study says

3/10/2005, 2:55 p.m. ET

By DEE-ANN DURBIN

The Associated Press

DETROIT (AP) - Breast cancer screenings, science camps for girls and other programs for women would be threatened under a proposal that could appear on Michigan's ballot in 2006, a University of Michigan researcher says.

Susan Kaufmann, associate director of the Center for the Education of Women, planned to release her report Friday at the Michigan Women's Summit. The summit was being held in three locations connected by satellite. Among those scheduled to attend were Gov. Jennifer Granholm and the women presidents of Michigan, Michigan State University and Western Michigan University.

Jennifer Gratz, who sued the University of Michigan over its admission policies, now is promoting the ballot measure for the Michigan Civil Rights Initiative. The group says the measure would ban universities and state and local governments from discriminating based on race, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin.

Gratz said Thursday that the proposal is taking aim at discrimination in public contracts and public education but wouldn't affect health programs.

"The University of Michigan is reaching. They're grabbing at straws," Gratz said. "They are practicing discrimination based on race, and they want to change the debate."

The group wants to get the proposal on the ballot in Michigan in November 2006. State officials are reviewing 508,000 signatures that the group submitted in January.

Kaufmann said a similar measure that passed in California in 1996 has eliminated or changed many programs originally meant to help women. A summer science academy that used to emphasize education of girls and minorities had to change its focus, she said. Other programs now target low-income communities instead of girls and minorities, Kaufmann said.

Kaufmann said the National Coalition of Free Men, a men's rights group, is challenging all state programs for women in California in a lawsuit. The group also filed a lawsuit against California domestic violence shelters receiving state funding, but a judge upheld that funding under a separate California law that protects programs for women and minorities.

Kaufmann said Michigan law has no protections against such lawsuits, so state- or locally funded programs for women could be at risk. That would include scholarships for women, government programs that help women-owned businesses and gender-specific screenings for cervical or prostate cancer, Kaufmann said.

"(The proposal) does not provide for exceptions for the health and well-being of affected populations, but instead seeks a blanket ban on targeted programs based in race, gender and ethnicity," Kaufmann said in the study.

Gratz said opponents should ask themselves why they believe programs should give special attention to one race or gender.

"If it's good for one gender or if it's good for one race, why wouldn't it be good for everyone?" she said.

*—

On the Net:

Michigan Civil Rights Initiative: http://www.mcri2004.org/

Center for the Education of Women: http://www.umich.edu/~cew/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/11/163246.shtml

15 Year Old Girl Poisons Mother's Boyfriend

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "The full text of the article can be found HERE

Basically during a day outing shopping and a stop at McDonalds this girl added a micky finn of copper sulfate she stole from school to her mothers boyfriends soda.

My Favorite Quote: Danielle Sander's family describes her as a "sweet girl"

Despite what many are thinking, this man is a very very lucky man given that this material is quite toxic.

ArtflDgr"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/11/165252.shtml

Woman Superior Cited In Police Harassment Suit

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cmdr iceman writes "Officer says his complaints were ignored by department. This article is just more proof that sexual harrassment laws were only written to serve women. The saddest part I found in all of this was how obdurate his male superiors were as they stymied the officer's efforts for the harassment to end and instead encouraged him to accede to her advances because she would be chief one day."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/11/1611221.shtml

MSN Columnist: Wife cheating-- what did YOU do wrong?

Matt · 11 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "
*Advice columnist gives sh*tty advice to men regarding how to deal with infidelity.*

I have a hard time imagining her advising a woman "I am not blaming the victim here — fidelity is a choice — but there probably are things you can do to lessen the chance your [husband] will cheat again."... and then run on into a litany of potentially wifely obligations that she ought to entertain (doing dishes, shining his shoes).

Email the old hag at inquiries-at-drgailsaltz.com"

Ed. note: You can also submit a comment directly using the comment box at the bottom of the story's web page.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/11/1618244.shtml

Desperate to be "housewives"

Matt · 12 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From The Independent:

> They are the generation of women who grew up expecting to have it all. No longer forced to choose between children and a career, they were set to embrace superwomanhood by doing both - while holding down a perfect relationship and keeping a spotless home in their spare time. But modern woman has taken a reality check. The average 29-year-old now hankers for a return to the lifestyle of a 1950s housewife. The daughters of the "Cosmo" generation of feminists want nothing more than a happy marriage and domestic bliss in the countryside, according to a survey. Research into the attitudes of 1,500 women with an average age of 29 found that 61 per cent believe "domestic goddess" role models who juggle top jobs with motherhood and jet-set social lives are "unhelpful" and "irritating". More than two-thirds agree that the man should be the main provider in a family, while 70 per cent do not want to work as hard as their mother's generation. On average, the women questioned want to "settle down" with their partner by 30 and have their first child a year later.

And of course, guys, we all know what this means -- they want to be housewives without any of the housework."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/11/2156217.shtml

Woman commits murder, arson, attempted murder of rescuing fireman

Matt · 12 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Firehouse.com:

> A woman being carried out of a burning house put a gun to a firefighter's head and pulled the trigger repeatedly but was out of bullets following the shooting death of her boyfriend, police say. The woman, in her late 50s, was hospitalized for treatment of smoke inhalation Monday. Once she is released she will be jailed for investigation of first-degree murder and two counts of assault, officer Mark Fulghum said. Police and fire investigators said she apparently tried to set fire to the house in a suicide attempt after the shooting of her longtime boyfriend, 65.

Obviously, this woman was very ill and deserves absolutely no jail time for this domestic violence against her boyfriend. turns off sarcasm"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/11/220208.shtml

Australian Insurance Company Takes Page from Progressive Playbook

Matt · 13 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Looks like Progressive is not the only insurance company using male bashing these days to "reach out" to potential female customers. Mutual Community South Australia looks like it has been getting ideas from Progressive Insurance with its latest offering. Visit the Mutual Community link above and scroll down to the lower right corner of the page and view the "It's Dangerous Being Single" ad.

Gee, what a riot!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/13/1911245.shtml

RADAR Alert: Minnesota Men Killed by Wives Unlikely to Answer Health Survey

Matt · 14 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Francis Manthey of Hill City, Minnesota was shot and killed in the early morning hours of March 5, 2003. His wife, Ardelle Manthey, has now been indicted on charges of first degree murder.

But according to the Minneapolis Star Tribune, the killing never happened. In fact, the 30,000 Minnesota men who were assaulted by their wives and girlfriends in 2004 were just imagining things.

The Star Tribune just ran an article titled, “3% of Minnesota Women Report Attack by Their Partner.” The article reported the results of a Health Department survey of 2,000 women. The Health Department did not bother to survey men. The results of the Health Department survey can be found here.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Minnesota Men Killed by Wives Unlikely to Answer Health Survey
The article quotes Carolyn Hamm of the Battered Women’s Justice Project: “We know that a lot of this stuff goes unreported.”

We might add, a lot of domestic violence against men goes unreported, as well.

= =

Contact the Star Tribune and tell them the following:

1. Women are just as likely as men to commit domestic violence, as discussed here.

2. Good journalism needs to report both sides of the story to be balanced and fair.

3. The Star Tribune should now run an article about male victims of DV.

Please send a message to the Star Tribune. If you send a letter, keep it polite and short. Here’s the contact information:

Editor:

Anders Gyllenhaal

Minneapolis Star Tribune

435 Portland Ave South

Minneapolis, MN 55488

E-mail: andersg-at-startribune.com

Telephone: 612-673-1734

Reporter:

Maura Lerner

Minneapolis Star Tribune

435 Portland Ave South

Minneapolis, MN 55488

E-mail: mlerner-at-startribune.com

Telephone: 612-673-4414

If you are upset by this biased survey, contact the Minnesota Department of Health directly:

John Stieger

MDH Communications

P.O. Box 64975

E-mail feedback: http://www.health.state.mn.us/webmaster/mail.html

Telephone: 651-215-1301

Sara Seifert

MDH Injury and Violence Prevention

Minnesota Department of Health

P.O. Box 64975

E-mail feedback: http://www.health.state.mn.us/webmaster/mail.html

Telephone: 651-215-2968

In this week's Alert, we are hoping for a stand-up double from both the newspaper and the Health Department. Or if we get enough people to write in, maybe we'll end up with a home run!

++

3% of Minnesota Women Report Attack by their Partner

Maura Lerner

March 10, 2005

http://www.startribune.com/stories/462/5283797.html

Three percent of Minnesota women aged 18 to 44 reported being victims of domestic violence between January 2003 and May 2004, according to a survey by the Minnesota Department of Health. In addition, 1 percent of those surveyed were victims of sexual assault.

Based on the findings, the department estimates that 30,000 women are victims of domestic violence in Minnesota every year, and another 10,000 are sexually assaulted. Less than half of those who needed medical care sought treatment for their injuries, the survey found.

The survey confirmed previous national and local surveys about the extent of violence against women, Sara Seifert, one of the authors of the study, said Wednesday.

"[The] take-home message for me is, we have pretty large numbers of victims of violence, and most of them probably are not going to a formal system for assistance," said Seifert, an epidemiologist with the Health Department's Injury and Violence Prevention program.

The telephone survey, conducted in 2004, asked 2,000 Minnesota women whether they had been victims of violence in the previous 12 months. Of those surveyed, 57 women said they had been physically assaulted by a spouse, boyfriend or other domestic partner; another 26 reported a sexual attack.

Of those injured, only about four in 10 sought treatment at a hospital or clinic, the survey found. Seifert said medical professionals and others need to do more to reach out to potential victims and to encourage them to seek treatment.

Carolyn Ham, of the Battered Women's Justice Project in Minneapolis, said she was not surprised by the findings. "We know that a lot of this stuff goes unreported, whether to medical professionals or to the police," she said. "But obviously it's still very much of a social problem."

The survey did not attempt to assess violence against older women, men or children, but concentrated on women 18 to 44 because they're often a prime target of such attacks, Seifert said.

++

Date of RADAR Release: March 13, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/14/1732206.shtml

S.D. Supreme Court rules on prenuptial agreements

Matt · 14 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "The whole article can be found here.

The supreme court in South Dakota ruled that a pre-nup can not limit alimony because it runs counter to state public policy.
However, the parts that deal with division of property can be enforced. IMHO this is just one more reason not to get married (out of the many out there). As I see it the whole thing is pushing towards a situation of either give up all your rights at the thresshold OR do not take the step at all. Bottom line is that one should not ever consider marriage anymore..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/14/1734238.shtml

Military Women Colocation Rules Changing

Matt · 16 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "The full text of the article can be found here.

The article is from the center for military readiness and criticizes some of the changes that are/may be going through. hold on to your hat guys as you hear some of these things. many sacrifice readiness and material and things in favor of meeting PC goals.

Click "Read more..." for moreFrom the article:

> "The altered language of the collocation rule apparently underlies the unrealistic notion that only male soldiers will go forward when a unit is "conducting" a battle, while female soldiers will be evacuated and sent elsewhere just prior to hostilities. That would leave as many as 24 positions vacant when the combined infantry/armor battalion is most in need of formerly all-male soldiers in its collocated forward support company.
>
> "Evacuating 24 fully loaded female soldiers would require two Blackhawk helicopters, six Huey helicopters, one Chinook helicopter, two 5-ton trucks, or 12 fully-crewed up-armored humvees—assets that cannot be spared on the eve of battle."

Yes, you read it right... in order that the women are protected from a forward combat position (for which they train), is to have them jump ship just before the battle... so long boys, we have things to do elsewhere...

This is a prime example of something that is all too common now, and thats the process that happens after a PC thing is established on some spurious points. After the first thing is unworkable there are more and more odd gyrations and rules as we try to adjust a Volkswagen to be a Rolls Royce all while ignoring that you cant get there from here.

ArtflDgr"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/15/2338246.shtml

Teen patricide set up for exoneration

Matt · 16 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Read it here. Bets are on she walks free. "Another mean old single dad laid to rest and good riddance." Exactly what I'd expect from MSN.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/16/1730212.shtml

MR2005 Registration Reminder

Matt · 16 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The Second Men's Equality Congress has been taking registrations since early March. Please visit the registration page to register. The dates are July 15-16, 2005. More information is available on the web site. MANN's own Scott Garman will be there, too!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/16/1738213.shtml

Tell Us Your Story!

Matt · 17 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "The DesertLight Journal is gathering material for a book to be published later this year on domestic violence. This book will focus on the currently underserved people affected – the male victims, female abusers, serial victims, and those addicted to violence.

We'd like to hear your story, and also to hear how you went about seeking help; if you did seek help, what happened if you did, and if you were able to find what you needed.

Click "Read more..." for more.
Submissions need not be of professional quality. We know not everybody is a writer, but that shouldn't stop you from telling us what happened to you. Just do the best you can. We're more interested in truth than a polished presentation. Submissions chosen for the final publication will be edited for quality.

Length is not a major concern, but we'd ask that you keep your story under 10,000 words. If your submission has been previously published, please make sure you still have the rights to the work.

Submissions should be sent in the body of an e-mail, and include your name, mailing address, and phone number. This information is for verification and clarification purposes only, and will never be used for anything else.

You identity will be kept entirely confidential should you prefer we do that. If you have a website or blog related to this issue, and would like to have this information included, we can do that as well. Let us know your preference in your submission.

Deadline for submissions is May 30, 2005. Send to: dva2004-at-desertlightjournal.com.

This is an activist/fundraising project. Look for further details to be announced at the DesertLight Journal.

All participants do so as volunteers. Any proceeds from the book will be donated to the Domestic Abuse Men's Helpline."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/16/226208.shtml

Peterson Sentenced to Death

Matt · 17 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Scott Peterson was sentenced to death today (March 16, 2005) for the murder of his pregnant wife, or as MSN is wont to put it, "his wife and their unborn child". Now had she gone and had an abortion, that would not have been anything wrong as far as the law was concerned, and Scott Peterson would have had no say in the matter either, depsite his being respoinsible for supporting the child. As to if she had murdered him, well, I doubt very much she would have received a death sentence. Remember this woman?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/16/2222245.shtml

Of men, women, and money

Matt · 17 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From US News:

> Do men earn more money than women in comparable jobs with comparable responsibility? Most people seem to think so. During one of the presidential debates, John Kerry complained that full-time working men made a dollar for every 76 cents paid to women for the same work. President Bush didn't challenge the statement, and reporters let it go by as well. "The average woman is cheated out of about $250,000 in wages over a lifetime," said an article in Ms. Magazine. The AFL-CIO estimates that working families lose $200 billion of income annually to the male-female wage gap. Oh, really? The Census Bureau did find that women earned 76 cents for every dollar paid to a male (now up to 80 cents on the dollar), but that was a raw number, not adjusted for comparable jobs and responsibility. A new book, Why Men Earn More by Warren Farrell, goes further, examining a broad array of wage statistics. His conclusion: When reasonable adjustments are made, women earn just as much as men, and sometimes more.

Good to see the MSM (mainstream media) finally providing opposing viewpoints to such blatantly obvious feminist lies."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/17/1620231.shtml

Data may help to explain sex differences

Matt · 17 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "the text of the article can be found here.

The article details that 'researchers have found that the sexes differ more than we thought, particularly when it comes to the genes on one crucial chromosome.'

'Taken together, the two papers may eventually explain some of the behavioural and biological differences between individual women, and perhaps, between women and men.'"

Click "Read more..." for more.
If you are like me then you read a lot of science journals and such. I guess so does Larry Summers. The reason I say this is that in the science world the things we argue about in the public sphere are very different than the facts that the bean counters and bottle washers have collected.

It is to be noted that even with solid physical evidence the researchers still dance around not wanting to solidify anything to a conclusion that may not be liked (science is science but funding is a whole other ball game).

There is also a follow up feature article HERE.
However you will need to pay for it or already have a subscription (which is usually cost prohibitive in the sciences).

I predict that we may hear more from this given the recent spate of situations throwing the spotlight on the situation...

Artfldgr

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/17/1626259.shtml

Harvard President Receives No Confidence Vote from Faculty

Matt · 17 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Larry Summers is pilloried by the faculty.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/17/1630214.shtml

"Miss Savannah" Acquitted of Murder

Matt · 17 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The verdict is in. It's open-season not just on unfaithful husbands but boyfriends/fiances, too. Sort of reminds me of what NOW and the like complain about happening in Middle Eastern countries, only in this case, it's the males in danger of getting killed by the females, and it's happening here in the West.

As always, she claims she was being abused.

==========

Article text is at "Read more..." view for those not interested in registering with the Savannah Morning News.Nikki: 'I had a right to protect my life'

Acquitted of all charges in the shooting death of her fianc, the former beauty queen gives her first post-trial interview

When her lawyer told her there was a verdict, Sharron Nicole "Nikki" Redmond was tucked behind a brown courthouse snack machine.

Her mother, brothers and grandmother as well as an extended family of aunts, cousins and friends kept her company and the media away.

Bible in hand, she walked into the Chatham County courtroom where for more than a week her trial on murder charges unfolded.

Her family walked with her as far as they could until she eased into the chair at the defendant's table for the last time.

She stood up again for the verdict. Deputies were there in case they had to handcuff her. Behind her, the benches were filled with people.

Not guilty.

After deliberating about nine hours, a jury of three men and nine women said Redmond is not a murderer for killing fianc Kevin Darnell Shorter in December 2003.

"Jesus, thank you," said her mom, Sharron Elaine Redmond.

Shorter's parents showed no reaction.

Neither did Shorter's other fiance, Rachel Hall.

Defense attorneys Michael Schiavone, Brian Daly and Steve Sparger hugged Nikki Redmond, Miss Savannah 2003.

Superior Court Judge Michael Karpf thanked jurors and excused them.

Elaine Redmond went to her only daughter and youngest child.

Holding each other, mother and daughter walked out of the courtroom, past the cameramen and through the back door.

Hours later, inside the dark crimson walls of her attorney's conference room on Bull Street, Nikki Redmond, dressed in a black suit, gave her first interview.

"I was created into a larger-than-life, obsessed beauty queen that had to have everything her way," she said. "To sit there and listen to things said that are not true is like sitting with your hands tied behind your back and having someone repeatedly spit in your face.

"In a month, maybe in 10 years, I'll just be another face that people pass and don't even know."

What she wants most now is to be her old self again.

The person she was before the shooting and the trial tested her.

"I stood fast," Redmond, 23, said.

Prison "was a grave and enormous possibility," she said. The former high-school teacher trembled as she spoke.

"I had a right to protect my life," she said.

The night she shot Shorter, Nikki Redmond had gone to Hall's house to talk to her about some harassing phone calls Hall, 24, had been getting.

Shorter, 25, a former Jenkins High School football standout, had accused Redmond of contacting the other woman in his life. Redmond wasn't making those calls and wanted to tell Hall so.

But the beauty queen didn't have Hall's number. So Redmond drove around Hall's Runaway Point neighborhood until she found her house.

The two women were talking cordially in the front yard when Shorter showed up.

The man who'd asked both women to marry him bolted from the car and came at Redmond - threatening to kill her, she testified Monday.

Ultimately, Redmond fired her .40-caliber pistol from the window of her white Mitsubishi Galant as she made her getaway. She thought he was reaching into his gray Monte Carlo for the gun she knew he carried. Her bullet struck him in the buttocks, severing his left femoral artery.

Redmond kept driving.

Didn't know she'd hit him.

She talked to police later that night - Tuesday, Dec. 16.

She told them she'd fired a warning shot; that she was afraid Shorter was going to kill her. She told them Shorter had hit her before, that he had been abusive over the course of their three-year relationship.

But she didn't tell detectives her lover had threatened her life that night.

The police told her then she'd wounded Shorter, but Redmond thought he'd recover.

Prosecutors told jurors Redmond's testimony that Shorter threatened her was a lie.

If that were true, prosecutors said, she would have told police that night.

At her attorney's office Wednesday, Redmond explained why she hadn't.

"I didn't think that Kevin was seriously hurt that night, and I didn't want him to get into trouble," she said.

Shorter died three days after Redmond shot him.

"I was in disbelief and in shock," she said. "I screamed out.

"I never got a chance to see him. I was never able to say goodbye."

She loved him even though she testified about the two black eyes he'd given her and the repeated slapping, kicking and choking episodes.

"I would hope that the experiences that happened to lead up to this case would be a red light to women that just because we are the weaker sex that that in no way means we have to let ourselves be weakened or torn down by someone of the opposite sex," she said.

Prosecutors had told jurors Redmond, a Spelman College honors graduate, was too smart to stick with an abusive boyfriend.

"Nobody is too smart to be an abused woman," Redmond said.

"Being abused is not something people like to admit to," she said, "and anyone is vulnerable."

Redmond hid it from her family and friends until Shorter's blows became bruises.

Now, she said, she's wiser.

She and her family said prayer got them through the ordeal.

Prosecutors said they were disappointed by the verdict.

Shorter's parents didn't want to talk about the verdict Wednesday.

After meeting with prosecutors in their sixth-floor office, the Shorters left the courthouse through a side door. Last week, after the jury was selected Monday, Phyllis and Daniel Shorter said while they had forgiven Redmond, they wanted justice for their son.

Nikki Redmond didn't know that.

She hasn't spoken to them since before the shooting.

But she and her mother still pray for the Shorters.

"I'm a mother," Elaine Redmond said. "They lost a child. There's no easy way around what happened.

"But justice has spoken."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/17/1950207.shtml

What Chutzpuh!

Matt · 18 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "World Net Daily reported on Robert Blake's acquittal but just couldn't hold back their misandry. Notice their last sentence of the article, "...(he) had been described by both sides in the case as a career con artist."

This is is same media outlet that cheered Clara Harris after killing her husband because he cheated on her and didn't correct "his" problem.

I'm presently trying to decide whether or stop my subscription to their Whistleblower magazine and request a refund for the rest of that subscription or just to not renew when the subscription expires.

What blatant bias! Absolutely disgusting!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/18/153239.shtml

Women Want Another Pass

Matt · 18 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "Some of the issues pointed out in this article are really over the top.

> "Most imprisoned women, and relatively few imprisoned men, leave behind children for whom they were the sole primary caretaker. The separation can be shattering for mothers, who may lose parental rights, and for children, thousands of whom are placed in foster care at state expense."

Oh cry me a river. If these women were at all concerned about their children they wouldn't be out possessing and selling drugs or hanging out with those that do. To use the screwed up child custody laws to rationalize why they should not do the same time for the same crime is really amazing. It's hard to fathom how their position on this can be deemed anything be laughable."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/18/158253.shtml

Different sentences for similar crimes

Matt · 19 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "Spot the difference!

Story 1:

"A man who murdered his partner in front of her two daughters has been jailed for life..."

Story 2:

"A teenage girl who killed her fiancée after he admitted having sex with her friend on the night he died has been sentenced to eight years in custody."

Incredible..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/18/2129208.shtml

Eligible? How much money have you got?

Matt · 19 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "When the UK recently passed the Freedom of Information Act, Angela Wright decided to use it to find a husband. She has a thing about police officers, and she emailed her local police headquarters asking for details of "eligible bachelors within Hampshire constabulary between the ages of 35 and 49 and details of their email addresses, salary details and pension values".

Got to make sure you get your hands on the money, Angela.

Want to know why most high-earners are men? Because men work harder. Why? Because they know that their value in the marriage marketplace depends on how much they earn.

Don't believe me? Ask Angela."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/19/1419221.shtml

Battered Justice, all right...

Matt · 20 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

.. at least as far as the truth goes. The Washington Post has done it again. The author's article ends with the usual appeal to governmental chivalry with:

In fact, the history of profound gender inequality in the government's treatment of wife-beating makes the problem one of core constitutional concern. No less than police brutality, this kind of passive misconduct implicates fundamental civil rights.

Actually it's more the other way 'round really. Has a battered woman ever been made to ride backward on a donkey while crowds threw garbage at her (search on "donkey" to get to the relevant text on the page)?

See menweb.org and mediaradar.org for more resources on this topic. Also, you can read about the author of the Post article here; her e-mail address is jmeier-at-law.gwu.edu.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/19/2025243.shtml

Snail a dollar!

Matt · 21 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "We're launching a campaign at the DesertLight Journal called "Snail a Dollar" to benefit the Domestic Abuse Men's Helpline.
DAHM is tax-exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the IRS. Here's their website:
http://www.batteredmenshelpline.org/

They are the only nationwide agency serving male victims of domestic violence. As awareness of the full problem grows, and men needing help become more willing to ask, DAHM's resources are ever-more depleted. They depend entirely on private donations to keep the service running. They are restricted from accessing any of the billions of dollars in federal, state, or local government funding because they help men.

Most state and federal funding is reserved for member programs of state domestic violence coalitions. DAHM has been refused membership in their state's coalition, because their services are primarily focused on male victims.

It's up to the private sector now to help men!

Here's the link:

http://desertlightjournal.blog-city.com/read/11436 33.htm"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/20/2359207.shtml

Maureen Dowd: Bad at Science

Matt · 21 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Maureen Dowd is:

(a) Hypocritical.

(b) Bad at science.

Here's the piece."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/21/002218.shtml

RADAR Alert: Washington Post Ignores Battered Justice For Male Victims

Matt · 21 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On December 16, 2003 Georgia beauty queen Sharron Nicole Redmond rolled down the window of her car and shot boyfriend Kevin Shorter. Three days later, Shorter bled to death.

Even though Shorter did not have a gun with him, and even though Redmond easily could have driven away in her car, Redmond later testified that she killed Shorter in self-defense. This past week the jury in Savannah found Miss Redmond not guilty of murder.

A case of battered justice for a male victim of domestic violence.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Washington Post Ignores Battered Justice For Male Victims
Three days after the jury verdict, the Washington Post ran an editorial about Battered Justice in domestic violence cases. The article did not mention anything about Kevin Shorter. The article did not say anything about Ray Blumhorst, a battered man who was turned away by a local domestic violence shelter. The article did not refer to male victims at all.

Written by law professor Joan Meier, the essay tells the tragic story of Jessica Gonzalez. Finding her daughters missing from the house, she called the police for help, who did not respond to her appeal. The daughters were later found dead.

In her editorial, Joan Meier ignores the cold indifference that meets male DV victims, instead claiming that “too many have continued to be indifferent and sometimes hostile to women’s calls for help.”

Meier rightfully refers to “protecting battered women and children,” but fails to point out that women are equally likely to commit DV as men, and that mothers are more likely to physically abuse children than fathers.

Contact the Washington Post and tell them the following:

1. Joan Meier’s editorial on “Battered Justice for Battered Women” is biased and unfair.

2. Editorialists who make claims about “protecting battered women and children” should be expected to provide evidence to back such one-sided statements.

3. The Washington Post should run an article about “Battered Justice for Battered Men,” and highlight the recent tragic case of Kevin Shorter.

Here’s the contact information at the Washington Post:

Michael Getler, Ombudsman:

E-mail: ombudsman-at-washpost.com

Telephone: 202-334-7582

Leonard Downie, Executive Editor:

Telephone: 202-334-7512

Letters to the Editor (remember to keep your letter courteous and concise):

The Washington Post

1150 15th Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20071

E-mail: letters-at-washpost.com

If you are really bothered by this blatant example of media bias, contact the writer directly:

Joan Meier

George Washington University Law School

2000 H Street, N.W.

Washington, DC 20052

E-mail: jmeier-at-law.gwu.edu

Telephone: 202-994-2278

The Washington Post has never run a major article that highlights DV against men. With the re-introduction of VAWA coming any day now, we need to generate at least 1,000 e-mails, phone calls, and letters about this unfair editorial.

++

Date of RADAR Release: March 20, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/21/0250244.shtml

'Dead-broke' Dad will sell a kidney to see his son

Adam · 21 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ragtime writes "A man whose 'support' payments are set at higher than 100% of his income has tried to sell one of his kidneys on eBay. For two reasons, I just about couldn't believe my eyes when I came across this article. First, for the unbelievably sad story of a desperate father and a heartless mother and, second, for the fact that the story ran in a MAJOR main-stream paper, and was SYMPATHETIC to the father!

From the article: The 48-year-old car salesman is desperate for cash, $50,000, to be exact. It's the sum he owes his ex-wife in spousal support, and he believes that paying up is the only way that, after almost five years, he'll finally be allowed to see his beloved son again.
...and...
"I feel he's being held ransom and it's horrible that she's put a price on his head."

Meanwhile, the court system, he says, acts as her willing accomplice.

After months of her harassment, he lost his well-paying job as a sales manager..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/21/1837209.shtml

Male Easter Bunny Arrested For Scaring Woman

Matt · 22 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Just in time for Easter. A man working at a mall dressed as the Easter bunny was arrested and charged with harassment after he yelled at a female. There is noting in the story saying he made her cry so that is good news. Maybe that will reduce his prison sentence or make his chances for parole better."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/22/0353250.shtml

UNH: Misandry Escalates: Patriarchy Bash

Matt · 23 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Palladin writes "
On March 10, 2005, there was a "Patriarchy Bash" at UNH. Posters announced it everywhere. They defined "Patriarchy" as men. For more information read here.

In my humble opinion, the main reason misandry is so popular in our culture is because we men are seen as a perfect target -- because most of us are gentlemen. If we protested, or started many hostile learning environment and sexual harassement suits, these scumbags would have quickly found another target. After all, is not "poetry" about cutting off genitals the worst case of sexual harassement?

I would also say that now it is definitly the time to switch off our gentleman mode and switch on our survival mode."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/23/040255.shtml

Men's Rights March in Mexico

Matt · 23 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "Mexican men march for their rights. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/23/042240.shtml

Female crime and punishment (?)

Matt · 24 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "From the BBC: "As the prison population rises, more and more women are being locked up. Critics, however, believe women offenders should be treated differently from men and now the government has outlined plans to build female rehabilitation centres as an alternative to jail."

Get this one:

"For instance, they claim that half of women prisoners - far more than men - have suffered physical, sexual or mental abuse."

I guess that men who suffered physical, sexual or mental abuse as kids should just rot in jail, right?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/23/2352214.shtml

The Latest on "The Rantings"

Matt · 25 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "It's been a few weeks since I announced my anti-feminist book, The Rantings of a Single Male. In that time, several positive reviews have appeared on Amazon. It's also the featured book this month at Mensight Magazine, where you can find some very intense excerpts. Darren Blacksmith has recently endorsed The Rantings and has published an off-the-wall conversation with me on his CoolTools4Men website. And now Angry Harry has the book listed in the UK. If you have read The Rantings, let's hear what you think!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/25/040215.shtml

UNH Newspaper creating hostile environment

Hombre · 26 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Palladin writes "In the bottom of the papers electronic version they have an ad comparing men to dogs! The paper is here.

I believe that in a university where a student was evicted for a politically incorrect joke that must be a violation of harassement rules!

There is also a fuller version of the events which occured at Patriarchy Slam.

Please contact the paper at 603-862-1490."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/26/0159220.shtml

2 women arrested for rape hoax

Hombre · 26 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Story here.

Two women get caught lying about a girl getting raped by an armed kidnapper - this sent a SWAT team to the house and closed city blocks. To quote the feminist mantra "women do not lie about rape" -indeed."

I wonder if any feminist mantra will ever stand up to honest investigation? - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/26/024243.shtml

Mom accused in child porn plot

Hombre · 26 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "Even though this is an extreme example, I'm still shocked at the levels some women will go:-

Story here."

That's what happens when people become convinced that others aren't as human as they are. Without 50 years of feminist propaganda dominating the media, this very well might not have happened. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/26/029210.shtml

UNH examines discrimination at "Patriarchy Slam"

Hombre · 26 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "This New Hampshire newspaper reports on the "Patriarchy Slam held in the basement of UNH's Memorial Union Building the evening of March 10," here . One comment describes the event as "a public feminist poetry event where women wore scissors on their necks and talked of castrating rapists." Another comment speaks of the event's participants as, "using the scissors to pop balloons that spelled out "The Patriarchy,'" A UNH vice president says, among other things, "We're not finished dealing with the whole issue...""

Looks like the feminists are backpedaling. Unfortunately, something in that quote "not finished dealing with the whole issue" sounds like "are finished dealing with this part of the issue", but we'll see how this develops. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/26/0217240.shtml

Military Dads Denied Father's Rights

Hombre · 26 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Wendy McElroy writes this informative article on an all too familiar situation for many military fathers.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/26/0223253.shtml

Interview with Thomas Ellis, author of 'The Rantings of a Single Male'

Hombre · 26 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Darren Blacksmith has recently interviewed Tom Ellis about his book. An interesting read for those who either already purchased it or are considering doing so, with information about how it was written, further clarification on some of the themes, and the response from some of the readers. Read it here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/26/0244228.shtml

BBC.com: More female dead, bigger tragedy

Matt · 27 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ahh the BBC at it again here. Like MSN, leave it to them to use the tsunami to pander to feminists. If 80% of th dead were men, believe me, no one at the BBC would bother mentioning it. It ends with this dig at the male sex:

She added it is important to work with men who had lost their wives and teach them how to care properly for their children.

Sigh....

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/27/0111236.shtml

Georgia Residents: Support HB 221

Matt · 27 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

MANN administrators received the following with a request to post it:

"The misandric-ridden state of Georgia is in the process of reforming its antiquated and tyrannical child support laws. The reform legislation is HB 221 which would take in consideration the custodial parent's income, 90+ percent of the time the mother, in determining child support. Presently, only the non-custodial parent's income, 90+ percent of the time the father's, is used in determining child support which of course is completely nuts."

Click "Read more..." for more.

*"HB 221 almost became law Thursday but failed by one vote. However, it will be re-voted on on Tuesday the 29th. This is a real opportunity to help throw off the yoke of governmental tyranny if enough support shows up at the capitol on this coming Tuesday.*

The organization that is pushing this legislation is called Georgians For Child Support Reform and their website is at: http://www.gachildsupport.org/, and you can e-mail the President, Julie Batson (yes, a female is actually pushing for pro male reform), at: julesbatman-at-yahoo.com.

There are powerful feminist lobbyists on the other side that are working feverously trying to scuttle this reform which is probably why it failed by one measly vote.

So if you are in Georgia and can come to the capitol in Atlanta on Tuesday and show your support when HB 221 is re-re-voted on it would be most appreciated."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/27/0146225.shtml

Woman Rows Across the Pacific

Matt · 27 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Congratulations to her! Now, why again is it that women are excluded from Selective Service registration?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/27/048231.shtml

Paternity by Choice: The Reasonable Person Test

Matt · 27 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Stephanie Frostic writes "We American women are at liberty to freely accept or decline parenthood, but it is illegal for a man to even attempt to do the same, and it is indeed politically incorrect for a man to even think of such concept. Fortunately, in law, there is 'the reasonable person test,' and it reveals the unconstitutional absence of male reproductive rights."

To learn about the reasonable person test and how to argue it for male family planning rights, see "Paternity by Choice: The Reasonable Person Test" at http://www.paternitybychoice.com

-Stephanie Frostic, Founding Mother
www.PaternityByChoice.com"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/27/1452245.shtml

Prostate Cancer Article

Matt · 28 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here is an article on prostate cancer that makes some good points, and actually appeared in print. Maybe the main-stream media are starting to consider the possibility of being relevant to the 50% of their customers they usually ignore?

Tom P"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/28/0321232.shtml

Purell Denigrates Men

Matt · 29 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Jeffrey Asher writes "[Regarding] Purell Sanitizers:

Purell's television advertisement, "You can't touch this," has alerted the world to the primary infection vector: men.

Purell shows a man leaving the washroom without washing his hands; a boy in daycare dribbling nasal mucous on a ball; and an obese man sneezing explosively on supermarket shelves and a shopping basket. The victims of such masculine slovenliness and irresponsibility are all female.

Click "Read more..." for more.
When may the public expect to see Purell broadcast a similar advertisement showing females as slovenly and males as their victims? If Purell will not run such and advertisement, then its message is clearly misandric.

Purell may rest assured that this man, and every other fair-minded woman and man I may persuade, will not buy your products for at least five years. I will attempt to bring Purell's demeaning message about males to every forum I can."

Ed. note: Purell is owned by Pfizer, whose contact form is here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/29/0335255.shtml

False Accusations

Hombre · 29 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "Chief Police Prosecutor and other senior police officers of India's West Bengal state say laws that unduly favor women must be changed. According to them, in `violence against women' cases, the man is usually presumed guilty unless proven innocent. This encourages women to make false accusations. Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/29/2016220.shtml

Title IX protects whistleblowers

Hombre · 29 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "The Supreme Court expanded the scope of a landmark gender equity law, ruling Tuesday that it shields whistleblowers who accuse academic institutions of discrimination based on sex. Now the floodgates are open... Lets hope that the ruinious effect Title IX has had on lower profile men's sports can find a way to use this law when the next men's sports team gets dropped because there isn't enough interest among the women in the same sport.
Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/29/2018215.shtml

Men who beat up their wives or girlfriends will be prosecuted even if their partners drop the charge

Hombre · 29 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

It looks like its time to educate Britian's top policeman on the realities of domestic violence. Ian Blair has a very distorted view of them, and because of that the UK is about to launch a very sexist terror campaign including prosecuting men even after the women drop charges and a series of fear and hate generating billboard ads making men look like monsters. But Sandra Horley from Refuge reassures us “Domestic violence affects us all – perpetrators need to know that they cannot get away with violent crime and women and children need to know that they will be protected.” Thanks Sandra, I feel so much better knowing that. Article here.

If anyone has contact information for Mr Blair, please post it here so we may share our concerns with him.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/29/2043221.shtml

Fathers4Justice protest as monks atop St Paul's cathedral

Hombre · 29 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

"It is to do with Easter and the fact a lot of dads will not see their kids this Easter." - Matt O'Connor. BBC article here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/29/2048205.shtml

Thieves should be jailed

Matt · 30 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Lib Dems, a UK political party, are offering amnesty for women who steal. The men's movement answer is that once a thief always a thief; there is evidence to show that the cost of such deception is costing the country £50,000,000 and is damaging to our young.

"Evan Harris MP for Oxford stated: Although I believe in eugenics and women's rights I can't quite get my head round the idea that women thieves should be given preferential treatment. This is not quite what I had in mind when I considered equality, there must be thousands of men in prison for theft.."

Ed. note: Quote from Evan Harris is not attributed (ie, we have no URL and a Google search did not bring up the quoted text). If anyone can supply a reliable attribution, please post it.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/30/0432215.shtml

ACFC: Prominent Leaders Criticize Family Law

Matt · 30 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I received the following e-mail from ACFC and thought it was too good not to post. Kudos to them!

Prominent Leaders Criticize Family Law

Yesterday, Monday, March 28 a second ACFC newspaper advertisement ran in the Washington Times National Weekly Edition. The ad will be repeated next Monday, April 4.

Click "Read more..." for more.

This ad is endorsed by some of the most eminent and respected leaders in America. In addition to the national officers of ACFC, the following names appear on the ad:

Phyllis Schlafly, President, Eagle Forum

Paul Weyrich, Chairman and CEO, Free Congress Foundation

William J. Murray, President, Religious Freedom Coalition

Dr. Don Wildmon, President, American Family Association

Concerned Women for America

Michael J. McManus, President, Marriage Savers

Dr. Allan Carlson, author, "Fractured Generations"

William Greene, President, RightMarch

Pacific Justice Institute

Urban League of Northern Virginia

Heather Higgins, Chairman, The Independent Women's Forum

Dr. Mark I. Klein, MD, board certified psychiatrist

Bryce Christensen, Associate Professor, Southern Utah University

David M. Wagner, Associate Professor, Regent University School of Law

John Eisendrath, Executive Producer, ABC's "Alias"

Dr. Warren Farrell, author, "Father and Child Reunion"

Glenn Sacks, columnist and nationally-syndicated radio talk show host

David Buchanan, author, "Gendercide and Human Rights"

These names cannot be ignored. These are eminent leaders who speak to the President and members of Congress on a regular basis. They head organizations with hundreds of thousands of members and followers.

These leaders are sticking their necks out for us. They sympathize with our plight, support our efforts, and are willing to back us further. It is now up to us to act. These people cannot fight our battle for us. We are now on the national stage, and what we do will be seen by the world.

This ad presents an inescapable choice to elected officials: Either our charges are without merit, in which case why are they being endorsed by leaders of this stature? Or our charges are true, in which case a major national scandal is being ignored by our elected officials. Either way, it demands attention, and that is all we are demanding: An investigation into allegations of government wrongdoing alleged by millions of American citizens and a full report to the American people.

Here is what you can do:

* Copy this ad and circulate it to your elected officials and to the media.

* Solicit local endorsements, and run the ad in your own local newspapers.

* Some of the organizations listed above have local affiliates. Contact them and offer to create a coalition for mutual support.

* Go to http://www.acfc.org/ and make a contribution in support of these efforts.

* Forward this email to ten other people who have been affected by the family law system and ask them to consider supporting the effort also.

We have major support among national leaders in Washington. We have only to act and act responsibly, and the door will swing open to us.

These endorsements demonstrate that we have now accumulated perhaps the most valuable commodity in politics: trust. These leaders trust that we are telling the truth about these abuses. They know our allegations have not been refuted and cannot be refuted. It has taken years to acquire this trust, and it cannot easily be built up again.

We must now invest this "political capital" or it is wasted.

Stephen Baskerville, President

Michael McCormick, Executive Director

David Roberts, Chairman of the Board

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/30/059240.shtml

The censored side of gender issues

Hombre · 31 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mike Shubov writes about men's issues, censorship, and taking action in The New Hampshire, (the student publication of the University of New Hampshire).

"Had I not read "The Universal Myth of the 'Oppressed Woman'" by Diana Lewis and "Painefully Right" by James Paine and other letters criticizing radical feminism, I would still be pretending I have freedom of speech without daring to use it." - From the article.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/30/217225.shtml

Mum's the word on dad

Hombre · 31 March 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Some recent political goings-on in Australia have inspired this article, which not only mentions that 20-30% of fathers discover through DNA testing that their kids aren't theirs, but also interestingly ponders "if women were more trustworthy on the question of paternity, perhaps men could be more trusting that women undertake abortion only when strictly necessary"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/30/2118210.shtml

Anti-Male Advertising

Matt · 1 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

gordon clay writes "Check out the listing of many companies that do male negative advertising and the campaign we at The National Men's Resource Center, developers of http://www.menstuff.org/, have waged."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/03/31/2359220.shtml

Gender Empowerment at the U.N.

Matt · 2 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "From here: " U.N. refugee chief Ruud Lubbers resigned in February amid sexual harassment allegations, and word leaked out this week that Carina Perelli, the highly regarded head of the U.N. elections unit, was accused in a confidential U.N.-commissioned report of making unwanted sexual advances toward a male employee and creating a sexually charged work environment."

Glossary - Sexually charged: read "harassment".

Don't ever say that the U.N. doesn't 'empower' women..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/01/2338232.shtml

Call to protect teachers from false accusations

Matt · 2 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A teachers' conference has again highlighted the high incidence of false accusations against teachers, and called for false accusers to face prison. It doesn't mention that male teachers are by far the most likely to suffer such allegations. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/01/2343222.shtml

Castration and tolerance at UNH

Matt · 2 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Philalethes writes "This event has been covered in a couple of previous stories, but I think this article is worth reading, especially for the quote from one participant, which pretty well sums up the phenomenon known as feminism: 'Hello, my name is Mary Man-Hating-Is-Fun. I am 23 years old, and I am what a feminist looks like. Ever since I learned to embrace my feminist nature, I found great joy in threatening men's lives....'

I am reminded of two other quotes: (1) 'If you allow them [women] to pull away restraints and put themselves on an equality with their husbands, do you imagine that you will be able to tolerate them? From the moment that they become your fellows, they will become your masters.' (Cato the Elder, 234-149 BCE) (2) 'The idea that women were repressed until the sexual revolution in the 1960s is absurd ... they were certainly restrained, a crucially different matter.' (Melanie Phillips, 'The Sex-Change Society: Feminised Britain and the Neutered Male') The reasons for the historical 'subjugation' of women are becoming clear: they will not (perhaps cannot) restrain themselves. When they are allowed to 'run free,' this is what results."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/01/2349235.shtml

Women in the police force

Hombre · 3 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "An informative article by conservative columnist Ann Coulter, entitled, "FREEZE! I JUST HAD MY NAILS DONE!", here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/02/2331240.shtml

False Accusations

Hombre · 3 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

mic730 writes "My husband was accused of rape 2 years ago. After submitting to DNA and taking a polygraph he was exonerated. However, while we waited for the DNA testing I started wetting the bed from the stress of the situation and my husband became depressed. The DNA test showed the "victim" had 3 samples present but none of them matched my husband. She also refused to take a polygraph although she specifically named my husband. The police let us know that no charges would be filed against my husband or the "accuser." I am so angry that she could make these accusations and walk away. I have always considered myself a champion for women's causes and now feel like I should screen women beforehand.
My stress level of wetting the bed is no longer a problem but I will now take every claim of rape with a grain of salt until a trial occurs."

I normally don't post personal stories that get submitted without articles, but since this was an example of how feminist laws can even harm their supporters I decided to make an exception. Often it seems people have to be personally victimised before they start to see the bias in a system, and I'm sorry the author and her husband had to suffer because of it. I'm sure that if she starts looking at all the "women's causes" with a more scientific eye - looking at evidence presented by all sides and always with equal scrutiny, we'll be seeing more of her in the men's movement. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/02/2338227.shtml

A father's place is in the classroom

Hombre · 3 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This Guardian article discusses the positive influence of fathers being involved with their childrens schooling. From the article - "There has been a definite improvement in performance in the classroom.", "The children say they feel special and like it when their father visits the school"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/03/001213.shtml

The Rantings of a Single Male

Matt · 3 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

JustSayNo writes "I like to read in the evening after dinner, but usually after a full day of work, doing dinner and helping with homework, I usually drift off 15 minutes after opening a book.

Not so with Thomas Ellis' new book, The Rantings of a Single Male. Not so by a mile! I got the book Thursday, read two-thirds of it by midnight, and gobbled up the rest of it Friday evening.

I cannot recommend this book highly enough to everyone on this list. I promise you that you will not be disappointed. In fact, I guarantee that you will be hugely entertained.

Click "Read more..." for more.

And that entertainment value is why I think that Ellis' book may very well be The Book That Changes Everything.

I don't say that lightly. I know the ignorance that we're up against, but I think that the real genius of this book is that it delivers a devastatingly accurate message in a hugely entertaining way, all the while managing to "deconstruct feminism". Ellis successfully tears to shreds the lies, the distortions and the pathology that is feminism … and does it with a cutting humor and scathing satire equal to that of Mark Twain, Will Rogers or any of America's other great humorists. Mr. Ellis gives Western women the "equality" that they've asked for and so richly deserve.

While only a relatively few motivated individuals will ever take the time to read the "academic" books about feminism to learn about the evil that feminism has become, Ellis has written a book that even unmotivated and "clueless" individuals will – I hope – gobble up. THIS book has the potential to tear the Lace Curtain to shreds.

Please pardon the closing, but I'm sure Mr. Ellis would appreciate it: In my humble opinion, Thomas Ellis is a fucking genius!

Read the book. You'll understand.

PS. Does anyone on this list know Mr. Ellis or how I might be able to contact him? I want to buy a few hundred copies of his book... no kidding.

Stan Gaver"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/02/2344227.shtml

HB 221 Passes Georgia House, Awaits Gov Signature

Matt · 3 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Great news! HB 221 passed the Georgia Assembly and now awaits Gov. Sonny Perdue's signature. Congratulations to Georgians for Child Support Reform and everyone else who was involved in lobbying for the bill.

MANN related link

Click "Read more..." for contact information for the governor.Those seeking to contact the governor to express your support for his signing of the bill into law can reach his office at:

Phone: 404-656-1776

E-mail: governor-at-gov.state.ga.us
Fax: 404-657-7332

Snail mail:

State Capitol Building, Room 203

Atlanta, Georgia 30334

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/03/0015214.shtml

The Choices of Men

Matt · 4 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "
"The Choices of Men" by T.S Tyrone

Truly a novel about male power and sexuality in a feminist age.

For the first time in a long time, I have read a book with 239 pages in a single sitting. This book is a joy to read. It's most certainly a book written by man - for men. Tyrones style is deep, thought-provoking and sometimes brutally direct. The humour in the book is at times delicously dark and enjoyable. Witty, sharp and well time and thought-out.

This is an amazing read!!!!!

UK buyers - Play.com - Click Here

US buyers - Amazon.com - Click Here "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/03/2226252.shtml

RADAR Alert: And Now For Something...

Matt · 5 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

mbr writes "... Completely Different.

In previous alerts, RADAR has highlighted articles that present an inaccurate one-sided portrayal of the problem of domestic violence. Biased articles are so plentiful that it's often difficult for us to choose the one most deserving of an alert.

Sad to say, balanced portrayals of this very human problem are in short supply. That's why, when a prominent member of the media does recognize that women can be abusive and men do get victimized, it's important to let them know just how much we appreciate their understanding and support.

Click "Read More..." for more.

Last Sunday, March 26, 2005, Berke Breathed did just that in his nationally syndicated comic strip "Opus". Since the strip is not available anywhere on the web, the dialog from the strip can be viewed at http://www.mediaradar.org/alert_opus.php#the_strip , so you can get some idea of what the strip said.

This week, let's take this opportunity to express our gratitude by sending Berke Breathed letters thanking him for acknowledging that a penchant for violence is not a male trait, but a human trait, and likewise that compassion and empathy are human traits which are not the exclusive domain of women.

You might also mention some facts that Berke Breathed might not be aware of, such as:

* the U.S. Department of Justice reports 834,732 annual cases of men abused by women, representing 36% of all cases of abuse annually. (See Exhibit 7, Page 7 http://ncjrs.org/pdffiles/172837.pdf)

* virtually all funding for organizations to serve domestic abuse victims is provided by VAWA. Before VAWA was enacted, early drafts of the domestic violence section of the law used gender neutral language. However the version of the law that was enacted in 1994 used gender-discriminatory language. As a result, organizations that wish to provide services to male victims have been routinely excluded from receiving funding.

Additional facts you might want to cite can be found on our media fact sheet at http://www.mediaradar.org/media_fact_sheet.php.

Berke Breathed may be contacted at opus-at-washpost.com.

Opus is syndicated by the Washington Post Writers Group. The contact for the Opus comic strip is:

Alan Shearer, Editorial Director/General Manager

Washington Post Writers Group

1150 15th St. NW

Washington, DC 20071

shearera-at-washpost.com

When you write, be sure to include your name, address, and daytime telephone number.

To help generate media interest in RADAR, please mention you are contacting them in response to a RADAR Alert.

++

Date of RADAR Release: April 3, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/04/2223211.shtml

Injustice Call over Rape Case

Hombre · 7 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Campaigners are calling for the release of a 33-year-old Aviemore man who is facing rape charges in France. Stephen Jakobi, director of the UK's Fair Trials Abroad, is quoted as saying "It is bewildering when you've got clear DNA evidence that no rape took place, or anything like it, that the guy is still in prison awaiting trial, three months after the scientific proof came back."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/07/0326215.shtml

Girls Savagely Beat Girl at School

Matt · 8 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "
Four 15-year-old girls from Boston were arrested at the scene and charged with unarmed robbery and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon (a shod foot) in the beating where they beat a minority girl who was part of a progam that brings urban kids to suburban schools. Naturally, the article does not say that the attackers are girls unless one reads well into the story. Also, this took place in the town where 5 high school boys got expelled from a school because a girl gave them oral sex in a locker room (and she had been doing this on a regular basis)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/08/035241.shtml

Pistons Player's Wife Accused of DV

Matt · 8 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Old Man Senile writes "Sorry I haven't posted in awhile, but I am deployed and have lots of work to do....lol.
I think its great more men are reporting abuse, but check out this quote from the article.

Attorneys are working on an arrangement to have Deneitra Ham remain with the children at the couple's home on the condition that her husband leave the house and the two stay apart, the station reported.

I don't know if its both thier attorneys, or if its just hers. But I do know this, If it were a male that smacked a female in the head with a wine bottle, his butt would be in jail and he would lose his kids due to the domestic violence card being played

Just my 2 cents
OMS"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/08/0310258.shtml

Spain and No-Fault

Matt · 9 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "Blow to machismo as Spain forces men to do housework

It's not that I don't think it's a bad idea to help more around the house, but it's THIS that caught my attention:

"This will be a good way of reminding people what their duties are. It is something feminists have been wanting for a long time."

Click "Read more..." for more

Failure to meet the obligations will be taken into consideration by judges when determining the terms of divorces. Men who refuse to do their part may be given less frequent contact with their children.

That should guarantee that, when the law - which will also make divorce proceedings faster and easier - is voted on in parliament in the next few weeks, the obligation to share domestic chores will be added to the statute books.

So, Spain is headed toward a No-Fault divorce society. I don't think anyone here will disagree that no-fault divorce effectively cut the legs out from under traditional families and father's rights. Men of Spain, I spell relief:

"M a r r i a g e S t r i k e".

Forcing anyone to do anything under point of bayonet is NOT the way to get someone to see your side of the argument. Once this law is implemented, I'd be interested to see the crime statistics from this year and from 10 years down the road. Do they really think that separating a father from his children is only punishing the father???? JESUS CHRISTOS, what are they thinking????"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/08/2353237.shtml

The Masters Tournament - Augusta

Matt · 9 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "The Master's Tournament is at it again, and so is Martha Burk. Uh, not exactly parallel events. The Masters is a golf tournament and the other is a feminist protest of the tournament. The protest supposedly draws attention to the tournament's allegedly horrible oppression of women. Carrie Lukas writes here . '...as sure as the Azaleas will bloom, millions of Americans are going to watch the final round on Sunday. In doing so, they will be celebrating golf's finest tradition, not a scourge against women.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/08/2355216.shtml

NOW Chapter President Admits to False Rape Accusation

Hombre · 9 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "An old gender feminist mantra says, "A woman would never lie about anything as horrible as rape." And here , when we see not just another woman lying about being raped, but a President of a NOW chapter, some other woman still has the nerve to tell us, "...if we (women) get the reputation of lying, then people won't start to believe us if it (rape) does happen." Uh, does that mean that someday men accused of rape will no longer be assumed guilty until proven innocent?"

It will be interesting to see what action, if any, NOW takes as a result of this. Usually when chapter presidents of "charitable" organizations commit serious crimes they are removed from the organization. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/09/0715241.shtml

New Sacks Campaign in Support of NCPs Bill

Matt · 12 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Nationally-syndicated radio talk show host Glenn Sacks has launched a new campaign, this time in support of SB 1082, a bill which will help military noncustodial fathers. To join the campaign, go to http://www.militaryparents.org/take_action.php.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/12/0153212.shtml

Andrea Dworkin Dead

Matt · 12 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Lee writes "From A Feminist Blog comes word that Andrea Dworkin died Saturday morning."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/12/020233.shtml

Half-Truths and Disinformation in Canadian DV Campaign

Matt · 13 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Eeva writes "The Canadian Women's Foundation has issued a press release claiming that "Every minute a woman in Canada is abused. That is why Canadian Women's Foundation, Hudson's Bay Company (Hbc) and Rogers are asking Canadians not to wait another minute."

Click "Read more..." for contact information.
Write to:

kluttrell-at-canadianwomen.org mariana.direzze-at-hbc.com brenda.burns-at-rci.rogers.com

hbc.communications-at-hbc.com

jan.innes-at-rci.rogers.com

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/13/0226205.shtml

WorldNet Commentator Covers Marriage for Men

Matt · 15 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc Angelucci of NCFM-LA passed this link along to MANN administrators. It's a great piece by Vox Day regarding marriage today and the importance of remaining single for men, notably written for the religiously traditional and non-traditional reader alike. Enjoy it!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/14/2215258.shtml

His Side Wiretapped

Matt · 16 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "From the Glenn Sacks His Side newsletter:

> His Side Wiretapped!
>
> On Sunday's show I interviewed Eric Washington, a highly decorated New Jersey officer who has founded the Police Officer Solidarity Commission.

Click "Read more..." for more.

> "POSC fights draconian domestic violence policies which often destroy veteran officers' careers based on a single flimsy domestic violence allegation. We did a line check with Eric a half hour before the show but Eric's phone was dead by the time we called back at 5 PM to start the show. As some of you may remember, we had to pick-up with Eric via cell phone after the first commercial break.
> Interestingly, Eric examined the phone wires and found that someone had wiretapped his line on Sunday! Eric believes that some of the enemies he has made within the New Jersey law enforcement establishment tried to interfere with his appearance on my show. The audio archive of the show, which came off well despite the interference, can be heard by clicking here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/16/1615257.shtml

Violence Against Men - Zimbabwe

Matt · 16 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "This report is from Zimbabwe, Africa. The title is 'Cases of Women Abusing Men Rise'."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/16/1619225.shtml

Girlfriends Conspire, Murder Grandparents

Matt · 16 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Where to begin with this story? I don't want to believe such things happen but I know they do.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/16/1629201.shtml

Online game promotes violence against boys

Matt · 18 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I'm afraid this could be filed under "Yet Another Story About The Double Standard Against Males", or "If it were the other way around, there'd be protests in the streets".

This highly graphic online game encourages girls to throw rocks at boys. It makes light of it. Makes it fun. Rewards you with a graphic depiction of the boy getting hurt.

Where will it end?"

Ed. note: Looks like David & Goliath just can't seem to get the message can they? Click the "Contact" link on their home page for their contact information.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/18/002228.shtml

Michigan Law Prof Decries "War On Women"

Matt · 18 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

zozo writes "Professor Catharine MacKinnon recently spoke at Stanford, equating violence against women with the 9/11 terrorist attacks in the US. "The number of people who died at [the terrorists'] hands is the same as the number of women who die at men's hands-every year," she said. "A kind of war is being fought, but there is no name for this war in which men are the aggressors and women the victims."

Does this sort of rhetoric really help gender equity?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/18/003221.shtml

RADAR Alert: NYTimes Falsifies Truth about DV

Matt · 19 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

When it comes to committing domestic violence, women are fully the equal of men. Scores of research studies in the United States and elsewhere show that women are just as likely as men to engage in partner aggression. And fully 38% of persons who suffer injuries from domestic violence are male. [See http://www.mediaradar.org/media_fact_sheet.php]

But the New York Times consistently portrays the domestic violence issue as men who beat up their wives and girlfriends. That depiction is scurrilous and false.

Click "Read more..." for more.

NYT FALSIFIES THE TRUTH ABOUT DV
On April 6, 2005 the Times published the article, Sweden Boldly Exposes a Secret Side of Women's Lives. Most disturbing was this description of domestic abusers: "It's not alcoholics and drug users…It's every man and in every class of society." Every man? In every class of society? But not women?

The article did not provide a shred of evidence to support such a sweeping statement, nor did NYT reporter Lizette Alvarez dispute that hateful allegation.

In response to this statement, RADAR – a coalition of men and women who are working for balanced media coverage of domestic violence – issued an Alert on April 10. The Alert called upon persons to contact public editor Daniel Okrent, requesting the Times to retract this ideologically-slanted article.

Hundreds of e-mails, letters, and telephone calls went out to the Times. But Mr. Okrent did not respond. Publishing a one-sided and libelous article, and then refusing to respond to persons' concerns, is an example of media arrogance.

Beginning April 18, RADAR will go to Phase II of its effort to stop the falsification of truth about domestic violence at the Times.

Phase II:

April 18-22: Concerned persons will contact all the editors at the New York Times, requesting a retraction of the Alvarez article, and asking the editors to assure objectivity and balance in future coverage of domestic violence.

Phase III:

On-going: Request columnists to write articles on bias at the New York Times

Phase IV

April 30: Protest at the annual White House Correspondents Dinner at the Washington Hilton, 1919 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20009. 4:00 – 8:00pm.

Persons are encouraged to wear T-shirts with an appropriate domestic violence message and to carry a sign.

More information about this campaign will be posted at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/18/2218241.shtml

Do Women Really Want a Male Birth Control Pill?

Matt · 19 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Glenn Sacks' newest column "Do Women Really Want a Male Birth Control Pill?" (Newsday, 4/11/05) discusses the transfer of power that will occur when the male pill is marketed. Read the column here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/18/2220248.shtml

RADAR Alert: NYTimes Refuses to Budge

Matt · 19 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On April 6 the New York Times published the article, Sweden Boldly Exposes a Secret Side of Women's Lives. That article included this description of domestic abusers by Gudrun Schyman: “It’s every man and in every class of society.”

The article did not provide a shred of evidence to support that slanderous statement, nor did reporter Lizette Alvarez challenge or dispute the comment.

Click "Read more..." for more.

NYT Refuses to Budge: Every Man is a Domestic Abuser
Last week RADAR issued an Alert to contact the Times to request a retraction of that article.

Hundreds, maybe thousands, of e-mails, letters, and telephone calls went out to the Times. But public editor Mr. Okrent did not respond. Publishing a one-sided and contemptuous article, and then ignoring legitimate concerns, is journalistic arrogance.

It also makes a mockery of the claim in the NYT’s own Ethical Journalism Guidebook that their “fundamental purpose is to protect the impartiality and neutrality of The Times.”

Because the Times sits at the hub of a vast media empire, and because Lizette Alvarez’ article was so biased and hateful, RADAR has decided to continue and INTENSIFY our campaign.

This week, we’re going to send a message that the New York Times won’t be able to ignore. SO THIS TIME, WE’RE GOING TO TURN UP THE VOLUME.

Here’s this week’s Game Plan:

On Tuesday, telephone the Times at 212-556-7652. That’s the phone number of the NYT public editor, Daniel Okrent. The system will limit your comments to 30 seconds. So just call back a second or third time, if necessary.

On Wednesday, send the editors an e-mail: public-at-nytimes.com.

On Thursday, send off a Letter to the Editor:

Letters to the Editor

New York Times

229 West 43rd Street

New York, NY 10036

E-mail: letters-at-nytimes.com

Fax: 212-556-3622

And don’t forget RADAR’s protest of the New York Times on Saturday, April 30 at the White House Correspondents Dinner at the Washington Hilton, 1919 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20009. 4:00 – 8:00pm. More information about the protest will be posted on the RADAR website.

If we’re not outraged by this article, then what is the point of outrage?

++

Date of RADAR Release: April 18, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/19/0255236.shtml

Severe beating by the growing police state

Matt · 20 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Here is a disgusting display of police brutality. This man is clearly guilty of his crime but LOOK at the beating this man took while in custody. His face is so severely beaten the police made him wear a mask to court. Although this isn't a feminist inspired attack on men's civil rights like most articles here, it illustrates the fact the the U.S. has become a police state. The police and the legal system (as driven by polorized agrendas from the left and right) is out of control. Civil liberties erode as martial law takes over out land."

Ed note: This is indeed a men's issue. While having no sympathy for the suspect as such, do you think the suspect would have been beaten like that had he been a she?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/20/027219.shtml

Sacks, Feminist DV Leader Spar in SF Chronicle

Matt · 20 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Esta Soler, founder and president of the Family Violence Prevention Fund, one of the world's leading domestic violence organizations, attacked Glenn Sacks' recent San Francisco Chronicle column Domestic violence a two-way street. Soler labelled Sacks' column a "shameful example of cherry-picking and distorting data to confuse readers" (scroll down to see her letter).

As Sacks noted in a recent broadcast of His Side, "Liberal newspapers are feminist turf and they don't like when it's invaded."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/20/0212201.shtml

RADAR Alert: Stopping the Culture of Contempt at the NYT

Matt · 20 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Arthur Sulzberger Jr., owner and publisher of the New York Times, is one of the most influential persons in the international media. In 1992 Mr. Sulzberger announced his plan to revamp the newspaper's editorial focus so it would no longer reflect a "predominantly white, straight male vision of events."

Soon, we were reading articles and columns by Anna Quindlen, Natalie Angier, and later Maureen Dowd that were demeaning, derogatory, and hostile to men. That hostility was reflected in one-sided articles about domestic violence that consistently ignored male victims.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Stopping the Culture of Contempt at the NYT
When some began to worry about the paper's growing anti-male tone, Sulzberger gave this arrogant response: "If white men were not complaining, it would be an indication we weren't succeeding and making the inroads that we are."

Now, that Culture of Contempt has spawned an article that contained this spiteful stereotype of persons who commit DV: "It's every man and in every class of society."

Despite the outpouring of e-mails, letters, and telephone calls that complained about the article, the NYT did not respond -- further proof of its Culture of Contempt.

IT'S TIME TO TURN UP THE VOLUME.

On Tuesday, RADAR asked people to telephone the Times at 212-556-7652.

On Wednesday, we are asking people to send their complaint to the editors and reporters at the NYT. We are requesting the NYT do these two things:

1. Retract Lizette Alvarez's biased and inflammatory article

2. Assure objective and balanced reporting of future DV articles

Here are the e-mail addresses. Note: In case your listing of e-mail addresses gets cut off, all NYT e-mail addresses end with the letters "nytimes.com" after the "@":

Top Executives:

Arthur Sulzberger Jr., Publisher

publisher-at-nytimes.com

Scott H. Heekin-Canedy, President, General Manager

president-at-nytimes.com

Top Editors:

executive-editor-at-nytimes.com

managing-editor-at-nytimes.com

Editorial Page:

editorial-at-nytimes.com

Public Editor:

public-at-nytimes.com

Newsroom:

news-tips-at-nytimes.com

the-arts-at-nytimes.com

bizday-at-nytimes.com foreign-at-nytimes.com

metro-at-nytimes.com

national-at-nytimes.com

sports-at-nytimes.com

washington-at-nytimes.com

And if you really want to make an impact, you can obtain an automated listing of many editors and reporters by sending a request to staff-at-nytimes.com. Select the editors and reporters that are most involved in reporting domestic violence, and send them your complaint.

Remember RADAR's protest of the New York Times on Saturday, April 30 at the White House Correspondents Dinner at the Washington Hilton, 1919 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20009. 4:00 – 8:00pm. More information about the protest will be posted on the RADAR website.

Remember, it only takes one person to shape the course of history.

++

Date of RADAR Release: April 19, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/20/0229208.shtml

Recent Deadly Paris Fire Started by Woman During Domestic Dispute

Matt · 20 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Keep your eye on this story. We'll have to see if she's charged even with something like negligence.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/20/0245241.shtml

RADAR Alert: NYT Ignores RADAR Requests, Profits Drop 21%

Matt · 21 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

To say the New York Times is obsessed with domestic violence against women is an understatement. A search of the NYT database reveals over 337,000 “hits” on the phrase “violence against women” just since 1996!

The Times has gotten in a lot of hot water for its long-standing anti-male and other forms of bias. Visit the Times Watch at http://www.timeswatch.com/ and you will see the many ways that the NYT slants, distorts, filters, and otherwise biases the truth.

Click "Read more..." for more.Last week, RADAR launched an ambitious campaign for the Times to report both sides of the domestic violence issue. But the NYT didn’t even respond to RADAR’s request.

Earlier this week, it was reported that first-quarter profits at the Times dropped 21%. (Of course, we’re not trying to imply that ignoring last week’s request caused the Times’ profits to plummet – but clearly, things are not well at the NYT.)

So this week we continued our campaign.

On Tuesday, we asked persons to telephone the Times at 212-556-7652.

On Wednesday, we asked people to e-mail their complaint to the editors and reporters at the NYT. A listing of their e-mail addresses can be found here.

Thursday is the last day of the campaign. This is what we are asking you to do:

1. Open a new message in your e-mail program and in the To line, enter: letters@nytimes.com.
2. In the Subject line, put “Sweden Boldly Exposes a Secret Side of Women’s Lives, April 6”
3. In the Message box, write whatever you want to say about the article, and include the request that the NYT retract the article and assure balanced reporting of DV in the future.
4. Indicate your name, address, and telephone number.
5. Remember to keep your letter short, factual, and reasonable.

If you prefer, send your letter by snail-mail to this address:

Letters to the Editor

New York Times

229 West 43rd Street

New York, NY 10036

The New York Times campaign is not finished! RADAR will hold a protest of the Times on Saturday, April 30 at the White House Correspondents Dinner at the Washington Hilton, 1919 Connecticut Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20009. 4:00 – 8:00pm. More information about the protest will be posted on the RADAR website.

RADAR thanks every person who made complaints to the New York Times, and made this campaign a success!

++

Date of RADAR Release: April 20, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/21/0238232.shtml

Report Of Rape A Hoax, Cops Say

Matt · 22 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cmdr iceman writes "Here we are again gentlemen with yet another story of a woman claiming to be raped when she really wasn't. What really vexes me is the degree of forbearance authorities have exercised in not releasing her name as they "consider" charging her. She should be forced to reimburse every expenditure and man hour wasted on her little stage production."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/21/2242202.shtml

Feminism and the WKKK

Matt · 22 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clancy writes "April 21, 2005

by David R. Usher

From Men's News Daily

Excerpt-

"Feminism is the post-modern Women's Ku Klux Klan

It is time everyone come to grips with history and imprint an important fact on our brains: Feminism as we know it is the direct ideological and political descendant of the Women's Ku Klux Klan (WKKK)."

The author is obviously a conservative, as am I. But, if you can get past that and read what he has to say... Well, I received a good history lesson. I thought he made some valid suggestions and good observations. This editorial should make a lot of harpies extremely furious."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/21/2246207.shtml

National Geographic Prints Letter on Berbers

Matt · 22 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

mens_issues writes "Some of you may recall that I raised a minor ruckus back in January over an article in that month's National Geographic regarding Berber men and women in Morocco (I raised a bigger ruckus the following month over their demeaning "Ladies' Lunch" feature). Well, they printed my letter regarding the Berbers. Here it is from the Forum section of the May 2005 edition:"

Click "Read more..." to read the letter.
"Berber life sounds tough for both men and women, but your article seems to denigrate Berber men by saying that women "do the heavy lifting." At the end of the article you note that these men have the privilege of living in shantytowns on the outskirts of Casablanca or Rabat, where they work long hours for a pittance to send home. This doesn't sound particularly easy either.

Steven G. Van Valkenburg

Westminster, Colorado"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/22/0157227.shtml

Times of India points up Double Standard in DV Case

Matt · 23 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Mangesh writes "A woman storms into the apartment of her separated husband, bites him, hurls abuse, and leaves. She is arrested and released on bail. Fortunately, this Times of India story points out the double standards.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/23/0324208.shtml

Female Pilot Wins Discrimination Case

Matt · 23 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A female BA pilot has taken the airline to court for sex discrimination because they wouldn't allow her to work half-time to look after her kid. They say she needs to complete her flying hours for safety reasons, and that the rules apply to everybody. She won. I hope I don't find myself on her plane. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/23/0331219.shtml

Myth Busted!: Women wealthier than men!

Matt · 23 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Evil White Male Oppressor (EWMO) writes "And we still keep the phony myth alive that women are poverty-striken victims in a partiarchal capitlaist world....

EXCERPT: "Female millionaires will outnumber their male counterparts across all age groups within 20 years, says research published today..."

Click "Read more..." for the rest of the quote
"It describes women as the "financial powerhouses" of Britain. Women are increasingly using their business wiles to gain financial rewards from their private lives. In America they are classified as Boomers (those who have inherited their husband's wealth) and Sarahs (Single And Rich And Happy) who have made their cash through clever wrangling in the divorce courts."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/23/0333229.shtml

India: Tax Men More than Women

Matt · 23 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

GuyOutHere writes "In this Times of India letter to the editor, the writer makes some wild suggestions about social engineering through state taxation, all in the name of 'female empowerment'."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"Towards the end of the letter the writer states: "Some will ask, why discriminate against men? . . . to reverse historical gender discrimination" and "Social engineering is often best done by measures with low immediate impact (thus avoiding sabotage), but sufficient long-term impact to change power relations." Nice to see she's not afraid of telling the truth about her manipulative suggestions!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/23/2027201.shtml

Women achieving "equality" rights.....

Matt · 23 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "So, all these recent female lawsuit victories in family court, divorce court, and violence court is just for 'equality?'"

Click "Read more..." for more.
"Plan of action:

1. Everyone write a POLITE response for the article and send it to Letters-at-cbc.ca

2. Everyone CALL cbc and complain about this radical feminist Georgie Binks 1866-206-INFO --canada only, you might want to look up how to dial it from the US.

3. Everyone formally write letters of complaint against Georgie Binks to CBC headquarters.

This plan will work, because CBC staff almost ALWAYS responds."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/23/2030245.shtml

RADAR Alert: Stanford Law School Promotes Feminist Hate Speech

Matt · 25 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Did you know that “aggression against women” represents a war, and that “the domestic criminal laws are so under-enforced that they can be considered not there.” The speaker further explained, “International law doesn’t capture the reality that half of society is attacking the other half. This is a real war that has gone on for millennia.”

It’s hard to imagine a speech that is more inflammatory or hateful than the one that Catherine MacKinnon gave at Stanford Law School last week. The speech was sponsored by Women of Stanford Law and the Institute for Research on Women and Gender.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Stanford Law School Promotes Feminist Hate Speech
Most people would dismiss MacKinnon’s comments as the sad rantings of a deranged or warped mind. But Carol Li, a second-year law student, praised MacKinnon’s speech as “thought-provoking” and incisive. And Stanford Daily reporter Ronald Chan did not bother to research any statistics that would challenge or dispute MacKinnon’s misguided statements.

The dean of the Stanford Law School, Katherine Sullivan, only had words of praise for MacKinnon’s contributions to women’s liberation: “There are many other prominent feminist theorists in our times, but none of their philosophy is as sweeping and profound as MacKinnon’s.”

In response to MacKinnon’s disturbing diatribe, columnist Cathy Young had this to say:

“Anyone who blamed African-Americans as a group for violent crimes committed by black perpetrators, or Arabs or Muslims as a group for radical Islamic terrorism, would be branded a bigot – and rightly so.”

We whole-heartedly agree.

= =

Contact the Stanford Daily and Katherine Sullivan and tell them the following:

1. Catherine MacKinnon’s speech is oblivious to the fact that women are just as likely as men to commit domestic violence. [http://www.mediaradar.org/media_fact_sheet.php]
2. Reporter Ronald Chan published MacKinnon’s over-the-top allegations without making any attempt to assure balanced, objective, or responsible journalism.
3. Blaming men as a group for domestic violence against women is misguided and hateful, and represents gender bigotry.

Here’s the contact information:

1. Stanford Daily:

Editor in Chief:

Telephone: 650-725-2100, Ext. 501

E-mail: eic-at-daily.stanford.edu.

Letters to the editor: letters-at-daily.stanford.edu

Snail mail:

The Stanford Daily

Storke Publications Building Suite 101

Stanford CA 94305-2240

2. Katherine Sullivan, Dean of the Stanford School of Law

Telephone: 650-725-9875

E-mail: sullivan-at-law.stanford.edu

MacKinnon's remarks represent hate speech, plain and simple. We can't let this pass unnoticed.

++

Date of RADAR Release: April 24, 2005

Come join us for a protest of the New York Times at the White House Correspondent's Dinner, April 30. For more information, see: http://www.mediaradar.org/protest_wh.php.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/25/0115239.shtml

The Usual Propaganda

Matt · 27 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

jim4146 writes "Okay Fellas,

I'm a newjack and feeling my way around this. Basically, I'm a happily married man with two lovely grown daughters. Want nothing but the best for them. With that said I am conciously aware of the legalized and socially accepted injustices that men face today. I'm sure this movement (Men's) will prevail...the question is how soon? Hopefully we'll live to see it. Anyway, I ran accross this link and am thinking of a good rebuttal for it. Not sure if you guys and gals want to do the same. Check it out...take care.
Jim"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/27/0229214.shtml

More Black women with AIDS - Blame the black men!!

Matt · 27 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "The whole "Down Low" thing has got out of hand. What amazes me is the fact that it is so easy to demonise black men, while showing black women as helpless poor victims of an evil animal. Below I have linked to a more postive and logical look at both the "facts" in this issue. The author also considers the reaction of the media (including the sinister Oprah), and the reaction of the US public (including black women). Relations between black men and women are already at an all time low, this is just driving us apart even more.

A Down Low Dirty Shame by Joshunda Sanders - Click here for the full article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/27/0233237.shtml

NYTimes Outdoes Itself Marginalizing DV Against Men - Again!

Matt · 27 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

There's so much to say about this, I don't know where to start! OK, gotta try: It minimizes the fact that the wounded man in the story was knifed (ie, attempted murder) by his girlfriend, and later that he tried to kill himself over her. It takes an opportunity to discuss several men's health issues (eg: DV, psychological problems with boundaries and women, suicide, etc.) and throws it aside - right there in the Health section!

I am sure there's more to say about it but I'll let MANN readers run with the ball.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/27/0242242.shtml

AskMen asks Why Do Divorce Laws Marginalize Men?

Matt · 28 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original bandersnatch writes "From Ask Men -- 'Ask a buddy at work. Ask your neighbor. Even a relative will probably have heard of one. And the stories are always the same: she took his house, his car, and his kids. She made more money than him and he still had to pay alimony. She accused him of physical abuse and the courts didn't even ask for evidence."

Click "Read more..." for the rest of the quote.
'"It seems that no matter who you talk to these days, someone knows of a man who came out of a divorce robbed and humiliated. And there is no end to how harrowing such stories get.
In America, men are forced to pay around 40% of their income to ex-wives, regardless of wrongdoing on the woman's parts (often called "no-fault" alimony). She could commit adultery and beat her husband or kids, and none of it will influence the court's decision.
More shockingly still, a woman can simply accuse her husband of sexual or physical abuse (or simply express a fear of it) and instantly win a restraining order forcing him away from his home and children, without so much as a hearing. In fact, most divorce lawyers will advise a woman to do this, and those who do not can be sued for legal malpractice.'

It's refreshing to see this on a mainstream website such as Ask Men -- They also have a men's rights forum now, check it out."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/28/0125256.shtml

Housework? Men do it best!! :-) And more...

Matt · 28 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "A nice up tempo article to show that men (in real life) are nothing like what you see in poorly scripted misandarist TV programs. Enjoy and feel good to be a man (found this via Angryharry.com - another good website):-

Housework? Men do it best!! Click Here for the full article"

Click "Read more..." for more.Second submission...

cnewbyuk writes "Another feel good article. I actually took part in this experiement - unfortunately, I don't know what my score was. Jemima Lewis seems to like saying positive things about men. Anyway, enjoy (you may need to register):-

Intuition: it's a man thing -
Click here to read the article

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/28/0129212.shtml

"Some volunteers!"

Hombre · 28 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Linucs writes "From here, "More than 400 young [Iranian] men and women have volunteered to carry out suicide bombing attacks against Americans in Iraq and targets in Israel, a militant group said Wednesday.[...]"Some 440 volunteers, most of them women, signed up today," said group spokesman Mohammad Ali Samadi."

So much for gender empowerment (more "victims" for the U.N. to complain about?)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/28/1553241.shtml

School girl punches her baby to death - and avoids jail

Hombre · 28 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "In Australia News.com.au reports here that a school girl killed her new born baby, but has been spared jail. Apparently she gave birth in her room, cut the chord, punched the baby several times in the head to kill it, then wrapped it in a blanket and placed it beside her bed - all to avoid losing face with friends and family. The judge said "I am satisfied that the interest of the community and particularly the interest of you are best served by you becoming a useful member of society, certainly not by going to jail,"

Just what would the schoolboy father have received if he'd done the deed..?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/28/1559234.shtml

Intuition: it's a man thing :-)

Hombre · 28 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "Another feel good article. I actually took part in this experiement - unfortunately, I don't know what my score was. Jemima Lewis seems to like saying positive things about men. Anyway, enjoy (you may need to register):-

Intuition: it's a man thing -

Click here to read the article "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/28/160250.shtml

Australian Men Now One False DV Claim Away ...

Matt · 29 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "And another on News.com.au, which reports here that Australian men accused of DV can now legally be removed from their home even if they have nowhere to go to - and given vouchers to be used at cheap hotel room or caravan park accommodation... Gee, the future's looking scary...."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/29/0037245.shtml

Horribly Misandric Article

Matt · 29 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Clint E. writes "http://news.scotsman.com/features.cfm?id=446602005"

Ed. note: Normally I don't post links submitted just as is, but this one is a whopping exception. Go ahead and read it-- as bad as the whole thing is, just wait 'til you get to the last paragraph.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/29/0045248.shtml

DV Billboards for Male Victims!

Matt · 29 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tom writes "Great news! A huge billboard on I-95 calling for VAWA to serve male victims is up and running. Two more have been placed at the amtrak station in Wilmington, Delaware. It is the work of a group called Safe Homes for Children and Families Coalition (SHCFC) and can be found at http://www.vawa4all.org. Pictures of the billboards can be seen here This group is interested in helping others get DV billboards running around the country. If you are interested contact them. If you can help out give them a hand and donate a buck or two through their paypal donate button. These guys are on the front lines doing great work!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/29/0052227.shtml

Norway Convicts a Woman of Rape

Matt · 29 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "Finally some sense have been knocked into feminist-influenced Scandivanian judges. This is a major blow for radical feminist in Norway, but not far enough. Norway proposed that 40% of ALL its corporate employees must be women by 2007, right now its 11%. So basically from now on, all they are going to hire is women? What about all the male graduates?"

Ed. note: Re the 40% comment, a story is here. The article date is Aug. 8, 2002, however. Can anyone supply an update on this issue? Also, it seems as if the law in question seeks a 40% rate of women as corporate directors, not employees as mentioned in the submitted text.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/29/0058249.shtml

"Take Our Daughters and Sons to Work Day"

Matt · 30 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes " No discrimination going on here, no way...
Girls will get hands-on experience of work while those potential rapists sometimes known as boys will get a dose of this claptrap:

"learn about violence prevention and how to be allies to the girls and women in their lives"

Unbelievable..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/30/0323232.shtml

Caddie Sues LPGA Golfer Over Deception

Matt · 30 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Doesn't this story really just make you cringe? Sorry to say I predict he won't get very far in the case, if previous such matters are any indicator.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/30/040250.shtml

Pvt. Lynndie England Accepts Plea Deal

Matt · 30 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Looks like she'll get only as much as 11 years according to this BBC story.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/30/0425250.shtml

A True Monument to the Integrity of the DV Industry

Matt · 30 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "This is a shocking expose', but one that is truly worth reading Arrest reveals the true Barbara Dehl .

"How is it that former Spirit of Idaho recipient Barbara Dehl is behind bars today following charges of murder, kidnapping and drug trafficking?" "People are hurt because they feel they have now lost a voice on domestic violence. Don't look at this as "losing a voice," but as a lesson on whose voice we listen to.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/30/1846250.shtml

Another Female "Deadbeat False Accuser"

Matt · 30 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Does anyone else in this country see a pattern of lying by females about crimes against them? Well here's another one ."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"Wilbanks, whose disappearance set off a nationwide hunt, called her fiance, John Mason, from a pay phone late Friday and told him that she had been kidnapped while jogging three days before..." ...but evidently it's okay for females to lie about crimes against them. This quote from the police chief in GA, "...no criminal charges." ...and of course we have to try to understand the reasons that drove the poor dear to her misbehavior, and have sympathy for her now, "...the chief said. "She's obviously very concerned about the stress that she's been through, the stress that's been placed on her family," he said. "She is very upset."

At least we understand that law and journalism continue to work hard so that nothing destroys our society's modus operandi, "man accountable, Woman unaccountable," Woman good, man bad."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/30/1852204.shtml

Speaking of Running off to Las Vegas...

Matt · 30 April 2005 · Archived copy · Original

It seems not just inconsiderate brides-to-be can be the only women running off to Vegas! USA Today covers the trend of women-only getaways, some including week-long hotel discounts (for women only) and no-men-allowed package deals, with trips to Chippendales-like strip clubs too!

Click "Read more..." for more.Just imagine if this story were run with the sexes reversed, touted on the cover of a national newpaper, what the outcry would be. Better yet, replace the references to the sexes with references to ethnic groups (pick your two) and imagine the article then. The misandry is quite palpable too, though not as blatant as one of the more recent examples mentioned here on MANN.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/04/30/196251.shtml

Washington Post Actually Covers Female Arsonist

Matt · 2 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Do my eyes deceive me? Is it real? The Washington Post actually printed this, and in a Sunday edition no less! But alas, the tone is characteristically sympathetic to the arsonist, who is (not so) coincidentally, female. Get this from the article:

> Danahey reminded Brown of his only child. He could easily imagine his free-spirited son trapped in a similar situation, another victim of impulse.

"Victim of impulse"? If it had been his son, you can be sure the author would not be using language like that to describe him!

I also find it real strange that this story appears in their "Style" section.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/01/2325201.shtml

Washing machine fingers lazy male

Matt · 4 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "When will some men get some self respect? This article tells of a Spanish male "inventor" who wanted to: "finish with macho man from the ice age who doesn't do anything around the house except drink beers". Based on fingerprint technology, it prevents the same person starting the washing machine twice in a row. Perhaps his next invention could be for the lawn mower start button, the garage door, the electric drill or some other hugely assumptive piece of stereotyping?"

Ed. note: It's hard to know what to list this one under. Maybe a new topic called "Self-Hating Men/Manholes" is needed!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/03/231241.shtml

Women's Worth?

Matt · 4 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "I have a solution to this problem of women's housework being worth so much and them not being paid. All women who have husbands who are paid less than the $131,000 computed worth of women's childcare and housework should go out into the workforce and earn that money. We stupid, lowly paid men should be required by law, in these cases, to stay home. I wonder how much our worth would be computed at once we started staying home with our children?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/03/232250.shtml

P-Day celebration suppressed

Matt · 4 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

EvilPundit writes "A group of male College Republicans at Roger Williams University in Rhode Island has had its mascot penis hauled off and locked away soon after group members lampooned the 'V-Day' celebration that has become popular on American campuses. Lots of links, including pictures, here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/03/235209.shtml

Ex-Top Model Seeks "Revenge" for Leaving Career

Matt · 4 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original federico writes "Ok, this is funny. It's in an Italian newspaper.

I'm not going to translate the all article but basically this seems to be the story:
She was a model, then she met this billonare guy, and she decide to leave her "job" and be with him. So, of course, she started to use HIS money, HIS credit cards and so on and on spending up to 50/60,000 Euros a NIGHT!

Click "Read more..." for more.

Now, after living like a princess for 10 years, he left her.
And guess what!? For 10 years she's been collecting material (photos, newspaper articles, etc.) to prove the relationship in a future trial.
Now she asks for 100 million euros (!) or 50,000 euros a month, because she "deserves" it. The trial so far is going pretty bad for her (thank god!) but you never know.

The interesting thing is that in her statement to the newspaper her opening sentence is:

"With him I lived like a princess.We loved each other, but now is finished. But he is rich and HAS to support me. This is the way things work in America."

« Con lui ho vissuto come una principessa. Ci amavamo ed è finita. Ma lui è ricco e deve continuare a mantenermi. In America le cose vanno così »

Sorry darling, you're not in America.

Article here."

Ed. note: A rough (very rough!) translation from Italian to English can be done at http://babelfish.altavista.com/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/03/2311242.shtml

RADAR Alert: Could Diane Rehm Have Saved Phil Hartman?

Matt · 4 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Diane Rehm hosts an influential, nationally syndicated show on the Washington, D.C. NPR station WAMU. On April 28th she devoted an hour of her show to an interview with Victor Rivas Rivers, Hollywood actor, former Miami Dolphins football player, and spokesperson for the National Network to End Domestic Violence. You can listen to the interview at http://archives.wamu.org/real/2005/dr/r2050428.rm.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Could Diane Rehm Have Saved Phil Hartman?
In the interview, as in his recent book “A Private Family Matter,” Rivers recounts the horrors of his childhood with an abusive father. Rivers' tale is compelling. Having survived a truly horrific childhood, he now speaks “under the umbrella of domestic violence because,” he says, “domestic violence is all violence -- it's all encompassing. If there's a woman who's being abused, chances are she has children, and her children are either witnessing, or are being abused themselves.” Mr. Rivers' willingness to speak out is commendable. Although he fails to include violent women and victimized fathers and children when he says “domestic violence is all violence,” his myopia is certainly forgiveable in light of his personal experiences.

The question is not whether Mr. Rivers' speaking out is a noble act. It most certainly is. The question is whether Mr. Rivers would be provided a public forum to speak out if his own personal story contradicted the general belief that domestic violence is nearly always perpetrated by a brutal man against a helpless woman and children.

The fact is that this stereotype is false. The U.S. Dept. of Justice reports that men comprise 36% of victims of physical assault by an intimate partner - 834,732 per year! Yet movies like those Rivers acts in and radio shows like Rehm's keep the public uninformed about this part of the problem. And as a result, government funding for domestic violence services explicitly excludes programs for male victims.

Diane Rehm has done a public service by producing this show. But providing the public with only one part of the picture leaves us blind to a great deal of human suffering. Victor Rivers' own website mentions that he made his film debut in the movie “Last Resort” which starred the late Phil Hartman. After Phil Hartman was brutally murdered by his wife Brynn, stories started coming out about Brynn's abusive treatment of Phil thoughout their marriage. Yet the media steadfastly refused to apply the term “domestic violence” because the sex roles were reversed. If the media, including people like Ms. Rehm, had painted an accurate picture of domestic violence, perhaps a compassionate person like Mr. Rivers might have recognized the symptoms and offered Mr. Hartman the help he needed before it was too late.

The cost to society of the media's penchant for one-sided coverage of this issue is increased human misery. What would be the cost to the media to provide society with balanced coverage?

Please contact Diane Rehm and WAMU. Tell them the following points. Keep in mind the old adage that you catch more flies with honey than with vinegar.

1. 834,732 men are physically assaulted by their wives or girlfriends annually. (US-DOJ National Violence Against Women Survey)

2. Under current law, programs that focus on services for male victims are not eligible to receive federal funds.

3. Doing a show on male domestic violence victims and their children would raise awareness and could save thousands of lives.

When you contact them, remember to include your name, address, and daytime telephone number. Here’s the contact information:

Email: drshow-at-wamu.org.

Snail mail:

The Diane Rehm Show

WAMU 88.5 FM American University Radio

4000 Brandywine Street, NW

Washington, D.C. 20016-8082

Call-in Line: 1-800-433-8850

Comment Line: 202-885-1231

++

Date of RADAR Release: May 2, 2005

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at: http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/03/2344201.shtml

Hanoi Jane's Got Religion

Matt · 4 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Yes, read about it here. She's still a feminist though, by golly!

Try not to laugh yourselves off your seats, fellas.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/04/0124248.shtml

AB 1307 Defeated

Matt · 5 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Sorry to report this. I hope though this will be of inspiration:

> We shall go on to the end, we shall fight in France, we shall fight on the seas and oceans, we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air, we shall defend our Island, whatever the cost may be, we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills; we shall never surrender*...*
>
> -- Sir Winston Churchill

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/05/035206.shtml

England's Guilty Plea Tossed while Evidence Destroyed in Tillman's Death

Matt · 5 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Pvt. Melissa England isn't even allowed to plead guilty when she wants to. Meanwhile, it appears as if evidence in Pat Tillman's death-by-accidental-friendly-fire was destroyed as part of a deliberate effort.

Compare and contrast!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/05/0317234.shtml

Men Harm Themselves to Spread Feminist Misandry

Matt · 6 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "This male bashing event apparently injures some men and helps spread feminist propaganda about sexual assault and gender violence. Here is brave site that provides valuable information to refute feminist propaganda, and it dares to ask Why Would A Woman Lie About Rape? Here you will find honest information that is not available at male bashing marches."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/05/2340258.shtml

UK Electorate Rejects "Positive Discrimination"

Matt · 7 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "Fantastic news! British electorate today rejected a female candidate imposed in a constituency from an "all woman shortlist" for the United Kingdom's General Election. Peter Law resigned in protest from the Labour Party, stood as an independent and caused one of the biggest reverses in UK Election history by winning one of the safest Labour seats in the UK. 20,000 folk agreed with him. Let's hope this is the start of some common sense. And an acknowledgement that whether in politics, the work-place or just real life, women compete purely on their own merits without any help from the PC brigade."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/07/0338240.shtml

Denver Post: A one-sided anti-male article

Matt · 7 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Former Broncos player Reggie Rivers wrote a condescending one-sided anti-male article in the Denver Post titled "Good news, guys: It's back to those good ol' sexist days." This was spurred by the rejection of an emergency contraception bill in the Colorado State House. While I agree that this action was misguided, Rivers makes the leap to saying that men want to keep women under control by keeping them pregnant.

The article is here.

His email address is: regrivers-at-msn.com

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/07/0343227.shtml

Boys Education Book Banned

Matt · 9 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Thousands of copies of a boys' education book have been sealed in boxes for three years and their distribution to schools banned by the NSW Education Department, which spent $10,000 printing them."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/09/0346219.shtml

NY Times Mag Major Piece on Father's Rights

Matt · 9 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The NY Times Magazine today published a major 10-page article on the Father's Rights Movement, covering both U.K. and U.S. groups and issues: The Fathers' Crusade

The piece is on whole a balanced overview of the movement of fathers fighting for more fairness in child custody decisions and in the Family Courts.

Lots of quotes from men leading the F4J campaigns, speaking in their own voices rather than being "spun" by fluff reporters."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"Of course, N.O.W.'s Kim Gandy makes a cameo appearance just to make clear her personal stance that rights always entail obligations ... for MEN!

'Kim Gandy, president of the National Organization for Women, told me that fathers' rights groups are 'focused only on the rights of fathers, and not on the rights of children, and particularly, not on the obligations of fathers that should go with those rights.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/09/0351248.shtml

Title IX Benefitting Women ONLY, Ignores Men

Matt · 9 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "Feminist and unfair TITLE IX already grants American women more money and scholarships than men, so what does this have to happen??

Furthermore, the university has 5 more female sports team than men. Clearly, this march benefitting women-only sports should be illegal since Title IX grants men and women EQUAL oppertunity. Clearly, if women gets more sports money its good, when men gets more sports money its considered to be gender discrimination."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/09/0355224.shtml

MANN comments quoted in Star Tribune!

Hombre · 10 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The lace curtain is weakening! Both Ray and Tumescent had comments on this site that were quoted, (althought Tumescent wasn't named), in Sunday's edition of the Star Tribune. This refreshing article about the double standards in the Willbanks incident, (AKA, the runaway bride), talks about the reaction from men on the net.

"Does anyone else in this country see a pattern of lying by females about crimes against them?" asked a man named Ray in an online news posting."

"One man [Tumescent] predicted Monday that "now it's time for all the psychobabblers to come out of the woodwork to give us a laundry list of 'issues' and 'syndromes' to excuse this spineless Cinderella's actions. Maybe all the desperate housewives out there will see her on 'Oprah' real soon.""

We're making waves guys, keep it up!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/10/0344253.shtml

I was just going to lunch, not stalking?

Matt · 10 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Not finding actual issues of violence or assault to deal with, this university's Womyn's Center has worked with campus police to develop a stalking policy, has just published an informational brochure for students on stalking. Here is a fine example of Marxist feminist paranoia propaganda at work; every incoming freshman is lectured about stalking issues, and simple "looks" now constitute stalking behavior, and students are held accountable for actions that may or may not be stalking behavior,and as we all now know, allegation alone is sufficient evidence to ruins one's life path."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/10/0411238.shtml

DAHM/STV request

Matt · 10 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "Please consider sending a donation to Jan Brown at the Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men so that she can present the case for male victims of DV at the 9th International Family Violence Research Conference in New Hampshire. Karen Clay (of Stop the Violence) would also like to attend.

Steve"

Click "Read More..." to see Jan's message.
"Dear Friends and Supporters,

Many of you already know that our poster submission, "Best Practices: Service Provisions for Male Victims of Domestic Abuse," was accepted at the UNH 9th International Family Violence Research Conference. This is an exciting chance for DAHM/STV to share the information we have learned. Below is the abstract for the poster presentation:

"The Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men (DAHM) is a nonprofit that originated in 2000 as a toll free crisis line to serve domestically abused men nationwide. Since inception, DAHM has collected extensive data on all incoming crisis calls. Stop the Violence, Inc.(STV) originated in 1998 and since its inception has accumulated service provision data for all clients seeking assistance for domestic abuse nationwide. This study is the result of a collaborative project between DAHM and STV.DAHM methodology was comprised by using a standard interview protocol administered to all incoming crisis line callers having male domestic violence concerns. Data from STV included service provision information gathered on all male domestic violence clients that were given services. Data on occupational status obtained from the DAHM indicate that there is a need for service provisions nationwide for victims of various socioeconomic backgrounds. Data obtained through STV qualified the nature of the services needed for abused men. Collectively the results are consistent with current research indicating that there are substantial needs in this population that have been thus far underserved and unrepresented. In comparison to research conducted on abused women, data from the DAHM suggest that abuse patterns may differ for men. Implications are drawn for best practices concerning current service provision needs in this field."

We are delighted and thrilled to have this opportunity to share what we have learned with researchers and others at this conference!

Our only challenge at this time is of a financial nature. As you may or may not know DAHM/STV is a totally volunteer run organization that relies solely on the generosity of private donations in order to continue our work. We have managed to pay for the phone bill, volunteer calling cards, the answering service for the helpline as well as send out thousands of victim brochures and business cards to Victim Witness Advocates, Police Departments, DA's, domestic violence shelter programs, hospitals, mental health agencies et al in order to bring public awareness and services to victims over the past four years while working with an average budget of under $6,500.00 annually.

We are currently in the process of renovating a building that will house our offices and a shelter for victims and their children also.

The registration fee, due by May 13th for Karen Clay (DAHM/STV Co-director) and myself to participate in this conference is $660.00. The approximate cost of lodging, food, gasoline and tolls for the two of us will be $1,000.00

Presenting at this conference is an honor and a privilege and the information we will be sharing is unique in that no other domestic violence program has collected and disseminated this valuable information on male victims to our knowledge. Please consider sending along a donation of any size (which may be tax deductible) so that we can continue to bring more public awareness to this important and much maligned issue.

Sincerely Yours,

Jan Brown and Karen Clay

Domestic Abuse Helpline for Men/Stop the Violence, Inc.

P.O. Box 252

Harmony, Maine 04942

Or use paypal at our DAHM site!

Note: site is being moved and will be back up by 5/10/05

http://www.noexcuse4abuse.org/
and http://www.stoptheviolenceinc.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/10/0418227.shtml

Another Woman Teacher Satutory Rape

Matt · 11 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "In Tennessee, the maximum sentence for statutory rape is only two years? Would this maximum sentence be the same if the gender roles were reversed in this situation? Is this situation getting to feel like an epidemic to you? I wonder if this is really new or just women being afforded a taste of equal responsibility along with those so-called equal rights."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/11/2131225.shtml

More Feminist Bias at the BBC

Matt · 12 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This article from the BBC covers a new report into international forced labour. I'm sure we're all opposed to slavery of every kind, but the article concentrates solely on prostitution. If you download the report (PDF on the right), turn to page 12 and look at the pie chart, the report identifies 3 categories of forced labour: economic, military and sexual. Of these 3, sexual is the least significant. It's interesting that most forced workers and soldiers are male, but these get ignored. The BBC concentrates solely on women. The article turns this report into another attack on male sexuality. The implication is that all prostitutes are slaves. Thanks once again BBC."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/12/1524231.shtml

Women have the "right to sexuality"??

Matt · 12 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "Wow.... [In Italy] Men must pay damages to women if they don't offer them sex.

Now, if its the other way around.....men forcing their wife into sex, he would lose everything in court."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/12/1534243.shtml

No Male Birth Control Pill

Matt · 13 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "
This MSN article says it's unlikely a male birth control pill will be developed. They don't say why.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/13/0245204.shtml

Women-Only Train Cars and Other Services in Japan

Matt · 14 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kyo writes "Japan's "women-only train car" fad is covered by the Wall Street Journal here, with allusions to other women-only venues such as sports clubs, hotels, and even internet cafes. The journalist is surprisingly even-handed, presenting valid reasons why the trains discriminate against men along with a quote from a male-train-rider activist group."

Click "Read more..." for more.

Note that in the statistics from the article:

'In December of 2002, Kobe City introduced women-only cars on some of the lines running through the city. A survey of commuters conducted a few months later by the city's Department of Transportation found that 73.8% of the women approved of the train cars, while only 28.1% of the men offered their support. Conversely, 45.4% of the men said that they were against providing women with their own train cars, an opinion held by only 7.4% of the women.'

...not surprisingly, quite a few men are willing to support this discrimination against themselves, whereas almost no women are willing to give up their favorable treatment!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/13/222237.shtml

300 boys disappear in UK in three months

Matt · 14 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original bandersnatch writes *"From This is London, Scotland Yard today revealed it has been unable to trace all but two of 300 black boys aged four to seven reported missing from school in a three-month period. Child welfare experts say the number highlights the scale of the trade in children brought to Britain as domestic servants and covers for benefit fraud. Detectives asked each London local education authority to give them details of black boys aged four to seven reported missing from school between July and September 2001. It emerged 300 had vanished, 299 from Africa and one from the Caribbean. gasp You mean it's only not young girls being trafficked? Imagine that!"*

Ed.: Also this is covered here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/13/225249.shtml

Paternity Fraud Judicial Foot-dragging

Matt · 16 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Taron James is member of the National Coalition of Free Men, L.A., and a veteran of the 1st gulf war. For a long, long time he's been fighting an act of paternity fraud commited against him. "After more than a decade of legal battles the court ruled he wasn't the father, but his child support judgement has yet to be reversed." XETV, Fox 6, San Diego has a story on his struggles here , Scroll down the page of listed videos to the one titled "Paternity Fraud" and click on the link to the video. In the video there are also shots of NCFMLA's protest at the "Deadbeat Dad's Courthouse," comments by Marc Angelucci, NCFMLA President and Taron's attorney, and near the end is a shot of "the truck" with a 4' X 8' sign in the bed saying PATERNITY FRAUD IS DEADBEAT GOVERNMENT."

Ed. Note: Requires use of IE for the in-line video player to work. Also this post is time-sensitive since the video may be bumped by new stories at any time.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/16/157240.shtml

UK Campaign Demonizes Men to Reduce Female Alcohol Consumption

Matt · 16 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

It is not good news that British female alcohol consuption is skyrocketing, outpacing any other group in Britain. What is also bad is that in an effort to reduce it, the UK gov't is using scare tactics with men as the target pariah group to try to discourage it. Not to put too fine a point on it, but it is reminiscent of the anti-Semitic posters used by the Third Reich to get the Germans to fear and hate Jews, isn't it?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/16/1524230.shtml

Boys' Educational Deficit Still Pronounced

Matt · 17 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "In British high schools, 'girls are up to 115 per cent more likely to achieve an A or B grade than boys.' Boys problems at school are still not being effectively addressed. Not surprising when one school principal 'David Haywood believes this is to do with the intrinsic ability of boys rather than the school's educational ethos.' Article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/16/2340235.shtml

Girls Outperform Boys from Day One

Matt · 17 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "News.com.au reports that a study of 10,000 children from birth age up has shown that girls outperform boys almost from day 1, learning to walk and talk earlier. Quote: "Boys lead girls in every measure of disengagement and psychological disorder from attention deficit syndromes to at-risk social behaviour. The latest neuro-imaging research has identified gender differences in brain maturation, with boys slower to develop impulse control and executive planning skills.

Although boys and girls are parented in a similar fashion, levels of hostile parenting were higher for boys than girls."
So given this evidence, what does the (female) federal Minister for Family and Community Affairs say? "I have consistently said that children are better off in a household where both parents have a job," she said...."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/16/2346213.shtml

Harvard's Summers Commits to "Gender Initiatives"

Matt · 17 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

What's a sentence or two worth? To some, $50 million. Read it here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/17/000208.shtml

RADAR Alert: Washington Times Endangers Children in the Name of "Protecting the Children"

Matt · 17 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

One can only wonder what the Washington Times had in mind when they published their May 11 article Protecting the Children. The article ignores the predominance of women among perpetrators of child abuse and leaves the very strong impression that most cases of child abuse are perpetrated by men.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Washington Times Endangers Children in the Name of “Protecting the Children”
To grab the reader's attention, the article opens with the story of a 5-year old who's afraid his abusive stepfather might kill him. Then, having firmly established the image of an abusive man in the reader's mind, the very next sentence describes an abused baby girl. The reader is not informed until the end of the article that the suspected abuser in this case is the mother. The article immediately follows up with several paragraphs giving details of this one violent man's attacks on his wife and stepson. It then goes on to cite statistics showing that caseworkers are predominantly women whose jobs require them to handle too many cases for too little pay.

The takeaway picture is that self-sacrificing, compassionate women are fighting a battle to protect helpless children and women from monstrous men.

Child abuse reports from the U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services paint a very different picture. In child abuse cases perpetrated by one parent acting alone, it is approximately twice as common for the abuser to be the mother than the father. When such cases result in the child's death, it is likewise approximately twice as common for the killer to be the mother than the father.

By creating the false impression that the majority of child abuse is perpetrated by men, the Washington Times misdirects the attention of policymakers, and leaves the majority of abused children vulnerable.

One would have to be a mind-reader to know what the writer had in mind in writing this story. But one thing is certain. Protecting children was not foremost in the author's mind.

Please contact the Washington Times and tell them the following:

1. U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services statistics show that mothers are twice as likely as fathers to be sole perpetrators of child abuse.

2. By slanting the truth, their article encourages policymakers to distort the allocation of scarce resources, focusing disproportionate amounts on less common scenarios at the expense of more common scenarios.

3. As a result, their article “Protecting the Children” puts children at greater risk.

Here’s the contact information:

Francis Coombs, managing editor

fcoombs-at-washingtontimes.com

Ted Agres, deputy managing editor

tagres-at-washingtontimes.com

Letters to the Editor: letters-at-washingtontimes.com

Snail mail:

Washington Times

3600 New York Ave., NE

Washington, DC 20002

When you write, be sure to include your name, address, and daytime telephone number.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

See http://www.mediaradar.org/ for more information about the RADAR project.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/17/0026258.shtml

Protesting the Abuse of Men by the Abuse Industry

Matt · 17 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "The National Coalition of Free Men, Los Angeles and concerned citizens participated in a protest outside a "Domestic Violence Industry Gala" held in San Diego last weekend. We protested the Women's Industries' abuse of men. Ironically, while the "rich and famous" of the Domestic Violence Industry feasted on delicacies inside, an apparently abused, homeless man (with his kids in tow), approached the group. It seems the well dressed, well fed in that group would do nothing (no hotel voucher) to get a man experiencing domestic violence a room for he and his kids for the night. We took up a collection and got him a room. How appropriate that many of us wore T-shirts saying Shame on the Domestic Violence Movement for Lying. There were many things those well dressed, well fed "discriminators against men" should be ashamed of as our protest signs indicate."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/17/1814229.shtml

Schiavo Redux?

Matt · 18 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

frank h writes "For those of you who are interested in what would happen were the gender roles reveresed in the Terry Schiavo case, watch this one"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/18/217215.shtml

USA Today Says Boys are Behind in Education

Matt · 18 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "It is refreshing to see this story. Too bad the rest of the media are dragging their heels."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/18/2111226.shtml

Youngster Made Up Rape Story

Matt · 18 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "British newspaper The Guardian reports, Wednesday May 18, 2005, on a very young girl (aged under 10 years old) who fabricated an elaborate rape story.

What are young girls learning this behavior from? What are they being exposed to in the media, from their parents and in schools to make them behave this way?

The police investigation is estimated to have cost £120,000 (approx US$ 250,000). More money wasted in the pursuit of the misandric agenda."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/18/2112243.shtml

Fox's McElroy Covers F4J-USA

Matt · 18 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The article is here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/18/2118230.shtml

RADAR Release: RADAR Reports Success in Media Coverage of DV

Matt · 18 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Five years ago, the Washington Post was one of the most ardent supporters for the renewal of the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). News articles, columns, and editorials appeared on a regular and continuing basis, all designed to convince wavering lawmakers to vote “yes” for this $1 billion dollar-a-year pork.

Last year the Washington Post knew that VAWA would be coming up for renewal in 2005, so they ordered up more DV blood-and-guts stories. In December the Washington Post ran a three-part, high-octane series on Maternal Homicide.

Click "Read more..." for more.But instead of attracting accolades, the series received sharp criticism from columnists representing the full gamut of political persuasions, including Wendy McElroy, Stephen Baskerville, Richard Davis, Michael Getler, Jack Shafer, and Glenn Sacks.

Just as importantly, thousands of persons made phone calls, sent e-mails, and wrote letters to protest three articles that were obviously biased, inflammatory, and contemptuous of men.

It has now been five months since that testament to Yellow Journalism appeared on the front pages of the Washington Post. Normally, the Post would have run at least 10 grisly articles on DV by now, all vilifying men, all ignoring that women are just as likely to abuse their male partners.

But times have changed. During the last five months, the Post has run only one DV article -- and that was written by a non-WP staffer. Of course, RADAR issued an Alert about that article, just to remind the WP editors that we’re still paying attention.

Of course, it’s possible that once VAWA is re-introduced, the Washington Post will go back to its old ways. But we like to think that RADAR has already had a major impact on how the Washington Post and other newspapers are reporting the DV story.

So to every person who has responded to a RADAR Alert and sent an e-mail, made a telephone call, or written a letter, we say, “Working together with conviction and determination, we can really make a difference.”

Thank you for your support of RADAR.

P.S. VAWA is due to be re-introduced any day now, and we will have our work cut out for us! Sign up now to receive RADAR’s e-lerts by visiting our website: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/18/2127203.shtml

RADAR to VAWA: “This Time We’re Ready for You!”

Matt · 19 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The current Violence Against Women Act will expire on September 30, and the renewal legislation is expected any day now. It is expected that the new VAWA bill will propose to expand and enhance services – but only for female victims.

That represents gross discrimination against men.

But this time, RADAR is ready for the expected round of media coverage that will extol the proposed law and will perpetuate the myth that women never assault their male partners. This is our 8-step game plan...

Click "Read More..." for more

RADAR to VAWA: “This Time We’re Ready for You!”
First, RADAR has a committed group of experienced Media Monitors who are scouring the nation’s newspapers, looking for bias.

Second, RADAR has a fast alert system, consisting of e-lerts and notices placed on strategic websites. (If you are not yet signed up for the RADAR e-lerts, go to http://www.mediaradar.org/, and enter your e-mail address into the indicated space in the left-hand navigation bar – it’s that simple!)

Third, RADAR has proven that it is able to generate thousands of phone calls, e-mails, and letters.

Fourth, RADAR has succeeded in convincing the Washington Post, which is widely read by Washington lawmakers, to cut back on its inflammatory blood-and-guts DV articles.

Fifth, RADAR has established a quick-response system for the blogosphere.

Sixth, RADAR has partnered with other key groups who are working to assure that VAWA is male-inclusive.

Seventh, RADAR is upgrading its website to provide more information about VAWA.

And eighth, RADAR will be coordinating a series of Op-Ed articles that will be published on key internet sites.

There’s nothing to hold back, folks, this is going to be one to write home about!!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/19/1518206.shtml

Richard Hayden

Matt · 20 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Trudy W Schuett writes "The founder of the Abused Guys Yahoo Group and much-loved friend, Richard Hayden, has passed.

I will provide information on the memorial and other things in a few days, when I have them. There will be an in-person memorial service in Northern California in about three weeks. At the same time, I will set up an online service for those who are unable to attend the physical memorial.

For those of you who depend on the Yahoo group, please do not be concerned as I promised Richard some time ago that it would continue. It will. It is one of a very few resources for abused men anywhere, and so we will make sure men will continue to have a place to seek help and get support.

Love and light!

T____"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/20/2047251.shtml

Women in Combat

Matt · 20 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Story here:

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Women in the military would be barred from serving in direct ground combat roles, under a House bill that sets Defense Department policy and spending plans for the upcoming budget year.

The House Armed Services Committee approved the overall measure early Thursday on a 61-1 vote. The same committee in the Senate passed a different version last week. The House and Senate are to vote on their respective bills next week."

Click "Read more..." for the rest of the excerpt.

"The language would put into law a Pentagon policy from 1994 that prohibits female troops in all four service branches from serving in units below brigade level whose primary mission is direct ground combat.

"Many Americans feel that women in combat or combat support positions is not a bridge we want to cross at this point," said Rep. John McHugh, R-New York, who sponsored the amendment.

It also allows the Pentagon to further exclude women from units in other instances, while requiring defense officials to notify Congress when opening up positions to women. The amendment replaced narrower language in the bill that applied only to the Army and banned women from some combat support positions.

The Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps currently operate under a 10-year-old policy that prohibits women from "direct combat on the ground" but allows the services discretion to open some jobs to women in combat as needed."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/20/2050251.shtml

Are video games only for men?

Matt · 20 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "This BBC item asks "Are video games only for men?". The article is covering the launch of new game consoles by the three big manufacturers, but, bizarrely - though unsurprisingly - turns it into a 'gender issue'. "...the Entertainment Software Association says makers have failed to come up with mass market products the helps (sic) encourage women to play "
WTF? If you want to play, play, if you don't, don't. If you have an idea for a new game you'd like to see, promote it. What is the problem? The article asks "What do you think? Are too many games aimed at young men?" The page provides a place to post your own comments."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/20/2052241.shtml

Information ALL MEN should know about

Matt · 20 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "As a man I been made more aware about Breast cancer than Prostate cancer. As a Black man I'm actually a high-risk group (I have never been told this before). Not enough men know about this illness. I hope this link proves to be informative to you all:

The Prostate Cancer Charity

By the time you have finished checking out this website, you all should be avid Soya bean fans!! ;-)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/20/2055232.shtml

The Cost of Weddings

Matt · 20 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Sure, divorce is expensive-- financially, emotionally, etc. But the actual wedding itself has gotten outrageously priced. Who do you imagine is doing most of the paying for it, too? I certainly can imagine!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/20/2116253.shtml

N.O.W. 's VAWA Promo Admits Girl-on-Girl Violence

Matt · 22 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The National Organization for Women (NOW) is cranking up its propaganda engines in anticipation of the bill about to go to Congress to reauthorize the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). One of the proposed additions to VAWA is expanded funding for anti-violence education programs for minor-age children. A Press Release on NOW's web site emphasizes abuse young women experience from boys and men; however, it also mentions girl-on-girl violence and harassment, and even includes a story about a girl who was targeted by other girls."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"Is N.O.W. advocating gender-neutral language in VAWA to acknowledge that girls and women commit domestic violence? Not yet.

'During the 1999-2000 school year, the U.S. Department of Education reported 628 rapes or attempted rapes, 4,261 cases of sexual battery other than rape and 127,568 incidents of sexual harassment on public school grounds. Yet, public school systems rarely report such incidents. This kind of abuse of young women, perpetrated by both young men and other YOUNG WOMEN is seen by some adults as normal, or at least avoidable. Such incidents are waved off with: "she shouldn't have worn that," or "she shouldn't have acted that way"—the game we're all familiar with, Blame the Victim.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/22/0341234.shtml

Letourneau Marries Boy She Raped

Matt · 22 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "As Mary Kay Letourneau marries her former child victim, the BBC reports it as a happy ending, in a story which is largely sympathetic to her, although it does use the word 'rape'."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/22/0344213.shtml

False Accusers Ordered To Pay Legal Costs

Matt · 23 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here is a bit of good news.

The women who falsely accused University of Colorado football players of raping them are ordered to pay the university's legal defense fees.

They will not of course serve any prison time for their crime of false rape allegations but this is a start."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/23/0235256.shtml

"Exhausted Mothers Walk Out on Families"

Matt · 25 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

GuyOutHere writes "In this news story from Australia, "Exhausted Mothers Walk Out On Families", we learn that "modern mothers are resorting to a Kramer vs Kramer-style escape from their families to strike a better balance between personal freedom and the demands of children." Read the entire article. Not a word, of course, about how men have had to deal with work/family balance for ages!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/25/1612239.shtml

Feminist witch-hunt in the Labour Party

Matt · 25 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "In the recent UK election, Blair's Labour Party lost its safest seat in Wales because they tried to rig the election by allowing only women candidates. The local politician, Peter Law, stood as an independent and won. A victory for democracy and a slap in the face for the feminists. Now they are getting their revenge. Twenty people - anyone who supported Law's campaign - are being expelled from the Labour Party. Maybe it should rename itself the 'Communist Party'."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/25/1614233.shtml

The Eternal Silence of a Unique Group of Rarely Mentioned Men

Matt · 25 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In a few more days Memorial Day will be upon us, and here is information you'll seldom, if ever, find in any college women's studies, gender studies, or even "His"tory class. "Historically, it is men who almost exclusively make up the millions who've been "asked" to die for their country, and in that group of millions is a select group of men seldom mentioned. Sadly, that group of Americans (all male) from a recent time in our history, were asked to make the supreme sacrifice for their country (and did so) without having ever been granted the sacred right of voting in their own country (America)."'

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/25/1617226.shtml

"Runaway Bride" Faces Charges

Matt · 25 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Let's see if they stick! Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/25/1619212.shtml

Parental rights for same-sex couple (or only lesbians)

Matt · 26 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original federico writes "Here is an article about parental rights for same-sex couple in the San Francisco Chronicle. Besides the fact that I'm not sure that this is a great idea one thing really attracted my attention: altough in the all article it's seems all about "same-sex cases" (gay and lesbian) the title on the front page states "Lesbian Parenthood Debated". Now I think that this is a typo (or maybe more a lapsus) that tells a lot about what we already know, that of course for gay couples there will never be any right to parenthood. In fact all the examples in the article are lesbian couples."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/26/1811219.shtml

Sweden - - Land of Honest Feminists

Matt · 26 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "A new TV documentary on domestic violence in Sweden has sparked controversy over a comment by the president of Sweden's version of N.O.W. During a filmed interview, she rejected the idea that the Swedish government should fund "rehabilitation shelters" for men who batter their partners, referring to men as "animals," and stated that there is a worldwide "gender civil war."

Of course, there was no acknowledgement whatsoever of battered men.

"Controversy continues here surrounding ROKS, the National Organization for Women's Shelters, one of Sweden's largest non-government organizations to help the victims of domestic violence. In a television documentary broadcast Sunday night the group's president opposed rehabilitation centers for men who abuse their partners, with the comment that all 'men are animals'".

Full article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/26/1820219.shtml

Op-Ed on Blumhorst Case Published

Matt · 27 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The Los Angeles and San Francisco Daily Journal, the biggest legal newspapers in California, just printed the following op ed which informs the legal community about the Blumhorst decision's denial of civil rights testers standing to sue and how this dealt a blow to male DV victims but is not the end of it.

Click "Read more..." for the rest of Marc's post and the op-ed.There are non "tester" victims coming forward, so this is just the beginning. As a side note, the Blumhorst case led to many victories in terms of media coverage of the issue. The oppression that the case addresses has thrived for decades on the media's failure to cover the issue (especially not with any degree of fairness) and the public's ongoing ignorance about it. The Blumhorst case got the issue into a major AP story that printed all over the nation, and the issue was covered by other major media outlets. Blumhorst has now been interviewed by two major local TV news stations, one of which is pending and the other of which aired in San Diego and will air again in a much more involved story to come. There's a long way to go for gender equity advocactes, but good things are happening. Much more to come. Please keep battling this evil in your respective fields and locations. And stay tuned for more.

Marc A.

REJECTION OF TESTER STANDING DEALS ADDED BLOW TO BATTERED MEN

By Marc E. Angelucci

Los Angeles Daily Journal

San Francisco Daily Journal

May 26, 2005

In medieval France, if a man was assaulted by his wife, he was forced to ride a donkey backwards through the streets wearing an outlandish outfit while people threw trash at him.

Although things have somewhat changed, figuratively speaking, male victims of domestic violence are still riding their donkeys backwards. One need look no further than here in California, where Health & Safety Code §124250 defines "domestic violence" so that men cannot even be deemed victims, let alone receive the services therein.

The California Research Bureau reports that over 4,000 men seek domestic violence shelter every year. But the only shelter that takes men is the Valley Oasis shelter in Lancaster, which has sheltered men and women for over ten years with no problems, welcoming men who travel from hundreds of miles because nobody else would help them. Their former director, Patricia Overberg, calls this a major human rights violation and has long said that a lawsuit is needed.

In the recently published case of Blumhorst v. Jewish Family Services, Eldon Ray Blumhorst did just that.

About ten years ago, Blumhorst's wife hurled a large piece of furniture at him in one of her violent fits. He was knocked down, put in crutches and given a permanent limp. Then he was abused a second time by the system. When he called the suicide hotline and searched for available help, everything was for "battered women."

After getting his life back together, he remained deeply hurt by this experience. And every framing of the issue as "battered women," and men-as-batterers, only worsened his pain. He eventually found the Los Angeles chapter of the National Coalition of Free Men, a volunteer group that works with male victims and addresses their high frequency and public neglect. He also learned what the world's leading experts on domestic violence have said for years: that the research overwhelmingly shows women initiate domestic violence as often as men, that men do need outreach and shelter services, and that male victims have been swept under the rug for decades because they don't fit the feminist, man/bad woman/good model for domestic violence. (See Prof Linda Kelly, “Disabusing the Definition of Domestic Abuse: How Women Batter Men and the Role of the Feminist State,” 30 Fla. St. U. L. Rev 791 (2003).)

Blumhorst also learned that Government Code § 11135 forbids sex discrimination in state-funded programs and creates a private right of action for injunctive relief. At the time, among the male victims denied services that the Los Angeles chapter of the National Coalition of Free Men knew of, Blumhorst was also the only one willing to face the public humiliation of a lawsuit. But his statute of limitations had expired.

So instead, he tried another approach: civil rights testing. A civil rights tester is a person who requests services from an entity in order to uncover discrimination. Federal courts have repeatedly upheld tester standing to sue if the civil rights statute protects "all persons" and is preventative in nature, and the same courts found testers "frequently valuable, if not indispensable" to civil rights enforcement because barriers hinder victims from suing. (Kyles v. J.K. Guardian Sec. Services, Inc. (2000) 222 F.3d 289.)

Blumhorst, acting as a tester, requested services from ten state-funded shelter programs. When they denied him services - even a motel voucher – based on his gender, he sued for injunctive relief under Government Code §11135, relying on tester standing.

The trial court found the shelters exempt under Government Code § 11139, which exempts "lawful programs benefiting women" from the ban on discrimination (the court never addressed Blumhorst's equal protection challenge to the exemption). On appeal, the Second Appellate District said testers lack standing to sue under Government Code § 11135. The State Supreme Court denied review on April 27, 2005.

Had the courts followed federal jurisprudence, Blumhorst would have standing. Like the civil rights statutes in the federal cases, Government Code § 11135 protects all persons from discrimination and is preventative in nature. And, male victims who need state-funded services face major barriers to suing. They often don't recognize the discrimination. They don't know it's illegal. They rarely can afford counsel to sue for an injunction under a non fee-shifting statute. They are too preoccupied with escaping the violence to sue. And they don't want the public humiliation that comes with such a lawsuit.

Blumhorst was one of those men. And he is not alone. The Violence against Women Survey, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Justice, found "approximately 2.9 million intimate partner physical assaults are committed against U.S. men annually," which makes men at least 36% of the victims. (http://www.ncjrs.org/txtfiles1/nij/181867.txt) And the most comprehensive analysis of existing research (Archer, Psychological Bulletin, 11/02) conclusively shows that women initiate domestic violence at least as often as men, that men make 38% of injured victims, and that self defense does not explain the female-initiated violence. (See http://www.csulb.edu/~mfiebert/assault.htm.)

Of course, numbers shouldn’t matter. It's wrong to exclude the minority. Period. Even if there were only one male victim, he should be entitled to equal treatment.

Men pay at least half of the taxes that fund these programs. The programs should be need-based, not gender based. Denying services to men violates equal protection and is very dangerous public policy. When victims don’t seek help, the violence often escalates, and even minor violence is harmful when children witness it. Even if it were true (it is not) that state-funded shelters cannot accommodate both genders, they can create space for men as Valley Oasis did, and they can at least provide motel vouchers, which are a form of shelter services.

There are those who cheer the Blumhorst decision, as though it's a good thing that male victims can't receive state-funded services. As an activist for men, I disagree. But more importantly, Blumhorst only ruled that testers lack standing. So now, it will take a non-tester victim to sue if every victim is going to count. With over 4,000 men seeking shelter ever year, the problem isn't numbers, it's who will be willing to face the humiliation that Blumhorst courageously endured.

Marc E. Angelucci is an attorney in Los Angeles who represented Eldon Ray Blumhorst pro bono in Blumhorst v. Jewish Family Services. He is also the president of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Coalition of Free Men, a non-profit organization that looks at how sex discrimination affects men and boys.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/27/1451253.shtml

Warren Farrell to be on 20/20 tonight

Matt · 27 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tom writes "Warren Farrell is to be on 20/20 tonight Friday May 27th at 10:00 pm eastern time. It looks likely that the show will validate his views and put Hillary Clinton and Martha Burk in a position of looking silly and supporting half truths and misinformation. This could be a huge event for our cause. It would mark the first time a major television network has openly and plainly shown that a feminist inspired myth is just that, a myth with the intent of whipping women into a victim frenzy.

Let's hope 20/20 has the fortitude to tell the truth."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"Warren Farrell is now asking for our help to get his book more exposure. He is suggesting that people purchase it shortly after the 20/20 program and if we get enough people simultaneously making the purchase it will catapult the book into much greater notoriety and encouarge some retailers to push the book. I know I will be buying a copy tonight and I hope many of you will as well. Here is a note that is being circulated from Warren:

Dear Friends,

Remember when I mentioned about ABC doing their feature on me, Hillary Clinton and Why Men Earn More on 20/20 this Friday?

Well, now I'm going to ask a favor: Why Men Earn More is a money-back- guaranteed book, and a perfect present for any one wanting a higher-paid career without sacrificing a better life (someone in college or graduating?).

Would you be good enough to try it out by buying it on Amazon right after the 20/20 show Friday evening (May 27th at 10 pm Eastern and Pacific, 9 pm Central)? Doing it right after the show will allow the Amazon ratings to go high enough to encourage bookstores to stock it.

Thank you. And I do believe you will also be thanking me.

Just click here for more information and a possible purchase.

Warren"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/27/1454251.shtml

Double Gender Standards Down Under

Matt · 28 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "Here are two news stories about how Australians view victims of judicial tyranny.

The first is about how a 27 yo Australian female who got busted in Indonesia for smuggling in drugs and was sentenced to 20 years. It seems the whole nation of Australia is all aflutter and outraged about this gross miscarriage of justice against a woman. She even has a rich male financial backer supporting her case.

The other is about a misandric Domestic Violence law in the state of Tasmania. Here a judge criticizes the law in denying bail to a man accused of DV after having spent 5 weeks awaiting the bail hearing as being unfair and not in the best tradition of Western jurisprudence where innocence is presumed until proven guilty. Of course this story is buried in the back pages and evidently the citizenry of Tasmania and the rest of the nation don't seem to give a damn."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/28/191216.shtml

Widow Denied Use of Sperm - Strange!

Matt · 28 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "From Australia: Do you find it really strange that a judge would deny a woman use of her dead husband's sperm because he hadn't given permission prior to death? I suspect the deal killer must have been that the courts would have no one to hit up for child support."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/28/1911244.shtml

Good article on Masculinity and Society

Matt · 29 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Read it here. Excerpt:

The crisis undermining masculinity has now reached alarming proportions. Under the aegis of the masculine mystique, masculinity has become the "shadow" gender. This is especially apparent in the general view that many men and women have of male sexuality. Masculine sexuality has become routinely associated with promiscuity, rape, and violence. Phallic penetration is most often analogized to the destructive penetration of guns (bullets) and missiles. The concept of generative penetration, the phallus as seed bearer, similar to the creative penetration of planting seeds in the soil or communicating a penetrating idea, is almost never associated with masculine power in our culture but was commonplace in virtually all prior cultures.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/29/1644234.shtml

SC Paternity Fraud Victims Sought

Matt · 30 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I am searching for men who have been victimized by paternity fraud in South Carolina. Please resond to soboski@bellsouth.net."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/30/178210.shtml

Husband annoying? Put him in a box

Hombre · 30 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "News.com.au reports that Japanese company Yamaha has come up with a novel solution to keep Japanese women happy.

Apparently husbands can be very annoying with the noise and mess they make, so Yahama have developed a big sound-proof box called 'MyRoom' that can be installed in the home and decked out with mini tables etc for the husband to 'spend his time in without annoying the wife'. Apparently Japanese wive's are mortified about losing their tranquility (i.e. living at home while their husbands kill themselves working hard) when hubby retires. The solution, of course, is to shove him in a box so you can carry on being a couch potato.

Of course the media is treating this as a hilarious story, men treated like pets or little kids to be locked away.

Yamaha has already heard from me on how they've lost my business for good - anyone else want to tell them what men think of this, the Yamaha corporation of America can be contacted on infostation@yamaha.com. This article was originally written by The Times of London, Leo Lewis. The Times online editor can be contacted at online.editor@timesonline.co.uk."

I wonder how many fair women, who are grateful to their husbands for working their whole lives to pay for their homes, will object to their sacrifices being demeaned like this? - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/30/1810231.shtml

NYC feminasty busybodies pass law requiring 2 female bathrooms

Hombre · 30 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

SJones writes "In New York City, the feminist city government unanimously passed a law requiring all new buildings to have 2 women's bathrooms for every 1 men's bathroom. The blatant discrimination is explained away with the usual bullcrap about how equality really discriminates against women and thus must be redefined. The disgusting article is here."

The unanimous support for this bill perfectly demonstrates the quintessence of feminism and bureaucracy combined. - Hombre

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/30/1820203.shtml

Chivalry & Cultural Sensitivity Part of Women in Combat

Hombre · 30 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Excellent Memorial Day piece in The Christian Science Monitor on-line examines the complex debate about US women soldiers in combat roles in Iraq. Reservations about women being expected to function as killers, concerns about accepting violence against women if it's inflicted by the enemy, and female's physical limitations are part of the stew. Female Army reservists are being excluded from the ongoing Iraqui army and police training effort due to cultural sensitivities on gender roles.

Full piece here -- http://www.csmonitor.com/2005/0526/p01s03-usmi.html"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/30/1824209.shtml

RADAR Alert: NPR Article Diverts Listener's Attention Away From Majority of Victims

Matt · 31 May 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Considering that the majority of those victimized by violent crime are men, why does National Public Radio turn a story about the Federal Crime Victim's Fund into a story about battered women?

Men are 3.4 times as likely to be murdered than women according to the U.S. Dept. of Justice. And although rates for all types of violent crime have dropped significantly in the last decade, men continue to be 38.4% more likely to be victims of violent crime than are women (see http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/glance/tables/vsxtab.htm).

Click "Read more..." for more.

NPR Article Diverts Listener's Attention Away From Majority of Victims
If NPR must focus on victims of domestic abuse, why do they focus exclusively on female victims when the U.S. Dept. of Justice reports (PDF document) that 834,732 men are physically assaulted by an intimate partner, constituting 36% of those so victimized?

The article claims, "Money goes to states to help families make up for lost wages or pay hospital bills or funeral expenses." But based on the organization featured in the article, it would appear that funding is going instead to organizations that blatantly discriminate against males, both adult and child. The featured organization is the Family Crisis Center's Prince Georges County "Safe House", which is listed on the DC Housing Network's website as accepting only women and their children, and then only if the children don't happen to be boys over 12.

After discriminatory organizations like that have received their cut, is there any money left to cover the lost wages, hospital bills, and funeral expenses that the program was intended to cover? Are the majority of crime victims, who happen to be male, left unserved while the funding that was intended to compensate them is used by organizations that vilify them? And why does NPR choose to glorify such organizations?

Contact National Public Radio and tell them:

1. More than three times as many men as women are murdered annually. (U.S. Dept. of Justice: http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/homicide/gender.htm)

2. 38.4% more men than women suffer violent crime. (U.S. Dept. of Justice: http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/glance/tables/vsxtab.htm)

3. Even when considering only domestic violence cases, over one-third of those victimized are men. (U.S. Dept. of Justice: http://ncjrs.org/pdffiles1/nij/183781.pdf).

4. By using only battered women to illustrate a story on the Crime Victim's Fund, they've made the majority of victims of violent crime invisible.

Here’s the contact information:

U.S. mail:

Weekend Edition

National Public Radio

635 Massachusetts Ave., NW

Washington, D.C. 20001-3753

Ombudsman:
Jeffrey A. Dvorkin

Send comments to Mr. Dvorkin via the webform found here.

FAX: 202-513-3329

When you write, be sure to include your name, address, and daytime telephone number.

++++++++++++++++++++

More information about the RADAR project can be found here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/05/31/0419222.shtml

SAFE posts recommendations for VAWA 2005

Matt · 2 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Jade Rubick writes "Stop Abuse For Everyone has posted a set of Recommendations for the Reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act 2005. SAFE calls for gender-inclusive language in the bill, so that people can receive services regardless of what type of person they are."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/02/041243.shtml

Three Boys Could Get Life for High School Sex

Matt · 2 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "Here is a story of three boys (age 16 at the time of the alleged "rape") and a girl who performed oral sex on them who was 15. Statutory rape charges were filed yesterday against these three boys and at the minimum they would have to register as sex offenders; at the maximum, they would be sentenced to life in prison. The article indicates fellow classmates are upset at the charges, and the article blames the culture's "obsession" with sex, and never mentions the impact of feminist "0% tolerance" laws in place against male sexually. The paper published the pictures of these boys (who have not been proven guilty yet) and it is Globe policy not to name victims of alleged sexual abuse without their consent. This is equality? "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/02/046230.shtml

Monster.com blog on housework division

Matt · 2 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

gilligan writes "Monster.com has added this item to their blogs.

Once again, it's the usual biased tripe about how long-suffering women have to endure the terrible burden of endless hours of housework, while their husbands (when they can pry them off the couch and get them to do some sort of work) are barely able to wash a dish, let alone take care of kids, do the laundry, etc. I know it's not a news story, but it bothered me to see yet another instance of socially-sponsored misandry."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/02/0412238.shtml

Runaway Bride Sentenced to Probation and Counseling

Matt · 4 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

SacredNaCl writes "Runaway Bride - Jennifer Wilbanks, sentenced to probation & a fine. Just as predicted, not a day of time, and the usual psychological counseling bit. Disparate justice really ticks me off, especially when it includes a false rape allegation as well, you can listen to the full tape of her call to her husband here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/04/1710228.shtml

Men, Depression, and Genetics

Matt · 4 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

While searching on other matters (I wanted to know linguistic roots of the word "sanguine"), I came across this document (.pdf format). [For those of us who prefer to avoid opening .pdf documents, the HTML version of it can be had here].

The author is very careful to point out he is only identifying correlational factors, not necessarily causative factors, in his report. Nonetheless, there is still good food for thought here on several fronts and fodder for exploration.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/04/1959203.shtml

"Multiculturalists" Take Over Schools

Matt · 5 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous writes "An illuminating article linked from Angry Harry's site exposes how the leftist multiculturalist movement has captured college teacher education programs in 37 states, by requiring that students be judged on their "dispositions" --- code for Political Correctness. New standards incorporate the concept of dispositions, which seek to sort out teachers who are likeliest to be successful. Dispositions "are guided by beliefs and attitudes related to values such as caring, fairness, honesty, responsibility, and social justice." Students at CUNY have been punished for deviating from the views of their feminist-leftist professors. Links at -- http://www.nysun.com/article/14604
-or-http://www.angryharry.com/"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/05/1651230.shtml

Women and Children (main) victims of war??

Matt · 5 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "Feminists have long argued that women and children are the (main) victims of war. True, some of them might have been raped or beaten. However, nothing beats a complete gendercide, where a specfic gender is entirely wiped out.

In 1995, the Srebrenica massacre was the worst civilian massacre in europe since WWII. What's worst, it is a massacre of MEN AND BOYS. Men and boys were seperated from women and children, and they were systematically killed one by one while the women and children were hauled off to safety by the Dutch troops.

More proofs of these gendercide against men have emerged as video tapes. Link: http://abcnews.go.com/International/wireStory?id=8 18874&CMP=OTC-RSSFeeds0312"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/05/1658225.shtml

"Men's rights" Covered in Wikipedia

Matt · 5 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Nice to see this. Thanks to any and all who made it happen!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/05/2052247.shtml

Want Lifetime Job Security? Wear a Dress to Work!

Matt · 6 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous writes: "There's a bill being introduced before Congress -- the Local Law Enforcement Hate Crimes Prevention Act of 2005 -- that seeks to provide civil rights protections for persons of any and all actual and/or perceived genders. Confused? N.O.W. "Applauds Groundbreaking Effort to Pass Gender-Inclusive Legislation." At -- http://www.now.org/press/05-05/05-25-b.html

(No heterosexual males are invited to apply. They are not sufficiently conflicted or oppressed about their sexuality.)"

Click "Read more..." for more."Other commentators say -- "If this legislation passes, a businessman would be criminally liable if he "discriminated" against a man who wears a dress to work— or uses a woman's restroom because he "thinks" he's really a woman. At -- http://www.traditionalvalues.org/modules.php?sid=519)

(S.625 / H.R.1343) would expand the definition of a hate crime to include crimes induced by the disability of the victim, gender, or sexual orientation, and provide money to states to develop hate crime prevention programs. At - http://www.naswdc.org/advocacy/alerts/2002/062102. asp)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/06/162245.shtml

Warren Farrell among Scheduled Speakers for July's Men's Equality Congress

Thomas · 7 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Thomas writes "The dates of this July's Second National Men's Equality Congress in Washington D.C. are fast approaching. This year promises to be even more successful and enjoyable than last year, with a number of well-known MRAs giving talks.

As you can see on the congress' website, http://www.trueequality.com, Warren Farrell will be speaking as well as Glenn Sacks, Carnell Smith, Stephen Baskerville, Jack Kammer, Dave Burroughs, and others including MANN's founder, Scott Garman.

To keep up on the news, join the email list at:
http://www.trueequality.com/cgi-bin/dada/mail.cgi? f=list&l=testo.

I (this is Thomas writing) will do my best to help people save money by finding roommates for their stays at the Washington Court Hotel, http://www.washingtoncourthotel.com. If you are interested in sharing a room, you can contact me at mensrights01ATyahoo.com. Remember to change the "AT" in mensrights01ATyahoo.com to the "@" symbol.

I will also function as self-appointed Secretary of the Department of Entertainment for the afternoon and night before the congress opens. If you expect to be in DC the night before the congress begins (that night would be Thursday, July 14) and you would like to meet to traipse around the Smithsonian for a few hours that afternoon or to gather for drinks that evening, contact me at mensrights01ATyahoo.com. Again, remember to change the "AT" in mensrights01ATyahoo.com to the "@" symbol."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/07/0147228.shtml

Missing TX Student Discovered Working at a Sam's Club

Matt · 7 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I wonder if she will have to pay for the time and money spent looking for her? Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/07/0213208.shtml

Title IX Challenge Rejected Without Comment

Matt · 7 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Without a word, the Supreme Court declined to hear the latest challenge to Title IX.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/07/0216247.shtml

Newsweek article on Marriage

Matt · 7 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Comments? The article is here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/07/1448228.shtml

Ending pregnancy is legal...only if you are a girl

Matt · 8 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

thrudd writes "I am pro-life, but the double standard here is disgusting. "A 19-year-old East Texas man faces a life prison sentence for causing his teenage girlfriend to miscarry twins, even though she wanted to end the pregnancy....Erica Basoria acknowledged asking Flores to help end her pregnancy. But the 17-year-old can't be prosecuted because of her legal right to abortion."

I am against abortion, but I find it hard to see the REAL difference in terms of the law between the boyfriend and Planned Parenthood. At worst, he should have been charged with assault."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/08/1356239.shtml

Cult of Power

Matt · 8 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Martha Burk's book has garnered four 5-star reviews on Amazon.com so far. Look under "Product Details". Ugh!! I just bought the book used and plan to give it a proper review as soon as I finish it. For anyone here who feels so inclined to also add their two cents in the form of a proper review, I suggest buying the book used so as to not put any additional money into this feminazi's pocketbook or raise her Amazon.com number-sold rating. Here are two possibilities: Half.com and Amazon.com. Your local public library is also always a possibility. If you do review the book, please keep it calm, reasoned, and factual so others don't quickly write you off as a wacko from the other side.

By the way, I just purchased Tom Ellis' book, "Rantings of a Single Male" and started reading and really enjoying it last night. Got Warren Farrell's latest book, "Why Men Earn More" along with it and it looks really top notch, including important information to anyone looking to start or change their career and not quite sure where the money is."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/08/1358258.shtml

RADAR Alert: North Carolina Program Shortchanges Abusive Women

Matt · 8 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The Winston-Salem Journal recently reported on a domestic violence mentoring program for boys. If it's a good thing to teach boys that violence against women is unacceptable, one would think it should also be a good thing to teach girls that violence against men is unacceptable. Surely something is needed to counter the images Hollywood bombards us with showing women self-righteously hitting men, sometimes for a slight insult, sometimes for no reason at all.

Click "Read more..." for more.

North Carolina Program Shortchanges Abusive Women
The Winston-Salem Journal story tells us the city of Winston-Salem, N.C., Wachovia Corp., and Sara Lee Corp. all think that only boys need to be taught this lesson. Yet it's certainly a lesson that both sexes need to learn. The U.S. Dept. of Justice reports that 36% of those physically assaulted by an intimate partner are men. Clearly the women who physically attack these men were never taught that violence against men is unacceptable.

Girls who learn to think of violence as "empowering" never learn to control their anger, and when they grow up it's not just their husbands and boyfriends who pay the price. Their children suffer as well. The fact that we don't think girls need to learn to control their anger helps explain the fact that mothers are more than twice as likely as fathers to be sole perpetrators of child abuse, according to the U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services.

If Wachovia and Sara Lee were truly public-spirited corporations, they would arrange to have mentors teaching girls as well as boys to keep their inclination toward violence under control.

The Winston-Salem Journal chose to applaud this one-sided program as something that "targets men in a positive way". They could have instead helped open people's eyes by pointing out the bias inherent in the programs, and suggested that Wachovia, Sara Lee, and the city of Winston-Salem should stop shortchanging girls with abusive tendencies.

Since they were too blind to see the bias, we're asking you to write the Winston-Salem Journal, and help open their eyes. Tell them:

1. Girls need to be taught that violence is unacceptable every bit as much as boys need to be taught that lesson.
2. The U.S. Dept. of Justice reports (.pdf file) that 36% of physical assaults on intimate partners are perpetrated by wives or girlfriends.
3. The U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services reports that "40.8 percent of child victims were maltreated by their mothers acting alone" whereas only "18.8 percent were maltreated by their fathers acting alone"

Here’s the contact information:

Letters to the Editor:

U.S. Mail:

Winston-Salem Journal

P.O. Box 3159

Winston-Salem, NC 27102

letters-at-wsjournal.com

Author of the story:

Patrick Wilson

336-727-7286

pwilson-at-wsjournal.com

Executive Editor:

Carl Crothers

336-727-7277

ccrothers-at-wsjournal.com

Managing Editor:

Jim Laughrun

336-727-7287

jlaughrun-at-wsjournal.com

State/National Editor:

Scott Sexton

336-727-7304

ssexton-at-wsjournal.com

When you write, be sure to include your name, address, and daytime telephone number.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

For more information on the RADAR project, see http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/08/1411224.shtml

Woman Jailed For 12 Months For False Rape Claim

Matt · 9 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Luek writes "From misandric Britain of all places!

A wife and mother who reported being raped by two men to coverup her one night stand was sentenced to a year in prison.

Very encouraging since it did happen in Britain. Usually, the drill there is to order probation and mental counseling."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/09/0331221.shtml

How Can We Coach Little Girls Into Women...

Matt · 9 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes "HOW CAN WE COACH LITTLE GIRLS INTO WOMEN WHO AREN'T MALE VILIFYING ABUSERS?

I was walking through the park today on my way to pick up my car from the mechanic. It's about a mile, and the mechanic is in a rather "industrial" part of town so I dressed in blue jeans and a denim shirt so I would be less likely to get mugged. I walked by the new gymnasium the City of Los Angeles is building and noticed that somebody had torched the place, since the last time I was in the park about a week ago. As I got to the jogging track I noticed hundreds of elementary school kids playing soccer on the big field, while their parents looked on. One Mom gave me a rather disapproving glance as I walked by. I guess I wasn't properly attired to be walking on the jogging track in her book, or maybe she's just learned from the gender feminist influence in our society to look at all men as potential rapists and child molesters."

Click "Read more..." for the rest."I walked on and saw three Dads leaning against a tree watching over their kids, and a second later I just busted out laughing. No, the Dads or kids hadn't done anything funny. I was just thinking about that Family Violence Prevention Fund's mentoring program where men are encouraged to Coach Boys into Men. It sounds like a really good program initially, until we see that women are doing nothing to coach little girls in women who don't batter men.

Here are a few select quotes from the http://endabuse.org/cbim/ web site:

"Boys need your advice on how to behave toward girls. Boys are watching how you and other men relate to women to figure out their own stance towards girls. So teach boys early, and teach them often, that there is no place for violence in a relationship."

"A kid will never approach you and ask for guidance on how to treat women. But that doesn't mean he doesn't need it."

"Hear what he has to say. Listen to how he and his friends talk about girls. Ask him if he's ever seen abusive behavior in his friends."

"Let him know how you define a healthy relationship and always treat women and girls in a way that your son can admire."

"Show him how important the issue of violence against women and children is to you."

The thought that had run through my head that caused me to erupt in spontaneous hilarity was, "How can we coach little girls into women who aren't male vilifying, gender feminist abusers?" "Now that," I said to myself, "is a real $64,000.00 question."

Yes, there certainly is a need for that, but unfortunately there aren't any Men's Studies programs on college campuses to alert people to the need to fix that and other perceived problems with females, and there are almost no Men's Commissions (1) to lobby for money to help men who have been hurt by misandrist, gender feminist movements plaguing our society, and there aren't any taxpayer subsidized programs run by males to encourage women to mentor little girls into women who don't vilify, abuse, batter, exploit, or defraud males.

A couple of blocks later I walked by an elementary school, and was tempted to look at the little kids playing in the school yard, but kept my eyes looking straight ahead. After-all, I wouldn't want to be mistaken for a potential child molester. Sadly, I recalled a time in my life when a man could enjoy watching little kids play without that worry; a time before gender feminism had so poisoned society to look at all men as "criminals waiting to happen."

Yes, we certainly need to raise the next generation of girls not to be gender feminists. Perhaps, after we get the Violence Against Men Act passed, and get mentoring programs started for girls, we can even have some bumper stickers made up that say, "There's No Excuse for Vilifying Males." It's gong to be quite a challenge to get girls to consider other opinions besides the gender feminist viewpoint once they get into college and start getting indoctrinated in tax-payer funded women's studies classes. It's just so much easier for those "females" to state their opinions as fact without having truth interfere with perceptions, and it's just so much easier to get together with a group of other "females" and present the consensus of the group as a scholarly researched study, than it is to do the real research and fact finding.

Women need to help "girls" do the hard work of scholarly research, and fact finding if we are ever going to put an end to the abusive way gender feminists treat males. If girls and boys, and men and women are ever to have equitable relations in our society, certainly gender feminists must begin to be honest about all forms of violence and the role(s) that females as well as males play in it. As a man, who was once put on crutches by the out of control raging violence of an abusive woman, I'm asking, "What can women do to stop female violence and abuse of males?" God help us if we do not break the cycle of gender feminist Ms-information that is fueling the epidemic of abuse all males are facing today.

(1) There is one Men's Commission currently operating in New Hampshire."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/09/0336255.shtml

Zero-sum Gender War: Sweden's Feminist Initiative

Matt · 9 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The two-month old Feminist Initiative (F.I., a new political party in Sweden), has published its "manifesto," which proclaims - "gender politics have hitherto been based on a view of equality as a non-zero sum game, meaning that women's conditions can improve without affecting those of men. F.I. builds its politics upon an analysis, which makes it clear that women's subordination results from the privileging of men. Therefore, men must agree to relinquish their privileges... F.I formulates a politics, which in every area and aspect of life poses a challenge to patriarchy. We anticipate a large degree of resistance, but expect an even larger and stronger feminist desire for change."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/09/0338241.shtml

More scary civil liberty violations at hand in MA

Matt · 9 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "This is very important information to understand. Restraining orders which are handled out in MA in almost every divorce case in MA, makes the "victim" of "abuse" (read woman) eligible for police protection, police transportation, free social services, simplified filing forms, free and unlimited access to the courts, immunity from perjury, a comprehensive recital and listing of her "rights" under Chapter 209A, the children from her relationship with the accused, and the property and salary of the accused, among other perks."

Click "Read more..." for more."Now a new statute intends to add the following: Women would be entitled to live wherever they want without any contractual obligations, by merely pointing a finger at a man.

Summary: Bill: HB3163 - Entitles victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, rape or stalking to terminate rental agreements on residential housing without penalty; regulates the termination of rental agreements by said victims; prohibits landlords from terminating a rental agreement, refusing to renew a rental agreement or refusing to enter into a rental agreement on the basis of status as a victim of domestic violence, rape, sexual assault or stalking; imposes civil penalties for said discrimination. There is one thing you must do to end this injustice now. Contact the members of the Mass Judiciary Committee - start with the cochairmen - and demand they support the Fatherhood Coalition restraining order reform legislation.

THERE IS NO OTHER DIRECT WAY TO START FIXING THIS PROBLEM THIS YEAR."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/09/0346202.shtml

UK Protest Alert: London Tesco Supermarket: June 10 2005, 10:00 AM

Matt · 9 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

MANN administrators received the following:

Dear men and women,

Tesco, the UK's largest supermarket, has chosen to deploy male-bashing imagery on the cover of its (free) Tesco Magazine May/June, 2005 edition; A woman is pushing a man backwards off a pier in an act of unprovoked relational and physical aggression. The female model is smiling in a righteous manner, whilst the male model is smiling in an embarrassed, face-saving manner.

To see the cover of the magazine, click here.

click "Read more..." for more.
Tesco magazine is full of adverts for junk food and diets. Carte D'or icecream is advertised on one page; a company which has previously used male-bashing in a long-running tv ad campaign. On another page, an advert for 'W.I.T.C.H. Magazine' features, targeting young girls - enough said!

Tesco has chosen, on balance, to dismiss my complaint out of hand, which leaves me with only one other option...

... to strategically picket a Tesco store where an alternative competitor's store lies within close walking distance!
So, even my one-person-picket will inflict serious damage on Tesco's takings for the day(s)!!!

My placard will read... TESCO ATTACKS MEN -TO MARKET JUNK FOOD AND DIETS, TO WOMEN -PLEASE SHOP ELSEWHERE; and on the other side... PICKET TESCO MARGINALS AND SEND A MESSAGE TO ALL MALE-BASHING ADVERTISERS- ask me how!

I will politely ask pedestrians to consider shopping elsewhere AND ask them to sign my petition, calling for Tesco to withdraw the magazine and issue a sincere apology to them and ALL its customers.

I will not intimidate anyone, or cause a nuissance or an obstruction. I will inform the police of my plans, and ensure not to allow a crowd of more than 20 to gather, as further prior permission would then be required. If passers-by wish to join in, they are welcome. If it gets too crowded, I'll direct them to the other 'vulnerable' Tesco stores in the area.

Tesco say they have informed the police too, but as long as we stay within the law, no-one need be arrested.

I will carry out my initial action at the Tesco Express on Tottenham Court Road, Central London (just north of the Centrepoint building and just opposite a Sainsburys!) at 10 am on Friday 10th June, 2005. Please come along and bring placard materials with you- The weather forecast is good!

To get hold of the offending magazine, either go to one of the larger Tesco stores, or phone its publisher, who'll send you as many free copies as you like, though don't tell them its for a campaign of direct action against them! Phone: 0207 534 2400.

If any journos show up on the day(s), have a short and simple message ready for them, i.e. "Male-bashing advertising perpetuates cycles of aggression and violence"... OR "When a product resorts to a male-bashing advertising campaign, I can be certain better quality and value lies elsewhere"...
OR

"We won't let Tesco push ANYONE around" OR... "Britain needs a Minister for Men to tackle the media misandry epidemic."

There are more violent male-bashing images around than this one, but I target Tesco in order to send the warning to advertisers, that NO level of misandry will be left unchallenged.

If a few people tell a few more, this thing could really mushroom. Tell a friend!

Please, do not hesitate to contact me for any advise or encouragement you might need to get you started.

Tom Martin

0775 44 10 350

E-mail: tcmartin1-at-hotmail.com

P.S. Don't forget to take lots of digital stills on the day(s) to send to men's sites, newspapers and the like. Just because the next Tesco Magazine issue will be out at the beginning of July DOESN'T mean we can't continue protesting all summer long, as such an insidious campaign as Tesco's truly deserves to be made an example of. This IS the big one.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/09/2019230.shtml

VAWA 2005 Bill Introduced to Congress Yesterday

Matt · 9 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "A Press Release from Joseph Biden's (D-DE) office yesterday announces the bill to reauthorize and expand funding for the Violence Against Women Act. Obviously there is no mention in the bill about male victims of DV. In cleverly worded language, the bill seeks to increase funding while "saving money." Special goals include more anti-boy "education" in our schools, mandating DV "home visitations," making employers pay for female's leave-from-work due to alleged DV, requiring doctor's to interrogate patients about DV, and expanding the hysteria about the non-existent campus rape crisis. Link at http://biden.senate.gov/newsroom/details.cfm?id=23 8601&&

A section-by-section summary of the bill is at – http://biden.senate.gov/documents/VAWA_Sec_060605. pdf"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/09/200219.shtml

Men's Health Week Gets Major Media Attention

Matt · 10 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "National Men's Health Week got coverage from over 10 news sites around the globe. Here's one from Yahoo.

Senator Biden also introduced the VAWA yesterday without a SINGLE WORD on men. In fact, it is even more gender-specific (for women) than last time. I'm afraid that it's going to pass, nearly all of those kind of re-authorization bills passes. Senator Biden had the most complaints, posts, and protests about male DV victims too."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/10/1639259.shtml

Woman Brutally DVs Boyfriend - gets 30 days

Matt · 10 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

LSBeene writes "A woman who bit, scratched, punched, kicked, and then tried to maim her fiance by crushing his testicles got 30 days in jail. When the police arrived she was so violent that she tried to BLIND one of the police officers. In my opinion that's the ONLY reason she got the 30 days. The tone of the article is light hearted, has little depth, is vague in what she was charged with, and gives NO time to her victims point of view.

I wrote them a letter - maybe some of you could do the same. With VAWA looming it's stories like this that make our case that the language of this sexist bill needs to address women's brutality (with impunity) towards men. - Steven"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/10/1643213.shtml

They Start Young

Matt · 12 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rob writes "A 12 year old girl has appeared in court charged with attempting to hang a 5 year old boy. True to form, she blamed 5 other children for the crime who were put through the trauma of being detained and questioned. The feminists start them young now don't they? Read it here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/1546257.shtml

VAWA - Abusing Justice to Destroy Fathers

Matt · 12 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "After the tragic news that some of our elected buffons have again proposed to fund the hate war against men known as VAWA, this article is refreshing in its honesty for putting the truth about VAWA in clear persepective."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/1553207.shtml

Site Encourages Boys to Read!

Matt · 12 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Underage writes "Great news everyone. A man by the name of Jon Scieszka has made a site in honour of helping boys to read. On the site he lists a few reasons why boys fall behind in reading, and how you can help improve the issue. Very male-friendly from what I've noticed. Anyway, I think we should all be happy about this because this is great news, so take a look at Jon's site right here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/1554238.shtml

A Long Days Journey into Hopelessness

Matt · 12 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray Blumhorst writes *"A Long Days Journey into Hopelessness
(Happy Disenfranchised Father's Day)

"I heard the news again today," and men are still maligned in every blurb. Even in the stories coming from people sympathetic to the plights and rights of men, the depressing details of male realities leaves one with a sinking feeling in his soul. If you read the propaganda from the gender feminists and their toady politicians, and newscasters, the pain in your stomach leaves you curled up in a knot. It's fashionable to batter men, then ignore the whole lot."

Click "Read more..." for the rest.

"Kind-hearted Schlafley laments the war on Dads here , while Biden (D), Hatch (R) and Specter (R) fuel "man-hating" by introducing VAWA with nary a mention of males as victims, here . Davis wants to know why the truth can't be found at the National Domestic Violence Hotline, but you can be sure no one there will answer his call, here . "Where is the major media, where are the people's representatives," he asks too, but you can bet they won't be talking, since harming men fills their pockets full.

The culture of violent death takes many a turn from Hollywood to Baghdad and all points in between. You hear about the women, the girls, the daughters, the Moms, but when you count the number of bodies it is the males who are three times the victims of violent death, yet get only blips, or short lines, or just plain no time at all. It just doesn't sell to give caring time to males. It's not in the public interest to show care and compassion to one of those burly things. In pictures and print, in news, and movies the monsters, the thugs, the heartless, the cruel are all cast as men, and when victims are shown, the humanity revealed shows not a damned man in site appearing on your screen.

It just doesn't sell. We've said that before. If you'd heard us the first time, you'd learn not to care. We're trying to educate you in schools and in colleges. If you'd listen in Women's Studies, Sociology, Polly Sci., and all those, you'd already have the new gender feminist world view. Men don't matter. It's as simple as that. Men have no feelings and their disposable too. Men cause all violence, spread oppression and doom, and if you'd just believe the propaganda, you'd cast them as demons and persecute the masculine brutes.

So what's your problem? Is your mind just not right? Do you expect to find hope in traditional male roles? Are you a Father, a man, a boy or a guy? Do you expect to have rights and protections, or justice under law? Are you tired? Are you weary? Are you battered and bruised? Are you lonely, depressed, dejected and blue? Are you sick? Are you lame? Are you hurt through and through? Well that's just too bad, if you're a male, and I'll bet you knew.

Most males came into this world comforted and loved, but sooner and sooner that ends as our lives grow worn. It started out promising, hopeful, and new, but then came the "Patriarch label" from the "prophetesses of doom."

The road grows harder as the days go on, and for males born of women the pain approaches closer to the second they're born. It isn't all hell at this moment we speak, but just a little longer and you'll hear Lucifera calling, and from the gates of hell, she'll beckon the new. At the second their born she'll welcome all males. It won't be long now, when men enter this world, they'll hear hell's welcome, "Abandon hope, all ye who enter here." (1) This world's evil is calling to your sons, your baby boys, all those children marked for the gender feminists' witches brew. Politicians like Biden stir the pot, ask for billions for VAWA, and call out, "More meat! Enjoy your stew!"

(1) Dante's Inferno"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/164213.shtml

Elder Abuse in India by Daughters-in-law

Matt · 12 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes:"Mistreatment and Harassment of Elders (Elder Abuse) in India

by Sumanth

Elder abuse, the mistreatment and torture of of older people, though a manifestation of the timeless phenomenon of inter-personal violence is prevalent in India. Still, there is no systematic collection of statistics or prevalence studies, crime records, journalistic reports, social welfare records and small scale studies to provide evidence on existence of abuse, neglect and financial exploitation of elders.

This is an extremely sorry state of affairs. We all will grow old sooner or later. Imagine, being mistreated, verbally abused, denied proper food, proper mediaction and care by younger members of family. Older people are indeed in a very helpless situation with eroding social values system in India. We all must have come across at least one or two cases of elder abuse or mistreatment in our neighbourhood."

Click here for the rest of the article.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/1610239.shtml

Join National Effort To Eliminate Alimony in US

Matt · 13 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "If you are divorced and paying alimony please visit http://www.endalimonynow.org/ and sign up. There is a national effort underway to challange the constitutionality of alimony which subjects men to involuntary servitude which is outlawed by the 13th Amendment to the US Constitution. This subject has never been reviewed by or ruled on by the Supreme Court, and the goal of this group is to get this issue before the court for a ruling, so that men can get their lives back."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/2314201.shtml

Murder Your Son and then Say "Oh Well"

Matt · 13 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Miletus Prime writes "This story was posted on the yahoo home page under the "In the News" section. The title was "Mother Explains Fatal Pit Bull Mauling". Notice the reporter simply accepts what the Mother says as the "Explantion" Imagine what would happen if a father locked his 12 year daughter in the basement with a hostile male pit bull and a female pit bull in heat. Imagine that the father then propped the door shut with a shovel. Imagine that the father left the house to run some errands. The mother simply writes off the incident by saying that it was just her son's time to go. The reprter apparently buys it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/2315251.shtml

Manhaters.com

Matt · 13 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Champion75 writes "I am a new member. Here's an unabashed male-bashing web site I've come across. Also of interest is a list of sponsors, including match.com and lavalife.com. That these seemingly mainstream websites would even associate with such a blatantly sexist domain is beyond disgusting. It just shows you how little regard there is for true equality these days. Nevertheless, I encourage all of you to put these negligent sponsors on notice (I already have) that we will not give business to any company that condones and supports prejudiced web sites such as manhaters.com."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/12/2322231.shtml

"Disruptive" Toddlers to be Treated as Potential Criminals

Matt · 13 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "If the government report in this news story is concerned about targeting preschoolers who grow up to be bullies, does that mean the children of gender feminists will be 1st in line for remedial correction?

Excerpt:

'CHILDREN as young as three are to be singled out by nursery staff if they display aggressive behaviour or have a family background of criminality, according to a government report.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/13/1830208.shtml

New Child Support Rules - Australia

Matt · 13 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "It looks like Australia is changing their child support rules to prevent women from coming back for more every time the ex-husband's income rises."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/13/1833215.shtml

RADAR Release: VAWA 2005: Time of Decision

Matt · 14 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This past Thursday Sen. Joe Biden (D-DE) introduced the Violence Against Women Act of 2005 in the Senate. A similar bill is expected to be introduced in the House of Representatives in the next few days.

The proposed law, known as VAWA 2005, ignores the hundreds of thousands of men who are victims of domestic violence. This ideologically-loaded bill proposes to expand the previous VAWA legislation by taking the male = batterer, female = victim message and carrying it to children and youth, American Indians, and college students around the country. By our calculations, the bill carries a taxpayer price tag of $842 million a year.

Click "Read more..." for more.

VAWA 2005: Time of Decision
Since its formation in January 2005, RADAR has made enormous strides in reducing media bias about domestic violence. But if passed in its current form, VAWA 2005 will spawn countless media stories that push the old domestic violence myths.

Worse, VAWA-induced hysteria will be used to thwart proposed fathers rights legislation. And the continued perception of an “epidemic” of domestic violence may well lead to new laws that discriminate against men and fathers.

At this point, Americans face two choices:

1. Simply allow the proposed VAWA law to pass as proposed, OR

2. Become actively involved in the legislative process.

If you are in the second category, please read on.

During the upcoming weeks and months, VAWA 2005 will undergo a number of steps in both the Senate and House of Representatives:

1. Crime Sub-committee

2. Judiciary Committee

3. Vote by the full Senate and House

4. Conference committee to reconcile differences between the Senate and House versions of the bill.

5. Confirmatory vote by both the Senate and House

6. Approval or veto by President Bush

Each of these steps presents an opportunity to influence the direction of VAWA 2005. However, it is usually easier to influence legislation in the early stages of the process.

At this time, it is imperative that every person concerned about gender fairness to decide on your position:

A. VAWA should be defeated, OR

B. VAWA be modified so male victims of DV can receive services.

To help people make this decision, RADAR has posted several articles on its website at www.mediaradar.org, including the following:

1. Promotional piece by VAWA advocates (2 pages):

http://www.mediaradar.org/vawa_info/Two-pagerVAWA6.6.05.doc

2. VAWA factual summary (14 pages):

http://www.mediaradar.org/vawa_info/VAWA Sec 6.6.05.doc

3. VAWA bill (266 pages):

http://www.mediaradar.org/vawa_info/JEN05634_LC.PDF

Also, Phyllis Schlafly's recent article, What Have Feminists Done to America's Fathers? makes some provocative comments.

Next week's Alert will ask you to contact their Senators and express their views on VAWA. If you have not already signed up to receive the RADAR e-lerts, visit our website at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

VAWA is such a far-reaching law that if passed, every American will be affected by its programs. So now, for every one of us, it's a Time of Decision.

++

Date of RADAR Release: June 13, 2005

Join other men's and father's rights activists at the Second National Men's Equality Congress, July 15-16 in Washington DC. The first day of the Congress, July 15, will be devoted to lobbying activities on Capitol Hill. RADAR representatives will be there to orient attendees to the current status of VAWA.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/14/1422223.shtml

Runaway Bride Follow Up

Matt · 16 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "We've all probably seen the follow up to the Runaway Bride story, but just in case you haven't here it is.
Just as expected, she and her idiot fiancé will profit from all of this."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/16/1745253.shtml

Boys Used as Human Sacrifice by Recent Immigrants in UK

Matt · 16 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This story is utterly chilling. Some excerpts:

'"Members of the workshop said for spells to be powerful it required a sacrifice of a male child unblemished by circumcision," the report said.

'Contributors said boys were being trafficked into the UK for this purpose, but did not give details because they said they feared they would be "dead meat" if they told any more.'

Girls are not left out, either, it seems:

"There were also claims that youngsters were being smuggled into the UK as domestic slaves and for men with HIV who believed if they had sex with a child they would be cleansed."

"It [ie, this story] follows the case of a girl tortured by her guardians for being a witch."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/16/1752219.shtml

"Don and Mike" Discuss Father's Day

Matt · 16 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

It was refreshing to hear Don and Mike ("The Don and Mike Show" is a popular, syndicated afternoon talk show that airs in the major metropolitan areas in the US, including DC) today on the radio discuss how Mother's Day is a national holiday while Father's Day is considered at best a Hallmark occasion. They took some callers and took a few of them on, too. I hope some of you had a chance to hear it yourselves.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/16/2055206.shtml

Jeb Bush Renews Man-hunt on Schiavo's Husband

Matt · 17 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Do you think maybe Jeb's already courting the feminazi vote for his anticipated 2008 Presidential bid?

From the Miami Herald today --

"One day after an exhaustive autopsy sought to end much of the controversy over Terri Schiavo's life, and eventual death, Gov. Jeb Bush said he plans to ask prosecutors to investigate whether her husband took too long to call for help on the night she collapsed in 1990.
A lawyer for Michael Schiavo called the governor's comments "disgusting" and said there was no delay in the husband's call for help."

Full article
here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/17/1957200.shtml

No Real Men in France?

Thomas · 17 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kathleen Parker has offered this commentary on recent news items about French men.

First, I'd like to say that, in part because I've visited France about a dozen times, I know a number of French men who are as heteronormative (Like that word? I couldn't resist.) as any American man. Her article, though, does carry some insight and a forecast regarding those dark clouds on the horizon. The following contains a few excerpts and my own commentary. If this seems long, please pardon the rantings of a married male. (A tip o' the hat to Tom Ellis.)"The French finding of maternity envy was the result of a telephone survey of more than 500 fathers, 38 percent of whom said that, science permitting, they'd like to have carried their children through the nine-month gestation."

Looks like the feminized schools may be succeeding in deconstructing boys, at least in many cases.

"On the other hand, science is closing in on an artificial womb that may make gestation possible outside a woman's body. Although touted as a solution for women unable to bear children, such wombs conceivably could be made available to men who want babies without the messy complication of a female."

I suppose "messy complication of a female" means facing the threats of losing contact with your children, being forced (under penalty of imprisonment) to pay for children even if you never get to see them and even if you've proven that they aren't your offspring, being forced to pay alimony or (if one prefers) household support or maintenance to someone with whom you no longer have a relationship other than that of mistress and slave, enduring endless insinuations or outright declarations to the effect that you are fundamentally inferior, having little or no defense if you are violently attacked, being slammed with false accusations while knowing that if it's proven that the accusations were false the woman will face little or no punishment... I could go on and on, of course, but anyone with so much as a single gray cell already knows the list.

"Strapping on our Huxley hats, we easily visualize a brave new world in which women, no longer essential to procreation, are eliminated."

I doubt it. For one thing, most men will still want women around for sex. For another, I question whether men have it in them to hate women as much as feminists hate men and boys. I wonder if men have an instinctual inclination to protect themselves, women, and their children, while women have an instinctual inclination to protect themselves and their children, with little or no instinctual regard for men beyond a concern for how men can provide for women and their children. Nonetheless, a hurricane of rage is barreling down the tracks at society. (Yeah, it's a mixed metaphor. Hey. I'm ranting.)

"Men — rage-filled by their former roles as sperm donors and human ATMs — would have a newly leveled playing field."

Damn straight. She certainly sees the rage coming. But let's not forget men having their health concerns ignored by the majority (read "female") elected government, still facing the all-male draft, being systematically and relentlessly extirpated from the academy... Again, the list goes on and on.

"It can't be mere coincidence that his (Michael Jackson's) trial on charges of pedophilia — the ultimate expression of the narcissistic impulse — intersected with the birth of a postmodern man who's all boy."

And the arrival of the artificial womb may well intersect with the crash of advanced societies, especially European, due to deconstruction of males, extreme population collapse, and a host of other feminist blessings.

Hold onto your hats!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/17/2135239.shtml

DV in Fargo

Matt · 18 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tumescent writes "I guess this article is written to be funny, and I guess maybe it is to the extent that apparently this guy has a hard time staying awake, but its pretty typical to how the media reacts to a lot of women against men domestic violence. It's framed in a "man bites dog" context. Two puncture holes to the arm and scratches from previous attacks, but its nothing to worry about, "I assumed he went back to sleep, har...har...har...."'

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/18/186250.shtml

A Stunning Victory for RADAR?

Matt · 18 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Five months ago RADAR set out to do what some considered the impossible: to convince the mainstream media to report the domestic violence issue in a balanced and objective manner.

Beginning January 16, we started to issue weekly Alerts that targeted newspapers, radio, and television. We went after the big fish, like the New York Times, and some of the small fry, like the Everett (WA) Herald.

Click "Read more..." for more.

A Stunning Victory for RADAR?
Now, it looks like RADAR has succeeded. All across the nation, the nation's media outlets have substantially reduced their biased coverage of domestic violence. Even the Washington Post, long a source of DV-bias, has been silent, except for a single guest editorial on March 19.

In fact earlier this month, the Dr. Phil Show ran a story on DV, and gave a surprisingly balanced depiction of the issue.

So let's pause and reflect how all our phone calls, e-mails, and letters indeed have made a difference. To all those who responded to the RADAR Alerts these past several months, we say a hearty, "Thank you!"

Of course, now that the Violence Against Women Act has been re-introduced in the Congress, the media may go back to their old ways. We need to continue to monitor our local newspapers – and RADAR will respond when necessary.

But now we face a new challenge: a VAWA bill that callously ignores the hundreds of thousands of male victims of DV – a bill that, if passed in its current form – will continue to subsidize the stereotype of men as batterers and abusers.

Fortunately, a vigorous coalition of groups representing fathers, women, and others recently has formed. This coalition consists of some of the heavy-hitters in the DC political scene. This coalition will be working in the weeks ahead to educate lawmakers about the serious flaws of VAWA.

But this coalition will not be effective unless lawmakers know there is an overwhelming groundswell of discontent with VAWA.

THIS IS WHERE YOU COME IN.

Beginning this coming week, RADAR will be issuing a series of weekly Alerts. Each Alert will advise persons to the current legislative status of the VAWA legislation, and ask you to take action. We will be asking you to telephone, write, or personally meet with your elected officials.

Throughout the process, it is essential that you express your views in a reasonable, polite, and concise manner. A three-page rant is far less effective than a one-page letter that objectively explains why VAWA is wrong.

VAWA is the big kahuna of gender politics, and the financial and ideological stakes are high. Some persons say we face an impossible task – that's exactly what they said when we started RADAR. Yes, we face a well-financed opponent -- but truth and reason are on our side.

Let's roll.

++

Date of RADAR Release: June 18, 2005

Join other men's and father's rights activists at the Second National Men's Equality Congress, July 15-16 in Washington DC. The first day of the Congress, July 15, will be devoted to lobbying activities on Capitol Hill. RADAR representatives will be there to orient persons to the current status of VAWA.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/18/2121231.shtml

Happy Donor's Day

Matt · 19 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Can't wait to read comments on this one.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/19/171243.shtml

San Francisco Fire Chief Assaults Her Husband

Matt · 20 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

What will the excuse be this time, "job-related stress"? Read it here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/20/1748209.shtml

If most missing cases are men, why do we only hear about white women

Matt · 20 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Seattle PI:

Most of the missing adults tracked by the FBI are men. More than one-in-five of those abducted or kidnapped are black. But you might not get that impression from the news media, and some journalism watchdogs are now taking the industry to task for what they see as a disproportionate emphasis on cases in which white girls and women - overwhelmingly upper-middle class and attractive - disappear.

"To be blunt, blond white chicks who go missing get covered and poor, black, Hispanic or other people of color who go missing do not get covered," said Tom Rosenstiel, director of the Washington-based Project for Excellence in Journalism. "You're more likely to get coverage if you're attractive than if you're not."

-- In my opinion, this is one of the more obvious signs that feminism has pretty much been composed of white women only concerned about their pocketbook and their reproductive freedom -- if you happen to of color or worse, male, too bad, you're SOL."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/20/1750231.shtml

Kathleen Parker pulls the "I'm not a feminist, but..." routine

Matt · 20 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "I am giving you a link to Kathleen Parker's latest article not strictly because it's father's day, but because Kathleen is perpetuating a hateful stereotype about the nearest man, and is doing it in a indirect attract and repel way. She's done this before, as evidenced by this previous article I will try to explain below."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"I want you to observe how the first 8 paragraphs are full of praise for father's restraint, but then the ninth paragraph is this:

"Women are frankly better at defending themselves than men are, which may be a function of the fact that they were the underdogs for so many centuries. Under the heel of a boot, one learns to think creatively. Men are just beginning to feel the crunch of gravel pressing into their faces."

You see, according to her, we deserve it! Kathleen sows seeds of hatred by pulling the "I'm not a feminist, but..." and then states a feminist statement? If she's saying feminist things, then's she's a feminist! You, as a man don't notice these things, because the dose of misandrist poison comes from behind a facade of weakness, and is enough of a low dose to destroy over time, unlike feminists who use high doseages of manhating poison which would trigger something you could react to.

In fact, I would say conservative women and feminists are the "Good cop, bad cop" and both of them are working against you as a man, comprimising everything you are and do as a man. See here:

Good cop, bad cop

She also quotes the Gilder Fallacy of which I am posting a link to disprove her claims, and I am also reminded of Esther Vilar saying that men are praised for their qualities useful to women.

In short, don't trust conservative women any more than you would a feminist."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/20/1754226.shtml

Ottawa Men's Centre

Matt · 20 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ottawa Men's Centre writes "Ottawa Men's Centre
A dedicated support group whose primary goal is to stem the trend of suicide by fathers. We provide divorce resources, impartial attorney referrals and support for men or fathers who are victims of false allegations, parental alienation and or gender bias.

Email: info-at-OttawaMensCentre.com

Call 1-613-797-3237

http://www.OttawaMensCentre.com"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/20/181236.shtml

Fathers 4 Justice Spilt

Matt · 20 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Raymond Cuttill writes "Fathers 4 Justice have spilt. Sadly men's/father's organisations often do that. I suppose it's a forlorn hope that they can get together again. Partly it is to do with the agreement between F4J and CAFCASS, effectively a truce. CAFCASS, which is a court service that recommends child custody arrangements, has to improve in 3 months and F4J will not target them for protests. If nothing changes, then the protests begin again. Some have split over this new softer policy. The Real F4J press release is on Men's Hour Blog, and more about the cancelled protest and CAFCASS on F4J News"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/20/183202.shtml

Donnie Hauser-Richerme

Matt · 21 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

kavius writes "A follow up to an earlier story. The six year-old boy who saved a girl from drowning did die. Last posted, he was in critical condition."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/21/1655233.shtml

An update on the male birth control pill

Matt · 21 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Indiana Jones writes "I'm glad that it actually received formal, offical grant from NIH with a statement saying that the male part of the population has been ignored for too long. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/21/1659238.shtml

RADAR Alert: VAWA Must Not Discriminate Against Male Victims of Domestic Violence!

Matt · 21 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The Violence Against Women Act was re-introduced in the Senate and House last week. The number of the Senate bill is S. 1197, and the number of the House bill is H.R. 2876.

Since VAWA was first enacted in 1994, its discriminatory effects have kept innumerable victims of domestic violence from receiving help. Their offense – being male.

Click "Read more..." for more.

VAWA Must Not Discriminate Against Male Victims of Domestic Violence!
Unless we take action now, VAWA will continue to discriminate against male victims. Now is the time to tell our representatives in Congress that the gender-discrimination must stop!

This is the first of many RADAR Alerts that will ask you to speak out and express your concerns about VAWA.

This week, we're asking you to telephone the Washington office of your elected officials and deliver this very simple message: "VAWA must not discriminate against male victims of domestic violence."

This is what to do:

1. To find out the names of your two Senators, go to http://www.senate.gov/ and select your state.

To get the name of your Representative, go to http://www.house.gov/ and enter your ZIP code.

2. When you enter this information, you will get the names and telephone numbers of your elected officials. Or you can simply call the Capitol Switchboard at 202-224-3121 and the operator will connect you.

3. Call your two Senators. Call them NOW. When the receptionist answers your call, politely say:

"My name is [your name] and I am a constituent of Senator [xxx]. I am calling about the Violence Against Women Act, Senate bill S. 1197. I would like to request that you convey this message to Senator [xxx]: 'VAWA must not discriminate against male victims of domestic violence.'"

Then thank the receptionist.

4. Now do the same thing for your Representative, using this wording:

"My name is [your name] and I am a constituent of Representative [yyy]. I am calling about the Violence Against Women Act, House bill H.R. 2876. I would like to request that you convey this message to Representative yyy: 'VAWA must not discriminate against male victims of domestic violence.'"

The point of this week's Alert is to generate literally THOUSANDS of phone calls pouring into Congress. In fact, we strongly encourage you to call your elected officials every day this week.

Keep the information for this week's Alert handy for future reference. Because they're going to be hearing a lot from us in the weeks and months ahead.

++

Date of RADAR Release: June 20, 2005

Join other men's and fathers' rights activists at the Second National Men's Equality Congress, July 15-16 in Washington DC. (See http://www.trueequality.com/index2.php) The first day of the Congress, July 15, will be devoted to lobbying activities on Capitol Hill. RADAR representatives will be there to orient attendees to the current status of VAWA.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/21/178203.shtml

Father's Rights Activist shot by police in Seattle

Hombre · 22 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Yesterday, Father's Rights Activist and longtime participator in the Anti-Peonage movement Perry Manley was killed by police during an incident in which he brought an unusable hand grenade into the downtown Seattle federal courthouse. The hand grenade had been drilled out making it harmless, and Perry had his living will on him at the time he was killed. He also had some court papers on him at the time, but police have so far chosen not to tell us what they were. Story here.

Exactly what Perry had intended this protest to mean is unknown, although this article suggests that he was denied access to his children, had $14,000 in child support taken from him after his children were adults, and recently discovered that he was not allowed to attend his daughter's wedding. My condolences to Perry's friends and family.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/21/2231222.shtml

Breast cancer - not only a woman's problem

Matt · 22 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "Very sobering article. Something we need to consider:- Can Breast cancer affect men directly"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/22/1543204.shtml

Male Reproductive Rights on "The View" on Tuesday, June 28, 2005

Matt · 23 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kingsley G. Morse Jr. writes "The National Center for Men promptly found a guest for ABC's highly rated TV talk show named "The View".

It's a good opportunity to educate the public about improving the law by legalizing choice for men.

We're booked for next Tuesday, 6/28, live! Find out the time and channel for your area at:

http://abc.go.com/daytime/theview/whentowatch

Spread the word."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/23/2047237.shtml

Here We Go Again: Anguish Over Dead Female Soldier

Matt · 26 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Today's headline on msnbc.com reads ---

"4 women among 6 troops slain in Iraq bombing --- Lethal ambush underscores hardships of keeping women away from combat."

Gosh, by feminist math, that makes women the majority of the casualties, right? (Never mind that of the nearly 2,000 dead and 14,000 wounded, less than 1% have been women.)

But let's focus on the women's "hardships" even though N.O.W. wants the girlies on the front lines.

"BAGHDAD, Iraq - The lethal ambush of a convoy carrying female U.S. troops in Fallujah underscored the difficulties of keeping women away from the front lines in a war where such boundaries are far from clear-cut.
A suicide car bomber slammed into a 7-ton U.S. military vehicle in Fallujah, killing five Marines and a Navy sailor, Marine Corps sources told NBC News, adding that at least four of the dead were women.

Link at --

http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/8202434/"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/25/224217.shtml

Delegate Ron Grignol hopes to bring equal parenting to agenda

Matt · 26 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Support for Ron Grignol - Running for General Assembly - Delegate who will fight for father's and children's rights to both parents in Virginia.

I also want to suggest support for Ron Grignol, who is running for the House of Delegates in northern Virginia. Ron is a former submarine officer who heads Fathers for Virginia. Ron has a good chance to win in a seat where the Democratic incumbent has served only one term. Ron is the Republican candidate and is enthusiastically backed by the Republican leadership. Imagine what an open door we would have in Richmond if Ron wins in November!
Please send your much-needed contributions to Ron Grignol for Delegate, 5241 Bally Castle Circle, Alexandria, VA 22315, phone 703/868-0535.
It takes a lot to run a campaign, so please support Ron.
I live in Maryland, but Virginia developments are important to the entire regional development of pro child, two-parent family legislation.
I speak only as an individual, not as part of an organization, in urging support for Ron Grignol.
David L. Levy"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/25/223223.shtml

L.A. Times letters respond to article on special treatment for female prisoners

Matt · 27 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc A. writes "Last week the L.A. Times printed another biased article about the new movement to create special visitation and counseling privileges only for female prisoners. The article quoted no opposition and never even suggested sex discrimination. Today they printed five letters in response. The first two are supportive of the discrimination. The other three object to it, two of which are from NCFM members and one mentions NCFM in the bio. The first page only gives gives the first 3 letters, so you'll need to hit "next page." And the link will probably break soon."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/27/0215252.shtml

RADAR Alert: VAWA4All Coalition Needs to Hear from You

Matt · 27 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The first Violence Against Women Act was signed into law by President Clinton in 1994. Since then it has mushroomed into law that not only turns a cold shoulder to male DV victims, but also promotes malicious stereotypes about men as abusers and batterers.

The current VAWA law expires on September 30, and renewal legislation was recently introduced. Please make note of these bill numbers, and be sure to refer to them in all communications with your elected officials:

-- Senate bill: S. 1197

-- House of Representatives bill: H.R. 2876

A powerful lobbying coalition has now been assembled to make VAWA male-inclusive. But in the final analysis, our elected officials are looking for votes -- and that's where you come in.

Click "Read more..." for more.

VAWA4All Coalition Needs to Hear from You
Last week we asked you to telephone your two Senators and one Representative and deliver this message: "VAWA must not discriminate against male victims of domestic violence." (If you did not get around to doing this, do it now. Call the Capitol Switchboard at 202-224-3121 and the operator will connect you to your elected official's office.)

GAME PLAN FOR THIS WEEK:

1. Call the office of your Senators and Representative.

2. Ask the receptionist to give you their fax number and mailing address. Keep this information in a safe place – we will be using it many times during the course of our VAWA4All campaign.

3. Write a short letter to your elected official. The letter should include this key phrase: "VAWA must not discriminate against male victims of domestic violence." A one- or two-paragraph letter works best.

4. FAX your letter to the number you obtained in Step 2. And then mail your letter.

That's it for this week! And stay tuned – next week RADAR will be announcing our VAWA Shock and Awe Campaign!

Remember, always be COURTEOUS and REASONABLE in your communications. A letter or phone call that sounds angry just reinforces the negative stereotypes.

"Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has." – Margaret Mead

++

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number.

Come to Washington DC on July 15 and join the national effort to lobby your elected officials about VAWA. See http://www.trueequality.com/index2.php for more details.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

Date of RADAR Release: June 26, 2005

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/27/0223241.shtml

One-Man Show about Men in Chapel Hill

Matt · 27 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Bryan Cohen writes "A Guy's Tale shows the mind of a 22-year old male as he goes through a long-term dating relationship. It probes into how a guy thinks when meeting a girl, what he loves about her, what sex means to him, and how much it hurts when she breaks up with him. The protagonist, Mike, dispels myths about what a man should be, discussing how a true man should treat women and how he should be treated in return."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/27/0218218.shtml

The Other Side of Polygamy

Matt · 27 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "Up to 1,000 teenage boys have been separated from their parents and thrown out of their communities by a polygamous sect to make more young women available for older men, Utah officials claim.

Many of these "Lost Boys", some as young as 13, have simply been dumped on the side of the road in Arizona and Utah, by the leaders of the Fundamentalist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (FLDS), and told they will never see their families again or go to heaven."

We only ever hear about the effects of polygamy on women. This is the other side of the coin. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/27/1648237.shtml

Sheriff's Website Refutes Feminist DV Myths

Matt · 29 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc A. writes "The Sheriff of San Bernardino County in California has refuted some feminist myths about domestic violence on its website. They refute the 95% myth, the "female violence isn't serious" myth, and the self defense myth. Of course, there's much more they could cite, and refute, and unfortunately they then go on to use gender-exclusive language about things that are true about both sexes (thereby spreading other falsehoods). But this is still a good sign, and I'd say quite surprising for California. There is no doubt that the work of MRAs in stirring things up have helped prompt this kind of thing. We look forward to it increasing."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/29/213232.shtml

Tucker Carlson: Violence against women worse than

Matt · 29 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Tucker Carlson, host of MSNBC's "The Situation" had a discussion with a female Navy captain on the issue of women in combat. Suffice it to say that Carlson flatly states that violence against men and violence against women are different.

The transcript is here (but you will have to scroll down quite a bit for the topic)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/29/215256.shtml

Women strip to scare guards into letting their husbands go

Matt · 29 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "This story on News.com.au explains how guards in a certain part of India are being forced into letting timber thieves go - because the women with them begin to strip and call for help. Scared of 'trouble with the police', the guards are forced to let the thieves go. What does that say about the gender inequalities existant in the Indian legal system today..?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/29/216247.shtml

Online Petition to Joseph Biden to Fix VAWA

Matt · 29 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Stanley B. Gaver writes "I've always been skeptical about the effectiveness of online petitions. However, after writing a pointed letter to Senator Joseph Biden about VAWA, I didn't feel that it was sufficient only to write a letter that would likely be ignored by Biden anyway.

VAWA is such an incredibly biased and bigoted law, I think that it's time to turn up the heat on "VAWA Joe", using any legitimate avenue available. I have created a petition on PetitionOnline that summarizes why VAWA is such a bad law and requests Biden to make it gender neutral."

Click "Read more..." for more.
I think the petition makes a pretty strong case. Please take a moment and sign it. Once complete, I will deliver it to Biden's office.

To: Senator Joseph Biden

Dear Senator Biden,

Please reconsider your well-meaning but misguided support for the Violence Against Women Act. This law does not promote justice; it promotes hatred of men, and discriminates against men. Please make VAWA gender neutral.

The Violence Against Women Act is the most blatantly discriminatory law passed by the United States Congress in more than a century. The law is based, not on fact, but on gender prejudice, and it denies much-needed services to an entire class of American citizens, based only on their sex – because they are men!

Far from being a fair and just law, VAWA spreads hate and anti-male bigotry by promoting a provably false and one-sided gender stereotype of “violent men hurting innocent women”. The law advances a misleading, sugar-and-spice depiction of domestic violence that denies the female role in intimate violence and completely ignores half of domestic violence victims – because they are male!

VAWA is undeniably discriminatory. Even its name attests to this fact.

VAWA is provably a lie. There are hundreds of legitimate studies, many sponsored by the federal government, that conclusively show that the majority of domestic violence is perpetuated, not by men, but by women!

Don’t believe it? Before you hold your hearings to extend VAWA, you may wish to take time to read the National Family Violence Surveys of 1975 and 1985. These two federally-sponsored studies were the first to conclusively reveal the predominant female role in domestic violence. These pioneering studies have been validated over the past 30 years by hundreds of other studies that have all arrived at the same counter-intuitive, but undeniable conclusion:

Women are at least as violent as men in intimate relationships.

You might want to do some reading. A suggestion: “When She Was Bad – Violent Women and the Myth of Innocence”, written by Patricia Pearson, a self-described feminist. A single paragraph from this book perfectly summarizes the truth that The National Organization of Women and other gender extremists wish to keep hidden from you:

“Women commit the majority of child homicides in the United States, a greater share of physical child abuse, an equal rate of sibling violence and assaults on the elderly, about a quarter of child sexual abuse, an overwhelming share of the killings of newborns, and a fair preponderance of spousal assaults.”

Any hearings that you sponsor to contemplate extending the Violence Against Women Act that fail to include the results of these many scientific studies or that refuse to consider the many male victims of female violence cannot possibly be fair or just.

Senator Biden, with all due respect, the facts simply are not on your side.

History will ultimately show that, with your active support and assistance, the United States Congress, in passing the Violence Against Women Act, enshrined into American law an Act that shares the same ideological parents as the Nuremberg Laws of Nazi Germany: hate and prejudice.

This law is not worthy of a nation that needs to present itself to the rest of the world as a “fair and just democracy”.

Please reconsider your ill-advised, discriminatory support for the Violence Against Women Act. Please make this law fair and just. Please show us that your male constituents deserve equal protection under the law.

Please make the Violence Against Women Act gender neutral.

Sincerely,

The Undersigned"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/29/2110230.shtml

Did Phil Hartman Die from Congressionally-Sanctioned Discrimination?

Matt · 30 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "This author asks the question, Did Phil Hartman Die from Congressionally-Sanctioned Discrimination? Mark Rosenthal, the author, then states:

"Senator Joseph Biden recently introduced the 2005 VAWA reauthorization bill. When challenged to make the bill gender inclusive, Biden responded, "Nothing in the act denies services, programs, funding or assistance to male victims of violence."

"If these services are so readily available to men abused by their wives, why didn't Phil seek help from one of the numerous battered women's shelters around Los Angeles? Could it be that being "eligible to apply for services" is quite a different thing from being able to receive services when you need them?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/30/1553248.shtml

MSN Bucks Its Own Trend In Discussing Infidelity

Matt · 30 June 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Well it's not quite the whole truth, but for MSN, it's a start anyway. This article discusses infidelity and its causes, openly acknowledging (gasp!) that yes indeed, women have affairs, too, and for diverse reasons.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/06/30/1556229.shtml

Mother Jones' Biased Article on Domestic Violence

Matt · 1 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc A. writes "Mother Jones Magazine just did a totally biased article on domestic violence. It ignored male victims altogether and talked about VAWA and the lack of services for "battered women" only. It didn't even give the token recognition that we're starting to see occasionally.

Years ago they did an article titled "Hitting the Wall" about how researchers are repeatedly finding that women initiate DV as often as men do. It looks like they "forgot" that article.

You send a letter for publishing at backtalk-at-motherjones.com.

Marc A."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/01/1844254.shtml

'Glass Elevator' in UK Health care sector

Matt · 1 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "You've heard of the 'glass ceiling' - now here comes the 'glass elevator'. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/01/1845236.shtml

He grabbed girl's arm -- now he's a sex offender

Matt · 1 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Fitzroy Barnaby said he had to swerve to avoid hitting the 14-year-old Des Plaines girl who walked in front of his car."

Click "Read more..." for more."She said he yelled, "Come here, little girl," before getting out of his car and grabbing her by the arm.

He said he simply lectured her.

She said she broke free and ran, fearful of what he'd do next.

In a Thursday ruling, the Appellate Court of Illinois said the 28-year-old Evanston man must register as a sex offender."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/01/1853250.shtml

Article: "I lost my job because I was a man playing with children"

Matt · 2 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

cnewbyuk writes "An article that highlights why is probably not a good idea for men to work with children.

I lost my job because I was a man playing with children

I wonder how long it will be before fathers are given rules on how to act around their children."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/02/1542224.shtml

Woman Charged With Falsely Accusing 6 Men Of Rape

Matt · 2 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From MSNBC:

A 29-year-old Orange County woman has been charged with falsely accusing six men of kidnapping her at gunpoint and raping her.

An indictment returned by an Orange County grand jury also accuses Tamara Anne Moonier with fraudulently receiving more than $1,800 from a state emergency fund for crime victims. Authorities said Moonier went to the Fullerton Police Department on June 6 to report that she had been abducted outside a bar at gunpoint, taken to an unknown location and raped. Police said one of the men Moonier had accused provided a tape showing she had orchestrated the sexual encounter."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/02/1548231.shtml

Man Arrested At His Own Wedding for Restraining Order "Violation"

Matt · 2 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Again, truth being much stranger than fiction, stories like this one dwarf any fiction ever written.

Would that that were not the case.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/02/2042228.shtml

Second National Men's Equality Congress Only Thirteen Days Away!

Matt · 2 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Come one, come all! This year's Congress promises to rival last year's in progress for the cause of men's/father's rights as well as just plain being a whole lotta fun. Visit the web site where you will find details here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/02/2048228.shtml

Correction to Previous Announcement Regarding Men's Equality Congress

Matt · 3 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Sorry, folks, I don't know WHAT I was thinking when I made the previous post's headline on MANN out as the Men's Equality Congress being only 6 days away. I have corrected it to reflect reality. I would claim this as a senior moment but alas I am just not old enough yet to get away with it. :) Hope y'all can forgive my mistake.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/03/1616247.shtml

No Statutory Rape in England?

Matt · 3 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Here's a story about a sexual threesome between two female teachers and a 16 year old student but no charges being filed because the student didn't complain! Does England have a minimum age for a minor to legally give consent to have sex?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/03/1617236.shtml

Bias in the press?

Matt · 3 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "I followed a link to the UK newspaper the Guardian, and noticed that the story was within a folder called 'gender'. On editing the link I found an index page listing numerous recent gender-based stories. Quite interesting, but if you skip down the list it seems very one-sided - I'd say 10 headline 'poor women' stories for every small 'gee men may have it a bit rough too' story. Or maybe it's just me..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/03/1618239.shtml

New contraception for men

Matt · 3 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Practical Feminist writes "There is a way that a man can choose not to have kids.
Keep your dick in your pants!!!!

After conception, the child is part of the woman's body and that is why only the woman can choose what to do.

You guys are a bunch of pathetic morons."

Ed note: I am publishing this submission so that the submitter can be responded to with the appropriate arguments. Go ahead, gang.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/03/1620238.shtml

RADAR Alert: Joseph Biden Wants to Stack the VAWA Hearing; We Say, "No Way Jose!

Matt · 5 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On July 19th, the Senate Judiciary Committee will hold hearings on reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act. And right now, Senator Biden only wants to invite persons who will sing the praises of VAWA. In other words, he wants to have a rubber-stamp hearing.

It's crucial that the Judiciary Committee hear the truth about VAWA -- how it ignores the research about DV and grossly discriminates against men.

Two persons who have each spent over three decades researching family violence:

* Murray Straus, Ph.D., founder of the University of New Hampshire Family Research Laboratory

* Richard Gelles, Ph.D., Dean of the School of Social Policy & Practice at the University of Pennsylvania

These are the people who should be testifying on July 19, not the advocates who knowingly slant the truth and discriminate against needy DV victims.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Joseph Biden Wants to Stack the VAWA Hearing;
We Say, "No Way Jose!"
This is Week 1 of our Shock and Awe campaign. So do this today:

We're asking you to contact the members of the Senate Judiciary Committee and tell them:

"Don't let the VAWA hearing be rubber-stamp event. Invite Drs. Murray Straus and Richard Gelles to testify. And be sure to invite a male victim of DV who has been turned away by a VAWA-funded program."

The voice and FAX phone numbers of Senate Judiciary Committee members are listed below. Please send them a fax and call their office. Please try to do both.

Remember to make your points politely and respectfully. Being rude or making extreme analogies (like comparisons to Nazis) will only serve to discredit our cause.

Senator	Voice phone	Fax	State	Party
Arlen Specter, Chairman	202/224-4254	202/228-1229	Pennsylvania	R
Orrin G. Hatch	202/224-5251	202/224-6331	Utah	R
Charles E. Grassley	202/224-3744	202/224-6020	Iowa	R
Jon Kyl	202/224-4521	202/224-2207	Arizona	R
Mike DeWine	202/224-2315	202/224-6519	Ohio	R
Jeff Sessions	202/224-4124	202/224-3149	Alabama	R
Lindsey Graham	202/224-5972	202/224-3807	South Carolina	R
John Cornyn	202/224-2934	202/228-2856	Texas	R
Sam Brownback	202/224-6521	202/228-1265	Kansas	R
Tom Coburn	202/224-5754	202/224-6008	Oklahoma	R

Senator	Voice phone	Fax	State	Party
Joseph R. Biden, Jr.	202/224-5042	202/224-0139	Delaware	D
Patrick J. Leahy, Ranking Democrat	202/224-4242	Sen. Leahy's office won't give out his fax number. They said to email him at senator_leahy-at-leahy.senate.gov.	Vermont	D
Edward M. Kennedy	202/224-4543	202/224-2417	Massachusetts	D
Herbert Kohl	202/224-5653	202/224-9787	Wisconsin	D
Dianne Feinstein	202/224-3841	202/228-3954	California	D
Russell D. Feingold	202/224-5323	202/224-2725	Wisconsin	D
Charles E. Schumer	202/224-6542	202/228-3027	New York	D
Richard J. Durbin	202/224-2152	202/228-0400	Illinois	D

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Date of RADAR Release: July 5, 2005

Read RADAR's analysis of the Violence Against Women Act at http://www.mediaradar.org/RADAR_Analysis_of_VAWA.pdf.

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/, click the radiobox "Enter bill number", enter the bill number ("H.R.2876") and click the "Search" button.

Come to Washington DC on July 15 and join the national effort to lobby your elected officials about VAWA. See http://www.trueequality.com/index2.php for more details.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/05/181220.shtml

RADAR Release: Analysis of the Violence Against Women Act

Matt · 6 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The US Senate and House of Representatives are currently debating the Violence Against Women Act. RADAR has identified 12 serious flaws with the proposed bill.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Analysis of the Violence Against Women Act
1. Abuses the truth. A recent VAWA-funded report documented that 1.5% of women and 0.9% of men were physically or sexually assaulted by a partner in the previous year. The report further notes that one-fifth of these men – as well as two-fifths of the women -- were injured as a result of the assault. But VAWA simply ignores the facts about domestic violence. [Extent, Nature, and Consequences of Intimate Partner Violence, http://www.ncjrs.org/pdffiles1/nij/181867.pdf, p. iii-iv]

2. Blatantly discriminates against men. The title, findings, and programs of VAWA violate men's constitutional right to equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment. None of the billions of VAWA dollars have been spent to help heterosexual male victims of DV. Imagine a federal law designed to protect white victims from criminal acts, while ignoring black victims.

3. Takes children away from their fathers. VAWA allows women to make false allegations of domestic violence, and then petition for divorce and custody of the children. In some states, a father who has ever had a restraining order filed against him is automatically rendered ineligible for joint custody of his children.

4. Blurs the distinction between violent crime and a verbal argument. The National Research Council notes that "Rigorous inquiry into violence against women is precluded when scholars fail to distinguish among what constitutes an act of violence, abuse, or battering." [Advancing the Federal Research Agenda on Violence Against Women, http://books.nap.edu/catalog/10849.html, p. 26]

5. Allows unrestrained use of restraining orders. Judges typically issue restraining orders based only on the word of the woman, without obtaining hard evidence or even allowing the man to present his side of the story. And many state laws define "violence" so broadly as to allow restraining orders to be issued on the flimsiest pretext.

6. Provides perverse incentives for law enforcement agencies and prosecutors. VAWA encourages local authorities to implement policies for mandatory reporting, mandatory arrest, and "no-drop" prosecutions. A Feminist Majority Foundation report recommends that domestic violence programs should abandon such rigid and unfair practices because they often end up harming families [Safety & Justice for All: Examining the Relationship between the Women's Anti-Violence Movement and the Criminal Legal System http://www.ms.foundation.org/user-assets/PDF/Program/safety_justice.pdf, pp. 12-16]

7. Pre-empts existing law enforcement programs. States currently have strong partner assault laws. And the federal Violence of Crime Act already addresses the issue of domestic violence. VAWA spends $1 billion a year to duplicate existing programs.

8. Politicizes the judiciary. VAWA provides funding for judicial education which in practice amounts to ideologically-loaded rants. At one such training session judges were instructed: "Your job is not to become concerned about all the constitutional rights of the man that you're violating as you grant a restraining order. Thrown him out on the street, give him the clothes on his back and tell him, 'See ya' around.'" [http://www.ejfi.org/DV/dv-10.htm]

9. Funds ideologically-based treatment programs. The National Academy of Sciences recently concluded that domestic violence programs are frequently "driven by ideology and stakeholder interests rather than by plausible theories and scientific evidence of cause." [Advancing the Federal Research Agenda on Violence Against Women, http://books.nap.edu/catalog/10849.html, p. 6]

10. Represents an over-reaching of federal power. VAWA represents unwarranted government interference into the personal relationships of intimate partners. Furthermore, the Supreme Court has condemned parts of VAWA as representing federal intrusion into an area of law that falls squarely within the domain of the states (United States v. Morrison, 2000). [http://www.oyez.org/oyez/resource/case/1261/]

11. Corrupts family violence research. VAWA-funded researchers often seek to bias the outcome of their research by interviewing only women, by slanting the wording of questions, or by selectively reporting research findings. [The Controversy over Domestic Violence by Women: A Methodological, Theoretical, and Sociology of Science Analysis. http://www.menweb.org/straus21.htm]

12. Unfairly stereotypes men. VAWA funds educational programs that consistently depict men as perpetrators and women as victims of domestic violence. Most educational programs refer to the perpetrator as “him” and the victim as “her.”

VAWA tramples on people's basic human rights, undermines the family, and makes a mockery of fairness and justice. Our elected officials have a responsibility to make sure VAWA helps all victims of domestic violence.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

RADAR is a coalition of men and women concerned about bias in domestic violence reporting and laws. For more information, visit http://www.mediaradar.org/.

July 5, 2005

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/06/0236207.shtml

Extremely shocking video of US Prisoner abuse

Matt · 6 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

SacredNaCl writes "This link Direct Download (81MB WMV format, right click save as) provides a look inside at some of the abuses occuring in our own US Prisons, primarily against men. This footage is far worse than that coming out of Iraq & Cuba. While I don't agree with all of their policitical views, the BBC did an excellent job in presenting their case here and it is definitely worth a look."

Click "Read more..." for more."If you haven't experienced it, you will be shocked by the level of abuse, and in particular the means employed. Chemical weapons in a confined area? You bet, every day occurance in US Prisons. These are graphic pictures, this is not pretty footage, and I guarantee that it is only barely scratching the surface of what is really going on inside of the US Prison system today. It also sheds new light on the claims made by Dr. Sell of the scalding, beating, and other torture he has suffered while waiting over 8 years for trial, and the reasons for the Dept. of Corrections refusing to release those tapes showing the incidents.

If there ever was an area of public spending that needed sunshine, this is it, we have over two million people pre-trial and post-trial as inmates in the criminal justice system in the US, more than 90% of them men. As long as the goings on are shrouded in secrecy, this kind of abuse will continue unchecked."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/06/0240239.shtml

The false claim that "paternity fraud is an urban myth"

Matt · 6 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Barry Pearson writes "Recently, there have been some newspaper headlines claiming 'Paternity fraud is an urban myth'. They claim to be based on some research in Australia. In fact, they totally distort the research, which came to no such conclusion. My description of the media errors is found here and here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/06/1416235.shtml

NH Men's Commission Supports a Gender-Inclusive VAWA

Scott · 6 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Concord, NH: The New Hampshire Commission on the Status of Men voted last Wednesday to support efforts to make the federal Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) gender-inclusive.

The resolution states: "The Commission on the Status of Men supports the renewal of the Violence Against Women Act only if it is made gender-neutral in language, intent, and application." Read on for the full press release.

State Men's Commission Supports Violence Against Women Act, With Changes

Concord, NH: The New Hampshire Commission on the Status of Men voted last Wednesday to support efforts to make the federal Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) gender-inclusive.

The resolution states: "The Commission on the Status of Men supports the renewal of the Violence Against Women Act only if it is made gender-neutral in language, intent, and application."

The declaration is one indicator of growing support for a grassroots movement which aims to make VAWA funding available to traditionally under-served populations. Awareness of the social problem of abused men has increased significantly since the law was first enacted in 1995.

"Now that the Violence Against Women Act is up for renewal, we should take this opportunity to make sure it serves victims based on need, not on gender," said Commissioner Michael Geanoulis, who supported the resolution. "Domestic violence organizations which offer full services for men are few and far between, and they're struggling desperately for funding to meet the needs of the community."

These needs are not currently being met by traditional service providers in the granite state, which do not provide shelters for men or equivalent services that are offered to women, according to Commissioner Geanoulis.

The Commission's resolution supports making funds available on a gender-inclusive basis, and does not call for a minimum percentage or dollar amount to be allocated to services that focus specifically on men.

One local domestic violence organization which currently doesn't receive VAWA funds is the NH chapter of Stop Abuse for Everyone (SAFE-NH). Lee Newman, the group's Executive Director, said "Our organization serves as proof that when services are offered which specifically target men and other under-served victim populations, these victims will seek out the help they need and are entitled to." SAFE-NH has received 1,580 calls on their domestic violence helpline between October 2002 and December 2004. 1,117 of them were regarding men who were being abused.

The reauthorization of VAWA has gained the attention of many gender equality activists, and lobbying efforts to make the bill gender-inclusive have been led by David R. Burroughs, Esq, Legislative Consultant for the Safe Homes for Children and Families Coalition (www.vawa4all.org).

"Congress is receptive to our message in a way it was not five years ago during the last VAWA reauthorization. We are hopeful that this time around the Congress will vote not only to end domestic violence, but to uphold the 14th Amendment requirement of equal protection while doing so," said Attorney Burroughs.

Burroughs gained nationwide attention when his group raised the funds to rent three public billboards for the summer in Delaware, home of VAWA's primary sponsor, Senator Joe Biden. The billboards urge Senator Biden to make the Violence Against Women Act gender-inclusive.

VAWA is undergoing legislative work sessions in the House and Senate Subcommitties on Crime this month, and is expected to be voted upon this fall.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/06/1539209.shtml

Danica Patrick's on a road less raced

Matt · 7 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "A new article critical of feminist politics and Title IX."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/07/2037249.shtml

High profile Swedish feminist resigns post amid controversy

Matt · 7 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Wow! If this is a valid reason for a shelter official to resign (...assigning a characteristic to everybody of a certain gender) , then very soon they'll all be un-womaned, and not just in Sweden:

"After a period of intense criticism and scrutiny, Ireen von Wachenfeldt, chairwoman of women's shelter organisation ROKS, has resigned.

Von Wachenfeldt is a high profile and influential radical feminist, who found herself at the centre of a media storm recently following her appearance in the SVT documentary 'Könskriget' (Battle of the Sexes). In the programme, she appeared to state that "men are animals". But she claimed the comments was taken out of context.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/07/2040206.shtml

Circumcised - 70% less Chance of Contracting HIV!

Matt · 8 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Dittohd writes "Several of the guys posting here have used this website in the past to rail against circumcision. Wow! They, along with the radio personality, Dr. Dean Edell, are sure not going to be happy to see this!

Special quote from the article: It was deemed unethical to continue the trial after an early peek at data showed that the uncircumcised men were so much more likely to become infected."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/08/1442259.shtml

Josef Cannon Narrowly Avoids Death/Injury in Recent London Attacks

Matt · 8 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Some of you may recognize the name Josef Cannon associated with California's Synclair-Cannon Law to help prevent child abduction. It seems Mr. Cannon also narrowly escaped death or serious injury yesterday (search for "Brosnan" to get to the relevant entry) in London's subway system.

More links to relevant information:

http://groups.msn.com/AbductedDaughterShelby/_whatsnew.msnw

http://www.geocities.com/lsynclair/

Click "Read more..." to see the relevant entry from the page.
Lucky latte

I am in London where actor Pierce Brosnan assisted in finding my abducted daughter who had been missing for five plus years. I was on my way to another press interview on this case when I was about to board the train at Kings Cross. During this hour of morning, the trains are packed and at times, there is nowhere to move. Having just picked up my daily coffee from Starbucks I was in no mood to have it spill on me by boarding a very packed subway train so I turned and headed up the platform and made my way to the exits to walk the short distance when I heard an explosion. People started running towards the escalators...seeing this massive rush but not knowing why I turned and ran upwards as well, feeling that if I stopped I might be trampled.

My heart was racing for here I was running, but did not know exactly why. The looks on the faces of those behind me spoke volumes. Ironically, the coffee I didn't want to spill on me was all over my jacket as I sprinted towards the exit. Rumor began to spread amongst the confused crowd that there were other "attacks" going on around the city. What at first seemed like an isolated incident was confirmed to be an attack on the city of London. As I stood shaking at the thought of how close I came to boarding that train and if it were not for the coffee in my hand, in all probability I wouldn't be alive to write this e-mail. I searched around the world to find my missing daughter and through one miracle (Pierce Brosnan) I was able to find her and now through another one (a Latte' from Starbucks) I will be allowed to see her for another day!!

Text messages began to fill my cell phone from those who knew I was to be boarding the train at that time. Each text reminded me of how fragile life can be and how quickly it can be taken away. I will never forget the fear that I saw in the eyes of not just the people rushing to safety, but the heroism that merged from the people of London. They rose to the challenge and did so in a calm manner that made those of us around search within ourselves for the courage to do whatever we could to assist. No longer was the coffee on my jacket or missing an all-important interview a concern as I searched for those I knew to be in the city as well, making sure they were safe.

Though I am American, I can say that I was very proud of how our brothers and sisters across the Atlantic handle such a horrific situation. The way everyone was concerned about one another reminded me of how we as Americans bonded during 911. To be in the middle of such a disaster and to witness the highs and the lows of its effect is very hard to put into words. The tears that flowed from my face then and do so now at just the thought of what occurred 24 hrs ago says it all.

--Josef Cannon, Marina Del Rey, Calif.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/08/1458217.shtml

Letter re sex bias in dating/marriage printed in Washington Post

Matt · 9 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc A. writes "On July 4, the Washington Post printed this letter from NCFM member Jerry B. about inequities in dating and marriage, which the editor titled, 'Gender Bias Cuts Both ways'."

Click "Read more..." to read the letter.GENDER BIAS CUTS BOTH WAYS

In her refreshing June 25 op-ed column, "Marriage Penalty," Ruth Marcus explored why it is that so many successful women are single and childless.

Part of the reason, I believe, is that many women still want to marry "up." Thus they are conditioned to feel as threatened by less successful men as less successful men are by more successful women. Most single women would be scared silly to hear a date say, "When I marry, I want to be a house husband and a stay-at-home dad."

Consider, too, Ms. Marcus's statement about a White House official: "... a smart, attractive woman . . . who . . . hadn't been asked out" on a date in about two years.

Cat got her tongue? This woman can't ask out one of the men around her who may be too afraid to ask her out? Are equal rights and responsibilities a smorgasbord from which she picks only what suits her?

If we want gender equality, we must demand change in women as much as we demand it in men.

JERRY A. BOGGS

Livonia, Mich.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/08/229220.shtml

Second National Men's Equality Congress-- Less Than a Week Away

Matt · 9 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The Second National Men's Equality Congress is less than a week away! So if you haven't registered yet, please do so. See you soon!

P.S. I mean it this time, really! :-)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/08/2213239.shtml

RADAR ALERT: VAWA 4 All: This is the Week to Deliver

Matt · 11 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This week the VAWA4All Campaign has good news and bad news to share.

The good news is, our people in Washington are meeting with some key elected officials who are extremely supportive of our cause. That's very encouraging.

The bad news is, these elected officials say they have not seen or heard anything that resembles an outpouring of mass discontent with the current version of VAWA.

That worries us, because next week on July 19th, the Senate Judiciary Committee will be holding hearings on VAWA. As things stand right now, the VAWA bill will sail through the hearings without even a peep of concern.

Click "Read more..." for more.

RADAR ALERT:VAWA 4 All: This is the Week to Deliver
It's crucial that the Judiciary Committee hear the truth about VAWA.

So RADAR has just unveiled an analysis that identifies the 12 major flaws with VAWA. This analysis is found at the end of this Alert, and copy suitable for printing can be downloaded from the internet at: http://www.mediaradar.org/RADAR_Analysis_of_VAWA.pdf. We encourage you to carefully review this analysis and share it with others as appropriate.

So for the July 19 hearings, it's absolutely vital that the Senators hear from all sides, not just the people who willingly abuse the truth and discriminate against men.

So for Week 2 of our Shock and Awe campaign, we're going to pick up where we left off last week.

Since this is the critical week leading up the hearings, we are asking that each person who reads this Alert telephone and/or fax the members of the Senate Judiciary Committee and politely insist that the hearings include:

1. A recognized expert on the topic of family violence such as:

   * Murray Straus, Ph.D., founder of the University of New Hampshire Family Research Laboratory

   * Richard Gelles, Ph.D., Dean of the School of Social Policy & Practice at the University of Pennsylvania
2. A male victim of domestic violence who has been discriminated against by VAWA-funded services.

"Don't let the July 19 hearings become a rubber-stamp for VAWA. Invite Drs. Murray Straus or Richard Gelles to testify. And be sure to invite a male victim of DV who has been turned away by a VAWA-funded program."

The voice and FAX phone numbers of the Judiciary Committee members are listed below.

Threats like "If you don't get VAWA changed, I'm going to get you defeated in the next election" will only hurt our cause. Remember to make your points respectfully.

Senate Judiciary Committee Members

Senator	Voice phone	Fax	State	Party
Arlen Specter, Chairman	202/224-4254	202/228-1229	Pennsylvania	R
Orrin G. Hatch	202/224-5251	202/224-6331	Utah	R
Charles E. Grassley	202/224-3744	202/224-6020	Iowa	R

Senator	Voice phone	Fax	State	Party
Jon Kyl	202/224-4521	202/224-2207	Arizona	R
Mike DeWine	202/224-2315	202/224-6519	Ohio	R
Jeff Sessions	202/224-4124	202/224-3149	Alabama	R
Lindsey Graham	202/224-5972	202/224-3808	South Carolina	R
John Cornyn	202/224-2934	202/228-2856	Texas	R
Sam Brownback	202/224-6521	202/228-1265	Kansas	R
Tom Coburn	202/224-5754	202/224-6008	Oklahoma	R
Joseph R. Biden, Jr.	202/224-5042	202/224-0139	Delaware	D
Patrick J. Leahy, Ranking Democrat	202/224-4242	Sen. Leahy's office won't give out his fax number. They said to email him at senator_leahy-at-leahy.senate.gov.	Vermont	D
Edward M. Kennedy	202/224-4543	202/224-2417	Massachusetts	D
Herbert Kohl	202/224-5653	202/224-9787	Wisconsin	D
Dianne Feinstein	202/224-3841	202/228-3954	California	D
Russell D. Feingold	202/224-5323	202/224-2725	Wisconsin	D
Charles E. Schumer	202/224-6542	202/228-3027	New York	D
Richard J. Durbin	202/224-2152	202/228-0400	Illinois	D

RADAR'S Analysis of the Violence Against Women Act
The US Senate and House of Representatives are currently debating the Violence Against Women Act. RADAR has identified 12 serious flaws with the proposed bill:

1. Abuses the truth. A recent VAWA-funded report documented that 1.5% of women and 0.9% of men were physically or sexually assaulted by a partner in the previous year. The report further notes that one-fifth of these men - as well as two-fifths of the women -- were injured as a result of the assault. But VAWA simply ignores the facts about domestic violence. [Extent, Nature, and Consequences of Intimate Partner Violence, http://www.ncjrs.org/pdffiles1/nij/181867.pdf, p. iii-iv]

2. Blatantly discriminates against men. The title, findings, and programs of VAWA violate men's constitutional right to equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment. None of the billions of VAWA dollars have been spent to help heterosexual male victims of DV. Imagine a federal law designed to protect white victims from criminal acts, while ignoring black victims.

3. Takes children away from their fathers. VAWA allows women to make false allegations of domestic violence, and then petition for divorce and custody of the children. In some states, a father who has ever had a restraining order filed against him is automatically rendered ineligible for joint custody of his children.

4. Blurs the distinction between violent crime and a verbal argument. The National Research Council notes that "Rigorous inquiry into violence against women is precluded when scholars fail to distinguish among what constitutes an act of violence, abuse, or battering." [Advancing the Federal Research Agenda on Violence Against Women, http://books.nap.edu/catalog/10849.html, p. 26]

5. Allows unrestrained use of restraining orders. Judges typically issue restraining orders based only on the word of the woman, without obtaining hard evidence or even allowing the man to present his side of the story. And many state laws define "violence" so broadly as to allow restraining orders to be issued on the flimsiest pretext.

6. Provides perverse incentives for law enforcement agencies and prosecutors. VAWA encourages local authorities to implement policies for mandatory reporting, mandatory arrest, and "no-drop" prosecutions. A Feminist Majority Foundation report recommends that domestic violence programs should abandon such rigid and unfair practices because they often end up harming families [Safety & Justice for All: Examining the Relationship between the Women's Anti-Violence Movement and the Criminal Legal System, http://www.ms.foundation.org/user-assets/PDF/Program/safety_justice.pdf, pp. 12-16]

7. Pre-empts existing law enforcement programs. States currently have strong partner assault laws. And the federal Violence of Crime Act already addresses the issue of domestic violence. VAWA spends $1 billion a year to duplicate existing programs.

8. Politicizes the judiciary. VAWA provides funding for judicial education which in practice amounts to ideologically-loaded rants. At one such training session judges were instructed: "Your job is not to become concerned about all the constitutional rights of the man that you're violating as you grant a restraining order. Thrown him out on the street, give him the clothes on his back and tell him, 'See ya' around.'" [http://www.ejfi.org/DV/dv-10.htm]

9. Funds ideologically-based treatment programs. The National Academy of Sciences recently concluded that domestic violence programs are frequently "driven by ideology and stakeholder interests rather than by plausible theories and scientific evidence of cause." [Advancing the Federal Research Agenda on Violence Against Women, http://books.nap.edu/catalog/10849.html, p. 6]

10. Represents an over-reaching of federal power. VAWA represents unwarranted government interference into the personal relationships of intimate partners. Furthermore, the Supreme Court has condemned parts of VAWA as representing federal intrusion into an area of law that falls squarely within the domain of the states (United States v. Morrison, 2000). [http://www.oyez.org/oyez/resource/case/1261]

11. Corrupts family violence research. VAWA-funded researchers often seek to bias the outcome of their research by interviewing only women, by slanting the wording of questions, or by selectively reporting research findings. [The Controversy over Domestic Violence by Women: A Methodological, Theoretical, and Sociology of Science Analysis. http://www.menweb.org/straus21.htm]

12. Unfairly stereotypes men. VAWA funds educational programs that consistently depict men as perpetrators and women as victims of domestic violence. Most educational programs refer to the perpetrator as "him" and the victim as "her."

VAWA tramples on persons' basic human rights, undermines the family, and makes a mockery of fairness and justice. Our elected officials have a responsibility to make sure VAWA helps all victims of domestic violence.

++

Date of RADAR Release: July 10, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 2876.

Come to Washington DC on July 15 and join the national effort to lobby your elected officials about VAWA. See http://www.trueequality.com/index2.php for more details.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/11/169203.shtml

Mother Charged in Children-in-Trunk Case

Matt · 12 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

So, they actually charged her? Good to see it. Of course if she had been a he, there would have been no delay in the charges, would there have been?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/12/1614214.shtml

T-minus-Three Days to Men's Equality Congress

Matt · 12 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Well just in case you hadn't seen the previous postings, we are three days away from the Second National Men's Equality Congress in Washington, D.C. If you are all set to attend, see you soon! Otherwise, hey, there's still time to make plans.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/12/1616237.shtml

First Lady Wants a Female Judge

Matt · 13 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

You know, I am not too impressed when a high-profile political figure openly and publicly declares that an indelible characteristic should be consideration for appointment of a person to a high (or any) office. Oh yes, well, since she is referring to a person's sex and it's a "pro-woman" comment, I guess it must be all right then...

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/12/2255244.shtml

RADAR ALERT: July 19 Hearings Not Yet Finalized, Call Sen. Specter's Office Today

Matt · 13 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The list of persons who will be speaking at the July 19, 2005 Senate hearing on VAWA is still in limbo. We have an important opportunity to assure the truth is heard next Tuesday.

The staffer who is arranging the hearings is Mr. Brett Tolman in Senator Specter's office.

Click "Read more..." for more.

July 19 Hearings Not Yet Finalized, Call Sen. Specter's Office Today
Please call Mr. Tolman TODAY at this number: 202-224-4254.

Explain to him that it is important that the Senators hear all sides of the issue. Request that the hearings include:

1. A male victim of DV who was refused service by a VAWA-funded program, AND

2. Murray Straus, Ph.D. (University of New Hampshire Family Research Laboratory) or Richard Gelles, Ph.D. (University of Pennsylvania), both recognized experts in family violence

REMEMBER: Be courteous and objective in your conversation.
Timing is all important. Do this TODAY.

The number to call is: 202-224-4254.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Date of RADAR Release: July 12, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 2876.

Come to Washington DC on July 15 and join the national effort to lobby your elected officials about VAWA. See http://www.trueequality.com/index2.php for more details.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue. More information can be found at http://www.mediaradar.org/

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/13/1426217.shtml

Washington Times Prints Letters Refuting False Paternal Custody Claims

Matt · 14 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Marc A. writes "The Washington times just printed two letters from men's rights activists responding to the false claims of feminists in an article on fathers' custody. One letter refutes the feminist myth that when fathers request physical and legal custody they get it 70% of the time, which comes from a distortion of a study that does not say this at all and in fact shows otherwise."

Click "Read more..." for more."Cynthia McNeely gives a solid refutation of the 70% father custody myth in the excellent law review article about child custody and anti-father bias, called "Lagging Behind the Times; Parenthood, Custody and Gender Bias in the Family Court," and Mark Rosenthal gives a more focused analysis of it here (.pdf file)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/14/1953224.shtml

Rapist chooses castration over life in jail

Matt · 14 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A man who admitted raping two young girls in the US has agreed to be castrated to avoid serving a life prison sentence.

Excerpt:

Keith Raymond Fremin, 42, accepted a 25-year sentence without parole for molesting the two sisters, who were 11 and 13 at the time of the attacks in 1999.

Judge Donald Fendlason, in the Louisiana court, said he would revoke the lighter sentence if Fremin does not undergo the surgery by August 18.

The victims, now 17 and 19, were in court yesterday and agreed to the plea deal."

Ed note: I debated with myself about posting this but then thought about the "what if" situation had the confessed rapist been female and the victims boys. Would the judge have 1) sentenced her to life in jail and 2) offered an ovariectomy to the woman in exchange for imposing a lesser sentence?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/14/1958245.shtml

Men's Equality Congress: Day One a Success!

Matt · 16 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Many thanks to all who attended Day One of the Second National Men's Equality Congress in Washington, D.C. The lobby portion of the day was very productive, and included a "fact-blitz" on the Senate Justiciary Committee members regarding the upcoming VAWA re-authorization bill. Our Supreme Court protest was energized and well-attended despite the foul weather, with tourists from Britain and other parts of America spontaneously joining in with us. Pictures will be coming soon, so stay tuned! Tomorrow's gonna be great!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/16/0319256.shtml

New MensactivismWiki Released

Scott · 16 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

You may have noticed a new link in the Navigation box in the upper-left of Mensactivism.org. It is to a new section of MANN, which is called the MensactivismWiki. If you don't know what a wiki is, check it out and start reading some of the documentation. I realize the docs are very sparse right now but I will impove them significantly over the next week. I am announcing this at the second annual Men's Equality Conference, so it's being released now even if it's still a bit rough around the edges. If you have worked with wikis before, this one is dedicated to the men's rights community to collaborate and share knowledge related to pro-male activism. Feel free to start adding content to it in that spirit!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/16/1110222.shtml

Men's Equality Congress: Day Two Complete

Matt · 17 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The second and final day of the Second National Men's Equality Congress in Washington, DC crossed the line with a strong finish! Thanks to everyone who attended, spoke, or facilitated break-out sessions. The final tally is TBD, but I can confidently report that at least 70 people attended the Congress. Look for pictures shortly.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/17/0112219.shtml

RADAR Alert: Shock and Awe Week 3: Now on to the House!

Matt · 18 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Two weeks ago RADAR launched its Shock and Awe campaign. We asked people to contact members of the Senate Judiciary Committee and request they invite a male DV victim and other qualified experts to testify at the July 19 Committee hearings.

And it truly was Shock and Awe. Thousands of persons made phone calls and sent faxes. THANK YOU TO EVERYONE WHO RESPONDED. And we know from inside sources that they really heard us.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Shock and Awe Week 3: Now on to the House!
The other good news is that in the last two weeks, a coalition of over 15 groups – including some of the respected big guns on Capitol Hill – has come together to make VAWA a fairer law.

At this time we do not know who will actually testify at Tuesday's hearings. But we have opened many, many doors to the lobbyists who are working on behalf of our VAWA coalition, and our voice is finally being heard.

This week it's time to focus our energies on the House of Representatives. Why? Because the House Judiciary Committee plans to vote on the VAWA bill before the end of this month – and they don't even plan to hold hearings!

So let's crank it up! This is what we are asking you to do this week:

1. Find out the name of your Representative. Each district has only one Representative. To do that, go to http://www.house.gov/ and enter your zip code.

2. Go to your Representative's website and get their telephone and fax number. You may have to call the office during business hours to get the fax number.

3. Write a short letter like this and fax it ASAP. You can use this exact wording, or revise it slightly to reflect your thoughts:

> RE: H.R. 2876
>
> Dear Representative :
>
> I am a registered voter in your district, and I'm writing about the Violence Against Women Act, H.R. 2876. According to the Department of Justice, 835,000 American men are victims of domestic violence each year. But it has been shown that VAWA-funded programs refuse to serve those men – that's called “discrimination.”
>
> So I'm asking you to do what is fair and right, and make sure this language is added to the VAWA bill to make it non-discriminatory:
>
> “Nothing in this statute shall be construed as prohibiting funding for programs focused on or serving male victims of domestic violence. Male victims shall be considered an underserved population.”
>
> Thank you for your attention and help.
>
> Sincerely,
>
> Your name
>
> Address
>
> Telephone number

4. If you do not have access to a fax machine, telephone your Representative's Legislative Assistant (referred to as the “L.A.”) who is responsible for VAWA – your Representative's receptionist will give you that person's name. When you speak to the L.A., convey the same information as in this letter.

ABOVE ALL, BE RESPECTFUL AND POLITE. Coming across as angry, bitter, or threatening only reinforces the negative stereotypes, and will make it more difficult for our front-line lobbyists.

Remember, time is extremely short. We have a lot to accomplish a lot in two short weeks!

News flash! We have just learned that in the next couple days, Phyllis Schlafly will be releasing her article: "Time to Defund Feminist Pork". Look for it at http://www.humaneventsonline.com/ and then politely encourage your editor to run it in your local newspaper.

++

Date of RADAR Release: July 17, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 2876.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/18/1620240.shtml

Teenage girl hangs 5 Year Old boy

Matt · 19 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

AngryMan writes "A 5 year old boy narrowly escaped death when a teenage girl hanged him from a tree with a length of string, and then tried to incriminate 4 other children for it."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/19/034243.shtml

Sacks Criticizes VAWA Restraining Order Policies

Matt · 20 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous user writes "Men's and fathers' issues columnist Glenn Sacks criticizes VAWA-related restraining order policies in his new column "VAWA Renewal Provides Opportunity to Stop Destruction of Innocent Cops' Careers" (Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, 7/19/05). The column describes the way police officers often have their careers destroyed by baseless accusations of domestic violence.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/20/0320241.shtml

Cellphone data may yield child support

Matt · 20 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Virginia has issued subpoenas to cellphone companies seeking delinquent parents."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/20/2043220.shtml

VAWA Hearing 7.19.05 Testimony Transcripts on Web

Matt · 21 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The Senate Judiciary Committee has published most of the transcripts from those who testified at yesterday's VAWA hearing. It is the usual litany of feminist misinformation, hysteria, and misandrist screed, with no mention of male DV victims that I could find on a first read. Testifying were the heads of the National Sherriff's Association, Director of the Office on Violence Against Women, Director of the National Network to End Domestic Violence, and actress Salma Hayek, among others."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/21/0120218.shtml

RADAR Alert: Fresh Ammo for Shock and Awe

Matt · 21 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Pressure continues to mount to reform VAWA, a law that discriminates against men and shreds their civil liberties.

In recent weeks a number of Op-Ed columns have targeted VAWA. On Tuesday, well-known writer Phyllis Schlafly published a bell-ringer column that called VAWA an example of "anti-marriage and anti-male ideology" and called for persons to "stop the act from spending any more taxpayers' money to promote family dissolution and fatherless children."

Her full column is reprinted below.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Fresh Ammo for Shock and Awe
WE NEED TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE MOMENT.

RADAR is calling on all readers to disseminate this column far and wide. TODAY, please forward Mrs. Schlafly's column to the following:

1. Your Representative and two Senators in Washington DC (fax, letter, or e-mail is OK - whatever is easiest for you)

2. The Editor(s) of your local newspaper(s)

3. One or more listservs or on-line discussion groups that you participate in.

Remember that to the media, what's news today is history tomorrow, so please take action TODAY. And always be polite in your dealings.

Time to Dispose of Radical Feminist Pork

http://www.humaneventsonline.com/article.php?id=8134

Phyllis Schlafly

July 19, 2005
If Republicans are looking for a way to return to their principles of limited government and reduced federal spending, a good place to start would be rejection of the coming reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act sponsored by Sen. Joe Biden, D-Del. It's a mystery why Republicans continue to put a billion dollars a year of taxpayers' money into the hands of radical feminists who use it to preach their anti-marriage and anti-male ideology, promote divorce, corrupt the family court system, and engage in liberal political advocacy.

Accountability is supposed to be the watchword of the Bush administration, but there's been no accountability or oversight for the act's spending of many billions of dollars. There is no evidence that the Violence Against Women Act has benefited anyone except the radical feminists on its payroll.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, which is gearing up for a battle royal over the Supreme Court vacancy, has scheduled a hearing on the act for mid-July. It's apparently designed as a be-nice-to-Biden-before-the court-fight event, since no critic has been invited to speak.

Let's have a reality check. The Violence Against Women Act's gender-specific title is pejorative: it's based on the false, unscientific, unjust and blatantly offensive premise that men are innately violent and abusive toward women, making all women victims of men.

The president of Harvard University was publicly pilloried for months earlier this year for implying innate differences between men and women. But the act is spending a billion dollars a year to inculcate that very notion in the minds of men and women who are having marital difficulties, as well as police, prosecutors, psychologists and family court judges.

Feminists staged tantrums at the suggestion of innate math-aptitude differences between men and women, but the whole premise of the Violence Against Women Act is that men have an innate propensity to violence against women. It's not because some are bad individuals or drunks or psychologically troubled, but because men want to keep women subservient in an oppressive patriarchal society.

The Violence Against Women Act was passed using such bogus statistics as "a woman is beaten every 15 seconds" and "80 percent of fathers who seek custody of their children fit the profile of a batterer." Remember the Super Bowl hoax, the ridiculous claim that "the biggest day of the year for violence against women" is Super Bowl Sunday? It's an assertion conclusively refuted by Dr. Christina Hoff Sommers' research.

The Violence Against Women Act comes out of Andrea Dworkin's tirades of hate such as, "Under patriarchy, every woman's son is her betrayer and also the inevitable rapist or exploiter of another woman." The act comes out of Gloria Steinem's nonsense, such as "the patriarchy requires violence or the subliminal threat of violence in order to maintain itself."

Here is some mischief in act-funded activities that should be investigated in the coming Senate Judiciary Committee hearing.

The act refuses to provide any help whatsoever for male victims of domestic violence. Let's hear from professor Martin Fiebert of California State University at Long Beach who compiled a bibliography of 170 scholarly investigations, 134 empirical studies and 36 analyses, which demonstrate that women are almost as physically abusive toward their partners as men.

The act encourages women to make false allegations, and then petition for full child custody and a denial of all fathers' rights to see their own children.

The act promotes the unrestrained use of restraining orders, which family courts issue on the woman's say-so. This powerful weapon (according to the Illinois Bar Journal) is "part of the gamesmanship of divorce" and virtually guarantees that fathers are expelled from the lives of their own children.

A woman seeking help from an act-funded center is not offered any options except to leave her husband, divorce him, accuse him of being a criminal and have her sons targeted as suspects in future crimes. The Violence Against Women Act ideology rejects joint counseling, reconciliation and saving marriages.

The act denies that alcohol and illegal drugs are a cause of domestic violence, a peculiar assumption contrary to all human experience. In fact, most domestic violence incidents involve those components.

The act uses a definition of domestic violence that blurs the difference between violent action and run-of-the-mill marital tiffs and arguments. Definitions of abuse can even include minor insults and refusing to help with child care or housework.

The act funds the re-education of judges and all law enforcement personnel to teach them feminist stereotypes about male abusers and female victims, how to game the system to empower women, and how to ride roughshod over the constitutional rights of men.

The act forces Soviet-style psychological re-education on men. The accused men are not given treatment for real problems, but are assigned to classes where feminists teach shame and guilt because of a vast male conspiracy to subjugate women.

The Violence Against Women Act-funded centers engage in political advocacy for feminist legislation such as the "must-arrest" laws even if there is no sign of violence and even if the woman doesn't want the man arrested, and political advocacy against non-feminist legislation such as shared parental rights.

It's time to stop the act from spending any more taxpayers' money to promote family dissolution and fatherless children.

++

Date of RADAR Release: July 20, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 2876.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/21/2112222.shtml

Tell Congress to Amend or Reject VAWA!

Matt · 22 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Here's an online site that has a canned letter opposing the VAWA.
Tell Congress to Amend or Reject VAWA!

You can send the message by email or Western Union for $8.95. It's fairly easy to fill out and automatically provides your elected Reps from the address you enter. If you haven't sent something yet, or even if you have, here is an opportunity to voice your opposition to this horrible man-destroying law. The process starts with you entering your zip code."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/22/1737221.shtml

Alabama state house passes mandatory castration bill

Matt · 24 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous user writes "The Alabama state House passed a bill yesterday that would require mandatory castration of persons convicted of violent sex crimes against children under 12 years old.

The associated press story is available here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/24/1651209.shtml

A new book by John Irving

Matt · 24 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

zerostress writes " This article in the Globe and Mail talk about the latest book by John Irving (of The World According to Garp fame) , Until I Find You. In this book, Irving, himself a victim of sexual abuse by an older female family friend, approach the subject of of sexual abuse and its repercussion on the life of a man. Warning : contains spoilers, heeds author's advice."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/24/1652257.shtml

John Irving plumbs pain of sexual abuse in new book

Matt · 24 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

zerostress writes " This article in the Canada.com talk about the latest book by John Irving (of The World According to Garp fame) , Until I Find You. In this book, Irving, himself a victim of sexual abuse by an older female family friend, approach the subject of of sexual abuse and its repercussion on the life of a man."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/24/1653242.shtml

"Internet Tools..." Conference Audio Available for Download

Scott · 25 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The talk I gave at the 2005 Men's Equality Conference in Washington, D.C. last weekend is now available for download. The breakout session was titled "Internet Tools for Promoting Collaboration and Activism," and you can download the mp3 audio of it (9.3 MB) as well as the PDF slides (350 kb) to follow along with (except for the live demo part). My talk didn't exactly set the world on fire but I wanted to make it available in case others might find it useful. Enjoy!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/25/0210219.shtml

RADAR Alert: Shock and Awe Week 4: House Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime

Matt · 25 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Last Tuesday, July 19th, the Senate Judiciary Committee held "hearings" on the bill to reauthorize the Violence Against Women Act which left them no better informed about the truth of VAWA. A transcript of the testimony can be seen at http://judiciary.senate.gov/hearing.cfm?id=1570.

Now we turn our focus to the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime. This week we're asking you to contact members of that committee to inform them of the facts on VAWA.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Shock and Awe Week 4: House Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime
IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THE HOUSE SUB-COMMITTEE WILL BE VOTING ON VAWA LATER THIS WEEK, SO PROMPT ACTION IS EXTREMELY IMPORTANT.

Please do the following right away:

1. Write a short letter something like this. You can modify it to reflect your own thoughts, but be sure to keep it respectful. Hostility or extreme analogies like comparisons to Nazis will only make it harder for our viewpoint to be heard.
   The Honorable {name here}

   FAX no: {fax no. here}

   Subject: H.R. 2876 - Violence Against Women Act

   Position: Provide equal funding for organizations focused on helping male victims

   Dear Representative {name here}:

   I'm writing about major problems with H.R. 2876, the Violence Against Women Act. According to the Department of Justice, men constitute 36% of domestic violence victims annually. But despite claims to the contrary, VAWA-funded programs deny services to those 835,000 American men and their children.

   Before the House votes on VAWA, the bill must be fixed to guarantee that all victims are helped, regardless of gender. It is unacceptable to require victimized men and children to seek help from organizations whose decade-long track record clearly demonstrates their lack of sympathy for, or even outright hostility to the needs of these victims.

   Please make VAWA non-discriminatory by adding the following language:

   “Nothing in this statute shall be construed as prohibiting funding for programs focused on or serving male victims of domestic violence. Male victims shall be considered an underserved population.”

   Thank you for your attention and help.

   Sincerely,

   Your name

   Your address

   Your phone number

2. Below are names and fax numbers for the members of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime. For each member, edit a unique copy of the letter to include his or her name and fax no. Then fax that copy to the committee member.
3. If you do not have access to a fax machine, telephone the Representative's L.A. (Legislative Assistant) who is responsible for VAWA – the receptionist can tell you which L.A. is assigned to VAWA. Speak to the L.A. and tell him or her the facts in this letter. And remember, our chances of getting them to understand the need for a non-discriminatory law will only be harmed by angry or extreme language.
Remember, Congress will recess at the end of this week. Fax your letter today!

Members of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Crime

Congressperson	Fax	Voice phone	State	Party
Howard Coble, Chariman	202/225-8611	202/225-3065	North Carolina	R
Dan Lungren	202/226-1298	202/225-5716	California	R
Tom Feeney	202/226-6299	202/225-2706	Florida	R
Steve Chabot	202/225-3012	202/225-2216	Ohio	R
Ric Keller	202/225-0999	202/225-2176	Florida	R
Jeff Flake	202/226-4386	202/225-2635	Arizona	R
Mike Pence	202/225-3382	202/225-3021	Indiana	R
Randy Forbes	202/226-1170	202/225-6365	Virginia	R
Louie Gohmert	202/225-5866	202/225-3035	Texas	R
Bobby Scott, Ranking Democrat	202/225-8354	202/225-8351	Florida	D
Sheila Jackson Lee	202/225-3317	202/225-3816	Texas	D
Maxine Waters	202/225-7854	202/225-2201	California	D
Marty Meehan	202/226-0771	202/225-3411	Massachusetts	D
William Delahunt	202/225-5658	202/225-3111	Massachusetts	D
Anthony Weiner	202/226-7253	202/225-6616	New York	D

News Flash! A major critique of the Violence Against Women Act, written by Dr. Stephen Baskerville, is appearing in the July 25 issue of The American Conservative. As soon as it is available online, we will post the article's URL at http://www.mediaradar.org/baskerville0725.php. We encourage you to distribute this article to your conservative elected officials and others as appropriate.
++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Date of RADAR Release: July 24, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 2876.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert.

You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/25/0221252.shtml

Effort to Outlaw MGM Underway

Matt · 25 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Posted on behalf of Matthew Hess:

"I head an organization in San Diego called MGMbill.org, and our goal is to pass federal and state legislation that would amend existing female circumcision laws to make them gender neutral."

Click "Read more..." for more."Our proposed legislation is currently endorsed by eight different organizations, including the National Organization of Circumcision Information Resource Centers, Attorneys for the Rights of the Child, and the Ashley Montagu Resolution and Petition (which includes endorsements from more than 2,500 individuals, including the late Nobel Laureate Dr. Francis Crick and the late Presidential Medal of Freedom recipient Dr. Jonas Salk).

I ask that organizations that would be interested in endorsing our federal and state MGM Bill proposals, which would legally protect baby boys from medically unnecessary circumcision, take action. All that would mean is that the organization's name and website link would be added to our Endorsements page, and it would not require any additional action by the group.

Our U.S. MGM Bill proposal has already found one supporter in Congress (Rep Virgil Goode), and several California legislators have indicated their willingness to sponsor a state version of the MGM Bill in California when enough endorsements are received (see http://www.mgmbill.org/govresponses.htm)."

If interested, please use the following contact information:

Matthew Hess

President, MGMbill.org

San Diego, CA

Phone/Fax: (208) 330-8435

mhess-at-mgmbill.org

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/25/0230219.shtml

Violence Against Men - Australia Says Yes

Matt · 25 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A commerical for Country Cup Soup in Australia depicts a police officer head-butting a man and then kicking him in as hard as she can in the groin. Once again complaints about violence against men in advertising are dismissed. In fact the kick to the groin is considered "humourous". I was disgusted when I saw this commerical here in Australia and now outraged that the complaints against it are just dismissed as "get a sense of humour".

See http://www.advertisingstandardsbureau.com.au/PDF/05_150.pdf."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/25/177204.shtml

Men's reproductive choice on TV

Matt · 26 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kingsley G. Morse Jr. writes "

Who: Mel Feit of the (U.S.) National Center for Men

What: Talks about men's reproductive choice

When: July 27th, 2005, 7:30 PM EST

Where: Regional News Network (New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and North East Pennsylvania)

Why: Public education"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/26/1124217.shtml

Woman admits to holding sex parties for boys

Matt · 26 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Wonder what sort of time she'll get-- if any? Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/26/1746201.shtml

Woman jailed for cutting off lover's penis

Matt · 26 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Why is it when a woman slices off a man's penis she is only guilty of aggravated assualt and not aggravated sexual assualt?

It seems to me that there appear to be more and more attacks on mens gentials - well at least this woman was jailed, unlike the Kim Tran case, were the violent woman was given a conditional sentence so she could - get this - still see her children."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/26/1745209.shtml

Man whose frozen sperm was stolen by wife is required to pay C/S

Matt · 28 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes '"[W]hat happens to sperm in a bank when you stop paying to keep it frozen? Can your estranged wife pick up the freezing bills and use your sperm, then come after you for child support payments?"

Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/28/1431210.shtml

RADAR Alert: Success in the House!

Matt · 28 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

After months of hard work, our VAWA campaign has registered a major success. On Wednesday the House Judiciary Committee did its mark-up of the Violence Against Women Act and added this language to make the House bill male-inclusive.

Click "Read more..." for more

SUCCESS IN THE HOUSE!
After months of hard work, our VAWA campaign has registered a major success. On Wednesday the House Judiciary Committee did its mark-up of the Violence Against Women Act and added this language to make the House bill male-inclusive:

SEC. 402. DEFINITIONS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR PROGRAMS RELATING TO VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN. Part T of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 is amended by inserting before section 2001 (42 U.S.C. 3796gg) the following new sections:

‘SEC. 2000A. CLARIFICATION THAT PROGRAMS RELATING TO VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN ARE GENDER-NEUTRAL. “In this part, and in any other Act of Congress, unless the context unequivocally requires otherwise, a provision authorizing or requiring the Department of Justice to make grants, or to carry out other activities, for assistance to victims of domestic violence, dating violence, stalking, sexual assault, or trafficking in persons, shall be construed to cover grants that provide assistance to female victims, male victims, or both.”’

You can see it for yourself by going to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and entering HR 3402 (which is the new number for the House bill).

There is one slight problem with the wording: “unless the context unequivocally requires otherwise.” That means someone who wants to defy Congressional intent might come up with some ridiculous argument why male victims cannot be helped. But we'll deal with that problem later.

To every person who has written a letter, sent a fax or e-mail, or made a phone call for RADAR's Shock and Awe campaign, we say, “Thank you!”

But this is just the beginning. The Senate version of the bill still ignores male victims, so now we need to take advantage of the moment.

This week, we are asking you to e-mail the following persons:

1. Your two Senators [go to http://www.senate.gov/ to get their e-mail addresses]
2. Senator Arlen Specter [http://specter.senate.gov/index.cfm?FuseAction=ContactInfo.Home]
3. Senator Patrick Leahy [http://leahy.senate.gov/contact.html]

Put this in the Subject line: "Make VAWA (S. 1197) Male-Inclusive"

And then send them a message like this:

RE: S. 1197, Violence Against Women Act

Dear Senator _____:

The House of Representatives has just changed the wording of the Violence Against Women Act to make it male inclusive (see H.R. 3402). It is only fair that VAWA help the 835,000 men who are victims of domestic violence each year.

I am asking you to make sure that the following language is added to S. 1197:

‘CLARIFICATION THAT PROGRAMS RELATING TO VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN ARE GENDER-NEUTRAL. “In this part, and in any other Act of Congress, a provision authorizing or requiring the Department of Justice to make grants, or to carry out other activities, for assistance to victims of domestic violence, dating violence, stalking, sexual assault, or trafficking in persons, shall be construed to cover grants that provide assistance to female victims, male victims, or both.”’

Thank you for making VAWA a law that helps all victims of domestic violence.

Sincerely,

{name}

{address}

{phone}

++

Date of RADAR Release: July 27, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/28/1437219.shtml

Agape Press publishes article quoting Sacks & Baskerville

Matt · 29 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes "Agape Press, a conservative Christian news source heavily quotes Glenn Sacks and Dr. Stephen Basherville in this just published article, Critics Claim Act Curbing Violence Against Women Leaves Men Unprotected*.""From the article:*

"And according to columnist Glenn Sacks, the evidence standard for restraining orders is so low that they are often issued without any allegation of violence."

"...Baskerville believes the legislation is being manipulated in U.S. courts. "It politicizes crime so that crimes are not defined by due process, by criminality, or by one's acts," he avers. "They come to be defined by what group one belongs to, or the relationship between the parties."

"Baskerville says the Violence Against Women Act, while designed to protect women from abuse, has actually been used to destroy families and undermine fathers' rights. Like Sacks, he wants to see major changes in the legislation so that men as well as women are protected."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/29/0111244.shtml

Man cleared of sexual abuse charges levelled for kissing his son on the belly

Matt · 29 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "http://www.nbc17.com/news/4773243/detail.html"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/29/0115215.shtml

Mother Abandons Son on Capital Beltway

Matt · 29 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The lace curtain gets a little thinner - at the expense of this boy who has been abused and abandoned. Story here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/29/0117226.shtml

Doctoral Student Seeks Testimony from Male DV Victims

Matt · 29 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Posted on behalf of Jessi Eckstein:

ARE YOU MALE? Have you been in a heterosexual relationship?
ABUSIVE, HETEROSEXUAL RELATIONSHIP?

My name is Jessi Eckstein and I am working on doctoral studies in communication at the University of Illinois. I am conducting a study on the experiences of men who have been abused in heterosexual relationships.

The goal of this study is to better understand abused men's experiences, with the hope that this understanding can be used to help others.

Click "Read more..." for more.If you are interested in participating, all you will need to do is send me an email (jessi.research-at-gmail.com, or jeckste2-at-uiuc.edu) so we can set up a time when I can call you on the phone. Everything you tell me will be strictly confidential and you do not even have to tell me your real name. I'll also share the results of the study with you if you are interested.

The only requirements of the study are that you be male, are or have been in an abusive relationship with a female partner, are English-speaking, and reside within the United States.

If you have any additional questions or wish to participate in this study, please feel free to contact me immediately. I'm easiest to reach at jessi.research-at-gmail.com.

Also, if you know other men who have been abused in their heterosexual relationships, feel free to pass on my email address to them.

Jessi Eckstein

jessi.research-at-gmail.com

jeckste2-at-uiuc.edu

University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign

Department of Speech Communication

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/29/1732222.shtml

Violence Against Women - Australia Says No

Matt · 30 July 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Well the "Violence Against Women - Australia Says No" campaign from last year has resurfaced its ugly head here in Australia again. We are being bombarded with misandrist commericals here that protray men as the ugly perpertartors/rapist/abusers and women as helpless victims at their mercy."

Click "Read more..." for more."Here is an article on the campaign.

Here (.pdf file) are the complaints about the commerical being dismissed last year.

Do you think they'd take the complaints any more seriously this year?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/07/30/1920208.shtml

8-year-old boy charged for being sexually assaulted

Matt · 1 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Rand T. writes "Charges were dropped, although the District Attorney claims "both the child and teenager were equal participants." (So why wasn't the girl charged?) Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/01/2111256.shtml

Indian Supreme Court Upholds DV Law

Matt · 2 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Indian Supreme Court has upheld the constitutional validity of Section 498A of the Indian Penal Code which makes `cruelty to a married women by the husband or his relatives' a criminal offense. This law was enacted in 1983 under pressure from feminist groups. There are widespread reports that this law is being used by many women as a tool of revenge. The Supreme Court also advised the legislature to evolve guidelines to prevent misuse."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/02/1429230.shtml

MSN Article On Women and "Career Off-Tracking"

Matt · 2 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This article addresses the wage gap myth indirectly, but the implications are obvious: you can't do two different things at the same time in the same time space allotted, not unlike how two objects can't occupy the same space at the same time.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/02/1452205.shtml

Woman on Woman Domestic Violence

Matt · 3 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

CJ writes "A woman was sentenced to 18 to 20 years in prison Tuesday for fatally stabbing her girlfriend multiple times in a hotel room in and leaving her body in a waste bin. Not suprisingly, this story was not a highly visible news story, it was buried in the back pages of the paper."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/03/1412221.shtml

RADAR Alert: Use August to Build on our Momentum

Matt · 3 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On August 1 our elected officials began their August recess. The August recess is when they go back to their home districts and see how the political winds are blowing. And this year, our Senators and Congressmen will be meeting with persons saying that VAWA needs to be changed!

Click "Read more..." for more.

RADAR ALERT: USE AUGUST TO BUILD ON OUR MOMENTUM
To make sure you can get an appointment, it's critical that you do the following THIS WEEK:

1. Get the phone number of the Washington office of your Representative (available at http://www.house.gov/)
2. Call your Representative's office and request to speak with the Scheduler.
3. When you speak to the Scheduler, state that you are a constituent and you wish to meet with the Representative during the August recess, preferably during the last two weeks of August. (That will give you enough time to finalize the meeting date and find 1-2 other persons from your District to join you.)
4. If you are asked what organization you are with, state "RADAR" (or any other appropriate group you are involved with).
5. The Scheduler may ask you to fax a written request indicating the topic you want to discuss, along with a couple of preferred meeting dates. Simply state that you want to discuss "VAWA reauthorization".
6. Make a note of the Scheduler's name, in case you need to follow-up.
7. If you are ambitious, now do the same for your two Senators! You can find their phone numbers at http://www.senate.gov/.

That's all you need to do this week - make an initial call to set up a meeting date. When you do meet with your legislator, make the following two requests:

1. Change the title from VAWA to the "Family Violence Prevention Act".
2. Add language to the bill to require that 36% of the funding go to programs that serve male victims of DV.

Keep an eye on RADAR's website (http://www.mediaradar.org/) or sign up for our E-lert to keep up to date on specifics of what to tell your legislators when you meet with them.

++

Date of RADAR Release: August 2, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/03/1419204.shtml

Popular feminist website source of hilarious parody

Matt · 3 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Looks like some fine ladies sympathic to our cause have put together a satire parody of feministing.com, a popular feminist website. You can find the spoof at http://www.feministing.org/. It's funny because its true, yes?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/03/1413219.shtml

Female Catholic School Teacher Charged with Statutory Rape

Matt · 3 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Another one surfaces. From the article:

"If [Geisel] were a man, she'd likely be referred to as a predator," said Colonie Police Chief Steven Heider."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/03/1651215.shtml

Felony Charges Filed Against Girl for Rock Assault on Boy

Matt · 3 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Would there be any controversy if the assailant had been a boy? Story here. Really calls to mind the whole "Boys are stupid, throw rocks at them" T-shirts, doesn't it?

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/03/196228.shtml

NY fraudster posed as Saudi princess

Matt · 4 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A New York woman who posed in high-society circles as a Saudi princess pleaded guilty on Tuesday to grand larceny and insurance fraud and was ordered to a mental hospital. Antoinette Millard, 42, used a special credit card to spend nearly $US 1 million ($NZ 1.4m) during a three-month shopping spree.

...

After her arrest, she blamed her predicament on traumatic events in her life including being sexually harassed at work, and witnessing "people jumping out of the Twin Towers" while on her way to work on September 11, 2001."

Ed. note: I posted this under "Inequality" because I doubt if she were a he, he would have merely been sent to a psychiatric ward aftergetting caught.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/04/1747224.shtml

State Rating for Men Considering or in Families

Matt · 4 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

TMN writes "Not sure where to air this idea so I am trying a few places. What would really be great is a webpage and or Articles/Ads which list all of the states and rate them in terms of Men "friendliness" during custody and child support cases. Sort of a "Places Rated Almanac" for men considering parenthood or are parents (actually would apply to all men considering the risk men are at for out-of wed-lock births as well). Considering that about 1 in 2 marriages fail – most men really need this information and it is critical to their well being and their children's well being."

Click "Read more..." for more."The ratings: for example a state which has a shared parenting presumption in custody issues would rank high for men considering parenthood or currently a parent (or single men at risk of out-of-wedlock birth). States, like New York, which apply the child support guidelines in a draconian fashion (all the New York Courts totally ignore the $80,000 combined income limit) would rank low, i.e. very undesirable. New York would also get another bad mark as it only awards sole-custody (usually to the mother). A state that awards sole-custody but applies the $80,000 combined income limit and/or requires custodial parent accounting for child support payments, would rank somewhere in-between.

Not sure how to do this - we probably need some serious activists to do this. But if it was wide spread enough then states would have to compete for men's money and residency in order to make the situation more favorable for them to live there.

Just a thought - perhaps you can post this as a worthy item on your main page.

Tom"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/04/1748252.shtml

26 Years Later, DNA Clears Man of Rapes

Matt · 4 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A man who spent 26 years behind bars as Florida's "Bird Road Rapist" was released from prison Wednesday after DNA evidence cleared him in two of the attacks and cast doubt on whether he was responsible for any of the crimes. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/04/1750221.shtml

Male Nurse Sues for Sexual Harrassment

Matt · 6 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

NextEntity writes "Another case where if one were to reverse the genders, the "you go grrl" clique would come out of the woodworks chanting "Down with the patriarchy!".

BANGOR - Fed up with comments such as "men are jerks" and "men are idiots," a former male nurse at Eastern Maine Medical Center has filed a lawsuit in federal court alleging he was sexually harassed by the female nursing staff and discriminated against on the basis of gender.

Check out this article to learn more."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/06/0146222.shtml

Mother Moves Overseas and Leaves her Daughter Behind

Matt · 6 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "In This story on the BBC, a mother moved to Turkey and left her 14/15 year old daughter alone to fend for herself. This was a permanent move, not just a 'quicky holiday escape'.

Of course, there is no talk of charges. "The police have confirmed they are trying to trace the woman's whereabouts with a view to bringing her back to the UK." A slap on the wrist seems likely."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/06/0147226.shtml

Men, Boys, and Steroids

Matt · 7 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "An article by a pro wrestler that discusses the serious problem of steroids and the dangerous effects on men and young boys that the media never covers.

From the article:

'Steroids are the male equivalent of female eating disorders. Women starve themselves to reach their unrealistic body image standards; guys are taking steroids to reach theirs. This is a very dangerous situation because unfortunately we look for results first and worry about the consequences after. I think we owe it to our kids to be better than that!' "

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/07/1357225.shtml

RADAR Alert: Our Lobbying Team in Washington Needs Your Help and Support

Matt · 8 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Let's be realistic. After 30 years of the one-party gender system, it's going to take awhile to reform all the unjust laws that discriminate against men. The Violence Against Women Act is one example of these unfair laws.

We have to work for the changes that will do the most to reduce bias against men, and have a good chance of success.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Our Lobbying Team in Washington Needs Your Help and Support
Fortunately, our movement has now assembled a savvy lobbying team that is working the halls of Congress on our behalf. This team knows the players and understands what we can realistically achieve, given the current political climate. This team has also established a broad coalition of groups of both sexes and all political stripes, also working to reform VAWA.

This team works in close consultation with RADAR representatives and other allies in our movement. At this point in time, the two most important things we are pushing for are:

1. Add language to the bill that clearly indicates that services for male victims qualify for funding. (It's important to ask that "services that focus on male victims qualify for funding" rather than just asking that male victims qualify for services, because many VAWA proponents claim that men are already eligible to request help from women's shelters.)
2. Divide the VAWA funds equitably so that 36% of the funds for victim services go to programs that focus on male victims. (Why 36%? Because according to the Department of Justice, 835,000 men are victims of partner assault each year - that's 36% of the total number. [See p.7, exhibit 7 of http://www.ncjrs.org/pdffiles/172837.pdf] And why not push for a higher number, like 50%? Because in the current thinking on Capital Hill, that request would lack credibility.)

If we want to reform VAWA, we have to be smart.

Our lobbyists are saying that August is a critical opportunity to get our message out - SO LET'S GO!

In previous Alerts we asked you to contact your Senator and Representative about adding male-inclusive language. (If you haven't done so yet, please do so ASAP. Click here for instructions.)

Now we need to push the issue of equitable allocation of funds. This is the message we are asking you to get out for the rest of August:

“Please add language to VAWA that specifies 36% of funding for victim services go to programs that focus on male victims.”

You may also want to explain that under the Victims of Crime Act (VOCA), 40% of funds are designated for family violence programs, so using percentage allocations has been done before in DV programs.

Because we want to strongly emphasize the 36% funding issue, it's not necessary to bring up the issue of changing the name of VAWA at this time.

Remember that during August, our opponents are making phone calls, sending letters, and holding face-to-face meetings with our elected officials. We must match their efforts -- in fact, we must surpass them.

If you haven't scheduled an appointment already, do it today:

1. Get the phone number of the Washington office of your Representative (available at http://www.house.gov/)
2. Call your Representative's office and request to speak with the Scheduler.
3. When you speak to the Scheduler, state that you are a constituent and you wish to meet with the Representative during the August recess. If it is too late to schedule a meeting with the Representative, ask to meet with the legislative director (L.D.).
4. If you are asked what organization you are with, state "RADAR" (or any other appropriate group you are involved with).
5. The Scheduler may ask you to fax a written request indicating the topic you want to discuss, along with a couple of preferred meeting dates. Simply state that you want to discuss "VAWA reauthorization".
6. Make a note of the Scheduler's name, in case you need to follow-up.
7. Try to find 1-2 other interested persons from your District to join you at the meeting.
8. If you're feeling ambitious, do the same for your two Senators! You can find their phone numbers at http://www.senate.gov/.

Let's do it!

++

Date of RADAR Release: August 7, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/08/0222224.shtml

Missing VAWA Hearing Testimony Located

Matt · 8 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Way back on 20 July '05 I posted links to the Senate Judiciary Committee's web site for VAWA's 7/19/05 hearings. Mysteriously, the lead-off testimony by Diane Stuart, Director of the DOJ's Office on Violence Against Women, has never appeared on the site. It has been published on the OVW's site now."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"In her testimony, the fed's chief DV officer, while asking for more money and expanded and intrusive VAWA programs, states that -- 'The Federal government's efforts to reduce violence against women must continue. In the last 10 years, the rate of domestic violence has declined by 59 percent and the rate of rape and sexual assault declined by 68 percent due to a combination of factors. These are dramatic changes by any measure. But, this is only part of a somewhat more sobering picture. Although violent crime has decreased nationwide, it still devastates the lives of many women. .... Our ultimate goal is to change perceptions around violence against women so that these crimes are considered unacceptable and no longer tolerated in our society.' Do you think that when there's been an additional 40% decrease in DV that OVW will recommend VAWA's elimination?

Link at -- http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/vawo/docs/testimony071920 05.pdf"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/08/1952211.shtml

MSN Strikes Again: Men Are Drooling Semi-literates

Matt · 8 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original apetr writes "This article looked promising but started off on the wrong foot. I was offended to say the least.

Opening lines:

"Get out the spittoon. Men produce twice as much saliva as women. Women, for their part, learn to speak earlier, know more words, recall them better, pause less and glide through tongue twisters."

How about this intro: "Women can only produce half as much saliva as Men, while men commmand better math and spatial abilities, excel in physics and calculus and tend not to run off at the mouth."

Here is the entire article."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/08/1957246.shtml

UK Hotel Bans Men from an Entire Wing

Matt · 9 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "The BBC reports here that an exclusive London hotel has banned men from an entire building/wing (68 rooms) to make a female-friendly environment."

Click "Read more..." for more.

"Even the staff in that building will be female only, and the rooms will have nice features handy for both men and women, such as lit wardrobes - except, of course, men won't be allowed to use them.

I just love this bit: 'He admitted the ban on men could not be fully enforceable if, for example, a guest wanted to invite a man to her room.' So as long as a man is on a leash he won't be arrested for being there. Wooppee. There are no email addresses for the hotel, but I'm writing a letter anyway explaining that noone who works for my company will ever stay there while they hold such a sexist policy."

Ed note: There are indeed email addresses for this hotel as well as phone contacts. See this page for contact information, with this page being for the specific hotel in question and City-at-grangehotels.com being the email address for it. How's this for a rhetorical question to ask them: "If a lot of white people said they felt vulnerable among black people within the hotel, would you create an all-white section? Or vice versa?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/09/208214.shtml

Woman on Woman Radio Stunt considered Domestic Violence

Matt · 9 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Evil White Male Oppressor writes "A radio station that held a contest for concert tickets where women voluntarily slap each other is busted and forced to donate money to a nonprofit group that promotes awareness of domestic violence. So what the hell is boxing?!?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/09/2010211.shtml

If men Can Be Aggressive, Women Can Be Subversive

Matt · 11 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This is from TribuneIndia Aug 2003. I posted it because it's really male friendly. And it features in `Her World' section of the newspaper!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/11/1953230.shtml

Plea Deal in Woman-on-Girl Sexual Battery

Matt · 11 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "A Pasco County woman pleaded guilty Monday to charges of lewd or lascivious battery after admitting she had a two-year sexual relationship with a 15-year-old friend of her daughter. Story here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/11/1955239.shtml

U.K.: 1-in-25 Men Not the Actual Father

Matt · 11 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Subhuman writes "Reuters reports that one out of 25 men (at least in Britain) is thought to be raising another man's kids.

I know mine are mine... I had to prove it via DNA test during my divorce with their mother."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/11/1959221.shtml

Female Teacher-Rapist Gets 9 Months in Plea Bargain

Matt · 13 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "AP reports today that Pamela Rogers Turner, a 28 year-old former elementary teacher in Tenn., pleaded no contest to charges of sexual battery and statutory rape, and was sentenced to 9 months in prison, eight years of probabtion, loss of her teaching license, and registration as a sex offender. In my state, a man's average sentence for rape/sexual assault is 15.7 years, with a mandatory minimum of 6 years. Feminist justice in action?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/13/0110238.shtml

SAFE-NH's Executive Director named Co-Chair of DV Council

Matt · 15 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

VIP SAFE NH writes "Lee Newman, Executive Director of SAFE-NH was nominated, recently elected and named Co-Chair of the Greater Derry Domestic Violence Coordinating Council.

Mr. Newman has been an active and contributing member of this council for 2 years and is pleased to be able to continue his necessary and important work with the council in this new capacity. Mr. Newman will also be the council's Administrative contact for it's website which is in development."

Click "Read more..." for more."In the past Mr. Newman has helped to recruit new membership among local professionals, has taken an active role in providing outside experts to present information to council members and has provided a constant flow of information regarding diverse perspectives and under-served victim populations. This activity will continue along with his new responsibilities as Co-Chair. He is very pleased that he will continue to be in a position to help guide this progressive and open-minded Council in it's important work!

This Council's membership is representative of professionals within the scope of social service providers, law enforcement, educators, mental health providers, court personnel, religious leaders and domestic violence professionals among others.

This Council serves the Family Division of the Derry District Court and the 9 town coverage area within it's jurisdiction.

The Mission Statement of the Greater Derry Domestic Violence Coordinating Council:

To investigate, analyze, understand and direct cooperative efforts to help end Domestic Violence through education. support services and law enforcement.

Brief history of NH's DV Coordinating Councils:

32 original councils were formed in 1994 and these local "committees" were populated with representatives from legal and law enforcement professionals, the advocacy community, schools and other community representatives. The goals of these local councils were to:

(A) Educate communities about all aspects of the justice system as it relates to domestic violence matters.

(B) Create a forum for the free-flow of information with which these cases are handled, including an opportunity to critically review how each of the "contact points" of the system are performing their function.

(C) Engage the community in discussion of the need for continued information and education about domestic violence at a local level.
In 1997 the National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges recognized this council "project" in New Hampshire as a model for Coordinating Council programs across the country!

In addition to its outreach, education and other initiatives the Greater Derry Domestic Violence Council:

* issues several scholarships per year to high school students in their coverage area

* designed and prints a pocket sized Domestic Violence Safety Plan , practical information and resource guide which is carried by law enforcement, advocates and others to distribute to victims in need.

* This Council also produced and distributes a video for education and outreach purposes entitled, "Behind Closed Doors".

Mr. Newman is looking forward to helping to enhance this council's ability to reach out to the communities in it's coverage area by promoting outreach and a more public profile for the council in the future, this will be among his core responsibilities as Co-Chair."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/15/0244231.shtml

RADAR Alert: Now is the time to contact your legislator

Matt · 15 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Congress reconvenes after Labor Day, a mere three weeks from now. Since the Violence Against Women Act expires September 30th, it's likely that the 2005 reauthorization bill will be one of the first things to be considered by Congress once they're back in session.

During the coming three weeks our lobbyists will be meeting with congressional staffmembers, working to convince them to remove the gender-bias from the bill. But those who want the discrimination to continue will be lobbying hard as well.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Now is the time to contact your legislator
So we need you to do your part. The next three weeks, while our legislators are back in their home districts, are a critical time to make sure our legislators hear our message that basic concepts of fairness and justice, not to mention the Fourteenth Amendment's "equal protection" clause, require that neither battered men nor battered women be revictimized by discriminatory legislation.

If you have not yet made an appointment to meet with your legislator, please call immediately. If it's too late to get an appointment to meet with your legislator directly, arrange an appointment with the overall Legislative Director or a staff Legislative Assistant who deals with VAWA. If they cannot schedule a face-to-face meeting, then arrange a telephone meeting. When you meet, emphasize the following points:

1. VAWA must have language added that clearly states that services focusing on male victims qualify for funding. Many legislators mistakenly believe that VAWA-funded women's shelters are required to help abused men who seek help from them. So it's important that VAWA have specific language added that unequivocally requires that services primarily focusing on male victims qualify for funding.
2. Equitable distribution of VAWA funding means that 36% of the funds for victim services must go to programs that focus on male victims. This is not a randomly selected number. The Federal government's own "National Violence Against Women Survey" found 835,000 men and 1.5 million women are physically assault by an intimate partner annually. Men constitute 36% of all victims. [See p.7, exhibit 7 of http://www.ncjrs.org/pdffiles/172837.pdf] It's not unusual for DV legislation to specify percentage allocations. The Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) specifies that 40% of funds are designated for family violence programs.

If you haven't scheduled an appointment already, do it today:

1. Get the phone number of the Washington office of your Representative (available at http://www.house.gov/).
2. Call your Representative's office and request to speak with the Scheduler.
3. When you speak to the Scheduler, state that you are a constituent and you wish to meet with the Representative during the August recess.
   1. If it is too late to schedule a meeting with the Representative, ask to meet with the overall Legislative Director or a staff Legislative Assistant who deals with VAWA.
   2. If they cannot schedule a face-to-face meeting, then arrange a telephone meeting.
4. If you are asked what organization you are with, state "RADAR" (or any other appropriate group you are involved with).
5. The Scheduler may ask you to fax a written request indicating the topic you want to discuss, along with a couple of preferred meeting dates. Simply state that you want to discuss "making the VAWA reauthorization bill gender-inclusive".
6. Make a note of the Scheduler's name, in case you need to follow-up.

7. Try to find 1-2 other interested persons from your District to join you at the meeting.
8. If you're feeling ambitious, do the same for your two Senators! You can find their phone numbers at http://www.senate.gov/.

Time is short! Do it today!

Be ready for Shock and Awe, Phase II, coming September 6!

++

Date of RADAR Release: August 14, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/15/1448242.shtml

HHS Dept Recognizes Govt Intrusion into Men's Rights

Matt · 16 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Wade Horn, Asst. Secretary for Families and Children speaks out about men's loss of rights in divorce, in a recent NRO article. Could this indicate a change in the way our government veiws men?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/16/0444235.shtml

British Newscaster Speaks Out Publicly Against Feminism's Consequences

Matt · 16 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Evil White Male Oppressor writes "BREAKING NEWS: Long-time British newsreader has had enough and blasts the changes a feminist society has wrought. NOT-SO-BREAKING-NEWS: Is Anybody Really Listening Anymore?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/16/0451243.shtml

Are Family Courts Unfair?

Matt · 18 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Miss A writes "This post quotes NJ and NY judges on the treatment of men in the family courts. If this is what judges say on the record, imagine how bad the situation really is."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/18/0126254.shtml

MSN Again: Guess Who Loses Out Most in Breakups

Matt · 18 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "An article written by a woman interviewing, interestingly, only women, about who loses out more financially in breakups. I wonder how the article would look if it was oh, equal in information and interviewees. Nothing new here but it is amazing how blatantly MSN can take sides on these issues."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/18/0133203.shtml

BBC: "Bring Your Husband to Heel"

Matt · 18 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Steven Brown writes "For British people: On BBC2 this Monday evening (Aug. 22) at 7:00 PM is the beginning of a 'light-hearted' series all about how 'desperate housewives' are using dog-training techniques to train their husbands... a Chris Morris type spoof? I'm afraid not. Link here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/18/0134239.shtml

Billions for battered women, not a penny for battered men

Matt · 18 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Ray writes " VAWA Reauthorization: Billions for battered women, not a penny for battered men!

Mark Rosenthal writes: "Even after receiving $5.1 billion under the past two VAWA bills, battered women's advocates still argue that there's too little money, and therefore the government should allocate no funding whatsoever for organizations whose primary purpose is to help the 835,000 men the U.S. Dept. of Justice estimates are assaulted by their partner annually.7 Yet somehow there's enough money in the current $4.2 billion VAWA reauthorization bill to make special provisions for an estimated 32,600 Native Americans,8 but of course, only if those Native Americans are female. No males need apply."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/18/2127211.shtml

78-YO Woman Murders Ex-Boyfriend in Retirement Home

Matt · 18 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

With age not always cometh wisdom, I suppose. The latest example is here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/18/2129215.shtml

Executive Director of SAFE-NH accepts Nomination

Matt · 23 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

VIP SAFE NH writes "

Executive Director of SAFE-NH accepts nomination to the Board of Director's of NH TREE

Lee Newman, Executive Director of SAFE-NH and his wife were recently invited to attend the quarterly Board of Director's meeting and dinner of New Hampshire Transgender Resources for Education and Empowerment.
NH TREE is a non-profit Transgendered Rights organization which among other initiatives holds a Spring Summit (conference)on the campus of the University of New Hampshire in collaboration with the UNH Alliance for GLBTQ students.
Mr. Newman had met with Sarah Thompson the Executive Director of NH TREE several months ago to discuss future possible collaborations between the two organizations due to the fact that SAFE-NH provides services and support to Transgendered clients who have experienced intimate partner violence/domestic violence. Many Transgendered individuals "identify" as gay and lesbian as well as heterosexual so the fact that SAFE-NH counts ALL victims and survivors among their clients is conducive to some collaborative efforts between these organizations.

During the quarterly meeting ,Mr. Newman was asked to join as a Director, after nomination and voting was completed, Mr. Newman accepted a seat on the Board.

The Board then made decisions regarding upcoming initiatives and discussions listed on the agenda. Mr. Newman is looking forward to a positive and productive term with NH TREE."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/23/177243.shtml

Canada Sticks it to NCPs - Again

Matt · 23 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "
This is an article about how Canadian parents (mostly dads) will now be forced to pay increased back support payments even though they have abided by the courts decisions over the last 15 years. This is disgusting. There should be income support limits. Why should you pay a woman 50,000 a month just because you are a millionaire? The payment is for the clothing, shelter and education of a child. This can be easily achieved for no more than $2000 a month maximum (assuming that she is also responsible for the other half)

This is getting out of hand. No wonder so many honest guys these days simply just leave the country."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/23/1710210.shtml

Hero Syndrome: Boy, 13, uses own body to shield girl

Matt · 23 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes "
Story here:

A 13-year-old boy threw his body in front of a little girl early yesterday as a gunman sprayed a Brooklyn stoop with bullets, wounding the two children, police said."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/23/1714203.shtml

Child Abusers Most Often Women

Matt · 23 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

A Study on the health and human services website shows that women child abusers outnumber men by a ratio of 2:1.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/23/1715220.shtml

Fems Debate DV Shelter Hiring a Male Director

Matt · 23 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "If you thought feminists were in favor of Equal Employment Opportunity, apparently that doesn't extend to hiring a man to oversee a battered women's shelter. The battle over the next director of (Boston's) Transition House has got activists in the shelter system questioning whether embracing male leadership is the next logical step in the progress of the shelter movement or a violation of its mission to protect and treat women and children affected by domestic violence. Some feminists protest - "We human rights activists have always had the vision of abolishing male violence--not making a living off of it. It's such a regrettable irony that some men (and women) previously opposed to feminism are now doing just that by exploiting the initiatives of feminists and making a profit off of male violence against women."

Full article here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/23/1717223.shtml

RADAR ALERT: Exciting Progress in the House, Now We Need to Zero in on the Senate

Matt · 23 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The thousands of letters, faxes, phone calls, and personal visits we've been making are beginning to work. Our lobbyists in Washington say the doors are beginning to swing open, and our message is being heard more sympathetically.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Exciting Progress in the House, Now We Need to Zero in on the Senate Encouraging news comes from the House of Representatives:

1. As we reported previously, the House added language to make VAWA “gender-neutral.” There's still some ambiguity in the wording, so our lobbyists continue to work on fixing that.
2. In order to make the bill gender-neutral, the House Judiciary Committee has now removed the Findings that say DV is a problem that only affects women (go to http://thomas.loc.gov/, where it says Search Bill Text, enter HR 3402, to see how the bill now reads).
3. The House Judiciary Committee moved VAWA into the Appropriations bill for the Department of Justice. This may delay the final vote on VAWA, possibly into October.

Now we want the Senate to make the changes the House has made. Since the Senate Judiciary Committee will be tied up with the Supreme Court hearings after Labor Day, we're now going to zero in on the Senate.

If you've scheduled a face-to-face meeting with your Representative or Senator, go ahead with the meeting. We've added a TAKE ACTION NOW column on the RADAR website with the key information you'll need, including a summary of the VAWA bill, RADAR's analysis, requested changes to the bill, and Key Articles.

If you don't have a face-to-face meeting scheduled, we recommend you set up a 10-minute telephone appointment with the Legislative Assistant (L.A.) in your Senator's office. Please do it this week – we have only two weeks until Congress goes back to session.

Here's an approach we've found works: When you get on telephone with the L.A., invite them to get on their computer and go to the RADAR website: http://www.mediaradar.org/. Invite them to open the Fact Sheet in the Press Room. Now highlight the information that shows that women are equally likely to commit DV, and that men comprise over one-third of persons injured by DV.

You don't have to do any “arm-twisting” or high-pressure sales jobs – let the facts speak for themselves!

Then highlight our two main requests:

1. Make VAWA male-inclusive, and
2. Allocate 36% of funding to programs that focus on male victims, since the 835,000 men physically assaulted by an intimate partner annually represent 36% of all victims.

This is what our lobbyists are asking you to emphasize: “What is clear is that legislators need to keep hearing that men are victims of domestic violence in significant numbers, and that VAWA must be made unambiguously nondiscriminatory as both a fairness and constitutional matter.”

Finally, invite the L.A. to peruse any of the Key Articles that may be appropriate. For example, if you're talking to a liberal official, Cathy Young's article in the Boston Globe may be most helpful. A conservative official will likely be more impressed by Phyllis Schlaffly's column.

Above all, be courteous and respectful in your conversations. Do not become angry or get into an argument.

Chances are, you will have more contacts with this same person in September!

We've got the BIG MO. Now let's keep riding the wave!!

Be ready for Shock and Awe, Phase II, coming September 6!

++

Date of RADAR Release: August 21, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/23/1721204.shtml

"Animal" Comment Triggers Equality Debate in Sweden

Matt · 25 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This article from Women'sEnews is innocently entitled "Animal Comment Triggers Equality Debate in Sweden," but it does not relate the viciousness of the statements made about men by Ireen von Wachenfeldt, a government official who is one of Sweden's best-known feminists. From the article:
"The Swedish TV reporter, Evin Rubar, asked von Wachenfeldt about the statement from the SCUM Manifesto: "To call a man an animal is to flatter him; he's a machine, a walking dildo."
"Is that your standpoint?" Rubar asked.
"Yes, it's my standpoint," the director said.
"That man is an animal?" the reporter said.
"Man is an animal," von Wachenfeldt said. "Don't you think so?""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/24/2345234.shtml

Houston's Racist DV Perp Round-Up

Matt · 25 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "The politically ambitious Chief of Police in Houston TX has launched a campaign to arrest alleged domestic violence perpetrators, with the catchy title "Abusers Are Losers.""

Click "Read more..." for more."Those who have been arrested will have their mug shots displayed on our Web site along with a brief summary of their crime," (Chief)Hurtt said.

A quick look at the web site (link below) shows that of 50 posted mug shots, 46 are black or hispanic individuals. Three are black women. Four are white men.

These individuals are being publicly exposed as criminals BEFORE they have even had their day in court! Another fine example of feminist/fascist "justice?"

Story and mug-shot links at -

http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/9050690/

http://www.houstontx.gov/police/warrant_roundup.htm"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/24/2347252.shtml

Japan's female workers: "wasted asset"

Matt · 25 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kyo writes "Time Magazine has a story on female workers as a "wasted asset" in Japan.

The usual fallacious logic finds its way into print yet again:

Activist Hiroko Hara says, "We have to figure out whether to keep fighting for our dream of equality or just give up on having it all."

Once again the "stark career-or-kids choice" is given as an injustice o women, conveniently forgetting that those overworked "salarymen" have no choice at all -- for them, it's work until you collapse."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/24/2351202.shtml

Call to Action: Child Support Review in Arkansas

Matt · 27 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

TMN writes "Recevied from eli72117-at-yahoo.com

September 8th, 2005 at 1:00 PM: The Justice Building, 625 Marshall Street, Room 101, Little Rock, Arkansas 72201

Hello Everyone,

Arkansas Child Support is not determined by legislation, but by a private committee. The Committee on Child Support meets approximately every four years in order to discuss child support amounts. Historically the amount is raised every time without a wide spectrum of viewpoints. The determination based on neither scientific statistics nor common-sense. I encourage everyone to be on time. There are few opportunities like this to make a real difference."

Click "Read more..." for more.
"There was another detrimental meeting that occurred earlier in the year and nobody with our similar viewpoint attended. Upon contacting many of us whom I had e-mailed, each person stated that he or she believed that plenty of other people would attend. They all assumed that the next person would be there. I ask that you make a strong effort to attend. There are going to possibly be multiple representatives of "women's rights" organizations, including N.O.W., attending this meeting. Although women's rights are very different from children's or mother's rights, the conference center will have many representatives of women's rights organizations present. There is a strong probability that the term "DEADBEAT DADS" will be throughout the room. The ideology of "DEADBEAT DADS" should not be used in determining child support. If you do not attend or encourage others to attend, then do not complain about the inevitable outcome. I also highly encourage representatives of out-of-state organizations also attend this meeting. This will set the stage for common-sense rules to be implemented in every state. There are several considerations that the committee is ignoring:

Interstate child support

Surplus child support amounts received by the CP

OCSE getting the amounts incorrect

Being double taxed on the child support

Does the Custodial Parent use the money appropriately?

Summer daycare and extra-curricular activities for the child

These issues should be considered in court. What most view as common-sense differs from the opinion of the courts. So, we must erase the ambiguity and do what makes America a democratic and safe nation.

Pass this e-mail on to everyone as you see fit.

Best Regards,
Eli

For confirmation of times, feel free to call Donna Gay at (501) 682-9400"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/27/0232233.shtml

SAFE-NH Sibling Violence Brochure available now!

Matt · 27 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

VIP SAFE NH writes "There is not much information regarding sibling violence available so we have responded to this need from our contacts by developing a brochure on the subject so that families who need help with this issue will know that we are available to assist.
Sibling Violence is not sibling rivalry, it should be looked at more in the context of bullying,child abuse and possibly as another form of domestic violence."

Click "Read more..." for more."The effects on the victim are enormously damaging emotionally and possibly lethal in its extremes. The effects of this on the abusive sibling are equally damaging in other ways, and can potentially set in motion the precedence for the perpetration of abuse as the child matures and develops intimate relationships.

More studies need to be done but assistance is available for families struggling with this. Our brochure is one of the ways we are utilizing to get the word out that there is help available.

SAFE-NH is available to anyone dealing with this issue and others relating to intimate partner and family violence, bullying etc. and we do so regardless of age or gender.

PLEASE remember that our services are FREE to anyone who contacts us, so if you are able,consider helping us to remain available by sending a donation. Our efforts can grow and our services will remain intact with your help.

Doantions can be made by sending a check to SAFE-NH (P.O. Box 523, Rochester, NH 03867) or by using a credit card, Pay Pal or a monthly contribution on the SAFE site http://www.safe4all.org/donate/ and designating your support for SAFE-NH.

If you live in the U.S. your donation is tax deductible.

For more information about SAFE-NH, the NH Chapter of Stop Abuse For Everyone, please visit our website at: http://www.SAFE-NH.org

Thank you,take care and be SAFE,

Lee Newman

Executive Director: SAFE-NH

P O Box 523

Rochester, NH 03867

lee-at-safe4all.org"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with

comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/27/0236203.shtml

Blame hubby for failing his suicidal wife

Matt · 27 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes: "Wife is refused admittance to one facility, doesn't take nurse's advice to visit ER, kills self four days before daughter's wedding. Says in suicide note, "In my death, no one is guilty." Read it here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/27/0237205.shtml

UK: Another woman gets away with infanticide

Matt · 27 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/27/0243210.shtml

Women in Power and always Probation

Matt · 27 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Jim Moore writes "Within a year three women at the Daviess County Detention Center (Kentucky), two nurses and a deputy jailer, are caught stealing drugs, forgery, evidence tampering and related activities. The latest: fakes a report of domestic violence and, after being caught at that, is taken home where police then discover drugs stolen from the Center. All three get probation.
http://www.messenger-inquirer.com/news/kentucky/8815746.htm"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/27/0244255.shtml

CNN reports workplace fatalities

Matt · 27 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

johnnyp writes "I am curious - how come the news media regularly fails to point out the disparity between men and women when reporting workplace fatalities, but never fail to report that women make less than men? Furthermore, when the income disparity is reported the media almost always fails to mention that there is no income disparity when you factor in work experience and education within job type."

Click "Read more..." for more.

"Here is an example:

America's most dangerous jobs

Survey: Loggers and fisherman still take the most risk; roofers record sharp increase in fatalities.

August 26, 2005: 11:08 AM EDT

By Les Christie, CNN/Money staff writer

One gross omission from the story was that 93% of workplace fatality victims are male and only 7% are female. When these numbers are compared to the fact that nearly half of the workforce is female there is a horrible sex disparity. If the statistics for the sexes were reversed, there would be 24 hour coverage by all of the news outlets until the situation was remedied!

You can find the Bureau of Labor Statistics report here (.pdf file)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/27/0248244.shtml

NC to Encourage Women Seeking TROs to Get Guns

Matt · 28 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "North Carolina wants to issue guns with their restraining orders. Bad enough throwing guns into a volatile situation, if we didn't know already that a huge percentage of restraining orders are falsified to get the man out of the house and get the upper hand in a divorce. The Gov has until Oct 1 to veto. How about sending him a letter? Story link here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/28/1340207.shtml

China Joins the Sexual Harassment Bandwagon

Matt · 28 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

So it begins... read it here. Article closes with:

"Under the amended law, "gender equality is designated as one of the country's basic national policies", China's official Xinhua news agency reports.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/28/1342207.shtml

Pornography exploits men, not women, says porn star

Matt · 29 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From BBC News:

Many people argue that pornography is degrading and exploitative to women. But Michelle Thorne, who has worked in the porn industry for six years, does not agree. "I have never felt exploited. If anything it's giving you power over men. The only people exploited, if anyone is, are the men who go out and spend their money on porn," says the 26-year-old from Bristol. But Miss Thorne claims: "The people in this world who are really being exploited are those women in those countries where they have to cover up all the time and can't vote or anything. A woman's sexuality does give her power."

Her last sentence carries a deep resonance with me -- is it any surprise why feminists push for carte blanche privilege with their sexuality while constantly pushing for social / legal changes to keep a man's in check?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/29/0231233.shtml

Germaine Greer - paedophile?

Matt · 30 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Steven X Brown writes "Excellent article here from Jonathan Gornall in today's Times. He writes (prompted by Greer's new book 'The Boy') of how it's almost 'acceptable' nowadays for grown women to abuse and lust after underage boys, whereas if the genders were reversed there would be an outcry

His email address is: jonathan.gornall-at-thetimes.co.uk"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/30/0052204.shtml

Michael Buerk Criticizes our Feminised World on British TV

Matt · 30 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ahhkaboom writes "On British television (on the first episode of "Don't Get Me Started" on Channel Five), Michael Buerk dared to note and also criticize how our world is becoming feminised. He noted how masculine qualities are being forced aside, men are being forced out of the family, and how men are being feminised in various ways. The press, of course, has hated Mr. Buerk for these views.

Here, however, is a more fair view from the press on the program here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/30/1257247.shtml

RADAR Alert: Congress Reconvenes Next Week. Call Your Senators Today!

Matt · 30 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

There's only one week left until Congress reconvenes. This is a critical week for contacting your Senators about removing the gender-discriminatory language from VAWA. We've made good progress in the House. Now we need to make certain that the Senate's version of the bill is also made male-inclusive.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Congress reconvenes next week. Call your Senators today!
The bill is currently being worked on by the Senate Judiciary Committee. But we need to convince every member of the Senate that there is a groundswell of support for making the bill male-inclusive.

Please contact both of your own Senators, whether or not they're on the Judiciary Committee:

1. Get the phone number of the Washington, D.C. office for each of your Senators from http://www.senate.gov/ or by calling the Capitol switchboard at 202-224-3121.
2. Ask to speak with the Legislative Assistant responsible for VAWA.
3. When you speak to the L.A., state that you are a constituent.
4. Explain that you want your Senator to tell the Senators on the Judiciary Committee (or to tell the other Senators on the committee, if your Senator is a committee member) that his/her constituents are telling him/her:
   1. Programs that focus on male victims must receive VAWA funding, just as programs that focus on female victims do.
   2. The House has already made these changes to the bill. Now it's time for the Senate to do the same.
5. Repeat from step 1 for your other Senator.

If you want to send something in writing, don't use email or U.S. mail. The anthrax quarrantine can delay delivery of U.S. mail by several weeks. And whether a legislator pays attention to email can vary a great deal from one legislator to another.

Your best choice for written communication is to send it by FAX. Unfortunately, a few legislators' websites list the wrong FAX number. So the best bet is to call the Senator's office and ask for the FAX number. Also ask for the name of the Legislative Assistant responsible for VAWA, so you'll know who to address your FAX to.

Time is short! Call or FAX today!

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

Date of RADAR Release: August 29, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with

comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/30/222229.shtml

Aren't Divorced Men Just Plain Evil?

Matt · 31 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Are men who get divorced evil? Does our culture judge them unfairly? MIsForMalevolent says 'no', and 'yes', respectively."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/30/2210215.shtml

Couple challenge Virginia law on registering for draft

Matt · 31 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kelly R. Rice writes "Couple challenge Virginia law on registering for draft

Do you agree? Post your thoughts"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/31/1545237.shtml

BBC says it is sorry for a sexist program

Matt · 31 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ahhkaboom writes "On its website, the BBC says it has issued an apology over the program "Bring Your Husband to Heel" after receiving complaints it was sexist towards men. On this show, a woman dog trainer used her techniques to teach women how to modify their husbands' behaviour.

Yep, the UK is just lovely."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/31/1549245.shtml

Women's Superior Legal Firepower

Matt · 31 August 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "While North Carlina is trying to issue firearms to women who seek Temporary Restraining Orders, Canada is busily trying to confiscate men's firearms.

Through it all, a common denominator of misrepresentations by women being taken seriously by the courts, and men's rights taking a back seat."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/08/31/1551244.shtml

Expatriate Woman Convicted of Murdering Husband

Matt · 1 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "An American woman in Hong Kong, Nancy Kissel, was convicted this Thursday after she drugged her husband with a milkshake laced with sedatives, and then beat him to death -all to avoid a divorce that was threatened after her infidelity. Her defense? "I was abused, he was a workaholic, he snorted cocaine, and, perhaps most incredibly: it was self-defense*". The jury didn't buy it."*

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/01/172214.shtml

Carnival of VAWA-Opposing Websites

Matt · 1 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MIsForMalevolent has a good 'carnival' (or vortex?) of web-sites commenting on VAWA in a male-positive way. Arm yourselves with knowledge, and contact your Senator."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/01/172257.shtml

Hitchens on Circumcision

Matt · 1 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Christopher Hitchens doesn't lack for courage! Read this. This is big exposure for this issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/01/174203.shtml

More on declining fertility

Thomas · 2 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Though the populations of developing nations are expected to increase at least through mid-century, collapsing fertility rates throughout most of the developed world have already begun to take a severe toll. Japan's population has aged for years as a result of this phenomenon, and its population has already started to collapse -- two years before expected. It's hard to find an analysis of such a politically incorrect notion, but I suspect that the destructively rapid collapse in fertility rates has arisen in part from the systematic destruction of traditional families and of male-female relations in general as well as from high rates of abortion, in other words as a result of feminism.

As Europe and Japan collapse, the US may find itself standing on top of an ash heap. In this article, Minister Mentor Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore paints a frightening picture of what we face as a result of collapsing fertility rates (with a few comments about other problems).

Click "Read More" for the rest of this post.To learn more about this dire threat, especially how it will affect the US, I recommend "The Coming Generational Storm : What You Need to Know about America's Economic Future" by Kotlikoff and Burns. Be prepared for a bit of pandering to women in the book, but at least it's not extreme.
We should all be thinking very carefully about how to prepare ourselves. There's gonna be hell to pay.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/01/2348205.shtml

Grass Roots to Counter Feminism

Matt · 2 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

johnnyp writes "Until "regular" women start confronting feminists, politicians, and the media, no progress will be made. We can lobby, and complain all we want to the politicians and media elite too no effect because nothing can overcome a shrill feminist except a large number of women. Unless regular women see the costs of feminism, they will not act."

Click "Read more..." for the rest."This is what I do to bring the reality of modern feminism to the ordinary woman, so she can no longer isolate herself from the costs of the privileges that feminists have won (women will not respond until they share in the pain).

Whenever I encounter a woman that needs the "traditional" services of a man – changing a flat tire, carrying something heavy, or rescue from something, I ask her if she is a feminist. I usually get a curios look before she answers: yes, or no. If she answers no, I say "that is good and I will help you with this situation". I then tell that "if she would have answered yes, then I could not help her because my help would be sexist and condescending". By the way – I am more than willing to help a woman because I actually believe in chivalry and a man's responsibility to protect women.

This simple question and explanation of why you asked the question brings home the cost of feminism to the ordinary woman. Ordinary women take for granted that they can have all of the benefits of feminism, while still enjoying the benefits of paternalism. You also might make an impact on the woman who is on the fence. No matter what you say, you will not make an impact on ideological feminist.

I did this exact thing two weeks ago. I saw a woman in a mini-van with children and a flat tire near my house the other day. I stopped to see if she needed help. She did not have her cell phone so she could not call a tow truck and charge her husbands credit card to rent a man to fix the situation. I asked her if she was a feminist, and she stammered, looked confused, and seemed to become uncomfortable. I could see the wheels turning in her head – she wanted to standup and have me "hear her roar", but she also knew that she did not know how to change a tire, like any 15 year old boy could. So after a few moments she stuttered a "no". I told her "that is good, and that I was happy to help – and if you would have said yes, I could not have helped her because I did not want to offend her feministness, after all changing her tire would have been a form of soft bigotry". I then happily changed her tire and in a few minutes we exchanged pleasantries and were both on out merry way. This simple interaction may have planted seed – maybe she will think twice before assuming that she can have the benefits of feminism and the traditional services of men. Maybe she will speak up the next time a feminist is spouting crap, and point out that men are good and helpful and that she does not agree with this feminist rhetoric.

You might also spark a debate in which you can express your frustration with feminism and modern society. Remember, in this kind of situation you are on your home turf, and that gives you a lot of points on the field of debate.

What do y'all think?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/02/1143235.shtml

A Global Phenomenon

Matt · 2 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

In case there was any doubt... Japan: Private tutor imparts carnal knowledge to schoolboy.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/02/1213220.shtml

Men's Rights in the Bookstores

Matt · 3 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MisforMalevolent takes Barnes and Noble to task for their lack of coverage, or understanding of Men's Rights. Why can't the major publishers give men's rights more coverage? It probably would sell as well as dry tomes like "Women's Rights in France" (A top ten match for "Women's Rights" on B&K.com)."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/02/2320244.shtml

VAWA 2005: PROGRESS TO DATE AND CHALLENGES THAT REMAIN

Matt · 4 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Over the last nine months, efforts to stop domestic violence bias against men have logged four major accomplishments.

Click "Read more..." for more.

VAWA 2005: PROGRESS TO DATE AND CHALLENGES THAT REMAIN
Over the last nine months, efforts to stop domestic violence bias against men have logged four major accomplishments:

1. Thanks to thousands of letters, phone calls, and emails, we have largely succeeded in stopping the blood-and-guts articles that routinely depicted men as the aggressors and women as the victims of domestic violence. In particular, the Washington Post, which strongly backed VAWA 2000, has not run a single article on DV since the VAWA legislation was introduced by Sen. Joe Biden.
2. In June a powerful coalition to reform VAWA was formed. These groups represent the concerns of fathers, women, and others. This coalition sent a letter to all members of Congress and ran a full-page advertisement in the Washington Times. [http://www.mediaradar.org/ACFC_OpenLetterToCongress.pdf] Members of this coalition are lobbying Congress on a daily basis.
3. We have succeeded in getting many hard-hitting editorials published in both the internet and print media. The latest example is "Amnesty International Promotes Violence by Women" by David Usher.
4. In July RADAR launched a Shock and Awe campaign designed to make the Violence Against Women Act male-inclusive. As a result, the House of Representatives removed language from the bill that referred to DV as a problem that only affects women, and added language designed to make the law gender-neutral. Although the wording contains some ambiguity, this represents a major victory for us.

But the disturbing fact is, the Senate version of VAWA – S. 1197 – does not contain male-inclusive language. The last thing we want is for the Senate bill to be passed as is, leaving the issue of male inclusion to be resolved behind closed doors in a House-Senate Conference Committee.

On Tuesday September 6 the Senate Judiciary Committee will begin its hearings on Supreme Court nominee John Roberts. No one knows how long it will take the Judiciary Committee to deliberate on the nomination, but it is unlikely the Committee will make any changes to VAWA until after it has voted on Judge Roberts.

Some battles hinge mostly on the matter of strategy and tactics, and other battles are won on the basis of firepower alone. At this point, getting the Senate Judiciary Committee to make VAWA male-inclusive will depend mostly on firepower.

Requiring VAWA to serve male victims will require an overwhelming number of phone calls and faxes to their Senators. It's fine to send repeated messages to your elected officials, as long as your communications are RESPECTFUL and COURTEOUS. And the shorter your letter, the better.

VAWA represents a major violation of men's civil and human rights, and we will not accept legislation that is discriminatory against men.

Despite all of our hard work over the past nine months, it now comes down to what we do in the next few short weeks. Look for RADAR's weekly Alerts, visit RADAR's website frequently at http://www.mediaradar.org/, and above all, expect success.

Let's roll.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/04/1412229.shtml

Ms. Mag Exploits Katrina Crisis for Abortion Funds

Matt · 6 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Ms. Magazine is appealing for donations to help ensure that hurricane victims can still have their abortions. It's a revealing illustration of feminist compassion. They also want to make sure the Domestic Violence Industry will not be disrupted.

(Excerpt) - 'The National Abortion Fund, a nationwide network of funds providing financial assistance to poor women seeking abortions, is also accepting donations for hurricane victims to help cover the costs associated with abortions—transportation, lodging, daycare and procedure costs.'"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/06/0111232.shtml

RADAR Alert: Senate Judiciary May Act on VAWA This Week – Urgent to Contact Your Senators Now

Matt · 6 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

We have just learned that the Senate Judiciary Committee has postponed the hearings on Supreme Court nominee John Roberts. Which means the Judiciary Committee is likely to do its final review on VAWA this week.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Senate Judiciary May Act on VAWA This Week – Urgent to Contact Your Senators Now
RADAR is asking that each and every person who reads this Alert to contact the two Senators from your state three times this week – on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Use fax, phone, or a combination of the two. If you call, ask to speak to the Senator's Legislative Director or to the Legislative Assistant in charge of VAWA.

This is the key message to convey:

"In July, the House Judiciary Committee revised VAWA to make it gender-neutral. Now we are asking the Senate Judiciary Committee to build on what the House has done:

1. Add language to allow programs that focus on serving male victims to become eligible for funding, and
2. Eliminate language that implies that only women suffer from domestic violence.

Please ask the Judiciary Committee to assure that VAWA no longer discriminates against men."

Keep your message short and sweet. We need to absolutely overwhelm the Senate with our message.

It's gut-check time, folks. The Judiciary Committee may vote on VAWA later this week. Let's not hold anything back.
To get the phone number and fax number of your Senator, go to http://www.senate.gov/.

++

Date of RADAR Release: September 5, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/06/1326236.shtml

Paternity Case Marks Progress for Defrauded Father

Matt · 8 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes *"Check out:
this story."*

MANN received another submission with this story, but the linked-to item has a take on things most of us here on this site would immediately understand. So, here is the second submission:

Anonymous User writes "New Jersey allows a man to sue for restoration of the support he paid for a child that wasn't his. Guess Paternity Fraud doesn't pay in NJ... OR DOES IT?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/07/2233213.shtml

An Underground Railroad For Men?

Matt · 8 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MisforMalevolent picks up on an article from the Western Standard - outlining an organization that provides safe passage from the subjugation of North America's Family Court Slave States - to offshore freedom. One father notes that he might as well enjoy not seeing his children from the UK, rather than not seeing them from a Canadian debtor's prison."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/07/2238219.shtml

Woman accused of abusing 'boyfriend' aged 8

Matt · 9 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes ""A woman, accused of sexually abusing an eight-year-old boy, considered him to be her boyfriend, say US police." Bet she gets off with a slap on the wrist... story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/09/0352258.shtml

Violent Crime--The Gender Gap is Closing

Matt · 9 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "According to the U.S. Department of Justice • Office of Justice Programs • Bureau of Justice Statistics; Violent crime rates declined for both males and females since 1994. Rates for males and females have been getting closer in recent years. Violent crimes included are homicide, rape, robbery, and both simple and aggravated assault. Just the facts! Could it be that the justice systems are holding the "ladies" more accountable?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/09/0358233.shtml

NeW is a college campus movement to watch

Matt · 9 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "It has far fewer campus chapters than NOW, but a fledgling group called NeW is mounting a cultural challenge to the National Organization for Women and joining a growing attack on the progressive culture of U.S. universities. Read the full story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/09/043239.shtml

FEMA Made 1,000 Firefighters Take 'Sexual Harrassment Training' during Katrina Crisis

Matt · 9 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Evil White Male Oppressor writes ""They've got people here who are search-and-rescue certified, paramedics, haz-mat certified," said a Texas firefighter. "We're sitting in here having a sexual-harassment class while there are still [victims] in Louisiana who haven't been contacted yet." Nuff said..." Link here.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/09/045210.shtml

More people living alone

Matt · 9 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Jim Moore writes "The very types of people who drove the wedge between U.S. men and women are now surprised the number of single person households already exceeds any other group - and their guesses are predictable.
I predicted this in the 80s writing "...and the bra-burners will grow old and die alone like Nazi war criminals, and they deserve it."
They were all thrilled and amused to tell their men "I don't need you" never realizing that shoe would be on their foot today. Time to pay the Piper. Link here"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/09/0411249.shtml

Alam loses FA sex case tribunal

Matt · 10 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "You can fool some of the people some of the time - but not the members of this tribunal."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/10/1548232.shtml

Women vote for women, not for issues?

Matt · 10 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Evil White Male Oppressor writes '"As female voters weigh their choices in Germany's Sept. 18 parliamentary elections, some are wondering whether the chance to put a woman at the helm of their nation is more important to them than the party she represents.'

The female candidate states that the choice of a candidate should not be based on gender, but in a nationally televised debate last week, she underlined she would make women's issues — combining families and career, and promoting women into top echelons of business and politics — part of her job. Story here.

QUESTION: Why are only women allowed to openly discriminate based on sex and gender?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/10/1551256.shtml

Insane men get jail while criminal women get psychiatric care

Matt · 11 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

I read this and thought, "Gee, would they have thrown the book at this person like this if he had been a she?"

Of course not.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/11/038244.shtml

Prostate surgery claims misleading

Matt · 11 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "This article relates the findings of Bradley Hennenfent, M.D., author of the new book, "Surviving Prostate Cancer Without Surgery."

His studies show that the claims that prostate removal surgeries have a high rate of success are based on biased and misinformed analysis of medical studies. These reports come from doctors with an interest in surgeries and uneducated members of the media.

Success rates for radical prostate removal are in fact low and even lower than alternative methods of treating prostate cancer, and have severe side effects such as sterility, impotence, incontinence, and reduction in penis size to name a few. Do your homework before letting a doctor tell you how to make a decision so critical to a man's life, one that effects so many men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/11/1516218.shtml

Progress in the Senate, Now Time for a Pause

Matt · 13 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This past week our elected officials were deluged with telephone calls and faxes demanding that VAWA be made male-inclusive. Rest assured that every call and every fax you made helped our lobbyists who are working every day on our behalf. Thank you to everyone who pitched in.

As a result, on Thursday the Senate Judiciary Committee approved new language that states, Nothing in this title shall be construed to prohibit male victims of domestic violence...from receiving benefits and services under this title.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Progress in the Senate, Now Time for a Pause
The Senate language is not as strong as the House language. But that is not a complete surprise since key VAWA advocates (Kim Gandy of NOW and Eleanor Smeal of the Feminist Majority), worried that our efforts might actually succeed, went to Capital Hill at the last minute to do some serious arm-twisting.

S. 1197 has now been sent to the floor where it awaits a full vote by the Senate. It will likely pass by unanimous consent.

The next step is for the House of Representatives to approve HR 3402. This bill is the budget appropriation bill for the Department of Justice, to which VAWA was added at the last minute. Because appropriations bills are often controversial, House approval may take awhile.

Once the House approves its bill, then VAWA will go to Conference Committee. The Conference Committee will iron out the differences between the Senate and House versions of VAWA. We do not know when this will happen, but it may take several weeks.

But in the meantime, RADAR wants to make a request: We would like to ask each person who reads this Alert to get the name of a man in your state or town who was a DV victim. You may know a male victim personally, or you may have read about him in your local newspaper.

Or go the Equal Justice Foundation website at http://www.ejfi.org/DV/dv-41.htm#DVmen, scroll down to Listings by State, and find a man's name there.

We don't want to reveal exactly how we will use this information (we assume our opponents are monitoring our Alerts), but when Shock and Awe shifts back into high gear, you will be using the information about this person.

And remember, we will not rest until VAWA assures that every male victim of domestic violence receives the services to which he is entitled.

++

Date of RADAR Release: September 11, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/13/0212223.shtml

Man gets stripped publicly at airport security point

Matt · 13 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "News.com.au reports here that a senior member for a French association for accident victims was publicly stripped by airport security, after a metal prosthesis set off an alarm.

First they pull his trousers down and leave him in underpants in front of 300 people, then they pull those down too. Of course the reporting is completely 'And on a lighter note...' If this was a woman everyone involved would be instantly sacked, and probably jailed..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/13/0236250.shtml

Female Chauvanist Pig = Erie County Controller

Matt · 13 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original apetr writes "Came across this article and she should issue a public apology, I've written her an email, please do the same not only to her, but to her boss. Here is the article."

Click "Read more..." for the contact info."County Executive:

Rick Schenker

rschenker-at-eriecountygov.org

Sue Weber, Controller

Telephone: (814) 451-6266

Fax: (814) 451-7470

TDD: (814) 451-6237

Email: Sweber-at-eriecountygov.org

Address:

Erie County Court House

140 West Sixth Street

Room 107

Erie, PA 16501"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/13/0243238.shtml

How Many VAWA Bills Are We Fighting?

Matt · 13 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Roy writes "Can anyone with Congressional process expertise explain why there appear to be four active bills reauthorizing the Violence Against Women Act in the House and Senate? House bills HR 3171, HR 2876, HR 3402, and Senate bill S. 1197 all seek to renew VAWA. On Sept. 8th, S. 1197 was reported out of the Judiciary Committee "with an amendement in the nature of a substitute favorably." I believe that means a full Senate vote is upcoming soon. Look 'em all up on http://thomas.loc.gov."

Ed. note: RADAR folks, please respond to this inquiry. -- Matt

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/13/0247208.shtml

Internet and offline world gets active with Indian dowry laws

Matt · 13 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original bharati writes "The victims of misuse of dowry acts and laws have started getting voice, at least on the Internet. Here are some important sites, but there are many more:

http://pariwariksuraksha.blogspot.com/

http://www.gender-indian.blogspot.com/

http://www.saveindianfamily.org/blogs/

http://misuseof498a.clawz.com/

http://498a_misuse.rediffblogs.com/

Earlier when you do a search did a search of the Internet it took two months to find some organisation who would help you when you were falsely accused. Now it takes a search on 'dowry misuse' or '498a' miuse to find a telephone helpline in the nearest city. For a 'net-savvy person it takes 5 minutes to find a helpline. As Mohan said, he was surprised to receive guidance which gave him a far better view of the situation and actionables then any lawyer gave him, and it happened in just 15 minutes, and so he knows now it is no longer a lonely battle. In a space of 4 months of activity, NGOs have opened in four cities: Mumbai, Bangalore, Delhi and Jaipur."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/13/1932224.shtml

Daughter admits lying about rape, father released

Matt · 14 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

radikal writes "Interesting story about the words of a child, bad marriages, visitation rights, polygraph machines, juries n' judges, and good ol' fashioned lazy thinking!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/14/1550207.shtml

Men's Rights Movement Gaining Respectability

Thomas · 15 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

We still have a long road ahead of us, but there's little doubt that the MRM is gaining respectability. As this article points out, we're no longer being simply ignored and cast as whining idiots, at least not to the extent that we were just a few years ago.

Congratulations to all for a fine job done so far. Let's keep up the pressure!

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/14/2343200.shtml

Farrell Article on Wage Gap Myth

Thomas · 15 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Warren Farrell recently had the following article, on the wage gap myth, published in the New York Times and the International Herald Tribune.

Note that, given the exposure, this is a good time to buy his "Why Men Earn More: The Startling Truth Behind the Pay Gap - and What Women Can Do About It." Even if you already own the book, consider buying it for a man or woman who's heading off to college. A surge in sales will help his standing on Amazon, if you buy it there.

See "Read More" for a copy of the article.Exploiting the Gender Gap

By WARREN FARRELL

Carlsbad, Calif.

Nothing disturbs working women more than the statistics often mentioned on Labor Day showing that they are paid only 76 cents to men's dollar for the same work. If that were the whole story, it should disturb all of us; like many men, I have two daughters and a wife in the work force.

When I was on the board of the National Organization for Women in New York City, I blamed discrimination for that gap. Then I asked myself, "If an employer has to pay a man one dollar for the same work a woman would do for 76 cents, why would anyone hire a man?"

Perhaps, I thought, male bosses undervalue women. But I discovered that in 2000, women without bosses - who own their own businesses - earned only 49 percent of male business owners. Why? When the Rochester Institute of Technology surveyed business owners with M.B.A.'s from one top business school, they found that money was the primary motivator for only 29 percent of the women, versus 76 percent of the men. Women put a premium on autonomy, flexibility (25- to 35-hour weeks and proximity to home), fulfillment and safety.

After years of research, I discovered 25 differences in the work-life choices of men and women. All 25 lead to men earning more money, but to women having better lives.

High pay, as it turns out, is about tradeoffs. Men's tradeoffs include working more hours (women work more around the home); taking more dangerous, dirtier and outdoor jobs (garbage collecting, instruction, trucking); relocating and traveling; and training for technical jobs with less people contact (like engineering).

Is the pay gap, then, about the different choices of men and women? Not quite. It's about parents' choices. Women who have never been married and are childless earn 117 percent of their childless male counterparts. (This comparison controls for education, hours worked and age.) Their decisions are more like married men's, and never-married men's decisions are more like women's in general (careers in arts, no weekend work, etc.)

Does this imply that mothers sacrifice careers? Not really. Surveys of > men and women in their 20's find that both sexes (70 percent of men, and 63 percent of women) would sacrifice pay for more family time. The next generation's discussion will be about who gets to be the primary parent.

Don't women, though, earn less than men in the same job? Yes and no. For example, the Bureau of Labor Statistics lumps together all medical doctors. Men are more likely to be surgeons (versus general practitioners) and work in private practice for hours that are longer and less predictable, and for more years. In brief, the same job is not the same. Are these women's choices? When I taught at a medical school, I saw that even my first-year female students eyed specialties with fewer and more predictable hours.

But don't female executives also make less than male executives? Yes. Discrimination? Let's look. The men are more frequently executives of national and international firms with more personnel and revenues, and responsible for bottom-line sales, marketing and finances, not human resources or public relations. They have more experience, relocate and travel overseas more, and so on.

Comparing men and women with the "same jobs," then, is to compare apples and oranges. However, when all 25 choices are the same, the great news for women is that then the women make more than the men. Is there discrimination against women? Yes, like the old boys' network. And sometimes discrimination against women becomes discrimination against men: in hazardous fields, women suffer fewer hazards. For example, more than 500 marines have died in the war in Iraq. All but two were men. In other fields, men are virtually excluded - try getting hired as a male dental hygienist, nursery school teacher, cocktail waiter.

There are 80 jobs in which women earn more than men - positions like financial analyst, speech-language pathologist, radiation therapist, library worker, biological technician, motion picture projectionist. Female sales engineers make 143 percent of their male counterparts; female statisticians earn 135 percent.

I want my daughters to know that people who work 44 hours a week make, on average, more than twice the pay of someone working 34 hours a week. And that pharmacists now earn almost as much as doctors. But only by abandoning our focus on discrimination against women can we discover these opportunities for women.

Warren Farrell is the author of "Why Men Earn More: The Startling Truth Behind the Pay Gap - and What Women Can Do About It."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/15/001219.shtml

Women as Abusers... are you surprised?

Matt · 18 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "As if this is a surprise...women constituting a large percentage of sexual abusers in Norway. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/18/1339240.shtml

Turning Liars into Victims

Matt · 18 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MisforMalevolent discovers the power of language, as NJ converts women who lie to get men thrown out of their homes into 'victims'. Link here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/18/1341207.shtml

Activists Sought For Roe V. Wade... for MEN

Matt · 18 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kingsley G. Morse Jr. writes "The U.S. Supreme Court legalized abortion in the famous case "Roe v. Wade".

Now the National Center for Men is preparing a similar case.... for men.

Men should also have a limited time to permanently accept, or decline, the rights and responsibilities of parenthood.

No one knows how the case will turn out, but it has already attracted a plaintiff, funds, a TV network and lawyers.

To donate money, or help send out press releases, email: activist-at-nationalcenterformen.org."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/18/1342227.shtml

A Novelist Wakes Up

Matt · 18 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Neil Steyskal writes "If you read fiction and have been frustrated by the way feminist stereotypes dominate novels these days, get Robert K. Tannenbaum's new novel, Fury. In the past Tannenbaum wrote several stories about abused women, but someone seems to have educated him about the other side of the story. This new novel revolves around false charges of rape."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/18/1345203.shtml

Rape case thrown out - judge criticises prosecution

Matt · 18 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Finally, a judge refuses to be politically correct and just beleive the woman despite the lack of evidence. The judge also said the prosecutor may have to pay the costs of bringing the matter to court. Story here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/18/1343228.shtml

BBC News: Stereotypes in advertising

Matt · 19 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "BBC News has an article about stereotypes in advertising, many of which portray women as heroes but men as idiots. Writer John Camm, who is interviewed in this article, finds the stereotypes "irritating"."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/19/0259258.shtml

RADAR ALERT: Amnesty International Spits on the Human Rights of Men

Matt · 19 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On August 17, RADAR sent a letter of complaint to William F. Schulz, Executive Director of Amnesty International. The five-page letter alleges that Amnesty's "Stop Violence Against Women Campaign" is factually erroneous and promotes the passage of laws such as VAWA that directly violate the human rights of men.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Amnesty International Spits on the Human Rights of Men
RADAR's letter outlines the fundamental human rights of men that are routinely violated by VAWA, and concludes:

"In sum, domestic violence programs have been documented to violate men's human rights in five ways: excessive issuance of restraining orders against men, greater difficulty for men to obtain restraining orders, false arrests of male victims, gender bias in prosecution of cases, and sex-based discrimination in provision of services."

The letter requested a response from Mr. Schulz by August 24. The entire letter is printed below, and is also posted on the RADAR website at http://www.mediaradar.org/AI_letter.pdf.

One month has passed and Mr. Schulz has failed to respond. Apparently he believes that violating the human rights of men requires no explanation.

Isn't it time we ask Mr. Schulz why a respected human rights organization would disregard the fundamental human rights of half the nation's population? Aren't we at least entitled to an answer?

Here's Mr. Schulz' direct e-mail address: bschulz@aiusa.org.

While you're at it, why not send a copy to all the senior managers of Amnesty-USA (in case the part after the "@" is cut off below, it's "aiusa.org"): ccarpentieri@aiusa.org, cgoering@aiusa.org, jhertzog@aiusa.org, glemelle@aiusa.org, jlongo@aiusa.org, kschneider@aiusa.org, lwalton@aiusa.org.

Here are e-mail addresses for Amnesty-Canada, which is also participating in the Stop Violence Against Women Campaign (after the @, the domain name is "aito.ca"): chair@aito.ca, vicechair@aito.ca, secretary@aito.ca, treasurer@aito.ca, activism@aito.ca, orders@aito.ca, eventsfundraising@aito.ca, eventslisting@aito.ca, educators@aito.ca, exec@aito.ca, webmaster@aito.ca, aint@aito.ca, business@aito.ca, info@amnesty.ca, info@amnistie.qc.ca, pro@amnesty.ca, info@aito.ca

And if Amnesty's campaign really makes your blood boil, why not file a complaint directly with Amnesty's International Secretariat at http://web.amnesty.org/contacts/contact_us/eng-000.

And next week, RADAR will resume our Shock and Awe campaign targeting key members of the US Congress.

August 17, 2005
RE: Stop Violence Against Women Campaign

William F. Schulz, Executive Director

Amnesty International USA

5 Penn Plaza - 14th floor New York, NY 10001

Dear Dr. Schulz:

We are writing regarding Amnesty International USA's Stop Violence Against Women (SVAW) campaign. As this letter demonstrates, Amnesty's SVAW campaign is based on a false premise, promotes false stereotypes of men, and advocates passage of legislation that has been repeatedly shown to violate the human rights of men.

Findings of Domestic Violence Research

Aggression between intimate partners, often referred to as "domestic violence," is a widespread human rights concern. One of the most consistent findings from scientifically-valid domestic violence (DV) research is that almost identical percentages of men and women engage in partner aggression. This finding comes from dozens of studies conducted both in the United States and elsewhere:

1. The Family Research Laboratory at the University of New Hampshire has conducted several community surveys of partner aggression. These surveys have repeatedly found that men and women are equally likely to engage in partner aggression, and that women initiate the incident as often as men. Their research can be seen at the following website: http://pubpages.unh.edu/~mas2/IPV-Empirical.htm
2. Dr. John Archer published a meta-analysis of all published research on DV. He concluded, "Women were slightly more likely than men to use one or more act of physical aggression and to use such acts more frequently." Archer also found that men were the victims in 38% of all injuries arising from DV. [John Archer et al: "Sex differences in aggression between heterosexual partners: A meta-analytic review." Psychological Bulletin, Vol. 126, No. 5, 2000.]
3. A report issued last month by Statistics Canada concluded, "An estimated 7% of women and 6% of men in a current or previous spousal relationship encountered spousal violence during the five years up to and including 2004." The report also found that men represented almost one-third of persons injured by domestic violence [Statistics Canada: Family Violence in Canada: A Statistical Profile - http://www.statcan.ca/english/freepub/85-224-XIE/85-224-XIE2005000.pdf].
4. These findings also apply in non-Western countries. An international survey of violence between dating partners in 16 countries concluded: "Perhaps the most important similarity is the high rate of assault perpetrated by both male and female students in all the countries." [Murray Straus: "Prevalence of violence against dating partners by male and female university students worldwide." Violence Against Women, Vol. 10, No. 7, 2001 - http://pubpages.unh.edu/~mas2/ID16.pdf]
5. A summary of the domestic violence research can be found on-line at: http://www.csulb.edu/~mfiebert/assault.htm

In conclusion, women are just as likely as men to commit domestic violence, and men represent about one-third of all persons injured as a result of DV.

Domestic Violence Research is Sometimes Distorted

Despite these findings, some groups have attempted to distort the research for apparently ideological reasons. These are the most common strategies used to bias the findings of DV research:

1. Interview only women. This commonly-used strategy obviously yields the finding that only women suffer from partner aggression.
2. Confuse the meaning of key concepts. Abuse, assault, and violence refer to different concepts. But some researchers conflate these terms. As the National Research Council recently warned, "Rigorous inquiry into violence against women is precluded when scholars fail to distinguish among what constitutes an act of violence, abuse, or battering." [National Research Council: "Advancing the Federal Research Agenda on Violence Against Women, 2005" - http://books.nap.edu/catalog/10849.html]
3. Bias the wording of the questionnaire. Knowing that women are generally more concerned for their physical safety than men, some DV researchers insert wording that emphasizes the issues of safety and victimization, which women are more likely to respond affirmatively to. This strategy creates what are known as "demand characteristics" that bias and invalidate the survey findings.

Thus, only studies that interview both men and women and use objectively-worded surveys can be considered valid.

Domestic Violence Laws Violate the Human Rights of Men

In recent years, laws have been passed in the United States and elsewhere designed to counter domestic violence. Many of these laws state or imply a male offender, e.g., the "Violence Against Women Act." This implicit bias causes a number of serious violations of due process when the woman is the perpetrator and the man is the victim:

1. Excessive use of restraining orders. It is widely known that restraining orders against men, usually issued without following due process protections, typically require the man to vacate his house and are later used to deprive a father of child custody rights:

   * Elaine Epstein, former president of the Massachusetts Women's Bar Association, notes, "Everyone knows that restraining orders and orders to vacate are granted to virtually all who apply." [Epstein E: "Speaking the Unspeakable," Massachusetts Bar Association Newsletter, 1993]

   * A 1995 government study found that less than half of all restraining orders issued in Massachusetts involved even an allegation of violence [Young C: "When the Law is One-Sided in Domestic Disputes," Boston Globe, May 23, 2001 - http://www.fatherhoodcoalition.org/cpf/inthenews/2001/Cathy_Young_Globe_0523htm.htm]

   * Thomas Kasper notes in the June 2005 issue of the Illinois Bar Journal that restraining orders can "become part of the gamesmanship of divorce." [http://www.isba.org/Member/jun05lj/tocp.html]

   * Washington state attorney Lisa Scott recently wrote, "Originated to immediately protect victims of severe abuse, protection orders have become 'weapons of mass destruction' in family courts. Whenever a woman claims to be a victim, she is automatically believed. No proof of abuse is required." [Scott L: "Scream Queens Fuel Nightmarish VAWA System," July 5, 2005 -- http://www.thepriceofliberty.org/05/07/05/guest_scott.htm]
2. Greater difficulty in obtaining a restraining order. A recent analysis of all ex-parte hearings in one jurisdiction in Massachusetts found that 34% of requests from men were deferred or turned down, compared to only 10% of requests from women - [Charalambous M., Journal of Family Violence June 2005 - http://www.mensnewsdaily.com/archive/c-e/charalambous/2005/charalambous072505.htm]
3. False arrests of male victims. Many law enforcement agencies have instituted "must-arrest" policies that require the arrest of one of the parties involved in a family dispute. In the absence of any visible injuries, these officers are forced to rely on criteria such as which of the persons is the "dominant party." The vagueness and subjectivity of this standard means that it is almost always the man who is arrested. As a result, "there are a growing number of complaints that attempts by men to obtain policy protection may result in the man being arrested." [Murray A. Straus: The Controversy over Domestic Violence by Women: A Methodological, Theoretical, and Sociology of Science Analysis -- http://www.menweb.org/straus21.htm]
4. Gender bias in the prosecution of cases. In one case, a state agency openly admitted, "The prosecutors we fund are prohibited from prosecuting female cases." [Communication from the Iowa Attorney General's Crime Victim Assistance Division, January 19, 2005. http://www.vawa4all.org/news/PROSECUTOR%20OFFICE%20SPECIFICALLY%20PROHIBITED.htm]
5. Gender-based discrimination in providing services. The Department of Justice's Violence Against Women Office, which administers the Violence Against Women Act, prohibits VAWA funds for programs that focus on male victims. [http://www.menshealthnetwork.org/library/VAWArejectDel1002.pdf] As a result, male victims of DV have been refused service by domestic violence shelters. [Blumhorst R., "Make the Violence Against Women Act Gender-Inclusive." http://www.ifeminists.net/introduction/editorials/2004/1229blumhorst.html].

In sum, domestic violence programs have been documented to violate men's human rights in five ways: excessive issuance of restraining orders against men, greater difficulty for men to obtain restraining orders, false arrests of male victims, gender bias in prosecution of cases, and sex-based discrimination in provision of services.

How VAWA Violates the Human Rights of Men

The 1948 UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights is the most widely-recognized standard of human rights. Article 2 of the Declaration specifically notes, "Everyone is entitled to the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration, without distinction of any kind, such as race, color, [or] sex." Article 16, Section (3), is also pertinent: "The family is the natural and fundamental unit of society and is entitled to protection by society and the State."

Six of the Declaration's articles or sections reveal how domestic violence laws, particularly the Violence Against Women Act, violate the human rights of men:

1. Article 7: "All are equal before the law and are entitled without any discrimination to equal protection of the law."
2. Article 9: "No one shall be subjected to arbitrary arrest, detention, or exile."
3. Article 11, Section (1): "Everyone charged with a penal offense has the right to be presumed innocent until proved guilty according to law"
4. Article 12: "No one shall be subjected to arbitrary interference with his privacy, family, home, or correspondence, nor to attacks on his honor and reputation."
5. Article 16, Section (1): "Men and women of full age…have the right to marry and to found a family. They are entitled to equal rights as to marriage, during marriage, and at its dissolution."
6. Article 17, Section (2): "No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his property."

Thus, domestic violence laws violate many of men's fundamental human rights, especially those related to equal protection under the law, due process, and protection from arbitrary interference by the state.

Requested Actions

This letter has provided extensive documentation that women are equally likely to engage in domestic violence, that some DV research has been distorted to meet ideological ends, that laws such as the Violence Against Women Act violate constitutional protections of equal treatment under the law, and that these infractions represent serious violations of international human rights law.

On July 21 Amnesty International USA issued a press release which called for "rapid, widespread support of [the] Violence Against Women Act." This statement not only ignores the legitimate needs of abused men, it actively promotes the violation of men's basic human rights.

Therefore, we are requesting that AIUSA promptly take the following actions:

1. Change the title of the Stop Violence Against Women campaign to Stop Violence Against Partners (or similar male-inclusive wording).
2. Promote passage of the Violence Against Women Act only if the title and provisions are changed to be male-inclusive, and appropriate guarantees are made to assure that services are provided to under-served male populations by organizations that are sensitive to the unique needs of male populations.
3. Initiate monitoring of state-level law enforcement programs to assure men are not falsely-accused and deprived of their civil rights.

Because a final vote on VAWA will be taken in September, we are requesting a substantive response to this letter later no later than Wednesday, August 24.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Geanoulis

Director, International Relations

++

Date of RADAR Release: September 19, 2005

To receive RADAR Alerts, press releases, and other special announcements, sign up for the RADAR E-lert. You can sign up for the E-lert on the RADAR home page at http://www.mediaradar.org/. Your e-mail address will be kept confidential, and will not be shared with any outside organization. It's fast, easy, and keeps you in the loop.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure media balance and accuracy in coverage of the domestic violence issue.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/19/0320255.shtml

Unexpected Essay in Post on Lewd Conduct by Young Women

Matt · 19 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Wasn't expecting the Post to publish such an essay, especially as it openly declares that young women are as gasp responsible for their lewd behavior as young men!

But as much as the author writes a strong, brave essay, I do beg to differ on this matter: young women are entirely responsible for their own behavior, lewd or not, as are young men for their own.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/19/0331245.shtml

MRAs in India Face a Backlash

Matt · 20 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bharati writes "First they laugh at us, then they ignore us and when they cannot Ignore us they fight with us and that is when we win.
Our modest success has provoked our openents into realising that no longer are we ignorable and hence the backlash has started and when there is a backlash we know we are winning."

Click "Read more..." for more.

"And it helps us to know that we are the part of international turning of tide and of course the books by Christina Hoff Sommers and Warren Farell & the Fathers 4 Justice experience, etc. With the divorce rates doubling every year and expected to rise to at least 20-25% of all marriages after DV bill in next 5 years, we are already ready to cut it to size. We will not allow our elder abuse and, yes, men also have no right to be abused."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/19/2354246.shtml

MSN Reports Dangerous Jobs - No Mention of Men

Matt · 20 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Well it's great they did it, an article on the most dangerous jobs. The author conveniently neglects to mention that the vast majority of those in these lines of work are men.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/20/1411210.shtml

Sunday PARADE mentions "Paternal Discrepancy"

Matt · 20 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "The Sept. 18 issue of PARADE (found in many Sunday newspapers) mentions that "the average rate of 'paternal discrepancy' (i.e., paternity FRAUD) in the Western world is about 4%". PARADE also states that 'paternal discrepancy' is highest with young mothers, because they are more likely to have multiple sexual partners."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/20/149243.shtml

Major Bridge Blocked by Fathers-4-Justice Quebec

Matt · 22 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

zerostress writes "A major bridge was blocked for 12 hours in Montreal by a FJ4 activist last Monday. It created monstrous traffic jams in the city and generated much controversy in the media.

F4J Québec new coordinator Andy Srougy climbed the Jacques-Cartier Bridge today. He and F4J Québec want an immediate Royal Commission of Inquiry on the Quebec Justice Administration.
Here is a story in the Montreal Gazette that resume pretty much the story."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/22/0050237.shtml

Boy Genteel Published on DV

Matt · 22 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Boy Genteel writes "I responded to a column on domestic abuse that ran a little more than a week ago, and my response was published yesterday (Sept. 20)"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/22/0058246.shtml

Amber Frey: Perpetrator of Paternity Fraud

Matt · 22 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes Story here:

"Frey's attorney, Gloria Allred, said Wednesday that her client never intended to deceive [Anthony] Flores.

"Amber, in good faith, always believed that Mr. Flores was her child's father," Allred said."

NEWS FLASH, Ms. Allred: It is impossible to name the wrong man as the father in good faith."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/22/1334240.shtml

Pfc. England Blames Boyfriend for Prison Abuse

Matt · 22 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Kyo writes "Private First Class Lynndie England, accused of torturing Iraqi prisoners at Abu Ghraib, is attempting to shift the blame to her boyfriend by claiming that her acts were all in an effort to please him! Story at Yahoo."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/22/2128247.shtml

"Spiked Drink" -- or Not

Matt · 23 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Tirryb writes "This study by the Sir Charles Gairdner Hospital in Perth, Australia has shown that drink spiking is not as common as was at first thought.

Women apparently often report to hospital claiming that their drinks have been spiked, "the scenario of an offender slipping a sedative into another person's drink, presumably to stupefy them in order to take advantage of them". Most of the study participants were women under the age of 25...

But what the study found was that in the vast majority of cases, they had either taken recreational drugs themselves or had not realised how drunk they were - no spiking ocurred...!

Sounds like this is another scaremongering uncovered to me..."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/23/1415257.shtml

Amnesty finally responds, but still ignores the truth of DV

Matt · 24 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

On August 17, RADAR sent a five-page letter (.pdf file) to Amnesty International – USA about its Stop Violence Against Women Campaign, complaining that the campaign violates the basic human and civil rights of men.

When Amnesty didn't bother to respond, RADAR put out an Alert on September 19, requesting people to contact AI. The folks at AI obviously got an earful, because three days later – that's warp speed for an organization like Amnesty – AI head Bill Schulz answered. His letter is shown below.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Amnesty finally responds, but still ignores the truth of DV
Clearly Mr. Schulz still doesn't understand that men are often DV victims, and that men are often turned away by VAWA-funded programs. But at least we got his attention.

RADAR will be following up, and we will keep you posted.

++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++++

September 22, 2005

Michael J. Geanoulis

Director, International Relations

RADAR

P.O. Box 1404

Rockville MD 20849

Dear Mr. Geanoulis,

Thank you for your letter concerning Amnesty International USA's Stop Violence Against Women (SVAW) campaign. Our international SVAW campaign aims to push governments, institutions and the public to take responsibility to stop violence against women. AI bases its work on the UN Declaration of Human Rights which states that all of us are born free and equal in dignity and rights and that women and girls are entitled to enjoy their human rights and fundamental freedoms on a basis of equality with men and boys. In addition, the organization works for implementation of UN human rights treaties and the recommendations of treaty bodies that state that gender-based violence, including violence in the family and community, is a form of discrimination against women and that this violence is a major obstacle to women and girls' ability to enjoy their human rights and fundamental freedoms.

To further our goal, AIUSA supports Congressional reauthorization of VAWA. VAWA was a major ground-breaking step forward in the U.S. government response to the epidemic of violence against women in our country. VAWA is gender neutral. Since its inception in 1994, VAWA has provided immeasurable help to women, children and men.

VAWA funds have been and will continue to be available to violence victims regardless of gender; male victims have frequently received assistance from VAWA funded programs. VAWA 2005 contains improvements to ensure it addresses the broadest range of victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking.

We believe VAWA has already made a great difference by helping to train and educate officials and the public and by creating programs to support families who are suffering from the effects of domestic violence. We encourage all Americans to take action to end the suffering caused by domestic violence, whether perpetrated against men or women.

Sincerely,
Bill Schulz, Executive Director

Amnesty International USA

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/24/0251249.shtml

Volvo Convicted of Gender Discrimination

Matt · 24 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From AutoBlog -- "Volvo's Sweden division has been convicted by the Sweden Labor Court of gender discrimination and ordered to pay the equivalent of $5,200 to a woman who was denied a job at a plant because she was too short to work on an assembly line. How their legal department missed that one, we have no clue. Evidently the gap between denying someone a job for being too short to denying someone a job because she's a woman was bridged by calling it "indirect gender discrimination." According to the plant's hiring policy, employees must be between 5'5" and 6'5" to work on the assembly line, and the court ruled that since this excluded more women than men, it was gender discrimination." Remember Volvo is the company that created the world's first concept female car. Poor Volvo -- they had to learn the hard way, give the feminists an inch and they will take a mile."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/24/0255210.shtml

Reaping the Absurdity One Sows

Matt · 24 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

TLE writes "Is this what the radical feminists want? Boys are now permitted on girls' high school teams, just like girls can join boys' teams. Of course, the coach won't actually let them play against opposing teams! Can't beat up on the girls! Maybe this is how this type of absurdity will end. There are no rules about the numbers of boys on girls teams, so the whole girls' team could be made up of boys! But probably, it will get fixed in a PC way, that is, making rules to protect girls from defeat by boys, but not the reverse."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/24/1918249.shtml

The Patriarchy Isn't Falling (Allegedly)

Matt · 24 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "That's what we always like to see. Good, healthy, unbiased reporting in USA Today. Kim Gandy's view on why women are still disadvantaged.

That was sarcasm up there, I know she's from NOW, just amazes me that they get so much publishing space in a nat'l newspaper"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/24/1920252.shtml

Pakistan's Musharraf in Hot Water for Comment

Matt · 24 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

johnnyp writes "From this story:

"This week, Musharraf returned from a U.S. visit marred by controversy over his reportedly telling The Washington Post that many Pakistanis see rape allegations as a way for women to make money and get visas to leave the country. He later denied saying that, but the newspaper said the recorded interview proved he was correctly quoted.""

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/24/1923204.shtml

Misandry alive and well at new web site

Matt · 25 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

bandersnatch writes "From Don't Date Him Girl:

Each day, thousands of women around the world are cheated on by their boyfriends, fiancés and husbands. A man's infidelity causes the destruction of thousands of marriages, engagements and relationships every year. What's a woman to do? Hire expensive private detectives? Pay for costly background checks? Now, women have a new cost-effective weapon in the war on cheating men! Founded by women with women in mind, www.DontDateHimGirl.com is a free service that allows sisters to share their experiences with cheating men by posting pictures and other information about them in an easy-to-use, searchable database. Using www.DontDateHimGirl.com is easy. To warn other women about a cheating man by posting his picture and profile into the database, simply log on and follow the instructions for posting. To find out about a suspected cheater, log on, type the cheater's name into the database and watch as the website searches through hundreds of pictures and profiles to find a match!

-- So we're all cheaters? Lovely. Not to mention if a man ends an relationship with a vindictive woman -- she could easily post his pictures on this site and slander his character with impunity. And no one would doubt her word because um, "thousands of women around the world are cheated on by their boyfriends, fiancés and husbands"."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/25/040202.shtml

Sex, Father Both Optional

Matt · 25 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

MANN received a submission from Evil White Male Oppressor pointing out this story entitled "Women bypass sex in favour of 'instant pregnancies'" from the BBC website. Side-linked from it was this one entitled "Doctors may disregard 'need for a father' when deciding on IVF". From that story I followed this one entitled "Ban on sex selection could be lifted".

See a pattern forming here?

Click "Read more..." for more.He mentioned that it seemed a lot of these stories were coming from England and we should look to them as warnings of things to come here in the US. Sort of reminds me of Orwell's 1984 and how it was set in England, too. But a trend toward factory-like pro-single-parent production of new people scares me even more than the notion of a Big Brother state. Two such scenarios at the same time is almost unthinkable, but then again, so were two Category 5 hurricanes in the Gulf of Mexico within a month of each other -- and unfortunately, that did happen.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/25/1318242.shtml

RADAR Alert: Mr. Biden, We’re Not Done with You Yet!

Matt · 26 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Senator Joseph Biden has long been the prime mover behind the Violence Against Women Act. He organized the first hearings in the early 1990s. He wrote the legislation and sponsored the bills. He did the arm-twisting. At the Senate Judiciary Committee hearings in July, Joseph Biden admitted, "this law is my baby."

Click "Read more..." for more.

Mr. Biden, We’re Not Done with You Yet!
And when VAWA goes to the Senate-House Conference Committee in the next few weeks, guess who’s going to be there at the table? Senator Biden, of course.

Whenever Sen. Biden is challenged about VAWA's discriminatory effects, he misleadingly claims that the law has never denied services to men. What he hopes you won't notice is that it denies funding to organizations unless their primary focus is women. Only the traditional DV service providers can receive VAWA funds. Most of them provide little or no help to men, and some have even gone to court to defend their right to discriminate against male victims.

This week, Mr. Biden is going to hear from the thousands of persons who want VAWA to be equitable and fair for men and women alike.

To this point, we’ve succeeded in adding language to VAWA to make it male-inclusive. That’s a first step.

But what good is to say that you can’t discriminate against male victims, but then funnel all the funds to the very groups who have always turned a cold shoulder to men?

VAWA now needs to add language that directs 36% of funds to go to programs that focus on serving made victims. That number comes from the National Violence Against Women Survey, which found that men constitute 36% of all DV victims. [http://www.ncjrs.org/pdffiles/172837.pdf]

This is the last time RADAR’s Shock and Awe campaign will be calling on you to contact Mr. Biden. So this is it!

1. Your best approach: Send him fax at 202-224-0139
2. Second best: Telephone his office at 202-224-5042
3. Third: E-mail him at senator-at-biden.senate.gov

If you use e-mail, put a short message in the Subject line, like, "36% VAWA Funding for Programs Focusing on Male Victims." Let the good Senator know that you're not taken in by his phony claims of gender neutrality.

For maximum effectiveness, send him a message every day this week. As always, keep your message short, polite, and reasonable.

VAWA is Senator Biden’s baby. We want this to be a week he never forgets!

++

Date of RADAR Release: September 25, 2005

To track the current status of VAWA, go to http://thomas.loc.gov/ and enter the bill number: Senate bill S. 1197; House of Representatives bill H.R. 3402.

Respecting Accuracy in Domestic Abuse Reporting (RADAR) is a coalition of men and women working to assure balance in the domestic violence issue: http://www.mediaradar.org/.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/26/1343232.shtml

None Dare Call It Treason

Thomas · 26 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Here's yet another piece on the collapse of male education. The point should not be missed that the phenomenon, of males fleeing from the academy, is taking place throughout the developed world, where family breakdown, extreme population aging, and impending catastrophic rates of population collapse are the other dominant characteristics of social evolution. Together, these circumstances threaten to ravage advanced societies.

In her superb "The War Against Boys," Chistina Hoff Sommers carefully analyzed the causes of society's growing failure to properly educate boys. Imbued with feminism, the academy has become a bastion of misandry. Unfortunately, with politicians living in fear for their careers in face of feminist wrath, and with mainstream media steeped in feminism, it remains unlikely that anything more than superficial corrections will be applied to solve this problem.

We are losing a significant proportion of another generation of boys, and, partly because of this, our populations will collapse at an unsustainable rate. At the very least, we should inform boys that, when the misery sets in and they want to hold a culpable person responsible, they should look for a feminist.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/26/174230.shtml

Lynndie England Goes Down

Thomas · 27 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

The five men on Lynndie England's jury didn't buy her defense that love made her sexually torment male prisoners at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq.

So goes the continuing saga of the modern, American pinup girl. (We used to have the likes of Rita Hayworth. Sigh.)

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/26/2221229.shtml

Falsely-accused Man Denied Right to Sue

Matt · 28 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "M is for Malevolent reports on a case from the Rapid City Journal where a young man's life was worth far less than the testimony of a few young girls who needed an excuse for truancy. The alibis of the young man from his job and those who were with him that day didn't matter, and neither did the evidence. What mattered was that he was male, and the girls picked his picture out of a police book of photos. He spent 86 days in jail, was severely beaten by other prisoners, lost his job, his home, and his car. Just for being a man."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/27/233245.shtml

Fathers-4-Justice, UK is back in the news

Matt · 28 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

qronick writes "Guy Harrison of Fathers 4 Justice, the same guy as pelted Tony Blair with purple powder last year, climbed up on the Houses of Parliament today for his daughter's seventh birthday.

I love how the powers that be gloss over the real issue by prattling on about "security breaches" -- it's classic psychological denail. Half a minute's thought and we might a) realize that the security forces in a "free" country cannot stop anyone who is truly determined and b) wonder why a father can't see his daughter on her 7th birthday. So, yeah, why not...?"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/27/237204.shtml

Dare We Hope that VAWA may be Defeated?

Matt · 28 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Warble writes "Here comes the nationwide roundup of men. We all know that VAWA is loaded with language that will create massive new federally funded family prosecutions centers, and that those centers are designed to collect data on all men. That data will of course be entered into a permanent National database. No charges or arrest will be required. All that is required is for a police officer or some mandated reporter to file paperwork on the hated male. Now we have news of an amendment that would permit compulsory collection male DNA without charges or an arrest. Still think we should ask for equal treatment as RADAR suggest? NOT! This bill is to be opposed outright. This is no poison pill. It is the actual agenda of our Congress in relation to VAWA and the coming round-up men."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/27/238222.shtml

Math, Engineering Interest Dearth

Matt · 29 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

This is another take on the reduction of men (and Americans in general) in the sciences and mathematics fields. It is also very well-written, funny, and makes some very good points.

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/28/2318214.shtml

False Multi-Rape Allegations in UK

Matt · 29 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Multiple false rape allegations in the same area, 8 week police investigation, fear and hysteria and a poster campaign. All unnecessary - police are taking action against 2 females and calling off the hunt for a gang of "predatory men". Read it here."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/28/2321242.shtml

"Gender Bending" and Anti-Fertility Chemicals

Matt · 29 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Baniadam writes "Story here.

"Gender-bending chemicals are to be exempted from tough new Europe-wide safety controls despite increasing concern that they are causing bizarre sex changes in children and wildlife, leaked documents reveal.

...

Research published in May showed that boys born to mothers exposed to phthalates, used to make plastics more pliable, had smaller penises and other signs of genital feminisation..."

In the EU we have some laws. In the North America I believe it is (even) more lax. I think (not in EU) phthalates are still being used in stuff like cling-film and food wrappings etc. This is particularly important for every man (person) who has a young boy or even more so if with a pregnant wife."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/28/2323253.shtml

Target Selling Misandric Carlton Cards Collectible

Matt · 29 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original mens_issues writes "While at a local Target I noticed that there was a packet of Carlton Cards collectible magnets in the greeting card rack. One was titled "Men - you can't live with 'em." Here is what was on these magnets..."

Click "Read more..." for more."
-If his lips are moving he's lying, honey.

-Women are from Venus, men are disgusting pigs.

-If he wants a clean house he can go live with his mommy.

-Speak slowly - there are men in the room.

-Men only want one thing - well two things - I forgot about the remote.

-I suffer from PMS - Pathetic Men Syndrome.

I noticed that another Carlton Card had "Men are like chocolate" on the front. On the inside it said "You find them in bars, they go straight to your thighs, and they don't last long enough to satisfy you."

To contact Target, go here and select "Target Stores, Merchandise and Programs" under the heading "Our Stores and Company."

To contact Carlton Cards (a subsidiary of American Greetings), send an email to:

crms-at-amgreetings.com

-- Steve"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/28/2329240.shtml

Some Uplifting Thoughts

Matt · 30 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "MIsForMalevolent posts some uplifting thoughts and suggestions for those of us who feel depressed or crushed by the current status of men, and our own personal situations."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/29/221202.shtml

False Rape Accusations: India

Matt · 30 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "Here are two recent stories.

In one case, the man was lucky enough to be discharged at investigation stage (the story does not mention that but that's what happened later).

In another case, the man committed suicide a day before being cleared by the court."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/30/195212.shtml

Feminists protest Roberts / Great discussion ensues!

Matt · 30 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

ArtflDgr writes "A friend (whose name I will not divulge) was a bit perturbed at a kind of protest of Roberts on abortion grounds and ended up getting into a large discusion on abortion and such in relation to men's rights. You have to page down to get to some great stuff!

The page can be found here.

I think that many people here would love to see someone take so many of them on, and actually not get censored, attacked too much, and actually have a back and forth.

Enjoy!"

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/30/1913202.shtml

VAWA background

Matt · 30 September 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Anonymous User writes "In light of the recent Cornyn/Kyl amendment to VAWA, the following article is disconcerting. Maybe a simple archive on VAWA background materials might be started/added on one of the MRA sites (mediaradar.org has a good start). Here is the URL."

NOTICE: This story was migrated from the old software that used to run Mensactivism.org. Unfortunately, user comments did not get included in the migration. However, you may view a copy of the original story, with comments, at the following link:

http://news.mensactivism.org/articles/05/09/30/1917219.shtml

Senate Puts Off Vote on Controversial VAWA

Matt · 1 October 2005 · Archived copy · Original

Despite enormous pressure by VAWA advocates, the Senate failed to vote on the Violence Against Women Act yesterday. We believe the reason for the delay is that bill contains a number of contentious issues. The Senate has now adjourned, and will come back into session this coming Wednesday.

Click "Read more..." for more.

Senate Puts Off Vote on Controversial VAWA
This is good news for us, because it gives us a few more days to get our message across.

At this point, this is what we are asking for:

1. The Senate bill needs to include clear and explicit language that clarifies that male DV victims are entitled to service. The Senate bill currently has male-inclusive language, but we want to make it much stronger.
